The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1000. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 13.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } Editors.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE LOST SHEEP.

They were ninety and nine that safely lay
In the shelter of the fold;
And one was out on the hills away,
Far off from the gates of gold;
Away on the mountains wild and bare—
Away from the Shepherd's tender care.

Lord, thou hast here the ninety and nine—
Are they not enough for thee?
But the Shepherd made answer, "This of mine
Has wandered away from me;
And although the roads be rough and steep,
I go to the desert to find my sheep."

But none of the ransomed ever knew
How deep were the waters crossed;
Nor how dark the night that the Lord passed thro'
Ere he found his sheep that was lost.
Out in the desert he heard its cry,
Sick and helpless, and ready to die.

"Lord, whence are those blood-drops all the way
That mark out the mountain's track?"
They were shed for one who had gone astray
Ere the Shepherd could bring him back."
"Lord, whence are thy hands so bleeding and torn?"
They were pierced to-night by many a thorn."

And through the mountains thunder riven,
And up from the rocky steep,
There rose a cry to the gates of heaven,
"Rejoice! I have found my sheep!"
And the angels echoed around the throne,
"Rejoice, for the Lord brings back his own!"

SECOND COMING OF CHRIST.

Synopsis of a Discourse by Miss Sarah F. Smiley, the Quakeress, on the "Second Coming of Christ."

In proportion as a truth is neglected by the church, it is subjected to the criticism of unbelievers and to fanaticism. My views are not fanatical; they are held by the ripest scholars of Germany and England, and by at least twenty eminent men in America. The church has in a measure lost sight of this truth of the second coming of Jesus, and it should take it up and reclaim it from reproach. Not one hour had passed from the time he left his loving church ere a bright angel messenger came to assure those sorrowing hearts that "this same Jesus, whom ye have seen go into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." This same Jesus! His return is the hope of the church. In the sacrament we are not only reminded of his death, but also of his coming: "Ye do shew forth the Lord's death till he come."

The church by neglecting this truth is as a bird with a wounded wing and flutters to raise itself from the earth. Peter's first sermon was on the "resurrection" of Christ; his second on his "glorious coming." In Acts we read of the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets," and this is to be when "the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord, and he shall send Jesus." The prophecies present to us a flat surface, with the events all the same distance off; and it is only by the fulfilling of events that we can single them out. Like a blind man restored to sight, all things seem an equal distance off, and he is as like to reach for a star as a candle by his side. For one of many examples, take the prophecy of Isa. 61, read and expounded by the Savior between the clause—"to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord"; at which he stopped, saying it was that day fulfilled; and the next clause—"and the day of vengeance of our God." We know there are at least eighteen hundred years, though they are grouped together as taking place at one and the same time. Daniel was encouraged in a search after a knowledge of these things.

There are two views held with regard to the second coming of Christ;—one, that he will come before the millennium; the other, after. The latter view is impossible, for we are plainly told that iniquity will abound, and this gospel of the kingdom will be preached only as a witness, and then shall the end come. This may already be sufficiently fulfilled. Jude tells us there shall be mockers in the last times, walking after their own ungodly lusts. Peter says there shall be scoffers in the last days, saying, "Where is the promise of his coming?" seeing nothing to indicate any change; "all things continue as they were from the beginning."

"But," says the objector, "this would hinder missionary efforts." No! it should only stimulate to greater effort, as the time for benefiting our fellow men seems shortening. Some will believe, and some will not, to the end. Would it not be a greater discouragement to think that all the christian effort put forth has not availed to convert the heathen nations, nor even all in christian lands? Paul, in his first letter to the Thessalonians, says, "The Lord himself shall descend with a shout"; and thus moving them to look for his speedy return, he says in his second letter, "That day shall not come except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed," of which I told you before, who shall be consumed, not by our efforts, but "by the brightness of his coming."

There will be two resurrections: "they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation."

In some way, we shall preserve the identity of our bodies. It shall be sown a natural body; it shall be raised a spiritual body. Do you ask, How can this be? I answer that it has been done. After Christ's resurrection, we read that "many bodies of the saints which slept arose, . . . and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many." Again, says Paul—"Every one in his own order: Christ the first-fruits, afterward, they that are Christ's, at his coming." Zechariah says—"His feet shall stand in that day upon the Mount of Olives." But are these things to be understood so literally? Just so literal were the prophecies concerning his first advent fulfilled, even to mentioning the colt upon which he should ride. Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of his coming, saying, "Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints." Paul thought that the grace of God should teach us to be looking for that blessed hope and glorious appearing of our Savior.

None can know of the blessedness of this hope save those that have experienced it. I did not learn this from preaching, but from my Bible. As I studied, the light broke in upon me from the Word; and all who have experienced it tell of this same light shining into their hearts. Whom we love intensely we want to see. A pastor in Boston was visiting one of his parishioners, whose husband, absent in Europe, had sent to her by each steamer beautiful presents. She was looking them over and showing them to the pastor, when a letter was brought to her. Hurriedly reading it, she threw aside the presents, saying, "He is coming himself!"

It shall be as it was in the days of Noah and Lot,—suddenly; not at death, but at his appearing, at his manifestation. For this we are to watch, lest coming suddenly we be found sleeping. I heard a sermon on the Judgment once, and as I looked into the faces of the people as they passed out, I thought I had never seen such sad faces. My dear friends, the righteous will not come into judgment; none of their life will be rehearsed, to sadden them in that day. "Watch, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things, and to stand before the Son of man."

Mr. Moody wrote me that on examination it has been found that at least one fifth of the Bible is concerning the second coming of Christ. This coming is used as an incentive to duty; therefore, and wherefore, and because of this, be diligent. Peter says—"Seeing ye look for such things, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness." Paul exhorts us to comfort one another by His appearing. "The trumpet shall sound, and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain unto his coming shall be changed, and together with them be caught up to meet the Lord in the air. Wherefore comfort one another with these words."

Friends, how many of you comfort one another when in affliction with these words? I always use these words for consolation. Our state after death is shadowy and vague. That we shall depart and be with Christ is all we know; but the coming of Christ brings all the joys of heaven. Our citizenship is in heaven, from whence we look for the coming of the Lord, who shall change our vile bodies, and fashion them like his glorous body. Paul speaks of Christ's coming in all his epistles. Peter says—"Seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent." James says—"The coming of the Lord draweth nigh." John says—"Now, little children, abide in him; that when he shall appear we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming." "He that hath this hope in him purifieth himself."

If you, men of business, had this blessed hope, you could not go to your business to-morrow as you went to-day. Sisters, the little fretting cares of life would not trouble you so much if you had this hope. The Church is the Bride—the Lamb's wife; and as a bride looks forward to and prepares for the wedding day, so ought the church to be getting ready for the Bridegroom.—Delivered in Springfield, Mass., Nov. 27th, 1874.

SERMONS.

Sermons are like guns. Some are large, others are small; some are long, others short; some are new, others old; some are bright, others rusty; some are made to be looked at, others to be used; some are loaded, others empty; some are owned, others borrowed. Some are air-guns, some pop-guns, some of every size, from the pocket pistol to the Paixhan gun. Some are charged only with powder, and make a great noise and smoke. Some send only small shot, that irritate rather than kill. Some carry heavy metal, that does èxecution. Some discharge chain shot, mowing down whole platoons. Some are wide-mouthed mortars, throwing only bomb-shells. Some are dueling pistols, used only in controversy—vile things. Some go off half bent. Some flash in the pan. Some make a terrible fiz, the charge all escaping at the priming hole. Some shoot too high, some too low, some sideways, a few directly at the point. Some are aimed at nothing, and hit it. Some scatter prodigiously; some kick their owner over. Some are unerring; others always hit the wrong object. Some have too much wadding, and vice versa. Some are alarm guns; others are complimentary guns, used only for salutes on special occasions. Some are in a series, constituting a battery; others are swivels, made to turn in any direction. Some are useful, some useless, some dangerous. Some amuse, some frighten, some exasperate, some explode, some gain the victory. Very much depends upon the manner in which they are made and managed.—Rev. Baron Stowe.

ADVENTISM.

L. BOUTELL.

What is it? It is a belief that the Bible teaches that the very same Jesus is really and literally coming the second time to this earth, in fulfillment of John 14: 23—"I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." That he will come succeeding certain events, by the which, when fulfilled, we may know as well when he is near, as we may know summer is near by the putting forth of leaves. This is Adventism.

From whence came it? Is it from heaven or of men? It came from the divinely inspired Word of God, written by holy men of old—the prophets and apostles. Then it is of heavenly origin. Dan. 7: 13, 14—"I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, . . . And there was given him dominion and glory and a kingdom." Says Paul, in 1 Thess. 4: 16—"The Lord shall descend from heaven with a shout."

When is the proclamation to be made? When the signs on which to predicate his appearing begin to be fulfilled; then the advent angel's voice must be heard in the proclamation of this gospel of the kingdom as a witness to all nations. If this proclamation must be made at a given time, and introduced by the living preacher, or watchman put upon the walls to warn and cry—"Behold He cometh," and the people are startled by the cry, and trim their lamps, and fill the land with stirring confessions of their belief that Jesus is soon coming, and with heart, hand and tongue give practical demonstration of their faith, what shall they be called? Can they exist without a name? Can they be called anything else but Second Advent believers? It has been recently said that "Adventists, as a general rule, have invented nothing new but their errors; have discovered almost nothing but mistakes; and all that they have that is good, and strong, and true, has been believed, preached and written, by men outside of the Advent ranks, from the days of the apostles down." Is this so? Have the signs of Christ's speedy coming been preached ever since the days of the apostles? or is the preaching of these signs by Adventists among their "errors"? We know it is so considered by the professed christian church, but we did not look for its endorsement by our Advent papers.

Dearly beloved, where are we? Are there denominations outside of ourselves who are giving the signs of a soon coming Savior? And are they sounding the tocsin of alarm by showing, by prophetic fulfillment, that we are in the very last days? Are there classes, "out of our ranks," unfolding the Savior's unmistakable declarations in answer to the question, What shall be the sign of thy coming, and the end of the world? Have they with zeal urged upon their hearers the signs of the 24th of Matthew, by the which, when these things come to pass, we may know he is near even at the doors? Has Daniel's prophecy, from 680 years before Christ to the taking away of papal dominion, and the destruction of all earthly kingdoms, with the setting up of the everlasting kingdom, been traced through all its windings, thus showing that we must be down close to the coming of Him whose right it is to reign? Has this been the leading theme outside of "our ranks"?

Could these signs, that were to indicate the soon coming of the Savior, be "given from the apostle's day all the way down?" Would this be rightly dividing the Word of truth? Has the coming of Jesus and the signs of his coming been preached, for the last fifty years, by any denomination but Adventists? The Adventists are the only denomination in our day who preach the mortality of man. Is this one of their "errors"? They have also preached that there must be a resurrection of the dead, before men can be rewarded. Is there another denomination that preaches thus? That reward can only be given at, and not before, the judgment, or at Christ's coming; for he says he is coming "to reward every man according to his works." Are these Bible utterances believed, written and preached by other classes? When? where? and by whom? Why are we disfellowshiped and shut out from all union efforts to evangelize and save the lost? We admit there are noble exceptions to this, but they are few and far between. We have "discovered" that much of our former belief was a "mistake," and the more we keep our eye to the gospel eye-glass, the more clearly we shall discover the mistakes of our own, and those of others.

What but new discoveries of important truth due this generation brought out Miller, Burr, Grant, Couch, Bowman, Mathewson, Simpson, and a host of others, into a position we cannot reject without backsliding and renouncing the faith? Is there not a necessity for our Advent weekly papers and periodicals? (It is important they have some distinguishing name. Why not Advent?) Can this angel's voice be freely heard through other channels? Will other denominations let those looking for the Coming One speak through their papers? Not often. Why do we have to labor and bear reproach for believing and proclaiming this message?

Dearly beloved, let us hail with joy all the accessions to those who have the love of Christ and his appearing. Let us extend the hand of welcome to all who will recognize the return of the Nobleman, and with them shout "Hosannah! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." Let us, among the perils, be steadfast, unmovable, not ashamed of our Christ, nor his Word, which gives us our position; but let us hold fast, contend earnestly for the faith, build ourselves up on the most holy faith, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

WILL COME AGAIN.

The first advent was in weakness; the second will be in power. Christ came to die, but will come to reign. We are "looking for that blessed hope, and glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ, who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people zealous of good works." He will surely come. The promise is distinct and positive. This earth belongs to him, and he will dwell in and beautify it. The scene of his footprints, the orb stained by his blood, has a glorious destiny. It was greatly honored by his first advent, and shall be glorified by the second. God has many worlds swinging through boundless space, but none can surpass the earth. We doubt whether any can compare with it in historic interest. Did the Son of God ever live, and walk, and weep, and bleed on, and make a tomb of, and redeem any other world? He did all this for ours. This earth is his special inheritance.

While here he often spoke of going away through a baptism of agony, and returning in great glory. The baptism came; the earth was convulsed; he rose, ascended, and the angels comforted the bereaved disciples, by the assurance that he would "come again." But how would he come? Unapproachable? Fearful in majesty? "This same Jesus" shall return again just as loving, approachable, sympathetic, patient, indulgent, as when he dwelt among men at first. He will be terrible, indeed, to the wicked, but gentle and tender to the saints. There is infinite comfort in the promise; the very "same Jesus" shall come. The early Christians were greatly strengthened by the prospect. They believed the promise, and looked for the "glorious appearing." The Savior intended they should. He inserted it in the Supper which they were often to celebrate. That drinking the cup anew with Christ in his kingdom was ever before them; "till he come" always sounded sweetly in their ears and made melody in their hearts as often as they did "show the Lord's death" in the sacred Supper. Those three words "till he come," are precious beyond measure. We wonder that they awaken no enthusiasm. Do christians heartily believe that Jesus will come again? Do they look for him? Is he expected? To us the time seems long since the promise was made, and a lurking doubt of fulfillment creeps over us. Our little minds magnify the relative length of a few years of time. With God a thousand years is a day. He delays the coming that souls may prepare, but he is not "slack concerning his promise." Long suffering is not slackness.

Unbelief asks, "Where is the promise of his coming? The inspired word supplies the answer. The description of his coming is sublime. "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God"—the "Lord himself," in his own person, the same Jesus who ascended. The "shout" is one of joy that the hour to conquer has come. Satan shouted and the earth groaned when Jesus died; the war for mastery has been sharp and long, but will end in victory for our King. This earth belongs to Christ; the devil has no right to be here; he is an usurper, an enemy, and must be cast out. Our Lord will drive him into the pit; the earth will be free; the corruption of sin removed; righteousness fill the earth as the waters do the sea.

We look for "new heavens and a new earth." "The day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also, and the works that are therein shall be burned up." Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for "his promise;" look for "new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness."

The earth has passed through several great geological changes. Stage by stage it has risen in the scale of development, but is not yet complete. One great transformation is to come, to make the physical conform to the moral beauty of the kingdom of Christ. For the saints shall be changed; in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, they shall be molded into the likeness of their Lord. Thus the habitation, and the inhabitants will agree, and glory will adorn the earth, where sin and sorrow have so long prevailed. Where sin has done so much mischief, Jesus will establish peace; where death has so long reigned, immortality will sway its sceptre; where the Lord died to save, he will gather the redeemed in glory; the people and the very earth, touched by the blood of Christ, shall be freed from the taint of sin, and robed in immortal beauty. That change will come, for Jesus has promised, and he is able. How soon we know not. He will wisely direct. But the 'shout' will be heard ere long, perhaps soon; we shall hear it, the sleeping dead shall hear it, and all the righteous will rejoice.

Is it strange that many are eager for that hour to arrive? "Even so come, Lord Jesus; come quickly," is on the lips of millions. If we comprehend the results of his coming, our prayers would be still more earnest. We rejoice in his first advent, but the second will excel it in blessings, as the harvest exceeds the seed-time. We shall know better when we see and experience. Patiently we will wait, trustfully we will look, earnestly we will pray, "Come, Lord Jesus."—Baptist Union.

— The more we fear God, the less we shall fear men.

THE JUDGMENT OR HARVEST.

WM. SHEPHERD.

"Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe."—Joel 3: 13.

We learn from the Scriptures that there are two methods which God employs in his dealings with individuals and nations, that they may acknowledge and recognize him, and whereby he makes himself known. One is through the ministration of his grace and mercy, using all those mildest means in the gospel, until those means have proved entirely ineffectual; then, another course is adopted, and that is judgments. These are poured out sometimes in the most terrible forms. If God is not acknowledged in his grace and truth to save, he reveals himself in judgments; or, in the language of David, "The Lord is known by the judgments which he executeth."

As those who are moved to the acknowledgement of God in the gospel, do so to their eternal salvation, those who are brought to their senses by judgments alone will be brought there to see their everlasting ruin. As "the wages of sin is death," they must "perish in their own corruption."

As most every department of the natural world is used by the sacred penman for the illustration of moral and spiritual truth, it might be expected that the important feature of the harvest would frequently be used as a forcible emblem. This figure often occurs, and is variously applied. In Jer. 8: 22, the harvest is presented as a season of grace. Our Lord uses it in connection with the closing scenes of the age. "The harvest is the end of the world."

In our text, as in several other places of Scripture, the harvest presents a time of judgment. The prophet here compares the enemies of God to a field of ripe grain; and hears the mandate go forth from the courts of the Most High—"Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe. Come, get you down, for the press is full; the fats overflow, for their wickedness is great." There are two principle ideas here suggested by this figure. First, the Lord is long-suffering and merciful. Secondly, that the execution of his judgment upon the finally impenitent wicked is inevitable. He bears long with mankind. He does not execute vengeance against an evil work speedily. He endures with much long-suffering the vessels of wrath fitted by their own iniquity to ruin or death. He bore long with the Antedeluvians; and when at length he said "My spirit shall not always strive," he nevertheless gave them a space of time; a hundred and twenty years. Hence, abundant warning was given. Every board added, and every nail driven, were so many additional notes of warning of impending judgment. But at length it came, and obdurate sinners, and those who laughed and mocked at the prophet's voice of warning, were swallowed up in a watery grave. The sickle was put in, the harvest was ripe, the wheat was gathered in the ark, the tares were destroyed.

The same long-suffering and forbearance was manifested toward the cities of the plain—Sodom and Gomorrah. It is said "The men of Sodom were very wicked, and sinners before the Lord exceedingly." And yet, long subsequent to this, when they were described as such, we read as follows: "And the Lord said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous; I will go down now, and see if they have done altogether according to the cry of it which has come unto me; and if not, I will know." Not that the Lord was in need of any additional information concerning their true condition, but there is a formality of investigation presented prior to the execution of judgment, that the justice of the sentence may be manifested.

So the several nations of the land of Canaan were spared year after year, and time after time, until at length in striking and graphic language of Scripture, "the land spewed them out for their wickedness." So God makes known to Abraham that his posterity, after being ill treated in a land that was not theirs, should return to the land of Canaan; but this would not occur until the fourth generation. And why should this be? For this very reason "Because the iniquity of the Amorites was not yet full." i. e. God would not mete out judgment upon them until they had filled up their cup. The sickle would not be thrust in until the fruit was matured—fully ripe.

The case of the fall of Jericho was another striking instance of the Lord's forbearance. He bore long with those people, and they stood in the way of Israel's entering the promised land. The time came when judments from God must be signally executed, and it was done in a most signal manner. From the peculiar circumstances attending the fall of Jericho, and the means employed in its overthrow, and the fact of its standing as a menace to God's people, and in the way of their entering upon the promised possession, I regard it as a type of the fall of the greater Jericho—the great Babylon of the Apocalypse.

Again, the case of old Babylon furnishes another example of Jehovah's patience and forbearance toward men. "Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor: it is time to thresh her. Yet a little while and the time of her harvest shall come." And here we should not fail to mention the case of Pharaoh, as a very remarkable example of the Divine patience and forbearance under unusual provocation; which circumstance doubtless tended to render the judgments more terrible and summary; as here the enemies of God were swallowed up in death in a moment.

Another marked instance of God's long-suffering we find exhibited toward his ancient Israel. They were repeatedly reproved and warned, and subjected to minor chastisements before the more fearful judgment came upon them. It was said—"In vain have I smitten your children; they have received no correction." It seems they had been proof against all the milder and persuasive means to bring them to repentance;—all had failed.

At length the Lord proceeds to execute his judgments, and delivers his people into captivity. After this captivity, though they did not fall again into open idolatry, yet they declined further from the true worship of God. They advanced far into formalism, following the traditions of men to the neglect of the commandments of God, until they filled up the measure of their iniquity by their perverse rejection and crucifixion of their own Messiah and King. This was their crowning sin; and great and terrible was the judgments inflicted upon the Jewish nation in consequence of this act. The sickle was put in here, as the harvest was fully ripe.

There are many instances where judgments have been inflicted upon nations and communities, to which our text primarily relates; but from the nature of the context we are led to conclude that it points also to a future day of judgment for its perfect fulfillment. The words "Put ye in the sickle" etc., may have both an individual as well as a collective application. It is a solemn thought that the principle of the Divine government is the same to-day as in the days of old. In every age "righteousness exalteth a nation," and hence sustains its perpetuity; while "sin is a reproach to any people," and a sure precursor to the overthrow and destruction of that nation.

"His wakened wrath doth slowly move;
His willing mercy flies apace."

We said that the text pointed to a coming judgment. Yes, and a heavier than any of the previous ones. It points to the greater "harvest," which is "the end of the world," or age, when God will send forth his angels, which are said to be the "reapers," and they will sever the wicked from the just; gathering the wheat into the garner, and collecting the tares into bundles and burning them to ashes to fertilize the earth.

We find in Rev. 14: 18, language similar to our text; and it seems as though John borrowed it from the prophet Joel. This brings us down to the last judgment of this age. The language is this,—"Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe. And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it in the great winepress of the wrath of God, And the winepress was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the winepress even unto the horses bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs." This is a hyperbolical expression, to denote a great effusion of blood. Indeed, the whole language, as borrowed from the Oriental cusroms of gathering their full clusters of this fruit which yielded so plentifully, and casting it into the winefat to be pressed out by means of a powerful lever, and clearly presents the idea of a severer judgment than has yet fallen upon the nations. How this is to be, we cannot tell; but the figures that are employed, and the various descriptions given in Scripture, all lead us to conclude that it will be terrible.

This judgment is spoken of by the prophet Isaiah 34 and 63, and by Jeremiah 25, where the prophet is instructed to take the fatal cup and pass it to all the nations, in turn compelling them to drink of its fearful contents until they are drunken, and fall to rise no more. Ezekiel speaks of the sword of the Lord which shall fall heavily upon Gog and all his bands, and of a great shaking that shall take place in the land, "so that the fishes of the sea, the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth shall shake at my presence; and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the steep places shall fall. And I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountains saith the Lord God. Every man's sword shall be against his brother. And I will plead against him with pestilence and with blood; and I will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and great hailstones, fire and brimstone. Thus will I magnify myself, and sanctify myself, and I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the Lord." Thus the Lord will be known by the judgment he executeth.

This language, descriptive of the executive scenes, is similar to that of the Revelator when portraying the same in various portions of his prophecies. Daniel speaks of this judgment in several places. The minor prophets refer to it frequently, and use such language as to leave no room to question its fearfulness and severity. Our Lord points it out in Luke 4, and other places. The apostle described it as terrible in the extreme; and St. John sets it forth under such sublime imagery and majestic figures as to render it truly terrific. He presents it under the breaking of a seal, and the blast of a trumpet, the outpouring of vials of wrath, by hailstones, by thunders, by lightning, by great voices, by tremendous earthquakes, by the sudden disappearance of islands, and removal of great mountains from their places, etc.

And now that the time has arrived when the command of God "Put ye in the sickle" will soon be executed, how do we feel? Do we look forward to that judgment hour with emotions of pleasure and delight? or are our hearts saddened at the thought? It is evident that the godly and the ungodly, like the wheat and the tares, are both growing together now, and fast ripening for the harvest. To either one or the other of these classes every one of us respectively belong. One is ripening for the kingdom of God, the other to be gathered in bundles to be burned in the fires of the last days. As the same sun and the same showers ripen both the wheat and the tares at the same time, so under the same external influences the saint is maturing for a happy greeting by his coming Lord, while the wicked and hypocrites are becoming more hardened for the day of God's wrath. The tares, not being "rooted and grounded" in divine truth, must wither and perish under the burning rays of divine wrath; while the wheat will be replanted "in the house of the Lord, and flourish (forever) in the courts of our God."

O, where are we? Are we in Christ? Have we made him our "hiding place" from the storm? Have we entered the only ark of safety? Are we clothed with the beautiful "garments of salvation?" with the "robe of righteousness? If we are "rooted and built up in him, and established in the faith" as we have been taught, "abounding therein with thanksgiving," we shall be able to look forward to that day with joyful anticipation, hailing every token of its approach with emotions of gladness.

And you who only have a name to live but are dead, let us exhort you to fly at once to Him who is "The resurrection and the life," that you may live together with him now and in the day of his coming. Those who are out of Christ let us entreat you at once and without delay to repent and turn to God, exercising faith in the Lord Jesus, who yet waits to be gracious. As in the last day of the feast (typical of the last moments of time), Jesus stands and cries, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink.

May God help you, poor sinner, to come and partake of the "living water," which flows so freely, that you may live forever in the paradise of God. May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

WHO WAS AHASUERUS?

WM. SHELDON.

Having demonstrated the fact, in a former article, that the Ahasuerus of Esther cannot be that Artaxerxes who was the son of Xerxes, unless Mordecai in his 12th year was between 132 and 152 years old, he having been born before the beginning of the seventy years captivity (Esther 2: 5, 6); and having also noticed that the Bible never says that Ahasuerus is identical with Artaxerxes the son of Xerxes, and furthermore that history is in conflict as to who is meant by this Ahasuerus with whom Mordecai was associated, some historians claiming that Darius Hystaspes is meant, others Xerxes, and still others Artaxerxes; it may be well to inquire as to the probable facts in the matter. This would be a matter of trivial importance were not the 12th year of Ahasuerus' reign made identical with the 12th year of Artaxerxes, the son of Xerxes, and the pushing of the ram located there, and that made the commencement of the 2300 days.

As the 12th of Ahasuerus was during the lifetime of Mordecai, who was born previous to the captivity; and as the 12th of Artaxerxes, son of Xerxes, could not be within his lifetime, unless he lived to be from 132 to 152 years old, being then eligible to the second office in the kingdom, it follows that this Artaxerxes cannot be the Ahasuerus of Esther. Who, then, was this Ahasuerus? The probabilities point to another Artaxerxes who lived in the lifetime of Mordecai, and whose 12th year came when Mordecai was between 72 and 92 years of age; two years after the 70 years captivity ended; and this Artaxerxes was called "Ahasuerus Artexes"; and the mistake has been made in overlooking the fact that there was an Artaxerxes who reigned before that Artaxerxes who was the son of Xerxes (even fifty years before); while Mordecai was a man of the right age to act the part assigned him in the Bible. By confounding the two Artaxerxes, the error has been made, by various repeaters of history, in claiming that Xerxes' son was the Artaxerxes called by the name of Ahasuerus.

In Thurman's "table of fixed dates," he thus refers to the death of Darius Hystaspes:—"Who died in the 12th year of Ahasuerus, B. C. 486, which was the beginning of his reign over Babylon." Again he says: "After the death of Cyrus, Ahasuerus was called Artaxerxes." (See "Important Questions," p. 35.) As Josephus expressly affirms that Darius Hystaspes reigned over 127 provinces, as quoted in our preceding article, this Ahasuerus, whose twelfth year succeeded the death of Darius, must have reigned over the same number, being an associate king in the Persian Empire.

So the probabilities seem to point to this "Ahasuerus Artaxerxes," instead of another Artaxerxes who lived fifty years later, as the husband of Esther, and the friend of Mordecai; and this position does not involve the inconsistency of supposing that Mordecai lived to such an enormous age. Other arguments are at hand, but this will suffice for the present. The slaughter under Mordecai, therefore, or Haman's conspiracy, cannot be located under the Artaxerxes that reigned after Xerxes; nor can that scheme constitute the pushing of the ram, or mark the beginning of the 2300 days. Clearer light is shining on this measurement. The end is near, but let us argue it from sound premises.

Last words.—"Speak to me now in Scripture language alone," said a dying christian. "I can trust the words of God; but when they are the words of man, it costs me an effort to think whether I may trust to them."

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 6, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

SPECIAL NOTICE
To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis.

AG'T.

WE wish all our readers a Happy New Year in the Lord. J. C. M. G.

NEW YEAR.

Thank the dear Lord that we are spared to greet each other again in another new year. Gladly would we take every reader by the hand, and say, on the new year's morning, We wish you a happy New Year in the Lord. It has been our privilege to give a written New Year's greeting through "our paper" for about twenty years. When first given we did not look forward to nineteen more. We are glad to live still with the waiting ones, enjoying a brighter prospect for the future than during any of the nineteen past years.

It is true, we know not what a day may bring forth; but one thing is certain, the evidences that prove Jesus is soon coming are rapidly narrowing to a focal point, that seems to be but a short distance in the future. Like the ship that has sailed many days on the trackless deep, run out its allotted time and reckoning, and seen various unmistakable signs that land is near, so the christian sailor, who has studied the prophetic chart, and kept close watch of the signs of the times, must be fully satisfied that the heavenly land is near at hand. The evidences that we are near the heavenly port are as certain as were the land birds, bits of wood, sea weed and the light ahead, seen by Columbus, just before he discovered this continent. The events of each passing year affords stronger and stronger proof that our waiting time is nearly ended. This year, now just opened, may be expected to give its additional evidence that the great King will tarry away from this planet but a very brief period longer. Indeed, this may be the last time we shall ever say, "Happy new year" to our readers, before we reach the end of our pilgrim journey. Events that required centuries to introduce, now transpire in a single year; hence the remaining prophetic jots and tittles may be filled up sooner than is expected.

Is the reader ready? Let no hindering weight be carried another step. Lay all upon the altar of sacrifice. Let the consecration be complete, and for ever. Remember, no one can be accepted in his sins. Without a pure heart, we have no promise of acceptance. Then let this year be spent as it should be by a true follower of Christ. Let no unchristian words escape the lips; no impure thoughts allowed to lodge in the heart, no unholy deeds be done; but "whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus." Col. 3; 17. This is the christian's rule by which his whole life is to be regulated. Living by this, he lives safely. He has nothing to fear. He is continually ready to meet the blessed One. O what a happy, peaceful condition. When Jesus fills the heart by his Spirit, there is "no condemnation," "no darkness," no fears. A oneness with Christ is felt that makes one "solidly happy," and affords a deep-toned longing to see him in his beauty and glory. While living in such a condition, Jesus becomes an abiding companion. His presence seems real, affording an abounding peace, ever flowing with increasing depth and richness.

May such be the experience of the reader, during each passing day in 1875. May it be the most sunny year in Christ ever enjoyed. May "perfect love" fill each heart, producing kind feelings, words, and deeds to every one; removing from the mind every doubt, and filling it with a brilliant illumination through the power of the Holy Spirit.

M. G.

THE DEPARTED YEAR.

The Creator of our planet so arranged its motions and positions, in connection with the other planets that he made, as to give the inhabitants of this world a variety of climates and seasons; the seasons coming and going in regular rotation, so that their series make up equal and ever revolving periods, called years. A year embraces a period which includes all the seasons at any point upon the earth, so that each year commences and closes at the same point in the circle of seasons. Time is that which measures the continuance of any being, thing, or event, so that all things thus measured must have a beginning and end.

The year 1874 has measured and exactly spanned all the seasons which our latitude gives us; and therefore its work is done; the period is full; it has departed. The spring, summer and fall of '74 have passed, and can never return. The varied experiences of all during those periods are written, and can never be repeated.

The wheel of time rolls one way, and never turns backward. It is like a stream flowing down from a mountain, winding through a valley of ever changing landscape, passing an endless variety of scenes of light and darkness, peace and war, living and dying, moving rapidly to the ocean-gates, where it enters the unmeasured reservoir beyond the homes and battle fields of human woes.

During the period of the departed year, the earth has marched on its appointed beat without missing a step, or losing a moment of time. It has wheeled around its appointed center, amid its rapidly marching companions, exactly in obedience to the orders of its great Commander. It has revolved on its axis like the cylinder of a vast machine, whirling across the stage of life and probationary experience the days and nights allotted to mortals, hurrying them to the scenes of an impending judgment. The year came and went like a shadow, and more worthless than a shadow has proved to many. It was given by God to this generation like a few hours of fair wind to a mariner, in which to make the harbor before a destructive storm approaches. How few have improved the golden hours to find the haven of safety. The multitude have spent them in worldly sports, criminal greed for gain, or debauchery and crime. Who can look back upon the spent period in joyful remembrance, and say, I am conscious that I labored to spend every day and lunation in the service of Christ, and tried to improve every opportunity and means given me to benefit men and secure the favor of God? Who has spent the year with such habits of life in eating, drinking, apparel, family and church relations, business transactions, and such holy devotions and sacrifices for Jesus and his cause, that their conscience and the Word of God approve? To such the remembrance of the year will ever yield sweet experience. But to those who have spent the precious days in idleness, and have wasted the time, strength, talents and treasures which the Lord has given them in the service of his enemy, the memory will make the year to them a dark and troublous period, until its sins are all forgiven.

The year has taken one more link out of Satan's chain and shortened his blasphemous rebellion against God one more period. It has lessened the number of victims to be crushed under the heavy wheel of death. It has diminished the sad parting scenes of husbands and wives, parents and children, many millions. It has reduced the number of intervening years between the suffering of the martyrs and the receiving their crowns. The Bride of Christ has one year less to mourn the absence of her Lord, of suffering the ascoffs nd hatred of the world, of wearisome labor and fasting, of temptations and woe.

The year has been one of wonderful physical, political, ecclesiastical, social, and moral phenomena, which have produced mighty currents and counter-currents, stirring the profoundest depths of human fears and aspirations, causing the governments to arm, and the subjects to combine for defense against the terrible anticipated revolution now casting its gloomy shadow over the earth. The year has witnessed universal dissatisfaction with the present status of this world in every department. All eyes have gazed to see some opening door from God or nature, through which to pass to a higher plane of human associations and happiness. All hands are raised to lay hold on some instrumentality to lay off the old and put on the new order of things. The monarchs say, Let all the thrones and their armies unite to establish Hereditary Monarchy everywhere, for all time. The Republicans say, Down with the crowned heads, and let the people exalt to power and glory, by universal suffrage, the men of their choice. The Communists say, Let the vaults of heaped-up treasures be opened, and the rusting gold be distributed among the toiling millions, whose sweat has earned it, so that they may enjoy the luxuries and honors of manhood. The high churchman says, Give us a Catholic creed and communion, and let the anathemas of God be upon all who shall dare to reject that creed, or refuse to come to that communion. The atheist cries, Down with your Christ, and the divinity of your religion, and the sacredness of kings' power, and give us humanity untrammeled, and it will correct itself. These discordant sounds have vibrated with a deeper and more threatening tone the past year than ever before. The sun of the departed year set in a darker cloud, with thunders of a more alarming sound from the east, than ever excited the fears of the human heart before. All nature seems to groan and travail in pain for the birth of a new creation, a reconstruction of this world of confusion and anarchy.

While the Pope, with golden cup in hand, and his scarlet-clad cardinals, have spent the days of 1874 in making arrangements to commence a fearful struggle to re-ascend the Roman throne, and the great Muscovite, like a leopard, has planted one foot in central Asia, and the other on his frozen mountains in Europe, watching for the God-appointed hour to leap into the golden horn, and wave his banner over the Dardanells, the Bride of Christ has remained day and night upon the watch-tower, peering into the distance, marking every national movement, listening to every bugle note of war, watching with throbbing emotion the rising tide of wickedness, as the evidences gather like a cloud indicating approaching judgment. Rulers have been bought and sold like cattle for the market. Judges and jurors have been bribed with gold, gory with the blood of assasination. Capitalists have formed combinations to keep back a part of the just wages of laborers, until thousands of women and children are threatened with the cruel death of starvation in the midst of plenty and unparalleled waste and extravagance. The incendiary, thief, and murderer, with unexampled boldness, march through all streets, doing their fiendish work almost unchallenged.

These dark deeds of sin make a deeper gloom, and cast a darker shade on the prospects of this generation, we believe, than any that ever transpired in a year through all the historic ages. Truly wicked men and seducers wax worse and worse. The days of Noah and Lot have been duplicated, only the antitype exceeds the type as the light of to-day exceeds the light of those days.

The scoffers say, All things continue as they were. The past year has brought the same sunshine, the same tides and winds. The rivers have flowed in the same channels, the Niagara has thundered and foamed just as of old. Children have been born, and men have died with age and disease, as in the days of Abraham. They tell us that the earth shows no signs of age and decay, and that uncounted years will depart, and yet it will remain the same, convulsed, and the place of death scenes. They profess to invalidate the testimony which gives the knowledge that God "created the heavens and the earth," and are therefore "ignorant" that he will by the same power destroy it soon. Prophetic scoffing has never been so loud and defiant as during the past year.

The year has passed. Its historic page is filled to the margin. Its last sun has gone down, its joys are fled, and its last pang has been suffered. Who kept pace with the ticking of its clock, and faithfully attended to the duty of each hour? Who visited the sick, and smoothed the pillow of heads now painless in the grave? Who fed the hungry, and clothed the naked, for Jesus' sake? Who kept the light burning at the window for some lost, straying friend? Who visited the widow and fatherless in their poverty and bitter weeping, when the dark wave had nearly buried them in despair? Who trusted in Jesus through all its varied scenes, and overcame the enemy in all his artful strategy? Who preached the gospel faithfully, without regard to gain or reputation. Who faithfully warned saints and sinners of approaching judgment? The record of the year is kept on high, and the charges against us for our sins and guilt can only be cancelled by the application of Christ's blood.

We cast our eye back, and say, Farewell, departed year. Thy sunshine and darkness, thy blooming and fading, thy spring time and harvest, thy peace and war, have all found a common grave. Memory will carry many minds back to the misspent year with regrets and anguish. God was despised, and his Word rejected. Golden opportunities to secure eternal life are forever passed, and that heavenly boon eternally lost. Foolish and wicked acts broke friendships, ruined families, impaired health, wasted fortunes, and caused the sun of many to go down behind a dark cloud. The reign of death was tragical and triumphant. He invaded alike the king's palace and the peasant's cot; love nor money could stay his hand. He snatched infants, innocent and beloved, from the embrace of loving mothers. Husbands and wives were torn asunder, leaving bleeding hearts which no earthly balm could heal. The year has filled many dark ante-rooms in the great charnel-house of the dead, where they will rest their heads upon the cold pillows until the morning of doom shall illumine, and the voice of Jesus echo through the silent vaults, calling the countless hosts to judgment.

J. C.

FUTURE STRUGGLES.

The Catholics are speaking of stirring times as near at hand. They are fast maturing their plans for the great conflict, which, they claim, will re-establish the temporal power of the Pope.

A crisis is approaching of great importance. Evidently, the last prophetic pencilings of the prophet are about to be accomplished. Our Lord's coming is at the door. Get ready! There is no time to be lost. This is the hour for consecration to Christ, without reserve. Submit unconditionally, and let no murmuring escape the lips when heavy trials come to polish and finish up the christian for translation. He who murmurs at trials, misrepresentations, slanders, abuse, or any other ill treatment that may come upon him, finds fault with the things that will do him the most good, if borne with patience, after the example of Jesus.

M. G.

THE NEW YEAR.

We wish all of our readers and the friends of Jesus everywhere "A HAPPY NEW YEAR." This is a time-honored and friendly greeting. It is a proper and expressive christian salutation. A new year has commenced. Its months and days are before us. It gives us opportunities to obtain and do good. God measures off these years to his creatures for specific purposes. He is so wise and kind that the appropriation of these periods of time to men is just what they need; and when used as designed, will result in their safety and happiness. Therefore, to intelligently desire men a happy new year is to desire that its months and days may be used as God the Giver designs.

Many of the events and experiences of coming time are wisely hidden from us, so that we commence the year as we would walk on the top of a revolving wheel; each step being hidden from us, except the one on which we at present stand. We do not know what the next day may bring forth, only as God has given promises relating to general principles, and prophecies giving the outline history of the future. God has revealed and hidden just enough of the future to cause us to trust in him fully to guide us safely through what we do not understand, and to stimulate our hopes and fears to gain the blessings and shun the snares which are revealed to us. We do not know where the snares lay which are coiled for our feet; therefore we need the hand of a friend to guide us, who can see them all. We cannot tell when the thief will approach our dwelling; therefore, we need a guarding Providence to protect our goods. We do not know when and where destructive calamities are to happen; therefore the angels are sent to guide the feet and shield the head in the midst of dangers. The christian cannot tell when and how Satan is to tempt him; therefore, he feels the necessity of walking near Jesus' side, so that his help can be obtained at any time. He cannot tell what friends may forsake him for Jesus' sake; therefore, he determines to follow Christ even at the loss of them all.

During the reign of terror in France, thousands were huddled into prisons, and the red-handed executioners came in daily, with orders to bring out A, B, and C, for decapitation. When the doors opened, and the men with bloody hands entered, all faces turned pale, each saying—Is it I who must go next to the block? So this new year has crowded into it more than a thousand millions, all under the sentence of death. The bloody hands of disease, war, famine, accident and murder, are walking through the ranks, selecting, without favor or fear, great and small, rich and poor, and carrying them to the death scene. None can tell when his hour will come; but he may be sure it will come unless Jesus gives him a reprieve. Who can tell that the present year will not be the last of the sixth millenary?—the last of gospel work? Every prophetic ray converges to a focal point very nearly where we stand. The events measured by years have nearly all transpired. The great prophetic index points to a day for the sounding of the last trumpet, which may be found within the lunations of this new year. No man knoweth. Let us be ready for the grand event every moment; ready for translation, the presence of God and all the holy ones.

This year has commenced with the curse still resting on the earth. The elements are all in commotion; the winds howl and the thunders rattle. All creatures are still in bloody war; the beasts devour, and men slaughter each other. Satan still bids defiance to Jehovah, and sin boldly rebels against the government of Heaven.

But the year which has commenced in woe may be cut short by the sovereign Lord of times and seasons, and the grand foretold era of unmingled blessedness begin. Then shall the happy new period commence, where no night shall shut out the light of day, or the woes of the curse exclude the joys of Paradise. No scorching sun or chilling star-beams, no midnight gloom or noontide grief, no saintly prayers for deliverance, or watching for the returning Bridegroom, shall be known in that glorious age. The earth shall be robed in her new dress of infinite beauty and God-given glories. The redeemed saints shall then enjoy peerage with angels and brotherhood with the King Eternal. The peace that now enriches the song of heaven shall then produce the everlasting harmonies of earth's new anthem. The bright Being now sitting at the right hand of the infinite God shall then be seated upon the throne of the new earth as its eternal King. Blessed era! Glorious dawning! The everlasting jubilee, the eternal rest of all the holy, the long-prayed-for kingdom, the sweet home of all the friends of Jesus.

In view of these God-promised blessings, let us pray each day of this new year—Our Father who art in heaven, make and keep us sinless! Help us do thy holy will in opposition to our carnal fleshly wills! O hasten the time when the adorable Jesus shall return to our sin-blighted planet, roll back the blinding curtains, and let in the light of everlasting day! Hush the grating sound of war, and the widow and orphan's piteous and almost unheeded cries for help! Take away these faded flowers, and give us the fadeless roses of paradise! Let Immanuel take the reins of earthly government, and cut short the maladministration of Gentile rule! O, Father, send Jesus this present new year if thy changeless appointments will permit it. His friends are anxiously waiting to look upon his face, once marred for them. They long to grasp the hands so painfully scarred for their salvation. Help us finish the waiting of thy Church upon our knees, praying—"Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." Amen.

J. C.

CALIFORNIA.—Persons wishing to address Miles Grant privately will please direct to San Francisco, Cal., till further notice.

SACRAMENTO.

Sacramento (Cal.) is the capital of the State, and has one of the finest capitol buildings in the United States, surrounded by pleasant grounds, very tastefully arranged in walks, and ornamental trees and flowers. We closed our first series of meetings here last evening, Dec. 20th. They have been a happy success from beginning to end. The prospect is now brighter than we have ever seen it before in this city. The audiences have been large, attentive and intelligent. Quite a number from the different churches have been in and taken an active part in the meetings, being much blest and quickened. A large amount of prejudice has been removed, and a new interest awakened in the blessed truths of the Bible. Three ministers have been present, representing as many different denominations. One of the ministers, a Congregationalist, who has preached many years, said in substance in one of our last meetings that he had become pretty well satisfied that man is entirely dead between death and the resuraection; that Jesus is soon coming, and that the wicked will be finally destoyed. He said he was examining the subject carefully, and the more he investigated, the better he was satisfied.

Bro. Reed, the pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, manifested an excellent spirit, uniting heartily with us in advancing the interests of the meeting. He advocates and enjoys the spirit of holiness; and the Lord has recently blest his labors in the conversion of several. As he was to have baptism on last Sabbath evening, and as we wished to baptize also, he kindly offered us all the conveniences of their house, baptistry and robes.

Permanent meetings are now established in Sacramento, in a pleasant hall, on the first floor of the Odd Fellows' Temple, in a central part of the city. Our Brn. and Srs. there are in earnest, and their prospect is pleasingly encouraging. Some forty partook of the sacrament Sabbath evening, and a large number requested prayers that they might be prepared to meet Christ at his coming. A wide door is now open in that city for faithful laborers in the Lord's vineyard. There is a deep longing for purity of heart awakened in many minds. They see and feel the great truth that without holiness "no man shall see the Lord." They see its importance as never before. The Holy Spirit is impressing them that the subject demands their immediate attention, that they may be ready to meet Jesus when he comes. Several backsliders have been reclaimed, and sinners are under conviction. It seemed a pity to stop the meetings just now, but previous engagements made it necessary. Very earnest requests are made to have another series of meetings in February. This we may do. To-night we are to commence meetings in Santa Clara, where Brn. B. W. Wilson and D. D. Reed reside. While writing, we are on our way there. We are now passing through the great San Joaquin valley, where men are ploughing for wheat sowing. Thousands of acres have already been sown, and much of it is up, looking finely. Since we arrived in California (Nov. 21st), there have been but two rainy days, but these have been very timely for the farmers, and their prospects are unusually encouraging. If they have the early and latter rain, their crops are sure and abundant. California has immense resources of wealth, far beyond any other State in the union, and it is being rapidly developed. Since April 1st, of this year, nearly thirty thousand emigrants have come into the State from the East. There is yet plenty of room for others. Industrious, economical men can do well here, but it is a poor place for lazy people. We think we speak the truth when we say there is no better land in the world, than is found in California, provided there is sufficient rain. Almost every thing can be raised in the State that is found in any land in the temperate or tropical climates, and the California wheat is considered superior to that of any other country. If one is seeking a choice home, he can find it in this beautiful "summer land."

M. G.

REMOVAL.—We wish to say to the dear brethren and sisters that our beloved Pastor, Bro. R. H. Bateman, has been called to a new field of labor. He has left us in order to take the pastorate of the A. C. Church in Yorkshire, N. Y. He and his faithful companion have entwined themselves into the affections of very many of God's dear children in this place; and we have felt sorrow of heart in parting with them. God has blest their ministrations to our good. Bro. B. is sound in doctrine as generally understood by our people, yet he has had no hobbies, nor does he exclude all excepting those calling themselves Adventists. He believes whoever has the Spirit of Christ belongs to the royal household of God by adoption. He has been strong in his denunciation of sin, but kind personally to all. We publicly commend him to the love and confidence of the church and people where he is now located, and to all with whom he may become associated.

Dear brethren and sisters, we want you to pray for us and our former Pastor, that at last Pastor and people may meet in the glad reunion, and that we may have the greatest of all joys, that of meeting with our beloved Jesus when he shall rise up and leave his mediatorial seat, and with his royal robes shall sweep the heavens as he comes down the shining pathway of light.

C. H. TODD, Church Clerk.

Lockport, N. Y.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, a a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances shou'd be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$202 16
L. M. Parker	5 00
J. Fairbanks	1 00
L. J. Van Gierson	.75
B. F. Ware	2 25
P. W. Hough	1 00
L. Nutting	1 00
Miss E. C. Deming	.60
Mrs. J. Everson	1 00

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$47 05
Lover of Jesus	1 00
D. Dunton	.43
From a Pilgrim	.10

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$2,829 20
James Allen (pledge paid)	100 00
M. G. Wise, " "	10 00
Sidney Allen (balance of pledge)	10 00
Mrs. E. B. Allen, " "	5 00
T. D. Johnson (on pledge)	12 50
A Friend	1 00
David Hayes	1 00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.
Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Loring Morse	$5 00
G. P. Pearsons	5 00
For the benefit of the Kansas sufferers (no name.)	5 00

One Barrel of Clothing from Chelsea, Mass., by L. Boutell.

One Barrel from L. T. Cunningham.

FROM BRO. J. A. CARGILE.

TO THE A. A. M. SOCIETY.

Dear Brethren:—My last left me on the 3d inst. in Brinkley, Ark., in very peculiar circumstances. I had posted notices for a meeting at night, two of which were pulled down; and was informed by a Dr. Earle that he opposed my preaching in the house. I asked permission to ring the bell, and he consented. "Well," said I, "that will bring the people out, and I can speak to them in the open street." But when I told Bro. Lynch that I felt deeply impressed to give his villagers a talk on the coming kingdom and the signs of the Lord's coming, he just said that he would take the authority to open the door, which he did, had a good fire in the stove, and the bell rung in due time. I spoke to a very curiously attentive audience till the train came to the depot, then dismissed the meeting and started hastily for the train. I was informed that, should I ever pass that way again, the house would be free for me. I feel that I discharged my whole duty in telling them to look for Jesus.

In Memphis stopped and tried to preach; then started for home, after an absence of a month, traveling nearly one thousand miles, preaching on an average one sermon every day. Reached home Saturday the 5th, at 1 o'clock P. M. Found all in the hands of my Master, with whom I trusted them when I left. Praise his holy name. He is the best friend I ever tried. Men have disappointed us, but the Lord has never failed yet.

Dear brethren, I feel that I have great reason to praise the Lord for his blessing on my feeble effort to sow the seed in a strange land. Many are now rejoicing in a plain gospel, who were almost gone in infidelity. When will popular preachers realize that they are teaching a false theory, which not only dishonors God, but drives many of our best and strongest-minded men to infidelity and perdition?

At Cypress church, Woodruff Co., I was publicly denounced as a false prophet,—one of the many predicted by our Savior. A few nights afterwards, walking away from meeting in the dark, I heard the following dialogue between two men, neither of whom I knew:—

1st speaker—"Well sir, I used to think I knew a little about the Bible."

2nd speaker—"Well, what do you think about it now?"

1st speaker—"Why, since listening to this fellow it don't seem like I know anything."

2nd speaker—"I'll tell you now, if they will all do just as he tells them, they will not miss heaven far, certain."

1st speaker—"It gets me to find out what he is. I don't know what to call him; but I reckon I will serve him as Barnum did the unknown animal in his Museum. I will just call him a 'Wot is it,' and let him go."

Just here some one told them the preacher might be in the crowd, and they hushed the talk. The best of all, we heard several pledge to live nearer the Lord. Some resolved to quit tobacco and subscribe for our beloved Crisis.

I returned so worn down from cold and exposure that I have been confined to my room for three days with high fever; but to-day, thank God, I feel better, and shall start to-morrow to see some of the churches. I am working earnestly, and praying for a higher state of religion in our churches. I want to see every member of the body of my Master a lively member. I mean to spend my time stirring them to duty. Like good old Bro. Wesley, I mean to give the trumpet a certain sound wherever and whenever I meet my Father's children.

O that we had some Dows and Wesleys to-day, to talk to proud professors of their fashions and foolishness in dressing; and a few, like Paul, to teach the women their duty in adorning with good works. I am looking for Jesus, and I fear he will find many cold-hearted professors of religion with dollars stuck on their person in useless trimming, and no cents given to satisfy the appetites or warm the bodies of poor widows and fatherless children. But, seeing all this getting worse every day, I pray, "Come, Lord Jesus." Pray for me.

Stevenson, Ala., Dec. 11th, 1874.

MISSION WORK.

Dear Brethren:—I have just returned from a preaching tour in upper S. C. Since I left home on the last day of October I have been abundantly blessed with health and strength for hard labor, for which I am truly thankful. I have traveled much in this State, and in S. C., and have preached forty-one times. I have encountered some of the most stubborn opposition I ever have met with. In some places society is in the most demoralized condition; but still there are some true ones to mourn over the moral desolation. I have enjoyed some precious seasons, and hope that some good fruit will come of my humble labors.

I have from the start followed what seemed to be the leadings of the Lord's hand, and have thus preached to many that I had no thought of visiting. Three strange brethren, in three Eastern States, sent me by mail $5, $2 and $1 respectively, just in time for me to answer Bro. R. H. Gresham's call for help to work in this field. By getting half fare on the railroads, this money paid my way up here. With the proceeds of the sale of books sent me from the Crisis Office, and the small contributions made by the way, I think I will get back home with my finances about as I started.

I see in the Crisis that you acknowledge the receipt of a Christmas present for me. Thanks to the Lord for all such gifts, whether for Christmas or other times of need.

I expect, the Lord willing, to close the labors of this tour about the 10th of Jan., when I hope to rest a little with my family, and see them provided for, if possible, another month or two, while I further proclaim the Advent message. It seems to me that we are nearing the end, and no time is to be lost. Yours in the labor of love,

Long Island, Ala. J. J. SMITH.

BRO. S. S. BREWER.

I visited Bro. Brewer the last day of the year; found him hopeful and happy in the faith, having had a wonderful deliverance from what looked like a speedy victory of death over him; but prayer has prevailed, and he is fast recovering, hoping still to live and see the King come in glory. Dearly beloved, remember him in your prayers, for it will be some time before he will be able to preach in the highways and hedges.

Chelsea, Jan. 4th, 1875. L. BOUTELL.

DEATH OF DR. TISCHENDORF.

The foreign mails bring intelligence of the death, on the 1st of December, of Dr. Lobegott F. K. Tischendorf, the well known German theologian and Bible student. Dr. Tischendorf was born at Lengenfield, Saxony, in January, 1815, and graduated in 1838 at the University of Leipsic. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity when only twenty-eight years old.

In 1840 he was commissioned by the Government of Saxony to collect materials for a revised critical edition of the Greek Testament. His researches, undertaken for this purpose, carried him into all parts of Europe and the East, and he brought back with him copies of the most ancient manuscript translations of the Scriptures to be found in the great libraries, some of which, through his edition, reached the theologians of Western Europe for the first time.

With how much faithfulness and thoroughness he labored, and how great was the value of the edition of the Greek Testament resulting from his labors, it is hardly necessary to say; since his work has long since been accepted among scholars as a standard authority, and has proved to be a most useful auxiliary in the work of Biblical criticism and investigation. In a later journey, undertaken under the auspices of the Russian Government, he discovered a manuscript, on vellum, containing several books of the Old Testament, the Epistle to Barnabas, and the Pastor of Hermas, and also the only complete copy of the New Testament Scriptures extant from the fourth to the ninth century. This manuscript is regarded as the first in importance of any now known and its study has resulted in many modifications of religious belief.

Dr. Tischendorf, at the time of his death, occupied the chair of Theology and Biblical Literature at Liepsic. The world loses in him a faithful student, who has accomplished more in his department than any man now living.—Boston Journal.

Correspondence.

From N. B. McMurphy.

Another year, with its labors and trials, is nearly expired, and amid the toils and temptations incident to this life, the Lord has bestowed many rich blessings. I feel that praise, honor, and glory is due to our heavenly Father for his goodness to me and mine during the year. For while very many of our friends and associates have been called away from the scenes of earth by the enemy—death—our lives have been spared, and I have been permitted to labor a great part of the time in my Master's vineyard, trying to carry the glad news of salvation and the coming kingdom to the scattered ones, and visiting the sick, etc.

The Lord has wonderfully blest us as a neighborhood in raising a little company of true and faithful laborers. Although not all Adventists by name, yet we are all one in Christ Jesus and in effort and interest for the good of the cause. Our social meetings are blessed and profitable seasons.

Beloved brethren and sisters scattered abroad, may we not lift our heads and rejoice, knowing that our redemption draweth near? The prospects are brightening, the signs are fulfilling, and the bright morning will soon dawn. Our labors and trials will soon end and we will go in to enjoy the rest that remains for the faithful ones.

Pray for me that I may be faithful to my mission and meet you where partings will be unknown.

Gilmanton, N. H., Dec. 1874.

From Sr. H. A. Linden.

Editors of the World's Crisis:—Dear Brethren,—It has been my belief for several years that, when we shall hear the cry—"The armies are marching against Rome," we shall have but a short time longer for prayer. And by the mutterings and threatenings which we hear from the Pope and the nations of Europe, I think we are now very near that time, and the kind, the strong, the true One, is coming to execute righteous judgment in the earth.

From Bro. R. F. Clark.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive."

There are many in this section of Kansas who are very destitute on account of the locust plague and drouth. There is much suffering, and many can help in one way or another.

We acknowledge the receipt of six barrels of clothing from Lowell, also $15 to pay freight. God bless and reward the donors. Anything sent us will be judiciously distributed,—money, cast-off clothing, or anything that will alleviate suffering. Also reading matter—tracts or papers—are great helps to spread the truth. They are in fact silent preachers. God is blessing our labors, and sinners are coming to Jesus. Pray for us.

Peach Creek, Washington, Kan.

A. C. Times, please copy.

From Bro. W. C. Stewart.

Dear Editors and Friends in Christ:—I am still in Exeter, N. H., where I shall remain for the present. I have contemplated moving to Addison, Vt., to settle; but my wife's health will not admit of our moving at present. I am still striving to serve the Lord and preach Jesus to a dying world; and to the praise of God I would say, I think I have seen several souls hopefully converted to Christ. Pray for us. This is from your Bro. in hope of life.

From Bro. H. G. McCulloch.

Dear Brethren:—The Lord is graciously reviving his work in the Madison St. Church. A goodly number have embraced the Savior, and others are inquiring the way to Jesus. Pray for us.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 21st, 1874.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—Our last Quarterly Meeting, held with the little church at Wyoming, was a good one, though there was but a small representation from abroad. The spirit of unity and love prevailed. The interest among the unbelievers seemed to demand continued labor; so Bro. Collins and myself stayed and labored over a week; during which time four, we trust, were converted and the church somewhat revived.

E. BELLOWS.

Married.

BROWNELL—DOUGLASS. In Hoosick, Dec. 24th, 1874, by Eld. R. L. Harrison, Mr. SIDNEY BROWNELL, of Pittstown, N. Y., and Miss ISOLA DOUGLASS, of Hoosick, N. Y.

BLANCHARD—PACKARD. In Plainfield, Mass., Dec. 19th, 1874 at the residence of the bride's parents, by Eld. Isaac Blanchard, Mr. OLIVER BLANCHARD and Miss JULIA D. PACKARD, both of Plainfield.

BLAISDELL—YOUNG. In Rochester, N. H., Dec. 22d, by Eld. J. H. F. Varney, Mr. GEORGE W. BLAISDELL, of Rochester, and Miss EMMA A. YOUNG, of Strafford, N. H.

Obituaries.

MEGGUIRE. In Saco, Me., Oct. 25th, 1874, Sr. Hannah, wife of Bro. John Megguire, aged 80 years.

For some thirty years Sr. M. has been waiting, watching, and hoping for the coming of the Lord; and though hope seemed deferred, and she had to pass through the dark river, her faith did not fail. The Christ she had loved and served, and whose servants had so often found a welcome at her pilgrim home, was near to comfort, and she fell on sleep with the hope of soon awaking in his likeness.

Bro. and Sr. M. were formerly of West Poland, Me., and their pilgrim home is remembered by many as one where the servant of Christ found rest and help; but it is lonely now, and wife and mother is gone, and Bro. M. has lost a companion who was truly a partner of his toil and care. May the Lord bless and comfort him in his lonely hours.

JESSE GAY.

Sister Megguire was truly a mother in Israel. We never experienced more hearty christian greetings than on crossing the threshold of her door. When we first visited Bro. M.'s peaceful home upon the hillside, and the loving family gathered around the old hearth-stone, there was Sister M.'s sainted mother, with her Bible in her hand, Bro. and Sr. M., as loving and true as Zecheriah and Elizabeth, with their three daughters, enjoying the sweetness of holy sympathy, and all feasting upon the richest blessings of life—the love of God. But oh, the change! Death has hurled his darts at the shining marks, and the aged mother reverently laid down the sacred Book, and folded her hands in an undisturbed sleep. Two of the daughters grappled in fearful conflict with the relentless foe, and fell with their faces toward Zion. Now the wife and mother, after serving Christ, her family and generation as a faithful christian, and after having her heart repeatedly broken by partings from dear ones, offers her last prayer, bids all adieu, and sinks under the dark wave, to rise again at the bidding of Jesus.

May the Divine benediction rest upon the surviving husband, who has lived to see his happy family broken and scattered, and may he be cheered with the hope of a reunion on the fadeless shore of Eden.

J. C.

FARNHAM. Fell asleep in Jesus at South Newburgh, Me., Sr. Lucy Farnham, wife of Bro. Chas. Farnham, aged 73 years.

Sr. Farnham was one whose religion consisted more in deed than word; and those who knew her best prized her the highest. But when her work was done, she longed to fall asleep, expecting in a very little while Jesus, the Life Giver, would come and give eternal life to his people. We endeavored to comfort the friends with the blessed hope set before us in the gospel.

GEO. W. BROWN.

ASHTON. In Georgeville, R. I., Nov. 4th, 1874, Bro. Samuel B. Ashton, aged 76 years.

Bro. Ashton gave his heart to the Savior while in his youth, and "in patience possessed his soul" through many long years of trial. He sleeps now, "but not forever." Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from 1 Thess. 4: 13.

JOSEPH MIETT.

SPAULDING. In West Waterville, Me., Nov. 17th, 1874, Catherine Brooks, wife of Joseph Spaulding, aged 70 years.

Thus another has passed away. She sleeps in Jesus.

E. N. MORSE.

BRADFORD. In Cabot, Vt., of diphtheria, Nov. 9th, 1874, Nellie T. Bradford, aged five years, nine months. Also, Nov. 22d, Mary A. Bradford, aged two years, four months, children of Shipley and Abbie Bradford.

Death is doing his work, and Christ is gathering in the gems for his crown. Words of consolation were spoken by the writer.

E. N. MORSE.

SALSBURY. In Hindsburgh, Orleans Co., N. Y., Dec. 6th, 1874, of paralysis, Mary D. Salsbury, wife of H. L. Salsbury.

The funeral sermon was from Ps. 88: 18,—"Lover and friend hast thou put far from me, and mine acquaintance into darkness."

H. L. SALSBURY.

ALLEN. At the residence of Daniel Newton, in Holliston, Dec. 20th, 1874, Sr. Martha R. Allen, aged 68 years.

She embraced the coming of the Lord in 1843, and has gone down to the grave with a good hope.

ADDITIONAL details of the burning of the Cospatrick only increase the horror of that disaster. The fire seems to have spread with such rapidity that the vessel was burning from end to end before a half hour had elapsed after the flames were discovered. Of course the five hundred people on board—for there were nearly that number—were panic stricken; and it will strike the reader as being an awful thing that only two boats, carrying thirty persons each, got away from the ship. These staid by the burning vessel from the midnight of Nov. 17th until the 19th, when the wreck sunk. Out of these sixty persons only five lived to tell the tale of their woes and sufferings. No such calamity as this has been known in many years.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Madrid, Dec. 30. Gen. Martinez Campos has pronounced in favor of Prince Alfonso, (son of Ex-Queen Isabella), and with two battalions of soldiers is at Murvidro, in the Province of Valencia. A portion of the Republican Army of the Centre has been withdrawn from the pursuit of the Carlists to march against him.

Santander, Dec. 31. The Governor of Santander has resigned. The town is quiet. The navy is favorable to Prince Alfonso. Marshal Serrano has gone to Madrid.

Paris, Dec. 31. It is reported that the wife of Don Alfonso has crossed the frontier into Spain.

A dispatch from Madrid under to-day's date says Prince Alfonzo has been proclaimed King of Spain, and is recognized by all the forces comprising the armies of the north and centre.

Constantinople, Dec. 31. Since the famine set in in Asia Minor 50,000 persons have migrated from various parts of the country to the city of Adana, half of whom have since succumbed to disease. The strange climate, distress, and the extreme rapaciousness of the tax gatherers aggravate the mortality.

Vienna, Dec. 31. In consequence of a very heavy fall of snow, many of the railroads in Austria have wholly or partially discontinued traffic. Freight traffic is at a stand-still throughout the country. Communication between this city and Prague is entirely interrupted. Trieste is isolated landward and seaward.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Salt Lake City, Dec. 30. An explosion occurred in a coal mine near Evanstown, Wyoming Territory, yesterday, and eight persons were killed.

Portland, Me. A dispatch to the Argus states that a young man named Walter Abbott, belonging in Rumford, was found dead in the road near that place this morning, shot through the body and with three stabs in the breast. His pockets were rifled and his team stolen.

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 27. No topic has for years so exercised the religious community in this city as that of church fairs just now, with particular reference to disposing of prizes by numbered tickets. Two clergymen to-day preached on the subject to crowded houses, one condemning the other defending the system. Until week before last this plan of raising money had only been tried by Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and St. John's Hospital, all realizing handsome sums. The First Universalist society tried the plan and cleared four thousand dollars. Now a Baptist society announces a similar fair. Some pronounced action by the clergy is intimated against schemes which are forbidden by law.

FIRES.—An incendiary fire at Clarendon, Ark., loss $50,000; Pittsburg, Penn., loss $25,000; Baltimore, loss $40,000; New York, loss $500,000; Lanesville, Mass., loss $60,000; Brooklyn, N. Y., loss $100,000; Newport, Ky., loss $34,000; Southbridge, Mass., loss $70,000; Balesville, Ind., loss $125,000; Quebec, loss $75,000.

THREE MEN KILLED BY NITRO GLYCERINE.—A dreadful catastrophe occurred to three men Wednesday noon on the farm of Thomas Stewart in Martic township. It seems that a man named Philip Cramer and his sons, James and John, residing between the York furnace and McCall's ferry, near the mouth of Reed's Run, went out into the woods to cut wood, going in their course above the railroad. As they did not return home when dinner time arrived, search was at once instituted, and the horrifying fact became known that two of them, the father and son James, had been blown to atoms, shreds of flesh and bits of bone being picked up for squares away from the scene of the disaster. John, the other son, was found dead in a shed near by, where it is supposed he had crawled to die. How the accident occurred will never be positively known, but it has been ascertained that the railroad hands left a ninety-six pound can of nitro-glycerine standing near by, which is supposed to have been frozen, and in that state it is said the explosive powers are more severe than ever. In chopping the tree, a chip thrown against the can would be sufficient to cause the glycerine to explode, and it is probable that this is the way the affair occurred. The force of the explosion was so great that a hole was rent in the earth sufficiently large for a four-horse team to stand in without being seen.

In Brief.

— The Carlist chief Lozano was executed on Thursday in Albacete in spite of powerful efforts to save him and of the Carlist menace to take sanguinary reprisals. This just act of the Government is much applauded by the public. Nothing is yet fixed as to Marshal Serrano's departure.

— The Archbishop of Cologne has again been fined 30,000 thalers.

— It is estimated that 474 lives were lost by the burning of the ship Cospatrick.

— McMahon's affiliation with the Ultramontanes is causing not a little indignation and surprise in certain quarters in France.

— The barque Amity, of Bath, Me., foundered at sea recently; twenty-one lives were lost.

Notices.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—I would say to the churches west of the Mississippi River that, after the 1st of January, A. D. 1875, I desire to locate for six months or a year with any church or churches who may be desirous of some minister locating among them. I would state that I am not what the world calls a "big gun." I advocate (1) the coming of the Lord being near,—but not any stated time. (2) His coming the time of reward both of the righteous and unrighteous. (3) Immortality and eternal life a gift by Christ to be given to those who by patience seek for it. (4) The wicked will finally perish in their own corruption, and lose all conscious being. (5) The earth the final abode of the "spirits of just men made perfect." (6) Full compliance with the commands of God's word necessary to the believer in order to pass from the stream of time into the boundless ocean of eternity to mingle with the society of the redeemed. And furthermore, wherever I may be called to labor, there I devote myself and time to the best interest of the society to promote unity and peace, and the advancement of the cause in general. Any who desire to give me a home among them, and recompense me for my time reasonably, will please address me at Wellington, Sumner Co., Kansas, Box 104.

V. F. HUNT.

A REQUEST.—Will the Bro. who wrote to me from Penn., to whom I replied that it was impossible for me to respond to his call at present for a series of meetings, please give me his address again, as I have lost it, and I may arrange soon to be there. To many who have written me during the fall, to whom I have not replied, I would say, I see no way of encouragement in regard to a visit or a series of meetings. I am in the vineyard doing work for the Lord as best I can. Pray for me. Your Bro., A. P. MOORE, Linden, Genesee Co., N. Y.

DEDICATION.—The new Chapel at Hinesburg, Vt., will be dedicated Wednesday, Jan. 13th, and a meeting will continue on as the Lord directs. Efficient preachers will be present. Brethren from abroad are requested to come.

A. A. HOYT, for the Church.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The second session of the Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference will meet with the church at Gardiner, Booker meeting-house, on Thursday evening, Jan. 14th, and hold over Sunday. Come, brethren and sisters, one and all, to work for God and save sinners.

H. D. REED, President.
H. S. MITCHELL, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The semi-annual Conference of the Advent Christian churches of the Pacific coast will convene at the Eddy St. Chapel, San Francisco, Thursday, Jan. 14th, 1875, and continue over the following Lord's day. It is expected that Elder Miles Grant and all the preaching brethren of this Conference will be present. A full representation of all the churches is earnestly desired.

ALFRED M. SEABURY, Secretary.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Conference of Nova Scotia will be held at Litchfield, Annapolis Co., commencing Thursday, Jan. 21st, and continue over the following Lord's day. All are invited. Come and work for the Lord.

J. J. WOODWORTH.

CHANGE.—On account of the ill health of my wife, I have moved to the town of Bowdoin, Me., about six miles from my former place of residence, and my Post Office address will be Bowdoinham, Me. Any one wanting my labor can write me at that place, as I expect to devote my whole time to preaching, especially in new places.

H. S. MITCHELL.

DISCUSSION.—We have arranged to hold a discussion at Springvale, Me., with C. B. Phillips, on the following subject:

Resolved, That man, after passing through the change called death, is a conscious individuality. C. B. Phillips affirmative, H. S. Pinkham negative.

It will commence Jan. 14th, and hold two evenings.

H. S. PINKHAM.

Quarterly Conference.

A Quarterly Session of the Mass. Advent Christian Conference will be holden in Hammond Hall, Natick, Mass, to commence Wednesday evening, Jan. 6th, 1875, and continue over the following Sunday. Let there be a large gathering of preachers and people at this meeting. Come, brethren, to Natick, bringing the love of God and his truth with you. Come, let us mingle together in conference with the flock at Natick, exhort, and pray for one another, and do what we can to build up Christ's cause, and spread the light, and save the people. Let us commence the year in earnest effort, and expectation that our hope may be realized speedily. Per order of Committee.

C. E. BARNES, Secretary.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

A quarterly session of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hebron, N. Y., commencing Jan. 20th, 1875, and continue over the following Sunday.

The church at Hebron extends a hearty invitation to all the lovers of truth, to come and enjoy this feast. It is earnestly requested that every member of the Conference make a special effort to be present, and that the churches and delegates do not fail to attend to this in season. We want a full representation from our churches. Those coming by R. R. will purchase tickets to Ruport, where they will find teams to take them to the place of meeting free of charge. Trains going North arrive at Ruport 8.30 A. M., and those going South at 11.30 A. M. Those coming on the early train will be under the necessity of waiting till the arrival of the 11.30 train before being conveyed to the place of meeting. Let us all pray that God will greatly bless this quarterly session, and that Hebron may be shaken by the Spirit and power of God as never before, and that similar results may follow as has been witnessed at Hoosick since the annual session.

A. W. SIBLEY, Pres.
W. O. HIGLEY, Sec.

Protracted Meeting in Boston

is still continued at Repository Hall (formerly Hampshire Hall), corner of Washington and Kneeland Sts. Preaching three times Sundays, and every evening but Saturday, by Wm. C. Stewart, H. L. Hastings, and others. Some are seeking the Lord. May their number be increased.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Second Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Q. C. of N. W. Kansas will be held, the Lord willing, with the A. C. church of Athens, Jewell Co., commencing Jan. 14th, 1875, 7 o'clock P. M., and holding over Sunday, Jan. 17th. The place of meeting will be the residence of Bro. S. Wood, on Limestone Creek, west side, one and one fourth miles south of the Jewell Co. line, in Mitchell Co.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who love Jesus and the truth to meet with us. Let all come to this meeting who can, and work for the Lord; and those who cannot come, pray for its success. For the Conference,

J. S. THORP, Secretary.

NOTICE.—I have removed from my former place of residence (Rochester) to this place,—Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.,—where brethren and friends can address me until further notice. I expect my labors for the present to be confined to this circuit,—Ontario, Furnaceville, and Ontario Centre, and very soon at Williamson. Three places every Sabbath. The Lord is with us to bless.

JAS. E. WELLS.

NOTICE.—As my time is not all filled up, and having a desire to do what I can till the Master comes, I would say that I will go and preach the gospel of the kingdom as the Lord may open the way. Any wishing to correspond with me, will please address E. H. EGGLESTON, Keeneyville, Tioga Co., Penn.

TO VERMONTERS.—At our annual conference at Bethel, the State Committee were urged to carry the gospel of the kingdom into every new field which opened a door, and especially to offer a week of labor for any five dollars pledged by an isolated brother or sister living in a new field. This was to encourage individual effort and sacrifice on the part of the isolated. We want to hear immediately from those places where labors are desired, that we may make due arrangements to meet the demands. If you are too poor to raise five dollars, and yet the door is open for a meeting, write us just the same as though you raised the money. Write to me at Waterbury, Vt., or to A. A. Hoyt, Plainfield, Vt. Write full particulars of circumstances, people, time, and place. Write soon.

H. F. CARPENTER, President of Conference.

REMOVAL.—"The Biblical Messenger" office is now removed from Plainfield to Waterbury, Vt., where our paper will be published hereafter. All communications for this office should be addressed to THE BIBLICAL MESSENGER, Waterbury, Vt.

A. A. HOYT.

P. S.—When you send private letters, direct to A. A. Hoyt, and write private on the corner of the envelope.

A. A. H.

HAVING moved from Fonthill, Canada, Ont., to Utica, Mich., I would say to the brethren that I purpose, the coming winter (the Lord willing), to labor in the cause of my Master by holding forth the gospel of the coming kingdom, as the Lord may open the way. Brethren wishing my services will please address HENRY STEVENS, Utica, Mich., McComb Co.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass.

H. F. CARPENTER.

J. G. SMITH and J. W. WHITE will preach in Farmington, N. H., two Sundays in each month, as long as it seems duty. J. G. Smith the first, and J. W. White the third.

To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in Lawrence, Mass., please correspond with the following Com.: J. T. Merrill, Isaac Nickerson, P. T. Watson, Charles Dow. They will find a home with Bro. Geo. H. Churchill, No. 16 Valley St.

Those wishing to preach in East Weymouth, Mass., will please correspond with either Charles Helems, of Hingham Centre, Mass., or Alonzo Manuel, of East Weymouth, Mass., before sending their appointments.

Those wishing to preach in Rochester Village, N. H., will please correspond with Eld. Jonathan Horn, or Nath'l. Dorman.

Those wishing to preach in Lyman, Me., can correspond with Bro. J. R. Tripp, Alfred, Me.

Those wishing to preach at Southbridge, Mass. (Town Hall), please correspond with L. H. Benson.

Those wishing to labor with the Second Advent church of Hebron, N. Y., will please correspond with Warren Howard.

Those wishing to preach at Bonny Eagle, Me., will please correspond with Orrin Smith.

Those wishing to preach in Bath, Me., must first correspond with James Ham or Wm. Blaisdell, committee.

Those wishing to preach in Bristol, Conn., will please correspond with H. A. Way, H. P. Bradley, or B. Hitchcock.

Those wishing to preach in North Adams, Mass., please correspond with C. N. Pike, Box 672.

Those wishing to preach at West Stowe, will please correspond with Eld. H. W. Williams, Stowe, Vt.

Those wishing to preach in Rochester, N. Y., will please correspond with J. S. Maynard, 66 Lorimer St., or A. G. Andrews, 28 Comfort St., Rochester, N. Y.

Those wishing to preach at Steep Falls, Me., will please correspond with either of the following committee: C. H. Sweet, J. R. Foss, and W. H. Anderson.

Those wishing to preach at Bridgewater, Vt., please correspond with A. L. Dinsmore.

Those wishing to preach in Kennebunkport, will please correspond with A. A. Robinson, C. E. Clough, or H. A. Mitchell.

Those wishing to preach at East Canaan, N. H., please correspond with E. G. Mudgett, as he

Those wishing to preach in Hallowell, Me., will please correspond with Simeon Small and Alfred Gowell.

☞ Preaching brethren going to Great Falls, N. H., will please call on Bro. Joseph K. Nash, No. 48 Maine Street.

THAT BOOK.

"History of the Second Advent Message, Doctrine and People."

(From H. B. Eaton, M. D.)

"To say that I am pleased in the perusal of the 'History of the Advent Message' does not half express my satisfaction. The concise arrangement, the happy thoughts, the expositions of those texts, so much neglected by the churches, that tell us where we are, what we are, and what we shall be, all made so plain as to banish all doubt, and bid us look with more earnest longings for Christ's coming, without a chance for disappointment, with the light which now shines on the prophetic page, all made so clear in this 'History' that it seems to me you have placed the whole Advent people under many and lasting obligations to you. I pray that it may have such a circulation, be so much read by all denominations, and people everywhere, that it shall add largely to the number saved in the kingdom of God."

For sale at the Crisis Office. Price $3.50.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
John G. Hook........Sunday, Jan. 10th, and onward

BOSTON (Hampshire Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Wednesday evenings.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
J. Couch........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Will preach on the prophecies.
Wm. C. Stewart........Sunday, Jan. 17th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

New Durham, N. H........Sabbath, Jan. 10th
East Rochester, N. H.....Monday evening, Jan. 11th
Portland, Me........Tuesday evening, Jan. 12th
Lewiston, Me........Wednesday evening, Jan. 13th
Fairfield, Me........Thursday evening, Jan. 14th
Augusta, Me. (where Bro. Low may arrange) Saturday evening, Jan. 16th, and over the Lord's day.
Corinna, Me........Monday evening, Jan. 18th
Hermon, Me........Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th
Orrington, Me. (as Bro. John Brackett may arrange) Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th.
Bangor, Me........Thursday evening, Jan. 21st
A. ROSS.

New Bedford, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Plymouth, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. GOODRICH.

Wilbraham, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Warehousepoint, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Putnam, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 24th
H. PRATT.

New Haven, Ct........Sabbath, Jan. 10th
H. MUNGER.

Newmarket, N. H. (Littlefield's Crossing) Saturday evening, Jan. 16th, and over Sunday, Jan. 17th.
ENOCH MORRILL.

Gloucester, Mass........Sabbath, Jan. 10th
S. HALE.

Natick Mass........Sunday, Jan. 24th
WM. C. STEWART.

Athol, Mass.......Sabbaths, Jan. 10th, 17th, and 24th
ROLAND D. GRANT.

Plymouth, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Putnam, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Tremont, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. S. WHITE.

Mattapoisett, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Keene, N. H........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Warehousepoint, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Scitico........Sunday, Jan. 17th
(Not engaged Jan. 24th.)
Scitico, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. C. SMITH.

Montgomery........Sabbath, Jan. 17th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

North Haverhill, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Warren Summit, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. M. LITTLE.

Belmont, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Danbury, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Will Bro. D. W. Davis arrange one week's labor for me in Sutton, N. H., or vicinity, commencing Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th? Bro. Davis is requested to be with me.
New Durham Ridge, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. G. SMITH.

Meredith Neck........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Moultonboro Neck........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Melvin Village........Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. PIPER.

Farmington, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 31st
WM. BODGE.

West Deerfield, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
JOHN B. PAINE.

Lynn, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
J. HILL.

Franklin, N. H........evenings, Jan. 7th, 8th and 9th, and Sunday, Jan. 10th.
C. H. FLETCHER.
G. H. WALLACE.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)......Sabbath, Jan. 10th
Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sabbath, Jan. 31st.
C. W. NELSON.

Madison, N. H. (Lord school-house) Sunday, Jan. 10th
The ordinance of baptism will be attended to.
N. GLIDDEN.

Farmington, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Salem, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Newcastle, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Northwood, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Canaan, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dorchester (Town House)........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Warren Summit........Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H........Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
C. K. PARSONS.

Melvin Village, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Springvale, Me........Sunday, Jan. 3d
C. E. HURD.

Palmer, Mass........3d Sunday in each month
Wilbraham, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 7th
H. H. TUCKER.

Lake Village, N. H........Sabbath, Jan. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)........Sabbath, Jan. 24th
SIMEON ROBY.

10th (Milldale) District school-house, Southington, Sunday, Jan. 10th.
South Elliott, Me........Sunday, Jan. 17th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Massena, N. Y........10½ A. M. and 1 P. M., Jan. 10th
Nation school-house........6½ P. M., Jan. 17th
C. PIKE.

Holden, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 17th
F. H. BURBANK.

Southbridge, Mass.......Sundays, Jan. 10th and 17th
J. W. BRIDGE.

East Pepperill, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
South Ashburnham, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 17th
F. M. DRAKE.

Washington, Me. (Colomore Ridge) Sunday, Jan. 10th
Friendship, Me........Sunday, Jan. 17th
JER. CARR.

Danbury, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
WM. H. SHAW.

Rutland, Vt........evening, Jan. 7th
Addison, Vt........Sundays, Jan. 10th and 17th
At other places as the door opens in the vicinity.
GEO. A. STREETER.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
LEVI ALLEN.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Jan. 10th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Bowdoin, Me........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Lewiston, Me........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Oxford, Me. (as Bro. G. L. Tracy may arrange) Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th, and over Sunday, the 31st.
H. S. MITCHELL.

East Union, Me........evening, Jan. 15th
South Hope.....evening, Jan. 16th, and over Sunday
Rockville........evenings, Jan. 19th and 20th
Rockland........Jan. 21st, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

North Easton, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. W. RATHBUN.

Salisbury, N. H. (where Bro. Couch may appoint) Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th.
Meredith Centre, N. H. (as Bro. N. Glidden may appoint) Sunday, Jan. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) eve., Jan. 27th
East Holderness, N. H. (Stevens meeting-house) Sunday, Jan. 30th.
W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Kennebunk Depot........Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. R. TRIPP.

East Concord, N. H. (Varney school-house) Sunday, Jan. 10th.
R. MORRILL.

Seneca Falls, N. Y........Sunday, Jan 10th
T. T. FARRELL.

Bean's Corner........Sunday, Jan. 10th
H. B. SEVEY.

Warren, Vt........Sunday, Jan. 10th
H. B. QUIMBY.

Natick, Mass., evening, Feb. 2d, through the week, and Sunday, Feb. 7th.
E. OWEN.

East Roxbury, Vt........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Hinesburg, Vt........Wednesday, Jan. 13th
Waterbury, Vt........Sunday, Jan. 17th
A. A. HOYT.

South Rochester, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Guilford, N. H. (as Bro. Wilkerson may appoint) evenings, Jan. 13th and 14th.
Piermont, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Please meet me at Wentworth Friday P. M.
North Haverhill, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Groton, Vt........Sunday, Jan. 31st
MRS. J. DAVIS.

Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun., Jan. 10th
Hall Stream (Red school-house) Tuesday evening, Jan. 12th.
Dixville, P. Q........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Newville, P. Q........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Patton, P. Q. (Garland school-house)..Sun., Jan. 31st
Barford, P. Q. (Kenney school-house)..Sun., Feb. 7th
U. G. LADD.

East Rochester, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. T. LIBBEY.

New Market, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 24th
J. L. CHUTE.

Scitico, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Cheshire Street........Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. L. WHITE.

Stanstead (Searls school-house) Sunday, Jan. 10th, at 10.30 A. M. and 1 P. M. (Newville school-house) 6.30 P. M.
L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Hatley (Old Meeting-house)........Sunday, Jan. 10th
M. MCKINSTRY.

Danville, Sunday, Jan. 17th, evenings through the ensuing week, and over the Sabbath, Jan. 24th.
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

North Scarboro, Me. (Free meeting-house) Sunday, Jan. 10th.
C. H. SWEET.

Warrensville, Pa........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Nicholson, Wyoming Co., Pa., commence the 15th, and continue over Sunday.
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Springvale, Me........Sunday, Jan. 17th
S. HAWKINS.

St. George........Friday evening, Jan. 8th and over Sunday, Jan. 10th.
Will Bro. Hatham or Stone make arrangements to go with me to St. George?
H. S. MITCHELL.

Stafford (Works school-house)........Sunday, Jan. 10th
PORTER J. SMITH.

Oxford, Me. (Richville school-house)..Sun., Jan. 10th
West Poland (Chapel)........Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. L. TRACY.

Barnard, Vt........evening, Jan. 9th and onward as the Lord directs.
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Orrington Corner, Me...Sundays, Jan. 10th and 17th
Ellingwoods Corner, Me., Conference, Saturday, at two o'clock, and over Sunday.
GEO. W. BROWN.

Bayonne, N. J........Sunday, Jan. 10th
WM. SHEPHERD.

East Holderness, N. H., Sabbath day and evening, Jan. 17th.
Hardhack (Baptist church)........Monday eve., Jan. 18th
Holderness (True school-house) Tuesday eve., Jan. 19th
Holderness (Cox school-house)........evening, Jan. 20th
Holderness (Prescott school-house)....eve., Jan. 21st
Ashland (Pease school-house)........evening, Jan. 22d
New Hampton (Plaisted school-house) eve., Jan. 23d
Ashland (Pease school-house)........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Ashland (Town Hall)......Sunday evening, Jan. 24th
JOSEPH HARVEY.

Reynolds, Ga........Sunday, Jan. 10th, and evenings through the week.
P. G. BOWMAN.
A. SIMPSON.

Northfield, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Tuesday evening, Jan. 12th, at Bro. Ansel Collars.
Sunday, Jan. 17th, and evenings, as Brn. may appoint.
Vernon, Vt........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Windsorville, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 31st
and evenings, as Bro. St. Clair may appoint.
F. W. CLOUGH.

Biddeford, Me........evenings, Jan. 12th and 13th
South Livermore, Me........Sunday, Jan. 17th
North Norway, Me........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Harrison, Me........Sunday, Jan. 31st
L. L. HOWARD.

Densmore Hill, Vt........Sabbath, Jan. 17th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

No. Sutton, N. H. (at Bro. I. Andrews) Sun., Jan 10th
S. JULIA BUSWELL.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
F. H. Burbank........Sunday, Jan. 10th
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. Cunningham........Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st

LOWELL, MASS.
B. S. Emery........Sunday, Jan. 10th
J. Harvey........Sunday, Jan. 24th
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. Munger........Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery........Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. Munger........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
J. M. Orrock........Sunday, Jan. 10th
John Couch........Sunday, Jan. 17th
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, Jan. 31st
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Feb. 7th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Feb. 14th
A. Ross........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter........Sunday, March 14th
John Couch........Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer........Sunday, March 28th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
G. L. Teeple........Sunday, Jan. 10th
E. Phelps........Sunday, Jan. 17th
H. H. Tucker........Sunday, Jan. 24th

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)....Sunday, Jan. 10th
D. Churchill........Sunday, Jan. 17th
John Parsons........Sunday, Jan. 24th
H. Pratt........Sunday, Jan. 31st

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
T. L. Howard........Sunday, Jan. 10th
G. H. Wallace........Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Jan. 24th
J. Whitman........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. W. Allen........Sunday, Jan. 10th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
T. L. Churchill........Sunday, Jan. 10th
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, Jan. 17th
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Feb. 7th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Feb. 10th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Feb. 28th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Jan. 10th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, Jan. 17th

HAMPTON, N. H.
C. Richardson........Sunday, Jan. 10th
T. L. Churchill........Sunday, Jan. 17th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, Jan. 24th
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, Jan. 31st

SEABROOK, N. H.
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, Jan. 10th
D. F. Leavitt........Sundays, Jan. 17th and 24th
J. T. Chamberlin........Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. Owen........Sunday, Feb. 21st

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
C. H. Fletcher........Sunday, Jan. 10th
W. W. Sutherland........Sunday, Jan. 17th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Jan. 31st

RYE, N. H.
E. B. Wells........Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. B. Wells........Sunday, Jan. 31st

DOVER, N. H.
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Joseph W. White........Sunday, Jan. 24th

NEW DURHAM RIDGE, N. H.
A. Ross........Sunday, Jan. 10th
A. Kidder........Sunday, Jan. 17th

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. W. White........Sunday, Jan. 10th
J. T. Libbey........Sunday, Feb. 14th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Feb. 21st

LEWISTON, ME.
C. Goud........Sunday, Jan. 10th
J. A. Libby........Sunday, Jan. 17th
J. Whitman........Sunday, Jan. 24th
O. W. Kimball........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Geo. W. Sederquest......Sundays, Jan. 10th and 17th
A. Ross........Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
T. W. Piper........Sundays, Jan. 10th
E. A. Stockman........Sundays, Jan. 17th and 24th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
W. H. Mitchell........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Jer. Hill........Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. F. Haines........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. H. Sweet........Sunday, Jan. 31st

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Jan. 10th
Jesse Gay........Sunday, Jan. 17th
B. S. Emery........Sunday, Jan. 24th
A. A. Robinson........Sunday, Jan. 31st

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
Joseph W. White........Sunday, Jan. 31st

ALFRED, ME.
A. A. Robinson........Sabbath, Jan. 10th
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, Jan. 17th
Jer. Hill........Sabbath, Jan. 24th

SOUTH ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, Jan. 10th—24th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
E. F. Morse........Sunday, Jan. 10th
E. L. Crumb........Sunday, Feb. 7th

BRISTOL, CT.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, Jan. 10th

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

GREENPOINT, L. I., N. Y., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Excelsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.

ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Religious services are held in Green Street Tabernacle every Sunday morning and evening, and prayer meetings every Wednesday evening, by brethren who look for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ in glory. Preachers wishing to correspond are requested to address L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison Street.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.

THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.

G. E. MERRILL, Com.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 123 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.

☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.

☞ E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N. H.

☞ ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C., until further notice.

☞ H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.

☞ ELD. H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.

☞ JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—J C King, C W Low, W J Ketcham, Mrs M C Cogswell, S F Rogers, A B Swanesburg, James Soper, Frank N. Smith, D K Barrett, Jr., J P Davis, A P Moore, A C Newell, Geo W Foster, E A Bartlett, E Knight, J A Smith, C S Branch, P G Bowman, A H Robbins, E F Sergisson, G W Stetson, L S Howard, J M Snook, C Keve, D Eastman.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—Hattie T Hoxie 20c, J W Hayworth 50c, H S Pinkham $1.00, J E Gifford 75c, A H Armstrong 20c, Geo Tilley $3.50, S N Gurney 20c, W O Higley $1 00, H A Hitchcock 25c, H Holden $5 00, E B Trask $3 90, A Fritz 50c, L Tiffany 20c, J Merriam 8c, D K Barrett Jr $3.00, J D Dunning 31c, S Hayward $1 00, L Churchill $3 50, M Bradley $2 30, J Dav son 25c, J Taylor 25c, J Lowery 50c, M A Wellman $4.00, Jno Robinson 20c, N P Whitney $5 00, S L Julian $1.00, Miss E C Deming 15c, J A Smith 50c, W Chapman $4.50, L Nutting 90c, J L Warman 45c, W J Bostwick 17c, G W Stetson $5.80, J G Parkes 40c, S Parker 25c, J M Snook $1.25, W R Chandler 25c, J E Wells $4.12.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail.—D Winter (2 pack), P Vos (2 pack), C Peverly, W F Fahnestock, H S Pinkham, J W Hayworth, A H Armstrong, H T Hoxie, F Reynolds, H A Hitchcock, H Holden (2 pack), E B Trask, Mrs. M Gunner, A. Fritz, I N Smith, A. W. Bradford, S. L. Julian, Mrs. L. G. Hitchcock, J L Fried, L Churchill, M A Wellman, F R S Mowrey (2 pack), D. Weaver (2 pack), H H Hurlbut, J L Warman, W J Bostwick, E C Deming, J D Dunning, J Merriam, J Robinson, L Tiffany, J Davison, Mrs E G Kingsbury, A A Smith, Wm Chapman (2 pack.)

By Express—A F Quimby, S P Hayward, D K Barrett Jr.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—S P Hayward, G A Barker, A W Sibley, M A Potter, A J Young, G Thompson, M J Whitney, H Pratt, I I Leslie, B Spaulding, E M Lunt, H A Lindin, A S Burnham, L B Weaver, C Tuller, S Hall, G Streeter, W Erwin.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Contributing Editors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, with a book or engraving free. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

RE-PRINTED

ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET

AS VIEWED FROM A

BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

A NEW BOOK.

"THE BIBLE DOCTRINE OF THE SOUL.

An Answer to the Question: "Is the Popular Conception of the Soul that of Holy Scripture?"

BY CHAS. L. IVES, M. D.

Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in Yale College.

This is a pamphlet of 119 pages, in which the Author discusses the above question in an interesting and able manner,—showing the material nature of, the mortality and destiny of the Soul,—A future immortality to be the special portion of the Righteous,—What the Bible teaches as to the future of the Wicked,—The intermediate state,—The Resurrection,—That of the Righteous and of the Wicked, etc.

The Author claims that the doctrine set forth,—"Honors God, exalts the Bible, insures preaching of future punishment, subverts Universalism and Infidelity, errors of Romanism, of Spiritualism and Swedenborgianism, helps in work of Missions, rightly values the body, brings Christian unity, and promotes personal holiness."

We are much pleased with this work. It ought to have a wide circulation. We have a good supply, and hope the friends will order freely. We will sell at the following prices:—25 cts. per copy; $2.00 per dozen, sent by mail; $15.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"

160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANALYTICAL HEBREW LEXICON OF THE OLD Testament. Most useful in the study of the Old Covenant. $6.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

"THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR." A Contrast to the Immaterial and Speculative System of Anti-Millenarianism, expressed in "The End of All Things," and other kindred works. 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE HIGH PRIESTHOOD OF THE SON OF GOD. The Aaronic Order and the Everlasting Order of Melchisedec. 12 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE "GERSHOM" TRACTS. Packets of three—The Morning Star, Daybreak, and Sunrise. Per packet, 10 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

JOYFUL MESSAGE: A Biblical Exposition of the Gospel. By Joseph B. Rotherham. 50 cts.; postage 4 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE SPUR AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE STUDY of Greek. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

SPIRITUAL PRESENCE not BETTER THAN BODILY. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

THE EMPHASIZED NEW TESTAMENT. A new translation of the New Testament, emphasized after the originals. It holds a high place in the estimation of British scholars. $2.50; postage 28 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

ESSAYS CRITICAL AND THEOLOGICAL. Of interest to the Bible student and scholar. $1.50; postage 20 cts.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

HADES: OR, THE INTERMEDIATE STATE OF Man. Arguing DEATH in death, unconsciousness, silence and inaction. Highly spoken of. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

RESTITUTION OF ALL THINGS SPOKEN OF by the mouths of all the Holy Prophets. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.

WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,

A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:

OR,

AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST

In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.

SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."

BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.

BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

THE WONDERFUL CURE.

When sick of inbred sin,
For health I vainly sought,
Till Jesus Christ came in,
And then the cure was wrought!
O wondrous power! O wondrous cure!
Which makes my sinful nature pure.

By works of righteousness
I tried in "grace to grow";
But in my deep distress,
The progress was too slow.
Here all my efforts were in vain,
I could not thus the blessing gain.

The blessed Holy Ghost
Showed me the better way:
'Twas Christ I needed most!
Nor did I long delay,
But came to him by faith, and found
That he could heal my every wound.

I could not touch his clothes,
But I have touched his blood!
And on my heart it flows
An ever-healing flood.
It takes away the stains of sin,
It cleanses, and it keeps me clean.

Oh, what a wondrous cure
Hath Jesus wrought in me!
By blood divine made pure!
By power divine made free!
My life is under his control,
He fully sanctifies my soul.

—Adv. of Chris. Holiness.

PHILIPPIANS 1: 21-24.

J. F. LINTHICUM.

"For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labor; yet what I shall choose I wot not. For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better: nevertheless, to abide in the flesh is more needful for you."

The orthodox interpretation of these verses is that Paul did not know whether it was better to live, or die and go immediately to Christ, and so be with him. "To depart," it is contended, means for the soul to leave the body and go to heaven, where it will be with Christ. A critical examination of this text, and interpreting it in harmony with other plain teachings of the Bible, will show that the construction is erroneous. Paul could not expect to go to Christ as soon as he died, and so be with him, for excellent Scriptural reasons.

We are taught that when we depart in death, we go to the grave (Eccl. 9: 10; 3: 20; Gen. 3: 10, etc.); and that we remain there until the resurrection, when Christ shall come to raise the dead. The Savior himself is authority for the assertion that Paul could not go to him when he "departed this life." He told his disciples that whither he went they could not go (John 13: 33), and a few verses further along in the next chapter, seeing the disciples were grieved because he was going to leave them, he said, "Let not your hearts be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house there are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you; and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." John 14: 1-3. It will then be seen that the disciples could not go where Jesus went. Where did he go? He told them. "I ascend to my Father" (1 John 20: 17); and in John 16: 28 says, "I leave the world and go to the Father." Where is the Father? Jesus says the Father is in heaven (Matt. 5: 45, 48); and Paul himself taught that Jesus is in heaven, for he declared, "It is Christ that died; yea, rather that is risen again; who is even at the right hand of God." Rom. 8: 34. He ascended after the resurrection, for he told Mary when she saw him near the sepulchre, "Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father; but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father and your Father," etc. (John 20; 17); and Acts 1: 9 tells how he was "taken up."

We learn from the foregoing, that the disciples could not go where Jesus went, and hence could not be with him while he was there; but he promised to come again and receive them unto himself, that "where I am, there ye may be also." Then they could be with Christ, and not before.

When will he come again to receive them unto himself? Paul says (1 Thess. 4: 16, 17), "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord." Then he is coming to receive them unto himself at the resurrection of the dead; and Paul, knowing this, could not expect to go to heaven at death, because Jesus had said he could not go, and did not expect to be with Christ as soon as he died, because Christ will not descend from heaven until the resurrection. It is clear, therefore, that the popular interpretation of Paul's language in the text is erroneous.

The whole difficulty has grown out of faulty punctuation, which gives a meaning to Paul's language that he never intended. Paul did not say it was far better to depart and be with Christ, but this is the construction usually given to his language. It results not from what Paul said, but what he was made to say by inserting a semicolon where it does not belong. He is made to say in our version of the Bible: "For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better." By inserting a semicolon after Christ, the translators made the words "which is far better" qualify both "to depart" and "to be with Christ." This was never intended by the apostle, and occasions all the confusion. Correctly punctuated, the semicolon would be removed and the text would read, "having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ which is far better;" making "which is far better" qualify "to be with Christ" only, and drawing a comparison between that glorious situation and death.

Paul's language is equivalent to saying, he had a desire to depart, and to be with Christ which was far better than to die. Death would relieve him of all of his troubles in this world, and he would rest in the grave in peace; but it would be far better to be with Christ who, he tells us, will descend from heaven with a shout, that the dead shall rise, that we shall be caught up to meet him in the clouds, "and so shall we ever be with the Lord."

This separates the two wants, his departing and his being with Christ, as they should be, and make Paul's meaning clear and consistent with his other teachings.

Vallego, Cal.

— Time is a stream in which there is no mooring the barks of life, because there is no casting anchor in it.

REPORT OF THE N. H. 21st Annual Adv. Chris. Conference.

Pursuant to notice, Conference convened in Lake Village, N. H., Dec. 2nd, 1874. A business session was called by the President, Eld. A. Ross, at half-past nine o'clock A. M. Prayer by C. H. Fletcher. Minutes of the last session were read by the Secretary and accepted.

By vote, the Chair appointed the following brethren a Com. on Credentials: John Parsons, F. M. Drake, and G. H. Wallace, who reported the following membership:—A. Ross, J. F. Chamberlain, J. L. Chute, D. Churchill, E. A. Stockman, A. Gordon, S. Varney, F. M. Drake, John Parsons, G. H. Wallace, Levi Allen, N. B. McMurphy, N. Glidden, D. F. Leavitt, D. W. Davis, T. W. Piper, D. Eastman, S. Roby, J. H. Evans, N. B. Sleeper, Sr. L. E. Saulpaugh, C. H. Fletcher, A. H. Clark, Stephen Dinsmore, O. D. Eastman, C. R. Parsons, W. H. Shaw, E. Morrill, Sr. Jane Davis, R. Morrill, J. T. Libby, A. T. Hodgdon, J. G. Smith.

Delegates—Eld. C. P. Dow (from Canada Conference), D. W. Bowles, A. F. Merrill, I. M. Aldrich, O. T. Clisby, M. M. Burbank, Thos. Roberts, C. H. Willey, E. N. Hinkley, and Geo. M. Little.

By vote, the Chair appointed the following brethren committee on business: E. A. Stockman, D. Churchill, and J. F. Chamberlain, who submitted the following order of business, which was accepted and adopted:—

1. The election of officers for the ensuing year. 2. The election of a Ministerial Com. 3. The election of a Quar. Conf. Com. 4. The election of a Protracted Meeting Com. 5. The election of a Tract Com. 6. Report of Treas. 7. Report of Ministerial Com. 8. Report of Quar. Conf. Com. 9. Report of Protracted Meeting Com. 10. Report of Tract Com. 11. Reports of ministers and delegates of churches. 12. Miscellaneous business.

By vote, the Chair appointed the following brethren as Com. on Nominations: John Parsons, Levi Allen, and G. H. Wallace, who reported as follows: For President—A. Ross. Vice President—T. W. Piper. Secretary—C. H. Fletcher. Treasurer—J. G. Smith. Ministerial Com.—T. W. Piper, J. Couch, N. Wheeler, O. D. Eastman, C. S. Emerson. Quar. Conf. Com.—Levi Allen, E. A. Stockman, D. W. Davis. Protracted Meeting Com.—C. H. Fletcher, D. F. Leavitt, J. G. Smith. Tract Com.—J. W. White, Enoch Morrill, E. S. Moulton.

Voted, That we pass over the first articles of business and take up the 12th. Listened to remarks of several Brn. in relation to difficulties existing at Rochester.

Voted, To proceed to the regular order of business.

Voted, To accept the report of Nominating Com.

Voted, To adjourn, to meet at the close of the afternoon service.

Met as adjourned. Elected the officers and committees as reported. Bro. E. A. Stockman, chairman of the Ministerial Com., gave the following report:—But little work has come to our hands during the year, and that little we have not been able to complete. Early in the month of June we received a request in writing from Eld. A. Hodgdon for a meeting of the committee to investigate the action of the Manchester church in expelling him from its membership without giving notice to the Com. or Conference. The Com. arranged for a meeting at Alton Bay during campmeeting week, but were unable to get the parties before them in sufficient numbers to warrant an investigation; and finally adjourned to meet at Manchester on the day previous to the assembling of this body; but the time of the Conference having been changed, several of the Com. were unable to be present on the day designated, and the parties concerned were notified that the Com. would not meet till after the present session of Conference. In response to a petition of Eld. Edwin Wells and others, the Com. met at Rochester Village, Sept. 23d, to investigate difficulties as connected with Eld. Wells' course in starting a new meeting, etc. Some twenty persons appeared and made statement to the effect that they had left the regular meeting because of the existence of gross wrong and corruption in the body, which the church refused to investigate; and for this reason Bro. W. had started another meeting. The church declined to appear before the Com., though specially requested by them to do so; and the Com. were thus confined to an ex parte examination. From what we were able to learn, we reached hef tollowing conclusion:

1. That the course of Eld. Wells, in commencing a new meeting without consulting with the committee was improper; but as he had on reflection voluntarily abandoned the movement, we did not think his course demanded disciplinary censure.

2. That it would be wrong and inadmissable, under the circumstances, for the aggrieved party to hold a separate meeting.

3. That our Conference ministers be advised not to preach to either party until the next session of Conference, when that body could adopt such action in the case as should be deemed proper; as the Com. has no right to investigate church difficulties, but ministerial matters only.

Besides these cases, no complaints have come to us; and so far as we know the ministry of this Conference are united and harmonious in their great and solemn work.

The Com. respectfully call the attention of Conference to the case of Bro. S. Varney, of East Rochester, as a candidate for ordination.

After proper examination, Bro. Joseph T. Libby was set apart to the work of the ministry, at our Second Quarterly Session of Conference, held at New Durham.

Respectfully submitted.

E. A. STOCKMAN.
T. W. PIPER.
JOHN PARSONS.

Voted, To accept the report. Bro. J. W. White by mail submitted the following report as chairman of Tract Com.:—Whole amount of receipts, $58.49. Whole amount paid out, $54.56. Cash in treasury, $3.93.

The report as above was adopted. Listened to reports from all the preachers.

Voted, To pass over the regular business, and transact some miscellaneous business. After due discussion the following resolution was adopted:—

Resolved, That the subject of the ordination of Bro. S. Varney be referred to the Ministerial Com. for their immediate action.

Voted, That we adjourn to meet at the close of the afternoon service.

Met as adjourned; Bro. Ross in the chair. Prayer by Bro. G. H. Wallace.

Voted, That an article be added to our Constitution, viz.: "That we have a committee of three, whose duty it shall be to raise funds for missionary purposes in the State of N. H." By vote, the Chair nominated Brn. J. Parsons, T. W. Piper, and D. F. Leavitt, as a Com. to nominate said Com. Brn. A. Ross, E. Morrill and C. H. Willey, were nominated as the above Com., and were elected.

Voted, That a collection be taken up at the close of the evening service to defray the incidental expenses of this Conference.

Voted, To adjourn, to meet at half past eight o'clock to-morrow morning. Met as adjourned. Bro. Ross in the chair. After some discussion

Voted, To rescind the vote to add an article to the Constitution providing for a Com. on Missions. Bro. Piper presented the following resolution which was adopted: That in view of the exceeding shortness of time to labor for a perishing world, and feeling the need of a more effectual system for missionary labor in N. H. with our mission tent, Therefore,

Resolved, That each church, cooperating with the Conference, be requested to take monthly collections in their several churches for that purpose, and forward such contributions to the Treasurer.

Voted, That at the close of the P. M. service a collection and pledges be taken for a tract fund.

Voted, That we proceed to the regular order of business. Bro. J. G. Smith, Treasurer, submitted the following report, which was accepted. Cash in treasury with receipts, $8.97. Amount paid out, $7,25. Leaving a balance in treasury, $1.72.

Bro. T. W. Piper, Chairman of Quar. Conf. Com., gave the following report: The first session was held with the church at South Barnstead, commencing Jan. 1st, and holding over the following Sabbath. A business meeting was called at 9 o'clock A. M., at which time Bro. J. H. Bartlett was dismissed from the Conference by his own request. Bro. Joseph B. Libby, of New Durham, joined the Conference. The good spirit was truly present to bless in the social meetings, and to help in the preaching of the Word. Preaching brethren present were,—Brn. Allen, Churchill, Davis, Emerson, Paine, Libby, Perkins, Parsons, and Piper. Preaching during the meeting by Brn. Allen, Parsons, Churchill, Davis, Emerson and Piper. It seemed to be the sentiment of all, as far as we were able to judge, that the meeting was one of profit.

The second session was held with the church at New Durham Ridge, commencing April 23rd. But on account of the exceedingly inclement weather the attendance was quite small. Preachers present were—Brn. Ross, Brown, Smith, Varney, Libby, Hurd, Wells and Piper. Saturday, P. M., Bro. J. T. Libby of New Durham was publicly set apart to the work of the gospel ministry by fasting, prayer and the laying on of hands, and we feel it safe to say to the churches in N. H., Receive Bro. Libby into your houses.

The third session was held with the church at Whitefield, commencing June 11th, and holding over the Sabbath. Preachers present were—Brn. Couch, Wheeler, Harmon, Chadsey, Eastman, Gordon and Piper. The church at Whitefield seemed to be free from all unhappy division, too common among our churches, and seemed to be prospering under the faithful labors of Bro. Harmon. Many brethren and sisters came in from Lisbon and other towns, which contributed largely to the interests of the meeting. The social meetings were truly sweet seasons, where all seemed to be union and love. The love for truth in so many hearts made preaching easy and delightful. And the church's "God bless you" to the poor servants at the close of the meeting, was one that furnishes bread to hungry children, and lifts the burden from the heart of the faithful wife. The above report was accepted.

Bro. E. Morrill, chairman of Protracted Meeting Com., reports meetings, in various localities, as very successful. The report was accepted.

Voted, That Bro. W. H. Shaw be dismissed from this Conference at his own request.

Voted, That Brn. E. N. Hinckley, West Alton, J. G. Moulton and Geo. M. Little, Warren Summit, become members of this Conference. Listened to reports from sixty-three churches.

Voted, That we adjourn to meet at the close of the P. M. service. Met as adjourned. Bro. Ross in the chair. Prayer by Bro. Piper.

Voted, That in giving our certificates of membership, we shall distinguish between ordained and unordained members.

Voted, That Bro. John H. Evans be dismissed from this Conference at his own request. The following resolution was adopted. Whereas, Certain brethren of this Conference having ceased to labor as preachers or to cooperate with us, therefore—Resolved, That our Ministerial Committee be requested to investigate the cause thereof and report to this body.

Voted, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate difficulties at Rochester, N. H. Brn. E. A. Stockman, J. Parsons and J. G. Smith, be said committee. Voted, To adopt the following resolution. Resolved, That while this Conference claim christian character to be a test of christian fellowship, they do also deplore and disfellowship the preaching of doctrines whose only fruits seem to confuse and divide the church of Christ. That this Conference does not feel willing to take the responsibility of offering the sinner probation and salvation in a future age, or of teaching the nonreliving of the wicked dead, Trine immersion, seventh day Sabbath, or any doctrine which serves only to divide the children of God

Voted, That we return our thanks to the Brn. and friends who have so kindly and hospitably cared for us during this session of our Conference.

Voted, That we return our thanks to the Superintendents of the various railroads for reduction of fare in coming to and returning from this Conference.

Voted, That the minutes of the Secretary be published in the World's Crisis.

Voted, to adjourn without date.

C. H. FLETCHER, Secretary.

— We should ask not who is the most learned, but who is the best learned.

POWER.

J. W. THOMAS.

"Our gospel came not in word only, but in power." —1 Thess. 1: 5.

Power is needed. Man is weak. He is not sufficient of himself to preach the gospel. His knowledge is limited. Prejudice is strong. Enemies are numerous. No man can live a christian, nor perform a christian work in his own strength. Education is good. A knowledge of the Scriptures is good. An unblemished reputation is good. To know the truth, and to be associated with good men is an advantage, but all of this is not enough to qualify a person for successful christian service. There must be an internal work,—a thorough, personal, experimental knowledge of the power of God in his own heart. Nothing will take the place of this. All the outward fixings and equipages, as useful as they may be in their place, will not answer for that change which must be produced in the heart by the power of the Holy Spirit. The soil of the natural heart must be broken up; the thoughts, purposes, will and affections must be turned from their natural course into harmony with the will of God. It requires power to do this. No human learning or eloquence is sufficient. It must be the "power that worketh effectually in those that believe." When this is experienced, then the individual may be able to exclaim with the apostle Paul, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." Paul had experienced this power. He knew what he was talking about. It was not the power of truth merely, but the power that accompanied truth,—the saving, cleansing, renovating, subduing, transforming, comforting power of the Holy Spirit. Paul did not prescribe for others a medicine whose efficacy he had not proved. He knew the efficacy, the glorious, unspeakable efficacy of the "gospel of Christ." It was the "power of God unto" his salvation.

Now when this apostle preached, it was not with "excellency of speech, or with enticing words of man's wisdom," but in "demonstration of the Spirit and of power." So it was with all the apostles. They were "endued with power from on high." Some of them were unlearned and ignorant men—poor fishermen, called from their boats by the seaside to follow the great Teacher, commissioned and anointed with the Holy Spirit to preach the everlasting gospel. It was a simple story that they told—the story of Jesus of Nazareth; but there was such a power connected with it, that hard-hearted sinners wilted and fell on every side, and cried out in the bitterness of their hearts "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Then these apostles were in their element,—they knew just what to say to convicted sinners. "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all them that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." Acts 2: 38, 39. This promise reaches to us;—"to all who are afar off." It embraces every one who repents and believes the gosuntil the last heir of glory is sealed with the Holy Spirit.

The gospel must be preached with power; it must be received in power, and lived in power. Have you received the Holy Spirit since you believed? was a question which the apostle considered of vital importance to those who professed to be disciples. This power is what is needed to-day. Those who profess to be christians need to be "endued with power from on high." A prominent sign of the last days was to be seen in a church "having a form of godliness, but denying the power;" and this is apparent everywhere. The church is weak in moral and spiritual strength, hence there are no more conversions. Where are the deep, earnest, agonizing prayers which were once heard? O for power divine to live above sin, to overcome the world, the flesh, and the devil, and to obtain eternal victory through Him who is the "wisdom and power of God."

THAT SERMON.

H. PRATT.

In listening to a short sermon from a converted Roman priest who is saying, "Come out of her, my people," I thought that some points were worthy of record.

After speaking in French some forty minutes to his French Catholic hearers, he gave a short discourse in English which seemed very easy to comprehend. The text was concerning the "Captain of our salvation." Said he: "When we talk about Captain we think of cannon, and swords, and music, and victory. We say as christians, Our Captain is good captain; the infidel say, he is not good captain, for he does not conquer the world. If he was good captain, he would conquer the world. Now it is not the fault of the captain that the world is not conquered to him. But," says he (turning to the eight ministers from the different denominations that sat with him on the platform), "it is because he has got such mean soldiers. They skulk, they think only about a good time for themselves, and leave the fighting to others. When Israel came out of Egypt, they gave their gold to Aaron, and he made a calf, and they said, 'This be the god that brought us out of Egypt,' and God called them idolaters. So I, as a Roman priest, make my paste, and call to my maid, and she comes with her iron and smooths it out, and I take my scissors and cut it in pieces, put them in my vest pocket, come into the church, and I say, 'this be your God,' and they worship the wafers. Therefore the Roman Catholics are all idolaters. You Protestant christians in America are the rich man in the parable. He thanked God for the good things of this life, fared sumptuously, but he let Lazarus starve at his gate, and he was damned. You have your good houses, give a little for missionaries, fare sumptuously, thank the Lord for the good things you have, and let the Lazaruses starve at your gate. You are mean soldiers. You see the multitudes of poor, ignorant Catholics around you, and you give them not a single crumb from the Master's table. What would have been my condition if God had not wrought a miracle to open my eyes? The soldiers passed me by, but the Captain he lifted me up. Will you still care for yourselves while the poor souls starve at your gate?"

READING FOR AMUSEMENT.

Dr. Dewey has in the Christian Examiner some just remarks on the distinction between reading for mere entertainment or amusement, and reading for improvement. "I do not know what a man is thinking about," he says, "who never makes any distinction here; who never conceives that he has anything to do with the wonderful faculty of thought but to amuse it. An ordinarily industrious man feels obliged, in common decency, to proportion his recreation to his business; and it is indecent for an intellectual being to give up all his hours for mental culture to mere entertainment." Hence he lays it down as a rule, that every person desirous of strengthening his or her mind, should from time to time read some hard book—that is, some book which will demand close attention, and thoroughly exercise the reasoning faculty.

So discursive and dissipating, as we may say, are our modern habits of reading, and indeed our general range of modern literature, that we are quite inclined to agree with the doctor that it would be the best thing that could happen to many minds among us, to be rigidly shut up for two or three months to a single wise book, and thus be obliged to study one thing; So much news reading, story reading, and reading for the mere luxury of feeling, as is practiced by our people, is about as bad as no reading at all. It is distracting, dissipating, and enervating to the mind. It is like a tree growing all to bark, or all to leaves, to insure its toppling over by its own weight for the lack of solid timber to give it support.

LONGING AFTER THE DIVINE LIKENESS.

I said, my God, at length, this stony heart remove,
Deny all other strength, but give me strength to love.
Come nearer, nearer still, let not thy light depart;
Bend, break this stubborn will, dissolve this iron heart.

Less wayward let me be, more pliable and mild;
In glad simplicity more like a trustful child.
Less, less of self each day, and more, my God, of thee;
O, keep me in the way, however rough it be.

Less of the flesh each day, less of the world and sin;
More of thy love, I pray, more of thyself within.
Riper and riper now, each hour let me become,
Less fit for scenes below, more fit for such a home.

More molded to thy will, Lord, let thy servant be,
Higher and higher still, liker, and liker thee.
Have naught that is unmeet; of all that is mine own
Strip me, and so complete my training for the throne.

—Selected by E. Buzzell, Concord, N. H.

THE DEVIL'S WAGONS.—In the street of a thriving village stood a wagon, to which four horses were harnessed. A few loose boards extended from one axle to the other. A little boy, four or five years old, was set upon them. While the driver was called aside for a moment, the horses took fright and started off, running furiously down the street. Consternation and terror, as usual, spread on every hand, and one warm-hearted impulsive woman, a mother, who saw the awful peril of the child, clasped her hands in agony, and called with all her might and power, "Stop that wagon and save the child. Stop that wagon—stop it—stop it." An old icicle in human shape, that stood by her, coldly replied, "Silly woman, don't fret yourself, it isn't your child!" "I know it," said the mother; "but it's somebody's child. Stop it—oh, stop it."

Reader, the devil has his wagons, thousands of them—himself the driver, reins and whip in hand. And somebody's children are in danger. Oh, do what you can to save those poor children, if you have any sympathy in your breast. Up! raise the cry! rush forward before it be too late. If the imperiled child's own mother is not there, is there no one who will take her place?—Chris. Treasury.

QUARRELLING.—If anything in the world will make a man feel badly, it is unquestionably a quarrel. No man ever fails to think less of himself after than before. It degrades him in his own eyes, and disgraces him in the eyes of others, and, what is worse, blunts the sensibilities on the one hand, and increases the power of passionate irritability on the other. The truth is, the more peacefully and quietly we get on, the better for our neighbors and for ourselves. In nine cases out of ten, the better course is, if a man cheats you, cease to deal with him; if he is abusive, quit his company; and if he slanders you, take care to live so that nobody will believe him. No matter who he is or how he misuses you, the wisest way is to let him alone; for there is nothing better than this cool, calm, and quiet way of dealing with the wrongs we meet with. Lies unchased will die; fires unfanned, will burn out, and quarrels neglected, become as dull as the crater of an extinct volcano. —Selected.

WHO MADE IT?—SIR ISAAC NEWTON had among his acquaintances a philosopher who was an atheist. It is well known that this illustrious man who takes the first rank as a mathematician, natural philosopher, and astronomer, was at the same time a christian. He had in his study a celestial globe, on which was an excellent representation of the constellations and the stars which compose them. His atheist friend, having come to visit him one day, was struck with the beauty of this globe. He approached it, examined it, and said to him: "Who made it?" "No one," replied the celebrated philosopher. The atheist understood and was silent.

Gems.

— It is not the height to which men are advanced that makes them giddy, it is the looking down with contempt upon those beneath.

— Were a man to throw away a guinea every minute, he would be looked upon as a madman, and his friends would confine him as such; but a man who throws away his time, which is far more valuable than gold, may still pass for a wise man.

— That civility is best which excludes all superfluous formality.

— Let us carefully observe those good qualities wherein our enemies excel us; and endeavor to excel them by avoiding what is faulty, and imitating what is excellent in them.

— The sure way to miss success is to miss the opportunity.

— As well try to fill the yawning chasm with a few grains of sand, as satisfy the gulf of the soul's desires with the pleasure of an empty world.

— He that goes too near sin to-day, may fall into it to-morrow. Prudence will not always venture to the brink of innocence.

— We must not only strike the iron while it is hot, but strike it till it is made hot.

— A foe to God was never a true friend to man.

— We often knock at mercy's door, and then run away, instead of waiting for an entrance and an answer. Thus we act as if we were afraid of having our prayers answered.

HOME AND HEALTH.

DANGER OF EATING HEARTY SUPPERS.

BY D. DENNISON, M. D.

Eating heartily in an exhausted, or even in a greatly debilitated bodily condition, is dangerous at any hour. Many a man has fallen apoplectic at the close of a hearty dinner; but the danger is greatly increased by going to bed soon after, for the weight of a meal, a pound or two, rests steadily on the great veins of the body, arrests the flow of the blood, as a continuous pressure of a foot on a hose pipe will more or less stop the flow of water along it. This arrestment causes a damming up of the blood in the vessels of the brain, which at length cannot bear the distension, and burst, causing effusion there, which is instant, sometimes, and certain death always.

There is scarcely a reader of middle life, who has not more than once been nearer death than he imagines from this very cause. A man feels in his sleep as if some terrible calamity was impending, some horrible beast is after him, or some fearful flood was about to overwhelm him; but, spite of every effort, he cannot move himself sufficiently fast; the enemy behind is increasing upon him, and at length, in an agony of sweat, he is able by a desperate effort to set the steam of life in motion by uttering some word, fearful to be heard, or only saves himself from falling into some fathomless abyss by a convulsive and desperate effort. In cases where there is no power to cry out, or no effort can be made, the person is overtaken, or falls and dies!

Eating a hearty meal at the close of the day is like giving a laboring man a full day's work to do just as night sets in, although he has been toiling all day. The whole body is fatigued when night sets in, the stomach takes its due share, and to eat heartily at supper and then go to bed, is giving all the other portions and functions of the body repose, while the stomach has thrown upon it four or five hours more of additional work, after having already labored four or five hours to dispose of breakfast, and a still longer time for dinner. This ten or twelve hours of almost incessant work has nearly exhausted its power; it cannot promptly digest another full meal, but labors at it for long hours together, like an exhausted galley-slave on a newly-imposed task.

The result is that by the unnatural length of time which the food is kept in the stomach, and the imperfect manner in which the exhausted organ manages it, it becomes more or less acid; this generates wind; this distends the stomach; this presses up itself against the more yielding lungs, confining them to a largely diminished space; hence every breath taken is insufficient for the wants of the system, the blood becomes foul, black, and thick, refuses to flow, and the man dies, or in delirium or fright leaps from a window, or commits suicide.

Let any reader who follows an inactive life for the most part, try the experiment for a week of eating absolutely nothing after a one or two o'clock dinner, and see if a sounder sleep and a vigorous appetite for breakfast and a hearty dinner are not the pleasurable results, to say nothing of the happy deliverance from that disagreeable fullness, weight, oppression, or acidity which attends over-eating. The great renovating and vivacity which a long, delicious, and connecting sleep imparts, both to mind and body, will of themselves more than compensate for the certainly short and rather dubious pleasure of eating a hearty supper with no special relish.

Important as are selection and due mastication and insalivation, its quantity is still more so. Unwholesome kinds engender far less disease and suffering than excess in amount. Health and disease depend vastly more on how much we eat than on what we art. Many, especially dyspeptics, far more than counterbalance all the good effects of a plain diet by over-eating. Not that gormandizing of plain food is not far less injurious than that of unwholesome kinds, but that excess in quantity is even more unhealthy than quality. Nor is it exaggeration to say that most civilized nations, and even individuals, make perfect gluttons of themselves.

This is doubly true of Americans. An English Quaker, on his return from a transatlantic tour, when asked what he thought of the Yankees, returned answer that "Their men are all gluttons and their women all slaves." Notice the disappearance of dishful after dishful, and even tableful after tableful, at our public and private meals. Watch your own plate, and notice how many times, though it is loaded to begin with, you "back up your cart" for another load. All this besides the dessert. Though we may not eat as much as the Indians, who are reputed by several travelers to stuff themselves with from six to fifteen pounds of meat per day when they can get it, and even eat a great portion of their time, yet, on the average, we eat at least from two to three times as much as nature requires.

Nearly every reader will bear the self condemning witness that he often eats so much as to feel uncomfortable, stupid, and often almost sick; the most, who will omit an occasional meal, will feel twice as well afterwards for a day or two. But, to bring our remarks to a point, notice three classes of facts everywhere observable. Dyspeptics eat enormously, nearly twice as much as an ordinary person, while those who enjoy perfect health, and have never been sick, eat less than half as much as others and not a quarter as much as dyspeptics.

Wesley furnished a noted example. See what he did and endured; how little he ate and how often he fasted. And Bible recommendations and requisitions are undoubtedly founded on this law.

Fleshy persons usually eat lightly, while spare persons, the world over, are generally great eaters. The reason is this: What the former do eat they completely digest, extracting from it all its sustaining virtue so that they need but little; whereas gourmands disorder their stomachs, so that the enormous quantities they consume are not converted into nourishment. A little food, well assimilated, yields far more nutriment and life than quantities crudely digested. In fact, gluttony doubly starves its subjects; first enfeebling and disordering digestion, so that it cannot extract the nourishment from food, and secondly, by a gnawing, hankering, craving state of the stomach, akin to starvation.

Old Parr, who became a father after he was one hundred and twenty, and retained his health and all his faculties unimpaired till he visited the royal court, aged one hundred and fifty-two, died in one year from slightly letting down his extreme abstemiousness.

Louis Cormaro, who, by abandoning those excesses which broke his constitution and threatened him with death at thirty-six, baffled disease in its most aggravating form by confining himself to less than twelve ounces of solid and exclusively vegetable food per day, was over-persuaded to increase this quantity only two ounces, the effect of which he describes as follows:

"This increase, in eight days, had such an effect upon me, that from being remarkably cheerful and brisk, I began to be peevish and melancholy, and was constantly so strangely disposed that I neither knew what to say to others, nor what to do with myself. On the twelfth day I was attacked with a violent pain in my side, which held me twenty-two hours, and was followed by a violent fever, which continued thirty-five days, without giving me a moment's respite." This was his only sickness during sixty-three years of abstemiousness.

Dr. Cheyne reduced his weight from 448 to 140 pounds by abstinence, grew corpulent and sick on a more generous diet, and was restored by abstemiousness. His practical and theoretical model was, "The lightest and least of meat and drink a man can be tolerably easy under, is the shortest and most infallible means to preserve life, health and serenity."

Dr. James Johnson, one of the most able of modern physiologists, who cured himself of an aggravating dyspeptic malady by abstemiousness, and then wore out two armies in two wars, and thought the could wear out another, says: "The quantity should never exceed half a pound in weight at dinner. Even when that can be borne without a single unpleasant sensation succeeding, it it quite enough and generally too much.

"The invalid will acquire a degree of strength and firmness, not fullness, of muscle on this quantity, which will in time surprise his friends as well as himself. Such will often derive more nourishment and strength from four ounces of gruel every six hours than from half a pound of animal food and a pint of wine."—Evening Star, Philadelphia.

CARRYING A LADDER.

Did you ever see a person carry a ladder? He puts it on his shoulder, or, it may be, puts his head between the rounds and has one of the sides resting on each shoulder, and having it nicely balanced walks along. A man with a ladder is an interesting object in a crowded street. He looks at the end before him, but the end behind him he cannot see. If he moves the front end to get out of the way of a person, away goes the rear end just as far in the opposite direction, and the slightest turn of his body, only a few inches, will give the ends a sweep of several feet, and those in the way may look out for bruised hats and bumped heads, while the window glass along the street is in constant danger from the unseen rear end of the ladder. When a small boy, I was carrying a not very large ladder, when there was a crash. An unlucky movement had brought the rear end of my ladder against a window.

Instead of scolding me, my father made me stop, and said, very quietly: "Look here, my son, there is one thing I wish you always to remember; that is, every ladder has two ends." I never have forgotten that, though many, many years have gone, and I never see a man carrying a ladder or other long thing but what I remember the two ends. Don't we carry things besides ladders that have two ends? When I see a young man getting "fast" habits, I think he sees only one end of that ladder, and that he does not know that the other end is wounding his parents hearts. Many a young girl carries a ladder in the shape of a love for dress and finery; she only sees the gratification of a foolish pride at the forward end of that ladder, while the end that she does not see is crushing true modesty and pure friendship as she goes along thoughtlessly among the crowd. Ah! yes, every ladder has two ends, and it is a thing to be remembered in more ways than one.—Sel.

LET thy conversation with men be sober and sincere; let thy devotion to God be dutiful and decent; let the one be hearty, and not haughty, let the other be humble and not homely; so live with men as if God saw thee, so pray to God as if men heard the.—Quarles.

TOMATO custard is said to be a beneficial diet for consumptives. It is made by straining finely-stewed tomatoes through a seive, and adding two pints of milk and one pint of tomatoes for four eggs and one teaspoonful of sugar. Bake in small cups quickly.

COPIOUS breathing of fresh air expands the lungs, improves circulation, digestion, and invigorates all the functions of body and brain. Then why not go fishing?

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH
TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to
"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1001. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 14.

The World's Crisis, AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER, Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer and Business Agent.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } Editors.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

FAITH.

Faith is the christian's prop,
Whereon his sorrows lean;
It is the "substance of his hope,
His proof of things unseen";
It is the anchor of his soul,
When tempests rage and billows roll.

Faith is the polar star,
That guides the christian's bark;
Directs his wandering, when afar,
To reach the holy ark.
It points the course where'er he roam,
And safely leads the pilgrim home.

Faith is the rainbow's form,
Hung on the brow of heaven;
The glory of the passing storm,
The pledge of mercy given.
It is the bright triumphal arch,
Through which the saints to glory march.

—Earnest Christian.

JESUS IS COMING.

ELLA M. LUNT.

Jesus is soon coming. This is a matter of no uncertainty to us. We have carefully studied the signs of the times, and we behold him near, even at the door. Link after link in the prophetic chain has met its fulfillment, and now we are brought down in close proximity to the last closing scenes of earth's history. Perils are thickening around our way. Indications of trouble are becoming daily more apparent. A stormy future lies before us. The conflict will be short, yet severe. Satan has marshalled his host and working with increased power. He knows that his time is short, therefore he doubles his diligence, that he may by his seductive wiles and cunning craftiness allure souls from the path of obedience, and lead them to everlasting ruin.

Yet in the midst of all these things we know the grace of God is sufficient, and we will never cease praying "Thy kingdom come," until we walk with the redeemed on the other side. We know we are almost home, and there is something so blessed about its associations that we hail with joy every omen that points to the near approach of Christ, and brings the eternal rest. We can thank God even here amid darkness and sorrow, that soon the sable scenes of this earth will pass away, and the Deliverer will descend from the throne above and establish a kingdom which shall stand forever. The saints of all ages will be gathered, and the song of redemption shall be heard throughout the eternal city. Angels will leave their starry home and come with sweet music to welcome the immortal throng onward to their place of rest—the eternal kingdom of God.

Yes, Jesus is coming; we cannot be mistaken. Although the greater portion of humanity deny that Christ will ever come literally to reign, and they consider the evidences insufficient to base faith upon; but if the acts and testimony of one man was considered sufficient to condemn the people who lived before the flood (and they certainly were, or the world could not have been condemned), what must be the condemnation of the people who are now living upon the earth, when Jesus comes. Evidences, a thousand times more convincing, come pouring in upon us, that we are very near the consummation of the christian's hope; but still they scoff saying, "Where is the promise of his coming?" No doubt the antedeluvians mocked until the very day that God commanded Noah to enter into the ark. The sun might have arisen in his usual brightness, but suddenly the heavens begin to gather blackness, muttering thunder was heard in the distance, consternation took possession of every breast, the windows of heaven were opened, and the fountains of the deep were broken up, rain began to fall in torrents, men, with their wives and children, scrambled to the tops of the tall trees and high mountains, but it was all in vain; their cries, tears, and prayers were of no avail; they were buried beneath the rising waters. But where was Noah? Ah! he was in the ark, being borne safely above the dark stormy billows; for "God shut him in."

The coming of Christ has always been a theme of interest and delight to the church of God, and now, as we have almost reached the point, every heart seems to beat in unison with John when he uttered these words—"Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly." We oftentimes see many things that cause us to sigh for home, and we love to hear about the return of Christ.

Truly this world is full of sorrows; but we read of a world where God shall wipe away all tears from our eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. This is indeed a blessed promise, enough to encourage every child to press with unfaltering steps toward the kingdom of God. This life is full of sadness, but when we reach the better world, all these things will be forever gone. We trust a God that is able to divide this dark red sea of trouble, and lead his weary children triumphantly into the promised land. O blessed home! we long to walk thy golden streets and behold the Son of God. We may be looked upon by the world as poor and mean, but if we trust God continually we cannot be removed.

O Jesus, we wait for thy return; we long to see thee as thou art. We pray and watch for the first rays of the morning. We are tired, and long to rest. We desire to know when the reward will be given. Ofttimes we faint as we walk our path, but we hear thy voice saying—"Be of good cheer," and with renewed strength we will press onward until Jesus comes, and we hear the invitation—"Come my people."

Biddeford, Me., Jan. 1st, 1875.

MY HOPE.

J. R. SMITH.

My hope is in God, and it centres in Christ. My hope is based upon the immutability of God's unchangeable promises, and it centres upon the real personal coming of Christ, and a literal resurrection from the dead.

A good sister recently asked me if I did not find it crossing to bear the name of "Adventist." I do bless the Lord that I never saw the day, since my spiritual understanding was enlightened by God's blessed truth, that I was ashamed of my hope; and if there is anything I have reason to praise God for, it is that my eyes were ever opened to behold the light of the living Word of God. I was well aware when I embraced this hope that it was not the popular belief of the present day; neither was it popular in the days of God's inspired apostles. They called God's truth heresy then; they call it heresy now. "But after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers; believing all things which are written both in the law and in the prophets"; that "there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and of the unjust." While I rejoice not in iniquity, neither in fables or traditions of men, yet I do rejoice in God's blessed truth; for the truth has made me free. I have the blessed assurance that my name is written in the Lamb's book of life; and "am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate me from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Said one anciently—"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." That gospel has lost none of its ancient power. It is the same to-day as it was eighteen hundred years ago. In my own case this gospel has become the power of God unto the salvation of my soul; and I have great reason to praise God for it. It was that which crucified me to the world. It was the power of this gospel that led me to give up seeking for the riches and honors of this world, and seek for "the unsearchable riches of Christ," and "that honor which cometh from God only." It caused me to give up tradition and fables of men, and believe God's written Word. I have no desire to return back to the leeks and onions of Egypt. I choose "rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season." Christ is my "munition of rocks." I have ever found him "a strong tower," into which I have often run and found shelter. I have proved him mighty to save, and strong to deliver.

A few years before I professed faith in Christ, I had engaged in business with a firm determination to become wealthy; and to this end I bent all my energies. But God in his infinite mercy three years ago thwarted my plans, and gave me such a realization of the exceeding sinfulness of my course, that I fell at his feet, and cried out in the anguish of my soul, "O wretched man that I am; who shall deliver me from this body of death?" I felt from the depths of my soul, Just and righteous art thou, O God, if I am forever banished from thy presence.

Two paths were now presented to my view; the one was broad, smooth, and flowery. I saw it strewed with the honors and riches and the pleasures of this world; filled with the gay and godless throng; the other was a strait and narrow path, with here and there a traveler. I saw this way to be a way of reproach, of sacrifice, and of self-denial; but it was the way my Savior had marked for me, and I rose, went forth, and followed him. Glory be to his dear name, that I ever chose the way that Jesus went. Since the 17th day of August, 1870, I have never hesitated to follow "the Captain of our salvation." Although the winds have blown and beat upon my house, the hurricanes roared, and the storms howled wildly around me, yet above the roar of the tempest I have heard the cheering voice of Jesus, saying, "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed for I am thy God; I will help thee; yea, I will strengthen thee."

O, what joy and peace have I felt in my soul since the full and final and unconditional surrender of all to the Lord. When I enlisted in the summer of 1870, I counted the cost, sold out this world, burned every bridge; and though I have been in a few skirmishes, and have had some hand to hand conflicts with the enemy, Christ has never left me to fight the battle alone; and when the conflicts have ended, I have often been enabled to shout victory through the blood of the Lamb. When my course upon earth shall be finished, and my labors of love ended, let me be enabled to adopt the language of the sainted apostle—"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." And while the great mass of professors are crying "peace and safety," and "smiting their fellow servants," and saying, "My Lord delayeth his coming," let us buckle on the armor and go forward to battle in the name of the Lord. Let us live so near the Lord that we may hear the distant rumbling of his chariot wheels, and discern the signs which portend the dawning of eternal day.

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 18th, 1874.

WAITING FOR THE LIGHT.

It appears that a people will be found at the close of the dispensation who shall be looking for the Savior, or waiting for the return of the Lord, when he shall come. To use the figure which he himself, employs, "That you may open to him," whether he comes "at midnight, at the cock crowing, or in the morning." The simple idea is, that of one person sitting up in the night, watching, waiting, looking for another, with this qualification: that the one expected is the beloved Master and Lord, who has kindly cared for the children, servants, and all the members of the family; who has authority to demand this attention and expectation, and whose assurances of future benefit encourage the waiting and self-denial imposed by the conviction of his expected presence, and the fact of his still continued absence. The position is called blessed, in the gospel, "Blessed are those servants whom, when the Lord cometh, he shall find so doing." It is really waiting for him: for the light which he will bring. The longing for light may be relieved by the person coming who should appear with the light, or the benefit being obtained which the light should give. Sometimes the presence or the blessing is all we can expect the light to bestow.

Believers are like those who "wait for the morning." The waiting position implies a readiness beforehand. If a walk or journey is requisite to take us to the station before we start, to wait signifies that we have taken that walk, and are at the station before the train arrives; at least, before the advertized time of leaving.

It is said that General Washington, at one time, upon breaking camp, found his body-servant a little behind in the arrangements for moving. "John," said the General, "do not let me find you thus again." Upon the next occasion he asked John, just before the appointed time for leaving, "Are you ready?"

"All packed up, sir," said John.

There is a plain intimation that the waiting class should suffer a disappointment in their expectations, as to the appearing of the Lord, and that darkness would be the result, while the requirement is, that, if he should "tarry," (or seem to delay), "wait for him, he will not tarry, but surely come." This signifies that there will be no real delay—that, at the appointed time the presence will be found; but a seeming tarrying will exist from too full reliance upon calculation.

The real lover of Christ is always waiting for him; but more especially when the intimation of his return (signs) are patent. These, before the mind, will excite interest and lead to a looking, as we love a friend and would welcome him at any time, but should sit up for him if he had sent us word that he were coming.

If notified to move, the christian is like John, "all packed up."

The mariners in the storm wait for the light. The poor shipwrecked sailor on the desolate isle will hail the light. The benighted traveler on the dark unknown road longs for the light. It is his life, strength, and salvation. The sick, who must lie and wait for the morning, cannot but feel that there is a blessing in the light. They wait for it. Many a time did I say, last summer, as the darkness gathered in gloom, "I must try to pass another long, weary night," and the nights were not literally long after the fitful and broken slumber which the fever would allow. I watched for the first signs of light, and for the light itself. There is company and society in the light. A man is not alone in the light. The merry songsters in that old tree by the window—the beautiful robin, whose shrill notes would never fail by three o'clock, in the short summer night, often led me to wait patiently for the sun rising. I knew it was close by.

Brethren, the tried people are said to wait, even to be the children of the light. They are aroused by the song. They love the light that will break on the vision in the morning hour. That will wake a deathless joy in the heart. "Long, long we have been waiting," may the tried flock well sing, and with the joy and interest of a "faith that does not shrink," though long time elapse before the realization of the fond hope of immortality.

"We are waiting still, dear Lord, for thee," is a sentiment which swells the heart of the tried pilgrim on the stormy path of life, and no the illumination of a new glory bursts on the true but weary hearts—left long trusting and looking—confirmed, at the last, by the answer of the event to the prediction. "Then, waiting brethren, let us sing. He will not tarry long."

This is the grand point to occupy, with life, vigor, zeal, and earnest joy—a determined, happy labor, an unabated, undying devotion. God will reward the effort of the faithful soul . . . to stand, to study, and wait for truth, with the light. He will make known his purpose to his servants, the prophets, and the light of God in the kingdom of heaven shall be the portion of the vigilant and faithful in their watch for the rays of the everlasting morning.—Prophetic Times.

There is wealth in good actions.

"WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE NIGHT?"

This solemn, nocturnal cry of the cities of the orient, echoed by Sister Julian, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, (Banner of Nov. 7th), and the beautiful and solemn response by the watchmen—"The morning cometh and also the night"—have been the means of great blessing to my soul, a blessing of mingled joy and sorrow: of deepest humiliation, trust, and triumph.

Vigilant, indeed, were the watchmen of the city, as they paced their lonely beat, or from their watch-tower on the walls eagerly bent eye and ear to detect the rising tumult within, or the approach of the stealthy foemen without the city. The lonely voice or trumpet rolled out on the stillness of the night air, announcing "first watch," "second watch," etc. of the night; and ever anon announcing, "tumult within," or the "enemy without."

And then again, when all was quiet, the lonely voice of some one who could not sleep, as did the million—on whose heart there rested a burden of care for city, family, self—who hoped for tidings that would relieve the sinking heart, and who longed for the morning—solemnly, solicitously inquiring, "Watchman, what of the night? What event? Cometh the morning?" The watchman responds, "The morning cometh, and also the night." See Isa. 21: 11, 12. . . .

"The night cometh"—of sin, of spiritual darkness in the souls of men. The night of pride, malice, covetousness, selfishness, and of enmity to God and his cause. Yea, this night cometh, even now prevaileth, in the hearts of the millions outside the church, and also inside, as well.

"The night of dark deeds: of falsehood, perjury, theft, murder, treason, intemperance, profanity, blasphemy, swindling, gambling, embezzlement, adultery, fornication, abortion, infanticide, and idolatry—all in the church, and out of it.

"The night cometh"—of scepticism, doubt, infidelity, rationalism, deism, pantheism, and atheism—where law is stripped of its penalty, Jesus of his divinity, and the world of its God; where hell, salvation, and holiness have lost their significance. How dark!

"The night cometh"—the night of formalism in the church, wherein the masses seem to have forgotten what religion is, and apparently imagine that if they lead a tolerably correct moral life, and (when the weather is very pleasant) attend preaching in a very orderly way once on the holy Sabbath, and give a little, a very little to support the struggling cause, all their responsibilities are met; who cannot be induced to engage in any spiritual exercises; and who, in their spirit and walk give no evidence that they have risen a particle above the world around them, and are to God's watchmen a ceaseless source of deepest grief.

"The night cometh"—the night of death and eternity. O how this night gathers about us, and covers our dear ones from our view! We, seeing they must go, gladly accompany them down among the shadows of the valley, to the very edge of the cold, dark river; and viewing merely from the earthen side, an impenetrable cloud receives them into its bosom, and they return no more. O this night! Viewed alone it is so sorrowful. It is swallowing up all that is dearest. This is "the night wherein no man can work."—The Banner of Holiness.

THE LOVE OF GOD.

H. P. SIKES.

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son; that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3: 16.

Who can duly estimate the depth of meaning contained in that little word, so? God so loved the world! The boundless ocean of God's love may be compared to a great fountain of water confined in the bowels of the earth, kept in on all sides, and pressing every way for an outlet. So this Infinite Fountain of love, which is so intensely bent on the highest good to the universe, manifests itself; or, if I may so say, finds an outlet in giving his own Son to die for a world of rebel sinners. The infinite love of God, far, very far, exceeds our strongest imagination.

Well might the apostle John exclaim—"God is love." He "gave his only begotten Son." What a gift! What earthly potentate would ever deliver up his Son to death, that his most inveterate and bitter enemies might become reconciled? Surely none! Oh, what tongue can tell, what heart can begin to realize the matchless love that filled the breast of the Lamb of God, that he should attempt such a scheme;—a scheme fraught with the most amazing, unparalleled humiliation, and intensest suffering; yea, such terrible anguish as a God only could endure? O, ye ungrateful sons of men, how can you look at what the dear Savior has done for you, without having your hearts melted? Will not the exhibition of such love, so boundless, beget in your own hearts love in return?

It would seem as if every son and daughter who has ever heard or known anything of the wonderful plan of redemption—of the amazing love of the Son of God, would be constrained to love him in return. After acknowledging such a sacrifice as he has voluntarily made—the sacrifice of himself, after beholding the spotless Lamb of God for a while lay aside the glories of the heavenly world, and come into this dark world of sin, which he found under the dominion of the "Prince of darkness;" where he was cradled in a manger; spent his life like a lamb in the midst of wolves; meeting the selfishness of men with loving-kindness; blessing his enemies in return for abuse and insult; returning tenderness for hatred; and to crown all, submitting to the most horrid death,—dying for those very sinners who were his inhuman murderers; it would seem, truly, as though every human being, after seeing all this, would cast his entire being into the hands of this almighty Savior. It would seem as though every one who acknowledges obligation for favors received, would willingly give up soul, body, possessions, talents, every thing, and lay them all at the feet of such a being. Well may we exclaim with the great apostle—"He that spared not his own Son, but gave him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?"

God has done all that infinite wisdom could do, to save men. "There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." And what awful guilt is that incurred by the rejection of the Son of God, and by casting contempt upon all his love. How dreadful will be his punishment "who hath trodden under foot the Son of God!" Oh, deliver me from the bitter anguish that awaits all the rejectors of Jesus!

Imagine to yourselves a scene which we believe will shortly be realized. See the "great white throne" appear, and your once abused, insulted Savior, now your judge, seated thereon, and "all nations" assembled before him. See the trembling culprit stand, in full view of the glory of the redeemed, and hear him wail in the intensest agony, at seeing what he has lost! Eternal death must be his portion.

Northfield, Mass.

CHRISTMAS—WHEN IS IT?

H. MUNGER.

This 25th of Dec., while seeing so many following tradition, I was led to inquire concerning this day, of Josephus, E. Robinson, and others. The 69 weeks of Daniel run to the 14th of August,—1878 years ago last August, instead of 1874 years ago to-day. See Matt. 2: 1, and you will see by your reference Bible four years are to be added to our A. D. for the birth of Christ. Herod's death agrees with this date,—B. C. 4, instead of A. D. 1, as many suppose.

Luke 2: 8 tells us the shepherds were out in the field with their flocks; and it was warm enough for Joseph and Mary to lodge in a barn. See Luke 2: 1–7. This was not in Dec., it is evident.

The baptism of Christ was in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, and he was 30 years old according to the law. See Luke 3: 1–23. His baptism was August 12, A. D. 26. This agrees with other scriptures and historical dates.

His public ministry began during the feast of tabernacles, A. D. 26, and was less than four years, as his death occurred Thursday, April 6th, A. D. 30; making him 34 years old. These facts are arrived at by the eclipses spoken of by Josephus, and the reign and death of the Cæsars, which are historical facts and dates agreeing with scriptural events.

I am glad that the old harlot power that has changed times and laws has done its work, and is on its death-bed. Its work has been a bloody one. The dogma of infallibility has sealed its doom.

The Roman beasts say the thief went to heaven with Christ the day he died; when Christ died Thursday, and the thieves Friday. Neither went to heaven at death, or to purgatory. Justin Martyr, A. D. 150, said—"The idea of souls going to heaven or hell at death is unsound and unscriptural"; and others agree with him—like Jeremy Taylor, Chrysostom, John Calvin, Tyndal, and John Wesley. This dogma of immortal soulism was rejected at the Council of Florence. Wesley's sermon on Luke 16: 81, says that going to heaven at death has no foundation in God's Word, and that the thief nor Christ had not gone three days after the thief was dead. Christ did not go up till forty days, at least, from his death; and then he promised to return to give the thief his request; i. e., when he comes into his kingdom.

There is good reason to believe the end is near; for the Scriptures tell of just such backsliding from God's Word and Spirit in the last days, as we now witness. The wicked also are filling up their cup of iniquity, and the papacy with the nations are wheeling into their prophetic line of battle. Great men are fearing, earth is groaning, good men are rejoicing, for the Lord is soon coming.

"QUENCH NOT THE SPIRIT."

A man has lost his way in a dark and dreary mine. By the light of one candle, which he carries in his hand, he is groping for the road to sunshine and to home. That light is essential to his safety. The mine has many winding passages in which he may be hopelessly bewildered. Here and there marks have been made in the rocks to point out the true path, but he cannot see them without that light. There are many deep pits into which, if unwary, he may suddenly fall, but he cannot avoid danger without that light. Should it go out he must soon stumble, fall, perish. Should it go out, that mine must be his tomb. How carefully he carries it! How anxiously he shields it from sudden gusts of air, from water dropping on it, from everything that might quench it.

Reader, the case described is your own. You are like that lonely wanderer in the mine. Does he diligently keep a-light the candle on which his life depends? Much more earnestly should you give heed to the warning, 'Quench not the Spirit.' Sin makes our road both dark and dangerous. If God gave us no light, we should never find our way to the soul's sunny home of holiness and heaven. We must despair of ever reaching our Father's house. We must perish in the darkness into which we have wandered. But he gives his Spirit to enlighten, guide, and cheer us. If that light burns dimly, our way becomes more gloomy and perilous. We go astray from the right path. —Rev. N. Hall.

ADORNING, OR RENEWING—WHICH?

S. HALL.

Which will secure the end wished for? I believe in having something done. An improvement in my personal appearance is what I very much desire. And if the mirror does not deceive, I greatly need it. I do not want to live always looking as I do now. Nor do I know of any people who have much reason to pride themselves on their personal beauty. But what can be done? Is there any remedy? Thousands are ready to reply, "We must adorn our persons all we can, so as to make what is really so unattractive and uncomely look quite pretty;"—as if the object sought could be attained by following the old adage that "Fine feathers make fine birds."

But who does not see that this is only a sham?—that really nothing is added to personal beauty by putting on gay and costly apparel? but rather the reverse? as the uncomeliness of the person is by contrast all the more apparent, as we all have a thousand times observed. And it seems hardly worth while to go to the trouble and expense of making our physical imperfections all the more conspicuous by a comparison with gay attire.

One reason why "costly apparel" is prohibited, I think, is because it cannot beautify the person, which is the object those wearing it have in view. God would not have those whom he has endowed with reason, exhibit the folly of employing means for such a purpose so wholly inadequate. He has devised means by which in due time it can be thoroughly accomplished.

But, dissatisfied with their appearance, people adopt a rich or showy dress by which they hope somehow to conceal their ill looks, or perhaps to attract attention away from themselves to their apparel. This is but a subterfuge. These imperfections are not thus remedied. No matter what, or how rich the style may be, nor the frequency with which one style may be superseded by another, "the image of the earthy" is distinctly traceable. The loss of primeval beauty and elegance is still manifest.

Nor was the appointing and providing the covering for mankind for the purpose of adornment; but to meet a necessity that had arisen. Man had sinned, and the curse had followed with all its train of evils, including physical derangement and deformity; and this could not be removed and beauty restored simply by an outward display or adorning. And previous to this, reasons for adorning did not exist. Everything was right until the fall. Reason therefore suggests that what is needed is just what the gospel provides. It is specially promised that in the restitution the vile bodies of the saved shall be changed into glorious bodies. As the vileness and deformity is the effect of sin, the real adorning or beautifying can consist in nothing short of removing this effect, or of entire renewal.

Of Christ, "who did no sin," tradition says, and there is some evidence proving it true, that even in his humiliation he was the most lovely and attractive personage ever beheld. On the Evangelist's declaration that he grew in favor with man, an eminent writer says, "By the comeliness of his person, the sweetness of his disposition, the uncommon vigor of his faculties, he engaged the affections of all who had the happiness to be acquainted with him. That as his mind was filled with wisdom, and always serene, being perfectly free from those turbulent passions which distract other men, his countenance, no doubt, must have been composed and agreeable, such as evidenced the strength of his understanding, and the goodness of his heart." But the inspired promise that in the regeneration the meek of the earth shall be formed anew after the manner of Christ's glorious or glorified body, is one of the "exceeding great and precious promises," and gives unspeakable delight.

"Arrayed in glorious grace,
Shall these vile bodies shine;
And every form and every face,
Look heavenly and divine."

As the only possible way to attain to the perfection of beauty is by being physically renewed, is it not best to patiently wait that promised time? Then for the first time since the fall, everything will be just right. The saints, like their inheritance, will be immortal and beauteous, and of course, artificial covering will be no longer needed nor employed. Though designed only for our comfort while the curse lasted. it has always been extensively used for ornament and display, and has thus, more than anything else under the sun, led people to be proud, haughty, and scornful, and thus to form distinctions and classes. It is certainly a cause for gladness that the curse will end, and that our necessity will no longer furnish opportunities for such abuse.

Let every believer magnify the Lord, and rejoice in the provisions of his grace, that every thing that has tended to their annoyance and discomfort even, as well as those that have caused their deepest perils and sorrows, shall be forever removed, when the divine King shall appear, and begin his appointed reign upon the earth. And to those who love his appearing, it may be a matter of deep interest, that the evidence is of such strength that his reign will begin in 1875. I hope the whole church wil be in readiness to joyfully meet him when he comes.

Hartford, Ct.

Half-hearted service is poor service. "Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as to the Lord, and not unto men."

"GOD'S LOVING-KINDNESS."

C. MENDENHALL.

When we see in the present evil world so much sorrow and selfishness, caused by "man's inhumanity to man," it makes the loving-kindness of God loom up more brightly by contrast. Men abuse the confidence or ignorance of their fellow-beings. They will sacrifice the prosperity and sometimes even the life of an other to gain some desired end. But God has provided a way of pardon to those who sin against him.

This loving-kindness was so great for humanity that He sent his only-begotten Son to redeem and restore that which was lost. Men betray their friends, but God opens a plan which will help and heal those who have hated, despised and abused him, and trampled upon his laws. It is written —"God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Rom. 5: 8. His loving-kindness is manifested in many other ways, and saint and sinner alike enjoy his goodness.

The works of God, from the meanest insect to man, from the tiny spear of grass to the mammoth trees of the tropics, are unmistakable evidences of his creative power and exceeding kindness. With a diversity of creatures there is a corresponding difference in their necessities. These have been provided for. The foxes have holes, the birds their nests, and they have food adapted to their wants; so man is cared for. "Therefore I say unto you, take no thought for yourself, what ye shall eat or what ye shall drink, nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. . . . Behold the fowls of the air; for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?"

His kindness is shown to us in our every day life. He has given us sight, and provides things to look upon. He has given us lungs, and air to breathe; other organs are perfected in us, and adapted to their peculiar functions. The revolutions of the earth, in regular order bring day and night. The seasons, each brings its particular productions, and all his works redound to his glory and to our benefit. This kindness extends to futurity.

God would have all men accept his Son, whom to know aright is life eternal. He will redeem those who love and obey him, from the embrace of death; clothe them with immortality and grant them an endless home in Eden restored.

Sinner, his kindness extends gracious offers to you; will you not accept them? Through his mercy and goodness you have life, intellect, preaching, praying, and an open Bible. It remains with you whether you will be benefitted thereby. Will you not "lay hold of eternal life?" Salvation is free. You are needy, fallen, helpless. Take the gift of God, supply your wants without money and without price, raise yourself by the power of God in Christ Jesus, receive the strength which is promised, and will be imparted to all who trust in Him.

His kindness saves us from present sin, gives us power to conquer, and will keep us unto the coming of Christ Jesus.

Let us all, then, contemplate the goodness of God in all things; even in afflictions, knowing that he doeth all things well. Trusting in Christ we can fearlessly wage war against inward and outward foes, knowing that

"Though numerous hosts of mighty foes,
Though earth and hell my way oppose,
He safely leads my soul along;
His loving-kindness, oh how strong!"

"How excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures." Ps. 36: 7, 8.

Wilmington, Del.

PARADISE.

Yes, our blessed Redeemer, who died between two thieves, will yet make the place of his feet glorious. (Isa. 40; 13.) His rest shall be glorious. (11: 10.) He will be the glorious Lord (33: 21,) in the glorious land (Dan. 11: 16); and his presence in the world that once refused him a place on which to lay his head, will make the metropolis of his vast empire the joy of the whole earth. (Ps. 48: 2.) The garden of the first Adam must have been surpassingly beautiful, with its flowers, and fruit, and trees, and river; but there was a serpent in it; its area was limited; and the whole scene fades from view with the failure of the man to whom the fine estate was given; but the paradise of the second Adam, the perfect One, the Redeemer of the inheritance, the Conqueror of death and Satan, the Life Giver, the Magnifier of his Father's law and the glorifier of his Father's name—who shall describe it?

Beautiful, transcendently magnificent, beyond the richest dream of poetic imagination must it be! He and those who love him are to inhabit the choicest world in creation; for he can be trusted—having been tried and found faithful; and they, accepted in him, shall share with him the delights of the great Eden of the restitution, without a forbidden tree, a serpent, or the shadow of death.

The paradise of the future will be as much superior, both in grandeur and extent, to that of the past, as is the nature of the second Adam to that of the first. For redemption includes the moral, the mental, and the material; and when men become loyal to the great King, the future habitable world (Heb. 2: 6, Greek) will be habitable in the strict sense of that word—a place of health, and happiness, without plague, or famine, or war, ferocious beast, or deadly reptile.—Rainbow.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

☞ SPECIAL NOTICE

To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis.

AG'T.

THE NEW KING OF SPAIN.

It is no new thing to have a prince who was born the legitimate heir to a throne, crowned as a king. But the case of King Alfonso is surrounded by peculiar, and we think very ominous circumstances. He ascends the throne as a Catholic king; the only one occupying that position in the world.

The Editor of the Catholic organ—Paris Monde—anticipating the separation of the Roman church and the Austrian government said,—"If Austria succumbs, there will be no state depending upon the Vicar of Jesus Christ. All will have abjured the official character of the Catholic faith." This did take place in 1870. Said Dr. Cummings—"Austria even, long the dungeon of Europe, always the guardian of the Pope when no one else could be found to support him, shocked at the Pope's assumption of an attribute of Deity, tore the concordat into shreds, and cast it to the winds, and renounces the Pope's jurisdiction in Austria, root and branch." Then did the proud harlot become a widow, as said the prophet. Her crowned husbands had all died officially, and "closed the Catholic cycle of modern peoples." This did cause, as the editor suggested, "the church and world to enter upon new struggles." The surging waves of this new struggle caused by all States having abjured the official character of the Catholic faith. The governments have occupied the time in preparing for this church to rise up and grasp the reins of civil government, and thus reduce them to vassalage to its professedly infallible dictation.

It has been clearly seen as we have frequently stated, that the Jesuitical party were determined to fill some throne with a Catholic ruler, who could be controlled by the Papal wire pullers. It has also appeared evident that they were concentrating their efforts to place such rulers on the thrones of France and Spain. Their dependence has not been placed on either nation, or both united, to send armies to put down the Italian government, and reinstate the Pope in civil power; but they have made arrangements to obtain soldiers and arms from all the nations where there are Catholic believers, and thus produce an army commanded by such a king or president, as could overpower any opposition that might be brought against it. To produce such a result, and to obtain a part of the armies of the opposing nations, and thus get trained soldiers, with their arms in their hands, placed there by the anticatholic governments, they are teaching their people that an oath, binding them to obey the rulers of anticatholic governments is not binding upon them when the requirements of such rulers conflict with the requirements of the Pope. The European soldiers have been taught that they must fight for their king or government; but the Catholics are now receiving a new education,—that they must fight for their church, and obey as of the highest authority the commands of the Pope. Mr. Gladstone shows that this is the great design of the dogma of infallibility.

If this programme can be carried out, then, when a war commences between two governments of these great parties,—Spain and Italy for instance, all the Italian soldiers who receive the Pope as their supreme ruler will desert the army of Italy, and go over to that of Spain. By this plan, the young king of Spain has had promised him nearly half of the soldiers of Europe, and a very large army from the United States, whenever he shall raise his arm to restore to the throne of earth the Papal blood-thirsty tyrant—the Pope. The Jesuit's reckon that about a third part of the German, English, and Austrian armies could be thus rallied under the Pope's standard, raised by his authorized standard-bearer. It is thought that a very large part of the French army can be carried on to the side of the church, by exciting them with the spirit of revenge against Germany.

These circumstances make the accession of the young prince Alfonso to the Spanish throne very ominous of the fact, that the culminating point of the great struggle of the Mother of Harlots is rapidly approaching. Her first programme was to put Don Carlos on the Spanish throne, and the Count De Chambord on the French throne; but there were obstacles in the way of each, which could not be overcome. The struggle between the Carlists and Republicans in Spain has been long and fearful. Bismarck saw the arrangement, and learned that the priest party were receiving help from their brethren of other countries, and would probably gain the victory, and to prevent this, he laid the heavy hand of the Empire on the Carlists, to prevent their prince from ascending the throne.

It was generally understood that these royal aspirants had covenanted with the Pope that, if they were successful in obtaining kingly power, they would exercise it to restore him to his coveted position of supreme headship of all human government. When the Carlists were nearly exhausted and in despair, and the Republicans were worn out and ready to make any change of government, except to give the throne to their antagonist, Don Carlos, the Jesuits saw their chance to put Alfonso on the throne, who agreed to support the Ultramontane party, and restore the Pope if possible. Thus the snare has been sprung most artfully, and the priests have gained a decided victory. The first act of the new king is to proclaim universal amnesty to all Carlists, which will evidently be immediately accepted; for that is the party in fact which has come into power. It is a very significant circumstance that, just at this juncture, when the Republicans of Spain are suddenly ensnared by the Ultramontanes, the Republicans of France should be suddenly startled with "McMahon's affiliation with the Ultramontanes."

It is well understood that President McMahon was made the Executive of France because he was in favor of restoring the Pope's temporal power; but after his inauguration he manifested so little inclination to do it, that he has been considered as somewhat favoring the opposite side. The reason for this must be obvious. The army was in no condition for war, and Germany stood ready to strike at an hour's warning; therefore it was not good policy to manifest their real intentions until preparations could be made and arrangements completed for a united effort by the Catholics in all countries at the same time. It appears that the programme has been so far executed, that the under current is now rising to the surface and the real intentions more boldly manifested.

All of this we think is in perfect harmony with the prophecy. The harlot must first be seated "in the dust," "on many waters," without a throne. This will cause her to indignantly protest, and say, "I shall be a lady forever." "I am and none else beside me" (the only church of God). I shall not sit as "a widow" (throneless, and in the dust), neither shall I know the "loss of my children." (I will have kings which I can call my sons).

Let us hear what God says about the matter when she says—"I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow." Rev. 18: 7. "Therefore shall her plagues come in one day; death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire; for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her. "He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity; he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword." This power has led captive and killed, not politically, but with the sword, physically, millions of God's people; so she must be killed. She has shed the blood of saints. God will give her blood to drink. Again, God says of her—"Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels. Let now the astrologers, the stargazers, the monthly prognosticators [those professing to foretell great victories and triumph for her], stand up, and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee."

The Catholic world is stirred to its depths; they have assembled their "councils" at Rome, and are about to meet at London to perfect their arrangements to raise the Pope to the throne of earth again. But God replies to their heaven-daring boasting in this withering sentence—"Behold, they shall be stubble; the fire shall burn them; they shall not deliver themselves from the power of the flame." The divine comment made upon this burning by the Revelator is given thus: "The ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire." These ten horns are evidently the Italian governments, organized in 1815, which are now all united under Victor Emanuel, so that the ten now act jointly, doing the same thing, as represented. It is a well known fact that the Italian government is in deadly opposition to the present designs of the Papacy, in relation to the Pope's exercising temporal power. This is the primary reason why Alfonso is made king of Spain, and why McMahon now steps upon the stage and attempts to commit the French government to the interests of the Pope. If these circumstances result in war, and if the great parties carry out their purposes as published, it must result in a general and terrible one; and we cannot conceive how any Bible student can locate it in the serial prophecies at any other point excepting at the last battle—the ending of the gospel age.

If we are correct in applying these exciting events to the prophecies we have referred to, then the result of the coming woeful struggle is settled by the declarations of Jehovah. The "lady of kingdoms" is doomed to a complete and eternal overthrow. She must sink like a mill-stone, be burned in the fires of the last day. God will be avenged on her for the blood of his saints which she has shed without mercy. Her reign has been long and oppressive. She has arrayed herself in scarlet and fine linen, and decked herself in jewels and precious stones. She has sat upon the throne of the kingdoms, and bound kings and princes at her pleasure. She has hunted the friends of Jesus as the partridge is hunted upon the mountains, and caught millions of them in her snares of death, and gloried in their indescribable tortures. Has she been converted from such heathenish barbarities? Does she accept of modern civilization?—the equality of men? the right of conscience and free speech? No. The Papacy claims to-day that they did right, and according to the infallible decrees of the church, when they butchered the millions of dissenters without mercy. The Pope is in mourning to-day because of modern civilization and free schools and speech. They are arming their subjects, and crowning kings, that they may take the sword of persecution and pile up the faggots once more. If the Jesuits triumph in this effort, the world will be carried back a thousand years, and let down into the pit of darkness and monkish superstition.

J. C.

STRANGE DOCTRINES.

It seems as though professed ministers of Christ were trying to invent new doctrines, adapted to the tastes of the people in these last days. Their hearers call for new things, so the preacher endeavors to give them novelties, instead of the plain truths of the Bible. We were forcibly struck with this fact in reading the report of Mr. W. H. H. Murray's sermon, Nov. 22nd, 1874. Mr. Murray is a very popular preacher, who has been the pastor of the Park Street church, Boston, until recently, when he resigned because the church did not consent to adopt his plans. His subject at the time named was "christian growth."

In the course of his remarks, he took occasion to say, as reported:

"If the body represents you, then you may sadden; then may you fear; but if it does not represent you—if it is not a part of you even, but only an attachment to you, the use of which you have had for a season but now outgrown, and hence by the wise kindness of your heavenly Father are about to be delivered from it, then you should be greatly consoled and stayed up in your minds as you pass through the experience of the separation. Suffer then this word of comfort.

To me, friends, you seem to be at the most growthful period of all your lives. You are at that point of development that a bird is when it stands perched on the edge of the dull, earthy nest in which life did indeed come to it, but which it has outgrown by reason of the beautiful wings that have come to it. And so it shakes its plumage, and stretches and tries its wings, and finding the moment has come, says: 'Good bye, old nest, you have served me well; you have been a good home to me in my weakness, but I am no longer weak; I am strong; I am no longer unfledged, I am plumed; I have outgrown you, and you are not fit for me longer. I feel the prompting in me to go. Good bye, old nest, I fly away.' And up into the pure air; up into the bright sunshine; up into the larger liberties and joy of boundless flight the glad bird mounts.

So you stand as regards your bodies, for your bodies are no more to you than the nest is to the bird. You were born in them, but have outgrown them. They have been a home to you while you were young and weak, and could not feed nor move yourselves, but now God sees better than you how strong you are, how ready for flight you are, and he is shaking the bough and bringing destruction to the nest in which you are and to which you cling, that he may force you off into liberty and life and growth everlasting. Oh, friends, this is not death you are coming to, but life. That is the gate of heaven, not the door of a tomb, ahead of you.

Mr. Murray says with much truth: "The ology is no more settled than geology." Again, Mr. Murray says:

"And thus it comes about that man outgrows this present life, as a rose outgrows the vase, as I trust and pray you are all outgrowing it. He comes to a point of time when he must needs be transplanted, and so God separates him from earthly conditions and gives him heavenly ones, and out of the bondage of the mortal he is mercifully taken to the liberty of the immortal state."

Let us see if this theology is any more settled than geology. Is the bird's nest any part of the bird? Is the "vase," in which the rose was growing, any part of the rose? But is the body no more a part of the man, than the nest is of the bird, or the vase of the rose? Has the nest any life or sensation when it holds the birds? Has the vase any life when it contains the rose? But has not the body of the living man life and feeling? Will any one say, even Mr. Murray himself, that the body has no more connection with a man, than the lifeless mass of sticks in the bird's nest has with the bird? The bird made the nest to hold its eggs and little ones, but the nest is in no sense a part of the bird. Neither is the vase in any possible sense a part of the rose. A man's house in which he lives with his family, may be properly compared to the bird's nest, or the vase, but to say that a man's body is like a vase, or a bird's nest, is, to say the least, a very "strange doctrine."

Will Mr. Murray tell us how one can be any body without a body? What does the apostle mean, when he says: "This corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality?" Does he mean this corruptible body? or does he mean corruptible spirit? Does he mean mortal body? or mortal spirit? If he means body, what becomes of Mr. Murray's theology? If Paul means spirit, then what becomes of Mr. Murray's theology, which teaches that the real man is immortal, and consequently cannot put on immortality?

Again, what does the apostle mean when he says: "The Lord Jesus Christ . . . shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body?" Does Mr. Murray believe that the body of Christ was no more to him than a bird's nest to the birds? If so, what does the apostle mean when he says: "For they themselves show of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God; and to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, which delivered us from the wrath to come." 1 Thess. 1: 9–10. Here we are taught that the Son of God, for whom we are to wait, is the one whom God "raised from the dead." Was the body of Christ raised from the dead? Does Mr. Murray deny? Then let Paul address him as follows:

"Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen. And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that he raised up Christ; whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not. For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised; and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." 1 Cor. 15: 12–18.

It will be observed that Paul teaches most plainly that our only hope of a future life rests in the fact that Christ was raised from the dead; and that if he was not thus raised "then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." Hence Paul teaches that there is no future life for man, if what Mr. Murray compares to the bird's nest is not raised. Mr. Murray says for the birds: "Good bye, old nest. . . . I have outgrown you, and you are not fit for me any longer. . . . Good bye, old nest, I fly away." And then says to his hearers: "So you stand as regards your bodies; for your bodies are no more to you than the nest is to the bird." Mr. Murray talks just like a Spiritualist on this subject.

He says the body was a "home to you while you were young and weak, and could not feed and move yourselves." What does Mr. Murray think about the old person, who has become a second child, with his senses so impaired that he cannot feed himself any better than when he was an infant? Does not his weakness require a "home" as much as when he was first a child? How will he get along if he flies away in that weak state? And how does the infant that dies manage to fly in its extreme weakness? Do the birds fly away as soon as they are hatched? According to Mr. Murray's theology, they must stay in the nest till they are sufficiently grown, or developed, to live without a nest.

Will Mr. Murray tell his hearers how he ascertained that man can live without a body, as well as a full-grown bird can live without remaining in the nest where it was hatched? Has the man without the body any eyes, ears, mouth, head, hands, feet, or other physical organs? Can he walk, talk, see, hear, taste, smell, or feel? If he has none of them, then he is nobody, and knows nothing. We think Mr. Murray will do well to become better settled in his theology.

M. G.

STATE OF EUROPE.

The present aspect of things in Europe is attracting much attention from careful observers. But one conclusion is arrived at by most who are watching the signs of the times. The conviction is deep that a fierce war must soon begin in the Old World, that will be conducted on a scale more extensive than any war in modern times. It is said that the four leading governments in Europe have three million of men ready for the battle-field, and others are being qualified as fast as possible. A conflict between Papacy and Protestantism is rapidly approaching. The Pope and his supporters are determined that the infallibility dogma shall be acknowledged by the whole world, and that they shall accept him as their supreme head. The anti-Catholics are firmly decided that they will not submit to any such dictation. The issue must come, and we think it will be speedily. When the war clouds do burst forth, the storm must be terrible, and the results awful in the extreme. Such, at least, is the present aspect of things.

The year now begun may be expected to be one of startling events. Evidences that we are near the end of the present dispensation keep multiplying about us on every side. Praise the Lord, that we are so near the glorious event of the coming of our dearest friend—Jesus. Let us acknowledge him in all our ways, so that he may direct our steps.

M. G.

A SAD PICTURE.

Here and there may be found a faithful watchman, who is sounding an alarm in consequence of the low conditon of practical religion in the churches. Prof. Finney, of Oberlin College, is one of these men. He says:

M. G.

"Spiritual apathy is almost all-pervading and is fearfully deep; so the religious press of the whole land testifies. It comes to our ears and our eyes, also through the religious prints, that extensively church members are becoming devotees of fashion—join hands with the ungodly in parties of pleasure, in festivals, etc. But we need not expand this painful subject. Suffice it that the evidence thickens and rolls heavily upon us to show that the churches are becoming sadly degenerated. They have gone very far from the Lord, and he has withdrawn himself from them."

SANTA CLARA.

The meetings in Santa Clara are daily increasing in interest. Several have been richly blest. The audiences are large, and prejudice is rapidly departing. The prospect is specially encouraging, and it is expected that the church will soon stand firmer than ever before. It has passed through very sore trials during the past year, but the Lord is giving special help. Quite a number from the different churches, including three ministers, have attended the meetings, and are much pleased. In our preaching we have been examining the positions taught by the Sabbath people, and see very encouraging results. The seventh-day Sabbath folks had a tent here last summer for some two months, and produced quite a sensation, but their fruit is rapidly dropping off.

We have taken occasion to expose Mrs. E. G. White's visions, showing, we think, beyond all controversy, that they do not come from the Lord. On this point there is no room for doubt, when the facts are fully known. It seems strange that any one should be so blinded as to believe that she is a true prophetess, yet, it has been thus voted by the seventh-day people in the California conference. It is certain that her visions and prophecies are no more reliable than those received through Spiritualists' mediums. We feel most fully prepared to sustain these sayings before any intelligent audience, and hereby invite any of the seventh-day preachers to a public investigation of this subject.

M. G.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"

A Work upon the Immateriality of Man.

HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.

BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail.

AG'T.

THE POPE'S SUCCESSOR.

The great age of the Pope makes it necessary that some preparations be made for his successor. The college of Cardinals has made a request that the Pope nominate his successor, with the understanding that the one he may select shall be appointed. A writer on the subject says:

"The man who has been thus indicated is Lucien Bonaparte, a cousin of the late Emperor. He is said to be the greatest scholar in Europe. He is yet young, only thirty-three or thirty-four."

Of course, no one knows whether there will be another Pope, but a change of some kind cannot be far in the future. We are anxiously waiting for the opening of the next great drama in earth's history.

The following statement, made by a Roman Catholic priest, shows the true spirit of Papacy. This was called out on account of the suppression of the Jesuits in Germany. It was published in Kempteur Leitung:

M. G.

"We, the priests, are as high above the governments, emperors, kings, and princes of the world, as the heavens are above the earth. Kings and princes of this world are as much beneath us as lead compared to the finest, purest gold. Angels and archangels are far beneath the priests, for we can forgive sins as God himself, which faculty angels and archangels never possessed. We stand above the Mother of God, for she has given birth to Christ only once; we priests produce and create him every day—yea, the priests may be said to stand above God himself, because he must be at their service at all hours and in all places; and at our bidding, in the consecration in every mass, he must come down from his heavens. God has created the world with the words, 'Let there be,' but we priests made God himself with three words. Therefore, in those times when faith and Christianity (?) still existed, the priest was held in the highest honor; the people—yea, the emperors and kings—have thrown themselves down before him, and have kissed the soil where he had planted or imprinted his foot."

CALIFORNIA STYLE.

Californians are truly lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God," yet there are some as true christian people as can be found anywhere. The majority of church members seem to have but a faint idea of what it is to follow Christ. They do not come out from the world, but unite with it, heart and hand. The following, taken from the San Francisco Daily Call is a sample:

M. G.

PRESBYTERIAN FESTIVAL.

"The large Music Hall was crowded full last evening by our citizens, to witness the peculiar programme offered by the managers of the festival. The singing by the ladies and gentlemen was very fine, and the music by the San Jose Silver Band of a high order. The farce was one of the most comical affairs that has ever been attempted in San Jose. The text was the Mother Goose' rhymes, each verse being represented by some of the ladies or gentlemen, with appropriate and picturesque costumes. In the character of the 'Old Woman that Lived in the Shoe,' there was a little shaver dressed to resemble the 'white-hat philosopher,' with a copy of the Tribune under his arm, and his letter of acceptance in his hand. This character was received with great applause, as the personation was good."

TO BRN. AND SRS. IN BUFFALO, N.Y.

As we are nearing the coming of our Lord, and as I am desirous to have all who love him meet together for worship, so as to obey the injunction of the apostle to "meet together, and so much the more as we see the day approaching," therefore I hope that you will remember the time, viz: the first Sunday in each month, at 10.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M., at 528 Eagle St. Street cars run by the house. A general invitation is given for all. Brethren and sisters, pray for Buffalo, and for me, that I may be able to give meat in due season.

JOHN T. ONGLEY.

P. S.—Advent Times please copy, also my appointments.

J. T. O.

I HAVE been sick for three long years with consumption; and believing God will hear and answer prayer, I ask the prayers of the children of God for my recovery.

Roxbury, Ct. T. W. LEAVENWORTH.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, a a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$201.16
Acknowledged last week, with additional from L. Nutting of 10 cts	12.70
Frank	20.00
A Friend	.95
D. N.	1.88
N. Collins	6.00
F. M. Hoxford	.75
T. M. Little	.50
Mrs. M. M. Wells	.75
P. S. Ward	2.00
H. C. Corbin	1.00
Joseph Kimball	2.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$48.58
Frank	20.00

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$2,968 70
Frank	20.00
A Friend	5.00
"C."	2.00
G. P. Pearson	.50
P. S. Wade	2.00
"C."	2.00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$36.00
Sr. R.	15.00
D. N.	3.00
Joseph Kimball	3.00
M. A. Elliott	1.00
H. E. Palmer	35.00
A Friend	5.60
Frank	40.00

MISSION WORK.

Dear Editors, and Brn. and Srs.:—The Lord is blessing our labors. All praise be to him. Our meetings at Reno were refreshing, and the children were encouraged to press onward toward the saints' rest. While having meetings there, we went to Tonganoxie, six miles distant, to see a Bro. Hubble. While there he gave us an invitation to come to this place, where we now are, and have a series of meetings. We took the matter before the Lord in prayer, and decided to come the 19th.

This Bro. belongs to the Christian denomination, is an able man, and has preached many years for them; but now he has changed his views on a number of points, and is letting his light shine among his own people. He was at our tent meeting a year ago at Reno, and while there he saw new light. We gave him works to read. He went home and investigated the subjects, and has now fully adopted the Bible hope of a resurrection from the dead, and of no immortality out of Christ, and the entire cutting off of sin and the sinner, and the change of the face of the earth when the Restorer comes. He is a godly man, and lives his religion daily. His influence is salutary, at home and abroad. We do praise the Lord for such help. He is poor in this world, yet rich in faith. Who will send him the Crisis for a year? Any one that will, please send to Bro. Adams, and receive favor from the Lord and thanks from your unworthy brother. He will enjoy it, and use it to the glory of God.

Yesterday, the 20th, we had a full meeting. This is a new place, and many came out to hear something new. Bro. Hubble wished me to preach. He has been laboring here once each month for some time. He has the respect of all. The Lord abundantly blest yesterday in presenting the truth. We spoke from Dan. 7: 27. Thank the Lord for his glorious truth, and the complete fulfillment of his prophetic word. At night we introduced the "rest that remaineth for the children of God." Deep interest was manifested. And Bro. Hubble arose and said he had changed his opinions on some points, and thought that we had proclaimed the truth.

At the close of the meetings many came for tracts. These tracts carry a power with them; they are good to scatter after preaching in a new place, where an interest is awakened. Those sent me at Lawrence have been received, and some of them scattered. We do wish we had a thousand dollars to send to help publish these messengers of truth, to scatter broadcast among the people. We hope and pray that those who have the means will lend a helping hand in this direction. Now is the time for active movement, while the day lasts, for the night cometh when no man can work.

Pray for us; for the effectual fervent prayer availeth much. From your Bro. and Sr. in gospel labor, J. C. & S. E. SMITH.

Jarbalo, Leavenworth Co., Kan. Dec. 21.

HOOSICK VALLEY CONFERENCE.

Editors of Crisis:—Our Hoosick Valley Quarterly Meeting at Hebron, N. Y., Jan. 20th, is in a central point to most of the preachers and churches, and there should be a very general attendance, especially of the preachers. We meet to learn from each other the spiritual condition and welfare of preachers, churches, and all who are scattered throughout the bounds of our Conference, to learn of what has been done, of what is being done, and consult together for the best means of doing in the future. We want to know the condition, prosperity, spiritual standing and faithfulness of all our preachers in the Conference, without being obliged to give an ear to any hear-says. Preachers who neither attend nor report themselves to a Conference to which they belong, cannot complain if dealt with for their neglect, according to the rules of the Conference. Any Conference is better with four living, active preachers, than with one hundred formal, inactive ones. Much good has been done in some localities since our last Conference. Some preachers outside of our Conference have been working with us. Come to this feast in the Spirit of our Master, with a budget of encouraging facts of the past, and words of good cheer for the future. Some two, and perhaps three preachers of other localities are intending to be with us.

Those coming to Conference from the South must be at Eagle Bridge as early as 6.15 A. M., or else they will be obliged to take a train leaving Eagle Bridge a little after six o'clock in the evening for Rupert. Those coming on that late train from North or South Adams way, should write on a card to William Lincoln, Hebron, N. Y., what day they will come, so that a team will be in waiting for them at Rupert in the evening. Do not fail to notify, or you will have to wait at Rupert until the next day noon.

H. K. FLAGG.

Rutland, Vt., Jan. 8th, 1875.

Correspondence.

From Bro. A. J. Young.

Dear Crisis:—I thought a few words from the little band in Vallejo would interest all your readers, and especially the dear ones who are looking for the consummation of the blessed hope which is set before us.

I would like to tell you all about what we have had to pass through during the past six or seven months, but time and space will not permit me so to do. I feel more anxious to tell you how good Jesus has been to keep us through it all. Surely his grace is sufficient, We laid all on the altar two years ago, making an entire consecration, and we are now fully satisfied that the step was in the right direction. All who made a bold stand at that time are stronger to-day than ever. The theme of holiness and purity have been always prominent, and is with us to-day; and by the help of the Lord we mean it ever shall be till Jesus comes. I am sure Bro. Grant can truly say that he found the church on good strong ground, notwithstanding the efforts of Satan to pull it down. We left it entirely in the hands of Jesus, who cares more for his children than any one else. How good he is!

Bro. Grant has held a series of meetings which have resulted in much good. The church needed a refreshing. Not that any have lost their faith, but the warfare through which we have passed, made all feel as though they really hungered for a deeper work; and the Lord, who is always so glad to give, has refreshed his children in Vallejo. Praise his name! One brother took a decided stand for Jesus and was baptized. One young lady and a young man (a German), also started anew, and will soon be baptized we trust. Many others, who said they had not been inside of a church for ten years, were deeply interested, and desired to be christians. May God help them!

The church was greatly strengthened, and our meetings now are sweeter than before. We have been without a minister, except occasionally. We are now assured that the church is stronger, and on higher ground than ever. We find it so comforting and sweet to keep in Jesus all the time, that we have no desire to look in any other direction. We still expect Bro. Carpenter to help us. May the Lord direct. Pray for us, that we may keep all on the altar.

Vallejo, Cal.

From D. K. Barrett, Jr.

To the Editors of the Crisis, and all the dear saints of God scattered abroad:—The Lord be praised for what he is doing for us, unworthy ones, through Jesus Christ his Son, whom he makes unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and soon he will be our redemption. He is our all in all, and all-sufficient. You cannot sing too loud his praise, nor over-estimate his great grace. He has done so much for me and my dear brethren and sisters of the North Springfield church, that I want the news of it spread abroad, to the praise of the glory of his great name. I thank the Lord for leading me by a way I knew not.

In 1867 I heard Bro. Grant preach the first sermon I ever heard setting forth the truths so dear to me now, in the large tent at Washington, D. C. From that time the light has seemed to shine more and more brightly upon the sacred Word. I was then fifteen years of age, and trying to serve the Lord. Three years ago the last day of Dec. I was baptized by Bro. H. F. Carpenter, at North Springfield, Vt., and united with the Advent Christian Church there. Blessings, great and innumerable, have followed me ever since. Grace and peace have indeed been multiplied unto me through the knowledge of God. I have been trying to be wholly the Lord's,—a living sacrifice, holy, and acceptable unto God, through the sanctifying altar—Christ. Think of these words of Christ—"For their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth." John 17: 19. And compare it with Ex. 29: 37—"Seven days shalt thou make atonement for the altar, and sanctify it, and it shall be an altar most holy. Whatsoever toucheth the altar shall be holy."

Christ's holiness is my only hope. I learned this "way of holiness" more perfectly at Bethel Campmeeting, last fall. Since that time it has been blessed living. The brethren and sisters, before that meeting, many of them, could say—"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ"; but now quite a number can add—"By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God." And "the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us." We begin to learn how to rejoice when we fall into divers temptations; knowing that the trying of our faith worketh patience, to the end we may be perfect and entire.

Chester, Vt., Dec. 22nd, 1874.

From Bro. Geo. Thomson.

Dear Editors:—Although I am very weak, yet I desire to praise the Lord for raising up kind friends to remember me in my infirmity and helplessness. I wish to acknowledge the following donations: Bro. Geo. Bailey, $1. L. B. S., $5. D. D. Reed, $1. Robert Holder, $4. A friend (by the hand of W. E. Carter), $2. Bro. H. Button (by the hand of W. Sheldon), $4. Bro. W. Sheldon, $1. A friend, 50 cts. T. W. Brooks (by the hand of Geo. T. Adams) $5. Bro. Henry Zader, $5. Matthew Croft (by the hand of D. Clow) $5. Alida Mapes, $1. Bro. J. Hodges, $5.

From C. Crowell.

Dear Brn. and Srs. of like precious faith: "Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin that doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." He is the Rock that we must build upon. We should see what material we build of, for every man's work shall be tried. Let us build of that precious material that will stand the test in the burning day, which we believe is near. Time is short. What we do must be done quickly. Brethren and sisters, let us work while the day lasts. My prayer is, that we may be cleansed from all sin; for we must be pure in heart if we would see God.

I have been trying to serve my Master for many years, but never saw the truth clearly until within the last two years. Praise God's holy name for his goodness and mercy bestowed on me. I live out in this western country, where I do not have the privilege of hearing the gospel preached much; but my hope is in Christ. He is able to keep us through all our trials. We have a small company that have covenanted together to work for the Lord, and we are looking for his soon coming. But it is rather hard living without any preaching. We have a weekly prayer-meeting, and they are blessed seasons. I believe the Lord is with us. My prayer is that the Lord will send some one this way who feels it duty to preach the gospel to the poor. He would find a large field. It is some forty miles to the nearest Advent preacher.

Brethren, pray that God may send forth more laborers into his vineyard; for truly the harvest is great, but the laborers are few. Pray for us, that our faith fail not, and that we may hold out till Jesus comes.

Pleasanton, Kansas.

From Bro. Geo. A. Carroll.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—I feel it my duty to write a few words for your encouragement, and to let you know what the Lord is doing for us here in South Carolina. I have been here since the 22nd of Sept. I found Bro. Bowman struggling along alone, and faithfully trying to discharge his duty to God and his fellow men. I was much surprised to find so many who are looking for the coming of the Lord, as the fruit of his labors. I doubt if there is another who could fill Bro. Bowman's place among this people. I think that the Lord has raised him up for this especial mission.

Bro. Simpson and wife, from Concord, N. H., are with us, so that we now have quite a force in the field. Bro. S. is throwing a flood of light on the prophecies, and the people are being awakened to the great truth that the Lord is soon coming to establish his kingdom and bring his people home. Many are longing for the time to come when his "sign" shall appear in the heavens, showing that deliverance is near. It pains me to know that Bro. Simpson is soon to return home. I feel as though we were to be left alone. I know that Bro. Bowman will feel the loss deeply, but thank the Lord, the time is short, and parting among God's children will soon be at an end. Let us watch and wait, for "the night is far spent, the day is at hand."

Pray for us, that the Lord may strengthen us unto every good word and work till Jesus comes.

Andrews Mills, Darlington Co., S. C.

From Sr. M. J. Whitney.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—I have been a constant reader of the Crisis for about five years, and have taken real pleasure in perusing its columns, and in hearing from those of like precious faith. I embraced Jesus five years ago this winter, and have tried to live out the principles and precepts of the gospel. I am still holding on to the "blessed hope" and looking for the "glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ," when he comes to be admired in all those that believe, and to take vengeance on those that know not God, and obey not his Word.

I think we are truly living amid the perils of the last days. The world lies in wickedness, and in consequence of the iniquity that abounds the love of many is waxing cold. But, thank God, they that endure to the end shall be saved. May the good Lord help us to endure as good soldiers of the cross, fight the battles valiantly, and come off conquerors, and more than conquerors, through Him who has loved us.

Stowe, Vt., Dec. 27th, 1874.

From Bro. C. Barnes.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—I feel like addressing to you a few words through the Crisis. I praise the Lord for the Crisis. I have been looking for Jesus ever since 1843, and I am still looking for him. I am waiting for him. I praise the Lord for what he has done for me. Since Bro. Streeter baptized me at North Rutland, I feel that Jesus is my brother. I pray that I may be ready for the judgment. Brn. and Srs., be ready to meet Jesus when he comes. He is coming soon.

ALARMING MILITARY PREPARATIONS IN GERMANY.

A new law for organizing the Landsturm has just been prepared in Germany. Il other words, the whole able-bodied population, from the youth of seventeen to the man of sixty, are now to be trained to military service. The "Times" says upon this —"When Napoleon III. rashly plunged France into war in 1870, he had an army of three hundred thousand men; but the German forces were three times as numerous. The result was that the French army was driven in and crushed. But the German statesmen perceive that this advantage will not be obtained so easily a second time. One thing is beyond a doubt. The new French army is immensely larger than the old one. In fact, if the plans of the French government be carried out, and the finances of the country will bear the strain, no long time will elapse before France will have a national force equal to that of Germany in 1870. If Germany is to retain its present superiority, this new law may be a necessary measure, but it is an ominous sign that this is the first time in the present century that preparations have been made for organizing the Landsturm in time of peace." The "Daily Telegraph" also re gards it as a portentous event.

The organizing of these vast military hosts is in exact accordance with the prediction in Rev. 16: 12–16, that at the present time "evil spirits should gather the nations to the war of Armageddon." The result will soon be seen in the most tremendous battles, and "the time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time." Dan. 12: 1.—Signs of our Times.

Married.

GARLOCK—WRIGHT. In Alton, N. Y., Dec. 29th, 1874, by Eld. S. C Gove, GEORGE J. GARLOCK and AMANDA WRIGHT, both of Sodus Point.

Obituaries.

CALDERWOOD. In Lincolnville, July 22d, 1874, of paralysis, Sr. Prudence, wife of Bro. Ephraim Calderwood, aged 75 years.

In early life sister C. was converted to Christ, and joined the M. E. Church. In 1842 she heard and embraced the message of Christ's soon coming, and cast her influence with those who wait for their Lord. Sister C. has lived a devoted, active christian, a faithful wife and mother, and died in the blessed hope of soon being raised immortal to enjoy eternal life. She had lived a praying life over sixty years. A believing but lonely husband and five children are left to mourn the work of death, and await the resurrection of the just to meet a beloved wife and mother in the new earth. May all so follow Christ as to dwell with him in that blessed world, and share the glory of Christ and his eternal kingdom.

I. C. WELLCOME.

WETMORE. In Watson, Lewis Co., N. Y., Sept. 20th, 1874, Mrs. Alvina Wetmore, after much suffering.

Being one of the first and most faithful to attend our meetings in Watson, she will not soon be forgotten. She fully endorsed the Advent faith, and did all she could to sustain the cause, always acting in harmony with the principles of our dear Savior. She died with full confidence in God's word, and his power to save, and sweetly sleeps in Jesus, waiting for a part in the resurrection. Words of comfort by the writer.

C. H. WILLIAMS.

ALLEN. In Watson, Lewis Co., N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1874, Bro. Hiram R. Allen, aged 63 years.

Having suffered for many months with what was supposed to be cancer in the stomach, he desired to rest. For some years past he has rejoiced in the speedy coming of Jesus, and was exceedingly zealous in the cause of divine truth. He died with a full assurance of his acceptance with the Lord, and longed for the glorious appearing of Christ and the inauguration of the everlasting kingdom. Sermon by the writer.

C. H. WILLIAMS.

WEEKS. In Gilmanton, N. H., Dec. 2nd, 1874, Bro. James Weeks, aged about 80 years.

Bro. Weeks had been confined to the house for several years, but his trust was in God, and he bore his afflictions patiently. He loved the prayer meeting, which was at times held at his house. We miss his wise counsel and faithful exhortations. His end was peace. He sleeps, but not forever. May the Lord bless the mourning circle, and prepare them to meet him in the morning.

N. B. MCMURPHY.

BURBANK. In Auburn, Me., of scarlet fever, Jan. 2nd, 1875, Ora L. Burbank, aged six years, son of Bro. C. A. Burbank.

Bro. B.'s wife died ten weeks ago. Death is severing loved ones from our embrace, but his reign wtll soon be over. May the grace of God sustain our Bro. in his deep sorrow, and cheer him with the hope of a reunion on the deathless shore. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer. "It is well with the child."

G. L. TRACY.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Paris, Dec. 31. A telegraphic dispatch received in this city from Madrid, under to-day's date, says that Prince Alfonso, son of Ex-Queen Isabella, has been proclaimed King of Spain, and is recognized by all the forces comprising the armies of the North and Centre. Alfonso will "defend the rights of the Holy See," like his ancestors.

Alfonso has telegraphed to the Pope asking his blessing, and promising that he will, like his ancestors, defend the rights of the Holy See.

King Alfonso's Ministry is announced as follows: Castro, Minister of Foreign Affairs. Cardenas, Minister of Justice. Jovellar, Minister of War. Salaverrie, Minister of Finance. Molius, Minister of Marine. Robledo, Minister of the Interior. Orevio, Minister of Commerce. Ayala, Minister of the Colonies.

London, Jan. 1. Sixty thousand colliers in South Wales have struck work in consequence of a reduction in their wages.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Headquarters of Military Division of the Missouri, N. O., La., Jan. 4, 1875.

Hon. W. W. Belknap, secretary of war, Washington, D. C.: It is with deep regret that I have to announce to you the existence in this State of a spirit of defiance of all lawful authority, and an insecurity of life which is hardly realized by the general government of the country at large. The lives of citizens have become so jeopardized that, unless something is done to give protection to the people, all security usually afforded by law will be over-ridden by the mob. The murder of individuals seemed to be looked upon by the community here from a stand-point which gives to all who choose the right to indulge in either, and the civil government appears powerless to punish or even arrest. I have to-night assumed control over the department of the gulf.

(Signed) P. H. SHERIDAN, Lieut. Gen.

IMPORTANT ACTION OF THE BOSTON FIRE UNDERWRITERS' UNION.—The large number of fires of late apparent incendiary origin, has brought the members of the Boston Fire Underwriters' Union to a realizing sense of the great necessity of taking some steps to remedy the evil by preventing these fires if possible, or if not, at least to devise some means of detecting and bringing to justice the guilty parties. To this end a committee of the Union was appointed some time since; and after careful consideration it reported to the Union at a special meeting held last Thursday afternoon The plan as proposed by the committee was unanimously adopted at an unusually large meeting, and was as follows:

A committee was to be formed by the Union to be known as the Committee of Investigation into the Origin of Fires. This committee was to be authorized to employ a person of sufficient sagacity and detective ability to represent them in the investigation into the origin of all fires occurring in this city. Reports were to be made by this officer to the committee on the origin of every fire, irrespective of whether claims for losses were made on the companies or not; and in the event of fires, the causes for which were not satisfactorily explained to the committee, the adjustment of the loss was to be suspended for further investigation.

Kansas City, Dec 30. Two notorious horse thieves, named Tom Cox and George Alexander, who murdered a gentleman named White at Springfield, last October, were killed yesterday neai Kamulgee, Indiana, by Detective Yack of Springfield. Another notorious outlaw named Kinch West was mortally wounded.

In Brief.

—Halfman, formerly President of the Central Fire Insurance Company of Philadelphia, has been sentenced to States Prison for seven years and a half for forgery.

—Two persons were burned to death, and three fatally injured by a fire in Blanesville, Pa.

—King Alfonzo has granted full amnesty to all Carlists.

—The Pomona House at Fruitport, Mich., was burned Saturday night; loss $130,000.

—The public debt was increased in December $3,650,000.

—A boy sixteen years of age, and two young accomplices, have been detected in robbing the mails in New York.

—The cultivation of Jamaica ginger has reached a stage in Florida where it promises to be of surprising value.

—During the year 1873, 35,440 sheep were killed, and 35,035 injured by dogs in the State of Ohio, and the aggregate amount of loss from this cause was $156,318.

—Don Carlos has issued a proclamation announcing that he "will remain faithful to his holy mission," and fight King Alfonso as heartily as he did the republican government of Spain.

Notices.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

A quarterly session of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hebron, N. Y., commencing Jan. 20th, 1875, and continue over the following Sunday.

The church at Hebron extends a hearty invitation to all the lovers of truth, to come and enjoy this feast. It is earnestly requested that every member of the Conference make a special effort to be present, and that the churches and delegates do not fail to attend to this in season. We want a full representation from our churches. Those coming by R. R. will purchase tickets to Ruport, where they will find teams to take them to the place of meeting free of charge. Trains going North arrive at Ruport 8.30 A. M., and those going South at 11.30 A. M. Those coming on the early train will be under the necessity of waiting till the arrival of the 11.30 train before being conveyed to the place of meeting. Let us all pray that God will greatly bless this quarterly session, and that Hebron may be shaken by the Spirit and power of God as never before, and that similar results may follow as has been witnessed at Hoosick since the annual session.

A. W. SIBLEY, Pres.
W. O. HIGLEY, Sec.

Protracted Meeting in Boston

is still continued at Repository Hall (formerly Hampshire Hall), corner of Washington and Kneeland Sts. Preaching three times Sundays, and every evening but Saturday, by Wm. C. Stewart, H. L. Hastings, and others. Some are seeking the Lord. May their number be increased.

New Hampshire Conference.

The first Quarterly Conference is due in February, and there has been no call for it. If any church or community wish it to be held with them, please notify the Committee soon, so we can give notice.

LEVI ALLEN, Lake Village,
E. A. STOCKMAN, E. Rochester, } Com.
D. W. DAVIS, Sutton,

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willling, a protracted meeting will commence in Salem, Mass., Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th, and continue over the following Sabbath. Brn. E. A. Stockman and C. E. Hurd are expected to be with us to preach the Word. For the Brn., S. S. MOONEY.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.

WARREN J. HOBBS.

DEDICATION.—The new Chapel at Hinesburg, Vt., will be dedicated Wednesday, Jan. 13th, and a meeting will continue on as the Lord directs. Efficient preachers will be present. Brethren from abroad are requested to come.

A. A. HOYT, for the Church.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The second session of the Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference will meet with the church at Gardiner, Booker meeting-house, on Thursday evening, Jan. 14th, and hold over Sunday. Come, brethren and sisters, one and all, to work for God and save sinners.

H. D. REED, President.
H. S. MITCHELL, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The semi-annual Conference of the Advent Christian churches of the Pacific coast will convene at the Eddy St. Chapel, San Francisco, Thursday, Jan. 14th, 1875, and continue over the following Lord's day. It is expected that Elder Miles Grant and all the preaching brethren of this Conference will be present. A full representation of all the churches is earnestly desired.

ALFRED M. SEABURY, Secretary.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Conference of Nova Scotia will be held at Litchfield, Annapolis Co., commencing Thursday, Jan. 21st, and continue over the following Lord's day. All are invited. Come and work for the Lord. J. J. WOODWORTH.

DISCUSSION.—We have arranged to hold a discussion at Springvale, Me., with C. B. Phillips, on the following subject:

Resolved, That man, after passing through the change called death, is a conscious individuality. C. B. Phillips affirmative, H. S. Pinkham negative.

It will commence Jan. 14th, and hold two evenings. H. S. PINKHAM.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Second Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Q. C. of N. W. Kansas will be held, the Lord willing, with the A. C. church of Athens, Jewell Co., commencing Jan. 14th, 1875, 7 o'clock P. M., and holding over Sunday, Jan. 17th. The place of meeting will be the residence of Bro. S. Wood, on Limestone Creek, west side, one and one fourth miles south of the Jewell Co. line, in Mitchell Co.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who love Jesus and the truth to meet with us. Let all come to this meeting who can, and work for the Lord; and those who cannot come, pray for its success. For the Conference,

J. S. THORP, Secretary.

NOTICE.—I have removed from my former place of residence (Rochester) to this place,—Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.,—where brethren and friends can address me until further notice. I expect my labors for the present to be confined to this circuit,—Ontario, Furnaceville, and Ontario Centre, and very soon at Williamson. Three places every Sabbath. The Lord is with us to bless.

JAS. E. WELLS.

NOTICE.—As my time is not all filled up, and having a desire to do what I can till the Master comes, I would say that I will go and preach the gospel of the kingdom as the Lord may open the way. Any wishing to correspond with me, will please address E. H. EGGLESTON, Keeneyville, Tioga Co., Penn.

TO VERMONTERS.—At our annual conference at Bethel, the State Committee were urged to carry the gospel of the kingdom into every new field which opened a door, and especially to offer a week of labor for any five dollars pledged by an isolated brother or sister living in a new field. This was to encourage individual effort and sacrifice on the part of the isolated. We want to hear immediately from those places where labors are desired, that we may make due arrangements to meet the demands. If you are too poor to raise five dollars, and yet the door is open for a meeting, write us just the same as though you raised the money. Write to me at Waterbury, Vt., or to A. A. Hoyt, Plainfield, Vt. Write full particulars of circumstances, people, time, and place. Write soon.

H. F. CARPENTER, President of Conference.

REMOVAL.—"The Biblical Messenger" office is now removed from Plainfield to Waterbury, Vt., where our paper will be published hereafter. All communications for this office should be addressed to THE BIBLICAL MESSENGER, Waterbury, Vt.

A. A. HOYT.

P. S.—When you send private letters, direct to A. A. Hoyt, and write private on the corner of the envelope. A. A. H.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—I would say to the churches west of the Mississippi River that, after the 1st of January, A. D. 1875, I desire to locate for six months or a year with any church or churches who may be desirous of some minister locating among them. I would state that I am not what the world calls a "big gun." I advocate (1) the coming of the Lord being near,—but not any stated time. (2) His coming the time of reward both of the righteous and unrighteous. (3) Immortality and eternal life a gift by Christ to be given to those who by patience seek for it. (4) The wicked will finally perish in their own corruption, and lose all conscious being. (5) The earth the final abode of the "spirits of just men made perfect." (6) Full compliance with the commands of God's word necessary to the believer in order to pass from the stream of time into the boundless ocean of eternity to mingle with the society of the redeemed. And furthermore, wherever I may be called to labor, there I devote myself and time to the best interest of the society to promote unity and peace, and the advancement of the cause in general. Any who desire to give me a home among them, and recompense me for my time reasonably, will please address me at Wellington, Sumner Co., Kansas, Box 104. V. F. HUNT.

HAVING moved from Fonthill, Canada, Ont., to Utica, Mich., I would say to the brethren that I purpose, the coming winter (the Lord willing), to labor in the cause of my Master by holding forth the gospel of the coming kingdom, as the Lord may open the way. Brethren wishing my services will please address HENRY STEVENS, Utica, Mich., McComb Co.

CHANGE.—On account of the ill health of my wife, I have moved to the town of Bowdoin, Me., about six miles from my former place of residence, and my Post Office address will be Bowdoinham, Me. Any one wanting my labor can write me at that place, as I expect to devote my whole time to preaching, especially in new places.

H. S. MITCHELL.

Appointments

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every evening this week, and Sunday, Jan. 17th. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Hampshire Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Wednesday evenings.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

CHARLESTOWN (HALL No. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
E. V. B. Edgerly.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
J. C. Day.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. Owen.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Wm. N. Pile.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
A. W. Bradford.......Sunday, Feb. 14th

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
Wm. C. Stewart.......Sunday, Jan. 17th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

New Bedford, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
J. COUCH.

Haverhill, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
L BOUTELL.

Fairfield, Me.......Thursday evening, Jan. 14th
Augusta, Me. (where Bro. Low may arrange) Saturday evening, Jan. 16th, and over the Lord's day.
Corinna, Me.......Monday evening, Jan. 18th
Hermon, Me.......Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th
Orrington, Me. (as Bro John Brackett may arrange) Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th.
Bangor, Me.......Thursday evening, Jan. 21st
A. ROSS.

Plymouth, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. GOODRICH.

East Weymouth.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
I. I. LESLIE.

Putnam, Ct.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Providence, R. I.......Friday evening, Jan. 22d
Coventry Centre, R. I.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Tremont, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Plymouth, Mass.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. S. WHITE.

Fairhaven, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Keene, N. H.......Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

New Bedford, Mass.......Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st
Mattapoisett, Mass.......evenings, Jan. 27th and 28th
Fair Haven.......evening, Jan. 29th
Brimfield, Mass.......Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Newark, N. J.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
A. A. PHELPS.

New Haven, Ct.......Sabbath, Jan. 17th
Sabbath, Jan. 24th, not engaged.
Warehousepoint.......Sabbath, Jan. 31st
Athol, Mass.......Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d
Ashburnham.......Thursday evening, Feb 4th
Fitchburg.......Friday evening, Feb. 5th
Lawrence.......Monday evening, Feb. 8th
Haverhill.......Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th
Exeter, N. H.......Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th
Manchester, N. H....Thursday and Friday, Feb. 11th and 12th.
East Concord.......Saturday evening, Feb. 13th
Pine Ground Chapel (if desired).......Feb. 15th
Pittsfield, N. H.......Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Clarktown.......Wednesday evening, Feb 17th
Pittsfield.......Thursday evening, Feb. 18th
Manchester.......Friday evening, Jan 19th
Nashua, Monday, if desired.......Feb 22d
Manchester.......Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d
Lake Village.......Feb. 24th and 25th
Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th. HIRAM MUNGER.

Warehousepoint, Ct.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Putnam, Ct.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
H. PRATT.

Newmarket, N. H. (Littlefield's Crossing) Saturday evening, Jan. 16th, and over Sunday, Jan. 17th.
ENOCH MORRILL.

Athol, Mass.......Sabbaths, Jan. 17th and 24th
ROLAND D. GRANT.

Natick, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
WM. C. STEWART.

Philadelphia (Sunny Side Hall)....Sunday, Jan. 17th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

Springfield.......evenings, Jan. 18th and 19th
Worcester.......evening, Jan. 20th
Chelsea (if desired).......evening, Jan. 21st
Pittsfield, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. S. SHATTUCK.

Dorchester, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) eve., Jan. 29th
Sandwich.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Warren Summit.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
G. H. WALLACE.

South Ashburnham, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Keene, N. H.......Friday evening, Jan. 22d
Salem, Vt.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Will Bro. Lewis Burgoine meet me at Newport, Vt., on arrival of the 7½ p. m. train from Wells River, Saturday, Jan. 23d?
Melbourne Ridge, P. Q.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
Danville, P. Q. (if desired).......Sunday, Feb. 14th
F. M. DRAKE.

Addison, Vt.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Hoosick Valley Conference.......Jan. 20th
Plymouth, Vt.......Feb. 2 1 and 3d
Bridgewater, Vt.......Feb. 4th, and over the 7th
Keene, N. H.......evening, Feb. 9th
South Ashburnham, Mass.......evening, Feb. 10th
Granby, Mass. (Bro. Shumway's)...evening, Feb. 18th
Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street)..Sunday, Feb. 21st
North Rutland, Mass.......Sunday, Feb. 28th
GEO. A. STREETER.

New Hampton, N. H. (Plasted school-house) or where Bro. Emery may appoint, Sunday, Jan. 17th.
Gilmanton, N. H. (where Bro. G. Goodwin may appoint) Sunday, Jan. 24th.
Barnstead, N.H. (Tuttle school-house) Sun., Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
LEVI ALLEN.

Scitico.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
(Not engaged Jan. 24th.)
Scitico, Ct.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. C. SMITH.

Montgomery.......Sabbath, Jan. 17th
New Haven (Beers Street Chapel) Sabbath, Jan. 24th
Brimfield.......Sabbath, Jan. 31st
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Warren Summit, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. M. LITTLE.

Danbury, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Will Bro. D. W. Davis arrange one week's labor for me in Sutton, N. H., or vicinity, commencing Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th? Bro. Davis is requested to be with me.
New Durham Ridge, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. G. SMITH.

Meredith Neck.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Moultonboro Neck.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Melvin Village.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. PIPER.

Farmington, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
WM. BODGE.

Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sabbath, Jan. 31st. C. W. NELSON.

Farmington, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Salem, Mass.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
Newcastle, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Lake Village, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall).......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Northwood, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Canaan, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dorchester (Town House).......Sunday, Feb. 21st
Warren Summit.......Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H.......Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H.......Sunday, March 14th
C. R. PARSONS.

Palmer, Mass.......3d Sunday in each month
Wilbraham, Mass.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
H. H. TUCKER.

South Elliott, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Belmont, N. H.......Sabbath, Feb. 14th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Nation school-house.......6½ P. M., Jan. 17th
C. PIKE.

Holden, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
F. H. BURBANK.

Southbridge, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
J. W. BRIDGE.

Friendship, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
JER. CARR.

Bowdoin, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Lewiston, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Oxford, Me. (as Bro. G. L. Tracy may arrange) Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th, and over Sunday, the 31st.
H. S. MITCHELL.

East Union, Me.......evening, Jan. 15th
South Hope.....evening, Jan. 16th, and over Sunday
Rockville.......evenings, Jan. 19th and 20th
Rockland.......Jan. 21st, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

North Easton, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. W. RATHBUN.

Lake Village, N. H.......Sabbath, Jan. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall).......Sabbath, Jan. 24th
Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Saturday evening, Jan. 30th.
Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sab., Jan. 31st
Andover, N. H. (Cilleysville).......Sabbath, Feb. 14th
East Concord, N. H.......Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and over the Sabbath, Feb. 21st. SIMEON ROBY.

Springvale, Me.......Sabbath, Jan. 17th
East Canaan.......Sabbath, Jan. 24th
North Chichester.......Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th
South Rochester.......Sabbath, Jan. 31st
S. HAWKINS.

Wiscasset (Porter's school-house) evening, Jan. 14th
Wiscasset (Glitton school-house)....Sunday, Jan. 17th
J. H. MEADER.

Cheshire Street.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. L. WHITE.

Danville, Sunday, Jan. 17th, evenings through the ensuing week, and over the Sabbath, Jan. 24th.
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

West Poland (Chapel).......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Oxford, Me. (Richville school house) Sun., Jan. 24th
G. L. TRACY.

Orrington Corner, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Ellingwoods Corner, Me., Conference, Saturday, at two o'clock, and over Sunday. GEO. W. BROWN.

East Holderness, N. H., Sabbath day and evening, Jan. 17th.
Hardhack (Baptist church)....Monday eve., Jan. 18th
Holderness (True school-house) Tuesday eve., Jan. 19th
Holderness (Cox school-house).......evening, Jan. 20th
Holderness (Prescott school-house).......eve., Jan. 21st
Ashland (Pease school-house).......evening, Jan. 22d
New Hampton (Plaisted school-house) eve., Jan. 23d
Ashland (Pease school-house).......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Ashland (Town Hall).......Sunday evening, Jan. 24th
JOSEPH HARVEY.

Sunday, Jan. 17th, and evenings, as Brn. may appoint.
Vernon, Vt.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Windsorville, Ct.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
and evenings, as Bro. St. Clair may appoint.
F. W. CLOUGH.

South Livermore, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
North Norway, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Harrison, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
L. L. HOWARD.

Denmore Hill, Vt.......Sabbath, Jan. 17th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

East Rochester, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. T. LIBBEY.

New Market, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
J. L. CHUTE.

Nicholson, Wyoming Co., Pa., commence Jan. 15th, and continue over Sunday.
Lyons school-house in Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y., Saturday, Jan. 23d, at 2 and 7 p. m., and on Sunday, the 24th, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.
Swale, Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Bro. Titus') evenings, Jan. 25th and 26th.
Swale, Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Bro. Drake's) evenings, Dec. 27th and 28th.
West Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y., evening, Jan. 29th
Cowdersport, Potter Co., Pa. (near Bro. Quimby's) evening, Jan. 30th, and continue a week, if the Lord will. JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) Sun., Jan. 17th
JOHN PARSONS.

Dixville, P. Q.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Newville, P. Q.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Patton, P. Q. (Garland school-house)..Sun., Jan. 31st
Barford, P. Q. (Kenney school-house)..Sun., Feb. 7th
U. G. LADD.

Sutton (Bro. D. W. Davis's) Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th. Bro. Jesse Hazen's the 21st and 22d. Bro. Cressy's the 23d.
Sutton Centre (meeting-house).......Sunday, Jan. 24th
J. G. SMITH.

Granby, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 24th through the week, and over Sunday, Jan 31st.
H. H. TUCKER.
W. G. RUGGLES.

Harrison, Me. (Woodsom school-house) evenings, Jan. 15th and 16th, and Sunday, Jan. 17th.
JARED WHITMAN.

Sutton, N. H. (South Village).......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Feb 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

South Acton, Mass.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
WM. HOBBS.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall).......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Northwood Narrows, N. H....evenings, Jan. 21st and 22d, and over Sunday.
Waterloo, Warner, N. H.......evening, Jan. 26th and over Sunday.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)....evening, Feb. 5th and over Sunday.
East Canaan, N. H.......evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday.
Laconia, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, Feb. 21st. JOHN H. EVANS.

Newcastle, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
South Rochester, N. H.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. K. HURD.

10th (Milldale) District school-house, Southington, Ct., Sunday, Jan. 17th, day and evening.
Plantsville, Ct., Wednesday and Friday evenings, Jan. 13th and 15th. O. D. WOODRUFF.

West Deerfield, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
JOHN B. PAINE.

Salisbury, N. H. (where Bro. Couch may appoint) Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th.
Meredith Centre, N. H. (as Bro. N. Glidden may appoint) Sunday, Jan. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) eve., Jan. 27th
East Holderness, N. H. (Stevens meeting-house) Sunday, Jan. 30th. W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Kennebunk Depot.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. R. TRIPP.

Natick, Mass., evening, Feb. 2d, through the week, and Sunday, Feb. 7th. E. OWEN.

Waterbury, Vt.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
A. A. HOYT.

Piermont, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Please meet me at Wentworth Friday P. M.
North Haverhill, N. H.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
Groton, Vt.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
MRS. J. DAVIS.

Bonny Ekgle, Me.......Sunday, Jan 17th
South Windham, Me.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. H. SWEET.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
I. B. Potter.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. Cunningham.......Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st
E. A. Stockman.......Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch.......Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer.......Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
J. Harvey.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
I. B. Potter.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. Munger.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. Munger.......Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey.......Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
John Couch.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
I. B. Potter.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. E. Hurd.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
D. M. Leavitt.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
C. S. Shattuck.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
A. Ross.......Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson.......Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt.......Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter.......Sunday, March 14th
John Couch.......Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer.......Sunday, March 28th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
E. Phelps.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
H. H. Tucker.......Sunday, Jan. 24th

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall.......first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker.......second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
D. Churchill.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
John Parsons.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
H. Pratt.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
Hiram Munger.......Sunday, Feb 14th
Hiram Munger.......Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
G. H. Wallace.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. Goodrich.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. A. Stockman.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. Whitman.......Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher.......Sunday, Jan. 17th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. E. Hurd.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
O. W. Kimball.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. S. Shattuck.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. Goodrich.......Sunday, Feb. 7th
D. M. Leavitt.......Sunday, Feb. 10th
T. W. Piper.......Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck.......Sunday, Feb. 28th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlin.......Sunday, Jan. 17th

HAMPTON, N. H.
T. L. Churchill.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
Enoch Morrill.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
O. W. Kimball.......Sunday, Jan. 31st

SEABROOK, N. H.
D. F. Leavitt.......Sundays, Jan. 17th and 24th
J. T. Chamberlin.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. Piper.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. Owen.......Sunday, Feb. 21st
John Parsons.......Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch.......Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh.......Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons.......Sunday, March 28th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
W. W. Sutherland.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
D. M. Leavitt.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
G. W. Brown.......Sunday, Jan. 31st

RYE, N. H.
E. B. Wells.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
C. E. Hurd.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. B. Wells.......Sunday, Jan. 31st

DOVER, N. H.
Joseph W. White.......Sunday, Jan. 24th

NEW DURHAM RIDGE, N. H.
A. Kidder.......Sunday, Jan. 17th

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. T. Libbey.......Sunday, Feb. 14th
D. M. Leavitt.......Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. S. Mooney.......Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
J. A. Libby.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
J. Whitman.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
G. L. Tracy.......Sunday, Jan. 31st
O. W. Kimball.......Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
Joseph W. White.......Sunday, Jan. 31st

SOUTH ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp.......Sabbath, Jan. 24th

ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp.......Sabbath, Jan. 17th
Jer. Hill.......Sabbath, Jan. 24th
G. F. Haines.......Sabbath, Jan. 31st

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Geo. W. Sederquest.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
A. Ross.......Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman.......Sundays, Jan. 17th and 24th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
Jer. Hill.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
G. F. Haines.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. H. Sweet.......Sunday, Jan. 31st

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
Jesse Gay.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
B. S. Emery.......Sunday, Jan. 24th
A. A. Robinson.......Sunday, Jan. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
C. F. Morse.......Sunday, Jan. 17th
E. L. Crumb.......Sunday, Feb. 7th

BRISTOL, CT.
Seth Woodruff.......Sunday, Jan. 17th

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.

ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Religious services are held in Green Street Tabernacle every Sunday morning and evening, and prayer meetings every Wednesday evening, by brethren who look for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ in glory. Preachers wishing to correspond are requested to address L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison Street.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☛ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.
☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N.H.
☞ ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C., until further notice.
☞ H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.
☞ ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.
☞ JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—W A Thomas, C T Woodman, J Naylor, L C McKinstry, S M Dudley, N H Reed, A W Sibley, Wm Crafts, W J Hobbs, H B Sevey, J T Kimball, J McClellan, J Curtis, A P Hyde, Geo W Brown, J Whitman, J M Rannells M. D., H V Davis, J W Addison, J E Smith, J Clark, Hartman & Brown.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—J M Craig $2.75, Frank Burr $50.00, S W Rathburn $4.25, D Howard 45c, W Sylvester 25c, D H Marden 50c, A W Bradford 50c, J P Hazard $1.44, C W Buvinger 20c, J E Gifford 20c, M R Steele 25c, R M Goode 40c, A J Abbott 25c, J B Paine 2c, O C Gordon 10c, R A Armstrong $5.00, J H Tite 20c, W J Hobbs $2 74, M A Nute 20c, D A Robinson 40c, O Beckwith 85, W H Crockett 80c, A S Munger 75, W Allott Jr. 35c, M A Goodwin 75c, E Wilcox 50c, S E Teeple 10c, E J Fletcher 25c, T H Little 20c, C Asquith $1.08, H Turner $1 80 J T Howland 20c, H A Hitchcock 25c, J J Adams $1.00, W S Devereux 50c, A B Swanesburg $1.25, J W Addison 45c, S Smith 20c, C F Lothrop 60c, G W Wormwood 40c, Geo Mott 60c, D W Lamb 10c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail.—M R Chandler, J G Parker, S Parker, S F Rodman, Mrs S M Craig, D H Marden, D Howard, W Sylvester, G W Rathburn, M R Steele, Dr R M Goode, J E Gifford, Dr C M Buvinger, Geo Mott, J P Hazard, M A Nute, D A Robinson, W Dibble (4 pack), O D Woodruff, R A Armstrong (2 pack), C Asquith, A S Munger, W S Devereux, A B Swanesburg, G F Stacy, J J Adams, M A Goodwin, S K Baldwin, A J Abbott, Mrs L Brown, O C Gorden, E J Fletcher, J H Tite, M C Cogswell, O Wilcox, H A Hitchcock, S E Teeple, H Peterburgh, W Allott Jr, A A Hoyt.

By Express—F Burr, R F & M J Clark, E Phelps.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—C S Branch, C Mendenhall, E O Churchill, M S Horne, Julia E Loyed, J R Smith, P Tandy, M A Goodwin, C H Sweet, W Tefft, F W Henry, A S Field, O D Woodruff.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Contributing Editors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, with a book or engraving free. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

RE-PRINTED

ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET

AS VIEWED FROM A

BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history.

AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.

BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express.

AG'T.

Catalogue

OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"

160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3.00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather. $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.50.
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.

WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,

A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:

OR,

AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST

In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.

SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."

BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Repriuted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. A'GT.

A NEW BOOK.

"THE BIBLE DOCTRINE OF THE SOUL.

An Answer to the Question: "Is the Popular Conception of the Soul that of Holy Scripture?"

BY CHAS. L. IVES, M. D.

Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in Yale College.

This is a pamphlet of 119 pages, in which the Author discusses the above question in an interesting and able manner,—showing the material nature of, the mortality and destiny of the Soul,—A future immortality to be the special portion of the Righteous,—What the Bible teaches as to the future of the Wicked,—The intermediate state,—The Resurrection,—That of the Righteous and of the Wicked, etc.

The Author claims that the doctrine set forth,—"Honors God, exalts the Bible, insures preaching of future punishment, subverts Universalism and Infidelity, errors of Romanism, of Spiritualism and Swedenborgianism, helps in work of Missions, rightly values the body, brings Christian unity, and promotes personal holiness."

We are much pleased with this work. It ought to have a wide circulation. We have a good supply, and hope the friends will order freely. We will sell at the following prices:—25 cts. per copy; $2.00 per dozen, sent by mail; $15.00 per hundred, by express.

AG'T.

JESUS.

JULIA B. LOYD.

We have heard of the babe of Bethlehem,
Of the holy, heavenly strains
The shepherds heard as they watched their flocks
On Judah's hills and plains.

We have heard of Jesus, the Nazarene,
The blessed man of grief,
Whose pitying heart sought a ruined world,
And brought a sure relief.

We have heard of the cross of Calvary,
Where the glorious Sufferer died;
He sealed his love with tears and blood,
O Jesus, the Crucified!

We think of him with holy joy,
For now he lives on high!
He liveth, though he once was dead!
Now nevermore to die!

And death now seemeth not a leap
Into a dark unknown:
God keeps the dust of those who sleep,
And he will save his own.

Come back, O Christ, and wake the dead,
Come back, O Nazarene!
We long to see thy glorious face,
With not a cloud between.

Westfield, Mass.

WAS IT NOT ARTAXERXES?

S. HALL.

It is submitted with all deference and respect, that it does not appear that the view that Artaxerxes Longimanus the son of Xerxes was the husband of Esther, strongly conflicts with Bible facts. Or that it is improbable, or absolutely impossible, without the aid of a miracle, or that it is demonstrated that there is no valid argument in favor of it. Nor does it appear that the fact of there having been 152 or 166 years from the beginning of the captivity to the 12th of Artaxerxes prove fatal to such a view. On the contrary, it seems to be in perfect harmony.

It is not claimed that the Mordecai who lived in Shushan, who was the cousin of Esther, and who brought her up, and who in the 12th of Ahasuerus or Artaxerxes appears to have been in the prime and vigor of manhood, was the one who was carried into captivity a century and a half before. This Mordecai's father was Jair, his grandfather was Shimei, his great-grandfather was Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin, and he, the sacred history says, "had been carried away from Jerusalem with the captivity, . . . with Jehoiachin king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away." Esther 2: 5, 6.

The Mordecai spoken of by Ezra was one of the chief rulers who first returned from the captivity with Zerubbabel. Another ruler's name was Nehemiah. "But it is to be observed," says Prideaux, "that the Nehemiah and Mordecai here mentioned were not the ones of whom there is so much said in the books of Nehemiah and Esther, but quite different persons, who bore the same name." Con. VI, p. 144.

It is probable that the ruler Mordecai was the one that Josephus says was sent with other rulers from Jerusalem to the Persian court; but it is related that they were sent on a special embassy, and immediately returned to Jerusalem.

That Ahasuerus, queen Esther's husband, was Artaxerxes Longimanus, son of Xerxes, Prideaux, after completely refuting (as I think) the reasons given by Usher of its being Darius, and the reasons of Scaliger for its being Xerxes, concludes thus:—"The ancientest and best evidence that can be had of this matter is from the Greek version of the sacred text, called the Septuagint, the apocryphal additions to the book of Esther, and Josephus; and all these agree for Artaxerxes Longimanus. For Josephus positively tells us it was he; and the Septuagint through the whole book of Esther, wherever the Hebrew text hath Ahasuerus, translate Artaxerxes, and the apocryphal additions to that book everywhere call the husband of Esther Artaxerxes, who could be none other than Artaxerxes Longimanus; for there are several circumstances related of him, both in the canonical and apocryphal Esther, which can by no means be applicable to the other Artaxerxes, called Mnemon. And Severus Sulpitius, and many other writers, as well of the ancients as the moderns, come also into this opinion. And the extraordinary favors which Artaxerxes Longimanus showed the Jews beyond all the other kings that reigned in Persia, first in sending Ezra, and afterwards Nehemiah, for the repairing of the broken affairs of that people in Judah and Jerusalem, and the restoring of them again to their ancient prosperity, is what can scarce be accounted for on any other reason but that they had in his bosom such a powerful advocate as Esther to solicit for them." p. 222.

As to whether the larger part of the Jews were at this time in Persia or Judea, seems immaterial; they were all included in the provinces of the empire, and in the king's decree that threatened their destruction. The truth, I doubt not, is what we all sincerely desire to obtain.

GENTILES.

H. PRATT.

Is there no chance for Gentiles to become children of Israel?

The first argument which I will notice is given by Hosea. In consequence of the abominations of the children of Israel, God says by this prophet (chap. 1: 4)—"I will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel." Again in the 6th ver.—"I will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel, but I will utterly take them away." Again in the 9th verse, the Lord says concerning the children of Israel—"For ye are not my people, and I will not be your God. Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea which cannot be measured or numbered." Then goes on to show how this multitude of the children of Israel shall be made up, thus: "In the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are the sons of the living God."

Now for a divine comment upon this prophecy. I favor Paul's argument, first, by reason of his being an apostle to the Gentiles. In his letter to the Romans (9: 25), he takes up this prophecy of Hosea, and makes an application of it on this wise, commencing at the 23d verse:—"And that he might make known the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy which he had afore prepared unto glory, even us whom he hath called, not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles. As he saith also in Osee [Hosea], I will call them my people which were not my people, and her beloved which was not my beloved." Was Paul a little radical here in trying to prove that the house of the children of Israel was composed of Jews and Gentiles? Even Peter does not dissemble in this matter, but says—"Unto you therefore who believe he is precious." "Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God; which had not obtained mercy, but have now obtained mercy"; endorsing Hosea, that believers in this dispensation help make up the house of the children of Israel.

Why does Paul say—"Israel after the flesh," if there is no Israel after the spirit? And how say some among you that "Gentiles are never called Israel," when Hosea, Paul and Peter declare that the house of the children of Israel is made up of Jews and Gentiles?

FROM BRO. S. S. BREWER.

Editors:—Dear Brn:—I have thought that perhaps some of my friends would be interested to learn some of the particulars concerning my affliction. Some two years ago I noticed a small pimple appearing on my bowels, attracting but little attention; but as it enlarged I consulted a physician, and he did not consider it of a very dangerous nature.

Early last spring it began to assume considerable proportions; but my constant labor with saw and hammer on Alton Bay campground, sometimes in the heat of the sun, and the use of food containing strong acids, did much to aggravate and precipitate what I considered merely a common tumor, into a full developed Rose Cancer. In November it began to bleed, and I had to have recourse to the use of a powder, in order to check the flow of blood. The powder was laid on a cloth, then after the cancer was imbedded by additional cloths, it formed a hard, dry coating.

I placed myself under the care of Dr. R. Greene, Tuesday, Nov. 24th, and after taking the medicines he prescribed for the purifying of my blood, the doctor informed me that he considered my case was becoming more critical every day, on account of the loss of blood, and there was a necessity to have it removed immediately.

In the good and kind providence of our heavenly Father, it was so arranged that I found a home with Bro. Richard Adams and wife. Words cannot express the gratitude I feel to them for their tender care of my dear Sarah and myself in this hour of deep affliction. They gave us the best and most comfortable rooms in their hired house. Frequently, while lying on my bed of suffering and enjoying the comforts I was surrounded with through their christian kindness, I thought of the time, soon to come, when I have every reason to believe they will hear the words of the Lord recorded in Matt. 25: 40 said unto them.

On Thursday afternoon, Dec. 10th, I concluded to submit to a surgical operation. I did this without the aid of any stupefying agency, as the doctor was fearful that, owing to my age, I might not rally from the effects of ether or chloroform. My suffering was intense, but through the mercy of God my life is spared. The large cancer protruded over two inches, and a short distance from its base there was (the doctor has since informed me) the nucleus of four other cancers; but, through the blessing of God, they are all, I have reason to believe, successfully removed. I do feel that under God's blessing I owe much to Dr. Reuben Greene, No. 24 Temple Place, Boston.

I will conclude by humbly submitting with heartfelt gratitude the following

Acrostic to Dr. Reuben Greene.

The clouds hung heavy round my head
O'er all my prospects here;
Darker they grew with mingled dread,
Oft clothed with doubts and fear.
Can any certain help be found
To cheer my drooping mind,
Or pour a balm upon my wound?
Rejoiced I'd be to find.
Repeated spells of losing blood,
Each made my spirits sink,
Until at last it seemed I stood
Beside Death's chilling brink.
Each moment now doth brighter seem;
No trickling blood nor pain;
Grateful I am to Doctor Greene,
Rejoicing,—free from pain.
Enrapt in thanks, Lord, take me—whole.
Each moment I'll employ;
No cancer now to chill my soul;
Each moment's filled with joy.

N. Y. CONFERENCE REPORT.

The N. Y. State A. C. Conference held its second Quarterly Meeting with the church in Kendall, Dec. 18th to 20th 1874. The meeting commenced Friday eve, when Bro. M. R. Miles preached from Ps. 133: 1. Many throughout our State had become well nigh disheartened at the low state of the cause in many places, and seeing so many divisions caused by the definite time question, and many have feared that our Conference was not strong enough to stand the shock; but the brethren and sisters came together at this meeting in "the name of the Lord," and we had one of the sweetest and most blessed meetings ever held in this State.

Saturday, 9 ½ A. M., met for business. President in chair. Ministers present:—M. R. Miles, B. P. Stevens, A. H. Dunbar, Wm. Morrill, W. J. Hobbs, E. F. Sergisson, A. C. Newell, Wm. Ingmire, J. H. Luttenton, A. P. Moore, and Sr. Stoddard. Delegates—J. S. Maynard, Rochester; A. Wiley, N. Tibballs, Springwater; C. W. Kimball, Linden. Bro. Hobbs reported the church at Honeoye, where he had baptized some sixteen the past summer. Bro. Dunbar reported the churches of Martville and No. Victory in a healthy condition. The church at Kendall was received into the Conference, and reported by Bro. Spicer. Other churches did not report. A letter of resignation from our Treasurer, A. McCulloch, was read, but as vacancies must be filled by the board, and a quorum not being present, we could not appoint another in his place.

Quarterly collections. Honeoye $3.42. No. Victory and Martville $4.88. Springwater $3.60. Kendall $2.00

2. P. M. Preaching by A. H. Dunbar from Matthew 14: 12; after which met for business. The following resolution presented by Bro. Hobbs was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That we as a Conference assembled, express our desire for a National Conference to convene at its earliest convenience, to devise some better system of labor and cooperation in building up the cause of Christ. A cry goes up from one end of the land to the other for system and order; and if it can be had, we want it; so that a part will not be pulling down what others build up, and thus neutralize our efforts in publishing "the gospel of the kingdom to the nations of earth, for a "witness," before the "end" comes.

The subject of a general campmeeting in connection with our annual meeting in June, was talked over, and a unanimous desire for such a meeting expressed; and the Secretary was authorized to call attention of the Brn. and Srs. throughout our State to the fact, for them to consider prayerfully, and come together at the next quarterly meeting in March prepared to act in the matter harmoniously, and in "love" and "brotherly kindness." There is strength enough in our State, if all our powers are concentrated, to have one of the best local campmeetings in the U. S. Shall we act together for God and the perishing? Preaching in the evening by Wm. Ingmire, from Phil. 3: 21, 22.

Sunday 9 ½ A. M., met for love-feast, and it was a blessed season, never to be forgotten by many; after which, preaching by E. F. Sergisson, from Heb. 9: 15. 2 P. M., preaching by B. P. Stevens, from John 14: 3. In the evening, the meeting commenced at 6 o'clock by a social meeting; then preaching by W. J. Hobbs, from Phil. 3: 9, after which we had a blessed communion season, which meeting continued till near 10 o'clock, and even then it was hard to close, and take the parting hand. Three started to serve the Lord, and the meeting has given the cause a new impetus in that section, as well as inspiring the hearts of all that come together with courage and zeal, to labor unitedly and in love.

We do hope and pray that the cause in our State may rise higher, and that Brn., though they may not "see eye to eye" on all points, may have that "self same spirit" to profit withal. Brethren, we say of the meeting in Kendall, it was good to be there.

A. P. Moore, Sec.

GOOD TIDINGS FROM HOOSICK, NEW YORK.

A. W. SIBLEY.

The revival that commenced at the last annual session of the Hoosick Valley Conference is still progressing gloriously. We were permitted, last Lord's day, Dec. 27th, to bury six more happy souls in the watery grave, making seventeen in all. Some eight or ten more will go forward soon.

From the protracted meeting which we held with the church in November, has sprung up a large religious interest all over the section of country lying adjacent to the Hoosick church. God is at work wonderfully among the people. It is thought that over a hundred persons have been converted, besides a large number that have been reclaimed. We have been, by Divine Providence, permitted to hold meetings with this church for the last six days, commencing Dec. 24th, during which time some twelve or fifteen have started in the cause of our coming King.

We expect (D. V.) to return to this place again Jan. 6: 1875, to baptize and unfurl the banner of truth. May God bless in the effort. We still continue our pastoral relation with the church at Sandy Hill, N. Y., and are praying that God will graciously revive his work among us.

NORTHERN PENN., AND SOUTHERN N. Y., CONFERENCE.

To the churches belonging to the above named Advent Christian Conference:—I wish to say that, at our last quarterly session, I was appointed as a Committee on financial affairs pertaining to the interests of our Conference. It is a fact that we have as a body, thus far since our organization, been crippled in our efforts to promote the truths we hold so dear, and that identify us as a people. The question has been asked, How can this be remedied? We are going to propose a plan, and ask the brethren and friends to help carry it out by their hearty cooperation. The plan is to take a collection in every church, and every quarter, and send it to the Treasurer by your delegates, or pastor, or by mail.

Now, dear brethren, let us respond to this call. Our Conference needs more means to use; and if we can raise a fund in this way, we believe that much good will be the result, and the cause we love will be advanced. The Macedonian cry is ringing in our ears—"Come over and help us." There are new fields opening, where the truth might be planted. Opportunities are before us for doing good in promulgating the gospel of the kingdom, but we lack the means of sending out preachers. Shall we have help, or shall the cause languish? Let us remember that the Master is soon coming to reckon with his servants. Our preachers are poor men, and if they go out they must have food and raiment. We ask and urge the pastors and officers of the several churches belonging to this Conference, to attend to this matter, and send in your mites at our next quarterly session. Our Treasurer is Bro. Sylvanus Gardner, of Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa. This is done in behalf of our Conference.

A. H. Briggs, Sec.

Alleghany Co., N. Y.

Our last session of Conference was a pleasant one, and we trust a profitable one. Some fell in with the truth, and said they had received new light on the Scriptures To God be all the glory. A. H. B.

A. C. Times, please copy.

SPIRITUALISM.

S. P. HAYWARD.

"Ye shalt not surely die."

It is said that pure gold needs no gilding; so truth needs no flowery speech or sugar coating to make it palatable to the earnest seeker after it. It is sad to know how many schemes have been devised to set aside the doctrine of the resurrection, and by which to escape the judgment. All, or nearly all of these schemes are founded on—"Thou shalt not surely die." The back bone of the devils doctrine is called in these modern times, Spiritualism; and thousands at this present time are hanging their hope on this delusion, although it contradicts the Bible and science.

Well did Paul say—"In the last days perilous times shall come." It is indeed perilous now, when the judgment is to all appearance so dear, and so many "giving heed to seducing spirits." It is perilous for poor sinners, and sad and perilous for those that have "departed from the faith" so far that they have discarded God's holy Word, and are being led down to perdition through the agency of "seducing spirits and doctrines of devils."

I want to give a word of warning to all who may chance to read this. Don't go after "familiar spirits." The devil has got his snares set all about us, and he offers various inducements to entice men into them.

Among Satan's most successful agents are to be found, in all our cities, "silly women, led captive, and laden with sin," who pursue their wickedness under the names of Clairvoyants, Fortune tellers, Healing mediums, etc., who, with a few herbs or a pack of cards lead the innocent and unwary into the fatal coil.

Did men try to live nearer God, and have less to do with the Wicked One; did they search the Bible with half the effort to get good out of it that they do to find some apparent contradiction or flaw in it, we should not see so many within the ranks of this worst of last-day perils—Spiritualism.

Would to God that we all might more fully realize the meaning of God's Word that says, he shall come "In flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." May the Lord come quickly, and save his chosen ones. Amen.

East Pepperell, Mass.

MY WORK.

I was sitting alone toward the twilight,
With spirit troubled and vexed,
With thoughts that were morbid and gloomy,
And faith that was sadly perplexed.

Some homely work I was doing
For the child of my love and care;
Some stitches wearily setting,
In the endless need of repair.

But my thoughts were about the "building,"
The work one day to be tried;
When only the gold and the silver,
And the precious stones, shall abide.

And remembering my own poor efforts,
The wretched work I had done,
And even when trying most truly,
The meagre success I had won,

"It is nought but wood, hay and stubble,"
I said; "it will all be burned—
This useless fruit of the talents
One day to be returned.

"Yet I have so longed to serve Him,
And sometimes I know I have tried;
But I'm sure when he sees such building,
He will never let it abide."

Just then, as I turned the garment,
That no rent should be left behind,
I spied an odd little bungle
Of mending and patchwork combined.

My heart grew suddenly tender,
And something blinded my eyes,
With one of those sweet intuitions
That sometimes make us so wise.

"Dear child! She wanted to help me:
I know 'twas the best she could do,
But oh, what a botch she has made it—
The gray mismatching the blue!"

And yet—can you understand it?—
With a tender smile and a tear,
And a half-compassionate yearning,
I felt her grow more dear.

Then a sweet voice broke the silence,
And the dear Lord said to me,
"Art thou tenderer for the little child
Than I am tender for thee?"

And straightway I knew his meaning,
So full of compassion and love,
And my faith came back to its refuge
Like the glad returning dove.

So I thought when the Master Builder
Comes down his temple to view,
To see what rents must be mended,
And what must be made anew,

Perhaps as he looks o'er the building,
He will bring my work to light.
And, seeing the marring and bungling,
And how far it is all from right,

He will feel as I felt for my darling,
And will say, as I said for her,
"Dear child, she wanted to help me,
And love for me was the spur.

"And, for the real love that is in it,
The work shall seem perfect as mine,
And because it was willing service,
I will crown it with plaudit divine."

And there in the deepening twilight
I seemed to be clasping a hand,
And to feel a great love constraining me,
Stronger than any command.

And I knew by the thrill of sweetness,
'Twas the hand of the Blessed One,
Which would tenderly guide and hold me
Till all the labor is done.

So my thoughts are never more gloomy,
My faith no longer is dim,
But my heart is strong and restful,
And mine eyes are unto Him.

The above lines were sent by Chloe Lankton, of New Hartford, Ct., who has been an invalid, confined to her bed, forty-one years. She says, "I love the Crisis, and hardly know how to do without it." God bless you, dear suffering child, and bring you to a land of painless rest. She sends two dollars to pay for the paper she loves and prizes so highly. If an invalid esteems it a privilege to do this for Jesus' sake, those in health ought not to seek so many excuses for not doing the same. J. C.

A FEW THOUGHTS.

MRS. M. J. ADAMS.

While reading a piece in the Crisis from Bro. J. W. Thomas, it filled my soul. I believe in a religion that has life and power in it. I know that once I had nothing but a form, but I praise the Lord to-day that I know what it is to feel some of the Spirit. It is blessed to be "kept by the power of God, through faith. God has promised that if we hunger and thirst after righteousness, we shall be filled. I believe it. How much of his presence we feel when we are willing to give our bodies, a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable, which is our reasonable service. How precious the Bible is to me; so many precious promises in it. What light I have received during the last three years by searching the Scriptures; and I mean, by the help of the Lord, to let what little light I have received shine out.

Sometimes I can say in my heart, I shall be glad to have Jesus come and set up his kingdom. It is going to be under the whole heaven, and it is going to be an everlasting kingdom. "The upright shall dwell in the land, and the perfect shall remain in it; but the wicked shall be cut off from the earth, and the transgressors shall be rooted out of it." I find another precious promise in Prov. 10: 30. "The righteous shall never be removed; but the wicked shall not inhabit the earth." All this shows me that the home of the saints will be on the earth. I read again "Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall thy arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust; for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead." The thought is blessed to me, that if I live to see my Savior come, I shall see the dead in Christ arise. How blessed! And we shall "be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye," and "be caught up" together (we that are alive) "to meet the Lord in the air." "Wherefore comfort one another with these words."

I am glad that I am going to have this vile body changed, and made like unto Christ's glorious body, to die no more. And to those who feel weak, the blessed Word says, "Be strong;" and we can be strong in the Lord. God has taken the weak things of the world to confound the mighty. I feel it is blessed to work in the service of the Lord; and I mean to try and be faithful, so it will be said to me—"Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Newburyport, Mass.

AN OPINION.

So long as whiskey is made, it will be loved and drank. While the negro exists, he will be hated and oppressed. Legislate as much as you please, no law that you can enact will bring about the opposite of this. Men's appetites and prejudices cannot be destroyed nor lessened by civil enactments; neither can law-making ever reform the lawless. No civil law can produce in men's minds a love for a moral law, nor create in them one principle of right. The fountain cannot be cleansed by damming up the stream. The latter may be stayed for a while, but the former remains the same, and only to overflow.

If legislation could reach the hearts and tastes of men, then might intemperance be stayed by law. If civil enactments would destroy men's prejudices, and cause them to love their neighbor as themselves, then, too, might the poor African become respected and his rights be considered equal and undisputed. Legislation may divide the world in regard to these subjects, but it can never convert it to temperance and the practice of equal rights. I. I. Leslie.

Correspondence.

From Bro. A. N. Seymour.

Dear Editors of the Crisis:—May grace and peace be greatly multiplied to you and all the readers of your, and their, most excellent paper. We value the dear old Crisis as one of the best, if not the very best, of all religious weekly papers; and we rejoice to know that it is zealously and purely devoted to the upbuilding of God's truth and righteousness in the land, independent of all sectarian proclivities. Now that both the eastern and western associations have so nobly blended their love, sympathy, good will and labor together, so that the cause is one, may all heaven smile upon its progress, bless its sustainers, and guide its future labor of love to the edification, justification and sanctification of all who carefully read and ponder the sacred truths so cogently set forth both in the A. C. Times and World's Crisis.

Feeling fully satisfied as to the purity of motive that governs both associations in the promulgation of all present dispensational truths, I can of course bid them God speed, and render them all the assistance I can, consonant with other responsiblities of life. It is but little we can do with present health, aside from getting brethren and friends to subscribe for the papers; but what we can do will be cheerfully done. The A. C. Times, World's Crisis, Christian, and Bible Banner, come to our address regularly, richly laden with most cheerful and soul-stirring intelligence; and it is always a feast to sit down and read, first, the editorials, so full of interest; second, the cheerful letters from all parts of Zion's warfare, all aglow with heavenly light and love; and third, the variety of articles so ably written on such a variety of deeply interesting subjects.

The influence of these papers you may well rest assured are making an indelible impression in the religious world; and many are learning the gospel of the kingdom of God, and the means to obtain it. This being the case, every one should take special pains to extend their influence by getting new subscribers. There is not sufficient interest among the readers of these periodicals. If all should make a special effort, and canvass their surroundings, their subscription lists might be doubled in a short time. Time is short. Let us work with a hearty good will, for the Lord is now nigh at hand.

Reading, Mich., Dec. 19th, 1874.

From Bro. C. H. Williams.

Dear Editors of the Crisis:—As a number of the brethren and sisters have written to me, expressing their desire for my services in their respective localities, and I have not time to answer them all personally, you will please allow me to reply to them collectively through our dear paper—the Crisis. It would afford me the greatest pleasure to comply with these Macedonian calls, if it was possible to do so; but our present circumstances hinder. For a number of weeks past, sickness in my family has confined me at home, and furnished us with an experience in affliction such as we never before passed through. The waters have been dark and deep, but our heavenly Father's guiding hand has been visible, and thus far we are led safely through.

It seemed that my companion was treading upon the margin of Death's mighty rolling stream, when, to the joy of our hearts, the Divine power interposed, and in mercy spared her life. Our confidence in the saving grace and mighty power of our dear Savior has been deepened, and our faith strengthened. While resting sweetly in the arms of Jesus, believing that "our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory," patience has had her perfect work, and the gospel hope has filled us with joy unspeakable. We beheld by faith the glorious land where none will ever die, and the heavenly vision created within us a hungering and thirsting after righteousness, which will fill us with God's love now, and give us bodies like Christ's when he comes.

Brethren, pray for us in our affliction, and ask God to sustain us by his mighty power, and to favor us according to his good pleasure, that we may soon resume our duties in the ministration of his Word, and "make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

If Providence permits, those who have written to me may expect a share of my labors in the gospel soon as the way opens.

West Martinsburg, N. Y., Dec. 16, 1874.

From Bro. Geo. E. Loomis.

Dear Brethren:—I take this opportunity to thank you for sending me the Crisis free the past year. It has come each week richly laden with heavenly news and rich experiences. Jesus has done much for me. Bless his holy name! He has been with me ever since I gave him my heart; but I have done but little for him. How he is blessing me now, while I am writing these lines. It is just like Jesus to do so; bless his name. O how I do desire to work for him. I have given up all to follow him. I want my will swallowed up in his will, and my hand in his hand. I can trust him, and will. I will try, if time lasts and I am spared another year, to point sinners to the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. I want everybody to taste and see how good the Lord is; and I will try, by the grace of God, to set a good example before those around me, that I may, if possible, bring them to Christ.

All who profess to love God ought to realize the responsibility that rests upon them. The eyes of the world are upon us, and how carefully we ought to live. May God help each one to be true to the cause we profess, as one man, and take Jesus as our Captain. May the Lord pour out his Holy Spirit, and sinners be converted, and God be glorified.

Dear reader, if you are not yet in the fold of Christ, I pray you, in the name of Him who bought you with his precious blood, and stands with outstretched hands to receive you, come to him while you may. Remember Death, Judgment, and Eternity. Prepare to meet thy God.

From Bro. B. Spaulding.

Dear Brethren:—I am here, at Townsend. trying to stir up the people to the glorious subject of the coming and kingdom of Jesus, the resurrection and restitution. I find several families who are strong in the Advent faith, and by them I get access to other families, and I think there is an encouraging field here for labor, with a prospect of a good harvest. I have given five lectures, to very interesting congregations. I never saw a greater interest to hear. I feel that God will raise up witnesses here to stand for his truth.

I have visited Pepperel three times, and there is a good interest in that place. They have formed a little church of twelve members, and they are all alive to the cause of the Advent truths. I propose to go there occasionally, for I can go by railroad most of the way. My feet are not like hind's feet, as they used to be; it is with difficulty that I travel, but I can walk a mile, and I praise God that I can do that. My general health is as good as ever it was. I can eat, drink, sleep, and work well. My mind has been revived lately, my memory has brightened up, and my zeal, energy and animation seem to be restored to their former state of activity. Yes, I can run and not be weary, walk and not faint. I have renewed my youth like the eagles. I enjoy the light of God's countenance, and feel his approbation. I feel as I used to when I went everywhere exhorting men to repent and prepare for the coming of the Lord. I am seventy-five years old, and yet enjoy youthful vigor. Blessed be the Lord for his goodness to me! I feel like devoting my spared life to God's cause, and shall go as I have opportunity among the destitute and scattered flock, where they are not able to sustain preaching. I can say, I seek not yours, but you. If any desire such an old man as I am to come to them, let them write to me. Address Benj. Spaulding, Chelmsford, Mass.

Let me say to the brethren, be faithful, humble, prayerful and watchful; be meek, quiet and childlike; be living epistles, known and read of all men. We need to have the epistles of the apostles lived out by the brethren. Hold on, brethren and sisters, a little longer; endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ. Time is short. The King will soon come, and those who are ready will go in with him to the marriage.

From Bro. M. A. Potter.

Dear Brethren and Sisters in Christ:—I take this opportunity to let you know how we are getting along in Keene. The little company here are trying to hold up God's blessed truth, and warn men of coming judgment.

I came here two years ago last Oct., and at that time they were divided, and of course could not accomplish much in that condition. But, thank God, after reflecting upon the matter, they united their strength, and have since enjoyed precious seasons. I am now making arrangements to move to St. Johnsbury, Vt., in answer to a call from the Brn. in that place, who are struggling to keep the truth before the people, and to lead sinners to Christ. I did not realize how much I had become attached to the friends of Jesus in Keene until I began to think of leaving them. I find it hard parting with them. But these parting scenes will soon be over; yet I expect to meet with scenes of sorrow until Jesus comes, and we enter into our rest. My prayer is that God will send laborers here that will build them up in Christ. I expect to labor with the dear brethren at St. Johnsbury a few months, if time continues, and then labor in other fields as the way opens. Pray for me.

Keene, N. H., Dec. 28th, 1874.

Ministering.—Pure religion and undefiled is "ministering," not the other thing, "being ministered unto." It is handing over the morning paper to another for first perusal. It is vacating a pleasant seat by the fire for the one who comes in chilled. It is giving up the most restful arm chair or sofa-corner for one who is weary. It is "moving up" in the pew to let the new comer sit down by the entrance. It is rising from your place to darken the blind when the sun's ray streams in too brightly upon some face in the circle. It is giving your own comfort and convenience every time for the comfort and convenience of another. This is at once true courtesy and real Christianity.

If we mean to copy the spirit of the Master we must be ready in every relation of life, and at every hour of the day, to give up being waited upon, and to practice this self-sacrificing, beneficent, and "ministering" graciousness of spirit and conduct.—Rev. A. L. Stone, D. D.

The Pious Negro.—A certain American planter had a favorite domestic negro, who always stood opposite to him when waiting at table. His Master often took the name of God in vain, when the negro immediately made a low and solemn bow. On being asked why he did so, he replied, that he never heard that great name mentioned but it filled his whole soul with reverence and awe. Thus, without offence, he cured his master of a criminal and pernicious custom.

You will find, in Christianity, that God aimeth, in all his dealings with his children, to bring them to a high contempt of, and deadly feud with the world; and to set a high price upon Christ, and to think him one who cannot be bought for gold, and well worthy the fighting for. And from no other cause doth the Lord withdraw from you the childish toys and the earthly delights that he giveth unto others, but that he may have you wholly to himself.—Rutherford.

HOME AND HEALTH.

Advice to Nervous People.—Irritable nerves are best soothed, not by indulgence, but by turning the mind resolutely in another direction. Many pass through life without one close grasp of their position or duties, or even without studying the best means of attaining their own desired ends. Such are more likely than any others to become victims of tyrannical nerves, and are often grossly unreasonable, from the habit of not using their judgment. Above all, real, earnest labor will put to flight a vast train of nervous troubles. Few who are vigorously pursuing a life-work of importance are greatly afflicted with nervousness, and these few may often trace it to the lack of wholesome living and fresh air. A due regard to the laws of health, an earnest purpose in life, and regular employment are the best preventives for the evils of over-sensitive nerves. Training and self-respect will induce us to suppress fears and to conquer weaknesses. Acts of resolution will teach courage, and a systematic infusion of vigor and self discipline will render the whole nature superior to the indulgence of a tyrannical and enfeebling nervous system.—Phila. Ledger.

Systematizing Mental Labor.—As a marvellous instance of what one man may achieve by doing systematically and thoroughly whatever he undertakes, we can not do better than consider the life of Alexander von Humboldt. There was no part of the world he had not visited, and he had been nowhere without acquiring the most exact knowledge of the whole country, its geology, its animal life, its botany, all its physical characteristics, as well as the language, habits, customs, laws, religion, and history of its people. He led this life till he was ninety years of age, and even then no fact, in any part of the world, that had any bearing on scientific truth, escaped his notice. His mind was a museum, where all the knowledge that had been brought into the world was placed in order, carefully guarded, and always ready for use. We are not wrong in attributing the boundless learning and prodigious memory of this great man to his habit of systematizing his mental labor, and to his power of self concentration; and to his belief in the wisdom of God.—Scientific American.

Good Nature at Home.—No trait of character is more valuable in a wife than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home at night, wearied and worn out by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a sweet disposition! It is sunshine falling on his heart. He is happy, and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a soothing influence over the mind of the whole family. When it is found in the wife and mother, you observe kindness and love predominating over the natural feelings of a bad heart. Smiles, kind words and looks characterize the children, and peace and love have their dwelling there. Study, then, to acquire and retain a sweet temper. It is more valuable than gold! It captivates more than beauty, and to the close of life retains all its freshness and power.—Ex.

The Lungs.—On examination the lungs will be found full of innumerable little holes, like a sponge. These holes are the cells into which the air enters when we breathe. So great is their number that they have been calculated to amount to 170,000, forming a surface thirty times greater than the human body. Every one of these cells is provided with a net work of blood vessels, by which means every portion of blood is brought into immediate contact with the air. When this great amount is taken into consideration, we shall at once feel how necessary it is to supply pure air to the lungs with every breath we breathe.—Ex.

Marble-top Stands.—Are marble-top stands and tables healthy for invalids who work or write near them? No. They are cold, and rapidly absorb the heat and vitality of the body, robbing it of its life. We have heard of one invalid whom the doctor could not cure, till one day he noticed she used a marble stand, and suspected it had something to do with her ill health. So he forbade her touching it. Soon she was cured. We know healthy people who feel the twinges of pain in a shoulder by sitting near one. They are elegant articles of furniture; but unhealthy for all that.—Herald of Health.

Why are city children more precocious than country children? Because there is more in a city to call into exercise the brain, and less to develop the body. The rustic youth looks and acts dull by the side of the city boy; but at middle age he is generally the better man, for the city youth expends his nerve force, while the country youth stores his up for future use. The precocity of city youth should be retarded. Keep them away from balls, parties, theatres, evening amusements. Send them to the country often. Give them a year on a farm now and then, or teach them a trade.—Herald of Health.

How to Treat a Felon.—Immerse the hand and arm as far up as the elbow in quite warm water for twenty-four or forty-eight hours. If this does not relieve the pain, have it opened to the bone with a lancet, and still apply water treatment, putting it in water, or applying wet cloths, or warm poultices. This is the best and most agreeable manner that we know of.—Health Reformer.

The stomach requires much rest to be healthy; purgative medicines weaken the bowels.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
Private Letters.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE, Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM, An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper, FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

Terms: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to
"THE YOUNG PILGRIM," Boston, Mass

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1002. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 15.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL,
WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR,
L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN,
J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

WATCHING.

We are on the waters crossing,—
Crossing to a holy shore;
Watching ever for the beacon
Which will guide us safely o'er.
Rocking ever on the billows,—
Billows foaming all our way;
But the darkness gathering round us
Tells the near approach of day.

Oh! the joyous, happy greeting
Of the Jew and Gentile band!
For they'll shout a loving welcome
When we reach the holy land!
And they'll flock around us, singing,
Prasing God to harps of gold,
As his Son, the mighty Shepherd,
Draws his lambs within the fold!

Oh, the shining of the day-star!
How we long to see it rise!
Praying, waiting, hoping, watching
With our spirit's eager eyes!
Blest Jehovah, hear our prayer!
Lamb of God, we yearn for thee!
Yearn to see thy kingly beauty,
King of all eternity!

—Prophetic Times.

CHRIST IS COMING.—DO YOU BELIEVE IT?

BY GEN. ALEXANDER.

In Hyde Park, London, in the year 1851, was erected a palace to which kings, nobles, philosophers, and people of all nations were invited to come and behold the world's glory of intellectual progress and inventive power. Whatever could be comprehended within the improvements upon discoveries made by the descendants of Cain (Gen. 4: 20), with modern adaptations of such knowledge as was divinely given for the typical beauty of the tabernacle, and exercised by Hiram for the building of the temple, was exhibited there. Genius was represented in its highest aspirations; art and science, by an hitherto unthought of display of handiwork wrought up to the most exquisite perfection which the instructors of every artificer could devise, and the ingenuity of well skilled labor could perform.

EXHIBITION PALACE, THE TEMPLE OF PEACE.

Visitors from the distant east saw wonders beyond the imaginations of Oriental poetry brought before them in the realities amidst which they walked. What had appeared to be but dreams of gorgeous impossibilities, fell short of the enchantments evoked from the laboratory and the forge; from the painter's studio, and the sculptor's atelier. Concentrated sunbeams, which had slept for centuries embedded in the earth, laid in dark masses at their feet, had blazed in the mysterious agency that had brought them to our shores, and were largely instrumental in the production of the enchantments that met their astonished gaze. And all was familiarly explained as a combination of their known elements of fire, water, earth, and air.

Here was Reason's triumph; and some of the world's wise men called this exhibition palace "The Temple of Peace," and voices were heard proclaiming that henceforth strife and bloodshed should be no more; they said that common sense forbade it, and that men were at last convinced that wisdom is better than war; that commerce is the power which is to establish peace upon earth and good will amongst men, and that righteousness is in future to be maintained by treaties of reciprocity and the beneficial interchange of commodities of trade.

In that exhibition, in prominent position, conspicuous to every eye, and the cynosure of too many, there stood the marble representation of an entirely unclothed woman; a crucial, test of the purity and modesty, as well as a specimen of the imitative excellency and public taste of this enlightened age. The test so unhappily successful then in sculpture, was repeated in the Exhibition of 1862 more flagrantly in paintings, and has been perpetuated in the shrine of its inauguration where the wives and daughters of our own and other lands take their pleasure, and wander among representations that they dare not speak of to each other, and to which it would be considered most unpolite for any man to call their attention.

VOLUPTUOUSNESS AND PLEASURE SEEKING IN THESE LAST DAYS.

As a sign of the times, there is much that meets the eye in all lands to which "many run to and fro," to mind us of the state of public taste and morals immediately preceding the downfalls of the three ancient kingdoms, Babylon, Greece, and Rome. Especially is modern Rome a cage of every unclean and hateful bird; and vieing with her in vicious pre-eminence, Munich may perhaps come next; both being, as it were, fountain heads from which flow streams of moral contamination throughout the world. The so-called "monde" and "demi-monde" approximate so nearly in the broad ways and fashionable customs of Paris and our own metropolis, and in the capital cities and towns of all countries of the civilized world, that too often it is a crime rather than a principle that marks the distinction between them. The Anonymas of the present day are but repetitions of the Aspasias of Greece, and of the vicious notorieties whose infamy is transmitted by poets of the Agustan age. Again, in many of the public amusements sensational excitement is sought and most gratified, in proportion as imminent risk to life and limb stirs up the absorbing emotions of a gladiatorial show.

CATHEDRALS TURNED INTO CONCERT-HALLS.

Cathedrals are flagrantly perverted into concert rooms, where the singers of Don Juan, Satonella, Robert le Diable, Lucrezia Borgia, La Traviata, etc., fresh from exhibiting with exquisite fascination the most captivating representations of seduction, adultery, murder, lying, death, and almost every crime, at the opera and theatre, proceed at the oratorio to take in vain the name of their Almighty God, the great I AM, in imitative mockery of prayers and praises set to music for effect upon the stage, and are hired to mimic in sweetest sounds the agony of Gethsemane, the cries and sufferings upon the cross, the hallelujahs of angels, and songs of the redeemed, mingled with the sublime invitations and awful warnings, given by the Father of infinite love and mercy, and uttered by the lips of an all-hearing, all-seeing Savior, thus crucified afresh in the house of his Judas-like professing friends.

Then follows on the luxurious banquet, and, with short respite from the toil of sinful pleasure, preparation for the splendid festivities of the night-long ball. The very men of the latter days against whom the Holy Spirit warns the church; the ministers "who are lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God: having a form of godliness but denying the power thereof; leading captive silly women laden with sins" (2 Tim. 3), minister in these "revelings and banquetings" to the "lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, which is not of the Father, but is of the world," while their beautiful, accomplished, gaily-decorated victims dance in insensate delirium the dance of death, downward to destruction, with the ready answer upon their tongues, "that they always have a more religious feeling at an oratorio, and when they can hear sacred music so charmingly performed." Words which, alas? we may believe so true as to leave a saddened impression of what must be the habitual state of those hearts and minds with which the comparison of "feeling more religious" is thus simply drawn.

Miracles of the Exodus, facts of inspired history, are profaned in theatres, and hell itself is raked for subjects to feed the insatiate craving for sensational excitement in a professedly christian, but intensely pleasure seeking age. Worse, if possible, even worse than this, is it if we go into church edifices that should be houses of prayer and gates of heaven (Gen. 29:17; John 4: 23–24), and behold "the wicked abominations that they do there" (Ezek. 8: 9, 10), where instead of the purity and simplicity of spiritual worship, we behold histrionic exhibitions, unintelligibly snuffled, monotoned, choral serviced, and gesticulated in pantomimic pageants, and with idolatrous processions of banners and false priests.

SIGNS OF APPROACHING JUDGMENT.

We live in the midst of preparations for war. How soon may its fierce flames rage on the banks of the Danube, the Rhine, the Scheldt, the Nile, and, may we not add, of the Thames. How precarious is peace at this moment throughout the world. Ingenuity is at its utmost stretch to invent more terrible efficients of destruction, more dreadful means of carrying bloodshed and devastation into every portion of the globe. "Blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke, before the great and terrible day of the Lord shall come." (Joel 2: 40, 41; Acts 2: 19.

Never were so many armed men of all nations so highly trained by science and discipline in immediate readiness for war. Millions are enrolled under their respective banners, and millions more wait in uncertainty how soon the call may come for them to swell the number of these mighty hosts, and to fill up the chasms of their dead. The last estimate of the armies of Europe, sets their aggregate number at upwards of six millions of men. Since the volunteer movement in 1860, the men of peace in our land have been learning the art of war. All ranks and classes, from royalty to the loyal artisan, have heard the repeated rumors of war, and responded to the summons to prepare, "not in defiance, but for defence." Peers and peasants, merchants, lawyers, bankers, shopkeepers, landed gentry with their tenants, manufacturers and mechanics, men of science, men of skill, and men of pleasure, each and all, are under the mysteriously constraining influence of voluntary preparation for what may at any moment burst upon our country and the world. (Rev. 7: 1, 2, 3; 14: 14.)

We literally exemplify the wisdom of the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Isa. 22: 8–11.) We look to our armor, we see to the breaches and weak points of our defences, and repair our fortifications; but when we remember how the volunteer movement was nationally inaugurated "with gladness, slaying of oxen, and killing sheep, eating flesh and drinking wine," we may turn to the twelfth verse, and read further exemplification of our national conduct in arming for the defence of our highly favored land, "Ye looked not unto the Maker of it, neither had respect unto him that fashioned it long ago." We had, and still have, our Isaiahs, Jeremiahs, and Daniels, and holy men, though they are not like their glorious prototypes, inspired to declare new prophecies; and as there were Baruchs, and Ebed-Melechs, and Gedaliahs, and Johanans in Judah of old, so there are God's chosen ones, his own peculiar people, in our kingdom now, while the national similarities are otherwise too painfully strong and clear.

The third chapter of Joel, from verse 9 to the end, presents such a photograph of the world in its present state, as could only be portrayed upon the page of inspiration by light from the Sun of Righteousness. The metaphor of "beating ploughshares into swords, and pruning hooks into spears," is made literal before our eyes, foreshowing that great and terrible events are about to happen before the prophecies of Isaiah 2, Micah 6, and Psalm 46 shall be fulfilled, and the nations "shall" beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks; neither shall they learn war any more. The kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem." "The lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day." "Come and behold the works of the Lord, and see what desolations he hath made in the earth. He maketh wars to cease; he breaketh the bow and cutteth the spear asunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire. Be still, and know that I am God."

Learned and pious Jews have recently, from study of the books of Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, Haggai, and Zechariah, been led to believe that the coming of a Messiah, the son of Joseph (Gen. 49: 24, 25), who is to lead back the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and to die for his people, will take place at about this time. He is to be succeeded by Messiah, the Son of David, who will gather all Israel, and fulfil Zechariah 14 and Psalm 72.

The Mohammedans believe and proclaim from city to city, from man to man, and in every mosque and place of prayer, that a revelation has lately been made to a holy sheikh at Mecca, that within a few years is the time for the advent of their expected Imaum Mehdee, the Akhir oos Zumaun, with the heavenly born prophet, Issah Museeah (our blessed Lord.) In this, which is believed by the Mussulmans to be a revelation by audible voice from God, the wickedness of the world, from a Mohammedan point of view, is described in language remarkably similar to that of St. Paul in his epistles to St. Timothy, and warning given that God is about to execute vengeance upon it for its crimes and infidelity.

The Hindoos are looking for a Rajah Veshanta or Vedanta, a spiritual being, who is to break the yoke, destroy the oppressor, and restore a state of happiness and innocence, according to their superstition. The Buddhist is in expectation of his last Avater; and the Sikh, of his one more Gooroo to establish each his supremacy over all. Religiously and politically there is a general expectation throughout the world, in all its spiritual and mental varieties, of either a coming person or an impending catastrophe; one or both.

The Red Republican and the Socialist waits for the "coming man," who shall lead to the renovation of society and establish universal equality by a pitiless and unsparing baptism of blood. The believing christian turns to his Bible, and under the teaching which is therein promised, watches with loving hope for the coming of Christ, who baptizes with the Holy Ghost and with fire, and has given his sacred pledge that he will come quickly. But amidst this perplexed "looking after the things that are coming upon the earth," when the very "powers of heaven shall be shaken" (Luke 11: 12–28), when the men of the world are so generally in expectation of a coming one, and some great event, what are christian preachers about? Are ministers, missionaries, evangelists, believers, exhorting each other and telling the world of the "coming One," the Son of God from heaven? Do they really believe that very soon he is coming, as he has said?—Signs of Our Times.

BELIEVING AND FEELING.

With humble trust that our heavenly Father will condescend, through even us, to throw some light upon this subject, where excellent brethren seem to misunderstand each other, beloved, we write unto you.

And first, can one believe without any change of emotion or feeling immediately resulting? Certainly not. It is not possible in the nature of the mind.

But second. You say, will one always be conscious of great emotion? Not always. So far from that, so perfect is the rest into which he who believes enters, that feeling is hushed, every power of his soul seems to be absorbed in believing, or if faith is stronger, in a state of equilibrium or perfect relative position. He will say, believe, "I have no feeling." "All is quietness and assurance." "I rest from self, from all my own works." "I rest in the truth of God." "I am tempted, but I will, can, and do believe." "Why God is true! Oh! how I do trust him." "And just in proportion as I believe do I enter into rest." "I have done fighting my own battles." "All responsibility about my coming off conqueror is now upon God," since I by grace through faith have ventured, and do venture, upon his promise. I now meet my spiritual foes in him, in his name, and strength, and invincibleness. I am even now in advance, conqueror over these besetments, so long my tyrants." Come on, ye spiritual foes! I pant to show you how I have victory over you, in God. I have no emotion, but this rest, this strength in God, this conscious believing, this ceasing from all my own works, as God did from his. Oh! glory! I do not ask for feeling—no, hallelujah! God is true! I believe! I can rest upon his truth without feeling.

I almost love to have my faith tried, and tested by absence of feeling. It is so sweet to believe God in spite of everything! I have not the witness of the Holy Spirit. But I will, I do, believe it will come! God cannot fail. I believe, and he doeth the work. I stand by faith. I will sooner die than doubt. "My faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Seen! Why should I ask for sight, when God is so infinitely true, and it is so safe for a worm to trust him? I have no feeling, I ask for none, to prove the truth of God to his promises. Hallelujah!

Now who does not see that this rest, this quietness and assurance, is new experience, is the deepest feeling? Still, should you say to such an one, Have you the witness of the Holy Spirit? he must answer, No. Have you the fulness of perfect love? No; but my faith claims them, and will claim them. It is better "evidence" of the possession of them, than any amount of feeling, which must vary, could be. God is true! I can trust him! Let him try my faith before he gives the realization of them, just as he sees for my good and his glory. I can wait. I do not now ask for feeling to corroborate the truth of God, as I once did. I even love to have my confidence in God tested. Oh! this rest! We who believe do enter into rest.

Now, when this disciple speaks of this experience, ever after he will say, I had not feeling! meaning no ecstatic joy, no witness of the Holy Spirit. But he did enjoy the REST of a seraph, in the truth of God.—Bible Standard.

WHEN WAS THE BRASS GATE OPENED?

WM. SHELDON.

As the opening of the brass gate, spoken of by Josephus, is made by some the epoch of the termination of the 70 weeks of Daniel, even to the day and the hour; and as this is construed into an argument for the ending of the 2300 days on a definite day and hour, it may be well to briefly examine this claim.

(1) It is simply an assumption that the mysterious opening of that gate marked the ending of the 70 weeks. It is all guess work, void of evidence, for the prophecy says not a word about the opening of a gate at the end of those weeks; and it is not wisdom to manufacture a positive argument out of so doubtful a premise.

(2) Though it is alleged that this gate was opened on the night of the 14th day of the first month, there is not a particle of proof in existence that such was the fact; but the very quotation from Josephus, that is used to establish this date, positively disproves the claim, and spoils the argument founded upon it. Josephus' statement reads: "Thus also before the Jews' rebellion, and before those commotions that preceded the war, when the people were come in great crowds to the feast of unleavened bread, on the eighth day of the month Zanticus [Nisan], at the ninth hour of the night, so great a light shone round the altar and the holy house, that it appeared to be bright day-time; which light lasted for half an hour. This light seemed to be a good sign to the unskillful, but was so interpreted by the sacred scribes as to portend those events that followed immediately upon it. At the same festival also, a heifer, as she was led by the high priest to be sacrificed, brought forth a lamb in the midst of the temple. Moreover, the eastern gate of the inner court [of the temple], which was of brass, and vastly heavy, and had been with difficulty shut by twenty men, and rested upon a basis armed with iron, and had bolts fastened very deep into the firm floor, which was there made of one entire stone, was seen to be opened of its own accord about the sixth hour of the night."—Wars, b. 6, c. 5, s. 3.

(1) In the first place, nothing is here said about this occurrence being on the 14th day. Josephus is here speaking of a week of purification preceding and including the passover day, and definitely mentions the "8th day," but not the 14th. The heifer was never a substitute for the paschal lamb, and was never slain on the same day; so this does not point to the 14th day. This festival was of seven days duration, independent of the purification preceding it; and at some epoch in this festival this event took place; but Josephus does not say it was on the 14th day.

(2) Nor does Josephus locate this event in A. D. 65, but before that time; for he says it was "before the Jews' rebellion, and before those commotions that preceded the war." The beginning of the war is thus given:—"At the same time began the war, in the 12th year of Nero, and the 17th of the reign of Agrippa, in the month of Artemisius [Jyar].—Wars, b. 2, c. 14, s. 4. The month here mentioned is the second Jewish month. The passover preceding this month could not have been the one at which the gate opened, for it opened "before those commotions which preceded the war," and those "commotions" spanned the entire government of Florus, which commenced two years previously, as Josephus informs us: "Now this war began in the second year of the government of Florus, and the 12th year of the reign of Nero."—Ant., b. 20, c. 11, s. 1. "Upon the approach of the feast of unleavened bread, the people came about him [Cestus Gallus] not fewer in number than three millions; these besought him to commiserate the calamities of their nation, and cried out upon Florus as the bane of their country."—Wars, b. 2, c. 14, s. 3. This passover preceded the war, but the commotions referred to by Josephus were in full blast, and had been for about two years; and as the gate was opened "before those commotions that preceded the war," it could not have been opened at the passover of A. D. 65. So this event cannot mark the close of the 70 weeks. We will not here mark the point of their termination. But the claim referred to is not valid.

ORNAMENTS.

"And when the people heard these evil tidings, they mourned; and no man did put on him his ornaments. For the Lord had said unto Moses, Say unto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiffnecked people: I will come up unto thee in a moment, and consume thee: therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee. And the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb."—Ex. 33: 4–6.

There are some things which are both ornamental and useful; there are others that are of no utility, and are only for ornaments. It is said in defense of the wearing of certain ornaments, that as they are of utility, this justifies the putting of them on the person, or placing them in the house. This is a special plea for the gratification of the natural desire for display; and with many it is an argument sufficient to convince them that the wearing of certain ornaments by a christian is at least pardonable if not justifiable.

But while a plea is made for ornaments which may be in some respects useful, there can be no good reason given for the putting on of those that are of no benefit, especially by the professed disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ. The putting on and display of those things which are of no real benefit, but for the gratification of a morbid appetite of the heart for admiration, is a sin on the part of every professed follower of Christ; and the doing of this indicates a want of true vital godliness. A christian must first begin to backslide from God, before there will be in the heart a desire to put on trinkets, and wear anything to render him or her pleasing in the eyes of the world. The longing for, and putting on the world in this respect, are true evidences that the heart is not fully with the Lord; and no matter how great the profession of christian consecration and holiness may be, no one having the Spirit by which to discern the things of God, will be deceived by such professions of such persons. Jewelry, ornaments, and showy trappings of all kinds, are opposed to the spirit and religion of Christ. None of his true and decided followers desire any of these things. The presence of them on others is a cause of regret and sorrow to the really converted, faithful disciple of Jesus. He knows that Christ cannot be reigning in that heart which takes pleasure in these toys of the world.

It is lamentable in these days to see men and women professing sanctification and holiness, arrayed in the most costly and fashionable garments, and wearing, like the heathen, jewelry in their ears, on their fingers, and around their wrists; chains about their necks, with lockets and mementoes attached. All this with gilded equipages at home and abroad, and declaring that they are living without sin, with all on the altar, and consecrated to God! This profession is made before the world and all heaven; and men and angels know it is false, and have no confidence in it.

The jeweled professor is a stumbling block to all who behold him or her. Better not profess to have put on Christ, if the world is not put off. Men will not believe they have him on, while they see us wearing the world. An exhortation given with jewels in the ears never yet reached the heart of a saint or a sinner. The rings, chains, feathers and flowers on the outside are observed and thought of more than the words spoken to represent the heart inside. Men and women professing sanctification, or anything pertaining to the religion of Christ, should never expect to be believed while they deck themselves with those things which the word of God positively forbids, and which even the ungodly know are contrary to the spirit of the religion of Jesus. How any one can put on these things and display them, and have confidence before God, is a problem which the writer cannot solve. How can we expect to be identified as real christians, when we do not look like Christ? The world are known by their conformity to the world. If we meet a stranger, dressed richly in the fashion of the day, with jewels and ornaments, we do not conclude that such an one is a follower of Christ; bnt on the contrary, in our minds, we associate him or her with the world and the votaries of pleasure and fashion. It has been said that mistakes have often been made, and followers of Christ have been taken for people of the world. This we do not believe; for on the contrary the true, humble, devoted disciple of the Lord is read and known of all men; not by words alone, but by the appearance and life.

"The ornament of a meek and quiet spirit" is one that Christ will approve. But this is not seen where the ornaments of the world blaze and glitter on the person of one who would even have the God-approved adornment. The former cannot be worn with the latter. Its gentle, modest mien is unobserved where the bold flash of gilt and gold appears. It retires from observation when pride and fashion sweep in with their trail of silks and diamonds. It is only seen when all the world is taken off, and the image of Christ appears in the person of his true and devoted followers. The plain, simple garb, unattractive either by its fashionableness or its unfashionableness, is the one that true christians should wear; and in such apparel Christ will adorn them with heavenly ornaments, which will make them appear beautiful to angels and all the pure and good. I. I. LESLIE.

Fall River, Mass.

THERE are many christians who heap coals of fire on their enemy's head in order to love him, but are very much disappointed if the coals do not scorch.

"I FEEL SAD."

A. E. BENNETT.

Affectionately inscribed to Sr. L. B. Weaver.

As I read, in a recent number of the Crisis, an article under the above caption from the pen of the dear one to whom this is kindly dedicated, from my heart I felt if the matter be viewed from a human standpoint, I do not wonder she wrote—"My heart is sad to-day. My lot seems hard."

As thought wanders back over long years of physical suffering, mental trials, blasted hopes, and temptations of the enemy, I wonder not that the heart is tired, and sighs for rest. I wonder not at the closing paragraph—"Hasten thy coming dear Savior." But from another stand-point come visions of perfect rest and untold victories. And not only visions, but realites.

Dear 'Thera, it is a fact that in every trial, and in every condition of life, we may be "more than conquerors." To be a conqueror, is to get a perfect victory "through our Lord Jesus Christ," so that we can be "patient in tribulation," resigned to any condition in life, willing to suffer in any way which will glorify the Master; and nothing can glorify him more than for his children to remain on the cross to which they have become thoroughly consecrated, till a full crucifixion ensues:—till every desire, wish, and preference of the flesh become crucified. Then, and not till then, can we say with Paul—"I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God."

To be "more than conquerors" brings us where we can glory in tribulation. Paul says, in speaking of tribulation, persecution, famine, peril, sword, being killed all the day long, and accounted as sheep for the slaughter:—"In all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us." He was not only patient in them, but gloried in them.

But how came Paul more than a conqueror? How did he get where he could glory in tribulation and suffering? Was it by becoming a conqueror merely? Was it by simply being patient in tribulation? Desirable as may be the attainment, or rather *ob*tainment, the acme is not yet reached. There is danger of losing the victory, unless we "go on unto perfection;" which embraces all the crucifixion of the flesh, with the affections and the lusts, and which will result in being "more than conquerors."

Let us look at Paul in 2 Cor. 12. After having an experience so wonderful that he hardly knew whether he was in the body or not, we find him praying repeatedly for deliverance from a fleshly infirmity. He was doubtless dead to sin, and dead to the world, but even then, self with its innocent preferences was not dead.

Here comes an illustration of a truth in your article, dear 'Thera. "The Lord knows just how to discipline us." The Lord saw that to thoroughly discipline and perfect Paul's character, he was to be subjected to continual suffering. That instead of being delivered from his trial, he was kept just there till he got a perfect victory, which afterward proved to be more than a victory. Hear him. "Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecution, in distresses, for Christ's sake." He took pleasure in just the things he had prayed for deliverance from. He became "more than a conqueror;" thank the dear Lord. Nor is this experience confined to Paul. Others had it in his day; others have had it since; and there are to-day among the Bride of Christ, those who know it practically and experimentally. But it is never reached without suffering. "He that is perfect is as the Master," or, as another rendering has it, "He that is perfect, is made so as the Master was," and he was made "perfect through suffering."

May the Lord bless and help you, my dear suffering one, to get your eye on perfect victory in the furnace, instead of deliverance from it. May you be enabled to become "more than conqueror," and stand where you can take pleasure in the very things you now sigh for deliverance from. And instead of your poor weary heart having to breathe out the caption of this article, may your joyous soul whisper in its victories—I FEEL GLAD.

CULTIVATE QUIETNESS.

"Many people seem to cultivate the reverse. They are always in a hurry—always bustling—always rushing about hither and thither, as if they meant to exemplify in their own proper persons the theory of perpetual motion. And then, if everything does not go quite straight, if there is some little hitch which prevents the wheels of daily life from running smoothly, they fuss, and fume, and fret, till they make matters ten times worse. Now, this is a very bad plan. You will rarely find that these people accomplish much. What they build up with one hand, they pull down with the other. They forget that in 'quietness and confidence is their strength.' And moreover, there is no inherent power in noisy excitement.

Far better is it to keep calm, and take things quietly as they come. Do what you can, and what you cannot do leave to God. And when troubles come, do leave them to God too. Bend down and let the cloud sweep over you, and when it has passed, look up to the blue heaven beyond it, and thank God that it remains there still. But you will not make the cloud one whit the less dark, by being restless and impatient under it. Rather lie still before God, and let him do with you as seemeth to him good; not in the stillness of indifference or stoicism, but the stillness of childlike submission, which leaves One to choose for it who will surely choose for the best. 'Study,' then, 'to be quiet,' alike in doing and in suffering. Pray that God may 'calm,' and keep you calm,' resting in his love and dwelling in the secret of his presence."—Chris. Treasury.

MUSINGS.

L. B. WEAVER.

Dear pilgrims bound Zionward:—A "Happy New Year" to you all in Jesus. The Lord bless and be with you, and may this be the happiest year that ever dawned upon this poor world.

As I look back over the lapse of years, I think of the family gatherings upon these holidays; and how sweet and loving, pleasant and kind were the friendly greetings of parents, children, brothers and sisters as they met, after a year's absence to bestow tokens of filial affection and receive the same in return. Happy house, when all could meet and gather around the family fireside. Sweet, loving, smiling faces greeted us with words warm from hearts glowing with love. But joys are always mingled with sorrows, and now we remember another gathering—O how different! What causes these sad tears to flow so freely? Why is that family group so sad? We look around, and we miss the form that filled the old arm chair by our dear father's side. O where is mother? dear, precious mother! We follow the silent group into her quiet room. There, upon her bed, lies the form of her we loved so dearly. But her eyes are closed, and her face is pale. We take her hand in ours, but we feel no gentle pressure in return. We kiss the dear lips that so often we have kissed before, but they do not respond. No loving eyes open to see who stands by her bedside. Dear mother is dead. O sad, sad hour. She will never look upon us again in love and tender pity. Her soft, loving hand will never rest upon our aching head in blessings again. Those lips will never be parted to utter again the kindly greeting—"I wish you a happy new year."

O how sad and cheerless this world has seemed to us ever since. When the "new year's" greetings are given, I am sad; for side by side in the lonely grave yard, miles from us, lie our loved ones. Nothing but the bright resurrection can bring back joy to our hearts. We can say—"Thy will, O God, be done;" but we long for the morning. We sigh for, the "happy new year" that is endless. And ours is not the only circle that is broken by death. Ah, no; many are weeping as I pen these lines, over loved ones dead and dying; and can any one wonder why I long so for Jesus to come? No, they cannot; for then will begin the glad "new year" of all our hopes and eternal joys. Till then I must pray, "Jesus, come and reign."

No. Dana, Mass.

REST AND BE THANKFUL.

"There is a pass in Scotland called Glencroe, which supplies a beautiful illustration of what heaven will be to the man who comes to Christ. The road through Glencroe carries the traveler up a long and steep ascent with many a winding and many a little turn in its course. But when the top of the pass is reached, a stone is seen by the wayside, with these simple words engraven on it, 'Rest and be thankful.'

Reader, these words describe the feelings with which every one who comes to Christ will at length enter heaven. The summit of the narrow way will be won. We shall cease from our wearying journeying, and sit down in the kingdom of God. We shall look back over all the way of life with thankfulness, and see the perfect wisdom of every little winding and turn in the steep ascent by which we were led. We shall forget the toils of the upward journey to the glorious rest. Here in this world, our sense of rest in Christ at the best is feeble and partial. 'But when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away.' Thanks be unto God, a day is coming when believers shall rest perfectly, and be thankful."—Rev. J. C. Ryle.

TO AVOID CALUMNY.—"If any one speaks ill of thee," said Epictitus, "consider whether he has truth on his side; and if so, reform thyself, that his censures may not affect thee." When Anareimander was told that the very boys laughed at his singing, "Ay," said he, "then I must learn to sing better." Plato being told that he had many enemies who spoke ill of him, said: "It is no matter; I will live so that none shall believe them." Hearing at another time that an intimate friend of his had spoken detractively of him, he said: "I am sure he would not do it if he had not some reason for it." This is the surest, as well as the noblest way of drawing the sting out of a reproach, and the true method of preparing a man for that great and only relief against the pains of calumny—a good conscience.—Selected by E. A. Chandler, West Cheshire, Ct.

THE WORD of God is the water of life, the more ye lave it forth, the fresher it runneth; it is the fire of God's glory, the more ye blow it, the clearer it burneth; it is the corn of the Lord's field, the better you grind it, the more it yieldeth; it is the bread of heaven, the more it is broken and given forth, the more it remaineth; it is the sword of the Spirit, the more it is scoured, the brighter it shineth. The voice of God cannot be unpleasant to their ears who are the children of God, the oftener they hear it, the more they receive; they can never have overmuch who never have enough.—Bishop Jewel.

— No man ever did a designed injury to another, without doing a greater to himself.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 20, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office. AGENT.

☞ SPECIAL NOTICE
To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis. AG'T.

SOCIAL HARMONY.

The first great principle manifested in the creation and arrangement of all things created by God, is social harmony. It is evident from Revelation, and all the handiworks of God, that the production of such a harmony was the great object he purposed to accomplish. True social harmony is of God, while social discord is of Satan.

Harmony is produced by fitting the parts of a body so that each will unite with all others without repelling them from itself, or without producing strife and war between them. Sounds are in harmony when one does not injure the sweetness and melody of another. The planets are in harmony when one does not turn another out of its proper course, or detract from its light or legitimate results in the solar system. The Creator of all beings and things designed each for some place and purpose, and does not allow, by his changeless law one being or anything to so effect another that it cannot fill the place, or do all that he designed. When each part and being of the universe fills its place, and does its work as designed by the Author of its existence, he having arranged by infinite skill and wisdom a distinct place and part for each, there must be perfect and universal harmony.

Society is a class of intelligent beings who are united together for mutual profit, happiness, or usefulness. Social harmony, therefore, consists in each individual member of any association filling his place, and doing his work without hindering or turning aside any other member of that body from doing his work or filling his place. Let it be remembered by all that two things are essential for social harmony. Each doing his own work faithfully, and permitting his companions to do the same.

God created no beings for isolation—solitude, but he endowed all with the leading, controlling element of sociableness, from the highest angels to the tiniest reptiles.

The great work and purpose of God is to bring all of his creatures into a heavenly and universal harmony, according to his original design. The great work and purpose of Satan is to destroy all the heavenly harmonies among God's creatures, and thus defeat Jehovah in the execution of his infinitely merciful plan.

Harmony between the parts of any body, animate or inanimate, intelligent or unintelligent, must be produced by each part being governed by the same laws, and controlled by the same power. A head or regulator is therefore essential to the harmonious action of all associated bodies. A State can have no harmonious action without a recognized official head. An army is powerless to withstand a foe without a commanding officer, who can harmonize all parts of the forces by orders which will not bring one division in contact with another. The honey-bees will not emigrate to a new habitation without a leader, neither will the emigrating birds fly from the South to the North without one to direct them on their course. Surely God has manifested his purpose in this matter, by all the natural developments in the physical and intellectual world. All nature testifies that a supreme Ruler, a controlling Headship is necessary for the peace, happiness, and harmony of the universe.

The God of the Holy Scriptures has revealed himself as that Headship. He has presented his laws as the only code by which his creatures can find harmony with him, and among themselves. He has presented us with two demonstrative arguments that he possesses the rulership of all beings and worlds. First, he has given prophetic annunciations of events which could only be produced by such a power, and those events have taken place exactly as foretold. Secondly, he has given the assurance to all who yield to the claims of the divine government, that they shall experience in themselves a complete reconciliation to all that God has done in the past, is doing and permitting to be done at present, and all that he has purposed to do in thefuture. That they shall experience a special and divine oneness with all who are thus reconciled to God, and that their former want of harmony with him, his purposes and plan, has been entirely eradicated. They know that a power above and beyond themselves has changed them, morally and spiritually, and that that change is in exact harmony with the teaching of the gospel.

Harmony with God is manifested by obedience to him; inharmony with him is manifested by disobedience, or sin. Sin is a development of moral inharmony with the divine government; and the curse, of a physical discord with that government. As the curse followed and was a result of sin, so in the regeneration of our world, sin must first be eradicated, and then the moral harmonies will be restored. The heart is first renewed, brought into concord with the heart of Christ, and subsequently the body is renewed and made like his glorious body. So, when the moral work of restoring our race shall have been accomplished, then the earth and heavens will be renewed and made the eden home of all the saved.

Have we who profess to be the disciples of Jesus experienced the first installment of harmonization with God, according to the gospel of Christ? Do our hearts respond Amen to all that God has revealed in his Word? Does the Spirit find our wills ready to yield to its gentle, silent teaching? Have we a supreme delight in the service of God? and can we say, A day in thy courts is better than a thousand? Do the commandments of God appear easy and delightful? When the chastening rod falls upon us, can we gratefully praise the One who holds it? believing he suffered the affliction to come upon us for our safety and salvation? Do our hearts pulsate with the same perfect love that fills Jehovah's? so that we can pray for our enemies, and love those who despitefully use us, as he does? Are we opposed to sin, and Satan, and the world, with all its pride, oppression, cruelty, and wicked habits? Do we wait with earnest longings for the ending of sin and the curse? Is the appearing of Christ the grand event of joyful anticipation in our hope? Does a quenchless flame of adoring love for Calvary's Sufferer, cause us to pray unceasingly, Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly? Are our hearts fixed upon the kingdom of God, so that we involuntarily pray day and night—"Thy kingdom come?" If this is our condition, then we may feel assured that the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ has reconciled us to God, and that we are enjoying a heavenly harmony with his glorious government.

If we are enjoying this reconciliation to God, what will be the status of our harmony with his people? It is in vain for us to profess to be reconciled to God while we are unreconciled to those who follow him. Men who adopt the principles advocated by a political leader, cannot fail to sympathize politically with those who adopt the same principles. Inspiration says—"If we walk in the light, as he (God) is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." Again it says—"If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us." These passages are positive proof that, if we have fellowship with God, we shall have fellowship also with his people; for "Every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him." This then is the experimental and most demonstrative proof that we have of our harmony with God, even our harmony with his people. But lest there be a lingering doubt in some mind, let us hear the voice of God upon the point once more. "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death. He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now." He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of stumbling (scandal) in him.

John evidently received this doctrine, which he so positively states, from the lips of the perfect Teacher, who said, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." Jesus and John, therefore, give as the test of true Christianity, that those who possess it will love each other in the sense of fellow shiping each other in Christ.

Jesus expressed the infinite importance of this christian harmony and oneness in a prayer to his Father, when he said—"Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one as we are." "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; as thou Father art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." Jesus prays that the same harmony and union may exist between his people that exists between himself and his Father. Jesus perfectly harmonized with the divine government, so that he could say in all things, Thy will be done. So it is with the people of God; when each agrees with him, they necessarily agree with each other, for they must occupy the same position.

The mission of Christ to this world is to destroy the work of the devil; and as that work destroyed the social harmonies of this world, the work of Christ will be to restore those harmonies; therefore he prayed that his people may be one, "that the world may believe that thou hast sent me;" that is, the Messiah was coming to destroy discord and war, thus producing union and harmony; therefore, if his gospel produced that union, it proved him to be the Christ.

As the world draws near its period, Satan comes with increased power to destroy christian union and love, thus destroying Christianity itself, and so carry many who profess to love God down to perdition. To accomplish this work of death, the spirit of jealousy is poured out, inclining all who receive it to condemn their brethren for a word, a look, or a little difference of opinion. Things, which formerly would hardly have produced a jar, now result in division and war. This is the last strategetical movement of the enemy.

Brethren, be not led captive by him, for he is seeking in every way to induce you to contend and strive about little things, or great ones, theological questions, church polity, or worldly matters, anything for discord and division. Remember that Christ unites christians, but Satan divides them. The spirit of Christ draws good hearts together, while the spirit of evil repels them from each other. The good servants of Jesus will labor for peace and harmony; but the evil servant will gratify his ambition and will, if it divides and destroys the flock.

May the God of grace give us so much of his heavenly love that we may not be carried down to perdition by this overwhelming flood of contention, strife and war, which is now convulsing all human society and annihilating gospel harmony among men. O come, thou Prince of Peace, and end this satanic jargon by the eternal unity and God-like harmony of thy glorious kingdom. J. C.

CHRIST OUR MERCY-SEAT.

Under the old covenant, the mercy-seat for the Jews was in the holy of holies, in the tabernacle. When one sinned, he brought to the tabernacle a lamb, without spot or blemish, laid his hands on its head, by which act his sins were transferred to the innocent creature. Then his own hand must kill it, when the priest took of the blood, and sprinkled upon the horns of the altar. Once a year, the high priest went into the holy of holies with blood to be sprinkled on the mercy-seat for his own sins and the sins of all the people. At the mercy-seat was the point of union, or reconciliation, between God, the high priest, and the people. It was called the "atonement," or at-onement," as anciently pronounced. A mercy-seat is the place to obtain mercy, and there the people had access to the Father through the high priest.

Under the new covenant, where shall we look for our mercy-seat? In the holy of holies; in heaven itself. The word used in the Septuagint to represent the mercy-seat signifies the "expiatory" or "propitiatory." The word hilasteerion, rendered "mercy-seat," occurs but twice in the New Testament,—Heb. 9: 5, and Rom. 3: 25. The first reads as follows: "And over it [the ark] the cherubims of glory shadowing the mercy-seat" [hilasteerion]. The second is as follows: "Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation [hilasteerion] through faith in his blood, . . . for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God." Why this "forbearance" of God? For his Son's sake, who is our "propitiation, or mercy-seat." When we wish mercy, we go to Christ, as the high priest went for mercy to the "mercy-seat" in the holy of holies.

When Christ came, the old tabernacle arrangement ceased, and instead of seeking mercy at that mercy-seat, we are invited "to enter the holiest by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the veil." Heb. 10: 19, 20.

We have been led to write these things because of the following, which appeared in the Advent Review and Herald of the Sabbath, Dec. 22nd, 1874. The editor says: "If Christ is the mercy-seat, we wonder who is the priest that ministers for us before the mercy-seat? or, have we no high priest in this dispensation, only a mercy-seat?" We might inquire, If Christ is our High Priest, who is our Prophet, or our King? or have we no prophet or King? The one who is our High Priest is also our Prophet, King, and Mercy-Seat; our "all in all." It might as well be asked by the Editor of the Review, If Christ is our High Priest, where is the lamb to be offered? for a high priest does not offer himself. Hear the apostle—"Christ . . . hath given himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet smelling savor." Eph. 5: 2. "He appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself." Heb. 9: 26. Thus we find the High Priest and the sacrifice were one person. So, too, as our Savior is the one from whom we obtain mercy, he is our Mercy-Seat (hilasteerion). And we say again, as in a former article: "As Christ has been our hilasteerion—Mercy-Seat—for over eighteen hundred years; and as the place for the mercy-seat is only in the holy of holies, it follows that Mrs. White's visions, which declare he did not go into the holy of holies till A. D. 1844, are untrue." We prefer to be in harmony with the inspired writer, and believe that Christ is our "propitiation"—hilasteerion—or "Mercy-Seat." Rom. 3: 25.

Every man is now his own priest, and is called on to present his body "a living sacrifice" (Rom. 12: 1), to be accepted by our great High Priest and Mercy-Seat. Consequently, the apostle says we may have "boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus." Heb. 10: 19. M. G.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.
HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

VISIONS AND PROPHECIES.

It is a remarkable fact that any one, who claims to have "visions and prophecies," is pretty sure to have some followers, no matter how strange or absurd the views set forth. The nearer they come to the truth in the main, the more probability of success. That is, the more truth there is in their creed, the more readily will the visions be received, though they may contain things never taught in the Scriptures. Whenever Satan would divide the flock of God, he manages to have the test question an error, and well endorsed by the visions, to give it authority, and if the people can be made to believe the visions are from the Lord, then it is very difficult to lead them away from the delusion. This is the case with those who adopt Mrs. E. G. White's visions, concerning things connected with the seventh-day Sabbath. When any follower of Christ can be made to believe the Lord is speaking through Mrs. White, of course he listens with rapt attention to what she says, believes and obeys perfectly. Any opposing argument would have but little influence. The opposition would be considered as persecution, and be treated as evidence of the blindness of the opposing party.

There is, probably, no class so hard to reach with the truth and light, as those who have been led astray by false visions, like those of Mrs. W. That they are false, and wholly unreliable, we purpose to give abundance of positive evidence. That Mrs. White's visions and prophecies have had a powerful influence in building up the Seventh-Day Advent Church at Battle Creek, Mich., and elsewhere, is most freely admitted in their weekly paper. The following is from the pen of Eld. Geo. T. Butler, one of their General Conference Committee, and published in the Advent Review and Herald of the Sabbath, July, 1874. He says:

"It is a fact that for nearly thirty years, Mrs. Ellen G. White, the wife of Elder James White, both of them pioneers in this movement, has had visions, which are generally regarded by those in sympathy with this church as being from the Lord, and it is freely admitted that they have exerted a large influence in making Seventh-Day Adventism what it is now."

Mrs. White holds about the same relation to the seventh-day movement, that Ann Lee does to Shakerism, Joanna Southcott to the "True Israelite," or Swedenborg to the System of Swedenborgianism. It is true, as stated by Elder Butler, that Mrs. White's visions "have exerted a large influence in making Seventh-Day Adventism what it now is."

We now offer to the reader facts in relation to her visions, showing beyond all controversy that they are no more reliable than the visions of Spiritualists. Our proof will be taken mainly from her own writings, her husband's, their special friends, and those who have been their supporters.

At this point we will introduce Bro. H. E. Carver, of Iowa, who is well acquainted with Mrs. White and husband. He has been known among the Seventh-Day people as a man of unimpeachable integrity and christian character, of whom Elder White said, that they regretted the loss of Bro. Carver more than any one who had left their ranks. Bro. Carver still keeps the seventh day, but facts compelled him, as an honest man, to give up all confidence in Mrs. White's visions. It is usually claimed by the seventh-day people, that when one of their number comes out against Mrs. White's visions, it is in consequence of some faults, or sins in their conduct, which have been reproved by the visions. Bro. Carver says: "I can truly say that this does not apply in my case. . . . I was never reproved in any way, or on any account, by Mrs. White, either by vision or otherwise, but have reason to believe that I enjoyed the full confidence of both Elder and Mrs. White. . . . I was forced, by accumulating evidence, not only to give up my long cherished hope that the visions of Mrs. White could be vindicated, but also my confidence in the christian integrity of both Elder White and wife."

The following is the test for prophets: "When a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously, thou shalt not be afraid of him." Deut. 18: 22. When this test is applied to Mrs. White's prophecies, it is found there is no more cause for fearing them, than the Bulls from the Pope; neither have they any moral connection with the Lord.

According to her husband's statement, her first visions were in Dec. 1844.

It is well known to most of our readers that many expected the Savior would come the second time on the 10th day of the seventh month, 1844. Among these were Mrs. White [then Miss Harmon] and Elder White. As the Lord did not come at that time, the question arose, Where is the mistake? It was generally and honestly admitted that the mistake arose from some error in chronology, or in its application, while others, including Eld. White and wife, claimed they were not mistaken, but that the 2300 days of Daniel 8: 14, did truly end in 1844, just as they had believed and taught. Then came the question, Why did not the Savior come at that time? The answer was, on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1844, he left the place he had been occupying for some eighteen hundred years, closed the door of mercy, went into the holy of holies, which was the "sanctuary" to be "cleansed" at the end of the 2300 days, mentioned in Dan. 8: 14.

At this point, let it be remembered, that the same power that treads down the sanctuary, also treads the host, or church, under foot. Query: Who had been in the holy of holies, or the heavenly sanctuary, treading it down and defiling it, in connection with "the host," or holy ones, for 2300 years previous to the 10th day of the seventh month, 1844? Does it look very reasonable that God should allow such a state of things in heaven, in his own immediate presence, all that time? It may be inquired, Why do the seventh-day people believe and teach such strange doctrines? Because they have confidence in Mrs. White's visions, which are the chief source of information on this subject. If her visions are not from the Lord, then the whole thing is a fable. Hence an examination of the reliability of her visions and prophecies is an important matter, in order to come to a correct conclusion in this case.

We begin with her visions concerning the "shut door." Before the examination of this subject, please read the following, and keep it in remembrance:

"I was at Geo. Barker's house, in Norridgewock, Me., in 1869, when I asked Mrs. Ellen White, in the presence of several ministers, if she ever had a vision showing that the door of mercy was closed? She answered, 'I never did.' Soon after, Elder C. Stratton came into the room and asked the same question, and received the same answer. I affirm this to be true.
L. L. HOWARD."
"Boston, Sept. 28th, 1874."

Bro. Howard has been a Sabbath preacher for years, but has now abandoned the system, because he saw so many things in it that were not in harmony with the Scriptures. We learn that the Seventh-Day preachers, on the Pacific coast, deny that Mrs. White ever had a vision, in which she was shown that the door of mercy was shut. Bro. I C. Wellcome, Yarmouth, Me., a faithful minister of Christ, testifies:

"I have heard her relate her visions of these dates [1844–5.] Several were published on sheets, to the effect that all were lost who did not endorse the '44 movement; that Christ had left the throne of mercy, and all were sealed that ever would be, and no others could repent. She and James taught this one or two years."

Bro. Israel Damman, of Corrinna, Me., another devoted minister of Christ, and his wife, say:

"We remember very perfectly that her first visions, or vision, was told both by herself and others (especially by Mrs. W.) in connection with the preaching of the 'shut door,' and went to substantiate the same."

Bro. John Megguier, Saco, Me. (formerly of West Poland, Me.) a farmer of noted christian integrity, says:

"About the first visions that she had were at my house in Poland. She said God had told her in vision that the door of mercy had closed, and there was no more chance for the world. . . . There are a large number of living witnesses that can testify to these things."

Sr. L. S. Burdick, San Francisco, Cal. (formerly wife of Eld. John Howell, an able and devoted minister of Christ, who lived in Maine when Mrs. White was there having her visions), says:

"Ellen . . . said God had shown her in vision that Jesus Christ arose on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1844, and shut the door of mercy; had left for ever the mediatorial throne; the whole world was doomed and lost, and there could never be another sinner saved. She very soon pretended to see that Saturday must be kept for the Sabbath. . . .

I have been told that they deny on this coast that she ever saw the door of mercy closed; but there are thousands of living witnesses who know that a blacker lie could not be invented, and I am one of the number."

Bro. Carver says: "I asked them [Brn. Snook and Brinkerhoff] whether Mrs. White was a believer in the shut door doctrine at the time of her first vision?" He says the answer was in the affirmative.

"Then Elder White remarked, 'Bro. Carver, I will make an admission to you I would not make to a sharp opponent. Considering the circumstances of the case, it would not be strange if they should give a coloring to the vision;' . . . Mrs. White at the same time sitting by and assenting to his statements."

The following is from the pen of Elder White, published in a pamphlet, called "A Word to the Little Flock," in 1847. He says:

"When she received her first vision, Dec. 1844, she and all the band in Portland, Me., where her parents then resided, had given up the midnight cry and shut door as being in the past. It was then that the Lord showed her in vision the error into which she and the band in Portland had fallen. She then related her vision to the band, and about sixty confessed their error and acknowledged their seventh month experience to be the work of God."

In this case, we learn that in Dec. 1844 "all the band in Portland" had come to the conclusion that the doctrine of the shut door was a delusion, and had given it up; and also the belief that the midnight cry was in the past; but Mrs. White had a vision, claimed to be from the Lord, in which, it is said by her husband, "the Lord showed her" that the church in Portland had fallen into an "error" in giving up the shut door doctrine, and, consequently, they accepted the delusion again, because of her vision on the subject. Bro. Carver says:

"The reader will readily perceive that these two statements cannot both be true, and whatever of falsehood will attach to Elder White in making these contradictory statements will also involve his wife, for she was present and assented to his statement to me; and it is but reasonable to believe that she assented to his statement in the book. He stated to me that at the time of her first vision she was a believer in the shut door view, whilst in the book he affirm that at that time she was not, although he admits she had previously been one, and the vision was given to bring her and others back upon the same position, which it accomplished."

Elder Joseph Bates, a prominent seventh-day preacher, says: "The true church . . . entered into the Philadelphia state in the fall of 1844, and became a church at that time, according to the message then delivered them. At this point of time the door was shut against the Lord's church * and the wicked world." Elder White wrote: "The door is shut."

In the "Present Truth," Nov. 10th, 1850, published by Elder White, we find the following:

"The sinner to whom Jesus stretched out his arms all the day long and who had rejected the offers of salvation was left without an advocate when Jesus passed from the holy place and shut the door in 1844. The professed church who rejected the truth was also smitten with blindness, and now with their flocks and herds they go to seek the Lord as still an Advocate for sinners; but says the prophet, 'they shall not find him; he hath withdrawn himself from them.'"

Elder Bates says: "All true shut door believers teach . . . that the third angel's message is based on the opening of the door into the holiest of all" [in 1844].

Bro. Carver says: "The Seventh-Day Adventist Church, as a body, for years after 1844, did not believe in the possibility of the conversion and salvation of sinners." Judging from the little effort made by them in their meetings to save sinners, one might resonably conclude that they still believe the door of mercy is shut to all who do not keep the seventh-day Sabbath.

We turn to another of Mrs. White's visions, given in 1849, as follows:—

"I saw that the mysterious signs and wonders and false reformations would increase and spread. The reformations that were shown me were not reformations from error to truth, but from bad to worse; for those who professed a change of heart had only wrapped about them a religious garb which covered up the iniquity of a wicked heart. Some appeared to have been really converted, so as to deceive God's people; but if their hearts could be seen they would appear as black as ever. My accompanying angel bade me look for the travail of soul for sinners as used to be. I looked, but could not see it, for the time for their salvation is past."

Why was "the time for salvation past"? Because the door of mercy was shut on the tenth day of the seventh month, in 1844. How did they know it was shut? Because "the Lord showed her in vision" that it was closed. In a tract published by Eld. White, May, 1850, entitled "The Sanctuary, the 2300 Days, and Shut Door," on page 13, he says:—

"When we came up to that point of time (tenth day of the seventh month, '44), ALL OUR SYMPATHY, BURDEN, AND PRAYERS FOR SINNERS CEASED, and the unanimous feeling and testimony was that our work for the world was finished for ever."

In a vision of Mrs. White's, published June 29th, 1857, known as the "Camden Vision," we find the following:—

"Then I saw that Jesus prayed for his enemies, but that should not cause us or lead us to pray for the wicked world whom God had rejected. When he prayed for his enemies there was hope for them, and they could be benefited and saved by his prayers, and also after (while) he was a mediator in the outer apartment for the whole world; but now his spirit and sympathy were withdrawn from the world, and our sympathy must be withdrawn from the ungodly."

In the same vision she says: "I saw that the wicked could not be benefited by our prayers now." Why not? Because the door of mercy was forever shut.

Let us inquire in all candor, Were these visions from the Lord? All who answer correctly must give an emphatic NO. Yet the same spirit that gave her these visions caused her to say:—

"I saw that in striking against the visions they did not strike against the worm, the feeble instrument that God spake through, but against the Holy Ghost."

No point can be more clearly settled than that her visions did not come from the Holy Ghost; if they had, they would have proved true; but hers were false. The door of mercy was not shut on the tenth day of the seventh month in 1844. As it is freely admitted that all her visions come from the same source, it follows that they are no more reliable than any other system of fables. M. G.

* By Sardis church was meant the Protestant churches generally, who did not accept the shut door, and Mrs. White's visions.

DEDICATION.

The people at South Hiram, Me., having erected a neat, commodious, free house, in which to worship the true and living God at that place, assembled in it on the second day of the New Year, to observe the interesting services of dedicating the house to the Lord. The day was stormy, but that did not prevent the house from being well filled with an intelligent and interested company of believers and unbelievers, who witnessed the services after the usual manner of such mixed companies, some with satisfaction, and some otherwise. Seven preachers were present, representing the Baptist, Methodist, Christian and Advent denominations, the most of whom took part in the services of the hour in a christian manner. The meetings were continued over the Sabbath and for several evenings the week following, with good results. Wanderers confessed their backwardness, and one promising young man manifested his desire to become a christian. A number of others are deeply interested, and we hope they will yet come to Christ and be saved.

The house has been built in about three months time, in a convenient and substantial manner, at a cost of some more than $1200, which is all canceled, and reflects much credit upon all concerned. May it prove a lasting benefit to the whole community, is my prayer. C. H. HURD.
Jan. 9th, 1875.

MANY men are lamenting their misfortunes, and wishing that their place was changed that they might the more easily live christianity. If a man cannot be a christian in the place where he is, he cannot be a christian any where.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.
A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$249.69
"One tenth to the Lord"	5.00
One who wants to be saved	.45

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$68.58
"One tenth to the Lord"	5.00
O. Pease	1.00
A. Ogsbury	.25

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1.00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the
Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,
P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.
who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$3,000.20
"One tenth to the Lord"	30.00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.
Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Pfevious acknowledgments	$138.60
From a Friend in Danbury, N. Y.	1.00
E. Norton	.25
Widow's Mite	1.00
M. L. Bergoin	2.00

One barrel of clothing from the Sabbath School at Sugar Hill, N. H., with cash to pay freight, and $3.92 by C. B. Parker.

FOR ELD. GEO. THOMSON.

From W. L. Storms	$1.00

To send the Crisis to Bro. Ezra Hubble, Kansas, as requested by Bro. J. C. Smith,—H. D., $2.25.

MISSION WORK.

Dear Friends of Jesus, Greeting:—Peace be with you all. The Lord has abundantly blest our efforts the last three weeks. Great peace has rested upon us, and many have found peace in Christ. At our last report we were having meetings at Jarbelo, Leavenworth Co., Kansas, with a Christian Bro. Hubble. When we commenced, the powers of darkness were great, but ere the meetings closed they gave way before the power of truth and light. Many that have hitherto been engaged in the work of darkness, have now come to the light, that their deeds might be made manifest and appear to all. A great change has been wrought in that section of country. Surely it was a "hard place," as all testified, but a greater reformation I have not seen since I left Seabrook, N. H. Here, as there, we found men and women engaged in most every thing but "good living religion" (as Bro, Boutell calls it). They were addicted to drinking, swearing, revelings, and great wickedness. Infidelity, Universalism and Spiritualism were prominent elements against which we had to contend. But the great deep of this darkness is broken up, and the pure light now shines out bright and clear.

We spoke every night for a week, from different subjects, all centreing in the coming of Christ to set up his glorious, eternal kingdom. And with these soul-stirring thoughts before them, we also urged a preparation for this great and final change. God has done the work. Men and women seared with sin and rebellion against him and his divine laws are now clothed in the garments of righteousness, and rejoicing in a Savior's love. The devil's power, that has enslaved them so many years, has been severed. They have been brought up out of the horrible pit of mire and clay, and have been washed clean in the blood of the Lamb, and a new song comes forth from their lips, even praises to the Most High. Six went forward in baptism on Lord's day. We had to cut the ice. At night we set things in order. Eighteen united in church covenant, "taking the Bible as their only rule of faith and practice." Then the emblems of bread and wine were used to "show forth the Lord's death till he come."

Monday and Tuesday evenings we had meetings in another place. Good attention was given. Many said by the grace of God they would meet us in the kingdom. Wednesday evening we came back and continued meetings at the Eagle House. Night after night the people came with unabated interest, notwithstanding the cold weather. The Lord helped in all things. The truth came with power. Deep conviction rested upon the people, and when Lord's day came round again, after speaking in the forenoon, a number came forward and confessed the Savior. Then we repaired to the water again to baptize. The ice was eight or ten inches thick, and water freezing all the time. Nine more were buried beneath the yielding wave, and were raised in hope of eternal life when Jesus comes. Truly we had a pentecostal season in the Lord. Twenty-five exhortations in the love feast were refreshing. I can tell you, dear brethren and sisters, this people have commenced the new year right, and they are determined by the grace of God to continue in well doing. Sunday night the 3d of Jan. was our last night with them. The emblems of Christ's broken body and shed blood were again administered, a weekly prayer-meeting appointed, and meeting every Sunday at 11 A. M. Twenty-eight united in church order, and many more will unite soon. Surely this is all of the Lord. Bro. Hubble has been preaching to them every third Sunday through the year. His labors have been crowned after many days with sheaves.

There are many places where the people are anxious to have these truths preached. Who will "come over and help us"? Let that one who feels the "woe" come. Do not delay. We need help. May the Lord inspire some one or more to come. This vast field never has been canvassed. Multitudes are waiting to hear, and are willing to accept. The tracts sent us at Lawrence are almost gone,—some into Iowa and other places. One man will take some to Colorado. They are doing good service. Will you not please send me more to Arvonia, Osage Co.? Who will help on this work? Brethren and sisters, let us awake. The Judge standeth at the door. Let us do what we can in the name of Jesus.

Last night, the 5th, we commenced meetings here at Tonganoxie, in the Christian Church. Opposition is quite strong, yet I trust it will give way. They have already reproved Bro. Hubble for my labors with him. But he stands free and clear as a man of God, willing to accept truth at any time, and from any source, even if it come from a little child.

Do pray for us, brethren and sisters, that we may have health and strength to labor for Jesus.

Correspondence.

From Bro. P. Tandy.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—As we are almost home, we ought to be very "diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." If we truly love the Lord with all our heart, it will be more than our meat and drink to know and do the will of God. The Lord says—"Come out from the world, and be ye separate, and touch not the unclean thing." The spirit and practice of the world is morally unclean. We cannot serve God and mammon. And as we are not our own, but are bought with a price, even the blood of the Son of God, therefore we should glorify him with our entire being. God surely will save all those that serve him in sincerity and in truth. We need clean hands, honest and pure hearts, in order that we may be able, under God, to deal justly, love mercy, and walk humbly. After we are cleansed from all unrighteousness by the blood of Jesus, we must be kept by the power of God, through faith, unto salvation. O brethren, be faithful to God and to souls. May we all be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Pray for me and my companion, that we may fear God and keep his commandments.

From Bro. J. B. Paine.

Dear Brethren:—I sit down this morning with a full heart, praising God that I ever was led to believe in Christ's second coming. I love Jesus with all my heart, and love his appearing, and am trying to preach the gospel of the kingdom to the best of my ability. As I go to different places and find so few numbers of the Crisis taken, I wonder how any one, with means to pay, can do without it, or some other Advent paper. Your Bro., in hope of eternal life when Jesus comes.

Suncook, N. H., Jan. 11th, 1875.

Married.

PEABODY—KINGMAN. At South Scituate, R. I., Jan. 10th, 1875, by Eld. Joseph Miett, Mr. JOHN H. PEABODY and Miss ELLEN E. KINGMAN, both of Scituate.

OSGOOD—CHESLEY. In Barnstead, N. H., at the residence of the bride's father, Dec. 20th, 1874, by Elder John Parsons, Mr. JAIRUS C. OSGOOD, of Manchester, N. H., and Miss FRONIA J. CHESLEY, of Barnstead.

PALMER—WARD. In this city, Aug. 22d, 1874, by Elder H. L. Hastings, Mr. CHARLES W. PALMER, of Concord, N. H., and Miss LOUISA WARD, of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Obituaries.

YOUNG. Died in Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 11th, Sister H. G. Young, wife of Bro. Moses Young, aged 52 years.

Sister Young had an early religious experience. She was baptized in 1841 by Elder Timothy Cole, and received into the fellowship of the Christian Church in Lowell Mass. In the early period of the Advent movement she became deeply interested in the subject of Christ's soon coming, and continued in the faith during her life. She had a long, though not a painful sickness. For nearly two years she was unable to do any kind of work. The greater part of this time she was able to sit up with her family, and not until within a few days before she died was she confined to her bed.

Sister Young has left a husband, and son, and three daughters, to experience a great loss. May the blessing of heaven rest upon, and abide with them. J. S. WHITE.

IN MEMORY.

"Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother,
All thy trials here are o'er;
Weary days, and nights of anguish,
Never shall afflict thee more.
Sad, we watched thee slowly dying
When the autumn turned the leaf;
And when winter winds were sighing,
More intense became our grief.
Gone from earth and all the loved ones,
Yet, again with them thou'lt dwell;
And we bow in meek submission,
For He doeth all things well."

SCHELLINGER. In Philadelphia, Pa., on Saturday, Dec. 5th, 1874, Sister Martha V., wife of Bro. John S. Schellinger, and only daughter of Sister Rebecca Reeves, aged 27 years.

Sister Martha died as she had lived—"unto the Lord." Her companion, three little children, the youngest but two days old, and her widowed mother, have been bereft by that fell destroyer, consumption. The last word uttered by our sister was the name of our Savior. Though there is gloom in the household now, there will be joy soon, for "the morning cometh!" Our ascended Lord, our faithful High Priest, ere long will descend to earth again, and destroy Death, the grim visaged monster who has swayed his iron sceptre over our sin cursed earth for nearly six thousand years, and sealed the lips of God's dear saints in his dark prison house. Our King will overturn his usurped throne, and tread the tyrant under foot. Then the prisoners will come forth; their lips will be unsealed; then, those that sleep in the dust of the earth will "awake and sing—"O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" The enemy's shafts, the sicknesses which have afflicted the human family, will be destroyed; after that, "there will be no more pain."

The funeral services were conducted by the writer, at the residence of Bro. Schellinger, 1340 Potts Street. A large number of sympathizing friends were present. May this event be sanctified to the best good not only of the bereft husband and mother, but of all who were present in that house of mourning. F. H. BURBANK.

DOWNS. In West Parsonsfield, Me., Dec. 16th, 1874, Mr. Benjamin Downs, aged 68 years.

The subject of this notice was a well-wisher to the cause of Christ, and frequently manifested his friendliness and love to the cause and people of God by giving of his means to help sustain meetings in the place, and by entertaining at his home, quite often, such of God's people as came from other places to attend the meeting. He was a constant church goer, and was often wrought upon powerfully by the Holy Spirit, but like a multitude of others in our land he failed to take a decided stand to confess Christ. He died suddenly, of apoplexy, leaving an aged companion and several children to mourn his loss. A large congregation assembled at the chapel on the occasion of his funeral, and listened to an able discourse from the servant of God. C. H. HURD.

MIX. In Zalesville, Ct., Dec. 10th, 1874, after a brief illness of one week, Willie, only son of Bro. and Sr. H. H. Mix, aged 5 years, 5 months.

Willie was a remarkable child for one of his years; being very active, and of a religious turn of mind. A few hours before he fell asleep he sung, with a clear voice, "The cleansing wave," and also repeated the prayer he had been in the habit of saying before retiring.

Words of cheer and comfort were spoken at the funeral by Bro. B. Hitchcock, from 1 Kings, 4: 26, after which the school, of which Willie was a member, sung "I am Jesus' little lamb."

While our brother and sister are almost overwhelmed with grief, they are sustained by the blessed hope that they will ere long meet their loved one, and hear his little voice singing with the redeemed throng, where scenes of death and decay will forever be unknown. E. C. WOODRUFF.

CLARK. In Prospect, Me., Everet Clark, aged 21 years.

May the Lord bless this affliction to the conversion of the family. T. RINES.

HASKELL. In Bangor, Me., Oct. 21st, 1874, Axie, wife of Abner Haskell, aged 67 years.

The subject of this notice was sick for more than a year, and suffered much. She was resigned to God's will, believing all things work together for good to them that love God. Three days before her death she was stricken with paralysis, which caused the loss of speech. She took her friends by the hand and manifested a desire for them to meet her on the morn of the resurrection. We miss her, for she was a kind neighbor, an affectionate wife, a tender parent, also a consistent christian.

The voice of her Beloved will awaken her ere long from her peaceful slumbers, and she will shout victory over the grave, through Christ. May the Great Comforter sustain the lonely companion and children in their affliction, and may they meet an unbroken family in the kingdom of God. C. E. TUTTLE.

TOTMAN. In Richmond, Me., Dec. 7th, 1874, Bro. Levi D. Totman, aged 32 years.

After a protracted and very severe struggle with that dread enemy, consumption, through all of which grace triumphed gloriously, our beloved brother sleeps. A standard bearer has fallen. A watchman slumbers. For some five of the eight years of our brother's christian life, he has been "sounding the alarm" among his fellow men. Although never ordained, ever esteeming others better than himself, yet he was known to be esteemed, and loved, as an earnest, consistent christian, modest, and unpretending. Upon whom shall his "mantle" fall?" A devoted wife, father and mother, with other relatives, mourn his loss, together with a stricken church.

"Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into the harvest." "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." E. C.

MOORE. Fell asleep in Jesus in Brattleboro, Vt., Dec. 18th, 1874, of pneumonia, Bro. Charles W. Moore, aged 29 years.

Bro. Moore was converted in the fall of 1866, under the labors of Bro. Wm. J. Blanchard, in Whitakerville. His life has ever been consistent with his profession. He found Jesus precious through life, and especially so in the hour of death. Almost his last breath was spent praising his name. His loss we deeply feel. May the widow and many friends share in that grace of which he was a partaker.

"We laid him away in deep sadness,
Yet not without hope in our breast;
For soon he will join us with gladness,
And enter the heavenly rest."
MARY C. WHITAKER.

BENNETT. Betsy Bennett, wife of Nathan Bennett, deceased, departed this life Oct. 15th, 1874, aged 83 years.

The subject of this notice, with her husband, found Jesus among the Baptists, and lived consistent christian lives until snatched by the ruthless hand of death. In her last hours, although a great sufferer, she was peaceful and happy. She saw Jesus and the blest, by faith, and died in hope of a blissful immortality when Jesus comes.

"Sleep on, dear mother, and take thy rest,
Till thou shalt wake among the blest."

Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from Romans 14: 18. WM. MARRELLE.

THATCHER. Fell asleep in Jesus, in New Britain, Conn., Dec. 21st, 1874, Bro. John M. Thatcher, aged 61 years.

Bro. Thatcher had been a great sufferer, but, looked for the coming of the Lord to relieve him of his sufferings. He fell asleep to wait the voice of the archangel and the trump of God; then he expected to wake from his slumbers, and sing the triumphant song—"Thanks be unto God, which hath given us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." J. A. GOODRICH.

GLOVER. In Barford, Dec, 5th, 1874, Beedy Glover, wife of Stephen Glover, aged 65 years.

I believe she sleeps in Jesus, waiting for the morn of the resurrection, when she will come forth, blooming with immortality and eternal life. Funeral sermon by the writer, from 1 Cor. 15: 21. U. G. LADD.

BOWDOIN. In Prospect, Me., Dec. 25th, 1874, Sister Mehitable Bowdoin, aged 86 years.

She died in the full assurance of eternal life at the resurrection of the just. May the Lord bless the surviving children, and prepare them to meet her on the new earth. Funeral attended by the writer. T. RINES.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Jan. 7. The Times' Paris dispatch announces that the entire French Cabinet has tendered its resignation.

The Times' Paris correspondent writes that it is well known that a dissolution of the Assembly would render MacMahon very popular and influence a general election in favor of his government. The President will very probably break off negotiation with the Left and form a dissolution of the Ministry, comprising Broglie, Fourton, Depeyre, Cissey, De Cazes and Dandiffret Pasquier.

A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says Castelar is preparing to quit Spain before Alfonso's arrival. Two Protestant newspapers have been suppressed in Madrid.

Jan. 11. The steamer Kathleen Mary, from Odessa for Falmouth, has been lost at sea, and twenty-six passengers drowned.

Jan. 11. The Times this morning says it has reason to believe that Prince Bismarck has intimated to Spain that the German Government will defer the recognition of King Alfonso until the degree suspending two Protestant newspapers and closing the Protestant chapel in Cadiz is repealed.

Jan. 14. The Daily Telegraph reports that Prince Gortsachkoff has declared that Russia will not make the recognition of Alfonso dependent on confirmation of the accession by the Cortes, but will act in harmony with Germany and Austria.

Madrid, Jan. 14. A decree has been issued for the restoration to the church of all ecclesiastical property not included in the ecclesiastical fund.

Preparations for the entry of the King into the capital are being made on a grand scale. The decorations will be profuse, and triumphal arches are being built along the route of the royal procession.

A recent article in the Moscow Gazette gives an alarming account of the insecurity of life and property in Russia, and says that even in the most orderly districts crime is growing more and more frequent, owing to defective arrangements for the discovery of crime and the capture and trial of criminals. The robbers make many friends among the populace by means of bribery, and it is asserted that even the judges are far from being incorruptible.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Toronto, Jan. 11. A cold snap is again prevailing throughout Ontario, the thermometer ranging from zero to 25 degrees below. An old woman, a vagrant, was frozen to death in a hut on the mountain road, near Hamilton, last night. A man named Ambrose Kite was also frozen to death on Pine Plains, near Stayner.

Omaha, Neb. Jan. 11. The convicts in the penitentiary at Lincoln, Nebraska, under the leadership of the notorious McWaters, about 3 P. M. today overpowered the inside guards and gained possession of the armory. They then drove out the side guards from the walls, shooting Julius Goshen in the knee, wounding him severely, and another who is reported to be dying. They also fired several shots at citizens who were approaching with arms, and wounded two of them. The Warden was absent in the city. His wife, children and a female convict are locked up in the upper part of the building. Grave apprehensions are felt for the safety of the guards and the Warden's family, as the convicts are desperate men. The Warden and a large body of armed citizens are patrolling outside of the prison. The convicts having procured citizens' clothes by stripping the guards, are momentarily expected to sally forth. Governor Furnas having applied to Gen. Ord for aid, a company of troops left tonight on a special train for Lincoln.

Cincinnati, Jan. 11. A dispatch to the Enquirer from Charlestown, West Virginia, says that the following telegram was sent to President Grant tonight: Not a single negro is allowed to take his seat. The utmost anarchy prevails. What must I do?" (Signed) H. W. BRAGEE, U. S. District Commissioner.

Gen. Sheridan states that since 1868 between three and four thousand men have been murdered in the parishes because of their political views. In proof of this he makes a detailed statement of the murders in different districts, reciting the number of cases in which unarmed and defenceless negroes were shot down in cold blood by white men. These incidents are introduced for the purpose of proving that lawlessness exists in Louisiana, and that the lives of men attached to the Republican party are not safe.

— Eureka, Nevada, has shipped 16,500,000 pounds of crude bullion within the past twelve months, of which the greater part was sent to San Francisco.

FIRES.—Honesdale, Pa., loss $100,000; Dalton, Mass., loss $100,000; New York City, loss $125,000; South Canton, Mass., loss $75,000; Galena, Ill., loss $125,000; Baltimore, Md., loss $350,000; Northampton, Mass., loss $16 000; Montreal, Can., loss $12.000, and two lives lost.

Notices.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

A quarterly session of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hebron, N. Y., commencing Jan. 20th, 1875, and continue over the following Sunday.

The church at Hebron extends a hearty invitation to all the lovers of truth, to come and enjoy this feast. It is earnestly requested that every member of the Conference make a special effort to be present, and that the churches and delegates do not fail to attend to this in season. We want a full representation from our churches. Those coming by R. R. will purchase tickets to Ruport, where they will find teams to take them to the place of meeting free of charge. Trains going North arrive at Ruport 8.30 A. M., and those going South at 11.30 A. M. Those coming on the early train will be under the necessity of waiting till the arrival of the 11.30 train before being conveyed to the place of meeting. Let us all pray that God will greatly bless this quarterly session, and that Hebron may be shaken by the Spirit and power of God as never before, and that similar results may follow as has been witnessed at Hoosick since the annual session. A. W. SIBLEY, Pres. W. O. HIGLEY, Sec.

Protracted Meeting in Boston

is still continued at Repository Hall (formerly Hampshire Hall), corner of Washington and Kneeland Sts. Preaching three times Sundays, and every evening but Saturday, by Wm. C. Stewart, H. L. Hastings, and others. Some are seeking the Lord. May their number be increased.

New Hampshire Conference.

The first Quarterly Conference is due in February, and there has been no call for it. If any church or community wish it to be held with them, please notify the Committee soon, so we can give notice.

LEVI ALLEN, Lake Village,
E. A. STOCKMAN, E. Rochester, } Com.
D. W. DAVIS, Sutton,

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Conference of Nova Scotia will be held at Litchfield, Annapolis Co., commencing Thursday, Jan. 21st, and continue over the following Lord's day. All are invited. Come and work for the Lord. J. J. WOODWORTH.

CONFERENCE.—There will be a Conference in Palmyra, at the Gale school-house, commencing Friday, at two o'clock P. M., Feb. 12th, and hold over Sunday.

Elder S. K. Partridge and other preaching Brn. are expected to preach the Word. We hope our preaching and lay brethren and sisters will make an effort to attend this meeting, ready to work for the salvation of sinners and the strengthening of the Lord's scattered children. This is a new place for a Conference, and we hope all will unite to help make the meeting a blessing to the people. Call on Bro. Oscar Farnum, who will provide places of entertainment for all. OSCAR FARNUM. SAM'L BOWMAN. JER. CARR.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, a protracted meeting will be held in Rochester, N. Y., at Advent Hall, corner of State and Mumford Sts, commencing Tuesday evening, Jan. 12th, 1875, and continue as long as seems duty. Sr. Anna E. Smith, of New York, will be present.

All of like faith in this vicinity are cordially invited to be with us to work for the salvation of the perishing. For the church, J. S. MAYNARD.

Not received in season for an earlier insertion. J. C.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a protracted meeting held in Friendship, Me., to commence Jan. 25th and continue over the following Sabbath. J. R. Hall, H. D. Reed and others, are expected.

G. THOMPSON, } Com.
O. WINEAPAW,

MEETING.—The Lord willing, a meeting will commence in Whitefield, Partridge school-house, Friday evening, Feb. 5th, and hold over Sunday. All are invited. Call on Alonzo Partridge, Kingsbury Partridge, and George Linn. Bro. John R. Hall and others will be there to preach the Word. S. K. PARTRIDGE.

THE Advent Church in Wakefield having secured the services of Eld. Benj. Finney as their Pastor, all preaching brethren wishing to come there to labor, will please confer with him. GEO. R. TYZZER, Clerk.

CHURCH AT ROCHESTER, N. H.—The committee appointed by the N. H. Annual Conference to adjust difficulties in the church at Rochester, have attended to the duty assigned them, and after carefully examining the situation, proceeded to annul all existing church organization, and then constituted a new church on the basis of actual fellowship. All seemed to be satisfied, and the new church is hopeful of future union and prosperity. They will now need judicious, faithful, effective preaching. For the Com., E. A. STOCKMAN.

TO VERMONTERS.—At our annual conference at Bethel, the State Committee were urged to carry the gospel of the kingdom into every new field which opened a door, and especially to offer a week of labor for any five dollars pledged by an isolated brother or sister living in a new field. This was to encourage individual effort and sacrifice on the part of the isolated. We want to hear immediately from those places where labors are desired, that we may make due arrangements to meet the demands. If you are too poor to raise five dollars, and yet the door is open for a meeting, write us just the same as though you raised the money. Write to me at Waterbury, Vt., or to A. A. Hoyt, Plainfield, Vt. Write full particulars of circumstances, people, time, and place. Write soon.

H. F. CARPENTER, President of Conference.

THAT NEW BOOK.—The work we have printed for the Rev. T. M. Preble of Hyde Park, is now in the market. The following is its title:—"Let us make Man;" or, how God the Father, and God the Son, are Associated in creating, and fitting Man for the Dominion over all the Earth." In matters of theology we profess no great skill, but we think that no one, of an unprejudiced mind, can read this book, without interest and profit. The author's views may not be fully embraced by all; but a candid perusal cannot fail to be beneficial to the readers. The originality, perspicuity and conciseness of the work is greatly in its favor. The best recommendation for the book is to read it. Few will regret the time and expense.—Norfolk County Gazette.

This book of 78 pp. is now ready; and all orders will be promptly filled by addressing the author at Hyde Park, Mass, the pay accompanying the order.

Price, single copy, 20 cts; postage 2 cts.; seven copies, $1,00 post paid; one hundred copies by express, $13,50. T. M. PREBLE, Hyde Park, Mass.

DR. JAMES HEMENWAY has sold his dental business to Dr. L. F. Tolman of Shelburn Falls, a competent and energetic practitioner, and one who will give the best satisfaction to the public. Dr. Hemenway has accepted a call from the Second Advent Society of Westfield, and will become their regular pastor. He will reside in Athol for the present, however. His loss will be felt heavily by the poor of the town, especially, amongst whom he went about doing good in such a quiet, unostentatious way, that it was never known half he did. It will be long, we fear, ere they find another to replace him. Among all classes the Dr. was a welcome and cordial presence, and his kindly, cheerful face will be missed by hundreds. We wish him abundant success in his new sphere. Worcester West Chronicle, published at Athol, Masss.

CHANGE.—On account of the ill health of my wife, I have moved to the town of Bowdoin, Me., about six miles from my former place of residence, and my Post Office address will be Bowdoinham, Me. Any one wanting my labor can write me at that place, as I expect to devote my whole time to preaching, especially in new places. H. S. MITCHELL.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests. WARREN J. HOBBS.

Those wishing to preach in Haverhill, Mass., will please correspond with the following committee before sending their appointments:—S. A. Wilson, Chas. Colby, E. K. Downer.

Those wishing to preach in Oxford, Me., will please correspond with either F. Smith, Oxford, Me., or L. L. Twitchell, Norway, Me.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every evening this week, and Sunday, Jan. 24th. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Hampshire Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Wednesday evenings.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
J. C. Day..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. Owen..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Wm. N. Pile..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
A. W. Bradford..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
J. Couch..........Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st
C. E. Barnes..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Bangor, Me..........Thursday evening, Jan. 21st
A. ROSS.

Tremont, Mass..........Sunday, Jan 24th
C. E. BARNES.

Bristol, R. I..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
East Weymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. GOODRICH.

South Vernon, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
H. PRATT.

Providence, R. I..........Friday evening, Jan. 22d
Coventry Centre, R. I..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Tremont, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. S. WHITE.

Fairhaven, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Keene, N. H..........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

New Bedford, Mass..........Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st
Mattapoisett, Mass..........evenings, Jan. 27th and 28th
Fair Haven..........evening, Jan. 29th
Brimfield, Mass..........Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Newark, N. J..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
A. A. PHELPS.

Warehousepoint..........Sabbath, Jan. 31st
Athol, Mass..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d
Ashburnham..........Thursday evening, Feb. 4th
Fitchburg..........Friday evening, Feb. 5th
Lawrence..........Monday evening, Feb. 8th
Haverhill..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th
Exeter, N. H..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th
Manchester, N. H..........Thursday and Friday, Feb. 11th and 12th.
East Concord..........Saturday evening, Feb. 13th
Pine Ground Chapel (if desired)..........Feb. 15th
Pittsfield, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Clarktown..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th
Pittsfield..........Thursday evening, Feb. 18th
Manchester..........Friday evening, Jan. 19th
Nashua, Monday, if desired..........Feb. 22d
Manchester..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d
Lake Village..........Feb. 24th and 25th
Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th. HIRAM MUNGER.

Putnam, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
H. PRATT.

Athol, Mass..........Sabbath, Jan. 24th
ROLAND D. GRANT.

Natick, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
WM. C. STEWART.

Pittsfield, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. S. SHATTUCK.

Dorchester, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) eve., Jan. 29th
Sandwich..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Warren Summit..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
G. H. WALLACE.

Keene, N. H..........Friday evening, Jan. 22d
Salem, Vt..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Will Bro. Lewis Burgoine meet me at Newport, Vt., on arrival of the 7½ p. m. train from Wells River, Saturday, Jan. 23d?
Melbourne Ridge, P. Q..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Danville, P. Q. (if desired)..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
F. M. DRAKE.

Plymouth, Vt..........Feb. 2d and 3d
Bridgewater, Vt..........Feb. 4th, and over the 7th
Keene, N. H..........evening, Feb. 9th
South Ashburnham, Mass..........evening, Feb. 10th
Granby, Mass. (Bro. Shumway's)..........evening, Feb. 18th
Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street)..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
North Rutland, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Gilmanton, N. H. (where Bro. G. Goodwin may appoint) Sunday, Jan. 24th.
Barnstead, N. H. (Tuttle school-house) Sun., Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
LEVI ALLEN.

Scitico, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. C. SMITH.

New Haven (Beers Street Chapel) Sabbath, Jan. 24th
Brimfield..........Sabbath, Jan. 31st
Granby, Mass. (Batchelor Street)..........Sabbath, Feb. 7th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

New Durham Ridge, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. G. SMITH.

Moultonboro Neck..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Melvin Village..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. PIPER.

Albion (at Bro. N. Tuck's)..........Feb. 11th
Palmyra Conference..........Feb. 12th, and over Sunday
Dexter..........Feb. 17th, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Topsham, Vt. (Carson Bridge) evening, Jan. 23d, over Sunday, Jan. 24th, and Sunday, Jan. 31st.
DANIEL D. PAGE.
DANIEL EASTMAN.

Poultney, Vt..........Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th and over Sunday. WM. A. & M. L. DURAND.

Wilbraham, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
A. MORSE.

Barkhampstead..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Campville..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
S. WOODRUFF.

Warren Summit..........Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th
North Haverhill..........Thursday evening, Jan. 21st
East Topsham, Vt..........Saturday, Jan. 23d and as long as duty may demand. D. EASTMAN.

Sutton Centre (meeting-house)..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Wolfborough (Pleasant Valley) Friday eve., Feb. 19th
Melvin Village..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Moultonboro (Ladd school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d.
Sandwich (where Bro. Gilman Clark may arrange) Wednesday evening, Feb. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Meredith Neck..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Newhampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Tuesday evening, March 2nd.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Wednesday evening, March 3d.
West Alton..........Thursday evening, March 4th
J. G. SMITH.

Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
WM. BODGE.

Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sabbath, Jan. 31st. C. W. NELSON.

Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Salem, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Newcastle, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Lake Village, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Northwood, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Canaan, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dorchester (Town House)..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Warren Summit..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H..........Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H..........Sunday, March 14th
C. R. PARSONS.

Palmer, Mass..........3d Sunday in each month
Wilbraham, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
H. H. TUCKER.

Belmont, N. H..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Lewiston, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Oxford, Me. (as Bro. G. L. Tracy may arrange) Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th, and over Sunday, the 31st.
H. S. MITCHELL.

Rockland..........Jan. 21st, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Sabbath, Jan. 24th
Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Saturday evening, Jan. 30th.
Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sab., Jan. 31st
Boscawen, N. H. (Gulf school-house)..........Sab., Feb. 7th
Andover, N. H. (Cilleysville)..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
East Canaan, N. H..........Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and over the Sabbath, Feb. 21st. SIMEON ROBY.

East Concord..........Sabbath, Jan. 24th
North Chichester..........Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th
South Rochester..........Sabbath, Jan. 31st
S. HAWKINS.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Concord, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Canaan, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. F. LEAVITT.

New Market, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Flander's school-house) Wednesday evening, Jan. 27th.
West Alton (Broon school-house) Thursday evening, Jan. 28th.
Alton, N. H. (Plaser's school-house)..........Sun., Jan. 31st
Newmarket, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Lee, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. L. CHUTE.

Putnam, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
BENJ. WOODSIDE.

Oxford, Me. (Richville school-house) Sun., Jan. 24th
G. L. TRACY.

Ashland (Pease school-house)..........evening, Jan. 22d
New Hampton (Plaisted school-house) eve., Jan. 23d
Ashland (Pease school-house)..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Ashland (Town Hall)..........Sunday evening, Jan. 24th
JOSEPH HARVEY.

Vernon, Vt..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Windsorville, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 31st and evenings, as Bro. St. Clair may appoint.
F. W. CLOUGH.

North Norway, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Harrison, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
L. L. HOWARD.

Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
East Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. T. LIBBEY.

Lyons school-house in Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y., Saturday, Jan. 23d, at 2 and 7 p. m., and on Sunday, the 24th, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.
Swale, Steuben Co, N. Y. (near Bro. Titus') evenings, Jan. 25th and 26th.
Swale, Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Bro. Drake's) evenings, Dec. 27th and 28th.
West Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y., evening, Jan. 29th
Cowdersport, Potter Co., Pa. (near Bro. Quimby's) evening, Jan. 30th, and continue a week, if the Lord will. JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Newville, P. Q..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Dixville, P. Q..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Colebrook, N. H. (Factory school-house) Wednesday evening, 6½ o'clock, Feb. 3d.
Stewartstown (Bare Rock school-house)..........Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th.
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th. U. G. LADD.

Granby, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 24th through the week, and over Sunday, Jan. 31st.
H. H. TUCKER.
W. G. RUGGLES.

Danville, evenings through the week, and over the Sabbath, Jan. 24th. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.
Hatley (Old meeting-house)..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Dixfield (Advent Chapel)..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Stanstead (Searls school-house)..........Sunday, Jan. 31st (Newville) Jan. 31st, at 6.30 P. M.
Compton (Saunders school house) Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d, evenings through the week, and over the Sabbath, Feb. 7th. [We shall be together at the week-evening meetings. M. MCKINSTRY.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Feb. 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Northwood Narrows, N. H..........evenings, Jan. 21st and 22d, and over Sunday.
Waterloo, Warner, N. H..........evening, Jan. 26th and over Sunday.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)..........evening, Feb. 5th and over Sunday.
East Canaan, N. H..........evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday.
Laconia, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, Feb. 21st. JOHN H. EVANS.

Newcastle, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
South Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. E. HURD.

Meredith Centre, N. H. (as Bro. N. Glidden may appoint) Sunday, Jan. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) eve., Jan. 27th
East Holderness, N. H. (Stevens meeting-house) Sunday, Jan. 30th. W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Kennebunk Depot..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. R. TRIPP.

Natick, Mass., evening, Feb. 2d, through the week, and Sunday, Feb. 7th. E. OWEN.

North Haverhill, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Groton, Vt..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
MRS. J. DAVIS.

South Windham, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. H. SWEET.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
C. Cunningham..........Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch..........Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer..........Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
J. Harvey..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. E. Hurd..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
A. Ross..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter..........Sunday, March 14th
John Couch..........Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer..........Sunday, March 28th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. (Franklin Hall.)
H. C. Smith..........Sunday, Jan. 24th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
H. H. Tucker..........Sunday, Jan. 24th

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall..........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker..........second Sunday in each month

CLINTON, MASS
Geo. W. Sederquest..........Sunday, Jan. 25th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 21st

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
John Parsons..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
H. Pratt..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
D. F. Leavitt..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. Whitman..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House.)—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
O. W. Kimball..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 10th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
O. W. Kimball..........Sunday, Jan. 31st

SEABROOK, N. H.
D. F. Leavitt..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
J. T. Chamberlin..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. Owen..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
John Parsons..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch..........Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh..........Sunday, March 21st
Charles B. Parsons..........Sunday, March 28th
J. G. Smith..........Sunday, April 4th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
G. W. Brown..........Sunday, Jan. 31st

RYE, N. H.
C. E. Hurd..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. B. Wells..........Sunday, Jan. 31st

DOVER, N. H.
Joseph W. White..........Sunday, Jan. 24th

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. T. Libbey..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. S. Mooney..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
J. Whitman..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
G. L. Tracy..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
O. W. Kimball..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
Joseph W. White..........Sunday, Jan. 31st

SOUTH ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp..........Sabbath, Jan. 24th

ALFRED, ME.
Jer. Hill..........Sabbath, Jan. 24th
G. F. Haines..........Sabbath, Jan. 31st

BIDDEFORD, ME.
A. Ross..........Sundays, Jan. 24th and 31st
Jesse Gay..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
L. L. Howard..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Jan. 24th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
G. F. Haines..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
C. H. Sweet..........Sunday, Jan. 31st

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
A. A. Robinson..........Sunday, Jan. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

BRISTOL, CT.
C. F. Morse..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Jan. 31st
R. K. Stark..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

YALESVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Jan. 24th
Seth Woodruff..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
Meetings are held regularly every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in Union Hall, on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. Brethren wishing to preach there, will please first correspond with D. F. Scamman, Portland, Me.
D. F. Scamman, George Humphrey, Asa L. Ames, Church Committee.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PRESTEPLACE, Pastor.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders. ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Religious services are held in Green Street Tabernacle every Sunday morning and evening, and prayer meetings every Wednesday evening, by brethren who look for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ in glory. Preachers wishing to correspond are requested to address L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison Street.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven P. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening. M. A. POTTER.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.
☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N. H.
☞ ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C., until further notice.
☞ H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.
☞ ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.
☞ JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.
☞ J. H. EVANS' address is Laconia, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—S H Withington, N Bullard, J C Smith, P W Hough, Geo A Cole, L Aldrich, Ali Andrews, W Vreeland, C H Cotton, J T Ongley, Levi Allen, M W Corliss.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—H Robbins 75c, Mrs A Andrews $3.50, F A Baker 20c, C B Parker $4.08, J E Welton $3.50, E Phelps $4.50, P W Butler 75c, J Miett $5.00, S W Treat $3.70, Geo W Ficks $1 30, Dr S R Breed $2.00, J Peck 20c, P H Gardner 25c, W W Jiltz 20c, H Brown $15.00, Mrs S J Gaylord $1.75, W Wilson 5c, A W B Graham 25c, J J Edmands $1.00, A W Vaughn $1.10, J Hemenway $7.32, W C Peck $3 50, J Brinkerhoff 20c, W Tenney $1.00, P W Southworth 20c, M Wade 10c, W W Cate 40c, Geo. Mott 75c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—C F Lothrop, I N Thompson, J H Meader, S Guthrie, G Mott, H Turner, J B Woodruff (4 pack), J Taylor, F A Baker, G W Wormwood, D W Lamb, T H Little, S Smith, I W Addison, J T Howland, J C Smith (2 pack), Mrs A Andrews, F Reynolds, H Rollins, J E Welton, J Peck, Dr S W Treat, D S Clark, A W B Graham, W C Peck, A W Vaughn, L Douglass, W Tenney, J J Edwards, S J Gaylord, P W Butler, G W Ficks, W Wilson, L M Kidder, J Brinkerhoff, P H Southworth, M Wade, S Work, W W Jilz, P M Gardner.
By Express—H Brown, J Miett, A A Phelps.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—A S Field, W Sheldon, E A Chandler, J R Smith, E Holgate, T Rines, O A Ladd, J B Paine, J C Smith, J A Goodrich, I. L. Leslie, E P Beach, H S Staples, W Hobbs, C Colegrove, W Webster, D S Clark, J N Berry, J T Ongley, J A Libbey, C L Percival, H Munger, A W Sibley, F A Baker, H Pratt, J F Linthicum, J S Thorp, W W Cate.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Contributing Editors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, with a book or engraving free. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork. Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANALYTICAL HEBREW LEXICON OF THE OLD Testament. Most useful in the study of the Old Covenant. $6.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

"THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR." A Contrast to the Immaterial and Speculative System of Anti-Millenarianism, expressed in "The End of All Things," and other kindred works. 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE HIGH PRIESTHOOD OF THE SON OF GOD. The Aaronic Order and the Everlasting Order of Melchisedec. 12 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE "GERSHOM" TRACTS. Packets of three—The Morning Star, Daybreak, and Sunrise. Per packet, 10 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

JOYFUL MESSAGE: A Biblical Exposition of the Gospel. By Joseph B. Rotherham. 50 cts.; postage 4 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE SPUR AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE STUDY of Greek. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

SPIRITUAL PRESENCE not BETTER THAN BODILY. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

THE EMPHASIZED NEW TESTAMENT. A new translation of the New Testament, emphasized after the originals. It holds a high place in the estimation of British scholars. $2.50; postage 28 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

ESSAYS CRITICAL AND THEOLOGICAL. Of interest to the Bible student and scholar. $1.50; postage 20 cts.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

HADES: OR, THE INTERMEDIATE STATE OF Man. Arguing DEATH in death, unconsciousness, silence and inaction. Highly spoken of. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

RESTITUTION OF ALL THINGS SPOKEN OF by the mouths of all the Holy Prophets. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISMMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

A NEW BOOK.
"THE BIBLE DOCTRINE OF THE SOUL.
An Answer to the Question: "Is the Popular Conception of the Soul that of Holy Scripture?"
BY CHAS. L. IVES, M. D.
Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in Yale College.

This is a pamphlet of 119 pages, in which the Author discusses the above question in an interesting and able manner,—showing the material nature of, the mortality and destiny of the Soul,—A future immortality to be the special portion of the Righteous,—What the Bible teaches as to the future of the Wicked,—The intermediate state,—The Resurrection,—That of the Righteous and of the Wicked, etc.

The Author claims that the doctrine set forth,—"Honors God, exalts the Bible, insures preaching of future punishment, subverts Universalism and Infidelity, errors of Romanism, of Spiritualism and Swedenborgianism, helps in work of Missions, rightly values the body, brings Christian unity, and promotes personal holiness."

We are much pleased with this work. It ought to have a wide circulation. We have a good supply, and hope the friends will order freely. We will sell at the following prices:—25 cts. per copy; $2.00 per dozen, sent by mail; $15.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

SOON.

ELLA M. LUNT.

Soon, soon beyond the reach of pain,
And all this mortal strife,
I shall my dear Redeemer see,
And wear a crown of life.

When, when I ask, shall I behold
That glorious blood-washed throng?
When shall I hear the voice of God,
And sing the victor's song?

Yet we must wait "a little while,"
Our blessed Lord doth say,
And then amid immortal bowers
We shall forever stray.

Thank God, we'll soon be gathered home,
And sing among the blest:
We'll walk the golden streets in peace,
And long enjoy the rest.

Here in this world I love to pray—
"Let thy dear kingdom come;
Roll back the heavens; appear just now,
That I may hear, 'Well done!'"

How long shall these thy children wait
Before thou shalt appear?
Wilt thou not come and save us now?
O come, this present year!

Praise God, our trials soon will end!
When Jesus comes to reign,
We'll live in Paradise restored,
And never sin again.

Biddeford, Me., Jan. 1st, 1875.

MY EXPERIENCE.

G. A. BARKER.

Dear Brn.:—I have been down amid the turbulent waters of disease, for three months, where every thing wears an uncertain appearance. I have been groaning and tossing, preaching and praying, and working with my hands for the support of my family. To-day I can say with the Psalmist, "Many are the afflictions of the righteous; but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." I feel those dark murky waters receding; and what once looked so misty and uncertain, now seems real. Yet I do not wonder so much at my own condition when I consider that I have kept my body under the influence of that terrible drug, tobacco, forty years. "But, thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ." The victory over the baneful weed I have sought and obtained. Many years I have desired a holy fellowship with the Lord, and prayed for the removal of all things that were between me and the path of holiness. O how the Lord did prune me down! Loved ones upon whom my affections were fastened were laid in the tomb; idols, in every form, were torn from me; but amid all these chastisements, tobacco stood between me and my prayers. It smote me in my attempts to preach a pure gospel, vanquished me in my arguments on temperance, showed the great beam in my own eye. I was defiling "the temple of God;" and such God has promised he will destroy.

In this awful condition I was shorn of my last lock of strength. I had no peace of mind. If I prayed, tobacco was before me. If I went to my appointment, it was to weep, and pray, and wrestle with the Lord, and monrn over my weakness. And in this terrible thraldom I cried mightily unto the Lord, and he heard me in his holy temple. Praise his name! In 1873 I was greatly exercised in this matter. I read in the Crisis of men being converted, and the Lord took away their love and desire for the hateful weed. In the agony of my soul I cried out, O my Lord thou doest it for others, and why must I wade in agony and grief? Thou hast the power, and if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean, and all thine own. And with almost an audible voice these words came into my mind:—"Make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof." The truth flashed on my mind in an instant. I had been feeding the desires of the carnal, or natural mind, and had forgotten that "They that are Christ's have crucified the flesh, with the affections and lusts."

My case was made so plain through these truths, that I was deeply humbled before the Lord. Was I not of a truth making provision to feed the carnal appetite? Surely I was. Was I Christ's while indulging in the use of tobacco? Had I crucified the flesh with the desires? Had I put off the old man with his deeds? And I cried, "O Lord thou knowest just what I want to do, help thou me. Thus matters went on until October twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and seventy-three. After having yielded to the request of some brethren to preach that day, I was ill at ease. I could not stay in the house, so I took a seat in the shade of the house, and talked with the Lord. I could not preach in my state of mind. I could not preach any more, impure as I was. I cried, Lord, make me clean; and now let this be the sign, to assure me that thou hast called me to preach;—Take from me all these impurities, and fill me with perfect love and peace. The heavenly Dove descended; my being was filled with pure rapture and awe; I was the Lord's. That day will never be erased from my mind. Smoking had relieved me of a terrible cough; would the Lord cure that, or was I to have that as a thorn in the flesh? Well I had not asked health, and the cough came. Friends advised me to smoke again; but no; I was the Lord's to live, or die. It was nothing but keen conviction of its exceeding sinfulness that led me in the strength of Israel's God, to renounce and forever forsake it.

Since that day, not one desire for the filthy weed has ever entered my mind. My cough soon wore off, and only returns with a cold, or torpid state of the liver. I have had to resort only to one antidote, and that is faith in the promises of God. And so I feel I am kept through faith, by the power of God, unto the day of salvation.

And now brethren, with Paul I beseech you by the past and present mercies of God, that you, who use these opiates and stimulants, will "present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, (pure) acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." There is no time to delay. Omens thicken fast, that bespeak the last great day. Already the clarion notes of war resound over the hills of earth. Nearly ready is the white cloud to appear in the heavens, with one upon it like unto the Son of Man, with a sharp sickle in his hand, to reap the earth.

Let us see to it, that we are branches of the true Vine. If we are our Father's, the husbandman will prune us as closely as we need, and not one useful limb or habit will be taken from us, and not one carnal indulgence will he allow us to retain. Do you ask who then can be saved? Not all that say Lord, Lord. None because they believe in the advent, and kindred doctrines only; the devils believe all these and tremble; but he that doeth the will of my Father in heaven. What is his will? Even your sanctification; entire consecration. Without holiness no man can see God. "Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and receive with meekness the engrafted Word which is able to save your souls." Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin that so easily besets us, and let us run the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus. Gird up the loins of your mind, my brethren, be strong; you have but a little longer to fight, the victory will soon be won; soon the harvest trump will be sounded, the ingathering will come, the holy city will be in view, the invited guests will be there, the great wedding feast will be ready, the royal Bridegroom will gird himself, and come forth and serve those that are worthy.

O welcome, thou great day of the feast! Welcome, thou great Master, Savior, Friend and Brother! Welcome, our Father and God! Welcome, ye bright retinue of the saved! All hail the coronation day.

Pawling, N. Y.

YORK CO. CONFERENCE.

In response to the call of Brn. Mitchell and Gay, there was a gathering of believers in the speedy coming of Christ, at Biddeford, Me., Thursday, P. M. Dec. 31st. The afternoon was spent in social worship. In the evening C. H. Sweet spoke from Phil. 3:13, 14.

Friday, Jan. 1st, we met for business. Elder W. H. Mitchell, J. Gay, J. Hill, J. R. Tripp, G. H. Haines, C. H. Sweet, and representative brethren from Kennebunkport, Alfred, Hollis Centre, Steep Falls and Biddeford, participated in the deliberations. Elder B. S. Emery and L. L. Howard were with us afterwards. Bro. Jesse Gay was called to the chair. After discussing at length a motion to organize a York Co. Conference, it was unanimously voted that we do so. W. H. Mitchell, J. Gay, and C. H. Sweet were chosen a committee to draft a Constitution. They submitted the following which was adopted unanimously.

(Art. 1.) This Conference shall be called the York Co. Advent Christian Conference.

(Art. 2.) This Conference shall consist of all ministers and churches in York Co. and vicinity, in sympathy with its object.

(Art. 3.) The officers of this Conference shall be a President, Secretary, and Treasurer, each to be chosen annually.

Art. 4.) This Conference shall hold its sessions in the months of March, June, September and December.

(Art. 5.) The object of this Conference is the effectual spread of the glorious gospel as we understand it, the building up of the church of Christ, and the salvation of the perishing.

(Art. 6.) No article of this Constitution shall be changed, except by a vote of two-thirds of its members present, at a regular meeting.

We then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year. J. Hill was chosen President, C. H. Sweet Secretary, and John Allen Treasurer.

Adjourned to meet again at such time during the month of March, and in the place the President and Secretary may designate. We desire the next session at Steep Falls, and hope to secure it.

Taken as a whole this meeting was a good one. No one, so far as I know, has any reason to be dissatisfied. Many enjoyed it exceedingly. The brethren and sisters were most of them free, and of good courage. Though we felt sad as we considered the low state of religious interest in some localities, yet we felt that we had inaugurated a movement which was, with the help and blessing of God, to bring about a better state of affairs among us.

In the name of our soon coming King, we call upon every Adventist within the limits of this Conference to assist us in this movement by their prayers, their personal presence when they can, and their means if we should need it. We ought to do much missionary work, and circulate many tracts.

We had sermons during the meeting by W. H. Mitchell, L. L. Howard, J. Hill, G. F. Haines, J. Gay, and C. H. Sweet.

At the close of the P. M. services Sunday, we engaged in the solemn ordinance our Savior instituted on the night of his betrayal. The Comforter was with us to bless, for which we praise the Lord.

C. H. SWEET, Sec.

THE WORK IN OTIS.

FROM BRO. W. TEFFT.

Brn. Editors:—I wish to inform the church of Christ everywhere, of the Lord's dealing with us, and the prosperity of the cause in this part of the field.

About five years ago my father and myself left the northern part of Mass., and moved to a place in Otis, known as Coldspring, for the purpose of laboring as Home Missionaries. We soon commenced holding meetings in Sandisfield, an adjoining town, and the good Lord blessed the preaching of his Word. We had a full house, and a revival commenced and continued over two years. There was not a professor in the place when we went there. How much good was done the great day alone will reveal. I then removed to West Otis and stayed a few months, and sowed seed; but as it did not immediately "spring up," I removed to South Becket, where my father had previously gone, and a good work had begun.

South Becket is a sparsely settled country place, with no place of worship, and no meetings had been held there for many years, and no one I think professed to enjoy religion. Meetings were held in private houses, until through the kindness of a Bro. we obtained a large hall in his dwelling-house, free of rent, in which meetings are now held. There was a great interest to hear. Nearly all the community came out. People came, and still come, from four to six miles, from nearly all points of the compass, to hear the truth; and although we have passed through one of the most terrible ordeals for a year past, yet there are now some fifty or sixty who are looking for the promise made to Abraham. Some have recently been converted.

But I took my pen to tell you about West Otis. The place contains an old-fashioned Baptist meeting-house, an old tavern stand, and two dwelling-houses; and, like other country towns, has inhabitants scattered over the surrounding hills.

Finding that the seed sown two years ago had begun to take root and spring up, we came here about three months ago and held a series of evening meetings, and a good work commenced which is still going on; and from fifty to sixty have sought the Lord. Among these are old and middle-aged men, and some who could never be induced to attend meetings before. One old man, very deaf, who can just get about with two staves, and is seventy-four years old, has found peace in believing. He seemed like one just awakened out of sleep when he heard the Word.

Although there was but one person when we came here, two years ago, who sympathized with us in our views, and that one a Methodist sister, who came to our meetings in S. and heard and believed the truth; yet such is the interest that a goodly number are drawn in to hear from the neighboring churches. There was once a flourishing Baptist church here, but not a member is left, and the people have become infidel and almost everything else but spiritualists and christians.

I have moved here, and we have repaired the meeting-house, and it is filled with a large and very attentive audience. The interest seems to increase rather than diminish, and nearly the whole community come out to hear. Some noted infidels are deeply interested. It seems to take them by surprise to hear God presented as a being of love, rather than the terribly vindictive being they had heard him represented to be.

I am giving away my back numbers of those most excellent papers—the Crisis and Christian, and such tracts as I can get; but as I receive very little pecuniary aid, I cannot do what I would. If some one has tracts for free distribution, on such subjects as the "Nature of Man," "The Saints' Inheritance," "Appeals to the Unconverted," etc., I think they would find no better field than this for them. We have found it necessary to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves," for throughout this whole region there was so great a prejudice against Adventists, that we have been repeatedly told by those who have been drawn in to hear from other churches and finally embraced the truth, that if they had known that we belonged to that class they should not have come to hear. We preached faith and repentance, with reference to an impending judgment day, and they became interested. Then, as we presented further truths, they said, "You proved everything by the Bible, so we could not help believing." We have two services Sunday, with prayer and conference in the evening, and three meetings during the week, with usually from seventy-five to one hundred and twenty-five present.

PEACE LIKE A RIVER.

Give me a heart of calm repose
Amid the world's loud roar;
A life that like a river flows
Along a peaceful shore.

I would roll onward to the deep
In brightness, not in foam;
And 'mid earth's noise in stillness keep
My soul's interior home.

Allay this feverish, restless mood;
Arrest life's eager chase,
And quench the thirst for earthly good
With thy bedewing grace.

Come, Holy Spirit, breathe that peace
Which flows from pardoned sin;
Then shall my soul her conflict cease,
And find a heaven within.

—Selected by E. Buzzell, Concord, N. H.

AN APPEAL TO THE PREACHING BRETHREN.

H. S. PINKHAM.

Dear Brethren:—We read in the Word of God, a command to those proclaiming this "gospel of the kingdom" in these last days, to go into the highways and hedges and preach it; and why not obey? Is the Word of God truth? Are we living near the judgment? Is Christ's coming close at hand? Then how important that we should awake from sleeping, and go to work for God. There is a large part of the field where there are scarcely any laborers; small places where they need help.

We feel like calling for help for one place—the little town of Newcastle. There is a little band of dear brothers and sisters there, loving Christ, and looking for his coming; and they would be glad to have preaching every Sabbath. It is a little out of the way perhaps, and some think they cannot go on that account. But take a little extra trouble, brothers, and go, and you will find good homes, and a hearty welcome; and you will always find them in their places in the house of God. One aged pilgrim, Sr. Skinner, aged eighty-three years, attends regularly, in storm as well as sunshine; and her voice is always heard in exhortation, to cheer and encourage. How comforting to hear from such old pilgrims. It helps us. We can preach better. They will also help you pecuniarily, as far as their means will allow.

Brethren, let us not sit idle. Let us try and do a little for Jesus. Visit small places as well as large ones. I am trying to do all I can, and feel to rejoice that Christ is soon coming. My heart says—"Amen, even so, come, Lord Jesus."

Gems.

— Pride is a very subtle thing, it does not show itself in all alike; in one it is position, another outward show, personal or relative. It is a nice thing to sound our own self-importance, if we are not delivered from our inward evils.

— Some men take no pleasure in flowers, nor care to keep them, but to look at and smell at; but the bees draw honey from them, and the apothecary extracts medicine from them: so many hear sermons for their pleasure only; others, who are wiser, for their profit.

Our conscience is as a fire within us, our sins as the fuel; therefore, instead of warming, it will scorch us, unless the fuel be removed, or the heat of it be allayed by penitential tears.

— Pleasure is often a refreshing draught, if we do but slightly taste it; but when we drink too deeply, there is a sediment at the bottom of the cup, which pollutes and embitters what we found so sweet at first.

— As a pilot that steers the ship has his hand upon the rudder, and his eye at the same time upon the star above, so should we be diligent in the use of means, but look up to God for direction.

— True self-denial is harsh at the beginning, easy in the middle, and most sweet in the end.

— He will find himself far from perfection who does not find God in everything.

— He that hath God hath all things; and he that hath him not hath nothing.

— It is an evidence of great hardness to be more concerned about our sufferings than our sins.

— We cannot expect too little from man, nor too much from God.

— When we are most tender at heart, our words are most powerful.

MOTHER IS DEAD!

To my Sister in California.

MARTHA S. HORNE.

Gone from her home is our mother dear,
And they miss her sadly there;
Vacant the place by the window now,
And empty the old arm chair.

Fourscore and twelve were the years she lived,
Ere death the dread summons gave;
Meekly she sank in his icy arms
To the quiet rest of the grave.

I go to her home, it is lonely there,
For mother will greet me no more;
The dear hands that led our infant feet,—
Their labor of love is now o'er.

Oh, sorrows are clustering thick in our way,
And our hearts are wounded and sore,
When we think of the friends of our early days,
Who will meet us here nevermore.

My sister dear, though thou'rt far away,
And the years have flown since we met,
I know thou dost yearn for thy early home,
And the friends thou canst never forget.

Shouldst thou return to the home of thy youth,
But few of those friends are now left;
But saddest of all is the lonely home
Of the dear kind mother bereft.

Although we mourn, 'tis not without hope,
For we look to a brighter day,
When He who chastens his children in love,
All their tears will then wipe away.

For if we trust in the God she loved,
We'll meet on that beautiful shore,
Where nothing can ever mar our bliss,
Oh, then we shall part nevermore.

Rochester, N. H.

Correspondence.

From Bro. O. A. Ladd.

To the Brn. and Srs. scattered abroad:—The old clock of time has sounded the death knell of 1874, and the dial now presents to our view the year 1875. Still the old earth is groaning under the curse, waiting for deliverance. Notwithstanding men have been saying that the world is growing better, yet God's Word is proving true, and men are waxing worse and worse, and without doubt the year 1875 has a burden to bear heavier than any other year for centuries in the past. Men may cry "Peace," but God has not spoken it. Omens are thickening every day that indicate that storms of fearful fury are soon to burst upon a sinful world; and nothing but a shelter within the cleft Rock can shield from the devouring element. Well may God's little ones cry—

"Jesus—great Shepherd of thy sheep,
To thee for help we fly."

I have passed through many trials and seen many lonely hours during the past year, but my trust has been in Him who careth for Israel. The coming of Jesus, with kindred truths, have been the joy of my heart for many years. It is at his second soming that we expect to realize the consummation of our hope. Should we fall by death ere that time, all we expect to enjoy until he comes is a rest in the grave.

Being deprived of any associations with those of like precious faith for the last three years, and never hearing Adventists spoken of only lightly, has caused us to often look over the old chart, and review the track which we have followed; and we do know in whom we have believed. We have followed no cunningly devised fable. The track is all right, and if closely followed will land every traveler in that port where they shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.

We have passed many switches, and have seen many switch off on to side tracks,—some with a pet theory, some on the time question, others on the gifts, and so on; quite frequently manifesting a harsh and censorious spirit, and have almost invariably brought sorrow upon themselves and reproach upon the cause of Christ. Our prayer is that Adventists may learn, by the things they have suffered, and more strictly follow the advice of the apostle, and mark those that cause divisions. Had this been done, Adventists would have been a power in the earth to-day.

We are glad to learn by our much loved paper, the Crisis, that there is more of a coming together. This, we think, is what we need in order that we may grow and prosper. These different points should be judiciously handled. It is truly alarming to see what sad havoc the professed church of Christ is making of God's Word to-day. We have eleven different churches in this city that claim to be orthodox; but in our judgment they assume a very wrong name, if Webster gives a right definition of the word; viz., "Sound and correct in doctrine or belief." If God's Word and the teachings of the apostles are to be relied on, we think that heterodox should be the inscription over their altars, giving them their true position as they stand by precept and example. We think we can safely challenge the world to produce an example ever recorded by one of the followers of Christ, anciently, that corresponds with the examples that are daily filling up the records of the professed church of Christ of the nineteenth century. They are like whitened sepulchres, full of dead men's bones.

Dear brethren, oh that God may beget in our hearts a cry for the living God; a spirit of searching for the old paths, that we may be found ready—in a waiting position, when Jesus makes his way through the trackless pathway of the sky. We ask for the prayers of such as have a faith that prevails with God, that we, in our isolated condition, may have grace sufficient to carry us through to the kingdom of God.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 3d, 1875.

From Sr. J. A. Goodrich.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—I wish you all a "happy new year." I feel thankful to God for sparing me to see another new year, while many that were with us at the beginning of 1874 are sleeping. How blessed it is to know that they sleep in Jesus. We have the promise that those that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. If it was not for the hope of a resurrection, and Jesus coming to restore our loved ones again, many of us would despair. But, thank God, while we mourn their loss, we can rejoice. Many times have I been led to say, in the past few months, Blessed be God, who, according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of the dead. How much meaning there is in these words. Blessed promises! how they cheer and comfort my poor heart.

While I think of the dealings of God with me the past year, I rejoice in God my Savior with more confidence than ever. O, the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! The longer I live the more I find it so. How sweet it is to live close to Jesus, so that we can go to him at all times, and know that he owns us as his children. It is a glorious privilege. There are many poor, suffering ones, who live year after year clinging to their blessed Master. He knows every one by name, both great and small, and not a trial escapes his notice. No matter where we are placed, he is ever ready to listen to our cries and give us help and peace. Yes, thank God, we can have that peace the world knoweth not of. He says—"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. . . Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." The child of God has nothing to be afraid of while his trust is in him. He will care for us, and we know that we are safe.

The Bible is full of glorious truths, and each day that I live I find them better. They are more than meat and drink. Thank God, to-day I can say that Jesus is mine and I am his. O how blessed to be the child of God; to know while passing through trials that his grace is sufficient for us.

Death has come into our family and taken a loved sister, and left us to mourn; but we look up with thankful hearts to Jesus and say—"Thy will, not mine, be done." The morning she died I took my Bible (I could look for comfort only to Christ), and read—"Be strong, and of a good courage; fear not, nor be afraid of them; for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee nor forsake thee." I could not keep from weeping, it was so true. Praise the Lord, it was comforting. Thank God for grace to live by in this trying hour.

Lift up thy bowed heads, ye sad ones! the bright beyond is not far off. A few more days of toil and trial and we shall meet and enter the rest God promised his people. Let us press on a little longer, the prize is soon to be given, and crowns will deck the brows of God's saints. While we lift our hearts in agony and cry, "Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly," he tells us—"Behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me to give every man according as his work shall be."

New Britain, Ct., Jan., 1875.

From Sr. E. Holgate.

Dear Brn. in Christ:—I write to thank you for your kindness in sending me your good paper, and that, in connection with my Bible and my other christian papers it is a comfort to me. To-day I can say with the Psalmist, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name!"

It is now over fifty years since I gave my heart to God, and I have always found him faithful to his promise. Especially so for the past eight years, since I have been called to walk life's journey alone, without one earthly relative, so that I have been cast entirely on the arm of my heavenly Father, and Jesus, my Elder Brother. The Holy Spirit is my Comforter, and guides me into all truth, and makes me free in Christ Jesus. I am thankful that the Word of God teaches plainly where we stand,—whether we are in the world or in Christ.

The apostle Paul tells us, "There is therefore now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. . . . For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." How blessed to know that, if we are in Christ, we are walking in the light as he is in the light, and we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin, and makes us heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ, to an inheritance that fadeth not away. That inheritance is in reserve for the finally faithful. I do rejoice that there is such a bright prospect in the future for those who love Christ's appearing. We know that Jesus is soon coming to take his weary Bride home, that where he is we may be also. I am glad I ever heard the sound—"Behold he cometh, go ye out to meet him." It is forty years since I heard it, in the city of Exeter, England, where, I see from the papers, the truth is being still proclaimed.

Without holiness no man shall see God; but the pure in heart shall see him, and the meek shall inherit the earth, and dwell in the land.

Buchanan, Mich., Jan. 7th, 1875.

From A. Richardson.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—Several times in the past I have thought I would write a few lines for your paper; but, looking at my own weakness, my courage failed me. The Lord helping me, I do not mean the enemy shall take the advantage of me this time. I consecrated myself anew to the Lord's service at the commencement of this new year. "Lord, help me to live it out in my daily walk and conversation," is my prayer. I have been looking over my past life, and thus far it looks almost a failure. I have done many things that I ought not to have done, and have left many duties undone, which has brought sorrow and darkness to my soul. I cannot begin to comprehend God's love in bearing with such a poor, unprofitable servant as I have been. The more I look at these things the more I realize that it is a great thing to be a christian, and at all times be ready for every good word and work. And oh, to be ready to meet our Savior in peace, it needs a constant watch over our thoughts, words and actions. May the Lord help us all to have our work well and faithfully done, ready and waiting for the coming of the Just One. We cannot be waiting until we are all ready. O for a deeper work of grace in my heart!

And, dear sinner, I want to say a word to you. Do not look at the failings of others any longer. Their failings will not save you. You have a case pending. You will need a shelter from the awful storm that is gathering, and about to burst upon an ungodly world. The Savior will hear you now, but he will soon and forever cease pleading. My dear sister, who had tried to think that her pure moral life would certainly save her, when on her dying bed, seeing herself in the light of heaven, saw the need of a Savior's pardoning love. She said it seemed to her that the Lord could not forgive her. Said she knew she had sinned against him. I said to her, "I know it is our reasonable duty to serve the Lord all the days of our life; but, Martha, the Lord is good, he will hear you even at this late hour." He did hear. Praise his name forever for his long-suffering to the children of men. She came out happy in Jesus' love. I expect to meet her in a little while, if I am faithful.

Sinner, have you not friends that sleep in the dust whom you want to meet in the coming kingdom? Wake up, before it is too late. The Lord is soon coming. The world scoffs at this idea, and their scoffing is one unmistakable evidence of its truthfulness. We pity them; we pray for them. What more can we do? What more could Lot do? He kept warning them until the angel hastened him out of the city.

Sugar Hill, N. H.

From Sr. S. E. Teeple.

To the Readers of the Crisis:—Truly 1874 is in the past, and for the first time I must write 1875. Will it be the last year of our stay on the shores of time? or will this pass as thirty years in the past have done? I hope not. I feel some as the beloved John did on the isle of Patmos when he said—"Behold he cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also that pierced him; and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him." "Even so, come, Lord Jesus." The earth is groaning to be delivered of the curse. The saints of God desire to be "clothed upon with their house which is from heaven." We have long endured mortality, and been seeking for glory, honor, immortality, and eternal life, and the more earnest we get in the cause the more we cry, "Come, Lord Jesus." With the poet also we say—

"O come, my Lord, thy right maintain,
And take thy throne and on it reign;
Then earth shall bloom again;
O come, come away."

"We speak of the realm of the blest,
Of that country so bright and so fair;
And oft are its glories confest;
But what must it be to be there?"

The half has never been told. The Spirit has revealed many things unto us, yet this mortality has hindered us. Sickness, sorrow and suffering belong to this life, but there will be no sickness there; the country is healthy; no blight nor mildew, no wintry blast nor snow-covered earth. Eden will be beautiful. The New Jerusalem will come down from God out of heaven, to add to its grandeur.

The street of the city will be pure gold, and they will have no need of the sun nor of the moon to shine in it, for the glory of God will lighten it. Who, and how many of us, will be permitted to range those streets and enjoy that glory, so brilliant? "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." These many years has the Bride been getting ready to meet the Bridegroom. Is she pure to-day? Is she ready? Not all that say "Lord, Lord," but he that doeth the will of God. Faith without works, and works without faith, will avail nothing; both go together. I am glad we have got to work out our own salvation.

Let us be up and doing; gird on the whole armor of God, that we may be able to fight against the wiles of the devil; for he goeth about seeking whom he may devour, and desires to have us that he may sift us as wheat. But God is at the helm, and will guide us safely into port if we will let him. Shoals and quicksands are all about us, but land heaves in view,—the home of the pure and the blest. I hope with you to obtain it when the morning comes that will awaken the mighty host that slumber to-day in their dusty beds.

Hotchkissville, Ct., Jan. 3d, 1875.

From Bro. Thos. Rines.

To the Brethren and Sisters of like precious faith:—I am yet in the field, trying to do what I can in spreading gospel truth, and to persuade sinners to be reconciled to God, and get ready for the coming of Christ, which I believe is just at hand.

I left home Dec. 3d, and started out to labor for the Lord wherever he might open the way. My first place was in West Hartland. We found a good home with Bro. and Sr. Browning. We remained in this place over the Sabbath and till Wednesday, holding meetings every evening and all day Sunday. Monday we were joined by our dear Bro. Lane, from Dexter, who is an able and faithful minister of the gospel. We enjoyed the privilege of listening to him Monday and Tuesday evening. In this place, as in most other places, there exists a prejudice against the Advent doctrine, and we found some opposition; but on the whole the meetings were pretty well attended, and quite an interest was manifest by non-professors. All the opposition was from those who call themselves christians.

Dec. 10th went to Dexter with Bro. Lane. Found the brethren in trouble on account of one Wingate, who had caused some division among them for the present; but we hope that it will work for good, and that union will yet be restored. We preached in the Advent Hall on the Sabbath, and the Spirit of the Lord was with us. We found it good to be there. Dec. 18th we left D. and went to Plymouth Ridge. The people here are mostly Spiritualists. We stopped with Bro. Gray and wife, who are believers in the faith once delivered to the saints. We remained in this place through the week and over the Sabbath, holding meetings Friday, Saturday evening, and all day Sunday. Good attendance, and good interest shown.

Sept. 21st, I left P. and went to North Dixmont. Called on Bro. N. M. Grant and wife, who are living christians, strong in "the faith," and looking and waiting for the Lord. Preached in the evening at Grant school-house to an attentive audience. May the Lord bless the seed sown, that it may be seen in the great day that good has been done.

Next to Swanville. Called on Bro. and Sr. Curtis, and met with a warm reception. Held a meeting in the evening at the White school-house. Next to Frankfort. Found warm hearts and a good home with Bro. and Sr. Morse. Had a meeting in the evening at the Black school-house. Next to Frankfort Marsh. Here we remained through the week and over the Sabbath. Our meetings were well attended, and good interest was shown.

We next visited Prospect. We remained in this place one week, holding meetings every evening and over the Sabbath, which were well attended, and quite an interest was manifested. The brethren and sisters are true laborers in the work of the Lord, and they have that religion that is pocket deep. May the Lord bless them for their kindness shown to us poor pilgrims.

Mercer, Me.

HOWARD, the philanthropist, spent his life and fortune in works of charity and love, and in attempting to reform and benefit prisoners in different portions of the world. He died a poor man, but was rich in good works, and his memory will be blessed as long as the English language is known and is spoken.

IF christians are poor in this world, they should be rich in faith; if rich in this world, they should be poor in spirit.

HOME AND HEALTH.

WHY AMERICAN WOMEN ARE UNHEALTHY.

If we trace the history of New England back a few generations, we find a stalwart race of mothers and grandmothers; and even now there are specimens of these, healthy, active, happy, of ages varying from three-score-and-ten to one hundred years; and if we trace the history of American women from the landing of the Pilgrims to the advent of Dr. Clarke's book, we shall find the degeneracy exactly corresponding with the increase of sedentary habits, fashionable dress, gormandizing on indigestible food and condiments, forced and precarious development, sensational literature, and dosing and drugging for the multitudinous ailments consequent on a mode of life which has so little of nature and so much of the preternatural about it. Until the children and young women of America return to the more normal ways of their ancestors, they will go down, down in the scale of vitality, with or without co-education, or school education of any kind. Co-education is one of the measures that will not exercise a saving influence; but alone it will not arrest the deteriorating tendency. This requires a thorough indoctrinating into the laws of hygiene and their strict application to practical life. In this, and in this only, is the hope, not only of American women, but of American men, and, indeed, of the human race.—Phrenological Journal.

HOW TO TREAT CHOLERA MORBUS.

At the commencement of the disease, administer copious enemas of tepid water, and give the patient considerable quantities of warm water to drink. By this means the vomiting and purging will be speedily relieved. Give a sitz-bath for fifteen or twenty minutes at ninety degrees, and a hot foot-bath at the same time. Vigorous rubbing of the back, abdomen, and limbs, with the wet hand should be continued during the bath. When severe griping occurs, apply hot fomentations to the abdomen for fifteen or twenty minutes. The tepid or cool wet girdle should be worn at other times, being frequently re-wet. When the cramping of the limbs is severe, a hot sitz-bath should be administered for a few minutes, with hot foot-bath at the same time. Care must be taken to keep the feet and limbs constantly warm.

The diet should be very light, and may consist of light gruels of graham flour, or oatmeal, with ripe fruit. The coarsest of the bran may be removed from the flour by the use of an oat sieve. The juice of ripe grapes, with ripe peaches and mellow apples, is very excellent in this disease. The general fear of fruit in bowel complaints is wholly groundless.—Health Reformer.

TWO MEALS A DAY.—There are hundreds who have adopted the two-meal system, and find that it works well. They enjoy better health, ard are able to perform more work than before. And this is the result, not only with students and men of sedentary habits, but also with farmers and mechanics. Those who have not tried the plan, think it impossible to endure hard labor upon two meals; but if they will allow that those who have proved it are prepared to judge, they must change their minds. Facts are stubborn things. The unanimous testimony of hundreds who have thoroughly tested it, both in summer and winter, puts the matter beyond a doubt. When the old habit is once broken up, there is no desire for the third meal. The trouble of a late supper is avoided, the digestive organs have rest, and in the morning there is no dull headache, no bad taste in the mouth, and the "all-gone" feeling is forever gone.—Health Reformer.

TYPHOID FEVER.—How many deaths result from typhoid fever yearly, and does it ever flourish in healthy places?

ANS. We don't know how many result in the United States, but in Great Britain there are about fifteen thousand annually, most of which might be prevented. It flourishes wherever the germs that cause it exist. For instance, in two English towns, one filthy and the other clean, there were recent outbreaks of this disease. It was easy enough to account for the cause in one place, but only by long search was the cause found in the other place to be in the water, brought forty miles. The reservoir was found to receive some drainage from a filthy stream. It is a wonder there is not more of it than there is in country towns, where so much filth lies about barn-yards, privies and cesspools.—Herald of Health.

THE intensest study invigorates the body as well as the mind, strengthens both the nervous and muscular system, makes the blood course in stronger breath-giving currents through the system, enlarges the brain, erects the form, softens the features, brightens the eye, dignifies the whole person, and in every way conduces to health; provided only that it is pursued in accordance with the laws of hygiene as to diet, exercise, rest, sleep and ventilation,—Northrop.

DEATH-RATE IN CONSUMPTION.—What is the usual death-rate from consumption?

ANS. Statistics show that of the population of England, France, Germany and Russia, amounting to 230,000,000, the annual deaths from this disease are 869,000; and that of the people inhabiting the globe, amounting to 968,000,000, three millions die each year with this disease.—Herald of Health.

LONG WALKS should be alternated with frequent runs and occasional rests. The most severe exercise should be taken in the early part of the day.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1003. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1875. VOL. XL.--NO. 16.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

BLESSED SAVIOR, HASTE THY COMING.

BY MRS. JESSIE E. JORDAN.

Blessed Savior, haste thy coming,
Let me feel thy presence nigh;
Let me hear thy footsteps echoing
Down the pathway of the sky.

CHORUS.—All thy saints are longing, longing
For the coming of the morning,
For the glad morn of redemption,
For the coming of the day.

Oft our hearts are sore with grieving
For the roughness of the way,
And we hail with joy the gleaming
Of the token of the day.

Some have grown so faint and weary,
And have fallen by our side,
"Oh, how dark the way, and dreary,"
In our sorrow we have cried.

Then a voice from realms of glory
Speaketh to each saddened heart,
"I have trod the way before thee,
I have borne the heavier part."

Surely thou, the burden bearing,
May thy race with patience run,
Soon a crown thou shalt be wearing
That will far outshine the sun.

Then, dear Savior, joyful will we
Every cross with pleasure bear,
Knowing soon we shall be with thee,
And shall in thy glory share.

—Contributed by H. S. Staples.

STATE OF THE DEAD.

F. A. ROUNDS.

The visible creation comprises the material universe, and all that is contained therein; and more especially the human race. The creation of the world in general, and of its individual parts is related in the first chapter of Genesis. It is also described in Job 26: 7. "He stretcheth out the north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing. And chapter 38, and in various passages of the Psalms and prophets. Psalm 33: 5–9. "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. He gathereth the waters of the sea together as an heap: he layeth up the depth in storehouses. Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast."

The 106th Psalm speaks of his mighty power in the creation of the earth, and the things therein. Psalm 148: 5—"Let them praise the name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created." Prov. 8: 26—"While as yet he had not made the earth, nor the fields, nor the highest part of the dust of the world." Amos 4: 13—"For, lo, he that formeth the mountains and created the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth. The Lord, the God of hosts, is his name." 2 Peter 3: 5—"For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water."

Previously, however, to the creation of man, as if to intimate the superior importance of the work, the Deity speaks like a man deliberating:—Gen. 1: 26—And God said, "Let us make man in our own image, after our own likeness." So that it was not the body alone that was then made, but the soul of man also, in which our likeness to God principally consists; which precludes us from attributing pre-existence to the soul which was then formed—a groundless notion sometimes entertained, but refuted by the word of God in Gen. 2: 7.—"God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life;" thus the "man became a living soul." Job 32: 8—"But there is a spirit in man, and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." God did not merely breathe that spirit into man, but moulded it in each individual, and infused it throughout, enduing and embellishing it with its proper faculties. Zech. 12: 1—"He formeth the spirit of man within him."

We may understand from other passages of Scripture, that when God infused the breath of life into man, what man thereby received was not a portion of God's essence, or a participation of the divine nature, but that measure of the divine virtue or influence which was commensurate to the capabilites of the recipient; for it appears from Psalm 104: 59, 30, that he infused the breath of life into other living beings also. "Thou takest away their breath; they die, and return to their dust, thou sendest forth thy Spirit, they are created;" whence we learn that every living thing receives animation from one and the same source of life and breath; inasmuch as when God takes back to himself that spirit or breath of life, they cease to exist, they cease to live; they are no longer living creatures. "Eccl. 3: 19—"For that which happens to the sons of men, happens to the beasts." In an equal or precisely similar manner; exactly the same, holding an equal position in relation to one thing (namely) death; as the one dieth, so dieth the other; as the beasts die, so the sons of men die;" yea, they have all one breath; so that a man hath no preeminence above a beast; "all go unto one place; all are made of dust, and all turn to dust again."

In Gen. 3; 19, we read where God is pronouncing a curse upon Adam. "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou (personal pronoun) return unto the ground; for out of the ground wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." We remark here that the word thou, which is a personal pronoun, refers to the whole man, Adam.

The word spirit, has no other meaning in the sacred writings but the breath of life which we inspire, or the vital, or sensitive, or rational faculty, or some action or affection belonging to those faculties. Man, having been created after this manner, it is said, as a consequence, that man became a living soul, or a living being; whence it may be inferred, that man is a living being, intrinsically and properly one individual, not compound or separable, not, according to the common opinion, made up and framed of two distinct and different natures, the soul one nature, and the body another, and these two natures, they tell us, can be separated at death. If we take the heathen writers for our teachers, in respect to the nature of the soul, we shall have to adopt the common opinion, which is so prevalent among us to-day.

But the Bible view is, that the whole man is soul, or, in other words, the word soul is applied to the whole man. The soul man, that is to say, a body, or individual substance, animated, sensitive and rational; and that the breath of life was neither a part of the divine essence, nor was it the soul itself, but as it were, the inspiration of the divine virtue fitted for the exercise of life and reason, and infused into the organic body; for man himself, the whole man, when finally created, is called in express terms, a living soul. Hence the word in Genesis, used to signify soul, is interpreted by the apostle, in 1 Cor. 15: 45, animal. Again, all the attributes of the body are assigned in common to the soul. The touch, found in Lev. 5: 2. "If a man touch any unclean thing." And in the fourth verse, the act of speaking is attributed to the word soul:—"If a soul swear, pronouncing with his lips to do evil." The act of eating Lev. 7: 18–20—"The soul that eateth of it shall bear his iniquity." "The soul that eateth of the flesh." In other places hunger is applied to the soul as in Prov.—"To the hungry soul, every bitter thing is sweet."

Where we speak of the body as a mere senseless stock, there the soul must be understood as signifying either the spirit, or its secondary faculties; the vital or sensitive faculty for instance. Thus the soul is as often distinguished from the spirit as from the body itself. Luke 1: 46, 47 says—"And Mary said, My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior." 1 Thess. 5: 23. "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit, and soul, and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." Heb. 4: 12. "To the dividing asunder of soul and spirit." But that the spirit of man should be separate from the body, so as to have a perfect and intelligent existence indepenpently of it, is nowhere spoken of in Scripture, and the doctrine is evidently at variance both with nature and reason, as will be shown more fully hereafter. The word soul is applied to every kind of living being. Is it reasonable to suppose that man's knowledge is wrapped up, or involved in the spirit, so that after it has left the body, it knows more, and thinks more? We cannot find any Scripture which will produce such an idea. We cannot find any where in sacred writings, where this spirit which God breathed into man at his formation, and which gave him life, is intelligence. It is the Holy Spirit, or the Comforter, which is spoken of as being a teacher, or that which brings intelligence. Holy men of old, spake as they were moved or taught by the Holy Spirit. "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you." There is a great difference between the Holy Spirit, and the spirit of life, which God breathed into man after he had formed him. God has always moved upon all matter, whether organized or unorganized, by his spirit power.

If it could be proved that this spirit, which was breathed into man at his formation is his soul, then it would prove that all souls pre-existed; for the same spirit which returned to God who gave it, had its preexistence before man was formed. How many quote the passage of Scripture found in Eccl. 12: 7, to prove that the souls of the righteous go straight to glory at death, when, if the language was carefully considered, would certainly prove too much; for the blessings of God are always promised to a special class of people; such as the meek, the righteous, the saints of God, the children of God. But here in this passage, there is no particular class mentioned; so that it equally applies to the wicked, as well as to the righteous; and no one would say that this was true in the case of the wicked. No one would say that the soul of a wicked person went straight to God at death; and yet, it would be true, if the spirit here spoken of is the soul. But the language in this text applies to persons in general—to the righteous as well as to the wicked.

Now seeing that these are facts, what are we driven to conclude? We answer, that man in death, knows nothing; for "there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave, whither thou goest." "The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence." "For in death there is no remembrance of thee: in the grave who shall give thee thanks?" "His breath, or spirit, goeth forth, he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish." How much do we know or remember, when our thoughts are all perished, or are all gone? Dead men do not think. The very moment the breath leaves them, they cease to think. "Thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust." One thought here, which most people are apt to overlook, is this, That all mental culture is based upon the brain. Let anything be done in any way to disturb the free action of the brain, and our thoughts soon begin to diminish. When we do anything to counteract or disturb nature's laws, we cannot act so freely; for instance, if we overload our stomach by eating too much, then the brain is affected. I heard a minister of the gospel say the other day, that he never allowed himself to eat much of anything on Sunday. Why is this? Because, with just enough in the stomach to keep us from suffering, the brain can act more freely; we can think more correctly and perfectly. The brain is the center of all thought, whether good or bad; so when the brain ceases to act, as it does at death, then thought has gone—it has perished. We are then put back into our former elements.

So in the formation of Adam, when the breath of life was breathed into his nostrils, he then, began to think and act; and he then, "became a living soul."

Inasmuch, then, as the whole man is uniformly said to consist of body, spirit, and soul (whatever may be the distinct provinces severally assigned to these divisions), it is to be observed, first of all, that God pronounced the punishment of death upon the whole man that sinned, without excepting any part. For what could be more just than that he who had sinned in his whole person should die in his whole person? Or, on the other hand, what could be more absurd than that the mind, which is the part principally offending, should escape the threatened death; and that the body alone, to which immortality was equally promised, before death came into the world by sin, should pay the penalty of sin, which originated in the mind? I know that the common opinion is, and especially among the most learned men of theology, that the definition of death, is the separation of soul and body. But where in the sacred writings do we find such a definition? I answer, No where. Jesus told his disciples plainly that Lazarus was dead; and when he had been dead four days, he came to the grave where the dead Lazarus lay, and commanded them to take away the stone; and when the stone was removed, "Jesus cried out with a loud voice, and said, Lazarus, come forth; and he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes."

How comforting this must have been to the two sisters, to see their brother alive again, and have him one of their guests at a supper. Why did not Jesus comfort them by telling them that their brother, or some part of him, had gone to heaven? Because that would not have given them any comfort. The probability is, they did not believe any such thing; for Martha had said to Jesus, that she knew that Lazarus would rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

If christian people would only get as well established in the truth as Martha was, they would not say, Where is the promise of his coming?

Portland, Me.

"WHO THEN CAN BE SAVED?"

F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

Only a small part of the human family profess any interest in the Bible, or faith in its doctrines. And of that small part, some make a mere profession; their service is but lip service, while their heart goeth after covetousness. And so we may go on, as Gideon did with his army, until we are ready to exclaim with the first disciples of Jesus, "who then can be saved?" If

"None but holy ones can enter
Through the pure celestial gate;"

none but the self-denying, cross-bearing, world-renouncing—none but those who love the Lord with all their heart, and their neighbor as themselves—none but those who love their enemies, and who forgive even as they would be forgiven—"who then can be saved?"

It is evident that some who make high professions, and loud and long prayers, do it "to be seen of men," and such can expect no other reward. There are some in the church who "thrust with side and with shoulder," and push all the diseased with their horns, till they have scattered them abroad. I think I have read of some kind of wild beasts, that when one of their number happens to get badly hurt, will fall with all fury upon him and destroy him. Men who deserve the title of "wolves in sheeps clothing" will act out their nature in a similar way when they have an opportunity. As Saul, before his conversion "made havoc of the church," so the "wolves" have done in all succeeding generations.

But after all that can be said in this direction, we remember the words of the wise woman of Tekoah as recorded in 2 Sam. 14: 14. "For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again; neither doth God respect any person; yet doth he devise means that his banished be not expelled from him." This is encouraging to us, as in John 10: 29. "My Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand."

While the wisdom and the power of God are pledged for the salvation of his people, we have (or may have) a "well-grounded hope." For truly he doth devise means whereby those in peril may be saved with an everlasting salvation. A way of life is prepared, an ark of safety is provided. If we walk in this way, or abide in this ark, and "continue therein" we shall be saved.

NINTH OF DANIEL.

WM. ERWIN.

Editors of the Crisis:—Dear Brethren:—I wish to express a few thoughts on this great subject. The prophecy contains three distinct announcements, of different events; viz., the first advent of our Savior, the confirmation of the covenant with Abraham, and the destruction of Jerusalem. The 24th verse alludes to no vision prior to Daniel's prayer recorded in the 9th chapter.

We will first consider the instruction given by Gabriel. He announces to Daniel that "70 weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city." This means just what it says, and needs no new translation or mystification. The glory of the Scriptures is their simplicity and evident literal meaning; and we, as Adventists, should not part from this rule without positive necessity. "Seventy weeks are determined upon [or to pass over] thy people and thy holy city." What for? or what to accomplish? "To finish the transgression." What transgression? This world since the fall has been one scene of transgression. He evidently means "the transgression" which brought death and woe into our world. Well, how was that to be finished? Evidently by the death of Christ. What else? "To make an end of sins." This can only be done by the death of Christ. What else? "And bring in everlasting righteousness." This can be effected only by the death of the same Personage. What else? "To seal up the vision and the prophecy" concerning Christ, "and to anoint the most Holy," who was Christ. All these must allude to the sacrifice of the Mediator, the death of the Messiah.

Gabriel says it will be at the end of seventy weeks. These must be prophetic weeks, as the event did not occur in so many literal weeks. If any one will refer to Ezek. 4: 47, Num. 14: 32–36, Lev. 25: 8, 9, 10, and Gen. 29: 18–29, they will see that the ancients enumerated time by weeks of years; that is, by counting each day for a year. Then multiplying 70 by 7, the number of days in a week, we have 490 days, which represent 490 years; which time the angel said would elapse to the sacrifice or death of Christ. We have now only to find out when this communication was made to Daniel. Gabriel said at the commencement of Daniel's prayer he was commanded to come, and he arrived before he finished it. This was in the first year of Darius. If we can ascertain who this Darius is, and when he commenced his reign, then we can understand when these 490 years commenced, and if the prophecy was fulfilled in the death of the Messiah; for this communication to Daniel was in the first year of his reign.

To find out who this Darius was, I will make a few quotations from reliable authors. From chronology, according to Universal History, we learn that "Darius called in Scripture Artaxerxes and Ahasuerus, renews and enforces Cyrus' decree in favor of the Jews, upon which the rebuilding of the temple is resumed with much vigor, and the peace of Jerusalem and Judea restored." Universal History, vol. 5, page 255—"Artaxerxes is called or rather nicknamed Machrochier, that is, long handed; by reason of the more than ordinary length of his hands. But in Scripture he bears the name of Ahasuerus, as well as that of Artaxerxes, and is the same who had Esther for his Queen."

Rees' Cyclopedia—"Ahasuerus of Scripture, according to Dr. Prideaux, was Artaxerxes Longimanus. Josephus positively says (Ant. B. 2, c. 6,) that this was the person. The Septuagint, through the whole book of Esther, uses Artaxerxes for the Hebrew Ahasuerus, wherever the appellation occurs, and the apocryphal additions to that book everywhere call the husband of Esther Artaxerxes; and he could be no other than Artaxerxes Longimanus." Penny Cyclopedia.—"Ahasuerus is the name of a Persian monarch, whose feastings, revelry and decrees are recorded in the book of Esther. The apocryphal additions to that book, as well as the Septuagint and Josephus, call him Arthasastha, or Artaxerxes. He is probably the same king as Artaxerxes Longimanus of the Greek historians." Dobson's Encyclopedia,—"Ahasuerus or Artaxerxes the husband of Esther. Dr. Prideaux believes him to be Artaxerxes Longimanus." Universal History—"Ahasuerus, king of Media." vol. 5, page 40. "See Artaxerxes, vol. 5, page 255.

Thus we see this person was called by the Persians, Darius; by the Hebrews, Ahasuerus, and by the Greeks, Artaxerxes Longimanus, and according to the best chronologers he commenced to reign 460 years before the Vulgar era, or 456 years before the birth of Christ. Thus we have from the first of Darius or Artaxerxes Longimanus to the birth of Christ, 456 years. Christ lives 4 years before the Christian era, and also 30 years in the Christian era, making 490 years, which was the exact time Gabriel gave.

Thus we see the death of our Savior was necessary to accomplish all of the above circumstances, or matters predicted; and that according to the most reliable profane as well as sacred history, the event takes place as predicted. I know this exposition does not comport with Bro. Miller's, but does not conflict with a prophecy or teaching in the Bible, we think, and is too sublime a prophecy to be obscured by any preconceived notions.

God's rule of evidence is, that by two or three witnesses every truth shall be established. This is one statement or evidence of the great fact of Christ's first advent to our world. Let us see if God does abide by his own rule and give us other witnesses.

"Know therefore and understand [in addition to what has preceded], that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince, shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks." There is a significance in separating seven from the 69 weeks, which we shall see hereafter. This sixty-nine weeks reduced to days make four hundred and eighty three days, which represent 483 years to the death of the Messiah from said "commandment to restore and build Jerusalem." If the Scriptures identify the time of issuing this edict or command, we shall be able to see the truthfulness of this exegesis, and whether the prophecy was reliable and has been fulfilled.

Ezra 7: 1–15,—"Now after these things, in the reign of Artaxerxes, king of Persia, [additional evidence that Darius was the same person as Artaxerxes], Ezra, the son of Seraiah, ... the son of Aaron, the chief priest;—this Ezra went up from Babylon; and he was a ready scribe on the law of Moses, which the Lord God of Israel had given; and the king granted all his request, according to the hand of the Lord his God upon him. And there went up some of the children of Israel, and of the priests, and of the Levites, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethemins, unto Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was the 7th year of the king. For upon the first day of the first month began he to go up from Babylon, and on the first day of the 5th month came he to Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him. For Ezra had prepared his heart to seek the law of the Lord, and to do it, and to teach in Israel statutes and judgments. Now this is the copy of the letter that the king Artaxerxes gave unto Ezra the priest, the scribe, even a scribe of the words of the commandment of the Lord and of his statutes to Israel. Artaxerxes, king of kings, unto Ezra the priest, a scribe of the law of God of heaven, perfect peace and at such a time. I make a decree [or commandment] that all they of the people of Israel, and of his priests and Levites, in my realm, which are minded of their own free will to go up to Jerusalem, go with thee." It will be observed, if the whole chapter is read, that it is not only to build and restore Jerusalem, but also to restore the ritual, or the Jewish service.

From this biblical statement, we find "the commandment to restore and build Jerusalem" was issued on the 7th year of Artaxerxes. He commenced his reign before the crucifixion, 490 years, as before found. He issues his commandment after 7 years, which deducted leaves 483 years from the commandment to the death of the Messiah, just as had been stated to Daniel. This is the second witness, wonderful in its announcement, and wonderful in its exact fulfillment. So plain and so easy is God's Word to be understood when taken literally.

At the end of the 7 weeks and 62 weeks there should be a period, for it is evidently the end of that statement. Then commences the third and new prophecy, which is the third witness. The reason, unquestionably, for cutting the 7 weeks from the 69 was, that in the seven weeks the commandment was carried out, as we now shall see it was.

The commandment to restore and build Jerusalem, as we have seen, was issued on the 7th of Artaxerxes. Ezra was governor of the Province of Judea 13 years, or to the 20th of Artaxerxes. At that time, according to Nehemiah, 5: 14, we find that Nehemiah was appointed governor, and was governor, according to chap. 13: 6, until the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, when he returned to Babylon. From the balance of the thirteenth chapter may be gleaned, from what took place during that time, that he was absent from Jerusalem about 24 years. This is greatly confirmed by reference to the thirteenth chapter of Elisima, an excellent work written by the author of Selumiel, and published by the American Sunday School Union. Thus we see from the 7th of Artaxerxes to the 32nd, when Nehemiah returned to Babylon, was 25 years. If we add to this the 24 years he was absent from Jerusalem, before he returned to cleanse the sanctuary, correct abuses, and restore the Jewish service, it will make just 49 years; the time of 7 weeks; which, if we take from the 69 weeks, leaves 62 weeks; or, which is the same thing, take 49 days, which represent 49 years, from 483, will leave 432 years to the time of the crucifixion. How does this agree with the prophecy of the 26th verse? "The street shall be built again, and the wall even in troublous times." Which, as we have seen, occupied the 7 weeks or forty-nine years. "And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off." If we reduce these 62 weeks to days, they will make 432 days, which represent 432 years; the exact time from the fulfillment of the time for the execution of the "commandment to restore and build Jerusalem" to the crucifixion. This is the third evidence or witness of the first advent of Christ and his sacrifice.

"But not for himself" (was he cut off), but for the sins of the race. "And the people of the prince [evidently Roman] that shall come, shall destroy the city and sanctuary, and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war desolations are determined." This is the prediction of the destruction of Jerusalem, and it is not to be rebuilt during this human dispensation. "And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week, or seven years. This is the covenant that God made with Abraham; that in him (or his seed) should all the families of the earth be blessed. The covenant embraced the Gentiles as well as the Jews. How was it confirmed? Christ preached or confirmed this covenant during his ministry three and a half years. How was it confirmed three and a half years more? Cornelius, a just man and a Gentile, had a vision that he should send to Joppa, and call for Simon who was lodged with one Simon a tanner; he would tell him what he should do to be saved. The messengers were sent, and on their arrival at Joppa, Peter had gone on the house-top to pray, and fell into a trance, and saw a sheet let down from heaven, having in it four-footed beasts, creeping things, etc. The command came, "Arise, Peter, slay and eat." Peter replied, "Not so, Lord, nothing common or unclean has ever entered into my mouth." This was done thrice, and he awoke. Thus Peter had a revelation, confirming the covenant, that Jews and Gentiles were equal sharers in the covenant, and this took place three and a half years after the crucifixion. Thus the covenant was confirmed during the seven years as predicted.

In the midst of the week, after he had confirmed the covenant three and a half years, Jesus was crucified, and by his sacrifice he made an end of all Jewish sacrifices, which were typical of him—the antitype—so were made useless, or ended by the Antitype coming.

Thus I have gone through this most sublime prophecy in a very hurried manner. I have all confidence in its truthfulness, and I humbly hope it will be for the confirmation of the faith of many.

SYMPTOMS OF THE IMPENDING GREAT CONSUMMATION.

BY REV. DR. CUMMING, OF LONDON.

Many Running To and Fro—Knowledge Increased—Medical Science—Spread of the Gospel—Dotage of the Papacy—The Last War at Hand.

The place we occupy in the stream of time may be inferred by comparing ancient predictions of future scenes and events with present and obvious facts. It is during the closing days of this dispensation that a remarkable prophecy in Daniel comes to be fulfilled. By the evidences of the fulfilment of this prophecy we shall be able to ascertain our position: "Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased." (Dan. 12: 4.) Could I give a more succinct and impressive description of the age in which we live? During the last forty years there has been more speedy, frequent, and extended traveling, than during the seventeen hundred years before. The stationary habits of former generations have been utterly broken. The numbers that move on the iron rail have baffled all anticipation; an enormous net-work of iron has overspread east, west, north, and south, by which five hundred people at a time are taken from capital to capital, with all the speed, accuracy, and precision of a weaver's shuttle. And the surface of the ocean is covered with gigantic steamers. The antipodes are now reached from London as soon as the Hebrides used to be; and, as in the instance of Panama, continents are severed and intersected, in order to remove obstructions and impediments to the advancing march of men.

And whilst there shall be this traveling to and fro, it is added, "Knowledge shall be increased." In all directions this is taking place. Everybody is seen prying into every department of nature, art, antiquities, history and science. An insatiable curiosity has siezed every mind—a thirst for information has come upon every rank. Long buried secrets are stepping forth from their hiding-places at the bidding of men who refuse to be disappointed. By the investigations of explorers, Nineveh has arisen from the dead, to tell mankind what the Bible has been telling ceaselessly, "Holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." The Polar realms are explored; the secrets of the Iceberg and the tenantry of the frozen zone are brought to light; and the attempt of a thousand years—in pursuit of which the gallant Franklin and countless brave seamen perished—the north-west passage, has at length been achieved.

Medical science has attained wondrous progress since Jesus, who consecrated it by his example, lived and healed, and suffered and died. Those formidable epidemics, the offspring of our sin as much as the judgment of God, are more thoroughly understood; and I do not see why the pestilence which we call typhus, or the other pestilence we call fever, or the other we call cholera, or the last and worst endemic, rather than epidemic, we call consumption, may not, by God's blessing, be as much mitigated as a recent pestilence, more destructive than any of them, known by the name of smallpox. We see in all these things predicted progress in knowledge. And that wonderful anæsthetic agent, chloroform, has mitigated the primal curse pronounced on one half the human family, and rendered the terrible operation of the surgeon's knife scarcely perceptible to the subject of it.

During the last days, it is stated, as another fact and feature, that "the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached among all nations for a witness. Matt. 24: 15.) Now, is not this a distinguishing sign of the age? China, for many centuries the impregnable fortress of inveterate superstition, has, of late years, lifted up its everlasting gates, and partly without and partly with our teaching, the truths of the King of glory have entered, and the glorious sound of the gospel may now be heard reverberating in the streets of Pekin; and our country, true to its responsibility, is pouring Bibles and missionaries into it.

The tribes that cluster around the North Pole, whose home is the region of perpetual snow, have been sought out for so many years apparently to gratify curiosity, but really to complete the fulfillment of the prophecy: "This gospel shall be preached as a witness among all nations." The Moslem, the Hindoo, and the Chinaman, are emerging into the everlasting light. In every tongue on earth the gospel has its music and its glad echo. In every latitude and longitude the Cross is revealed, obstructing walls are falling; and where christianity may not be accepted as a remedy, it is everywhere heard as a witness, and is, therefore, according to the words of our Lord, a precursor of the end.

Another symptom of the close of this age is now patent, the great boasting of the Romish Babylon, as shown, for instance, in its recent decrees of the Immaculate Conception and the Infallibility of the Pope. Never did the Church of Rome boast louder than she does now. She saith in her heart, "I sit a queen, and am no widow." This is dotage, not power. Her last day shall be her proudest, her dying resistance will be the greatest. She will go down, as sure as there is truth in prophecy; but like a ship at sea, every sail set, and her prophecies of supremacy lifted up loudest and most impudent to the end. She has crushed every attempt within to rectify her errors and reform her corruptions; she has persecuted with the sword and fagot every exertion from without to awaken her to a sense of apostacy; her pride has grown with her years; her pretensions are, in the year 1874, louder than in the palmy days of Hildebrand himself. But her imperial splendor shall be her funeral pall; her present glory shall soon only light her to her grave. Rev. 17: 18.

At this very period, immediately before the destruction of the Crescent in the East, (the drying up of the Euphrates) and of the Tiara in the West, we read in Old and New Testament prophecy, there will be a general war over the length and breadth of Europe; the unclean spirits preparing the kings of the earth for the great battle, or rather war, as the Scripture calls it, of God Almighty. Many and terrible are the signs of its approaching fulfilment. The revolutionary fires that are smouldering under every throne will one day burst out; and every capital in Europe shall blaze, every village become a camp, and every country a battle-field. Assembled kings shall debate their very existence in the high places of the earth, and kingdom dash against kingdom, like stars broken loose from their orbits; and rulers fall from their high places, like leaves or unripe fruit from the fig tree, when shaken by fierce winds.

Every acre of Europe is covered at this hour with strange and ominous shadows, which coming events cast before. Auguries of looming evils have found access to cabinets and councils; and statesmen at their wits' end look pale and perplexed, while their hearts tremble for fear of the things that are coming on the earth. The Continental disturbances and commotions of 1848 and 1870–1 were great sea waves, rising and reaching far up the shores of Europe, and then receding, but only to gather fresh volume, and to come up again augmented in mass, and with accumulated speed, to burst over the lowliest hearthstone and the loftiest roof-tree, convulsing all things, wasting many, yet sweeping away the corrupting drift-weed of centuries, and destined to prepare the way for the second coming of Christ and the millennium.

Another remarkable sign of the times, and, in its place, significant of our impression of the nearness of the end of the age, is the intensity that is concentrated in almost every sphere and department of life. The object may be great, or the pursuit may be in itself worthless; but everywhere you perceive that energy, and vigor, and great force are in it. Let it be the manufacture of a pin, or the enlightenment of a soul, there is condensed in it evident, and palpable, and untiring energy. For evil or for good, the age of apathy is gone. Men are in earnest in all they do; they are doing what they undertake with all their might. All seem to feel as if the time for their mission were preternaturally short, and the night of time too near to allow of respite from toils, or a relaxation of their energies.

What is Ritualism but old High Churchism in earnest? Ignorant of vital and evangelical truth, it is occupied about robes, and candles, and genuflexions, and crosses, and phylacteries. We pray that their earnestness may be directed by the Spirit of God to objects worthy of it.

This intensity is a prophetic instinct, an omen of the retiring sun and the gathering darkness, the termination of the groans of humanity, the travail of nature, and the winding up of a drama of which angels have been for six thousand years the spectators, and men the solemn actors. If this be a sign of the times, and the character of the men of this world, let us christians excel, not fall behind them. "Work while it is called to-day." "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." The warning cry is ringing loud and clear from every quarter of the compass—"The Bridegroom cometh!" Are our lamps burning? Are our loins girt? While our hands are in the shop, in the counting-house, the senate, are our hearts and our hopes, and our treasure in heaven, where Christ is, and from whence we look for the second coming of the Lord?
—Signs of our Times.

— He that hath slight thoughts of sin, never had great thoughts of God.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 27, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"Editors of World's Crisis, Boston, Mass."

"World's Crisis, Boston, Mass.," or

Geo. T. Adams, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"Editor Young Pilgrim, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

Agent.

SPECIAL NOTICE

To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis.

Ag't.

THE BAPTISM OF THE SPIRIT.

The gospel presents two baptisms—one of water, the other of the Spirit. These are the same in mode, i. e., to immerse, plunge, overwhelm; but differ in the elements employed, the administrators and the results accomplished. The element in which the believer is plunged, overwhelmed, in water baptism, is water, in spirit baptism it is spirit. The administrators of the first are Christ's servants, the second Christ himself.

Jesus says to his servants—"Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." John the Baptist said—"I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance; but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear; he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost." Matt. 3:11. Jesus did not baptize with water, but only with the Spirit.

In speaking of water baptism John said—"Jesus baptized not, but his disciples.' John 4:2. Spirit baptism produces death to sin, and water baptism illustrates that death; therefore, spirit baptism, since the endowment of power from on high, must always precede water baptism.

Water baptism before the Spirit was sent, was anticipatory, pointing to an event and experience not then reached. John's baptism was "*un*to repentance," but Christ's is *in*to repentance. One man might have power to carry us safely unto a river, while another man might have power to carry us safely into the river. John says of Christ, in contrasting his and Christ's baptism, he "is mightier than I, . . . Whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire." John would say:—I can only bring you up to repentance. My baptism is the ratification of a covenant that you will repent when the mightier power shall come from on high. Christ's baptism is being immersed in the spirit of divine power, which shall enable all who receive it to completely turn from all their sins and serve God with an undivided heart.

Spirit baptism produces two distinct classes—a final classification for the last judgment. All who enjoy the fruits of the baptism of the Spirit will be classed with the wheat,—"children of the kingdom;" while those who are not baptized with the Spirit must be baptized with fire,—"shall cast them (the tares) into a furnace of fire."

Water baptism necessarily changed its relation to the events and experiences that it illustrates when the baptism of the Spirit was introduced. It could no longer point forward to Christ's death, but back, testifying that it had taken place, and was followed by a resurrection. It could no longer signify that they would repent, but it becomes a testimony that they have repented, and have experienced death to sin and a new life of holiness. The administrator no longer says "He that cometh after me is mightier than I," but he says, He that hath gone before me is mightier than I, whose power has killed to sin and made alive to righteousness. Water baptism does not therefore unite the believer with Christ or his real church, but it signifies that such a union has already taken place.

The water in which a believer is immersed cannot wash away his sins, but it does beautifully illustrate the washing away of those sins by the blood of Christ. The baptism of the Spirit unites the believer to Christ, and his mystical body—the church, in a spiritual and divine union. Paul says—"For by one Spirit we are all baptized into one body, . . . And have all been made to drink into one spirit." Rom. 12:13.

We are not only plunged into the Spirit, so that it effects every part and member of our organism; but we drink into it so that it effects us internally, changing and controlling the moral element, or heart. It changes the person entirely, so that old things, external and internal, have passed away, and all things have become new. Christ does not receive into his heart of love and sympathy as his friends the "old man," but the "new creature." The names of none are recorded in heaven, only such as are baptized by the Spirit into holy fellowship with the disciples of Jesus and a heavenly oneness with him.

Peter clearly explains that water used in christian baptism does not save us, or take away our sins, when he refers to Noah and his family, "who prepared an ark" wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water." The ark, and not the waters, was the instrumentality by which they were saved. The waters caused to be manifested the divine care and protection over the family, by so overwhelming them that death would have been inevitable but for the ark which rose to the surface and thus saved them. The apostle continues—"The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also save us."

Noah's connection with the waters of the flood, and the christian with his baptismal waters are both "figures," and represent the same things. The ark, evidently, as the apostle understood it, represents Christ, and its being overwhelmed with the flood, represents Christ being overwhelmed with the sorrows and anguish of death. As the ark rose above the waters, and thus became the instrument of salvation to Noah, so Christ rose above the dark waters of death at his glorious resurrection, and thus became the instrument of salvation to all who by faith secure him as their Savior; for he adds to the last figure "Baptism doth also now save us by the resurrection of Jesus Christ." Christ evidently represents his overwhelming sufferings at his death, by baptism, when he said, "I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished." Luke 12:50. He sunk under the dark wave of affliction for the sins of a guilty world, and rose triumphant at his resurrection for the salvation of all who believe.

Paul evidently understood that baptism under the gospel occupies the same position as circumcision under the law. He says:—"In whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ." Col. 2:11. He teaches these christian converts that they had been circumcised by Christ's circumcision, and in the last part of the sentence explains what he meant by the circumcision of Christ,—"Buried with him in baptism." He calls christian baptism circumcision, because it occupies the same place in the dispensation. Both were introductory into the rights and privileges of the dispensations. Both had two parts, one invisible, wrought by the Spirit upon the heart, the other visible, external, in the flesh. Upon this point he says—"For he is not a Jew, which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh. But he is a Jew which is one inwardly; and circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, and not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of God." Rom. 2:28, 29.

Circumcision that was "outward in the flesh," was designed to represent circumcision of the Spirit in the heart, and was, therefore, unmeaning, and not circumcision, when the work in the heart did not precede that of the flesh. He explains this more fully when he says—"For we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness. How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision. And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had, yet being uncircumcised." Chap. 4:9–11. The work wrought in his heart constituting him righteous, preceded his circumcision in the flesh; which was a seal or acknowledgment of the preceding change. This first work is wrought by God through the Holy Spirit; the second by man as an outward, visible sign of that which was invisible. The invisible is the baptism of the Spirit; the visible is the baptism of water. The "circumcision of Christ, buried with him in baptism," must be the baptism of the Spirit; for it is "made without hands;" while water baptism is always made by hands. Again he says "Buried with him in baptism, wherein also" (in this baptism, not only buried, but) "ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead."

In this baptism the candidate is not buried by man's instrumentality, or "hands," neither is he raised from that state of death or grave by man, but "through the faith of the operation of God;" that is, by the same power which "raised him (Christ), from the dead." He then expressed what he meant by being "raised" at this baptism, when he said,—"And you, being dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses." Col. 2:13. It is being "quickened" or raised to "newness of life." The death from which they are "raised" is produced by "sins;" consequently they rise from that state of moral death when they experience forgiveness of "all trespasses."

This work is "wrought" in them at conversion, when their "trespasses" are "forgiven," and they receive the gift or baptism of the Holy Spirit. They become members of the family of God when they receive the Spirit; for "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of his." Again he says—"For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." Gal. 3:26, 27. How are we baptized into Christ? "By one spirit are we all baptized into one body," into Christ, "as members of his body." Again he says—"How shall we, that are dead to sin, live any longer therein? Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?" Rom. 6:2, 3. We are "dead to sin" when we have a forgiveness of "all trespasses"; and when we are "circumcised without hands," we are "baptized into one body." and into his (Christ's) death. He then adds—"Therefore (on account of the fact that ye are dead and baptized into Christ's death), we are buried with him by baptism into death." It rains; therefore, I take my umbrella. The word therefore shows that the fact stated preceding it is the reason why the thing given in the statement following it is necessary. So it is in the text. The word therefore shows that it was necessary to be "buried," because they had been "baptized." The word buried, in this text, evidently refers to water baptism, and the word baptized to spirit baptism.

Invisible things, in christian experience, are generally represented by visible things. We receive by faith the Lord's flesh and blood as our atoning sacrifice for sin, invisibly applied to us. We represent those by bread and wine, which are visible. So in baptism. The spirit, which is brought in contact with every part of the body, affecting it in every member and passion, is invisible. We have given us, therefore, a tangible, visible element, water, in which we are plunged, that it may come in contact with all parts of the body to represent the Spirit. The Holy Spirit is in many passages illustrated by water.

After the Spirit had been sent, and its baptism had been established in its proper place, preceding and introductory to water baptism, as it should be perpetuated through the Gospel dispensation, Peter was called first to establish the relative position of the two baptisms. Having been taught of God in a vision, he was sent to the family of Cornelius, the first Gentile convert to Christianity, and having witnessed that God gave them "the gift of the Holy Ghost," he said: "Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?" And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord." Acts 8:47. The reason why Peter could with divine authority command them to be baptized was because they had received the gift of the Holy Ghost. That Peter understood that Cornelius' receiving the "gift of the Holy Ghost" was the baptism of the Spirit, foretold by John and Christ, appears from his following statement. He was called to an account by his brethren for baptizing these Gentiles in the name of Christ, and gave as his authority why he did so the testimony of Christ:—"John indeed baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost." Chap. 11:16. Before the apostle had been instructed by this heavenly vision, and while the Spirit was being poured out upon some believers, he baptized them with water, saying, "Ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." But after his illumination, he commanded them to be baptized who "have received the Holy Ghost as well as we."

Let us not go back of the heavenly vision for our rule, but baptize with water those, and only those, who give evidence of having been baptized with the Holy Spirit. The baptism of the Spirit is plunging into the sea of Divinity, so that every member of the body feels a new and heavenly impulse, a divine inspiration drawing them out of the old channel of sin, and raising them up to the elevation of holiness and obedience to God. A mighty power takes hold of the tongue, restraining it from speaking forbidden words, and prompting it to speak forth the praises of God. It fills the heart with supreme love to God and kindness to men, and tunes it for heavenly worship and divine adoration. It brings all the members into sweet submission to God, and harmony with his Gospel. The Spirit will be the all-pervading and controlling element and power of the heavenly world; therefore the test of our preparation for that world is our perfect submission to the Spirit's teaching and leading, here. It is our privilege and duty to be so completely immersed in it, that we shall be entirely raised out of moral death, and enjoy the life of Christ in every act, emotion and purpose of our experience. What we need more than all things else is a more complete fulness of the Holy Spirit. May God impart it to us in great measure, that we may stand in constant readiness to meet the soon coming Judge.

J. C.

Startling Facts.—That crimes and criminals are rapidly multiplying is a settled fact. The passions of men and women are in alarming exercise. Restraints that once held them in check seem to have become powerless. They have forgotten the Lord; the Bible and its teachings are disregarded; Christianity is considered as an obsolete system; consequently, they give themselves up to the gratification of their animal passions, as did the ancient Sodomites. The end must be near.

M. G.

"A STATEMENT OF FACTS RELATING TO Elder Joshua V. Himes."

The above is the title of a Pamphlet of 27 pages octavo, prepared by Eld. Miles Grant, and others, and issued by the Adv. Chris. Pub. Society, giving facts as brought out at Rochester, N. Y., in 1869, down to the latter part of 1874, including a portion of the correspondence which passed between Eld. Himes and counsel, and the Committee of the Society; also noticing sundry statements found in "Himes' Journal" for Oct., Nov. and Dec., 1874.

This Pamphlet is published by the Society from a solemn sense of duty to the cause of truth and righteousness, to answer inquiries for facts in the case of Eld. Himes, and to give the desired information needed at the present time.

Price, single copy, 5 cts.; six copies, 25 cts; twelve copies for 50 cts.; one hundred for $3.50 by mail. By Express, or when taken at our Office, $3 per hundred.

Ag't.

VISIONS AND PROPHECIES.

In a former article we have shown, by incontrovertible evidence, that Mrs. Ellen G. White had visions, in 1844–5, which she claimed came from the Lord, showing that the door of mercy was shut on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1844, and that she and her husband taught this doctrine for years afterwards.

It needs no argument to show that these visions were untrue, and consequently did not come from the Lord; but we proceed to give a further examination of these vsions, that "have exerted a large influence in making seventh-day Adventism what it now is," as stated in the Sabbath Review. In one of her visions she says:—

"In time of trouble I heard them cry to God in agony—Why didst thou not show us our wrong that we might have got right and been ready for this time? Then an angel pointed to them and said, 'My Father taught, but you would not be taught. He spake through visions, but you disregarded his voice, and he gave you up to your own ways to be filled with your own doings.'"

Bro. Carver remarks on the foregoing as follows:

"This was published at Topsham, Me., Jan. 31st, 1849, on a sheet directed 'to those who are receiving the seal of the living God,' and is signed, 'E. G. White.' This sheet now lies before me, and I have just copied the above paragraph, word for word."

In this vision she was shown that the time of trouble came upon certain ones because they did not heed her visions. We think no one need to fear any judgments from the Lord for rejecting her strange visions, which contradict themselves, facts, and the Bible. The Lord cannot be the author of such visions.

The following is from a letter of instructions by Mrs. White to a sister in Iowa:

"Dear Sister Curtis;—I felt sorry for you as I read your letter. I believe you to be in error. The Lord showed me two or three years since that the use of swine's flesh was no test. Dear sister, if it is your husband's wish to use swine's flesh, you should be be perfectly clear to use it."

A few years later she has another vision, and then says: "God never designed the swine to be eaten under any circumstances."

Bro. Carver remarks:

"Mrs. White claims to be divinely inspired in banishing swine's flesh from use as an article of food, and yet twelve years ago, if not later, she claimed divine inspiration in justifying its use, and moreover, used it herself."

In a vision found on p. 46 of "Experience and Views," she says:

"I saw some looking too far off for the coming of the Lord. Time has continued on a few years longer than they expected, therefore they think it may continue a few years more, and in this way their minds are being led from present truth out after the world. In these things I saw great danger, for if the mind is filled with other things, present truth is shut out, and there is no place in our foreheads for the seal of the living God. I saw that the time for Jesus to be in the Most Holy Place was nearly finished, and that time cannot last but a very little longer."

"They expected" time would end in 1844, and the "few years longer" had brought them to 1849; but then she saw "that time" could "not last but a very little longer," and yet it has continued twenty-five years. About a year afterwards, June 27th, 1850, while she was still a shut-door believer, as shown by the Camden vision, which was published the next year, she had another vision, thus recorded:—

"Said the angel: Deny self; ye must step fast. I saw that some of us have had time to get the truth and to advance step by step, and every step we have taken has given us strength to take the next; but now time is almost finished, and what we have been years learning they [the young converts] will have to learn in a few months."—Experience and Views," p. 55.

How many years had the older ones been going on "step by step?" Not quite six years. How much time then remained for the younger ones? only "few months;" or a time much shorter than the six years. This she was taught in a vision, which she claimed came from the Lord. But those young converts have already had about twenty-five years, or over four times as many years as the older ones had, instead of "a few months." Are such visions from the Lord? Nay, verily.

Bro. Carver says: "I wish now to present to the reader another item brought out in Bro. Ball's letter to me. He states that one objection which he presented at that meeting against her divine inspiration was the 'Camden vision.' In response to this, he represents her as saying that 'she knew nothing about it, and could not say whether it was genuine or not, unless she saw it in her own hand writing.' It is not my purpose here to discuss the doctrines of that vision, . . . but . . . to bring out the stubborn facts in the case that prove that Mrs. White is guilty of dishonesty in making statements.

The above statement of Mrs. White, that she knew nothing about the 'Camden vision,' was made at Washington, N. H., in 1867. Two years previous to that time, in 1865, the church here at Marion were very much troubled in regard to a printed document that had been sent here from the East, called the 'Camden vision,' and one of the brethren wrote to Eld. Loughborough, who was then with Eld. and Mrs. White, at Rochester, N. Y., inquiring in reference to its genuineness. Eld. L. wrote in reply:

'Dear Bro. Hare: I have had some conversation with Sister White, concerning the document Elds. Snook and Brinkerhoff have called the 'Camden vision.' She says there are a very few things in that vision that she saw, but that there is much in that document she has no recollection of ever seeing; says it is just as new to her as it is to any of us. The probabilities are, as near as I can learn, that document is badly garbled. Yours, truly, J. N. Loughborough.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 19th, 1865.'"

Bro. Carver goes on to say: "Here we see that in 1865 she admitted to Eld. L., and through him to us, that there were a few things in that vision which she saw, and yet afterwards, when replying to Bro. Ball, she professed entire innorance of it. But this is not all. The 'Camden vision,' among others of the earlier publications of Elder White, Bates, etc., bearing on the 'shut door' question, had been sent to Elders S. and B. to prepare them for their defence at the conference held in June of the same year; and after their surrender at that time, when at a private conference between Eld. White and wife and Eld. Snook, the subject of the 'Camden vision' was under consideration, Elder White and wife admitted its genuineness, but claimed that it had only a local application. Here, then, in the summer of 1865, the genuineness of that vision is fully conceded, in the winter following it is partially admitted, and in 1867 utterly repudiated. How, then, I ask, can any confidence be placed in the truthfulness of any person acting in this way, especially one who claims so near a relation to Almighty God?"

In a vision of Mrs. White, March 24th, 1849, she says: "I was shown that the commandments of God, and the testimony of Jesus Christ, relating to the shut-door, could not be separated." According to this vision, the "shut-door" doctrine and "the commandments of God" are equally true. Is it true, as affirmed by the visions of Mrs. White, that the door of mercy was forever closed against sinners on the tenth day of the seventh month in 1844? Who now will presume to make such a blasphemous statement? No one, except those who believe Mrs. W. is a true prophetess of the Lord, and that consequently there has been no mercy for sinners since 1844. But as this is not true, it follows that her visions are false, and unworthy of the confidence of any follower of Christ.

The Sabbath.

We come next to the seventh-day Sabbath question, and her visions concerning the same. In 1846, Elder Joseph Bates, who had been an advocate for the "shut-door" doctrine, preached that the seventh-day should be kept as a rest day, instead of the Lord's day. Mrs. White heard him, and adopted his views. After believing it, she had a vision to confirm it. During the two years previous, in which she claimed to be having visions from the Lord about the "shut-door," and other things of similar import; she had none to show her it was duty to keep the seventh-day but had to learn it first from an uninspired man, as she did the "shut-door" doctrine.

Elder Bates taught that the seventh-day began at six o'clock P. M. Mrs. White had a vision in 1847, which was understood to confirm the six o'clock time; and they continued to begin the day at that hour for nine years, till 1855. Others taught that the day should begin at sunset. An earnest controversy arose on the subject, and there were fears of a division. In this state of things, it was decided that Elder J. N. Andrews should examine the Bible on this point, and report the result. He came to the conclusion that according to the Scriptures, the Sabbath day should be commenced at sunset. After his decision, Mrs. White had a vision in favor of the sunset time.

Is the system true which receives its main support from the visions of a false prophetess? Nay, verily. But it is true, and "freely admitted," as stated in the Herald of the Sabbath, that Mrs. White's visions "have exerted a large influence in making Seventh-day Adventism what it now is." In like manner, visions and prophecies "have exerted a large influence in making" Swedenborgianism, Mohammedanism, Shakerism, Mormonism, and Spiritualism, what they now are; but this is no evidence that these visions were true. Yet facts show that Mrs. White's visions are no more reliable than those of Ann Lee, and the others named. None of them are from tne Lord. The Lord does not contradict himself, facts, nor the Bible, but Mrs. White's visions stand condemned for all these things.

M. G.

"NO REMORSE."

It is claimed by many writers and preachers on future punishment, that there is to be no literal fire employed for the destruction of the sinner, after the example of Sodom; but that the punishment will consist in "remorse of conscience." There are many others who claim the punishment is in this life, by the same agency. If the latter were true, then the most wicked men should have the most remorse. But facts show that the remorse is inversely as their crimes; that is, the more wicked a man becomes, the less his remorse. His conscience becomes seared by repeated wicked deeds, until he can commit the most outrageous acts, and feel "no remorse."

A man by the name of John Murphy, who murdered a man last May in Nevada, was hanged last Dec. 29th, at Carson. When on the scaffold, he cursed and swore about those who had convicted him, and said with a triumphant, demoniacal laugh—"I am not a christian; I do not believe in the Bible or in Christ as the Son of God. I would sooner die a Tom Paine, than hug the delusive phantom of Christianity around me. I have no remorse of conscience." If the punishment is in this life, where was this man's punishment, if it was remorse of conscience? Who can tell? The same law of conscience would exist in the world to come. The most vile would have the least remorse. But we do not find one word in the Sacred Scriptures to show that conscience is the punisher; but they do teach that death is the penalty for sin.

M. G.

CONVENIENT, IF TRUE.

When we have doubts as to the meaning of a passage of Scripture, it is very desirable to have access to some means by which our doubts may be removed. Persons who have examined the subject more fully than ourselves can often give us the wished-for information; but not unfrequently it happens that we can find no uninspired person who can give the light needed. If, in such a case, we could only have access to a true prophet of the Lord, and ask him to seek an explanation from the Most High, with what delight and satisfaction the true disciple of Christ would receive the "thus saith the Lord" through his prophet, thus removing every doubt, and forever settling all controversy on the subject. This is what the Seventh-Day people at Brattle Creek, Mich., claim for Mrs. E. G. White, their prophetess, as stated by Eld. D. N. Canright, in Santa Clara, California.

Or, to put this more fully in his own language, and his own illustration, he said in substance:—Suppose Bro. Waggoner and Bro. Andrews [two of their leading preachers] should differ in their views of a passage of Scripture; Mrs. White has a vision which settles the matter, and thus they are enabled to avoid any divisions in their body.

If it were true that her visions came from the Lord, this would certainly be a very convenient way to settle all doctrinal disputes. There is no doubt that her visions in such cases are just about as reliable as the decisions of the one at Rome who is declared to be "infallible.."

M. G.

THE COMING CONFLICT.

It seems quite certain that a most violent conflict must come between Protestantism and Catholicism. It is coming for this reason: Catholicism has lost its temporal power, and made to sit in the dust at the feet of kings and emperors, where it once made them sit. This is a very uncomfortable position for that "woman to occupy, who claims to be Christ's vicegerent on earth. Once, almost the whole world bowed in respectful obedience to her mandates; but since Sept. 20th, 1870, she has been entirely destitute of temporal power. For four years she has been a "widow" politically. Just before she lost her last husband, she is represented as saying, "I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow." Rev. 18:7. Then the prophet says: "Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire; for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her."

Her last and most blasphemous act was to declare herself infallible. In a few days after that announcement, she became a widow and, if we rightly understand the prophecy, she will never have another husband, or in other words, again have political power. We expect she will make a tremendous effort to regain her temporal authority, which will result in her utter and everlasting destruction. Her final death struggle is evidently near at hand. What a sublime hour is the one in which we are living.

M. G.

Santa Clara.—The meetings in Santa Clara continue to increase in interest. We had a pleasant baptism last Lord's day, Jan. 3d. Our watch-meeting at the close of the year was pleasant and profitable. We had the Sacrament between nine and ten o'clock. Some thirty gathered around the table. It was a precious season. We have never seen this church in a better condition than at the present time. Brn. Wilson, Reed, and many others, are resting sweetly in Jesus. New witnesses are confessing Christ, and others are under conviction. We have great reason to praise the Lord for what he is doing in Santa Clara.

M. G.

Bro. Hammond's Meetings.—Bro. E. P. Hammond, the noted revivalist, is now holding successful meetings in the Music Hall in San Jose, three miles from Santa Clara. The large hall is well filled each night, and sometimes crowded. Nearly all the ministers are united in the work. At midday, he holds meetings in the open air, on the street. Bro. Hammond has great skill in conducting revival meetings, and wonderful success. He has traveled and labored extensively in America, Europe and Asia, and his efforts to save sinners have been most richly blest. He is in religion what Napoleon I. was in war. He believes Jesus is coming soon.

M. G.

Vallejo.—Bro. A. J. Young writes from Vallejo, Cal.:—"We have been specially blest, since you left, in all our meetings. Things never looked better. Bro. Turner preached for us yesterday [Jan. 10th.] We had a blessed season."

In a note dated Jan. 1st, Bro. Young says: "I told you what good meetings we had, and it seems as though I must still keep reporting, as they still grow better and better. Our meeting on Tuesday night [Dec. 29th] was still better than on Sunday. A large number were out. We had a shout in the camp. Last evening our watch meeting was splendid. Bro. Howell and Bro. Turner were with us. We had a good congregation. Some of the Methodists were in and took a part. The time passed rapidly. Praise the Lord for victory."

M. G.

Growth in grace manifests itself by a simplicity; that is, a greater naturalness of character; more usefulness, less noise; more tenderness of conscience, yet less scrupulosity; more peace, and more humility; when the full corn is in the ear, it bends down because it is full.—Cecil.

THE TRACT FUND.

The Advent Christian Publication Society, a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. Sibley, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances shou'd be sent to the Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$255.14
T. E. Arnold	10.00
W. M. Taylor	2.00
Miss Julia Barton	1.00
A Widow's Mite	1.00
Mrs. H. L. Jordan	1.00
Mrs. C. Bragg	.75

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$74.83
Mrs. R. A. Johnson	2.00
Mrs. F. D. Hare	2.00
Miss Julia Barton	1.00

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$3,030.20
Chas. H. Hudson (pledge paid)	25.00
Mrs. A. J. Sawyer (pledge paid)	10.00
"C."	2.00
Mrs. F. D. Hare	2.00
Mrs. C. Bragg	1.00
Miss Julia Barton	1.00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$142.85
Mrs. A. L. Jordan	2.00
One barrel of clothing, from Sr. S. F. Mathews.

For Bro. S. S. Brewer.

From Bro. J. B. Cook	$10.00

For Sr. Caroline Tuller.

From a Friend	$3.00

MISSION WORK.

Dear Brethren:—I wish to acknowledge the following receipts: From A. A. M. S., by G. T. Adams, $20. A friend, Western Mass., $5. Victoria Smith, Charles City, Ia., $1. D. D. Reed, at one time, $5; at another time, $6, and a package of tracts by F. Burr. A sister in Cal., by Sr. Reed, $2. Loring Morse, Acorth, $5. Charity, $1.10. Mary Moody, $5. From a dear old brother, for freight on a half barrel of goods, a barrel of books and clothing, with no name. The books are, many of them, marked Salem, N. H. They are a nice gift for these poor children, and the donors have many thanks. Several bundles of papers and tracts. From J. P. Marquand, N. Y., $2, and tracts. A friend, Madison, Ind., $1. A nice lot of Young Pilgrims, which I distributed the last day of school, and forgot to take the name of the donor.

I wish to express many thanks for the reading matter sent here. I distribute, send away, and give to my pupils who are teaching, and trust that some seed takes root. Just one instance I will mention, of a lady, reared a Methodist, but who stumbled over the inconsistencies of Orthodoxy, and became skeptical. When I first sent her papers and tracts, she made light of them, but was finally induced to read. She saw the harmonies of revelation, sought salvation, and is now a humble believer, waiting an opportunity for baptism. She is from the North, and is a comfort to me. I have reason to believe that those sending out tracts for the dark places will find that their labor was not in vain. And yet there are so few of the mass that will read, understand, and be saved.

The money sent has enabled me to meet the expenses of a term of school at the Point, which closed a few days since, and to relieve the poorest. The public money—$30, 40 per cent of which was promised when the term was half completed, is withheld till Feb., for this reason: I have been obliged to use more for personal needs than usual, but only enough with economy to keep free from debt. It would be more congenial to my feelings to receive a teacher's salary, and I was last fall strongly tempted to seek it; but a still voice whispered, "Stay," and God has provided everything really needful, so that I feel more than ever like a little child trusting its father's care. My heart has been so weaned from earth's vanities that a little brings comfort and content. O that these lessons I had sooner learned!

There is not as much suffering yet among the poor, as was anticipated from the severe drouth and scarcity of labor. Chopping on the river is opened, and none need suffer who are able to work. A few cases of sickness or old age need charity, and these are greatly helped by gifts and clothing that are sent.

My school has been large and wearing, but health has been imparted. With all the usual discouragements I have hope that some good has been accomplished. Mind has certainly been developed. The precepts of the Book of books have been taught, and God's blessing humbly sought. The religious condition of the people is gloomy. They are cursed with bad preachers, who come and go, and have a hardening influence. One old man who lives here has preached and prayed long and loud, but every now and then would get drunk. Then he would humbly confess, and we would all hope for his restoration. Now he seems given up, and declares he will drink, but says, "I am going to heaven, sure." His course, and that of others, has had a terrible influence. Still I feel quite sure there are a few true disciples, and that instead of giving up, I should continue to labor for these poor children and youth who are yet anxious for teaching and express gratitude for care. In a few days I expect to open again my log school-house and home also, for the scattered ones. Some will bring their food, and cook on my stove, and some will have to walk from two to four miles. At the end of two months, I am told, I can draw from the fund, for this district, $15. I have not asked the people to make the sum more, nor will I; for I want them to have one school entirely free. I did the same at the Point. They ought to have a free school as well as whites. But the powers that be do not love justice. Four of my pupils are teaching and trying to do good. Several others are competent, but are needed at home.

Now, brethren and sisters, I trust each of you are working wherein you are called. No occupation is so humble but that some good influence may go out from it. I feel that the day is far spent, but if we work till Jesus comes, there will be rest, sweet rest.

To all the household who love the truth, and to the dear friends "long ago," who may read this, I send love and sisterly greeting. CAROLINE TULLER.

West Point, Ky., Dec. 28th, 1874.

Correspondence.

From Bro. O. D. Woodruff.

Dear Brethren:—I have been laboring at the 10th (Milldale) District, in this town, every Sunday since Oct. 11th, 1874, and had a meeting every evening but one, for two weeks. In Dec. I was assisted a part of the time by Brn. B. Hitchcock and Seth Woodruff, and I am still continuing there, Sundays, and one or two evenings a week. Over fifty have manifested an interest in Christ, and a good number of these give evidence of their acceptance with the Lord. It is truly the work of the Lord, and the Holy Spirit has been poured out in power. Husbands and wives, in more than one instance, who have lived without God and hope in the world, have been seen coming to Jesus together, some of them nearly fifty years of age, besides young men and women from fifteen and upwards. Some are beginning to see new beauties in the blessed Bible, and the work is onward and the interest undiminished, for which we all praise the Lord.

Last evening we had a meeting at Plantsville, about a mile and a half north of Milldale. This was the first, and another is appointed for to-morrow night. We have been requested to come there and hold meetings, and the prospect is encouraging, judging from the attendance last evening: one hundred or more coming out, including a goodly number of the converts from Milldale. This is a place where strong prejudice has existed for years against the doctrines of the Bible.

We do not know, and so do not lay plans for action, except to pray the great God of Israel to prepare the way before us, and to step forward as we have liberty. This has been our course at Milldale, and under the blessing of the Lord with the results named. We have not shunned to declare the blessed truths of God's Book: endeavoring to divide the Word of life as the Spirit directed. One Congregationalist woman says the Bible is a new book to her, and the Bible class which we now hold Sunday noons, during intermission, is becoming more and more interesting, and is largely attended; the different doctrines being freely discussed with christian kindness, and the Scriptures searched for the truth or falsity of the views presented.

The coming of Jesus to establish his kingdom in glory upon earth, the resurrection of the dead, and other truths belonging to the present generation, when in their presentment they are adorned with the meek and gentle spirit of Jesus, cannot fail to elevate from sin to holiness and fully prepare a people for Jesus' coming. A garment of salvation made up of present Bible truth, sanctified to the believer, will as assuredly prepare its possessor to live forever in the kingdom of God, as the building the ark saved Noah from the flood.

Southington, Ct., Jan. 7th, 1875.

From Bro. L. Boutell.

Dear Brethren:—I spent last Sunday with the Advent church in Haverhill, Mass. There was a good congregation out, although it was cold. This led me to think they had some cold-weather christians, that were reliable and ready to help on the work. I enjoyed the day. The morning conference meeting was good, the singing excellent, and many seemed in earnest. I found it easy to preach to them "this gospel." Old familiar faces looked more determined to lay aside every weight and run the race through. I could but wish that those so faithfully united in the great work of saving the lost might not have their prosperity checked by the enemy.

From Bro. J. H. F. Varney.

To the Brn. scattered abroad:—By the blessing of God and the kind assistance of our Brn. of the N. H. Conference, the Adventists of Rochester, N. H., have formed themselves into a church, with the undersigned as its officers. Dark clouds have hovered over us in the past, but the light begins to shine, and the future for the church looks very encouraging. Feeling deeply our utter helplessness without the divine blessing, we ask the sympathy and prayers of all God's people for his blessing on the effort.

J. H. F. VARNEY, Pastor.
NATHAN'L DORMAND, J. W. HORNE, } Elders.
JOHN L. SWAIN, Deacon.

Obituaries.

HAMBLIN. In East Boston, Mass., Oct. 20th, 1874, Nathaniel Hamblin, aged 74 years, eldest brother of J. G. Hamblin, well known among us.

When a young man of eighteen years, our brother in Christ gave his heart to the Savior and united with the Christian Baptists. In 1840 he espoused the cause of our soon coming King. In this faith he lived, labored, and died in the hope of a resurrection, with all the redeemed, to life eternal. A widow, five children, and other friends mourn his departure, but he rests in hope. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

Elder J. S. White and the writer attended his funeral, and words of comfort were spoken, founded on 1 Thess. 4: 13–18. T. M. PREBLE.

MANSON. In Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 9th, 1875, Fanny C., wife of Sylvester Manson, aged 28 years.

Sister M. was for a number of years a member of the Christian church in this place, but some four years since she removed her relation, uniting with us. She suffered very severely, but without murmuring, while consumption wrought its work. Her end was peace. May God bless the husband, son and mother. "Sweetly she's resting in Jesus." E. O.

ROBERTS. In Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 10th, 1875, Mr. Jonathan Roberts, aged 76 years.

The subject of this notice was grandfather of the above. In death they were divided only by one day. In hope they were one. For more than fifty years Bro. R. had professed Christianity, and for more than thirty years believed the Advent message. He was sick but a very few days with dropsy of the chest. His wife, with whom he had lived almost fifty years, survives him. He was a consistent, companionable, humble man; a friend to everybody, generally respected and beloved. He rests in hope. Both funerals were attended the same time in the chapel, which was filled. Such a scene is seldom witnessed as two grown persons of the same family awaiting interment the same hour. It was truly a solemn occasion. The Word chosen for improvement was, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." Several clergymen participated in the services. E. O.

HALL. In East Whitby, Dec. 3d, 1874, our beloved Brother Marshal Hall, aged 34 years.

Many of his relatives were members of the Christian church in Ohawa. The deceased made a public profession of religion when young, under the labors of Elder Burnham, and was baptized by Eld. J. Thompson, who was at that time pastor of the church in this place. He has left a broken-hearted and beloved wife, one child, a widowed mother, one brother and three sisters to mourn his loss.

Bro. Hall was a strong believer in the near coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. We have reason to believe that he passed away with a blessed hope of a glorious immortality at the coming of Christ.

A very able funeral sermon was preached in the Christian chapel to a full house, after which he was followed to the grave by over one hundred carriages, filled with sympathizing friends. Thus he was left to sleep in the house appointed for all living. ELD. THOMAS HENRY.

BATCHELDER. In Haverhill, Mass., Nov. 19th, 1874, Sister Georgianna Batchelder, aged 31 years. She sleeps in Jesus.

Until the day shall break—
Until the shadows of earth's night shall flee away—
Until the Prince of Life shall come in glory and awake
The sleeping saints—yes, till the resurrection day,
Sleep sweetly in thy grave and rest,
In Jesus' care thou still art blest.

Sleep sweetly on, though now
Our hearts are sad and lone; in sorrow here we weep;
Yet in submission to the will of God we bow:
We would not now disturb thy calm and peaceful sleep,
But wait until the glorious day
When shadows dark shall flee away.

'Tis not so dark and drear
Within the grave since Christ our Savior died, the gloom
Hath disappeared since he arose. So, Georgia dear,
In hope and trust we leave thee in the silent tomb
Till Christ shall call thee with his own
To share a bright and deathless home.

Haverhill, Mass. M. V. SALTMARSH.

BATCHELDER. In West Deerfield, N. H., Dec. 28th, 1872, of consumption, Bro. Dalas J. Batchelder, aged 29 years.

Bro. Batchelder sought the Lord some twelve years since, but like others, by neglect of duty departed from him; but a few months before his death he again took up the cross, and we trust he sleeps in Jesus. He left a wife and two children. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from 1 Cor. 15: 21. J. M. QUIMBY.

Married.

MOONEY—CATE. In Pleasant Valley, Wolfborough, N. H., at the residence of the bride's father, Dec. 27th, 1874, by Eld. T. L. Churchill, Mr. CHARLES MOONEY and Miss LAURA H. CATE, both of Wolfborough.

MILLER—TURNER. In the Baptist church, in this village, on Friday evening, Jan. 1st, 1875, by the Rev. C. C. Miller, Mr. CARROLL E. MILLER, son of the officiating clergyman, and Miss E. ALLIE TURNER, daughter of Rev. George W. Turner, of California (formerly of this place.)

BEERY—ANDREWS. At the Baptist church, in this village, on Friday evening, Jan. 1st, 1875, by the Rev. C. C. Miller, Mr. LYMAN BEERY, of La Valle, Sauk Co., and Miss ADELIA FRANCES ANDREWS, of Summit, Juneau Co.

FOREIGN NEWS.

SPAIN.

Madrid, Jan. 17. King Alfonso will assume the chief command of the Army of the North. He will probably be accompanied to the headquarters of the army by Gen. Jovellar, Minister of War. Strenuous efforts are to be made for the relief of Pampeluna. A movement of troops with this object has already commenced.

The King has signed decrees relative to the salaries of the clergy, he desires to firmly maintain religious liberty as it exists in all civilized countries. The subvention to the clergy has been raised from 3,500,000 to 41,000,000 pesetas. The merchants of Madrid have presented a magnificent crown to the King.

Vienna, Jan. 18. Advices have been received here that a conflict impends between the Turks and Montenegrins, growing out of the recent outrages by the Turks in Albania.

The Porte, before carrying out the sentence of death on the Turkish murderers of the Christians at Podgoritza, demands the extradition of the Montenegrin participators in the outrage. The Montenegrins are indignant at this subterfuge, and much excitement prevails.

Jan. 20. The Government of Montenegro has declared war against Turkey. Both countries are rapidly arming, and foreigners are leaving in large numbers.

London, Jan. 20. The declaration of war issued by Montenegro against Turkey causes much excitement here. The aspect of the Eastern question is at present a source of considerable uneasiness and anxiety in official circles.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that a war, if not actually declared against Turkey, is resolved upon by the Government of Montenegro. Persons well acquainted in the East regard the situation as one of the gravest character.

Jan. 21. The steamer Thornaby, from Gardiff for Bombay, is supposed to have been lost at sea, with twenty-nine persons on board.

A frightful boiler explosion occurred in a factory at Todmorden, Yorkshire, to-day. Five persons were killed and fifty injured.

The River Plate Bank has received the following dispatch from Montevideo: The Uruguayian Government has fallen and the rebels are in power. There is general alarm and business is suspended. The British squadron is in the harbor. Pedro Varela, President of the Senate, has been elected by the rebels Provisional President of the Republic.

Bayonne, Jan. 21. Forty-seven Carlist officers have notified the Spanish Consul in this city that they have given in their adhesion to King Alfonso.

Paris, Jan. 21. In the Assembly to-day, the debate on the Constitutional bill was opened. De Ventavon's bill was first taken up. It confirms President MacMahon's powers; establishes ministerial reponsibility; creates a second Chamber; invests the President with power to dissolve the Assembly, and provides that on the lapse of the Presidential power, a Congress of two Chambers shall decide on the future government of France. DeVentavon urged that, as the provisorium alone was possible, it was necessary that it should be immediately organized.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, Jan. 16. A Salt Lake dispatch of to-day says a terrific snow storm was prevailing throughout the Territory on Thursday, and yesterday the canons of Cottonwood were completely blockaded by avalanches occurring hourly. The citizens of Alta Utah, fearing the destruction of their town from snow, had guards out daily for the purpose of warning the people. Four men who were killed by an avalance on Tuesday were buried yesterday under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

The cold throughout the Northwest continues. The mercury congealed at Fort Fetterman, Nebraska, yesterday, and the spirit thermometer registered forty degrees below zero.

A Niagara, Ontario telegram says that a man named Michael Murphy and his three children were badly frozen in their house Friday night The boy died, and Murphy and his little daughter expired yesterday noon. The other child is not expected to live.

Salt Lake City, Jan. 21. Another snow slide occurred in Big Cottonwood Canyon yesterday afternoon near Richmond mine. A party of men engaged in "shaking down" ore in raw hides were caught by the slide. Six men, named Thomas H. Broderick, Wm. Bitter, Charles Dabble, James Breeze, Henry Atkins and Reuben Moore were carried away and their bodies have not been recovered. George McConlin and Thomas White were swept away by the snow, but dug themselves out and their lives were saved. The slide extended about two hundred yards wide. Yesterday the bodies of six persons killed by the snow slide at Alton City were recovered. It is supposed that many others perished in the same way, but their bodies are covered by the snow to such a depth that they cannot be recovered for some time.

In one demolished house was found the body of Mrs. Carey sitting in a rocking-chair with her infant clasped in her arms, and near by the bodies of her husband and little girl. They had all perished from suffocation by snow. At another house a man was dug out alive, while a man who had been sleeping beside him was found dead. The dead body of another person was found in the vicinity of the house. There is much terror in mining camps, and most of those who can get away will probably leave; but it is a difficult and dangerous undertaking to get away, as the people will have to walk, and run the gauntlet of snow slides on their way out of the canyons.

San Francisco, Jan. 21. Salinas Valley is under water, resulting in great damage to property, but no loss of life is reported.

Snow slides in the mountains near Genoa, Nevada, buried fifty Chinamen woodcutters, of whom twenty-eight were killed.

The recent heavy rains throughout the State insure good crops. Communication by railroad and stage is interrupted in many places by the high water. The Los Angeles and Anaheim Railroad bridge has received damages requiring ten days to repair. The Central Pacific Railroad bridge over the American river, near Sacramento, is damaged, and trains cannot pass. The Sacramento Valley and the California and Oregon Roads are impassable. The water is reported to be five feet deep in the streets of Marysville, and the Visalia is flooded. Overflows are reported at various points in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys.

In Brief.

— The mills at Rochester, N. H., have run only about half time lately, owing to the scarcity of water.

— An oil well at San Fernando, Cal., yields forty barrels per day.

— In Paris, women get their living by serving as models for painters and sculptors.

— In two years the number of cases tried in the San Francisco police court has increased from five hundred per month to one thousand six hundred.

— In Paris a roller has been invented, calculated to clear the streets of snow, by means of a fire inside the machine.

— The famine in India produced such extensive distress, that the number of persons receiving relief in June amounted to three millions and a half.

— It is asserted that the ex-Empress Eugenie and the Prince Imperial have effected a loan of four million pounds sterling. What will they do with it?

— Gen. Merrill anticipates a war of races at Shreveport, many planters having discharged their hands for voting the Republican ticket. Some five hundred men have thus been thrown out of employment, and with their wives and children, are wandering around the country.

Notices.

New Hampshire Conference.

The first Quarterly Conference is due in February, and there has been no call for it. If any church or community wish it to be held with them, please notify the Committee soon, so we can give notice.

LEVI ALLEN, Lake Village,
E. A. STOCKMAN, E. Rochester, } Com.
D. W. DAVIS, Sutton,

CONFERENCE.—Our Quarterly Conference at Natick was not as fully attended as we desired, but there were conference meetings daily with preaching afternoons and evenings. Preaching brethren present—J. Couch, T. M. Preble, L. T. Cunningham, H. H. Tucker, and B. Finney. It was extremely cold, but the people came out and seemed interested to hear from the living preacher the Word of truth so important to warn this generation. We were well provided for by our brethren, and hope the result of the meeting will be good. L. BOUTELL.

Important!

The Tent Meeting Conference Committee have run the tent the last season from July to Nov., and we find a debt on our hands of more than a hundred dollars for services rendered. This is due where it is needed. There are pledges unpaid which should be sent forthwith to the Treasurer. Any others who wish to help bear the burden, will remit their donations to Charles Goodrich, Treasurer. Per order of the Committee,
L. BOUTELL.

BRIMFIELD, MASS.—There will be a protracted meeting during my stay at Brimfield, from Feb. 7th to the 14th. The lovers of Jesus and of his kingdom are invited to come and help from all the surrounding towns. H. F. CARPENTER.

CONFERENCE.—There will be a Conference in Palmyra, at the Gale school-house, commencing Friday, at two o'clock P. M., Feb. 12th, and hold over Sunday.

Elder S. K. Partridge and other preaching Brn. are expected to preach the Word. We hope our preaching and lay brethren and sisters will make an effort to attend this meeting, ready to work for the salvation of sinners and the strengthening of the Lord's scattered children. This is a new place for a Conference, and we hope all will unite to help make the meeting a blessing to the people. Call on Bro. Oscar Farnum, who will provide places of entertainment for all.
OSCAR FARNUM.
SAM'L BOWMAN.
JER. CARR.

MEETING.—The Lord willing, a meeting will commence in Whitefield, Partridge school-house, Friday evening, Feb. 5th, and hold over Sunday. All are invited. Call on Alonzo Partridge, Kingsbury Partridge, and George Linn. Bro. John R. Hall and others will be there to preach the Word. S. K. PARTRIDGE.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.
WARREN J. HOBBS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—I would say to the churches west of the Mississippi River that, after the 1st of January, A. D. 1875, I desire to locate for six months or a year with any church or churches who may be desirous of some minister locating among them. I would state that I am not what the world calls a "big gun." I advocate (1) the coming of the Lord being near,—but not any stated time. (2) His coming the time of reward both of the righteous and unrighteous. (3) Immortality and eternal life a gift by Christ to be given to those who by patience seek for it. (4) The wicked will finally perish in their own corruption, and lose all conscious being. (5) The earth the final abode of the "spirits of just men made perfect." (6) Full compliance with the commands of God's word necessary to the believer in order to pass from the stream of time into the boundless ocean of eternity to mingle with the society of the redeemed. And furthermore, wherever I may be called to labor, there I devote myself and time to the best interest of the society to promote unity and peace, and the advancement of the cause in general. Any who desire to give me a home among them, and recompense me for my time reasonably, will please address me at Wellington, Sumner Co., Kansas, Box 104. V. F. HUNT.

Those wishing to preach in Rochester Village, N. H., will please correspond with the Pastor, J. H. F. Varney.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

THAT BOOK.
"History of the Second Advent Message, Doctrine and People."

This work is now ready for all. It contains the history of the rise and progress of the proclamation of the Second Advent of Christ, near at hand, from A. D. 1820 to the present time, in America, Europe, Asia, and Africa; with sketches of the great reformations accompanying it; of many of the chief pioneers associated with it; the great opposers, and their futile efforts to defeat the work. Records of its rapid progress, and of many of the remarkable manifestations of God's guiding hand in the work. Discussions, lectures, sermons, dialogues, and chief points of doctrine advocated by the various classes of believers in the Lord's soon coming.

Records and tables of the prophetic times of Daniel and John, as advocated by the chief Protestant writers, all of whom terminate the periods between 1836 and 1880. A sketch of Luther and his times, compared with ours. His portrait, and portraits of twenty Second Advent pioneers, with discourses on Daniel 2nd, 7th and 8th chapters, illustrated with fine wood cuts, with much other valuable matter.

Our subscribers will be supplied at prices agreed on when orders with cash (and 20 cts, for postage) are received. All who wish to buy the work will be supplied, postpaid, at $3.50. As our object is not to make money, but to have this message and its history go as far and as cheap as possible, we put it as low as we can. We have endeavored to make it a book that all who are really associated in this great movement will buy, and that real inquirers will think best to buy. The book contains 711 octavo pages, neatly bound in cloth, gilt side.
I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For sale at the Crisis office.

Appointments

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every afternoon and evening this week, and Sunday, Jan. 31st. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.
Wm. C. Stewart....Sundays, Jan. 31st and Feb. 14th

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
L. Boutell....Sunday, Jan. 31st
I J. Leslie....Sunday, Feb. 21st
I. C. Wellcome....Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
E. Owen....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, Feb. 7th
A. W. Bradford....Sunday, Feb. 14th

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
J. Couch....Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. E. Barnes....Sunday, Feb. 7th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Natick, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 31st — J. COUCH.

Bristol, R. I....Sunday, Jan. 31st
East Weymouth, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 14th — C. GOODRICH.

Chiltonville, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 31st — I. I. LESLIE.

South Vernon, Vt....Sunday, Feb. 7th — H. PRATT.

Tremont, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Plymouth, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 7th — J. S. WHITE.

Fairhaven, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Mattapoisett, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Commence meeting Saturday evening previous, the 6th.
Keene, N. H....Sundays, March 21st and 28th — M. BATCHELOR.

Brimfield, Mass....Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th — H. F. CARPENTER.

Gloucester, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 31st — S. HALE.

Warehousepoint....Sabbath, Jan. 31st
Athol, Mass....Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d
Ashburnham....Thursday evening, Feb. 4th
Fitchburg....Friday evening, Feb. 5th
Lawrence....Monday evening, Feb. 8th
Haverhill....Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th
Exeter, N. H....Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th
Manchester, N. H....Thursday and Friday, Feb. 11th and 12th.
East Concord....Saturday evening, Feb. 13th
Pine Ground Chapel (if desired)....Feb. 15th
Pittsfield, N. H....Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Clarktown....Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th
Pittsfield....Thursday evening, Feb. 18th
Manchester....Friday evening, Jan. 19th
Nashua, Monday, if desired....Feb. 22d
Manchester....Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d
Lake Village....Feb. 24th and 25th
Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th. HIRAM MUNGER.

10th (Milldale) District school-house, Southington, Ct., Sunday, Jan. 31st, day and evening. O. D. WOODRUFF.

Littlefield's Crossing, New Market, N. H., Sunday, Jan. 31st. ENOCH MORRILL.

Bristol, Me. (as Bro. H. Gaul may appoint) Friday and Saturday evenings, Jan. 29th and 30th, and Sunday, Jan. 31st. I. C. WELLCOME.

Oaks and Phœnixville, Pa....Jan. 31st to Feb. 7th — A. A. PHELPS.

Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) eve., Jan 29th
Sandwich....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Warren Summit....Sunday, Feb. 7th — G. H. WALLACE.

Melbourne Ridge, P. Q....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Danville, P. Q. (if desired)....Sunday, Feb. 14th — F. M. DRAKE.

Plymouth, Vt....Feb. 2d and 3d
Bridgewater, Vt....Feb. 4th, and over the 7th
Keene, N. H....evening, Feb. 9th
South Ashburnham, Mass....evening, Feb. 10th
Granby, Mass. (Bro. Shumway's)....evening, Feb. 18th
Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street)....Sunday, Feb. 21st
North Rutland, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 28th — GEO. A. STREETER.

Barnstead, N. H. (Tuttle school-house) Sun., Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 7th — LEVI ALLEN.

Scitico, Ct....Sunday, Jan. 31st — H. C. SMITH.

Brimfield....Sabbath, Jan. 31st
Granby, Mass. (Batchelor Street)....Sabbath, Feb. 7th — GEO. L. TEEPLE.

New Durham Ridge, N. H....Sunday, Jan. 31st — J. G. SMITH.

Melvin Village....Sunday, Jan. 31st — T. W. PIPER.

Albion (at Bro. N. Tuck's)....Feb. 11th
Palmyra Conference....Feb. 12th, and over Sunday
Dexter....Feb. 17th, and over Sunday — S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Natick, Mass....Sunday, March 14th — WM. C. STEWART.

Holden, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 14th — WM. N. PILE.

Topsham, Vt. (Carson Bridge) evening, Jan. 23d, over Sunday, Jan. 24th, and Sunday, Jan. 31st. DANIEL D. PAGE. DANIEL EASTMAN.

Wilbraham, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 31st — A. MORSE.

Campville....Sunday, Jan. 31st — S. WOODRUFF.

Wolfborough (Pleasant Valley) Friday eve., Feb. 19th
Melvin Village....Sunday, Feb. 21st
Moultonboro (Ladd school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d.
Sandwich (where Bro. Gilman Clark may arrange) Wednesday evening, Feb. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Meredith Neck....Sunday, Feb. 28th
Newhampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Tuesday evening, March 2nd.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)...Wednesday evening, March 3d.
West Alton....Thursday evening, March 4th — J. G. SMITH.

Farmington, N. H....Sunday, Jan. 31st — WM. BODGE.

Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sabbath, Jan. 31st. C. W. NELSON.

Salem, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 14th
Newcastle, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 21st — J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Northwood, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Canaan, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dorchester (Town House)....Sunday, Feb. 21st
Warren Summit....Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H....Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H....Sunday, March 14th — C. R. PARSONS.

Palmer, Mass....3d Sunday in each month
Wilbraham, Mass....Sunday, Feb. 7th — H. H. TUCKER.

Belmont, N. H....Sabbath, Feb. 14th — O. W. KIMBALL.

Oxford, Me. (as Bro. G. L. Tracy may arrange) Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th, and over Sunday, the 31st. H. S. MITCHELL.

Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Saturday evening, Jan. 30th.
Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sab., Jan. 31st
Boscawen, N. H. (Gulf school-house)....Sab., Feb. 7th
Andover, N. H. (Cilleysville)....Sabbath, Feb. 14th
East Canaan, N. H....Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and over the Sabbath, Feb. 21st. SIMEON ROBY.

South Rochester....Sabbath, Jan. 31st — S. HAWKINS.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Concord, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Canaan, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 28th — D. F. LEAVITT.

Alton, N. H. (Plaser's school-house)...Sun., Jan. 31st
Newmarket, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Lee, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 14th — J. L. CHUTE.

Putnam, Ct....Sunday, Feb. 7th — BENJ. WOODSIDE.

Natick, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 31st — Z. BOODEY.

Southbridge....Sundays, Jan. 31st and Feb. 7th
West Woodstock Ct. (Methodist meeting-house) Sunday, Feb. 14th. PORTER J. SMITH.

Frankfort, Me., Saturday, Jan. 30th, at two o'clock P. M., prayer and conference meeting, and preaching Sunday, Jan. 31st, all day.
Bangor, Me....Sunday, Feb. 7th — F. A. BAKER.

Morrill Mills, Me....Sunday, Feb. 7th — JER. CARR.

Rochester, N. H....Sunday, Jan. 31st — W. H. MITCHELL.

Roxbury, Vt....Wednesday evening, Jan. 27th
Warren, Vt....Thursday evening, Jan. 28th
North Fayston....Sunday, Jan. 31st
East Roxbury....Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d
East Bethel....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Camp Brook....Sunday, Feb. 14th — L. H. BRIGHAM.

Hatley (Old meeting-house)....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Dixfield (Advent Chapel)....Sunday, Feb. 7th — L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Stanstead (Searls school-house)..Sunday, Jan. 31st (Newville) Jan. 31st, at 6.30 P. M.
Compton (Saunders school house) Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d. evenings through the week, and over the Sabbath, Feb. 7th. [We shall be together at the week-evening meetings. M. MCKINSTRY.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Feb 14th — A. S. WILLIAMS.

Windsorville, Ct....Sunday, Jan. 31st and evenings, as Bro. St. Clair may appoint. F. W. CLOUGH.

Harrison, Me....Sunday, Jan. 31st — L. L. HOWARD.

East Rochester, N. H....Sunday, Jan. 31st
New Durham Ridge, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 7th — J. T. LIBBEY.

Swale, Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Bro. Drake's) evenings, Jan. 27th and 28th.
West Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y., evening, Jan. 29th
Cowdersport, Potter Co., Pa. (near Bro. Quimby's) evening, Jan. 30th, and continue a week, if the Lord will.
Marshfield, Erie Co., N. Y....Feb. 8th
Collin's Centre, Erie Co., N. Y....Feb. 9–11th — JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Dixville, P. Q....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Colebrook, N. H. (Factory school-house) Wednesday evening, 6½ o'clock, Feb. 3d.
Stewartstown (Bare Rock school-house)....Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th.
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th. U. G. LADD.

Granby, Mass....Sunday, Jan. 24th through the week, and over Sunday, Jan. 31st. H. H. TUCKER. W. G. RUGGLES.

Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)...evening, Feb. 5th and over Sunday.
East Canaan, N. H....evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday.
Laconia, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, Feb. 21st. JOHN H. EVANS.

Newcastle, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 7th
South Rochester, N. H....Sunday, Feb. 14th — C. E. HURD.

Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) eve., Jan. 27th
East Holderness, N. H. (Stevens meeting-house) Sunday, Jan. 30th. W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Kennebunk Depot....Sunday, Jan. 31st — J. R. TRIPP.

Natick, Mass., evening, Feb. 2d, through the week, and Sunday, Feb. 7th. E. OWEN.

Groton, Vt....Sunday, Jan. 31st — MRS. J. DAVIS.

Plainville....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Cheshire Street....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Warehousepoint....Sunday, Feb. 14th — G. L. WHITE.

Newport, N. H. (Northville school-house) Sunday, Jan. 13th. C. H. FLETCHER.

Rome, Me. (Town House)....Sunday, Jan. 31st — F. E. BLAISDELL.

Moultonboro Neck, N. H....Sabbath, Jan. 31st
Meredith Neck, N. H....Sabbath, Feb. 7th — N. GLIDDEN.

Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Jan. 31st
North Haverhill....Sunday, Feb. 7th — A. GORDON.

Densmore Hill, Vt., Sundays, Jan. 31st and Feb. 14th — ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Otisfield (Gore school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 4th, and over Sunday, the 7th. J. WHITMAN. G. L. TRACY.

North Scarboro, Me. (Free Chapel) Sunday, Feb. 7th
Bonny Eagle, Me....Sunday, Feb. 14th
Hollis Centre, Me....Sunday, Feb. 28th — C. H. SWEET.

Springvale, Me....Sunday, Jan. 31st — JER. HILL.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
C. Cunningham....Sundays, Jan. 31st
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Feb. 7th
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch....Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer....Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
I. B. Potter....Sunday, Jan. 31st
H. Munger....Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery....Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. Munger....Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey....Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
C. E. Hurd....Sunday, Jan. 31st
D. M. Leavitt....Sunday, Feb. 7th
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Feb. 14th
A. Ross....Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson....Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt....Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter....Sunday, March 14th
John Couch....Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer....Sunday, March 28th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. (Franklin Hall.)
R. Baker....Sunday, Jan. 31st

CLINTON, MASS
Daniel Churchill....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Geo. W. Sederquest....Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. M. Leavitt....Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall....first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker....second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
H. Pratt....Sunday, Jan. 31st
A. Ross....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Hiram Munger....Sunday Feb. 14th
I. C. Wellcome....Sunday, Feb. 21st
Hiram Munger....Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
D. F. Leavitt....Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Jan. 24th
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. Whitman....Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)...Sunday, March 7th
C. Cunningham....Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich....Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher....Sunday, Feb. 7th and first Sunday in each month.

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Jan. 31st
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Feb. 7th
D. M. Leavitt....Sunday, Feb. 10th
T. W. Piper....Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
O. W. Kimball....Sunday, Jan. 31st
J. F. Chamberlain....Sunday, Feb. 7th
Enoch Morrill....Sunday, Feb. 21st

SEABROOK, N. H.
J. T. Chamberlin....Sunday, Jan. 31st
T. W. Piper....Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. Owen....Sunday, Feb. 21st
John Parsons....Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch....Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh....Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons....Sunday, March 28th
J. G. Smith....Sunday, April 4th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
G. W. Brown....Sunday, Jan. 31st

RYE, N. H.
E. B. Wells....Sunday, Jan. 31st

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. T. Libbey....Sunday, Feb. 14th
D. M. Leavitt....Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. S. Mooney....Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
G. L. Tracy....Sunday, Jan. 31st
I. C. Wellcome....Sunday, Feb. 7th
O. W. Kimball....Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
Joseph W. White....Sunday, Jan. 31s

ALFRED, ME.
G. F. Haines....Sabbath, Jan. 31st

BIDDEFORD, ME.
A. Ross....Sunday, Jan. 31st
Jesse Gay....Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery....Sunday, Feb. 14th
L. L. Howard....Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
C. H. Sweet....Sunday, Jan. 31st
W. H Mitchell....Sunday, Feb. 14th

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
A. A. Robinson....Sunday, Jan. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Feb. 7th

BRISTOL, CT.
B. Hitchcock....Sunday, Jan. 31st
R. K. Stark....Sunday, Feb. 7th

YALESVILLE, CT.
Seth Woodruff....Sunday, Feb. 14th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
Meetings are held regularly every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in Union Hall, on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. Brethren wishing to preach here, will please first correspond with D. F. Scamman, Portland, Me.
D. F. Scamman, George Humphrey, Asa L. Ames, Church Committee.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Religious services are held in Green Street Tabernacle every Sunday morning and evening, and prayer meetings every Wednesday evening, by brethren who look for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ in glory. Preachers wishing to correspond are requested to address L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison Street.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven P. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allegheny, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.
☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N. H.
☞ ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C., until further notice.
☞ H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.
☞ ELD. H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.
☞ JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.
☞ J. H. EVANS' address is Laconia, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—A W Sibley, A Chase, Mary A Leavitt, H D Reed, P J Stout & Son, Wm H Fay, M G Wise, B P Stevens, J C Smith, M O French, W Cornell, E F Partridge, A P Hyde, H Barrett, Wm L Himes, Geo A Streeter, H. B. Wheeler.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—H Murray $1.00, Geo L Bowman 50c, W J Mackie $1.00, P White 50c, H A Olmsted 35c, N H Lindley 35c, W S Storms 50c, H H Klock $4.58, Rev. C B Reynolds 20c, Mrs H L Jordan 20c, S P Hayward $1 25, H Cleveland 10c, M Smith 20c, A Kinghorn 25c, Laura A Wheeler 25c, E M Hulbert 25c, P S Converse $1.00. C Asquith $1.95, A H Clark 60c, H W Barlow 25c, R H Taylor 25c, M G Wise 40c, R Davis 20c, D K Barrett Jr. 20c, A H Blaisdell $3.00, Dr R J Smith 50c. E M Adams $1.25, J C Burnham $1.00, S Harris $1 13, C S Shattuck $4 75, B B Wilder 28c, A W Graham 50c, D Weaver $5.25, N N Thompson $1·00, J Custer 11c, J M Matts 84c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—G Mott (2 pack), W W Cate, T F Fry, Rev C B Reynolds, G L Bowman, P White Jr, M L Gilmore, A H Lindley, W S Storms, B Perham, B Tuttle, H Murray, W J Mackie, H H Klock, D S Clark (2 pack), H A Olmsted, G Tilley, Mrs H L Jordan, M A Potter, E M Adams, S P Hayward, C Asquith, S Harris, P S Converse, H Cleveland, D K Barret Jr, A Kinghorn, J P Davis, H W Barlow, I Stearns, E M Hulbert, R M Taylor, R Davis, A K Clark, Dr R J Smith, M Smith, J C Burnham, B B Wilder, A M B Graham.
By Express—W J Hobbs, M Stevens, A H Blaisdell.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—A Friese, C Mendenhall, M A Potter. M J Clark, J P Marquand, E N Oliver, G W Turner, F Bates, S K Rogers, I C Wellcome, E A Dinsmore, I I Leslie, P W Cate.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Contributing Editors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, with a book or engraving free. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.
HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."
Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."
Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."
This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"
is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts.
And the
"Slaying of the Witnesses."
10 cts. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3.00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 60 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols, 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation,
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

A NEW BOOK.
'THE BIBLE DOCTRINE OF THE SOUL.
An Answer to the Question: "Is the Popular Conception of the Soul that of Holy Scripture?"
BY CHAS. L. IVES, M. D.
Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in Yale College.

This is a pamphlet of 119 pages, in which the Author discusses the above question in an interesting and able manner,—showing the material nature of, the mortality and destiny of the Soul,—A future immortality to be the special portion of the Righteous,—What the Bible teaches as to the future of the Wicked,—The intermediate state,—The Resurrection,—That of the Righteous and of the Wicked, etc.

The Author claims that the doctrine set forth,—"Honors God, exalts the Bible, insures preaching of future punishment, subverts Universalism and Infidelity, errors of Romanism, of Spiritualism and Swedenborgianism, helps in work of Missions, rightly values the body, brings Christian unity, and promotes personal holiness."

We are much pleased with this work. It ought to have a wide circulation. We have a good supply, and hope the friends will order freely. We will sell at the following prices:—25 cts. per copy; $2.00 per dozen, sent by mail; $15.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.
Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. A'GT.

FAITH.

IDA AHLBORN.

Oh! for a faith as thine,
A simple, boundless trust,
That in all time of need
Looks to the One all-just.

Thy mighty friend is Christ;
Leaning upon his arm,
No danger doth appal,
For thou art safe from harm.

In prayer to the Lord,
Thou tak'st all doubt and fear;
I know thy earnest cry
Doth reach his willing ear.

Each grief that comes to thee
To Him thou dost confide;
No pathway dost thou take
When He is not thy guide.

Thy faith is just as strong
In darkness as in light;
It wavers not, though all
Is wrapped in gloom of night.

Oh! for a faith as thine,
That looks to Christ alone,
Above this fleeting world,
To glory round the throne.

Effingham, Kan.

ONE BAPTISM.

L. C. MCKINSTRY.

(Continued.)

The baptism of which we are treating is "one." It is "one" in form; "one" in number; it is baptism, and not baptisms; "one" in the fluid employed, "one" as to the proper subject of it, "one" as to the proper administrator of the ordinance, and "one" in design. It is true that the terms employed to designate it and its administrator are not always used exclusively with reference to it, and therefore in a literal sense. They are sometimes used in a metaphorical sense, as we propose hereafter to notice, as other words are frequently employed; but like other words the metaphorical gets its meaning in these from the literal. There are also other words of the list we have given which are never used with reference to the ordinance at all, but are devoted to secular things, and yet the unity of meaning of the words as used to designate this sacred ordinance is not broken; but baptism as Jesus commissioned it and instructed the church to "observe" it for all time is but "one"; having but "one" rule or law pertaining to it; making the several things which we have mentioned essential to it to make it complete so that they cannot be separated from each other, nor any of them left out of it, or any other things substituted in their place, and still the ordinance be preserved as the original baptism which Jesus commissioned intact and pure.

We have seen that this work has been attempted, but it has been attended with signal disaster; something else has been called baptism, as sprinkling or pouring, and otherwise there have been perversions, but they have never made true baptism to be anything but itself; and those who have practiced otherwise than correctly, while they have perverted the meaning of the words, and reproached and misrepresented it, thereby have not changed the ordinance inherently, but it is still what it was at first—"one baptism"—the literal baptism which Jesus commissioned; and no other persons than those Jesus authorizes to baptize can do so, and no other persons than those he recognizes can properly be subjects of baptism, and no other method than immersion can properly be used as baptism, and no other element than water can be employed for baptism, even though the sweet oil of olives, or the fragrant distillation of roses, were employed; yet the ceremony, although it might be an immersion, would not be baptism; for while all baptism is immersion, all immersion is not baptism. It is not difficult to distinguish this difference, and to note that while there are many immersions there is but one baptism. The immersions are often secular, even to be employed in dyeing cloths, or dipping a bucket; or "washing hands," but the baptism is sacred and only one, for one sole object and aim.

To notice the use of words of the class from which we have baptism and baptize in our published list, as employed in the New Testament, both as to sacred and secular things, those commanded by God and those pertaining to the traditions of men, we examine the words which are used for other purposes than those relating to baptism. As we have seen, Baptisma, when used literally, always refers to the ordinance which was observed by the apostles in obedience to the commands of Christ. Its metaphorical use does not in the least mar its literal sense. But we have Baptismos, which never refers to the ordinance at all. Baptizo, the verb, except in two instances—in Mark 7: 4, and Luke 11: 38—where it is used in the middle voice, and refers to what one does to himself, and cannot therefore be baptism, is always used literally of the ordinance. Those two passages refer to the Pharisees "washing" when they came from the market, and the Pharisee with whom Jesus dined marveling because he had not washed before dinner.

The remark just made about baptisma and baptismos may be criticized, perhaps, specially as it relates to the latter word; for in Heb. 6: 2, the word which is rendered in the plural as baptisms, is baptismos, or its plural form baptismon. It is supposed by some that this must refer to the ordinance. But how can this be? The noun which designates it is never used in the plural number, and it is emphatically called "one baptism," and not several, and could not be properly pluralized unless to embrace several individual instances in one word. We read of "the baptism of John"; "the baptism which John preached"; "the Pharisees came to his baptism"; "they said, Unto John's baptism"; "John did preach the baptism of repentance"; "We are buried by baptism." All these show us that the ordinance is "one," and therefore this word, which does not occur as the noun for baptism in the text of the New Testament for the ordinance, unless it does here, cannot here refer to the ordinance at all, but to the ceremonials of the Jewish ritualistic worship, which the Hebrews, who were familiar with them, being Jews, were exhorted to "leave behind" them with other things and "go on unto perfection."

Another criticism may be offered from the fact that Lachmann gives us in his edition of the Greek Testament, baptismos, as a marginal reading for baptisma in Col. 2: 12. The text is in opposition with that in Rom. 6: 4, and relates to christians being buried with Christ by baptism. It is true that the word, if substituted for baptisma, would not change the sense of the term, but it would mar the unity, the oneness of the use of words employed to designate that baptism is one. Lachmann only gives us the word as a possible one in the place, but leaves it out of the text; and as he stands alone in even putting it where it slightly questions the exclusive right of baptisma to the place, we are still left with the word which we find there, and the best of reasons for preserving it in its place. Rom. 6: 4 has it, and comes so nearly in expression to this in Col. 2: 12, that we do not feel at liberty to question its exclusive right, with all the other evidence which we have, of baptisma to its place in the latter text (Col. 2: 12). We have therefore "one baptism" as far as we have considered the subject, although there are divers immersions, or as the translators have rendered the phrase, diaphorois baptismos, in Heb. 9: 10, which may be literally rendered "various immersions." It is a remarkable fact that the translators have rendered the noun baptismos as "washing," in the two places where it is translated at all—in Mark 7: 4 and Heb. 9: 10; when the word might have been rendered in a manner less liable to be misunderstood.

We have another word in the New Testament, a neuter one—Loutron—which is rendered "washing" in Eph. 5: 26 and Titus 3: 5. The first reads—"That he might sanctify and cleanse us with the washing of water by the word," and the other, "According to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost." There is some question whether these texts give us the word Loutron in its literal sense, or metaphorically, and so referring by inference or implication to the ceremonial washings for physical purification, or to indicate moral or spiritual purification. The word literally means a bathing place—a bath—and so Baptist W. Noel renders the texts, "The bath of water," and "The bath of regeneration." This gives us a collateral proof for the "one baptism," and shows how hard the translators have labored to intimate a washing without an immersion, as possible to the meaning of the words, because "washing" is a word of some ambiguity of meaning; as it may be done by sprinkling or pouring water on what is to be washed, although it may be accomplished, and more directly in harmony with even its own meaning, by submerging or dipping whatever is to be washed in the water.

We have several verbs in the New Testament which are rendered "to wash." Apolono, from sono, which we also have, meaning to wash by bathing one's self;—Brecho, to wash as by rain or by sprinkling;—Nipto, to dash with water, and hence to wash a thing by dashing water against it;—and Pluno, to wash foul clothes in a tub or tank. Allied to it is Plunos, a tub or tank in which to wash foul clothes. We can therefore easily see at a glance that while washing, as an English word, is uncertain as to the manner in which it is to be done, the different Greek words distinguish that manner; and as in the case of Baptismos we have "washing," and from Baptizo, in the middle voice, "wash," and are able to know what those words mean literally, we are acquainted with the method by which that "washing" was done, and so find that the harmony of the meaning of the word is not broken; and although there are divers washings by immersion, there is still but "one baptism."

The verb bapto—the present indicative verb from which the infinitive form and all the tense endings are made—is never used to designate the act of baptism, but is always used in a secular sense. It occurs but three or four times, and is rendered "dip" in each instance,—a fact which is worthy of notice as to the harmony between the terms "dip" or "immerse" and baptize, showing that the generic sense of all the terms belongs only to "immersion" or "dipping," and beside that, God's inspiration carefully selects and preserves special words of the class for the ordinance, verbs as well as nouns, and leaves the others for mere secular purposes. We wonder however why, when the translators rendered baptismos as meaning "washing," they did not give us bapto as meaning "to wash," and so preserve a uniformity of translation. Still we shall not wonder so much, perhaps, when we notice the texts where bapto occurs. That it could not be rendered sprinkle, or pour, it is evident; and to render it "wash" would be equally bad, and cause the translators trouble; because it could not be, it was not; and because they had left baptizo in the active voice untranslated, they must translate this word, and so must give it the Anglo-Saxon word "dip," because the very expression itself demands it; although the latter not any more perhaps than some texts which we shall more fully examine, where baptizo is left untranslated.

Bapto is rendered "dip" in Luke 16: 26, John 13: 24, and Rev. 19: 13. Luke 16: 24 reads—"And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame." Here, although it was but the tip of the finger to be affected by the water, and come in contact with it, yet the translators could not avoid rendering the word by "dip," and the act could be complete as far as designated. To have said "sprinkle" it with water or "wash" it would not have given the idea, which simply was to moisten a parched tongue with water on the tip of a finger which was dipped in it. John 13: 26 reads—"And Jesus answered, He it is to whom I shall give a sop when I have dipped it; and when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon." Rev. 19: 13 reads—"And he was clothed in a vesture dipped in blood, and his name is called The Word of God." These texts also are in harmony with what we have already said of the word and its meaning. The three indicate different immersions: (1) of "the tip of a finger"; (2) of "a sop"; and (3) of "a vesture" or raiment; which were severally done—1st, in water; 2nd, in some sort of sauce; and 3d, in blood; each being one of the "divers" immersions possible to the meaning of the terms used, and yet distinct and separate from the "one baptism,"—the institution of the gospel, the rite of the church, which Jesus commissioned.

It is now plainly evident that no meaning of the words can properly be construed into sprinkling, or pouring, or a washing, other than that which is accomplished by dipping the person when baptism is referred to, or thing, when the words have a secular sense, into and taking out of the water, and that baptism is distinguished from all other immersions by the exclusive use of water for an exclusive purpose. There never could, then, have been a mistake with reference to the manner of observing it, if care had always been taken to properly understand the words, and if no one had ever preferred some easier way than that which Jesus authorized and appointed, and never any intervention of the traditions of men to turn those who ought to obey Christ, strictly, from the right practice. O that there had never been any perversion of this "right way of the Lord," and a substitution of sprinkling for the genuine immersion—the original baptism of the New Testament.

But this is not the only perversion of the ordinance, for there are those who, while they admit that the proper mode is immersion, claim that in order that it be properly administered, there must be more than "one immersion" with its emersion, to constitute "one baptism." We have stated that this is sufficient, but the claim is set up that the commission of Jesus, both as to the text of the commission and the use of the verb employed, requires three immersions to constitute the baptism "one."

(To be continued.)

TO THE BEREAVED.

Affectionately offered to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray.

BY S. M. H.

A mother sits in sadness in a darkened home to-day,
Missing the merry voices of the little ones at play;
The loving happy children who made sunshine in her home,
Nellie and little Harry, are carried to the tomb.

A father comes at evening, but his heart is very sore;
No little feet come running to meet him at the door;
No childish welcome greets him, no look of glad surprise,
For the loving lips are silent, closed are the laughing eyes.

Now gather up the playthings, and the clothes your darlings wore;
Fold tenderly each garment, they will not need them more;
The little bed is empty, your loved ones are not there;
Where their dear heads are pillowed, they need no mother's care.

The stroke is very heavy, how deep no words can tell;
But still amid the darkness, faith whispers "It is well."
Safe in the Shepherd's keeping, folded within his arms,
Your little lambs are resting, forever safe from harm.

And He, the tender Shepherd, will bring them bye and bye,
When all his flock he gathers from the valleys where they lie:
Robed in immortal beauty, forever free from pain,
Those same dear little children will be your own again.

And when again you meet them, and clasp them to your heart,
How sweet the consolation—you never more will part:
These are but for a moment—the parting and the tears,
And then the song of gladness through the eternal years.

East Boston, Mass.

SALVATION.

C. MENDENHALL.

Notwithstanding the fact of man's sinfulness, the Bible is full of encouragement, comfort and pardon, provided he will avail himself of the gracious provisions found therein.

Man is in a lost condition; he is unsaved, but he may be saved. The way is simple, yet perfect, plain and practical. The Lord has, and does save from temporal calamities as is illustrated by the deliverance of the children of Israel from the slavery of Egypt, and the care which was taken of them during their journeyings. When the Israelites conquered the Philistines it is said—"The Lord saved them by a great salvation." 1 Chron. 11: 14. That God will save from spiritual dangers is evident from the teachings of the New Testament. For this purpose Christ came to die. It is written—"Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins." He came to bring us to light, and all blessings center in and are obtained through him who is our all in all.

All men may be saved irrespective of their nationality, the door being open for Jew or Gentile, bond or free. The plan of salvation is adapted to the learned and unlearned, to him of high or low degree. Reader, it is for you and for me. Will you not call upon the name of the Lord, and know experimentally the working of this free grace? "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved." You are under the penalty of the law; will you not be saved from its final consequences?

Christian be up and doing, for the coming of the Lord is nigh. Many are sleeping in a dangerous lethargy; oh, let us with affection, ardor and wisdom, arouse them to a sense of their peril.

Brethren of every denominational title, work for the salvation of others. Preach Jesus and a full salvation. Know that now is no time for idle disputes and senseless wranglings.

"Let subtle schoolmen teach these friends to fight,
More studious to divide than to unite;
And grace and virtue, sense and reason split,
With all the rash dexterity of wit,
Wit's just like fools, at war about a name,
Have full as oft no meaning or the same."
[POPE].

Wilmington, Del.

Gems

— Search thine own heart! Within thee there is a fountain of good, which will always flow, provided thou diggest for it.

— To wipe all tears from off all faces is a task too hard for mortals; but to alleviate misfortunes is within the most limited power.

— Envy is a littleness of soul which cannot see beyond a certain point; and if it occupy not the whole space, feels itself excluded.

— Could we see things as God sees them, we should not have a solitary wish for a single alteration in our circumstances; we would say, "It is well."

— What a new world we should live in if we would only allow every kind thought that comes to us to blossom into words and deeds!

— The christian who has put aside religion because he is in worldly company, is like a man who has put off his shoes because he is walking among thorns.

— Good nature is a glow-worm that sheds light even in the darkest places.

— Beauty, unaccompanied by virtue, is a flower without perfume.

— The covetous man is as much deprived of what he has, as of what he has not, for he enjoys neither.

— No cloud can overshadow a christian, but the eye of his faith will discern a rainbow in it.

— Everything we add to our knowledge adds to our means of usefulness.

All true christians must be like Noah's ark, that was pitched without and pitched within, Gen. 6: 14. They must have a holy inside, and a holy outside; their profession and practice must agree.

LETTER FROM C. COLEGROVE.

Editor of World's Crisis:—Dear Brother:—I would beg to say to any readers of the Crisis who might marvel at my comparative reticence, that I hold the faith of our Lord's speedy return with unabated confidence, and that I feel strongly persuaded that we are on the verge of most important and vital events. It is beyond reasonable question I think, that the present year will be marked by very grave and significant changes, bearing us on rapidly to the realization of the believer's earnest desire, that a new period of light, and rest, and rejoicing may arrive.

One of the most remarkable and truly wonderful achievements of modern times is the accurate and scientific measurement and exploration of the great pyramid of Cheops, in Egypt. The most astonishing facts have come to light in the examination of the great structure, some of which bear directly on the subject of the second advent of Christ. Indeed the great pyramid is stored with facts of a mathematical, astronomical, metrical and historico-prophetic character. It would well be worthy of the readers of the Crisis to become possessed of the facts, or the more essential portion of them, which are represented by this great architectural wonder. It is evident that the wisest men have been astray in regard to its origin and design. It remained for modern science to unlock the mystery of its construction, and show the agency of God himself in its erection. There is no possible evasion or resistance of the revelation which the pyramid makes, as the voice it utters is so clear and majestic that one is struck with awe at the goodness, wisdom, and power of God. The facts of science utter a language which sophistry cannot answer or overturn. The principal work of investigation seems to have been performed by Piazzi Smyth, the distinguished Astronomer Royal for Scotland. He brings to light numerous mathematical problems suggested by the pyramid, and shows how the pyramid itself extends its prerogative of measurement to the celestial heavens. By it is shown the sun's distance from the earth, the period of the precession of the equinoxes, and the number of days in a year, to a fraction. It teaches the true Bible system of weights and measures, and other interesting facts.

I have commenced an article on the subject for the Crisis, but have not had the fortune to complete it yet. What will be especially interesting to those who love the Lord's appearing, may be mentioned as measured divisions in the passage way, which indicate the period between Melchisedek and the crossing of the Red sea,—the period from that to the first advent of Christ; and again from this to the second advent which seems to be about the year 1882. At all events this latter date is noted as making a sudden termination to the christian dispensation, commonly so-called,—as it is succeeded by the entrance to the ante-room of the king's chamber. Most of your readers may be entirely surprised at the suggestions here cursorily made, but I believe the subject is worthy of every intelligent christian's profound attention.

I repeat my belief that most important developments lie almost immediately before us, and I trust we may be graciously assisted and favored by the protecting and kind hand of a perfect Providence. I hope to be able to furnish a more detailed statement ere long.

Sardinia, N. Y., Jan. 7th, 1875.

INFIDELITY AND COVETOUSNESS.

I. I. LESLIE.

These are twin spirits, and have ever been inseparably associated. But in no age of the world have they been more prominent, or together produced a greater effect on society and the church than is now seen and felt everywhere. These two spirits pervade the entire world, and are prevailing beyond all other influences in the destruction of men. There is no crime recorded but the cause can be traced to one or both of these Satanic agencies.

If it be said that intemperance is a great source of crime, we reply that were it not for infidelity and covetousness there would be no intemperance. Unbelief and the love of money produce all the means of intoxication there is in the world. The rummaker and the rumseller are both infidel and covetous; the latter spirit, however, controlling them. Having no real faith in the declaration of God, loving themselves only, they cause sin and crime to be committed the world over, by creating the means, through the spirit of unbelief and lust for gain. Every other so-called source of crime has its root in one or both of these accursed spirits of rebellion against God.

That these two hand-in-hand spirits are in possession of the minds of men at the present day, there needs no argument to prove. That infidelity is prevalent, no one will deny who knows the true sentiment and feeling of the masses, and who is honest enough to express his real opinion. In a thousand forms, however, it may appear, but it is the same doubting, sceptical, God-denying thing. It may differ in degree and intensity, but its character and name are the same. Its effects may be different in different places, and upon different individuals, but those effects produce invariably one result:—deadness to all that is truly moral, spiritual, Godlike and good. In the world, in the church, and everywhere, these effects are felt, and this result is seen. The Bible is rejected by all the world, and by most of the church. Were it fully believed by the latter, the former would be less infidel, and there would also be less crime in the community and among men. Indeed, there might be a hope of the conversion of the world, if all who profess to be believers in the Bible and its God had a living and true faith in them. But the faith of the church is daily lessening, and the infidelity of the world rapidly increasing; hence there can be no such hope entertained reasonably by either of these two classes. That this infidelity, in all its phases in the world and church, will continue and increase, is a saddening thought; yet who that takes a Scriptural and reasonable view of this subject, can say that there is to be more faith in God, and less unbelief in regard to the Bible on the part of the inhabitants of this earth?

But in regard to the helpmate of infidelity, covetousness, it may be said, that as Eve was taken from Adam's side, so this last spirit comes out of the monster infidelity, and is therefore one with it. It is granted that covetousness may be the offspring of infidelity (as all true believers in God are without this spirit), but as the first man and woman were two as well as one, so these are two in their work among men. What infidelity may not directly do in men's destruction, covetousness will. An infidel, if he is not covetous, may believe and be converted; but one who is both an infidel and an idolater will, in almost every condition, resist to the end the Spirit of God.

The love of the world is the strongest passion in the hearts of men, and the last that is subdued and overcome. A covetous spirit in the heart of a professed christian is the worst spirit that he can possess; for it makes him an idolater, and removes him farther from God than all other sins. This was the great sin of God's ancient people. They worshipped the world instead of him—would not bring their tithes into his house, but kept back a part of the price, and the sacrifice which was required to be brought. So by their covetousness they robbed God; and when he offered, if they would bring their tithes into his storehouse, to open the windows of heaven and pour them out a blessing so great that they could not find room for it, they refused to do so, holding to their covetousness, and perishing, as a nation, by the wrath of God. His offer to return unto them if they would return unto him, they rejected, and thus they brought upon themselves a destruction which infidel Nineveh escaped. A covetous church! what can God do with it? A covetous professor! what can God do for such an one? Hardly will they repent who are joined to idols, even in these days when the Holy Spirit makes so clear the sin of covetousness. Lover of the world! clinger to earthly things! grasper of perishing treasures! cease your idolatry! Let go your hold of that which is keeping you from God, and will draw you down to death! Struggle against this spirit as well as against infidelity; and say not, "I am a christian and no infidel, and so I shall be saved," when at the same time your heart is set to love the world, and you withhold from God what he requires you to sacrifice for him. Be not deceived; if you believe God, you will not be covetous; if you are covetous, God will not receive you.

FRETTING AT TRIFLES.

How can we picture that ceaseless train of houseless and homeless wanderers who have not where to lay their heads, and fret and vex ourselves about some trifling grievance in a home where plenty and comfort abound—a broken ornament, the polish of a chair scratched, an omission of a servant, the waywardness of a child? How can we bring before our minds the vast multitude who have scarcely a rag to cover them, or a crust to eat, and grumble because a dress does not suit us, or a milliner fails to send home our new bonnet, or offends our taste with a ribbon or a flower which we did not order, or a favorite dish is spoiled in the cooking, or because the water which made our tea did not boil? How can we think of the vast and varied tide of bodily pain which is wringing cries of bitter anguish from pale lips, and murmur at a cold which keeps us from fulfilling some engagement, or a toothache which robs us of an hour's sleep, or any other little ailment which gives us a passing inconvenience? How can we think of the great and solemn crowd of mourners, whose ceaseless wail is ever sounding in the ears of Him who knows the depths of tenderness hid in the heart of Rachel, as she weeps for her children because they are not? How can we, I say, think of all this, and chafe and fret because our dear ones need, perhaps a little forbearance, are trying in some minor things, which are, after all, but as spots on the sun, and whose little peculiarities we turn into worries by losing our temper when they touch our own convenience or pleasure?—Day of Days.

QUESTIONS.

GEO. A. STREETER.

1. Is it right to trust in God?
2. If I trust in God will he keep me in perfect peace?
3. Is there not everlasting strength in the Lord Jehovah?
4. Shall I trust in the Lord forever?
5. If I hunger and thirst after righteousness shall I be filled?
6. If I am pure in heart shall I ever see God?
7. Is it my privilege to be perfect even as my Father in heaven is perfect?
8. Must I not love my enemies, and bless them that curse me, and do good to them that hate me, and pray for them that despitefully use me and persecute me?
9. Ought I not to forgive men their trespasses as I would have my Heavenly Father forgive me?
10. Is the man blessed if he endureth temptation?
11. Will he receive the crown of life when he is tried?
12. Has the Lord promised a crown of life to those that love him?
13. Must I count it all joy when I fall into divers (or many) temptations?
14. Will the trying of my faith work patience if I'll let it?
15. If I let patience have her perfect work shall I be entire, wanting nothing?
16. Must my conversation be without covetousness?
17. Should I be content with such things as I have?
18. Has the Lord said "I'll never leave thee, nor forsake thee?"
19. May I not say, The Lord is my helper?
20. Is Jesus Christ the same yesterday, to-day, and forever?
21. Shall I go forth unto him, without the camp, bearing his reproach?
22. Does God mark the perfect man?
23. Are all his paths peace?
24. Will God make all his enemies to be at peace with him?
25. Is it because he trusteth in him?
26. If I teach men to obey all things Christ has commanded me, will he be with me unto the end of the world?
27. Must the just live by faith?
28. Have I need of patience?
29. If I do the will of God shall I receive the promise?
30. Does peace come by believing? and joy by the Holy Ghost?
31. Will he that shall come and not tarry, come in a little while?
32. Can you say with me, "Even so, come Lord Jesus"?

DUTY is the first step to greatness—the helm that steers man safely over the billows of life. If we fail in our duty, we bid farewell to the land of promise—to the haven of hope; man's honorable occupation is gone.

— If God gives us a staff, he intends us to lean on it; and when he takes it away he is sure to give us his own hand instead.

KEEP THE HEART PURE.

When the heart is right with God—calm, sweet, peaceful, heavenly—everything goes right. In in this happy, joyful, composed frame of mind, business men, merchants, printers, mechanics, husbandmen, doctors, lawyers, ministers, editors—all, great and small—can accomplish ten-fold, walking thus in wisdom's ways, God-fearing, strengthened with might in the inner man. A man rich in faith, full of the Holy Spirit, is a giant,—he rises above the world, its temptations, trials, conflicts. He does everything in the spirit of meekness and love.

Some holy men spend hours in the morning feasting on angel food. They drink deeply at the living fountain. Then, when they go forth in the battle-field, Satan trembles before them! God smiles graciously on their labors, on things secular and divine, all the day gloriously! Get your souls on fire, richly imbued with the spirit of benevolence, built on the solid rock! "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in Psalms and hymns and spiritual songs; singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord."—Wayside.

GOOD DEEDS.

There's not a mortal here on earth,
But what can do or give Something to make another feel
A joy on earth to live.

A look or smile, or one kind word
Will often cheer a heart
Bruised by affliction's heavy hand,
Or pierced by sorrow's dart.

Then let us all, if we would know
The bliss there is in life,
With kindness clothe our words and acts,
And free ourselves from strife.

Good deeds can make the bad man good,
A starving heart may fill;
"It is the soul that makes the man"—
A man for good or ill.

REVIVAL.

A. W. SIBLEY.

The revival in Hoosick is still moving onward in a glorious manner. Very many, for the last few weeks have been brought to the Lord, and experienced his saving grace, and are now rejoicing in hope of the glory of God. Others that were two months ago in a backslidden state have renewed their covenant with the Lord and his people, and are now with the young converts singing praises to God, and looking for his Son from heaven. The church is in a good working condition.

Brethren, we need our hearts swelled out anew with divine love in these days of peril, so that we can feel for the perishing around us, and labor for their salvation, if by any means we might save some for whom Christ died.

The work of the christian church is nearly accomplished; and that era for which she has looked and ardently prayed will soon with all its loveliness and beauty dawn upon her. O church of Christ—the Lamb's wife, awake! Bestir thyself! Gird thine armor on anew, and press the battle against the enemy with renewed vigor, and soon victory will perch itself upon thy banners, and a glorious deliverance will then forever be enjoyed in the kingdom of eternal rest.

Sandy Hill, N. Y.

WHOSE SUPERSCRIPTION?

BY JOHN FOX, MINISTER, 1709.

Cæsar's coin had Cæsar's image. Is holiness to the Lord engraven upon thy heart? Hast thou that divine drop that can swim against the stream of corrupt nature?

If thou hast a mind to see the very picture of the invisible God, look upon a pious, humble, holy man. There is a resplendent beauty on the believer. No son so much like a father, no daughter so like her mother as the saint is like God.

What is brave, silken habit upon the body, ear-rings, jewels upon the neck, plaited hair, curls, towers, spots and paints on the face and forehead, to a sanctified, holy heart. The church is glorious within. There is that in the christian that can call God father. Holiness is the arms of heaven—the harbinger of heaven. We may see the harvest of glory in the seed of grace. Grace is glory in its nonage, and glory is grace grown up to its perfect stature.

When a believer is gotten into the suburbs of glory by communion with God, and his heart is sincerely set to please and honor him, he may say with Jacob, "This is no other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven. "Canst thou take the greatest complacency in pleasing God, and say of it as the martyr of his prison—"This is better than any pleasure, than any paradise?"—Christian Standard.

HOME AND HEALTH.

"DO YOUR BEST."

"When I was a little boy," said a gentleman, "I paid a visit one evening to my grandfather, whose black velvet cap and tassel, blue breeches, and huge silver knee-buckles filled me with awe. When I went to bid him good-bye, he drew me between his knees, and, placing his hand upon my head, said, "Grandchild, I have one thing to say to you; will you remember it?" I looked into his face and nodded, for I was afraid to promise aloud. "Well," he continued, "whatever you do, do the best you can."

"This, in fact, was my grandfather's legacy to me; and it has proved better than gold. I never forgot his words; and I have tried hard to act upon them. After reaching home, my uncle gave me and Robert some weeding to do in the garden. It was Wednesday afternoon, and we had lain out plans for something else. Robert, vexed and ill-humored at his disappointment, did not more than half do his work; and I began pretty much like him, until grandfather's advice came into my mind, and I determined to follow it. In a word, I did my best. And when my uncle came out, I shall never forget his look of approbation as his eyes glanced over my beds, or the fourpence he slipped into my hands afterward, as he said my work was well done. Ah! I was a glad and thankful boy; while poor Robert was left to drudge over his weeds all the afternoon.

"At fifteen I was sent to an academy, where I had partly to earn the money to pay for being taught. The lessons seemed hard at first, for I was not fond of study; but grandfather's advice was my motto, and I tried to do my best. As a consequence of this, though I was small of my age, and not very strong, my mother had three offers of a situation for me before the year was out. When I joined the church, I tried to do the Lord's work as well as I could; and often when I have been tempted to leave the Sabbath-school, or let a hindrance keep me from prayer-meeting, or get discouraged in any good thing, my grandfather's last word's, "Do the best you can," have given me fresh courage, and I would again try." Let every boy and girl take this for their motto. Acted upon, it will do wonders. It will bring out powers which will delight yourselves and friends. "Do your best;" or, as the Bible says, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.—Wayside.

THE FOOD QUESTION.

Man is the only living creature that does not know what to eat. He has precisely the same instincts to guide him in the selection of his food that the animals have; but the trouble is, his instincts have become perverted in the many inventions which he has sought out. Our learned men entertain all sorts of opinions, except the right ones, on this subject. Physicians, physiologists, and chemists are continually teaching very absurd doctrines concerning what human beings should eat and drink. Nearly all of the recent authors on food—those who make the text-books for medical colleges—cannot understand why alcohol, although described in their own materia medicas as a "caustic and irritant inorganic poison," is not in some sense food. The difficulty is, they write books without defining the subject they write about. They tell us what things are food without explaining what food is, and thus perpetrate an immense amount of scientific nonsense. If these authors would study nature and the dictionary more, and depraved appetences and the restaurants less, they might in time arrive at the truth as it is in Hygiene.

"As a man eateth, so is he." It is as much due to one's eating as to one's thinking, what manner of humanity one is. The simple fact that our blood, bones, muscles, nerves, brain—every tissue, structure, and organ—is made of the food material, is conclusive that the purer the food the better an more enduring will be the vital constitution. The fact is also conclusive of another principle of vast importance, and one which the medical profession practically ignores, while the great majority of the people seem entirely ignorant or heedless of it. It is this: Whatever materials are taken into the vital domain which are not food, water, or air—call them poisons, drugs, chemicals, impurities, or condiments—interfere with the processes of nutrition, and devitalize the living organism precisely in the ratio of their quantity and potency.—Science of Health.

ALCOHOL IN MEDICINE.

Two hundred and sixty-five prominent English physicians and surgeons have signed a memorandum certifying that alcohol, in whatever form, should be prescribed with as much care as any powerful drug, and that the directions for its use should be so framed as not to be interpreted as a sanction for excess, or for the continuance of its use when the occasion has passed. The signers express the firm conviction that the large amount of drinking of alcoholic liquors in Great Britain is one of the most hurtful evils of the day, destroying, more than anything else, the health, happiness, and welfare, of the working classes. These physicians say that they will gladly support any wise legislation which would tend to restrict within proper limits the use of alcoholic beverages and to introduce habits of temperance. Among the signers are to be found the names of distinguished physicians and surgeons of high rank, inspectors general of hospitals, professors in medical colleges, and members of the medical staffs attached to hospitals in London and in the provinces.—San Francisco Daily Morning Call.

RISK OF GREAT EATERS.

Great eaters never live long. A voracious appetite, so far from being a sign of good health, is a certain indication of disease. Some dyspeptics are always hungry, and feel best when eating; but as soon as they have finished eating they endure torments so distressing in their nature as to make the unhappy victim wish for death.

The appetite of health is that which is inclined to eat moderately when eating-time comes, and which, when satisfied, leaves no unpleasant reminders. Multitudes measure their health by the quantity they eat; and, out of ten persons, nine are gratified with an increase of weight, when in reality it indicates an increase in disease, showing that the absorbents of the system are too weak to discharge their duty, and the tendency to fatness, to obesity, increases until existence becomes a burden, and sudden death closes the painful history.—Hall's Journal.

WE should accustom ourselves to self-denial and patient waiting; for the blessings that God reserves for his people are like fruit which will be wholesome when it has had time to ripen, but will certainly be noxious if greedily and prematurely gathered.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD, I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1004. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 17.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL,
WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR,
L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN,
J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE RIFTED ROCK.

"In the Rifted Rock I'm resting,
Sure and safe from all alarm;
Storms and billows have united
All in vain to do me harm.

In the Rifted Rock I'm resting,
Surf is dashing at my feet,
Storm-clouds dark are o'er me hovering,
Yet my rest is all complete.

Many a stormy sea I've traversed,
Many a tempest shock have known,
Have been driven without anchor
On the barren shores and lone;

Yet I now have found a haven
Never moved by tempest shock,
Where my soul is safe forever
In the blessed Rifted Rock."

Blessed be God for this "great Rock in a weary land!"—Christian Standard.

"LIFE" AND "SOUL."

J. F. LINTHICUM.

To prove that the soul is a distinct entity from the body, immaterialists frequently refer to the language of the Savior (Matt. 10: 28), when he said: "And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell," and in doing so seem to be unconscious that they overturn the doctrine of the immortality of the soul.

Immortality and indestructibility are synonymous terms. That which is immortal is imperishable. That God cannot destroy what is indestructible is a self-evident proposition; and hence, the proof that will demonstrate the destructibility of the soul, at the same time demonstrates its mortality. It would be as reasonable to talk about a limit to space, or an end to eternity, as the destruction of an immortal being. It is, therefore, absurd to contend that God can destroy an immortal soul in hell; but we are not left to conjecture on our own imperfect reason for the proof that no part of man is immortal, for St. Paul expressly declares that the King of kings and Lord of lords "ONLY HATH IMMORTALITY." If God only hath immortality, man hath it not, and consequently there is no such thing as an immortal soul.

In the passage first quoted the Savior taught that though men might kill the body, they could not destroy it or the soul, and therefore the loss of life in this world is not a thing to be feared. They might reduce the body to ashes, and scatter them upon the four winds of heaven, but God was able to bring each particle together and bring it to life again, and this he had promised to do. The loss of this life, therefore, was not a serious matter, for it could be restored at the resurrection; but it was a fearful thing to know that God would destroy both soul and body in hell, if he were not loved and obeyed. He clearly taught here that the wicked are to be destroyed, and are not immortal as orthodoxy teaches. Immortality is immortality, whether in happiness or misery. It is eternal life whether possessed in heaven or hell. The condition of the possessor does not affect it. That which is preserved is not destroyed, and hence it is to make the Savior utter nonsense to assert that when he said "destroy" he meant "preservation" in a state of misery.

"What then," some one will ask, "is the soul?" Jesus says, "Fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell," and his language implies that the soul is one thing and the body another. We have shown that, even if this be true, it does not prove the immortality of the soul, but, on the contrary, this passage shows that, unless God is feared, he will destroy the soul as well as the body in hell. But what is the soul? We turn to the seventh verse of the second chapter of Genesis and read as follows: "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul;" and again to 1 Cor., chap. 15, ver. 45: "the first man, Adam, was made a living soul." Mark the language: "God formed man of the dust of the ground," and when God breathed into his nostrils, "man became a living soul." It does not say that he was given an immortal soul, or that another man was put into him, but man himself became a living soul. The act of creation was imperfect until man received "the breath of life." Previously he was an inanimate being, but he thereby became animate or "a living soul." He was then a living, moving, sentient and intelligent being. This accords with the quotation from 1 Cor. 15: 45, which says, "Adam was made a living soul," and not that man was given an immortal soul.

It follows, therefore, conclusively, that the perfect man is composed of "the dust of the ground" and "the breath of life," and that these two must be continued to make "a living soul." The Bible does not teach that there is any other kind of soul. The putting inside of man another man that cannot die is the work of his own vain imagination.

We have but one account of the creation of man, and we have seen that there is no intimation that any part of him is immortal. On the contrary, we are told that the man thus created, died. Gen. 5: 5. "And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died." This man, therefore, who became a living soul, died. What then did Jesus mean when he said, "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell?" He had just told his disciples to "fear not them which kill the body," speaking, as all will admit, of an act which would deprive the body of life, and cause that death which it is appointed unto man once to die. He tells them not to fear this. Why? Because all men who die that death, will be restored to life at the resurrection, and hence the loss is not irreparable. Those who kill them cannot prevent their resurrection, and are therefore not to be feared.

But after this resurrection what takes place? The man thus resurrected is required to give an account of the deeds done in the body. If he has been good he will be rewarded with eternal life; if evil, he will be punished with eternal death; and when this death takes place, the entire man is destroyed. This is the idea that our Lord wished to convey, and how could he have done it so clearly as in the language used by him? It covers the whole ground. It destroys the man that was formed by God of the dust of the ground; it destroys "the living soul" which man became after he had received "the breath of life." There will be no part of man left. He will be utterly destroyed.

It is clear that by "soul" in the passage, under consideration, Jesus meant "the breath of life," or life principle as we shall proceed to show. When the body dies, the spirit returns to God who gave it. Spirit here means "the breath of life," and an exact translation of the Hebrew would so render it. This breath of life is the life principle which animates our bodies. When a man kills another the dust returns to the earth as it was, and the spirit (or life principle), returns to God who gave it. He kills the body, but cannot kill this life principle or breath of life, because God takes care of that and restores it at the resurrection. That it was the life the Savior referred to in the passage we are considering is evident. He was telling his disciples how they would be persecuted for his sake, but to "fear not them which kill the body," etc. etc., and also a little further along in the same chapter, and while on the same subject of thought he told them that "He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it." And again in Matt. 16: 25, he said, "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it;" and in the next verse and same connection he asks: "For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Mark, he says: "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it," and then follows this declaration by asking what is a man profited if he lose his soul?

This demonstrates the fact that the Savior used the words "life" and "soul" synonymously, and hence in the passage under consideration we are to consider it in that light. This breath of life, or life principle, man cannot kill. God will take care of that, and we shall receive it again at the resurrection. Then we shall all be judged, and the lives of the righteous will be made everlasting, while God will destroy the lives and bodies of the wicked in hell. This is the second death. It is complete and eternal.

1 CORINTHIANS 8: 6.

J. P. MARQUAND.

"There is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and one Lord Jesus Christ by whom are all things."

The text tells us there is but one God, from whom originated all things, only one God, supreme, omnipresent, eternal and unchangeable. He deserves our highest reverence and gratitude. Also we are told that next to him in power and authority is the Lord Jesus Christ, through whom or by whom are all things. Now consider how great this individual must be that God the Father has entrusted with all things, whether in heaven or earth, and hath made him the executive to do his will and pleasure. Although he was made lower than the angels for the suffering of death, he was crowned with honor and glory, and he hath raised him to his right hand, far above all principalities, powers aud dominions.

The same idea is carried out in Eph. 4: 5, 6,—"One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all"; and "one Lord [meaning Jesus], one faith, one baptism." Also in Rom. 11: 36—"For of him and through him and to him are all things." There must be a great First Cause, which in the Bible is called "I AM,"—self-existent, having all wisdom, power, knowledge, goodness and truth. In one place he is called the Father of spirits; also the God of all grace and consolation, eternal, immortal and invisible. From him originated all things, angels, men, and beasts, and from him comes all we enjoy. O, what a Father we have! The Psalmist said, "Let every thing that hath breath praise the Lord"; and Paul said, "He is God over all, blessed forevermore." He is described by prophets and apostles as existing back into the eternities, and forward into the eternities; the Alpha and Omega, the first and the last; of whom, for whom, by whom, in whom and through whom are all things.

This God the Father so loved the world that he purposed in the fulness of time to send his Son for the reformation, salvation and redemption of man. At the river Jordan, at his baptism, the Spirit of God abode upon them, and a voice from heaven said, "This is my beloved Son." The Father then by his Spirit dwelt in his Son and performed many wonderful miracles; thus evidence was given that this was the Messiah.

In due time this Savior was put to death in the flesh, but afterwards quickened by the Spirit. He told his followers to tarry in Jerusalem until endued with power from on high; that they should be baptized not many days hence; and on the day of Pentecost the Spirit of God was poured out. Christ ascended that he might give gifts to his dear church (which is his body), and he loves his church with an eternal love. Now let every man love his wife and every woman her husband even as Christ loves the church.

God manifested himself through Christ for the salvation of men. Col. 2: 9—"For in him [Christ] dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily." 2 Cor. 5: 19—"God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself." John 10: 38—"That ye may know and believe that the Father is in me, and I in him." John 14: 10, 11—"Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me." Col. 1: 19—"It pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell." John 14: 9—"He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

From the above scriptures and also many others, it is shown that the Father dwelt in his Son Jesus Christ for a special purpose—to carry forward the work of redemption; and that on the cross of Calvary he deserted his Son also for a purpose, which made him cry out—"My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" But in three days the Father raised him out of the grave, a conqueror over sin, death and hell; and now we hear our beloved Savior saying—"Because I live, ye shall live also." "Death hath no more dominion over him." He is but the first fruits of a great harvest; and the Father (our God) who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, will also bring us to his presence with exceeding joy.

Blessed are all they who trust in the living God, our heavenly Father, unto whom and before whom shall all flesh come. Unto him be glory and honor, both now and forevermore. Amen.

THE COMING ONE.

For successive centuries the return of Christ has been earnestly looked for and desired; and even in this time of moral declension, some are found who long for the advent of the coming One, and who also believe it comparatively near, though not in sympathy with the hitherto unsuccessful efforts to make an application of prophetic measurements. Among this class we find the late Mrs. Palmer thus speaking upon this point in the Guide to Holiness:

We are not now, neither were ever, in sympathy with those who would set the day and hour of our Lord's appearing. But for about thirty years we have unwaveringly believed that, in the most emphatic sense, "the end of all things is at hand."

This belief has not been founded on the opinions of men, but by much prayerful searching of the Scriptures, comparing scripture with scripture. Believing that all scripture is given by inspiration, and is profitable for doctrine, reproof, correction, and instruction in righteousness, and that the same Spirit that indited the Holy Scripture is given to open its sacred meaning to the humble believer.

To expect to know the day and hour, or even the year, of the coming of Jesus in the clouds of heaven, we have never thought to be within the province of other than the great Eternal. But that the humble Bible student may, by a careful reliance on the teachings of the Word, and observance of the signs of the times, know when the coming of the Lord draweth nigh, and is even at the very doors, is a truth too palpable to require comment. (See Matt. 24: 29–33.)

Dear reader, are you in search after truth in regard to the second advent of our Lord? That he will come again you know, because there is not a more explicit, incontrovertible declaration within the lids of the Bible than this.

Why should not christians of the present day be like the christians of nearly two thousand years since? So greatly did the christians of Thessalonica long for the speedy coming of their Lord that, instead of putting it off "thousands on thousands of years hence" (as did a teacher in Israel with whom we were conversing), their almost impatient desires inclined them to think that it must be immediate. Paul corrects their mistake, telling them that day shall not come until certain things (of which we shall hereafter speak) occur. James also exhorts his suffering brethren to patience, not by telling them that the coming of their Lord was to be protracted "thousands on thousands of ages," but by the most welcome truth, "for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

If the joyous anticipations of the return of the Son of man should so fill the minds' vision of the early church about two thousand years ago, how should the vision of believers of the present day be occupied with the subject. Christians of the present day have the Old and New Testament Scriptures. The volume of Revelation is closed. The book of books is in the hand of every believer. Not only does it testify of Christ as a Redeemer from sin, but of Christ as a coming One. Oh! yes, with what certainty do the Scriptures tell us of Jesus' coming again, not an offering for sin!

That has been done. How emphatically does Paul speak of Him who was "once offered to bear the sins of many;" and then adds: "Unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation." And Titus, also, pointing the eye of his brethren upward, says: "Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ." —Ex.

CHRISTIAN CHARITY.

ADAM FRIESE.

Webster defines the word 'charity' thus: "General sense—love, benevolence, good will; the disposition of heart which inclines men to think favorably of their fellow-men, and to do them good. Theological sense—it includes supreme love to God, and universal good will to men."

Charity is a noble quality of the human heart. It excludes narrow-mindedness, bigotry and selfishness, and begets in their stead expansiveness of feelings, kindness, love and good will; a disposition or ruling inclination of heart to do good, and to think and act kindly and favorably toward mankind, and also toward the lower creatures of the animate creation.

Christian charity must necessarily be of the highest order. If common charity, without the hallowing and purifying influences of religion, is so noble, and generous, and far-reaching in its benevolence, how much purer, and lovelier, and deeper should we expect to find christian charity in its manifestations and influences, wherever its presence is found! Yea, verily, it must make the heart of its possessor to throb with impulses of brotherly kindness and love toward all who love Jesus—our elder brother—toward all who manifest the Spirit of God and faith in his Word; and even toward others also, who have not tasted that goodness and love, with a desire to do them good and to improve their condition and their hope; or, to lead them to hope (the hope begotten through faith in Christ), as unbelievers are represented as being without hope. True charity is not selfish, caring merely for its own safety and happiness, but desiring that others should enjoy or share the hope and blessings of the bright future—the unfading treasure—the eternal life and glory of the Redeemer's kingdom.

The apostle Paul attaches very great importance to charity. 1 Cor. 13. He designates it as being of more importance and more value than all the other endowments or gifts of men and angels, and to be destitute of it is to be like sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal—hollow and empty—giving forth a volume of sound, but without intrinsic value. Though possessing the gift of prophecy, the understanding of mysteries, the attainment of all knowledge, and the sum of complete faith, without charity all these amount to nothing. Said he, "And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor (which some persons imagine comprehends the full extent of charity), and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity it profiteth me nothing." Paul, do all these things which thou hast enumerated not constitute charity? Clearly not, by the argument. We see then that it is not merely a spirit of liberality in bestowing our goods or means to succor or relieve those who are in poverty and want—though doubtless such acts are good and commendable. But true charity embraces more. He gives a beautiful description of it, as being long-suffering, kind, not envious, not puffed up, of good behavior, gentle temper, thinking no evil, having no pleasure in iniquity, but rejoicing in the truth, willing to bear all things—to believe, hope, endure. See 1 Cor. 13: 4–7.

In admonishing the Colossians, Paul makes a similar enumeration as to the Corinthians of the good qualities of charity, recommending "bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering, forbearance and forgiveness toward one another; and above all, charity, which is the bond of perfectness." Col. 3: 8–16. Again, he says to Timothy: "Now the end of the commandment is charity, out of a pure heart, and a good conscience, and faith unfeigned." 1 Tim. 1: 5.

As we believe "all Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness," etc., so these passages apply to all christians, and should be remembered and observed in daily life, for our government and training in thought, word and action, and the formation of christian character, such as shall meet the approbation of our King, and secure an abundant entrance into the kingdom that shall endure forever, where unity, peace, harmony and joy, shall prevail undisturbed throughout ceaseless ages.

And now we come to consider some of the words of our Lord Jesus, uttered in his notable prayer (John chap. 17), when he had finished his earthly ministry in his mortal state and was about to be betrayed and crucified. He knew what was in man. He knew that mankind were constituted with different mental organizations and temperaments, and consequently would have different views and feelings concerning like subjects, and especially so in religious matters. That, although loving and believing in him as their Savior, many would still be to some extent carnal. Some, like the Corinthian brethren, would differ in their preferences, one being for Paul, another for Apollos, another for Cephas, and so on; and from expressing their preferences would proceed till they became contentious, by indulging the growth of a partizan spirit among them, and by the acts resulting therefrom, and thus they would bring disrepute upon the christian name, and injury upon the cause of God. For this Paul rebuked them, as manifesting a lack of the divine Spirit. Others, possessing different perceptive faculties, would see things from a different standpoint and in a different aspect. Some have a farther range of mental vision, a deeper perception, and a more ready apprehension of facts and bearings than others. Some have a greater desire for investigation and the attainment of valuable knowledge, a quicker perception of important points in doctrine and policy, a larger and clearer comprehension of truth than others. Therefore our Savior prayed for a oneness or unity of feeling or spirit among his followers. And how can it be far otherwise if the same Spirit pervades their being—if the Spirit of God is the governing and controlling power within them? His prayer was not that all believers might think and act just alike. That would be contrary to the condition of every department of nature. It would be in opposition to the laws of man's physical nature as well as to the great and eternal laws which pervade the universe.

All the works of God are diversified, yet retaining perfect harmony. Monotony is avoided, yet discord does not exist in them. So his prayer was, "Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one as we are," etc. John 17: 17–21. As children of one Father, there should be an outgoing and attracting sympathy existing among the true followers of Christ, drawing them toward one another as it were by the cords of love; and this will be the case to an increasing degree as we contemplate and appreciate the divine love toward us all, and consider our relationship as heirs together of the same everlasting kingdom.

The great Author of all things is a God of love, and his love is manifested toward his creatures not only by the dealings of his providence and his Spirit with mankind, but in the stupendous wisdom displayed by all the works of his hands in their grand and harmonious adaptability to all the wants and necessities of one another, as well the inanimate as the animate parts of his creation where their use has not been perverted or corrupted by the selfishness and wickedness of men. Not only is endless diversity everywhere manifest in creation, but a glorious unity of purpose and harmony of action.

If a man have an orchard, he does not expect the trees to be all alike, much less does he desire that they should all bring forth the same kind of fruit, but all of good quality. He wants variety. If he have a fine lot of apple trees, he wants some of them to produce sweet apples, some sour, some sub-acid, and some of various intermediate flavors. He wants some mellow apples, and some hard ones for longer keeping—some early ripe and some late—some for use in the summer, some maturing at different periods during the fall, and likewise some for the winter; some red, some yellow, some green, some red cheek, and some streaked and variegated. And so we all prefer variety, not only in fruit, but in many other things to suit our various tastes and desires for change. We would want not only a variety of apples, but of other fruits, if possible; we would want pears, and peaches, and plums, and cherries, and berries of various sorts, as they successively come in season. It is highly important that the trees be well rooted in good soil, so as to endure and bear fruit; so christians should be rooted and grounded in faith and love, bearing fruit unto eternal life. Besides we love to see shade trees of different varieties, whether surrounding our dwellings or in the public parks; as they also exist in the forest. And if we have the organs of ideality and color in our phrenological structure sufficiently developed to admire flowers, so that we would delight in neatly arranging and beholding a flower garden, we certainly would want many varieties there, not only of the various species of fine and fragrant plants and flowers, but of every color, which by their contrast so greatly enhance the beauty and grandeur of the scene.

Truly, according to the familiar phrase, "Variety is the spice of life." It refreshes, interests, and relieves from the dulness and monotony of that which would otherwise make life more dreary and burdensome than it now is.

Again, for illustration, take a company of friends who have assembled in social reunion, and for the purpose of bodily refreshment by the enjoyment of a social meal or feast together, are seated around a table profusely laden with all manner of food, prepared and arranged in such style as to be attractive to the eye, and delicious and pleasing to the palate; embracing also a number of dishes and condiments not strictly considered as articles of food by some, or such as are not necessary for physical nourishment, and to some are even injurious. Their tastes, previous habits of eating, constitutional powers, and regard to the laws of health are various. Yet would any complain? Would any murmur or object to any one or more of the articles on the table because it was disliked by them? Would such an one demand or request the removal of an article of diet or luxury, because it was not relished by all? Would such conduct be consistent with propriety? Would it be tolerated that the good will, enjoyment, and peace of the household should be thus interrupted? and does not the table contain viands amply sufficient for all and for each individually to partake of such as they may desire, and omit the rest? No one would refuse to eat because he or she could not relish everything upon the table? Certainly not. Then it is equally a breach of propriety and christian charity to refuse or object entering any particular church or religious assembly as occasion may offer, or to remain there during its continuance, because something may be said or done during the service which is not in accordance with our views of right and of truth. Like the honey bee that extracts sweetness from flowers in small quantities, let us receive or extract all the good we can, from whatever source, though in small portions, and exercise charity therewith.

(To be continued.)

1 THESS. 5: 5.

P. W. ROTE.

"Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness."

"For ye were sometime darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light. Therefore let us not sleep as do others; but let us watch and be sober. But let us who are of the day be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet, the hope of salvation; and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them; for it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret. But if we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. God is light; and in him is no darkness at all. If we say we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth. He that saith he abideth in him, ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked. But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected. Hereby know we that we are in him. The entrance of his word giveth light; it giveth understanding to the simple. In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld his glory, as the glory of the only Begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. This is the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. The light shone in the darkness, but the darkness comprehended it not. Now this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil. He saith, I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness. He that followeth me shall have the light of life."

Oh, that we might say with the Psalmist—"The Lord is my light and my salvation." "In him was life, and the life was the light of men. And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. And hath abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree; that we, being dead to sin, should live unto righteousness; by whose stripes we are healed. The night is far spent, the day is at hand. Let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light. Let us walk honestly as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envyings. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life. We have also a more sure word of prophecy, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts. Ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. For yet a little while, and he that shall come, will come, and will not tarry. And when he who is our life shall appear, then shall we also appear with him in glory. Then it will be said, Arise and shine, for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. The Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God, thy glory."

Eudora, Kansas.

PRAYING.

A. PARMALEE.

I often think, were I in the visible presence of the Master, and looking him in the face, realizing that his gaze penetrated my inmost heart, would I offer such wordy prayers to him as I now do, especially in the presence of others. Would I be so precise, or, rather, try to be (for I am not a scholar, and am very deficient in language), in my utterances? and feel such chagrin at the mistakes I make, and my lack of grammatical expression? And, would I tremble so, and my heart flutter and palpitate at the very thought of praying in meeting, were the blessed Master visibly present to listen to my petitions? And, when I had ceased, would I be entirely unconscious of three quarters of the petitions, which, in my desire to offer a "prayer," I have made?

I am of the opinion that this is an age of "prayer." It is also an age of patent medicines; but much of both are only a sham; for though both abound, man, morally and physically, is as sickly as ever. I would not make light of prayer. We cannot pray too much, if we "pray with the Spirit and with the understanding." But I am disgusted with many of my "prayers," and reader, I hope you are with yours, unless you "pray in the Holy Ghost," or have an earnest, honest desire so to do.

I want every christian to pray for me, that the Father will make me perfect in every good work, to do his will, working in me that which is well pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

Medina, N. Y.

A LADY once complained to Frederick the Great that her husband treated her badly. "That," said the Emperor, "is no business of mine." "But," said the lady, "he speaks ill of you." "That," said the Emperor, "is no business of yours."

"PREPARE WAR, WAKE UP THE MIGHTY MEN."

THE WORLD IN A STATE OF UNREST.

S. S. BREWER.

We are now living in a time most clearly indicated in the Holy Scriptures. There is a spirit of unrest manifest among the nations. The satanic agencies, seen in vision by the Revelator going forth "unto the kings of the earth, and the whole world," are doubtless now consummating their prophetic mission. A spirit of insubordination has been more or less developing itself among all the nations, until the rulers and potentates are compelled to intimidate the reckless spirit that is rampant among the masses by powder, steel and iron.

Hatred in the hearts of antagonistic forms of government seems to be alarmingly intensified. Papacy—the gory abomination of the dark ages, that claimed to rule by a divine right, is the same "infallible" monster of savage barbarity that it was when it corrupted the kings of the earth, and by their unhallowed proxyship made the nations drink of the wine of her wrath. The hatred that now exists in the hearts of those that favor Monarchialism, and those that desire Republicanism, can easily be detected by reference to the revolutions in the old world, especially in France and Rome; in a particular sense prophetic territory.

The elements of inventive genius have been taxed to their utmost tension in order to produce the most destructive implements of death; and truly the result, when deliberately considered, is to be deprecated by every one that accepts the teachings of the "Man of Sorrows." It were too long to introduce the instances of inventors; one must suffice.

"On Friday another trial of Stafford's projectile was made at the navy yard with his rifled sub-caliber shot. The most astonishing results were attained, even surpassing former experiments. Three sizes or weights were used, for the purpose of ascertaining the one best adapted to the largest penetration with the same gun. The target was constructed of eight one-inch plates and twenty-one inches of oak. Seven plates in front and one in the rear were pierced and demolished, the timbers all splintered and the bolts all broken. A penetration of six inches of iron was made with a shot of 32 pounds weight, with 10 pounds of powder from a 50 pounder Dahlgren rifled gun. Whitworth and Armstrong are all distanced with one-sixth of the charge which they use. It has never yet been equalled with these results."

All the great powers are provided with similar armaments. I took the following article from the Boston Globe of May 8th, 1873. It is headed—"Warlike Preparations."

"Notwithstanding the millennial auguries of the peace-loving prospects, the present preparations of the crowned heads of the earth are not particularly assuaging. In Russia the czar has enormously increased his army within the year, and is now arming his Cossacks with the most vicious breech-loading short rifles. Armament of all calibres is being procured and ports and strongholds fortified. The British government has appropriated more millions, this year, than usual for the construction of sea monsters of prodigious proportions and frightful power. Its army, too, has been increased, and the most murderous of the mitrailleuse, the Martini rifle, has been ordered in unstinted quantities. In France, the government has the workshops crowded with men manufacturing the chassepot and mitrailleuse, night and day. The Turkish government, unable to do its own manufacturing, has ordered a large supply of Henry rifles from Providence, and work is being pushed on them with all despatch. The Germans, having discarded the needle gun, have ordered a million of a new pattern, much like the chassepot, and it is estimated that at the end of the next twelve months the world will have an average of nine guns to every able-bodied man on the globe. At home, our own government is making arrangements for the completion of guns as destructive and death-dealing as the Gatling, and our navy is to be strengthened to a considerable extent. Really, this does seem like a prospective era of peace."

Statesmen, diplomatists and thinking men are in a state of perplexity. Foundations of governments are heaving with unwonted throes. Monarchs are troubled at the swelling of the masses that are foaming out their rage and breathing vengeance upon their oppressors.

The following article lately appeared in the Boston Globe:—

"BERLIN, Nov. 20th, 1874.

Prince Gortschakoff, the Russian Chancellor and Minister of Foreign Affairs, in conversation, to-day, with certain high officials of the German Government, said he considered the present condition of Europe was such that peace was assured for many years."

Now behold the contrast in the Boston Journal of Jan. 18th:—

"London, Jan. 18. The Times editorial says:—'In the gloom surrounding us, one thing is perceptible. All men are arming. Germany is arming en masse, and surrounding nations, including the best part of the world, cannot do otherwise. Momentary dreams of peace have fled. Germany recognizes the stern necessity. What she has won by arms she can only hold by arms.' The Times believes Germany cannot raise a third army, and that her hopes are in her navy."

The nations now are in their last prophetic phase—"angry." The seventh angel is about to sound. "The time of the dead" is very near. God's wrath will soon overwhelm the nations in utter destruction. The only refuge that remains for all that are not prepared for that great decisive day is, to flee to Christ before the Master of the house rises up and closes the door forever. Then all whose names are not written in the Book of Life will be cast into the lake of fire, which is the second death.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 3, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

SPECIAL NOTICE
To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis.

AG'T.

A DARK CLOUD IN THE EAST.

The christian and civilized world rests tremulously upon two pivots—Rome and Constantinople. These are the grand focal points of the political and ecclesiastical power of the fragmentary Roman empire. They were the two capitals of the great iron kingdom. These must be the two locations where the dark cloud of the final storm of earthly strife will commence to cast its gloomy shadow over the busy millions of the last generation. Questions connected with the continued exercise of Cæsar's power at these cities, must stir the world, and cause all eyes to turn in those directions, while the Roman nations will feel the symptoms of approaching death, and, in convulsive struggles make unparalleled efforts to continue their political existence. These are the ideas expressed by Inspiration, which are the last sentences of Roman prophetic history, and exactly agree with the present position of those cities and States.

France has evidently held the Western index since 1780, pointing to Rome; and her position more than any State indicates peace or war. Russia has occupied the position in the East, always pointing to Constantinople, claiming the right to exercise Cæsar's power at the Eastern capital. Mighty efforts to exercise associated political and ecclesiastical power at these imperial cities will, according to the Scriptures, result in the last terrible battle. The aspiring parties are not agreed to divide the world between themselves, letting the rulers at Rome govern the West, and those at Constantinople the East, but each claims to have a patent, issued by heaven, to govern, as the Vicars of Christ and heirs of Cæsar, all the world.

The Roman church and its civil rulers claim that God has purposed, and therefore it must be accomplished, that Rome shall be the capital of the world—the eternal city. The Greek church and her rulers claim the same for Constantinople. The parties in this strife are strong, and neither would attempt to accomplish its design while the other was unhindered in its efforts to defeat that object. Therefore when all is quiet in the West there is no particular movement in the East. Russia has evidently for a long time waited for the Western powers, especially France and England, to be involved in a Western war, so that their hands should be tied, that she might march her armies to Constantinople, taking the keys of the Dardanelles, and so become the dictator of the world. The Czar depends on the faith and power of the Greek church to establish his throne and altar at Constantinople, and the Pope is depending on the faith and power of the Roman church to establish his throne and altar at Rome.

These are the great questions of the age. They are producing a mighty under current which is moving the civilized world. The great military nations, in view of this, are arming as never before. The papal question, involving the right of the Pope to exercise Cæsar's power at Rome, is now moving the Western nations to occupy positions threatening immediate war.

Under these circumstances, as might be expected, Russia begins to pull the wires in the East, stirring up the barbarous tribes in Central Asia to war with each other, so as to find a reason for sending troops to maintain order, thus putting them on the road to Palestine, so as to attack the Sultan in the rear, opening a route to his capital. Two divisions of the Russian army have been recently sent in that direction for the professed purpose of holding those barbarous tribes from civil war. The Czar has instituted a complicated network around the Turkish government, connected with a number of its vassal States, tribes and classes, designed to produce a war of rebellion upon that government when the time comes for final action. This is largely produced by religious influences brought to bear upon the subjects of the Sultan. A majority of his subjects in Europe are professed christians, and many of them members of the Greek church, and therefore sympathize with the Czar's movements and his designs.

This gives the Russians great advantage, which would insure them easy victory, were it not for the interference of the Western powers. Under these arrangements, and encouraged by Russian promises, some of the strongest of the Turkish provinces have been making arrangements to declare themselves independent of the Sultan's government, and thus assist in weakening it. Greece has already obtained its independence, and Egypt has been designing for a number of years, to entirely throw off the Turkish yoke. Romania is also in the act of declaring its independence of the Sultan's government.

By Russia's suggestion, the Congress of Paris united Moldavia and Wallachia into one principality, calling it Roumania. Prince Charles of Hohenzollern, a relative of the Emperor William, was made its ruler as Hospodar. Charles, stimulated by assurances from Germany and Russia, has been seeking an opportunity ever since his accession, to revolt against the Turkish power. He now claims the right to make commercial treaties and to commission diplomatic representatives. The only link that will then bind him to the Grand Turk will be his annual tribute.

Russia, Germany and Austria have agreed to support prince Charles in this claim. The Turkish Vizier indignantly protests against this assumption of independence by Charles, and the position occupied by the great Powers. England throws the whole weight of her diplomacy with Turkey.

No circumstances could be better calculated to open the "Eastern question" and involve all eastern Europe in a terrible war, than are these. The Boston Post in an editorial upon this subject says:—

Thus the old quarrel, which culminated in the Crimean war, and which has long threatened to break out again in Central Asia, emerges ominously on the Danube. For the eastern question involves Central Asia as well as Constantinople and the Danube. Its central fact is the ambition of Russia. That ambition is known to be to possess Constantinople, to control the Ægean, to absorb Persia, and to monopolize the trade of the far Orient. By making Roumania independent she in so far weakens Turkey; and she desires above all things to see the Ottoman Empire crumble and fall to pieces. By acquiring an ascendancy in Central Asia, in Khiva and Khokand, in Bokhara and Kashgar, she accomplishes a double purpose. She puts a check upon England by threatening India, and thus paralyzes, or seeks to paralyze, her most formidable enemy. England fought in the Crimea to save Constantinople from Russian conquest. Since then she has been forced to yield the main advantage then gained, for she has consented that Russian war ships should navigate the Black Sea. For Russia to hold Central Asia is, to overawe India, and thus to tell England that she will interfere to protect Constantinople at her peril. England, on the other hand, would keep Roumania in vassalage to Turkey, so as to prop up the Sultan's power and render him as strong as possible against Russian aggression.

Why Russia, therefore, should sustain Prince Charles in his aspirations for independence is no mystery. But what motive actuates the other powers, Germany and Austria? It is probable that Germany thus pays the price of the favors and alliance of the Czar. Germany has no interests to be subserved or injured by the fate of Turkey. Her ambition is Western; that of Russia is Eastern. They do not clash; their power, therefore, may be used in conjunction to serve each other's ends. Had it not been for Russia, Austria would undoubtedly have joined France in the war of 1870. Germany has, therefore, a debt to liquidate. How better can she do so than to sustain Russia in her designs upon the Sultan's capital? With Austria the case is different. She mortally offended Russia by refusing to join with her in the Crimean war. Hitherto her policy has been, with England, to defend Turkey. But times have greatly changed with Austria. Her old allies are either crushed, like France, or timid, like England. She herself is but slowly reviving from the disasters of 1866. She needs all the support she can acquire to maintain the integrity of her own Empire. Russia and Germany have offered her this support, on condition that she will abet, or at least not oppose, their designs. After all, the propinquity of Turkey to the Austrian dominions has its inconveniences. It will perhaps be better for her to have a small independent State as a neighbor. Thus the Roumanian affair reveals, at the bottom of it, the ceaseless intrigues of Russia. It develops a new movement to obtain what was for the time lost by the fall of Sebastopol. It betrays the probability that she has at last got the co-operation of Germany and Austria. In this light, it cannot be wondered at that England is anxious and alarmed."

The London Times, in speaking upon this Roumanian question, says:—

"It was then hoped that the united forces of the two States—Turkey and England—would be sufficient to avert the danger of Austria getting the trade of the vassal States into her hands. But she had a political object as well as a commercial one in this matter; for, by securing to the vassal States, which desire, above all things, to cast off the Turkish yoke, absolute independence in commercial matters, she would place under an obligation populations which are of the same race as a considerable portion of her own subjects. Count Andrassy therefore persisted in his policy notwithstanding the opposition of England. 'Every new phase, every progressive step, in the negotiations between Austria and Roumania, was a defeat to England, which was the more severe as it was also inflicted by Russia and Germany.'"

These facts show how the great powers of Europe are preparing themselves for a mighty sanguinary struggle.

Hear a Boston Editor again:—"What is called the 'Eastern Question' has long brooded over Europe. It has been the peculiar nightmare of the periods of peace. So sensitive have the courts and statesmen become in regard to it, that an insignificant event, happening on the Danube or in Central Asia, suffices to kindle universal apprehensions of coming war. Such an event has just occurred."

A California writer evidently comprehends the subject well when he says—

"Turkey is in trouble. Austria pays no attention to the demands of Turkey, but defies Turkey by concluding a commercial treaty with Roumania. The Porte asks, whether, through 'this fresh blow at the treaty of Paris,' the day will not come 'when human efforts will be powerless to stop the torrent let loose by successive violation of treaties.' The great Eastern question is being revived, 'and,' say the public prints, 'while Russia and Austria look with longing eyes upon the Turkish provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia, Turkey is clinging to the shreds of her dominion.'"—Signs of the Times.

A New York editor says—"And besides the Eastern question, in which the Pall Mall (an English paper) apparently concedes the eventual success of the Czar, there is a lively prospect, it thinks, of the jealousy of Germany taking an active form. . . . . Without taking at all into the account, therefore, either the chronic perturbations of the Eastern question, which has never yet been 'settled' without instantly unsettling itself more perilously than before; or the internal discontents which threaten to precipitate the colossal Empire of Russia into a career of aggression abroad as the alternative of anarchy at home; or the irritation of the Scandinavian North under the stings of the German policy in the Baltic, it is quite clear that the whole body of the European world is just now in a condition of feverish excitement which cannot be indefinitely protracted, and which may at almost any moment resolve itself, at one or another point of the Continent, into a direct outbreak whereof no man can pretend to foretell either the locality or the results."—N. Y. World.

In referring to the Papal question, the same writer says—

"On the other side of the Atlantic are a-brewing wars and rumors of wars which threaten to involve not state alone with state, but whole sections of society with one another, and the civil with the ecclesiastical power from one end of the Continent to the other."—N. Y. World.

One of our most popular religious papers presents the subject thus:—

"Preparations for the final pushing of Turkey out of Europe and into Asia seem about to commence. It is stated that Austria will at once make independent treaties with Roumania, one of the northern principalities over which Turkey exercises dominion. It is not at all likely that Austria will so boldly violate the conditions of the treaty of Paris unless encouraged by others of the parties to the treaty, while the one of these most vitally interested in Turkish affairs is Russia. . . . . The effect of the recognition of Roumania as an independent power will be to rouse Servia, Bosnia, Bulgaria, and other Turkish provinces and dependencies to revolt. To spare Turkey from Europe will not be hard to do; she has cost much money and disquietude, and given nothing in return; and should it be possible to peaceably erect a respectable nation upon the ruins of a power which exists only by sufferance, and without decent excuse for existing at all, Europe will be the better for it."—Christian Union.

In a recent issue of the N. Y. World, we clip the following significant headnig of an editorial:—

"THE GATHERING STORM IN EUROPE.

One need hardly be even so much of a prophet as Mr. Disraeli to forecast the thick coming on of troublous times in the Old World. In comparison with the present attitude towards each other, and with the present internal condition of the greater Continental powers, all was perfect peace in Europe when the Emperor Napoleon III. in that famous speech delivered, if we mistake not, at Lille, prognosticated woe and war from certain 'black specks on the horizon.' They are not black specks now; they are visible clouds as big not only as a man's hand, but as the hand of a giant, which are rolling and piling themselves up over Paris and Berlin, over Madrid and Rome."

"All over Europe there hangs a huge war-cloud, which the philanthropist may hope to see dispersed without a destructive storm, but which the politician views with undisguised alarm. . . .

To revert to the military condition of Europe, if all London and its environs were emptied of inhabitants, all the houses would scarcely contain the armies of Russia, France, Germany, and Italy. Such vast preparations for war cannot be a guarantee of peace. While such prodigious forces are organized, they are like so much gunpowder under the dwellings of Europe; and in Rome sits the arch-conspirator anxious to find out where to apply the match."—London Times.

"AN ENGLISH VIEW OF RUSSIA.—The Pall Mall Gazette has recently taken several occasions to inform the English people that Russian loans were not such a very good possession after all. It insists that the greater part of the proceeds of these loans has gone to preparation for war. The canals and railroads that have been built have been created for war rather than peace. 'Conquest not commerce is their prime object; they are ways and means of waste, and not of thriving.' The Russian armament is vast, and has been largely increased during the current year, for which, it is assumed, more money must yet be forthcoming. The army is now prodigious in numbers, and the whole aspect of affairs suggests the national belief in a coming European war upon which to found something more stable than the now uncertain peace. The emperor, 'a potentate as irresponsible as the Grand Turk himself,' is liable, too, to wage war for the mere satisfaction of 'wounded family pride'—a suggestion by the way which savors of the alleged dispute as to precedence among the ladies of the royal family of England, and the slighting of the Russian duchess."

The dark cloud is evidently lowering more gloomily every week. The thunder is nearing. The storm of divine vengeance is about to burst upon a shelterless, guilty world. God has taxed the political press to sound the alarm of coming judgments, while the pulpit and religious press are nearly silent. We quote one more echo of the alarm from the London Times' editorial in the New York Sun:—

"ALL EUROPE ARMING.

London, Jan. 18.—To-day's Times, in its leading editorial article, says:

'In the gloom surrounding us one thing is perceptible. All men are arming. Germany is arming en masse, and the surrounding nations, including the best part of the world, cannot do otherwise. The momentary dreams of peace have fled away. Germany recognizes the stern necessity. What she won by arms she can hold only by arms and while arms are in her hands.'

The Times confesses that Germany cannot raise a third army. Her hopes are in her navy."

These gloomy shadows are rapidly gathering at the very localities to which the prophetic index points for the last Heaven-sent tempest. The thunder in the East echoes back from the Western mountains, while lightnings are fearfully gleaming. O christian, critically and prayerfully examine thine own life and heart by the gospel standard, for the Judge hasteth to pronounce the irrevocable sentence upon thee. Sinner, fly to the cleft Rock, for a destructive storm approacheth!

J. C.

SANTA CLARA.

Last evening (Jan. 13th,) we closed our meetings in Santa Clara. We commenced Dec. 21st. The result has been blessed. The Spirit of the Lord has been most graciously present, and many can speak of special good received. The interest continued to increase during the entire series of meetings. It was a common remark that the church is in the best condition it has ever enjoyed. Sweet harmony in Jesus is prevailing. Prominent members of other churches united with us heartily, and expressed a warm sympathy for the prosperity of the meetings. The glorious truths, for which we are condemned by many good people, who are ignorant of the reasons of our hope, received a candid hearing and a cordial welcome by several who had not understood them before. They were surprised to find the Scriptures so plain on these subjects, and equally astonished that the eyes of their understandings had been so long closed by popular fables. It was refreshing to hear their stirring testimonies, expressing their love for Jesus and his blessed word.

Brn. R. W. Wilson and D. D. Reed have rendered valuable aid in the meetings. They are devotedly attached to Jesus, and ever ready to do all in their power to advance his cause. They are delighted with the California climate, soil, fruits, and pleasant homes. It would be a great cross for them to return East to live again. Bro. Wilson thinks he would not have been alive now, had he not come to this coast. We have spent three very happy weeks in his family. It was truly a pilgrim's home. The peace of God abides there continually.

In our meetings, the coming of Christ, the sleep of the dead, the destruction of the wicked, the saints' inheritance, and holiness of heart, received special attention, in connection with other practical duties. It was very evident that no one subject produced such blessed results as that of holiness. It served to bring about a heavenly harmony between all the lovers of Jesus. The more we talked on the subject, the more they loved it, and the deeper their interest in divine things. No one opposed, but devoted and intelligent men joined in hearty co-operation; especially one who is said to be the best educated man in the place; who had been an editor and able minister of the New Testament for many years, and who has been enjoying for the past twelve years the blessing of perfect love. He is a venerable man, some seventy-five years of age, and sees clearly that we are truly in the last days, when we may expect to see Jesus in a little while. When an editor, many years ago, he wrote his views of what would take place just before the coming of Christ. What he wrote then corresponds with what is now taking place in the world.

M. G.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The semi-annual conference was commenced in San Francisco, Thursday evening, Jan. 14th, and continued over the Lord's day. A goodly number came from Vallejo, Santa Clara, San Jose, and Sacramento. The Spirit of the Lord was specially present, causing the saints to rejoice in the blessed hope of soon seeing the great King. A most pleasing harmony prevailed, and the interest steadily increased from the beginning to the end. The preachers present were Brn. T. Howell, D. D. Reed, R. W. Wilson, J. W. Turner, and Bro. Nichols from Sacramento. Two were baptized and the church was much quickened. It was very encouraging to find a general union of sentiment in relation to the importance of the subject of holiness. We find this feeling increasing and spreading in all directions, among all denominations.

The conviction is deepening upon the minds of all, who have a clear evidence of pardon, that the time is at hand when they are called upon by the Holy Spirit of God, accompanied by his word, to make a complete, and unconditional surrender of their all to Jesus, to be used just as he may direct, from this time onward, forever and ever. Those who consent to do this are receiving the gift of the Spirit, producing "perfect love," "peace," "rest," and full assurance. There is a goodly number in the California churches who know these things from happy experience. The reports given in the conference from Vallejo, Sacramento, and Santa Clara churches, stated that they were never in better condition than at the present time. Their prospects are more than ever encouraging. Much prejudice has been removed from the minds of the best members of other churches, and the truths which they have considered as heresies, they now see are the very foundation stones of the christian system. They can now listen with special interest to the reasons of our hope, and richly enjoy the blessed seasons of refreshing in our prayer and conference meetings. We have great reason for thanksgiving, in view of what the Lord is doing on the Pacific coast. When we look back and see what has been accomplished during the last four years, by the power of the Spirit and Word, we have abundant cause to rejoice, and to go forward in the good work with increased courage, and renewed hope of still greater success. As said John Wesley, we can say: "The best of all is, God is with us." Glory to his holy name. Pray for us.

M. G.

A PRAYERLESS church member is like a pump in a dry well—of no spiritual use, and an eye sore to both God and the church.

VISIONS AND PROPHECIES.

Among other things that Mrs. White learned through her visions, was the strange notion that the keeping of the seventh-day Sabbath, as taught by her associates, constituted "the seal of the living God," without which, there was no salvation. But the inspired apostle says: "Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption." Eph. 4: 30. We do not know of a single verse in the Bible which teaches that the keeping of the seventh-day Sabbath is in any sense the seal of the living God. Such a position is not sustained by the sacred Scriptures, hence must have originated with uninspired human beings, or demons. In either case, it should have no authority over the followers of Christ. Yet this Sabbath seal is made very prominent by the seventh-day people.

In the "Crisis" of July 5th, 1871, we published a notice of a seventh-day meeting in California, taken from the San Francisco Daily Chronicle, and stated that it was claimed by the seventh-day people, "that those who keep the first day of the week as a Sabbath have taken upon them 'the mark of the beast,' referred to in Rev. 14: 9–11. In their response to this given in the Herald of the Sabbath Extra, published Apr. 14th, 1874, the editors say: "The people have not received the mark of the beast in the sense of the warning message that mentions it." And then say Eld. Grant "knew when he penned it that it was false."

We plead not guilty to this grave charge. Let us look at some facts, stated by Bro. Carver, as follows:

"If we go back but a few years we find a work of thirty-two pages, published at Battle Creek (Mark of the beast and seal of the living God), devoted to the task of proving that the observance of the first day of the week as the Sabbath is the 'mark of the beast,' while the observance of the seventh day is the seal of the living God, as brought to view in Rev. 7: 1, 4, and ch. 14: 9. We quote from the summing up on pp. 25, 26. 'Reader, which will you choose? God is calling upon you to choose whether you will keep his commandments and receive his seal, or obey his rival, the beast, and receive his mark. He is warning you of the awful consequences of the latter. The great day of his wrath is just before us, and we need a shield in that day. The destroying angel is about to pass through: the men with the slaughter weapons are about to smite; the four winds are about to be loosed; and nothing but God's token, mark, or seal, will cause the destroyer to pass over us. Already has the angel ascended from the East, having the seal of the living God. The sealing message—that of the third angel—is being proclaimed; . . . and while the angel with the seal of the living God passes through, the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads.'"

In this work to which Bro. Carver refers, it was then said: "God is calling [not shall call] upon you to choose whether you will keep his commandments and receive [not shall receive] his seal, or obey his rival, the beast, and receive [not shall receive] his mark." This work shows plainly that they believed the sealing was then going on. It goes on to say:—"Already has the angel ascended from the East, having the seal of the living God."

Bro. Carver says: "We have before us a pamphlet bearing this title, 'A seal of the living God. A hundred and forty-four thousand of the servants of God being sealed in 1849.' This was published by Elder Joseph Bates at New Bedford, in 1849, and the title page itself shows very clearly that the writer believed the sealing work among the living was then in progress; and yet Smith says this work has not yet (1868) begun. In his preface addressed 'to the little flock,' he says: 'The time has now emphatically arrived in their history to mark and number them for the kingdom. Yes, one more distinctive and peculiar mark by which they will be known, not for a few years here only, but forever, even forever and ever, throughout the boundless ages of eternity is this: They are now being sealed in their foreheads with 'a seal of the living God'"

This was published by Elder Joseph Bates in 1849.

Bro. Carver very properly remarks: "This is very explicit and unmistakable language, and shows that the writer believed that as early as 1849, seventh-day Adventists were (in the language of a work on this subject in 1863), being 'sealed and labeled, Jesus Christ, care of God, heavenly Jerusalem.'"

It is a well known fact that for years it was taught and believed by the seventh-day people that "the servants of God" were "being sealed in 1849;" also before and after that period. This was confirmed by Mrs. White's visions. Elder Bates says: "God, in answer to united prayer, gave us the clear light upon it through Sr. Ellen G. White." . . .

God gave Sr. White the following vision: "The angels have not let go; for the saints are not all sealed. The time of trouble has commenced; it is begun. The reason why the four winds have not let go is because the saints are not all sealed. . . . Why, they are just ready to blow. There's a check put on because the saints are not sealed. Yea, publish the things thou hast seen and heard, and the blessing of God will attend. Look ye! that rising is in strength and grows brighter and brighter. That truth [about the Sabbath] is the seal; that's why it comes last.

The shut door we have had. God has taught and taught; but that experience is not the seal; and that commandment, that has been trodden under foot, will be exalted. And when ye get that you will go through the time of trouble.'

This is the vision, and Elder Bates says of it:—

'The above was copied word for word, as she spake in vision, therefore it's unadulterated; some sentences escaped us, and some we have not copied here. This, probably, is sufficient to show the answer to our prayers. Here first we were taught to publish the sealing message, and God's blessing would follow. Second, that the time of trouble had commenced. Third, that the four angels had not let go, because the saints were not all sealed. Fourth, that it was God which restrained the powers. Fifth, that the Sabbath and the shut door were the connecting truths that was now the present truth. Sixth, that the Sabbath is the seal, because it's the greatest and the last truth, and continues forever. Seventh, that the ascending from the rising of the sun is symbolical, and represents the rising of the holy Sabbath from the Eastern continent (bordering on the ocean) of these United States."

Bro. Carver proceeds to say:—

"We now have the evidence before us as to when and how this sealing doctrine arose. It seems that the subject had been discussed among them to some extent, previous to this vision; but they were undecided as to the propriety of publishing it to the world until they were authorized by Mrs. White's vision; so that the visions are entitled to the credit (if it be a credit) of proclaiming to the world that at that time, 1849, the seventh-day Adventists were being sealed for the kingdom of God. This vision was seen about the 10th of Nov. 1848, and the book containing the sealing message, as it was called, and from which we have given the above testimony, was published the following January, 1849.

But now to show that Elder Bates has not misrepresented Mrs. White, as to what constitutes the seal, and as to some then being sealed, we would refer to a vision . . . published over Mrs. W's own signature, in the same month and year that Eld. Bates' book appeared. That vision is addressed 'to those who ARE receiving the seal of the living God.' In this vision she says: 'If the mind is filled with other things, present truth is shut out, and there is no place in our foreheads for the seal of the living God. This seal is the Sabbath.'"

It is a settled point, that the seventh-day people taught that the sealing began some twenty-five years ago, and this was confirmed by Mrs. White's visions; but now they say, on the Pacific coast, that the sealing is in the future. Elder Bates says of Mrs. W's vision, seen about Nov. 19, 1848, and published in Jan. 1849:—"The Sabbath and the shut door were the connecting truths that was now the present truth." Thus we find the "shut door" as fully sustained by her visions as the seventh-day Sabbath; and also that the sealing began full twenty five years in the past. Hence, we say again, we plead "not guilty" to the charge in the Herald of the Sabbath Extra. What we stated in the Crisis was in keeping with their teaching, when the foundation stones of their new system were laid in harmony with Mrs. White's visions.

The more we examine this system, and its results, the worse it looks; and the more fully we are satisfied it is not of the Lord. Could our readers see what we have seen and heard on the Pacific coast of the fruits of the seventh day movement, as sustained by Mrs. White's visions, we are sure they would have condemned us if we had remained silent, instead of sounding a note of warning. The proof is overwhelming to show that her visions and prophecies are not from the Lord, nor any good angel.

M. G.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

We feel very grateful to our brethren and sisters for their liberality in writing for our paper. We hope you will continue to write, and may the Lord give you wisdom to write just what is needed to assist the household of faith to keep all the commandments of God with a pure heart, and be fully prepared to meet the coming Judge.

We ask you to be patient with us if your articles do not appear in the Crisis as soon as you would have them. A delay in many cases is unavoidable, because we have on hand a supply for several weeks. We are glad to have it so, only we would not like to have you disappointed by their late appearance. If many of the writers could abridge a little, expressing the same ideas with less words, making the articles shorter, they could appear earlier, and doubtless accomplish more good. We should be happy to receive more short letters, expressing a few items of experience, prosperity of meetings, faith, hope, and expectations of coming glory. Do not try to write long letters, but short ones. Do not write fine, or on lines too near together, or with pale ink or pencil; for it has to lay quite a distance from the compositor's eye when it is set up, and they cannot read it. Some of the manuscript has to be re-written or thrown away. Will our friends favor us in this matter?

J. C.

"A STATEMENT OF FACTS
RELATING TO
Elder Joshua V. Himes."

The above is the title of a Pamphlet of 27 pages octavo, prepared by Eld. Miles Grant, and others, and issued by the Adv. Chris. Pub. Society, giving facts as brought out at Rochester, N. Y., in 1869, down to the latter part of 1874, including a portion of the correspondence which passed between Eld. Himes and counsel, and the Committee of the Society; also noticing sundry statements found in "Himes' Journal" for Oct., Nov. and Dec., 1874.

This Pamphlet is published by the Society from a solemn sense of duty to the cause of truth and righteousness, to answer inquiries for facts in the case of Eld. Himes, and to give the desired information needed at the present time.

Price, single copy, 5 cts.; six copies, 25 cts; twelve copies for 50 cts.; one hundred for $3.50 by mail. By Express, or when taken at our Office, $3 per hundred.

AG'T.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—I acknowledge with many thanks the receipt of $17.50, by the hand of Bro. Geo. T. Adams, for the destitute brethren in Kansas. It came a blessing from the hand of God, and was received as such by those to whom I distributed it. God bless the donors.

Dear brethren, could you be here and see and know the destitution of the people as I do, no urging would be necessary to incite you to prompt and liberal action for their relief. The weather is intensely cold, and many are barefoot and half naked, and some are greatly in want of food. Dear brethren, pray for the suffering here, and do what you can to answer your prayers in their behalf. Pray for me.

ELD. J. S. THORP.

THERE were but three words in the petition which Peter gasped out; but they were sufficient for his purpose. They reached the ear of Jesus, and his heart too. Not length, but strength is desirable. A sense of need is a mighty teacher of brevity. Verbiage is to devotion as chaff to the wheat. Precious things lie in small compass, and all that is real in prayer in many a long address, might have been uttered in a sentence as short as that which burst from the soul of the sinking apostle.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$270.89
C. N. Crawford	15.00
O. P.	5.00
C. B. Fellows	5.00
A. Richardson	1.00
M. G.	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Collins	1.00
M. O. West	.75
R. Joslyn	.87
A Friend	.50

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$79.83
Mrs. L. March	1.00

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,
P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$3,071.20
C. N. Crawford	15.00
Emily A. Sawyer (pledge paid)	10.00
Charles B. Fellows	5.00
"C."	2.00
M. O. West	2 00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.
Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$144.85
C. N. Crawford	15.00
Bela Atwood (for the poor)	10.50
T. W. Brooks	5.00
G. H. Bundy	1.00
To help the hungry poor (no name)	1.00

Correspondence.

From Bro. G. W. Turner.

Dear Friends of Jesus, both East and West:—I wish to let you know that I am still in the land of the dying, and hope for the land of the living. I came to this coast mainly to find a more congenial climate, that mortal life might be prolonged a little while; and although the curse rests heavily everywhere, yet I think it has been a benefit to me, and I can fully endorse what Bro. Grant has written in years past about the climate of this country. There is not as much rain here as usual this winter, and therefore they do not expect great crops another year. The land is very rich and productive, and on low lands and by irrigation they will raise a great deal, even if it is dry.

As there has been so much said of late about the country, I will not take up the valuable space of the Crisis for that, but will say a few words about the cause of our Redeemer.

I preached for the church three or four Sabbaths in San Francisco, and found them well united and trying to provoke one another to love and good works. They have a good place of worship, and although laboring under a little financial embarrassment now, yet they are trusting and hoping that the Lord will open the way to relieve them. The Second Conference for this coast convenes there on the 14th of Jan., 1875. They hope to have a refreshing time. I have been to Santa Clara Valley—the garden of California. This is the home of Brn. Wilson and Reed, and was also of Bro. Fassett. I heard Bro. Grant preach three discourses here. I went to work with my hands as well as heart, at Pacheco, thirty miles from San Francisco. Was there eight weeks, and raised up, by the blessing of God, the truths of the Lord, and eight embraced them and are rejoicing in them. I am now at Vallejo, where there is a strong band of faithful brethren and sisters, who are laboring faithfully not only to keep themselves in the love of the truth, but to love others. They have a good substantial house of worship, and are strong in faith, love, and good works. They have no regular preacher, but have brethren among them who are able teachers.

There is a great field here for missionary labor. Come, some of you Eastern laborers, start for California, trusting in the Lord, and he will bless your labor. It seems to me that the time of labor is almost over, and what we do must be done quickly. Be faithful, dear ones in Wisconsin, where I have labored, and be careful that no man take thy crown of eternal life.

My address is San Francisco for the present.

From Bro. J. T. Ongley.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—Another year is past and gone, and with it many trials and disappointments, besides some seasons of rejoicing. We have tried in our weak way to warn our fellows of a coming judgment, and to show them the preparation necessary to be able to stand. Some, thank the Lord, have been obedient to the Word, by putting on Christ by baptism; some have been almost persuaded, and others perhaps, like Pharaoh of old, have become hardened. The responsibility that rests upon ministers and people is great. The Word is proving "a savor of life unto life, or of death unto death." Others, of like precious faith, in isolated places, have been encouraged and strengthened in the blessed hope by our visits among them. We have found so many hungry souls in our travels that we dare not settle down in one place and preach to a small church, although we have often been requested to do so; for we have constant calls to go into some new place to preach "this gospel of the kingdom." Frequently we go without expecting to even get our expenses paid; yet we go, trusting in the Lord that the way will be opened, and thank God, it has been thus far, and we will praise him, "for he is good, and his mercy endureth for ever."

Before and since the tent-meeting season we have taken a circuit of over five hundred miles. Have visited ten or twelve different places once each month, thereby making our expenses quite large; yet we have not lacked any good thing, and hope our labor in the Lord may prove to the salvation of some souls in the blessed kingdom. We have heard of some preachers that would not go out because they did not get any remuneration for their labor. Brethren, "trust in the Lord, and do good, and verily thou shalt be fed." Do not think of the cattle and sheep, and fine houses, but of saving souls. Soon the laborer will receive his penny.

Think not, brethren and sisters, that we wish to take off the responsibility that rests upon you. There are those that make a sacrifice, but they are few. Many think they make a sacrifice by giving twenty-five cents, and call it the "widow's mite." The "widow's mite" was all she had. That was sacrifice. Some of us have left all—father, mother, wife, children, houses, lands, etc., to go into the field and proclaim the truth of Christ's coming. O Lord, help us to think of the small sacrifice we make, and the great sacrifice Christ made for us; and then we shall feel more than ever to do what we can this year, to honor and glorify his name. Pray for us, that we may do our duty and gain that "rest that remains for the people of God."

The past year we have traveled in all 8804 miles, 6818 by R. R., 1292 by other conveyances, 694 on foot, preached 254 discourses, attended 65 preached by others, and one discussion of three days and four nights; held four tent meetings, preached in fourteen different meeting-houses, twenty-one private houses, twenty school-houses, and twice out of doors. These meetings were in the States of New York and Pennsylvania, in the counties of Potter, Venango, Bradford, Tioga, Lycoming and Crawford, Penn., and in the counties of Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Erie, Steuben, Chemung, Livingston and Monroe, N. Y. Baptized fifteen souls. Received $556.42; expenses, $235.32. Received for services, $321.10. Sent 279 letters and cards, and received 154. Yours with a thankful heart, in hope.

From Sr. P. King.

Dear Bro. and Srs.:—I wish to give a short sketch of my experience. When I was ten years old, I was convicted of my sins, and at fifteen I was converted to God, I trust. I followed our dear Savior in baptism and joined the Freewill Baptist church, in Bradford, Me.

About eighteen years ago a neighbor sent me a tract—"Death not Life"—and when we had read it we began to search the Scriptures for the truth. Thank the Lord! we found it. Our Bible was a new one to us. But oh! what a cross it was to come out and advocate the truth. I knew I should have great opposition in my father's family and the church; but we took up the cross. I dedicated myself to God twelve years ago this winter. We had two little boys and a little girl die with the dyptheria; but through all this the Lord was with us. And our hope is that Jesus will come soon, and bring our loved ones from the land of the enemy. This thought rejoices my soul. My health is very poor, and I am deprived of the society of those of like precious faith. The Crisis is all the preaching we have; and it comes like a grape-vine loaded with ripe fruit. You do not know how much good it does me, away here in North-Western Iowa, to hear from my brethren and sisters through the Crisis. I do not see how we could do without it. Dear brethren and sisters, pray for me that I may have on the wedding garment when Christ comes.

Willida, Ia.

From Bro. D. S. Clark.

Dear Brethren in Christ:—For your encouragement I wish to let you know what the good Lord is doing for the little company that are looking for his soon coming and kingdom, in Sparta, Wis. We commenced a protracted meeting some five or six weeks ago, and the good Lord has been with us from the first. One hundred or more have made a start to serve the Lord, thirty-six have been baptized, and more are to go forward next Lord's day. Still the good work moves forward. Pray for us. Let us work while the day lasts.

Sparta, Wis., Jan. 8th, 1875.

From Bro. F. M. Henry.

Dear Brethren:—I have been sick for four months, and my poor wife (N. M. Henry) has lain at death's door for a long time. She has been slowly improving for the last three weeks, but is not able yet to sit up only for a few minutes. She is but a wreck of her former self. I thought many of the readers of the Crisis would be glad to hear from her.

Bunker Hill, Ill., Jan. 2nd, 1875.

Obituaries.

CADY. In Middlebury, Penn., Dec. 26th, 1874, of paralysis, Adalina Cady, aged 59 years.

Sr. Cady was beloved by all who knew her. As a wife and mother she was kind and affectionate, anticipating the wants of all, and administering to their necessities as far as was in her power. She was not noted for her many words, yet she gave evidence that she was a christian, and looked forward to the coming of Jesus and the resurrection to life at the last trump. She leaves a husband and three children, with many other relatives to mourn for one they loved; but they "sorrow not as those that have no hope;" for they believe as "Jesus died and rose again, even so, them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." Funeral services by Eld. C. D. Binney, of the Christian denomination. Sermon from Ps. 17: 15—"As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness. I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness." E.

DEARBORN. In Holden, Me., Jan 19th, 1875, Joseph Dearborn, aged 67 years.

Bro. D. was an active member of the church in Bangor, and a sober, humble and sincere christian. He gave his last testimony for Jesus at our rooms, 15 Centre St., at our prayer meeting, Friday evening, Jan 15th. He was taken violently ill Sabbath evening, the 17th, and died the morning of the 19th, much beloved and deeply lamented by all who knew him. Seven orphan children are left in deep affliction; the mother having fallen asleep five years ago. Funeral service by the writer, assisted by Eld. A. Ross, of Concord, N. H. Text 2 Thess. 1: 10.

F. A. BAKER.

CAREY. In Stowe, Vt., Jan. 10th, 1875, Jennie O., only daughter of Hudson M. and Elmira A. Carey, aged 3 years and 3 months.

Bro. and Sr. Carey are lovers of the gospel hope, and although the enemy has entered their home on the hill-side, and robbed them of their lovely child, they mourn not as those who have no hope. May God in mercy sustain them in this hour of deep affliction! Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from Psalms 23; 4.

H. W. WILLIAMS.

LEAVITT. In Richmond, Me., Nov. 27th, 1874, Bro. George W. Leavitt, aged 60 years.

Bro. Leavitt sleeps in hope. His faith was strong in the coming of the Lord. The loss of his wife a few months ago brought him to despair, and to an untimely death. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer. L. RHOADES.

BEAN. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Upton, Me., Oxford Co., Dec. 17th, 1874, Bro. Charles E. Bean, aged 41 years.

He leaves a wife and seven children, with other relatives to mourn his loss. But they sorrow not without hope. Bro. B. was a great sufferer, but he bore his sufferings with christian fortitude. He prayed to be laid away to rest. He fell with the armor on, and prepared for a part in the first resurrection. May this sad affliction be the means of bringing the mourning friends into the fold of Christ, so they may meet him in the kingdom of bright glory, to part no more.

M. J. COOLEDGE.

DARLING. In North Hadley, Mass., Jan. 10th, 1875, Joseph P. Darling, aged 67 years.

He was brought to Springfield for burial. Services were at the house of his nephew. His aged and only sister, who had lived with him, was present at the funeral. Both were believers in the soon coming of Christ.

Words of comfort were spoken from John 11: 23—"Thy brother shall rise again."

Sister, His promise is sure,
Thy hope is not in vain;
Christ "is our life." he'll soon appear,
"Thy brother shall rise again."

H. PRATT.

WHITNEY. In Honeoye Falls, N. Y., Dec. 25th, 1874, Calvin T. Whitney, aged 73 years.

He had been a believer in Jesus fifty years. Bro. Whitney has been an active, earnest worker in the vineyard of Christ. He was a man, in all his relations with the church, who believed that if he heard the Master at last say, "Well done," it would be because he had done something. The writer preached the funeral discourse from 2 Timothy 4: 7, 8, and we laid him away to sleep until the morning. God bless his widow.

W. J. HOBBS.

ASHTON. At Berckhill, Jan, 15th, 1875, Freelove Ashton, aged 73 years.

They have laid her away in the earth to await the coming of Christ to bring her to life and immortality. She leaves a family of eight to mourn her loss.

"She shall sleep, but not forever,
In the lone and silent grave;
Blessed be the Lord who taketh,
Blessed be the Lord who gave.
In the bright eternal city
Death can never, never come;
In his own good time he'll call us
From our rest, to home, sweet home."

Words of comfort by the writer, from Job 14: 15.

JOSEPH MIETT.

WEEKS. In Chelsea, Me., Jan. 2nd, 1875, Bro. Joseph Weeks, aged about 80 years.

Bro. Weeks went to see Bro. Kennedy a short distance from his home. He did not feel well, and in returning, fell dead in the street. He was a living christian, and loved the worship of God. He sleeps, but not forever. He was father of Eld. George Weeks. S. K. PARTRIDGE.

VAN-ANTWERP. In Mattawan, Mich., Jan. 4th, 1875, Little Dell, infant daughter of O. A. and E. Van-Antwerp, aged seven months.

Another lamb is safely sleeping.

"Go to thy rest, fair child,
Go to thy dreamless bed
While yet so gentle, undefiled,
With blessing on thy head!

Fresh rose-buds in thy hands,
Leaves on thy pillow laid;
Haste from this dark and fearful land,
Where flowers so quickly fade."

M. W.

EASTMAN. In Spring Creek, Warren Co., Pa., Jan. 6th, 1875, Sr. Elizabeth Eastman, aged 79 years.

Sr. Eastman experienced religion in early life, but united with no church till she heard the good news of Jesus speedy return to earth. This was a source of great rejoicing to her till the close of her pilgrimage. She died as she lived—a christian. Sermon by the writer from 2 Sam. 14: 14.

NEWELL WOOD.

COULTER. At Clinton, Mass., Jan. 20th, 1875, Arthur M., son of John T. and Olive L. Coulter, aged 2 years and 6 months.

May God bless with his salvation these stricken parents, and aged grandmother. Mourn not. Jesus is soon coming to swallow up death in victory.

GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Married.

HULL—KNOBLE. In Alton, N. Y., Jan. 13th, 1875, by Eld S. C Gove, Mr. FRANKLIN PIERCE HULL, of North East N. Y., and Miss HATTIE KNOBLE, of Sodus.

KIMBALL—CONNELL. At Meredith Centre, N. H., Jan. 6th, 1875, by Elder N. Glidden, Mr. SMITH S. Kimball, of Meredith, and Mrs. DOLLIE MCCONNELL, of Plymouth, N. H.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Madrid, Jan. 23. King Alfonso issued two proclamations to-day. One is addressed to the inhabitants of the Basque Provinces and Navarre. In this the King says that he longs for peace, but will fight for his rights; that he is the representative of the dynasty which their fathers swore to obey; that he is a Catholic, and will see that full justice is again done to the church, and that if they will lay down their arms they will see prosperity revive in Cuba, and will regain the freedom enjoyed under Queen Isabella. He offers full amnesty to all who comply with his terms. The other proclamation is addressed to the army, from whom the king demands abnegation and energy.

Jan. 27. Various rumors are in circulation here of a compromise with Don Carlos.

London, Jan. 28. The electors of Greenwich at a meeting to-night adopted a resolve expressing confidence in Gladstone and regretting his retirement from the leadership of the Liberal party.

Paris, Jan. 28. In the Assembly to-day the debate on the Constitutional bill of M. de Ventavon was resumed. The Right moved the withdrawal of all the constitutional measures before the chamber. The motion was rejected.

Laboulaye then moved an amendment to Ventevon's bill, providing that the Government be composed of a Senate, Chamber of Deputies and President of the Republic, who shall be chief of the executive power.

Laboulaye said the object of his amendment was to recall the fact that a republic was the existing government of France, and to convert the fact into law. The Republic alone could give the country security, while a monarchy was an impossibility.

M. de Labassetiere opposed the motion and demanded the retoration of a monarchy.

Louis Blanc opposed the creation of a Presidency, which had been fatal to the Republic. The coup d'etat would have been avoided if the Presidency had not been established in 1848. He moved that the clause concerning the Presidency read as follows: The Government of France is a Republic. His speech caused great excitement in the House. The debate was closed.

The Right succeeded in carrying a motion that a vote be taken to-morrow, and the sitting was adjourned.

The position taken by M. Blanc is believed to indicate a division in the Republican ranks, which will lead to the defeat of the Laboulaye amendment, the formal proclamation of the Republic.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

City of Mexico, Jan. 18, via Havana, Jan. 25. —Several Sisters of Charity, who had reached Vera Cruz on their way to France, have been brought back to this city on the charge of carrying off a young girl against her consent and her parents' wishes. The girl has been returned to her family. She testifies that the Sisters intercepted and withheld her correspondence with her parents, and forced her to go with them out of the country.

New Castle, N. B., Jan. 28. Great excitement still prevails over the Caroquette riot. Two detachments of the Newcastle Field Battery of Artillery left this afternoon for the scene of the disturbance. Detachments also started from Chatham to-day. One of the Frenchmen wounded yesterday has died.

New York, Jan. 23. Two children left alone in their parents' house at Crawford, N. J., yesterday, were burned to death, the house being burned to the ground. The cause of the fire is unknown.

FIRES.—Athol, Mass., loss $25.000; Brooklyn, loss $30,000; Beverley, Mass., loss $20 000; New York, loss $34,000; Hartford, Ct., loss $150,000; Utica, N. Y., loss $50,000; Rutland, Vt., loss $200.000.

— A Dr. Glen, said to be the largest farmer in California, has just sold his last year's crop of grain for nearly half a million dollars in gold. Agriculture out there seems to afford golden harvests.

In Brief.

— It is believed that incendiaries set the fires in the Navy Department at Washington.

— It is reported that an unusually large concentration of troops in Russian Poland has taken place.

— Utah gained nearly $2,500,,000 in wealth during 1874.

— Delmonico, the lion tamer, has been devoured at Berlin by one of his own lions.

— Nearly one-third of the railroad locomotives in the world, said to be 45,667, are in the United States.

— Throughout the past year the French troops have been largely exercised in night marching.

— Snow drifts fifteen feet deep have suspended the running of trains on the Winona and St. Peter (Wis.) railroad, west of New Ulm.

— Few houses in London can be thoroughly warmed in winter. There are no furnaces, few stoves, and steam is not available. Open grates are the rule.

— A mother and eight children were burned to death at Boucherville, Canada.

— William E. Sturtevant, the murderer of Simeon and Thomas Sturtevant and Mary Buckley at Halifax, Mass., in February last, has been sentenced to be hung.

— Mr. William Sawyer, a respectable citizen of Pepperell, was found Saturday near Nashua, N. H., frozen to death on the railroad. He had gone for medicine for his wife, and is supposed to have missed a returning train, losing his life in an attempt to walk home.

Big Invention.

Lloyd, the famous map man, who made all the maps for Gen. Grant and the Union army, certificates of which he published, has just invented a way of getting a relief plate from steel so as to print Lloyd's Map of American Continent—showing from ocean to ocean—on one entire sheet of bank note paper, 40x50 inches large, on a lightning press, and colored, sized and varnished for the wall so as to stand washing, and mailing anywhere in the world for 25 cents, or unvarnished for 10 cents. This map shows the whole United States and Territories in a group, from surveys to 1875, with a million places on it, such as towns, cities, villages, mountains, lakes, rivers, streams, gold mines, railway stations, etc. This map should be in every house. Send 25 cents to the Lloyd Map Company, Philadelphia, and you will get a copy by return mail.

Notices.

New Hampshire Conference.

The first Quarterly Conference is due in February, and there has been no call for it. If any church or community wish it to be held with them, please notify the Committee soon, so we can give notice.

LEVI ALLEN, Lake Village,
E. A. STOCKMAN, E. Rochester, } Com.
D. W. DAVIS, Sutton,

Important!

The Tent Meeting Conference Committee have run the tent the last season from July to Nov., and we find a debt on our hands of more than a hundred dollars for services rendered. This is due where it is needed. There are pledges unpaid which should be sent forthwith to the Treasurer. Any others who wish to help bear the burden, will remit their donations to Charles Goodrich, Treasurer. Per order of the Committee,

L. BOUTELL.

BRIMFIELD, MASS.—There will be a protracted meeting during my stay at Brimfield, from Feb. 7th to the 14th. The lovers of Jesus and of his kingdom are invited to come and help from all the surrounding towns. H. F. CARPENTER.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a protracted meeting in Hampton, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, and continue over Sunday, the 21st. Come, brethren, and help in this meeting. ENOCH MORRILL.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, a protracted meeting will be held in the Emery school-house, in West Canterbury, N. H., commencing Friday, Feb. 21st, and holding over the Sabbath. D. F. LEAVITT.

CONFERENCE.—There will be a Conference in Palmyra, at the Gale school-house, commencing Friday, at two o'clock P. M., Feb. 12th, and hold over Sunday.

Elder S. K. Partridge and other preaching Brn. are expected to preach the Word. We hope our preaching and lay brethren and sisters will make an effort to attend this meeting, ready to work for the salvation of sinners and the strengthening of the Lord's scattered children. This is a new place for a Conference, and we hope all will unite to help make the meeting a blessing to the people. Call on Bro. Oscar Farnum, who will provide places of entertainment for all. OSCAR FARNUM. SAM'L BOWMAN. JER. CARR.

MEETING.—The Lord willing, a meeting will commence in Whitefield, Partridge school-house, Friday evening, Feb. 5th, and hold over Sunday. All are invited. Call on Alonzo Partridge, Kingsbury Partridge, and George Linn. Bro. John R. Hall and others will be there to preach the Word.

S. K. PARTRIDGE.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.

WARREN J. HOBBS.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q., Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

Those wishing to preach in Rochester Village, N. H., will please correspond with the Pastor, J. H. F. Varney.

Those wishing to preach in Manchester, N. H., will please correspond with Wm. A. Lovejoy.

Those desiring to labor in East Concord, N. H., will please correspond with Eld. Enoch Morrill, South Deerfield, N. H., or Lyman Knowles East Concord, N. H.

Those wishing to preach at Bonny Eagle, Me., will please correspond with Orrin Smith.

THAT BOOK.
"History of the Second Advent Message, Doctrine and People."

This work is now ready for all. It contains the history of the rise and progress of the proclamation of the Second Advent of Christ, near at hand, from A. D. 1820 to the present time, in America, Europe, Asia, and Africa; with sketches of the great reformations accompanying it; of many of the chief pioneers associated with it; the great opposers, and their futile efforts to defeat the work. Records of its rapid progress, and of many of the remarkable manifestations of God's guiding hand in the work. Discussions, lectures, sermons, dialogues, and chief points of doctrine advocated by the various classes of believers in the Lord's soon coming.

Records and tables of the prophetic times of Daniel and John, as advocated by the chief Protestant writers, all of whom terminate the periods between 1836 and 1880. A sketch of Luther and his times, compared with ours. His portrait, and portraits of twenty Second Advent pioneers, with discourses on Daniel 2nd, 7th and 8th chapters, illustrated with fine wood cuts, with much other valuable matter.

Our subscribers will be supplied at prices agreed on when orders with cash (and 20 cts. for postage) are received. All who wish to buy the work will be supplied, postpaid, at $3.50. As our object is not to make money, but to have this message and its history go as far and as cheap as possible, we put it as low as we can. We have endeavored to make it a book that all who are really associated in this great movement will buy, and that real inquirers will think best to buy. The book contains 711 octavo pages, neatly bound in cloth, gilt side.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For sale at the Crisis office.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every afternoon and evening this week, and Sunday, Feb. 7th. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.
Wm. C. Stewart.........Sundays, Feb. 14th and 21st

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
I. I. Leslie..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
I. C. Wellcome....Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, March 14th

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
Wm. N. Pile..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
A. W. Bradford..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
C. E. Barnes..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Natick, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 31st
J. COUCH.

New Bedford, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
L. BOUTELL.

East Weymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. GOODRICH.

South Vernon, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Wilbraham, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Putnam, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
H. PRATT.

Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. S. WHITE.

Mattapoisett, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Commence meeting Saturday evening previous, the 6th.
Fairhaven..........Sundays, Feb. 14th and 28th
Keene, N. H..........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Brimfield, Mass..........Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Ashburnham..........Thursday evening, Feb. 4th
Fitchburg..........Friday evening, Feb. 5th
Lawrence..........Monday evening, Feb. 8th
Haverhill..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th
Exeter, N. H..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th
Manchester, N. H....Thursday and Friday, Feb. 11th and 12th.
East Concord..........Saturday evening, Feb. 13th
Chichester, N. H., Pine Ground (Chapel) Monday evening, Feb. 15th.
Pittsfield, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Clarktown..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th
Pittsfield..........Thursday evening, Feb. 18th
Manchester..........Friday evening, Jan. 19th
Nashua, Monday, if desired..........Feb. 22d
Manchester..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d
Lake Village..........Feb. 24th and 25th
Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th.
East Concord..........Monday, March 1st
Dover, N. H..........Tuesday evening, March 2d
Great Falls (Franklin Hall)..........March 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)..........March 4th
South Elliot, Me..........Friday evening, March 5th
Newcastle, N. H. (if desired)..........Saturday evening, March 6th. (Please inform me.)
Rye, N. H..........Tuesday evening, March 9th
Seabrook, N. H..........Wednesday evening, March 10th
Newburyport (if Bro. Pike appoints) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Lynn, Mass..........Friday evening, March 12th
HIRAM MUNGER.

Great Falls, N. H..........Monday evening, Feb. 15th
Rye, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Hampton, N. H..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th and every evening, and over Sunday.
ENOCH MORRILL.

West Poland, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
L. L. HOWARD.

Waterbury, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Waterbury, Vt. (John Parker neighborhood) every Tuesday evening for the present. A. A. HOYT.

Newark, N. J..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
A. A. PHELPS.

Pittsfield, N. H. (at the Bethel) evenings, Feb. 9th, 10th, and 11th. E. A. STOCKMAN.

Lake Village, N. H. (North Church)...Sun., Feb. 7th
ELD. KIMBALL.

Square Pond, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
I. B. POTTER.

Warren Summit, N. H..........evening, Feb. 5th
Laconia, N. H., with J. H. Evans...Sunday, Feb. 21s
D. EASTMAN.

Warren Summit..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
G. H. WALLACE.

Melbourne Ridge, P. Q..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
F. M. DRAKE.

Bridgewater, Vt..........Feb. 4th, and over the 7th
Keene, N. H..........evening, Feb. 9th
South Ashburnham, Mass..........evening, Feb. 10th
Granby, Mass. (Bro. Shumway's)..evening, Feb. 18th
Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street)..Sunday, Feb. 21st
North Rutland, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Warren Summit, N. H....Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th
Guilford, N. H..........Thursday evening, Feb. 11th
South Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
MRS. J. DAVIS.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelor Street)...Sabbath, Feb. 7th
Chicopee Falls..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
Winsted, Conn..........Sabbath, Feb. 21st
Brimfield..........Sabbath, Feb. 38th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Albion (at Bro. N. Tuck's)..........Feb. 11th
Palmyra Conference......Feb. 12th, and over Sunday
Dexter..........Feb. 17th, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Natick, Mass..........Sunday, March 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Holden, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
WM. N. PILE.

Wolfborough (Pleasant Valley) Friday eve., Feb. 19th
Melvin Village..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Moultonboro (Ladd school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d.
Sandwich (where Bro. Gilman Clark may arrange) Wednesday evening, Feb. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Meredith Neck..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Newhampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Tuesday evening, March 2nd.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)...Wednesday evening, March 3d.
West Alton..........Thursday evening, March 4th
J. G. SMITH.

Salem, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Newcastle, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, March 14th
J. F. CHAMBERLAIN.

Northwood, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Canaan, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dorchester (Town House)..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Warren Summit..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H..........Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H..........Snnday, March 14th
C. R. PARSONS.

Palmer, Mass..........3d Sunday in each month
Wilbraham, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
H. H. TUCKER.

Belmont, N. H..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Boscawen, N. H. (Gulf school-house)....Sab., Feb. 7th
Andover, N. H. (Cilleysville)..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
East Canaan, N. H.....Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and over the Sabbath, Feb. 21st.
Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, March 7th. SIMEON ROBY.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)......Sunday, Feb. 7th
East Concord, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Canaan, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Newmarket, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Lee, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. L. CHUTE.

Putnam, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
BENJ. WOODSIDE.

Southbridge..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
West Woodstock Ct. (Methodist meeting-house) Sunday, Feb. 14th. PORTER J. SMITH.

Bangor, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
F. A. BAKER.

Morrill Mills, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
JER. CARR.

East Bethel..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Camp Brook..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Plymouth, Me..........Saturday evening, Feb. 13th and over Sunday, the 14th.
Corinna, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
GEO. W. BROWN.

Moultonboro Neck, N. H..........Sabbath, Feb. 7th
So. Tamworth (Stanley school-house) Sab., Feb. 14th
Albany (at Bro. Hiram Mason's) evening, Feb. 17th and at Bro. Nickerson's evening, Feb. 18th.
STEPHEN DINSMORE.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month
C. W. RATHBUN.

Montpelier, Vt..........evening, Feb. 11th
East Montpelier, Vt..........evening, Feb. 12th
Middlesex, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Waterbury, Vt..........evening, Feb. 16th
West Stowe, Vt..........evening, Feb. 18th
Stowe Hollow..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
If these conflict, write me at East Topsham, Vt.
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Sabatis (Jones' Hall)......Friday evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday, Feb. 14th. J. A. LIBBY.

Dixfield (Advent Chapel)..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Compton (Saunders school house) Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d. evenings through the week, and over the Sabbath, Feb. 7th. [We shall be together at the week-evening meetings. M. MCKINSTRY.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Feb. 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

New Durham Ridge, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
J. T. LIBBEY.

Marshfield, Erie Co., N. Y..........Feb. 8th
Collin's Centre, Erie Co., N. Y..........Feb. 9—11th
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Stewartstown (Bare Rock school-house)....Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th.
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th. U. G. LADD.

Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)...evening, Feb. 5th and over Sunday.
East Canaan, N. H..........evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday.
Laconia, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, Feb. 21st. JOHN H. EVANS.

Newcastle, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
South Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. E. HURD.

Natick, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. OWEN.

Cheshire Street..........Sunday. Feb. 7th
Warehousepoint..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
G. L. WHITE.

Meredith Neck, N. H..........Sabbath, Feb. 7th
N. GLIDDEN.

North Haverhill..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
A. GORDON.

Densmore Hill, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Otisfield (Gore school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 4th, and over Sunday, the 7th. J. WHITMAN.
G. L. TRACY.

North Scarboro, Me. (Free Chapel) Sunday, Feb. 7th
Bonny Eagle, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Hollis Centre, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
C. H. SWEET.

Belgrade Depot, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
F. E. BLAISDELL.

Whitakerville, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
South Ashburnhbm, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
East Pepperill, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. A. PACKARD.

New Hampton, N. H. (Plasted school-house) Sunday, Feb. 7th. WM. SHAW.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
H. L. Hastings..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch..........Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer..........Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
H. Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
A. Ross..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter..........Sunday, March 14th
John Couch..........Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer..........Sunday, March 28th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. (Franklin Hall.)
R. Baker..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

CLINTON, MASS
H. F. Carpenter..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall..........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker..........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
A. Ross..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday Feb. 14th
I. C. Wellcome..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. Whitman..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)..Sunday, March 7th
C. Cunningham..........Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher..........Sunday, Feb. 7th and first Sunday in each month.
D. W. Davis..........Sunday, Feb. 21st and also the third Sunday in each month.

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Feb 7th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 10th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlain..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, Feb. 21st

SEABROOK, N. H.
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
E. Owen..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
John Parsons..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch..........Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh..........Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons..........Sunday, March 28th
J. G. Smith..........Sunday, April 4th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. F. Chamberlain..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, March 7th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
O. W. Kimball..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
Geo. W. Sederquest..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
L. Boutell..........Sunday, March 7th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 28th

RYE, N. H.
Joseph W. White..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. T. Libbey..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. S. Mooney..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
Wm. C. Stewart..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
A. A. Robinson..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Jesse Gay..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
I. C. Wellcome..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
O. W. Kimball..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Jesse Gay..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
L. L. Howard..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
A. Ross..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
W. H Mitchell..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
O. D. Woodruff..........Sundays, Feb. 7th and 14th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. Woodruff..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Feb. 7th
C. F. Morse..........2d and 3d Sundays in February

BRISTOL, CT.
R. K. Stark..........Sunday, Feb. 7th

YALESVILLE, CT.
Seth Woodruff..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
Meetings are held regularly every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in Union Hall, on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. Brethren wishing to preach here, will please first correspond with D. F. Scamman, Portland, Me.
D. F. Scamman, George Humphrey, Asa L. Ames, Church Committee.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a.m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven P. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allegheny, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ We have none of Josephus' History.
☞ J. HEMENWAY'S address is Westfield, Mass.
☞ ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.
☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N. H.
☞ J. L. CHUTE'S address is New Market, N. H.
☞ ISRAEL'S DAMMAN'S address is Bridgewater, Vt., for the present.
☞ ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C., until further notice.
☞ H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.
☞ ELD. H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.
☞ JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.
☞ J. H. EVANS' address is Laconia, N. H.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—Wm. Hobbs, A. E. Elmore, J E Clark, A Richardson, I Damman, W Sheldon, S K Rogers, J S Thorp, S S Brewer, L Robbins, H McCulloch, P G Bowman, T E Blaisdell, M J Clark, W T Fahnestock, A E Clark, N M Swett, J S Marquand, H P Sikes, H B Sevey, C H Fletcher, E M Porter, A W Sibley.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—S A Chaplin, C C Ramsey, E M Haggett, F E Blaisdell, N Glidden, J Chute. Mrs D D Luce, G W Gillespie, J C Freeman, J E Wells, A M Smith, D W Huis, W Barker, M W Corliss, D Johnson, R H Gresham, John Stevens.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—Mrs J F Bishop 10c, J H Carr 87c, D S Clark $4 17, M Pierando $1 60, Geo G Emery $1 00, B F Wiss $1 00, D S Young 25c, Mrs D D Luce 50c, Miss A Pierson 31c, J C Smith $4 00, J L Swain 25c, L C Farnham 25c, M A Potter $2.95, L Gokey 27c, B Kneeper 15c, B F Ware 70c, M R Steele 50c, P W Hough $2 00, C F Carman $4 00, D C Welton 50c, J Taylor 50c, M B Lyon 50c, E Dexter 10c, R E Macomber 25c, H D Law 10c, G E Merrill 10c, R Knight 10c, J H Prime 25c, Geo Stockwell 10c, T E Clough 10c, O P Allen 10c, E A French 6c, J F Huber 25c, C A Pope 10c, D Weaver $1.25, Mrs S B King 50c, H D C Aspen $1.00, J M Daigneau 20c, Geo Stephenson 20c, J B Wilber 50c, J Skerry $3.00, T W Brooks 10c, J Durgin 10c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—N N Thompson, J Custer, J M Matts, J H Carr, G G Emery, B F Wise, M Pierando, A Warren Jr, M J F Bishop, D S Young, Mrs D D Luce, Rev C Nichols, Miss A Pierson, B C Stevens, J L Swain, L C Farnham, L Gokey, B F Ware, M R Steele, P W Hough, Wm Good, J H Prime, RK night, G E Merrill, H D Law, R E Macomber, D C Welton, M B Lyon, C F Carman, J Taylor, Z B Chase, B Kneeper, O P Allen, C A Pope, E A French, J F Huber, E Dexter, G Stockwell, T E Clough.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers for the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.

HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.

BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history.

AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express.

AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANALYTICAL HEBREW LEXICON OF THE OLD Testament. Most useful in the study of the Old Covenant. $6.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

"THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR." A Contrast to the Immaterial and Speculative System of Anti-Millenarianism, expressed in "The End of All Things," and other kindred works. 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE HIGH PRIESTHOOD OF THE SON OF GOD. The Aaronic Order and the Everlasting Order of Melchisedec. 12 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE "GERSHOM" TRACTS. Packets of three—The Morning Star, Daybreak, and Sunrise. Per packet, 10 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

JOYFUL MESSAGE: A Biblical Exposition of the Gospel. By Joseph B. Rotherham. 50 cts.; postage 4 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts

THE SPUR AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE STUDY of Greek. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

SPIRITUAL PRESENCE not BETTER THAN BODILY. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1 00; postage 16 cts.

THE EMPHASIZED NEW TESTAMENT. A new translation of the New Testament, emphasized after the originals. It holds a high place in the estimation of British scholars. $2.50; postage 28 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

ESSAYS CRITICAL AND THEOLOGICAL. Of interest to the Bible student and scholar. $1.50; postage 20 cts.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

HADES: OR, THE INTERMEDIATE STATE OF Man. Arguing DEATH in death, unconsciousness, silence and inaction. Highly spoken of. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

RESTITUTION OF ALL THINGS SPOKEN OF by the mouths of all the Holy Prophets. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISMMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK.'
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

A NEW BOOK.
'THE BIBLE DOCTRINE OF THE SOUL.
An Answer to the Question: "Is the Popular Conception of the Soul that of Holy Scripture?"
BY CHAS. L. IVES, M. D.
Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in Yale College.

This is a pamphlet of 119 pages, in which the Author discusses the above question in an interesting and able manner,—showing the material nature of, the mortality and destiny of the Soul,—A future immortality to be the special portion of the Righteous,—What the Bible teaches as to the future of the Wicked,—The intermediate state,—The Resurrection,—That of the Righteous and of the Wicked, etc.

The Author claims that the doctrine set forth,—"Honors God, exalts the Bible, insures preaching of future punishment, subverts Universalism and Infidelity, errors of Romanism, of Spiritualism and Swedenborgianism, helps in work of Missions, rightly values the body, brings Christian unity, and promotes personal holiness."

We are much pleased with this work. It ought to have a wide circulation. We have a good supply, and hope the friends will order freely. We will sell at the following prices:—25 cts. per copy; $2.00 per dozen, sent by mail; $15.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

I AM GOING BACK.

J. N. BERRY.

I have wandered away in a rough, thorny track,
And my feet are all wounded and sore;
I am going back home—I am going right back,
And cross its dear threshold once more.

Take me back, loving Father! I need thy kind care;
'Tis thy poor wayward child so forlorn!
O, do not reject me! but hear my faint prayer,
And shelter me safe from the storm!

My heart—how 'tis aching! it's wounded—it's torn
In the trials and conflicts I feel;
Let me lean on thy bosom; I'm tired and worn—
Thou only my sorrow canst heal.

O, help me, dear Father! I pray help me now!
On the sunbeams of morning swift fly;
For the damp drops of anguish lay cold on my brow—
Dear Father, save! save! or I die!

ONE BAPTISM.

L. C. MCKINSTRY.

(Continued.)

It is said that because baptism is to be administered in three names, there must be an immersion in each of the three, and yet the result is only one complete baptism. It becomes a question, therefore, whether baptism means immersion or immersions, and so whether there are three in one, or whether baptism is what we have claimed it is, one immersion and one emersion. It is essential to be right in this as well as in the exact form of the ordinance, and we want to be scripturally correct. The claim is that there must be one immersion "in the name of the Father," one "in the name of the Son," and one "in the name of the Holy Ghost."

To prove this, several arguments are used which at best are mere fallacies. Of these, two are prominent.

(1) That the participle "baptizing" being from a frequentative verb," it requires repeated action; there must be more than one immersion to complete the sense of the word.

(2) The three names used in the commission require it.

There are other arguments growing out of the claimed history of the case, which we shall only notice incidentally, because our argument is a scriptural one; but we shall give them sufficient attention.

The claim which bases three immersions on the supposition of the frequentative character of the verb demands our attention first. We have said that we only desire to be right. We shall not, therefore, contend with facts; facts are just what we want; so we use them. On this account we begin with the "fact," that the form of the verb rendered "baptize"—baptizo—is frequentative. But what is a "frequentative"? "A verb which requires repeated action."—Webster. It has, in the Greek to which it is peculiar, a form of termination usual to it, which distinguishes it as such. That termination is the syllable "zo." We notice a few words of this class as illustrations of this peculiarity, as follows: Agia-zo—to separate; to consecrate. Agora-zo—to buy; to redeem. Aichamaloti-zo—to lead captive. Anaskeuna-zo—to collect one's baggage. Andri-zo—to render brave. Basani-zo—to apply a touch-stone. Basta-zo—to bear; to carry. Buthi-zo—to immerse; to submerge; to sink; to drown. Gami-zo—to give in marriage. Many others might be given, but these are sufficient for illustration.

We have noticed Mr. Webster's definition of "frequentative," and Mr. Bullion defines the Greek verb of this character in the same manner. He says (Greek Grammar, p. 73, paragraph 8) that "they express repeated action." He further states that "they commonly end in zo, as rhapti-zo—infinative; raphti-zein—to throw from one place to another, in the middle voice; to throw one's self this way and that; to be restless (Greek Grammar, page 147). The verb, therefore, requiring repeated action, the question, may be repeated: How much repetition is necessary, and how often must it be done, to fully harmonize the action with the full meaning of the word? Must the acts performed be a series of the same sort, continuing them in a given direction always? or, must they be in part reversive actions, the opposite of the first acts? If repeated in the same direction, or reversed, or both, how many times must it be repeated?

We are told by those who practice three immersions for one baptism, that the act must be repeated three times, once in each of the three names, each act being an immersion, and the three a baptism. If this is true, then three immersions must always exactly satisfy the meaning of the word, and three actions, of whatever sort, must answer the purpose. Is this so? Does the commission require three immersions? and does the word require them, no more and no less? Or are three acts, of whatever sort, enough? Let us see. No motion or act seems to be thought of in a baptism by the advocates of that theory, but one, and that one, immersion; and yet there are really two, as we have seen. There are two whenever one is immersed and taken again from the water, even if so much as this is not baptism.

If there are three immersions required for "one baptism," then there are six acts. So that, if only three acts are necessary for a baptism, there is only one complete immersion and emersion; and an immersion which leaves the candidate in the water, although one act, is not sufficient. This last view of the matter cannot, then, be allowed. If there are three immersions required, then there must be six acts performed. According to Mr. Bullion, and in harmony with the true sense of the term, more than one motion or act is required; but a single motion in any direction with its reverse, is enough to constitute "repeated action," and make it valid. Mr. Bullion gives us, as a definition of the word quoted—"to throw one's-self this way and that," the middle voice of the verb rhaptizo; and we have a classical definition of the original of baptize, as "to dip and draw,"—showing clearly that the verb only requires so much to make the action true to the sense, although more acts may be done, if necessary.

One cannot, therefore be "baptized" when he is only "dipped" or "immersed" in the water, if left there; for, as baptism is more than mere immersion,—as it is both *im*mersion and *e*mersion,—both must occur. The two actions being required to accomplish it, must be performed, or there is a faiure; but when these are done there is completeness, so that, to appropriately attend to the matter, nothing more nor less need to be done, unless it can be honestly made to appear that the commission and not the frequentative verb requires that it should be so; for, while the verb certainly allows a repetition for an unlimited number of times, it does not require but one repetition of action, and, therefore, to extend and limit it to just three, and repeat it after the first two acts are completed, to make the three, is to do violence to it. Let none, then, any more say that, because the verb is "frequentative," it must follow that just three acts must be performed; as it is a gross mistake. It follows, therefore, that, unless the language of the commission requires it, one immersion, and one emersion, or lifting the person out of the water, is "one baptism," and so, as nearly as the word can express it, the phrase "one immersion" for baptism means more than just an immersion: it means emersion also.

That this is true of baptism and of the act of baptizing we have abundant proof in the fact that John "baptized" before Jesus gave the commission, or the use of the three names was ever thought of. He "was baptizing," we are told, "in Bethabara," even before Jesus had been baptized; and Jesus was himself baptized, and not in the three names, and yet his baptism, and the baptism of all whom John baptized, was complete, and is called "baptism" because complete. None can surely ask for stronger evidence of the matter than this. If God in his work calls baptism, before the commission, by its name, when there was but "one immersion," as all admit, then it was such with its emersion, which we always imply when we speak of it. Yes, it was such, whatever one may do to prove it otherwise. We call the so-called "trine immersionists" attention to this fact. If, then, that has been called in the New Testament "baptism" which was administered by John, does the commission of Jesus require anything more to constitute it? Does it call that baptism which it afterward repudiates, and then set up something else, something more, in its place? We think not; but we will examine the text of the constitution and see how this is.

We then come to the point and ask, Does the language of the commission require three immersions? and will the word, as already defined, allow us to call three immersions "one baptism"? If not, then we are not only unauthorized in doing it, but wrong; and are "perverting the right way of the Lord." We will look at the grammatical construction of the commission,—"Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations; baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

It will be noticed that the word "baptizing," although used but once, applies separately to each of the three names, and so to them all together, as well as to the one name. Mr. Bullion tells us (Grammar, p. 182) that "every article, adjective, pronoun or participle must have a substantive, expressed or understood, with which it agrees." And, again, that "every nominative has its own verb expressed or understood."

This is but slightly different from the rules of other languages. It is true of the English language that an ellipsis, made in the construction of a sentence, must be supplied in parsing the sentence. In the Greek, ellipses, or omissions of words, are perhaps more common than in the English, although we have them frequently, as in the commission. These are often supplied by translators, by italicized words. This leads some to think that these words are always the translator's work. 1 Cor. 3–4 reads—"For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal?" The word "am" is italicized in the Bible by the translators, because its corresponding word is not in the original. Still we have its equivalent as follows. For the phrase "I am," in the first part of the verse, we have, in the Greek, Ego men eimi, followed by Palou—"of Paul"—meaning, "I am of Paul." For the second, however, we have only Ego—"I"—followed by "Apollo"—"of Apollos." There is then an omission of the words men eimi,—the word men being used to intensify the expression and make the language emphatic, and eimi meaning "am." Now, as "every nominative must have its verb, either expressed or understood," the word "am" is understood in the place where the translators have put it; and so, although not expressed in the original, it is right to have it in the translation; although, if the language of the text were simply "I am of Paul, and I of Apollos," it would still be plain enough.

There is a text which we will note in passing, in which the omission of a word to supply an ellipsis has led many to misunderstand. It is the language of Stephen in Acts 7: 59, which reads—"And they stoned Stephen, calling on God and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." Many have supposed that the word "calling" referred to those who stoned Stephen, who were in the third person, plural number; and that they said, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit"; using the singular number and the language in mockery to Stephen. The mistake grows out of not knowing a simple fact, that, while there is an omission of the nominative of the word "calling," there is an easy way of determining what that nominative is, or should be. All Greek words have number, tense, and case implied by their termination. The word from which we have "calling" has, while "calling" itself, as an English word, never has; so that we could not tell by it who, or what, or how many, was or were "calling."

Other words, like "was" or "were" signify the number of persons engaged in the transaction to be one or more; but the word "calling" does not inform us; still the original word determines it. That word is epikaloumenon, and is in the second person singular number, and not in the plural. So it was not "they" (those) who stoned Stephen who were "callling upon God," but "he," Stephen himself, who was calling, and it would therefore have been proper if the translators had supplied the ellipsis by an italicised word, so that the text would have read—"And they stoned Stephen, he calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." On this account it is sometimes necessary to supply an ellipsis, even although the words supplied were in italics. But it was not always necessary. In the commission it is not, and yet some seem to require the redundancy of words before they will be convinced. If they were used here, the commission would read—"Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, ye baptizing them in the name of the Father, and ye baptizing them in the name of the Son, and ye baptizing them in the name of the Holy Ghost." It will be readily seen that this redundancy makes the language heavy and clumsy, and yet it makes plain that which we wish to have distinctly understood; to wit, that, to make the sense complete, the participle must occur three times, once for each name; and it now remains to be seen whether God intends to have us understand him that there are to be "three immersions and one baptism," as some claim, or whether there are to be three baptisms, one in each name, or only one baptism, which is one immersion and one emersion in all the names taken conjointly. That the latter course is possible does not admit of a doubt. The Father, Son and Holy Ghost are associated together, and equally interested in the plan of redemption by Jesus Christ, and in that sense they form a copartnership.

If a copartnership consisting of three men should employ a man to transact business for them together, as a firm or company, there would be no propriety, if he were to effect a purchase for them, in his repeating the purchase three times, because he buys as much for one as for another, as they are all equally concerned in the transaction, and all their names are put together in the signature. In this way one instance of baptism answers for all the three names, and one can as readily "baptize in the name of the Father," and "baptize in the name of the Son," and "baptize in the name of the Holy Ghost," in one use of the rite, as one can make a single purchase and do it in each and all the three names of the firm. If that purchase be of goods in Boston, then, by redundancy, he who made it could say—"I purchased goods in Boston in the name of Mr. Smith, and in the name of Mr. Jones, and in the name of Mr. Brown"; and yet, as the name of the firm is "Smith, Jones and Brown," we understand that only one single transaction is referred to. So, in a baptism in the name of each and all the three—Father, Son, and Holy Ghost—one baptism is sufficient; the names being taken each separately, and all conjointly, in the transaction.

If they were to be considered as only in a separate condition, then there would be separate acts of baptism required, and the word "again" must be used to designate them. We should then read—"Baptizing them in the name of the Father; and, again, in the name of the Son; and, again, in the name of the Holy Ghost." But the word is not there, and we have no right to introduce it there; so we must be satisfied to let the language be complete without it, as it is.

(To be continued.)

TRAVELS AND LABORS.

I. C. WELLCOME.

By request, we visited Rockland, Me., the first week in Dec., and held eight meetings, preaching the Word to large congregations of eager listeners, who seemed glad to hear the message of Christ's soon coming, and of eternal life through him.

We found "a remnant" of the joyful company of believers we left there at the close of our tent-meeting some five years ago; also several who had since found Christ, as the result of hearing the Word of life at that time. The prospects of great results through their labors were then very bright, and had they followed wholesome, Scriptural counsel, and organized a church, their influence and numbers might have greatly increased by observing Scriptural rules. We should never claim to be a Bible people while neglecting these essential points.

There is a small company of earnest workers yet; and though much labor and strength has been lost, much could be accomplished in that city by judicious labors and the united co-operation of the believers, in "setting in order the things that are wanting." There is much people in that city who could be reached with the gospel of the kingdom, by gospel measures.

By invitation of Dr. H. B. Eaton, who obtained the use of the Baptist house in Rockport, we preached there two evenings, to very attentive audiences,—Bro. Bixley, the pastor, uniting in the services. There are several believers in the Lord's soon coming in the town, and many who like to hear the message. Dr. Eaton once gave a course of lectures on the prophecies to that community, producing much interest on the subject. He has also scattered many books and tracts among them which are doing good service.

We next visited Lincolnville, and held three meetings with "a remnant" who yet love the Lord and his truth. We cheered them all we could wlth "the Word of the kingdom." Their courage is low, and their work but little. Some had given heed to bogus messages, of late, and wasted their substance and influence upon strangers and strange nations. We pray the Lord to help them out into gospel light and spiritual strength. Bro. Moses Young is yet alive, but very feeble from a paralytic shock, which has destroyed his activity the last six years.

A few brethren in Camden obtained the use of the Baptist house one evening, and the Congregationalist vestry another evening, which we occupied in preaching to small audiences "the Word of the kingdom" and "signs of the times." Some came to hear, to whom these were strange themes. May the Lord open their hearts to receive the Word!

We attended a Free Baptist Quarterly meeting at Rockville, one evening, and found a very free spiritual atmosphere, and heard many very excellent testimonies for Christ, and several clear ones of the blessed hope of his soon coming. These last, stirred up the spirit of an old elder to say some very foolish things, not worth recording.

We have spent two Sundays in Bath, and find that the "report" which had gone abroad that "the church is dead," is not true. Bath has a living church of faithful members, though small, it is true; some have moved away, some are aged and infirm, some are sick, some disheartened by other trials; but there is yet vital life, and a little more faith and works will do much for them. Eld. C. Goud has become their pastor, and preaches to them half of the time.

We spent the last Sunday in December in Bangor, and preached to a very attentive audience; also had several evening meetings with the brethren. There are a few living, faithful believers yet, holding fast and laboring for the salvation of the lost. They have passed through severe trials, caused by "another gospel," the last two years, which has perverted and led some away from them, but they mean to trust and follow Christ to the end. Eld. F. A. Baker has moved to Bangor, and become their pastor; and, with God's blessing, will do well for them.

We spent the first Sunday in January in in Levant, where Bro. Baker has been pastor of the church for several years. They much regret his removal. This church is doing well. It is in a working, thriving condition. May the Lord stir up his people to the work of saving souls. We have visited over one hundred families the last five weeks. They are generally doing well.

A VOICE FROM KANSAS.

A. S. FIELD.

Dear Brethren and Sisters, and readers of the Crisis:—I am a stranger to most of you, but love the God you worship, and will speak a word of encouragement to you, by telling you how wonderfully God has blessed us here in Northern Kansas, through the instrumentality of Bro. R. F. & Sr. M. J. Clark.

About one year ago they came into Washington Co., and held a series of meetings eight miles from here. Their works were prospered, and some twenty-five true believers in the soon coming Messiah, one of whom was a Freewill Baptist minister, covenanted together and formed a church of the Advent Christian faith. These meetings were attended from a distance, and many had a spark of the love of God rekindled in their bosoms. This spread rapidly, and a short time ago they held a series of meetings here, with good success. One of the M. E. clergy, who desires and will give "Thus saith the Lord," embraced the truth.

Truly, the Lord is working wonderfully in our midst. There is a general interest awakened all around us in "this gospel of the kingdom." Sr. Clark preaches it, and gives the trumpet its true sound. They are at Washington now, our County seat, holding meetings. They are laboring for the salvation of men. O that God would send forth more laborers, who would proclaim a free salvation, and a soon coming Savior!

I was raised in Maine, and there, thirty two years ago I experienced religion, and joined the F. Baptists. I lived twenty-two years in New England. I was taught that I had an immortal soul within that would wing its way to God at death or to endless woe. I had no correct views of the resurrection or the future. Five years ago I came to Kansas, still entertaining these views. I tried to live religion, but encountered so many evils and discouragements that finally I gave up all hope, and said, Surely, there is no God in Kansas. Less than one year ago I learned to love that God, who rules in Kansas as he does elsewhere, better than I ever did before. I love his teachings better than the doctrines of men. The Scripture teaches us we are to seek for immortality and eternal life through Christ; and as plainly teaches that the wicked shall die. Surely, God is a God of mercy. I can look forward to the resurrection morning which is soon to dawn, and rejoice with joy unspeakable to think we shall be made immortal, and become heirs with Christ, to that inheritance which is incorruptible and fadeth not away. Having this gospel hope I can pray, "Come Lord Jesus, and come quickly," and gather the loved ones home.

THEATRES AND THEATRE-GOING.

Brn. Editors:—I cut the following article from one of the most influential daily papers in New England. It is taken from a leading magazine, Scribner's for February. The article will probably be extensively copied to serve the purpose for which it was written, namely: to justify professed christians in attending theatres, and all places of amusement; also in billiard-playing, novel-reading, and all so-called respectable recreation. It shows clearly the departure of the church from its former position, and where it is drifting. While it advocates and encourages theatre-going, and all the amusements of the present day, it concedes that these were condemned by the church of former times. The article is a plea for all that the church of to-day is indulging in.

I think it would be well for the readers of the Crisis to see this, another evidence of the last days; and so I forward the article for their perusal. I. I. LESLIE.

THEATRES AND THEATRE-GOING.

The recent discussion of the influence of theatres has brought up the old subject again, and called for a restatement of what we regard as the true and rational position of the church upon the question. The radical mistake of the Protestant church of this country is that lack of discrimination, in its condemnation of theatres, which has gone to the extreme of making that a sin in itself which is not a sin at all. To go to the theatre, for an evening's entertainment, is regarded by multitudes as a flagrant wrong. So wrong is it considered in itself, or so bad is it in example, that ministers are shut out of the theatre as a class, with sweeping completeness. For a clergyman to be seen in a theatre, is to compromise his position and influence. We know that many clergymen regard this as a hardship, for they have told us so; but their unwise predecessors have made the bed for them, and they are obliged to lie in it. The public opinion that has been generated in the church, by pulpit criticism and denunciation, has built a wall around the theatre so high that men holding responsible positions in the church cannot cross it.

For this position of the church, the stage itself is very largely responsible. The stage has always been under strong temptations to self-degradation. If it had always been pure; if the amusements it has offered to the public had always been innocent; if it had not at one period of its history been a breeding place of vice; if it had not presented strong attractions to those who seek the society of lewd women; if profanity and poorly disguised obscenity had never had a place in the plays presented; if impure imaginations had not been cherished among the young by half-nude dancing girls; in brief, if the animal nature—the lower nature—had not been addressed so persistently by those who have assumed the entertainment of the public the church would never have taken the position that it has. It is not to be wondered at that the protest was strong, when the provocation was so shameless. The older men of the present day remember the horrible "Third Tier" of their youth. They remember, too, the double entendre, the polite profanity, the broad jest, that woke the disgusting cheers of "the pit." It is no justification of an institution that has arrogated to itself the title of "a school of morals," that it offered what was demanded, and what the public most willingly paid for. It was a part of the legitmate office of the stage to protect public morals and to educate the public into a pure taste. The enmity of the church toward the stage has not been without cause.

But the stage is better than it was, on the whole. We have vile theatres in New York to-day—altogether too many of them—plays presented that degrade or vitiate the taste and the morals of those who witness them—men and women on the boards who are base in character and life. On the other hand we have theatres whose aims are high, and actors and actresses who have pride of personal character, and a desire and determination to hold their most interesting art to purity and respectability. These people—faithful husbands and wives, intellectual men and women, good fathers, mothers, maidens, friends and citizens,—naturally chafe under the wholesale condemnation which the church visits upon them. We cannot blame them for this. We can only ask them to be patient with a state of things which a multitude of their predecessors and many of their contemporaries have helped to bring about. The church is gradually working toward their recognition, and they must give it time to move.

There was a time, and it was not long ago, when cards were banished from every christian household. The older men and women of the church very well remember when a pack of cards found in a boy's trunk would be taken as proof that the devil had a very strong hold upon its owner. Millions of men and women have been bred to believe that card-playing was—with or without reason—a sin in itself. That time has passed away already, and the innocent little pasteboards have become a source of amusement in great multitudes of christian families. Children never could see any reason in their exclusion, and the church is stronger in the child's mind for the change that has occurred. Billiards were once so associated with viscious resorts and practices that a man disgraced himself by appearing where they were. Now a billiard table is in nearly every house that can afford one, and is purchased in many instances as a home guardian of the morals of the boys.

Novel reading was once as thoroughly under ban as theatre-going. We remember the time when the novel reader hid his books—read them when he ought to have been asleep—stole their charms on rainy days, in garrets or on hay mows, and then passed them into the hands of some other sly thief of pleasure, who still passed them on, until they were worn out. Well, the first novels were poor. They gave false ideas of life, and were condemned en masse by the church; but the church found at an early day that it wanted novels for its own purposes. Now the great majority of Sunday school books are novels of a religious sort, while every christian library holds Scott and Dickens and Thackeray; and the public libraries and the reading clubs all over the land find more readers for their novels than for any other class of books. They have become the sources of moral, political and social instruction, as well as of general entertainment, within as well as without the church.

We allude to these sources of amusement and the great change that has occurred with regard to them, for the purpose of illustrating that which is certainly progressing in relation to the theatre. We have parlor theatricals, and they are recognized more and more as harmless and instructive amusements. We have dramatic exhibitions in our educational institutions. We go to the opera really for its music, but we are obliged to get this through the representation of the most vapid dramatic compositions that can be imagined. In short, we have acknowledged, in many ways, that the representation of a play is not wrong in itself, while our christian travelers make their pilgrimages to Oberammergau to witness a play that degrades the great christian tragedy to to the commonplace of spectacular drama. The time is rapidly coming—provided, of course, that those who have the theatre in charge stand, as good men and women, by their obligations to the public, and uphold the dignity of their art—when christians will seek amusement in their presence, from their performances; when they will discriminate between theatres as they do between novels, and when the premium of their presence and patronage will be offered to those who serve them conscientiously.

As a people, we have no such superfluity of amusements and recreations that we can afford to hold one under ban, that is in itself harmless and legitimate. We work under great pressure, and need much more recreation than we get. If a man thus pressed feels that a pure dramatic representation refreshes him, he ought to be at liberty to avail himself of it, and the time is certainly coming when he will do so.

HOME AND HEALTH.

NEEDLESS SICKNESS.

H. MUNGER.

The old saying is a true one, that most people just learn to live when they are ready to die. The experience of old people is a blessing to the younger ones; and the experience of most people is, that sickness is caused by getting cold carelessly. If people would keep warm, many fevers would be prevented, and consumptions put off for many years, and perhaps forever. Always keep the body warm; never allow yourself to get chilly, summer or winter. A summer cold is worse than a winter one, generally. If we get cold, we must get warm or die. Always put on sufficient clothing to keep the cold out; more or less, good or poor. Some need more than others to keep warm; so no one standard will answer for all, any more than in the amount or quality of food we eat to give strength. Keep warm night and day, by clothing, sun, or fire.

The older you grow the more clothing and fire you will need to keep warm. Most of the rheumatism is caused by taking cold. Those who neglect this will have aches, pains and sick spells, and pay out more for medicine that does no good than it would cost to keep warm, either by clothing or fire. If you are cold, your stomach is cold and your food will not digest; hence it will rot, and the effect is a sour stomach, sick headache, or a liver complaint. Do not eat more than you can digest; if you do, you must pay dear for your indulgence, and perhaps shorten your days. Some say you must eat this, or that, to be healthy. Be your own judge, but use common sense, and not cram down every fashionable kind of food which a warm, strong stomach could not digest, much less a weak, cold one.

Not long ago a friend wanted me to tell what would give him an appetite. I found he had taken cold, had some fever, but little strength, and was chilly all the time. I told him all I knew about doctoring I had learned by observation and experience; and he needed a dose of good common sense. I had just learned that he had been out late nights, got cold, and lost his appetite. My prescription was a good sweat, more clothing, and then wait till he had an appetite; that would tell him what he wanted to eat. The remedy worked a cure in two days.

If people would spend a little more for warm clothing, and a little less for food, in these hard times, it would be better for all except doctors. I am almost seventy years old, and have followed two rules,—keep warm night and day, summer and winter, and eat at regular hours. The laws of our being demand this, and if broken the penalty is certain. I attribute my good health more to obeying the laws of nature, than to a strong constitution. By the mercy of God I have never been off my feet a day by sickness, nor rheumatism, but once, and that by taking cold, which left as soon as the cold was counteracted by getting warmed up to ninety degrees in from ten to fifteen minutes. The machinery of our system will not run easy, well and long if it is cold.

I am able to preach, and do, from thirty to thirty-five times a month much of the time. I do not claim that my mode of living makes all the difference, but it has much to do with my general health. The mind is affected by our health, as well as the blood, nerves and bones.

Well, perhaps I have said enough on this subject to set others to writing, who will finish up in good shape what I have blocked out of nature's forest, which produces many good strong natural crooks, that are of use in certain places where a straight or carved out crook will not answer.

ANNIE AND WILLIE'S PRAYER.

'Twas the eve before Christmas; "Good night" had been said,
And Annie and Willie had crept into bed;
There were tears on their pillows, and tears in their eyes,
And each little bosom was heavy with sighs—
For to-night their stern father's command had been given,
That they should retire precisely at seven
Instead of eight; for they troubled him more
With questions unheard of, than ever before.
He had told them he thought this delusion a sin,
No such being as "Santa Claus" ever had been,
And he hoped, after this, he should never more hear
How he scrambled down chimneys with presents each year.
And this was the reason that two little heads
So restlessly tossed on their soft, downy beds.

Eight, nine, and the clock on the steeple tolled ten;
Not a word had been spoken by either till then,
When Willie's sad face from the blanket did peep,
And whispered, "Dear Annie, is you fast asleep?"
"Why, no, brother Willie," a sweet voice replies,
"I've tried it in vain, but I can't shut my eyes;
For, somehow, it makes me so sorry because
Dear papa has said there is no 'Santa Claus';
Now we know there is, and it can't be denied,
For he came every year before mamma died;
But, I have been thinking that she used to pray,
And God would hear every thing mamma would say;
And perhaps she asked him to send Santa Claus here,
With the sacks full of presents he brought every year."
'Well, why tan't we pay dest as mamma did then,
And ask him to send him with presents aden?"

"I've been thinking so, too"; and without a word more,
Four little bare feet bounded out on the floor,
And four little knees the soft carpet pressed,
And two tiny hands were clasped close to each breast.
"Now, Willie, you know we must firmly believe
That the presents we ask for we're sure to receive;
You must wait just as still till I say the 'Amen,'
And by that you will know that your turn has come then."
"Dear Jesus, look down on my brother and me,
And grant us the favor we are asking of thee;
I want a wax dolly, a tea-set, and ring,
And an ebony work-box that shuts with a spring;
Bless papa, dear Jesus, and cause him to see
That Santa Claus loves us far better than he.
Don't let him get fretful and angry again
At dear brother Willie and Annie, Amen!"

'Please, Desus, 'et Santa Taus tum down to-night,
And bring us some presents before it is light;
I want he should bring me a nice 'ittle sed,
With bright, shiny runners, and all painted yed;
A box full of tandy, a book, and a toy,
Amen, and then, Desus, I'll be a dood boy."

Their prayers being ended, they raised up their heads,
And with hearts light and cheerful again sought their beds.
They were soon lost in slumber, both peaceful and deep,
And with fairies in dreamland were roaming in sleep.

Eight, nine, and the little French clock had struck ten,
Ere the father had thought of his children again;
He seems now to hear Annie's half-suppressed sighs,
And to see the big tears stand in Willie's blue eyes.
"I was harsh with my darlings," he mentally said,
"And should not have sent them so early to bed;
But then I was troubled—my feelings found vent,
For bank-stock to-day has gone down ten per cent.
But of course they've forgot their troubles ere this,
And that I denied them the thrice asked for kiss;
But just to make sure, I'll steal up to their door,
For I never spoke harsh to my darlings before."

So saying, he softly ascended the stairs,
And arrived at the door to hear both of their prayers.
His Annie's "bless papa" draws forth the big tears,
And Willie's grave promise falls sweet on his ears.
"Strange, strange, I'd forgotten," said he with a sigh,
"How I longed, when a child, to have Christmas draw nigh.
I'll atone for my harshness," he inwardly said,
"By answering their prayers ere I sleep in my bed."

* * * * * * * * * * *

As soon as the beams of the bright morning sun
Put the darkness to flight, and the stars, one by one,
Four little blue eyes out of sleep opened wide,
And at the same moment the presents espied.
Then out of their beds they sprang with a bound,
And the very gifts prayed for were all of them found.
They laughed and they cried in their innocent glee,
And shouted for "Papa to come quick and see
What presents old Santa Claus brought in the night,
(Just the things that they wanted) and left before light."

"And now," added Annie, in a voice soft and low,
"You'll believe there's a Santa Claus, papa, I know;"
While dear little Willie climbed up on his knee,
Determined no secret between them should be;
And told in soft whispers how Annie had said
That their dear blessed mamma, so long ago dead,
Used to kneel down and pray by the side of her chair,
And that God up in heaven had answered her prayer!
"Then we dot up and payed dust as well as we tould,
And Dod answered our prayers; now wasn't he dood?"

"I should say that he was, if he sent you all these,
And knew just what presents my children would please.
(Well, well, let him think so, the dear little elf,
'Twould be cruel to tell him I did it myself.")
Blind father! who caused your stern heart to relent,
And the hasty word spoken so soon to repent?
'Twas the Being who bade you steal softly up stairs,
And made you his agent to answer their prayers.

—Mrs. S. P. Snow, in Congregationalist.

[Sent by Mrs. E. O. Churchill.

HINTS ABOUT BAKING.

The most difficult of the young housewife's duties is that of baking. Food prepared in the best manner may be ruined by a fire which is either too hot or too slow during any part of the process.

There are countless recipes for the preparation of food, but very little instruction as to the manner of baking it. Each one must learn by experience, and there are more provoking failures in that direction than any other; and some, although they learn the facts, never learn the whys and wherefores of success.

I used to think that to bake anything well the oven must be as hot as it could be without burning the article to be baked, all the time it was baking. This is not the case with anything except crackers and cookies.

For biscuits the oven should be equally hot when they are put in, but should begin to cool a little before they are taken out; this makes them very light, but one has to watch to keep them from being scorched; eight minutes are enough to bake them; if baked with such a fire as that required for bread they are heavy.

For gems made of Graham flour and water, or for corn bread, the oven should be very hot; but the fire should have been built some time before they were put in, and begin to go down by the time they are light; for if the oven remains as hot as was necessary to make them rise, they will burn before they are thoroughly cooked through.

Bread requires a much slower fire, but it should be even and steady from first to last.

Cake requires a still slower fire than bread; but it must not be too slow or the cake will not be thoroughly cooked through, and will fall when taken from the oven. If the fire is too hot at first it will crust over before it is light, and burst through the crust and rise rough and homely. If the cake is large, some nails or bits of iron should be placed under it and a paper spread over it, else it will scorch before it is cooked through. Any kind of bread or pastry mixed with water, requires a hotter fire than if mixed with milk.

Fruit pies require a hotter fire than bread, but steady from first to last; if too hot at first the crust will cook before the fruit does; if too slow toward the last the crust will dry up before the fruit is done. Pumpkin pies require a fire as hot as can be without burning the crust.

Custards require a slow fire, else they will boil and whey out before they are done. But puddings require a hot fire, particularly Indian pudding, for they are all the better for being wheyed out.—Herald of Health.

AS A LITTLE CHILD.

L. A. WHEELER.

"Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven." Matt. 18: 34.

The infant begins its conscious life in a state of innocence. It eats, sleeps, and grows; and in time develops into manhood. Its future history is all unwritten. It is as a sheet of blank paper. Just so the pardoned sinner, that has humbled carnal nature, confessed Christ as their only Savior by being buried with him in baptism and raised to walk in newness of life, is in a state of infantile innocence. His past life is covered by the love of God, and he begins a new life. Now he feeds and grows on the "milk of the Word," and as he "exercises himself unto godliness" develops into spiritual manhood. Now he loves the "strong meat" and is ready for every good work. How perfect and beautiful the illustration—"A little child." Whoever climbs up any other way will miss the door.

Plainfield, Mass., Dec. 13th, 1874.

INDIAN MEAL A VEHICLE FOR HEAT.

The application of heat to the body as a remedy is very common. Wringing out cloths in hot water, infusions of hops or other plants, and placing them upon the part affected is probably the plan most frequently pursued. This practice is objectionable, because it needs close care to prevent wetting and chilling when cool, and also to be so frequently renewed and reapplied to keep up the due amount of heat. If jugs or bottles of water are employed they are liable to become broken or uncorked, or to leak and deluge the bed. Besides, when water is used as a vehicle for heat it causes moisture, which is undesirable, particularly as it is a good conductor of heat. If sand or sugar is employed the weight is objectionable. In looking about the resources of an ordinary household for a substitute I was led to select Indian meal, as it is generally on hand in the larder; it is of light weight, not unpleasant in odor, and particularly because it holds heat for a long time. This latter fact I noticed when a mere boy, finding that corn meal would, after grinding, bear several miles' transportation, and after delivery and deposition in the bins of the granary would for hours still be warm from the friction of grinding. When, therefore, it is desired to apply dry heat to any person it is only required to place a quantity of the Indian meal in a baking-pan on a heated stove, and stir constantly till thoroughly warmed. It should not be burnt. It can now be put into woolen sacks and tied up and applied as a hot bottle usually is; or into large flannel bags if for the abdomen. In a case of successful resuscitation of a new-born child, the heated meal was poured into an oblong chopping-tray and a flannel cloth laid over it, and the infant in it. The cloth yielded, and the child was partly buried in the warm meal. It is found that the meal retains its heat long, and when it cools it does not chill, which is a very important consideration. Two sets of bags or wrappers may be provided, so that while one is being applied the other may be heated. The meal is not weighty. The aroma of it when heated is rather agreeable than otherwise. It is now my favorite vehicle for applying heat.—E. Cutter, M. D., in Herald of Health.

THE stomach requires much rest to be healthy; purgative medicines weaken the bowels.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1005. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 18.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

FILLED WITH GLORY.

J. S. THORP.

"But as truly as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord."—NUM. 14: 21.

Filled with glory! Listen, pilgrims!
God has said the earth shall be Filled with his eternal glory,
As the waters fill the sea.
Like one broad, deep, shoreless ocean,
With its all embracing flood;
Glory from the throne shall deluge
All the kingdom of our God.

Filled with glory! Ne'er shall wither
Leaf or fruit from life's fair tree;
By the shining, crystal river,
Eden's verdure we shall see.
Not one sigh shall e'er be uttered,
Not a tear shall ever fall,
For within our heavenly mansions
Sorrow ne'er shall come at all.

Filled with glory! None shall ever
Weary in that happy clime;
There the saved shall have forever
One supernal summer time.
With a glorious sunlight brightness
Saints shall in that kingdom shine,
When their forms are made immortal
By the Savior's hand divine.

Filled with glory! Heavenly sonnets
The redeemed of God shall sing,
When upon the throne of David
Christ shall reign—the Eternal King.
Filled with glory! Praise Jehovah!
Soon our ravished eyes shall see
All the earth imbathed in glory
Like an overflowing sea.

Reiley Creek, Kan.

THE GARDEN OF EDEN.

WM. HOBBS.

"And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden: and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food: the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil. And a river went out of Eden and watered the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became four heads. The name of the first is Pison; that is it which compasseth the whole land of Havilah where there is gold; and the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx stone. And the name of the second river is Gihon: the same is that which compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia. And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth to the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates." Gen. 2: 8–14.

This identification of the Euphrates, as one of the four rivers, whose united streams formed the river that went out of Eden to water the garden, is a clear proof that the garden was near the head of the Persian gulf, into which these united rivers flow. For when it is said of this river of Eden, "from thence it was parted and became four heads," it can only refer to the four branches of the main stream, as being outside of the territory of Eden northward; since the flow of the Euphrates is southerly, after its junction with the Tigris—Hiddekel. And since the river Pison is called the first branch, Eden is thereby located southerly of that point; and since the main river went out of Eden to water the garden, the garden must be located still further south, in the direction that the river flows in its course to the Persian gulf.

The statement that the river was "parted and became four heads," the text explains as four rivers; and the Euphrates being one of them, and this having a course of eighteen hundred miles in length, it proves that the other branches were large rivers. And the identity of the Tigris as the Hiddekel, a river that rises a few miles from the Euphrates and unites with the Euphrates about a hundred and twenty miles from the Persian gulf, proves that what is said about the division into "four heads" relates to four great rivers uniting in one main stream.

The prophet Daniel speaks of the great river Hiddekel in chap. 10: 4, and of his seeing a vision while beside that river with his attendants. And Prof. Bush shows the identity of that river with the Tigris in the following quotation from his notes on Genesis:—"'Hiddekel' compounded of two words implying lightness and velocity; and pointing consequently to a stream distinguished by a rapid current. That such is the Tigris, universally understood to be meant by the Hiddekel, appears from the testimony of Pliny:—'The Tigris is so called from its celerity.' In the Oriental versions it is called Diglath, or Diklath, of which the pedigree is thus traced from Hiddekel. Heb., Hiddekel; Syr., Hidkalts; hence by dropping the first syllable, Dekalto, whence Deglitho, Diglith, Diglath. From Diglath Tigris is derived as follows: Diglath or Diglith, Tiglith, Tigrith, Tigris. 'Towards the east of Assyria,' or Heb. 'Eastward towards Assyria.'"

Thus two great rivers, the Euphrates and Tigris, are identified as two of the four rivers which united, and went out of Eden to water the garden." And in order to identify the two others, the following quotation is taken from the Bible Dictionary by the American Tract Society:

"Euphrates, a famous river of Asia, which has its source in the mountains of Armenia, runs along the frontier of Cappadocia, Syria, Arabia Deserta, Chaldea, and Mesopotamia, and falls into the Persian gulf. According to the recent researches of Chesnery, it receives the Tigris at a place called Kurnah, the united stream being called Shat-el-Arab. Five miles below the junction of these two mighty rivers, the Shat-el-Arab receives the Kerklah, which has a source of upwards of five hundred miles. Sixty-two miles below the mouth of the Kerklah, another large river, the Kuran, comes in from the northeast. At present it enters the Shat-el-Arab forty miles above its mouth; but formerly it flowed into the Persian gulf by a separate channel east of the main stream."

Now, according to the account given in Genesis, the first branch or head stream is Pison, and since the first river flowing into the main stream is the Kuran, this is enough to identify the Kuran as the Pison of Genesis. It should be remembered that the book of Genesis was writen by Moses, either in the wilderness of Sinai, or in Egypt; and when he speaks of the garden being planted eastward in Eden, the direction would be exactly in line with the Persian gulf. And since, according to his account, a river went out of E len to water the garden, which was made up of four other rivers uniting, when he speaks of the first as the Pison, it of course, means the first branch off from the main stream; and since the Kuran is the first branch, its identity with the Pison is thereby established. The language of Moses will not admit of any other interpretation; for Pison could not be called the first, except as the first branch off from Eden northward, or up stream, since any other view would not allow of the Tigris being rated third, and the Euphrates as the fourth river, seeing that from Moses' stand-point, the Euphrates would be the first looking eastward, where he locates the river of Paradise. But following up the river, from the Persian gulf, the first river flowing thereinto, is the Kuran; the second, the Kerklah; the third, the Tigris; the fourth, the Euphrates; so that no other view will admit of the Tigris being called "the third river," and the fourth river, Euphrates. For in following up the main stream, its branches would rate in that order, while in any other view, the Euphrates, as the principal river, would be more likely to be rated first. So that idea that the Ganges is the Pison of Genesis, does not accord with the account given therein; which represents these four rivers as forming a junction, and flowing through Eden onward in its course through the garden; while the Ganges is so far off from the Euphrates, as to forbid the idea of their ever having been united in one river.

It should be remembered that the account given of the location of the garden of Eden was written before the Israelites entered the land of Canaan, and therefore so far back in the history of the world as to allow of changes in the names of some of these rivers, and of an enlargement of some of the lands that these rivers are said to have bounded. The Havilah, which the river Pison is said to encompass, with the view that this is identical with the Kuran, must have been territory bounded westward and northward by this river; while it might have been afterward extended, and the name applied to other places. So also with respect to the other river, and the territory it is said to have bounded. For the account states that "the second river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia."

The descendants of Cush were called Ethiopians, and since he was the son of Ham, the son of Noah, the land of Ethiopia, referred to as bounded by the river Gihon, is the original territory occupied by the descendants of Cush. And since the descendents of Noah were gathered in the land of Shinar, near Babylon, after the confusion of tongues, the descendants of Cush would be likely to settle in the territory inclosed between the Kerklah and the Tigris; and from hence called the land of Ethiopia. But under this name, the Bible Dictionary says, "there seem to be included not less than three different countries: 1. The oriental Cush, comprehending the regions of Persia, Cushistan, and Susiana, in Persia. It lay chiefly to the eastward of the Tigris. Hither we may refer the river Gihon, Gen. 2: 10; Zeph. 3: 10."

Conclusion. Since the topagrophy of the garden of Eden is given with considerable particularity, it shows conclusively, that the writer intended it to be understood; and since the description given of the four rivers applies to the Kuran, the Kerklah, the Tigris, and the Euphrates, and has no appropriate application to any others, we only conclude that their united streams formed the rivers of Paradise. And as this river went out of Eden to water the garden, the garden must have been situated further down stream towards the Persian gulf, than that part of Eden from whence the river is said to have gone out. And since it is said that the river "from thence it was parted and became four heads," and the first being the Kuran, and as that enters the main river forty miles from the Persian gulf, this would mark the northern boundary of Eden, and so locate the garden still nearer the Persian gulf.

Thus the Bible locates the garden of Eden with considerable exactness, as the place where our first parents were placed in their original innocence, and from whence they were driven out to till the ground because of their sin in eating of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, and deprived of a chance to eat of the tree of life, lest in so doing they should eat and live forever. In order then to obtain eternal life, we must accept the gospel of Christ. "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life" . . . "which is in the midst of the paradise of God,"—in the earth renewed in Paradise restored—in the city of God.

CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE.

H. PRATT.

We may not do well always by measuring ourselves by others, either by the hopeful and cheerful, or the mournful and sad. Christian experience is simply the experience of christians. In this experience "the servant is not greater than his Master." The nearer our life compares with the life of Christ, so much more is our christian experience.

It would seem proper then to give somewhat of his experience, first, as a pattern. His mission must be our mission. We must suffer if we would reign; bear the cross to wear the crown. We cannot bear as much as the "Captain," but we can "suffer with him."

EXPERIENCE OF CHRIST.

"He was a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief." This was not personal grief or sorrow that marred so much his countenance. "He bare our griefs and carried our sorrows." It was not the stinting of his own comforts, the nightly watchings, the wearisome journeys, the piercing nail or thorn; it was the fallen condition of the creature man, that bore him down. Human sorrows, human misery, unbelief, selfishness, and human condemnation; these were the crushing burdens of his life. Simon, of Cyrene, took the wood off his shoulders and bore it up the slopes of Calvary, but he did not bear the cross of Christ. That lay heavy on the heart of the Master. It was that which pressed the blood from his face. It was that which caused his soul to be sorrowful, even unto death. "How oft would I have gathered you, . . . but ye would not." "If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes."

Warning and entreating, healing and comforting, forbearing and forgiving, rejected and suffering, were the experiences of Jesus while doing the will of his Father in heaven; with the assurance to his disciples that the servant is not above his Master. He finished his work and rests in the Father's bosom. The scourged, the bruised, the crucified Lamb of God.

EXPERIENCE OF PAUL.

But few of the conflicts of the apostles are recorded, yet we are assured that they experienced the truthfulness of their Master's words—"If they have persecuted me, they will persecute you." Paul never tried to persuade men to be reconciled to God by the eloquence of speech, or apeing human gestures, or with man's wisdom. In his first sermon at Antioch, he got turned out of the city; in his second attempt at Lystra, they stoned him and drew him out of the city, supposing him dead. However, he recovered, and, having a call, he went to Macedonia, and after preaching to a few women he cast out a devil, and was stoned and imprisoned. At Thessalonica and Berea he was sent away to save his life. At Athens they made insurrection against him, and brought him to the judgment seat. At Ephesus his preaching endangered the craft of silversmiths, and while they were shouting for their goddess Diana, Paul made his escape to Macedonia. In Greece the Jews laid wait for him. From Miletus he sent to Ephesus and called the elders of the church, and when they were come to him he said unto them—"Ye know from the day I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you, in all seasons, serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears and temptations which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews." "Tears and temptations" were some of his experiences in following Christ; yet he could wish himself accursed for their (the Jews) sakes. "Therefore [says he], watch and remember by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one, night and day, with tears."

Again, "Why weep ye and break my heart," said Paul, when he was about to leave them and go to Jeusalem. There "the Jews went about to kill him." He was brought before rulers, and he pleaded his own case; and instead of appeasing them they cried, "Away with him! it is not fit that such a fellow should live." He was examined by scourging, and the chief captain interfered lest they should have killed him. He told a little of his experience to the Corinthian church, which was on this wise:—"Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one; thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day have I been in the deep. In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by my own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren; in weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness. Beside those things that are without, that come upon me daily, the care of all the churches. Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?" Notwithstanding all this, Paul could say finally, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith, and a crown of righteousness awaits me." This is christian experience.

MANY christians want to use the Lord. O beloved, let the Lord use you; it will be such a relief to you and such a gladness to the poor sinner.

EXPOSITORY SUGGESTIONS.

"THE KINGS OF THE EAST."

S. S. BREWER.

In presenting some suggestions concerning the above characters, and their mission, I shall endeavor to be as concise as the nature of the subject will allow me.

First. Who are "the kings of the east"? Rev. 16: 12. They are not earthly rulers, but this is a figurative appellative, designating children of God. The prophet Isaiah (61: 6) predicts—"But ye shall be named the priests of the Lord; men shall call you the ministers of our God." The apostle Peter (1 Pet. 2: 5, 9) testifies—"Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. . . . But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation." The Revelator uses conjunctively the appellatives of king and priest; consequently it belongs to the disciples of Christ. "Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen." Rev. 1: 5, 6.

Dr. Tregelles, an eminent translator, renders the passage of Rev. 7: 2 thus: "And I saw another angel ascending from the sun-rising, having the seal of the living God"; also in chap. 16: 12, it is made to read "sun-rising" instead of east. The angel of the seventh chapter evidently signifies a class of good messengers. And "the kings who are from the sun-rising" of chap. 16 are the same.

There are two great powers intimately connected with our subject that demands some notice. Anciently there was a literal river, Euphrates, and a literal city, Babylon, situated thereon. The two, Babylon and Euphrates, are introduced figuratively, in connection with our subject. Ancient Babylon was sustained, and enriched by the immense revenues derived from the Euphrates. To intercept that would deprive her of the main source of her dependençe. The law of analogy must hold the same relation pertaining to symbolic Babylon and Euphrates of Rev. 16.

In vision there is seen a woman drunken with blood, "and upon her forehead a name written—MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT." In Rev. 17: 1 she is represented as sitting "upon many waters"; and the 15th verse reads—"The waters which thou sawest, where the harlot sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues." These constitute the symbolic Euphrates.

Ancient Babylon was reduced by Cyrus' drying up the Euphrates, thereby preparing the way to inflict the judgments of God as predicted in Isa. 44: 27, and 45: 1–8; also 25: 12–14. The sixth vial predicts the drying up of the symbolic Euphrates, in order to prepare for the kings of the east. To this subject we now solicit your attention. Rev. 16: 12—"And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared." As the drying up of the ancient Euphrates and the invading of Babylon by Cyrus most definitely marked the commencement of a series of judgments upon that power; so, the effect of the sixth vial can be traced upon "Babylon the great." Allow me to say that, in my very humble opinion, the effect of this vial can be clearly discerned in what is termed "The Reign of Terror" in France.

"On the memorable 26th of August, in the year 1792, an open profession of atheism, irreligion and infidelity was made, and forthwith acted upon, by a whole nation once devoted to papal superstitions. Christianity was then formally abolished, as a notorious and malignant imposture, by the government of revolutionary France."—Taber, vol. 3, p. 363. The Hon. Gerard Noel says, in the Lit., No.3, 1840, there was a "massacre of a hundred thousand of her clergy." France, the great imperial protectorate power of Babylon the great, from the days of Charlemagne, and the one that had shed the blood of more martyrs than any other nation, then became the most inveterate persecutor of the gory harlot. The very citadel of power—the Gibraltar of papacy—was invaded. The channel of the great symbolic Euphrates was diverted. No event of such prophetic magnitude, pertaining to the judgments upon the harlot, had then nor has since transpired. And it may now be said of modern Babylon, as of the ancient—"And the nations shall not flow together any more unto him." Jer. 51: 44.

George Bush, late Prof. of Hebrew in the New York City University, in remarking upon the results of the above revolution says—"Certain it is, that the philosophic mind of this age is forming a continually heightening estimate of the stupendous importance of that series of revolutions which, commencing in France, in 1789, has in its progress completely transformed the face of Europe. Nearly all the governments of the countries constituting the ten kingdoms of the Roman earth have been subverted, and the papal power, as a secular sovereignty, in fact degraded and extinguished." "During the twenty-five years of its progress," says Mr. Allison, "the world has gone through more than five hundred years of its ordinary existence." "The pillage of the papal states by the French, in 1797," says Mr. Bickersteth, "was such as to drain them of its specie, and take away all the jewels and precious stones they could find. The French ambassador wrote to Napoleon, stating, discontent is at its highest in the papal states. The payment of 30,000,000, stipulated by the treaty of Tolentino, at the close of so many previous losses, has totally exhausted the old carcass. We are making it consume by a slow fire."—Hierophant, No. 7, p. 157.

Permit me now to solicit your attention to some testimony emanating from papal dignitaries, in confirmation of the exhausted state of this once "great river Euphrates."

Cardinal Cullen, in a speech uttered Aug. 21st, 1866, stated that "the spirit of revolution is triumphant in almost every country in Europe, and has destroyed the power of the Catholic States. There is no friendly power now capable of supporting the head of the church, or of maintaining the doctrines and practices of our holy religion. Austria was the last able to do so; and Austria is now overthrown. The condition then of the Pope is this: that his territory has been reduced to a very small spot in Italy. Nearly everything has been taken from him. The Emperor of the French very kindly held the hands of the Pope whilst his enemies were stripping him of the Patrimony of St. Peter; and now having reduced the holy father to a state of temporal weakness, and all the Catholic powers willing to assist him being either revolutionized or weakened, the Emperor of France abandons Rome, and leaves the people to the mercy of the Italian insurrectionists;—to the mercy of men who avow the deadliest hatred to the Pope, and to religion. . . . Our holy father looks in vain for help from the powers of this earth, even from that empire whose promises of help were so explicit and solemn." The analogy is perfect—"And the nations shall not flow together any more unto him." The Euphrates is absorbed—dried up.

I will introduce other very striking analogy. It was predicted concerning ancient Babylon, by the prophet Isaiah (34: 12),—"They shall call the nobles thereof to the kingdom, but none shall be there, and all her princes shall be nothing." We find an article in the Boston Pilot—a rigid popish journal—of Dec. 14th, 1867, which places modern Babylon in precisely the same condition of its prototype as contained in the above prophecy. "We view with grief the apathy with which the governments of Europe have permitted his Holiness to be assailed in his rights, and stripped of his territories. That, as Catholic France has assumed to herself the proud protrectress of the Holy See, we call on the Emperor—by whose act other powers were prevented from intervening in the affairs of Rome, to take such decided and energetic measures as may insure the realization of the hopes of the Catholic world, and the restitution of all the territories of which his Holiness has been so unjustly despoiled."

Poor old "Pio Nino!" His devotees call to the "nobles and princes," but they are "nothing." He, and they that "did weaken the nations," are "nothing." The way is now prepared for "the kings of the east" to go forth upon their pre-designed mission.

(Concluded next week.)

"COME, LORD JESUS."

NETTIE M. SWETT.

Fair as the morning when first adorning the eastern hills,
Radiant in beauty,—
Come in thy purity,
Lift the curse from the earth, cleanse her from ills.

Father, look down upon suffering humanity,
Weary of the discipline,
Looking for Christ again.
Oh! Father, pity us, condemn us not utterly.

We for his coming pray, waiting wearily;
Sad looks the earth to us,—
Thou art victorious.
Come and comfort us, watching so drearily.

We watch the eastern skies, oh, so longingly.
Oh, that the day would dawn,
When sin and evil gone,
Jesus shall come again—come most regally.

Lynn, Mass.

THE TWO CLASSES OF SIGNS AND EVENTS.

J. R. CLARK.

We wish to call attention to a fact which we think has been somewhat overlooked by many, viz., that our Lord states distinctly (Luke 21) that there are two classes of events, and two classes of signs, that shall indicate the different events presented. The first events are those attending Jerusalem's desolation and subjection to the Gentiles; the second—the emancipation of the church and the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth.

The sign of the first class of events is thus stated—"When ye see Jerusalem compassed about with armies, then know that the desolation thereof (spoken of by Daniel the prophet) is nigh." The signs of the second class of events are in the sun, moon, and stars, and distress of nations. When ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

First, Jerusalem's desolation, with days of vengeance and subjugation to the Gentiles. Second, the emancipation and redemption of the true Israel of God, and the establishment of the kingdom of God. Each event has appropriate signs for the guide of the inquirers after truth. Ver. 24. "Until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled;"—this implies that when the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled, there will be no more treading down. Jesus told the Jews—"Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. . . . Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."

It is very evident that we are living in the time of convulsions that will not terminate before the Son of man shall be seen coming in a cloud with power and great glory." The signs of these times are just as indicative of the speedy coming of our Lord as the signs were of Jerusalem's destruction. The signs are so plain that we may as well know Christ is soon coming as that summer is approaching by the budding fig tree. Hence christian men are inexcusable if they remain in ignorance of a matter of such vital and startling importance. Men need not live in ignorance concerning the coming of our Lord if they will search the Scriptures. The Lord's command is—"Take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares. For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. Watch, ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things which shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man."

CHRISTIAN CHARITY.

ADAM FRIESE.

In further illustration of ideas bearing upon the subject in hand, I will quote from my readings some paragraphs which completely express my sentiments in what they embrace.

"Variety is the law of the universe. Light, so seemingly simple and uniform, is not a simple thing in its nature, but is composed of rays of different colors. What sight more beautiful than the rainbow? and yet, how many colors compose it! These colors are so beautifully blended that we never disunite them in our mind, but style them the rainbow. So is the church. There will be different temperaments; brethren and sisters raised in different families, educated in different schools, trained by different systems, moulded by different models, and developed in different directions. Coming together in church capacity they assume new relations. Now they have united together to be educated by Christ. They have become disciples—learners. But these different elements will sometimes come in collision, and unless great care is taken by the individual, and great grace bestowed by the Master, roots of bitterness will spring up, and instead of a harmonious whole, we shall find the people torn by distractions and dissentions. How essential then that we endeavor (make strenuous effort) to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace!

It is entirely compatible that diversity may exist and consist with unity—with harmony. It does so. In the symbol of the great building of God, which is to be composed of his people as lively, or living stones, joined together, the stones evidently are of various sizes, capacities, shapes, hues and adaptedness for ornament. They are not all squared alike, having different angles and planes of surface, but their edges must all be fitted and straightened by the same rule, so that they may form a perfect building, and be cemented together by the love of God.

"This variety in human nature is just as pleasant and important to our complete development as a church or a people, as is the variety of the visible world essential to its completeness and beauty. The very air we breathe is compounded of different gases; the water we drink is a compound substance whose constituent elements are combined by chemical affinity; and the stars in their courses differ from one another, not only in the twinkle of some, and steady lustre of others, but in the different colors they display—Arcturus being red, Sirius white, and Procyon yellow."

"As the planets in our solar system, though of different magnitudes, and moving with different velocities, ever traverse the trackless expanse of space in their own orbits, kept in their proper places by the laws of attraction, with the sun for their central orb, so ought we to move on, kept in our proper places by the sanctifying influence of the Holy Spirit, surrounded by an atmosphere of divine love, and all revolving around one blessed center, even Jesus."

"Christ is one though we are many; and if we are all in him, wholly in him, and so holy to him, we are one with each other, even as the several branches are all one in the tree to which they belong, and as the several members are one in the one body of which each is a part. Christian unity, therefore, springs directly from holiness to the Lord. Whole or holy union with Jesus unites us as one with each other, and makes us a unit. This is no dry unity of the head, but a beautiful unity of the heart. Baptized or experimentally introduced into him, he fills the heart full of himself, who is the fulness of all that is lovely, and excludes all that is selfish or unlovely, whether it be personal, or family, or church selfishness, and binds us together in the sweet bond of the fellowship of love. You can no more be wholly the Lord's and yet selfish or sectarian, than you can be loving and hating the same thing at the same time. The hearts of christians of all denominations, when wholly given up to Christ, and filled with faith and the Holy Spirit, run together like globules of quicksilver: the instant they touch each other they become one."

What sweetness there is in the experiences of the people of God, as presented in their testimonies of his goodness and dealings with them in various circumstances, at various times, and in various modes or ways. And yet the bearing or converging tendency of all is toward a focal point—the divine love, in unity of spirit. How beautiful, how encouraging, how refreshing to the contemplative mind, are the adaptations of the all-wise Creator for the good and happiness or his creatures.

Thus his people, of whatever nation, kindred, language, or denomination, are enabled to join in songs of praise like this:

"Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in christian love:
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above."

Let us, then, go forth manifesting this kindred spirit, especially toward all the children of the (one) family of God, founding our christian recognition on the evidence of their true conversion, and the witness of the Spirit.

"A more important and valuable element than 'brotherly love' does not exist in the whole economy of human redemption. What do these words signify when applied to the spiritual and natural brotherhood? Simply unadulterated affection, strong attachment, kindness excited by beauty or worth of any kind, which communicates pleasure. The principle is so exceedingly meritorious, that God has seen fit to place it at the bottom of his heaven-ordained scheme of salvation. His own bosom and that of his Son, were compassionately moved by this divine element, after man's fall from his primeval state; and his present condition demands its special development and display."

One branch of christian charity is exercised when we forgive those who have trespassed against us. This duty needs to be impressed upon many who profess to love Christ. Many overlook this matter, and cherish the hope of being saved by the ordinary observances of religion, and general assent to its doctrines, while malice and bitterness exist in their hearts, and they are unwilling to forgive those who have trespassed, or have failed to speak and act in conformity with their ideas of truth and right. But

In vain it is for us to pray,
Except we're willing to obey.

Our blessed Savior clearly declares upon what condition and to what extent we may expect forgiveness of God. Saith he, "If ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you; but if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive you your trespasses." This is a point of importance. "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us." So then if any root of bitterness or of unkindness remains in our hearts, if we do not clearly and fully forgive others, we so far cut short the forgiveness of our own faults and sins. Tempt not the Lord.

Let us all cultivate brotherly love, and live in peace as far as possible, and thereby honor the cause of Christ, instead of bringing reproach upon it by a contrary course. Let there be unity of heart, and the glowing fellowship of christian charity or love pervading the motives and actions of all the people of God, as followers of Christ, who has so fully exemplified and inculcated the spirit of love and forgiveness in his life on earth. They should be a united people—not necessarily in one congregation, but in heart—in harmony of spirit on common ground, broad, liberal, sufficiently progressive to be teachable, to willingly admit or receive additional light and truth when presented to their minds, yet conservative enough to keep from running into error or extremes, by the exercise of enlightened judgment, prayerful consideration, and searching or appealing "to the law and the testimony" of the inspired Word of God, in order to "prove all things, and hold fast that which is good." Let us not, after we have attained to a certain degree of light and knowledge of the truth, settle down with the idea that we have all the truth or light there is to be attained in this life, or drive our stakes and say to ourselves if not to others, "thus far and no farther shalt thou go," and here all further advance and investigation must be stayed.

"In union there is strength;" then it follows that disunion or division is the source of weakness and of inability to accomplish what might be done by united effort. Unity is nowhere more important than among christians. In the words of Jesus, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

The essence of practical Christianity is love. It is the perfection of love that makes it unexceptionable. If it is deficient or perverted, that arises from deficiency or perversion of love. As its Author is love, so its adherents should be pervaded and actuated by it, as the grand moving principle of life; for "he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him." 1 John 4: 6.

The main-spring of action, the chief ingredient, the ruling principle of the religion of Christ is love, love, LOVE, which, according to Paul, is christian charity. Nothing should be made a test of fellowship but obedience to Christ and the manifestation of that spirit of charity, or love and good-will which was taught and practiced by our Lord and his disciples. In the language of Paul, "Let brotherly love continue." Heb. 13: 1. But be sure it has first commenced.

In the words of Peter, "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren; see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently; being (begotten) born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the sure Word of God which liveth and abideth forever." 1 Peter 1: 22: 23.

Remember the admonition of the beloved disciple, John, "Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God," etc. 1 John 4: 7–21.

And above all, and in perfect harmony with the inspired writers and teachers of pure Christianity, be sure to heed the words of our blessed Lord himself: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples," etc. John 13: 34, 35.

Once more, let us close with an admonition from Paul, "Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil speaking be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God, for Christ's sake, hath forgiven you." Eph. 4: 31, 32.

Springfield, Mass.

— As the sun is reflected in a spring when it is clear and limpid, so God is reflected in the soul of a man when it is pure and spiritual.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 10, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"Editors of World's Crisis, Boston, Mass."

"World's Crisis, Boston, Mass.," or

Geo. T. Adams, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"Editor Young Pilgrim, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

SPECIAL NOTICE

To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis.

AG'T.

WATCH.

"And what I say unto you, I say unto all, Watch."
—Jesus.—Mark 13: 37.

To watch is to be wakeful—to have an active mind, to have the mind interested in and active upon some specific subject. Connected with that subject must be danger, and that danger must cause the activity of mind. The danger must consist in liability of harm, either in suffering injury, or the loss of something valuable, or both. The object of watching is therefore to escape harm and secure blessings. Watching, in a gospel sense, must be like watching in a political sense; for the latter is taken to illustrate the former. Men who are appointed to watch over temporal interests are required to be wakeful, and are reckoned unfaithful if they are found asleep. Men are never thus appointed only where there is danger. Where there is no harm anticipated there is no necessity for watching.

This world is full of danger, and therefore it is very necessary to be constantly watching. A mother never ceases to watch when she knows that her children are in danger. She faithfully charges them to watch, and so guard against the dangers to which they are exposed. She will instruct them where the snares are, and how they may escape them, charging them to be constantly on the lookout that they are not ensnared. Such instruction manifests her true love for them. So Jesus, the Lover and Friend of the church, has taught her that she will ever in this world, be in the midst of snares and pitfalls, so she will need to give heed to every step, and know that she occupies the very position that is required.

To watch effectually in any position we must watch intelligently; that is, we must understand the danger to look for, the way to escape it, the blessings to obtain, and the way to secure them.

If a man were at work on the track of a railroad bridge, and, to preserve his life must leave the bridge when trains passed it, his danger would be in not leaving the bridge before the arrival of the trains. For him to watch intelligently, he must keep his mind constantly employed in looking for the signs and evidences of the approach of trains. If his mind were taken off from this, and all absorbed in looking for a steamboat coming down the river, he might be destroyed by a passing train because he was not watching for the real danger. So our heavenly Father manifests his love for his people by pointing out to them all the dangers to which they are exposed. He instructs them what the ensnaring circumstances will be, the evidence of their approach, the means, and the ways to employ them, by which to escape the fatal results.

We are taught that all the propensities and lusts of the flesh are ensnaring, and therefore to be in safety, we must have them subdued—held in subjection by higher and more ennobling aspirations and principles. These principles are all embraced in the divine nature possessed by Christ, in their fulness, and given by him to all who will seek for them and covenant to employ them in all the experiences of this life. The great love and kindness of God in this matter is manifested by not only telling us the source of our dangers, but he has described the emotions and lusts of the flesh, and those of the Spirit, showing their contrast and the results of each, so that we are left without excuse.

Watching in this department of christian experience is therefore to constantly employ the mind in learning distinctly what desires the flesh produces, and know that they are every day crucified, restrained by power received from Christ, so as not to ripen into acts of rebellion against God.

Every generation and class of people experience dangers peculiar to itself. Some of them result from the particular habits, fashions and customs of the people, and some from special providential circumstances sent by God. Some of these come according to general laws, and are therefore presented in general statements which apply equally to all people and times. Some of them are specific, and are produced by special circumstances, for special reasons, to accomplish special purposes. Such was the flood, the burning of the cities, the offering up of Isaac, the exode from Egypt, the first advent of Christ, the dispersion of the Jews, the destruction of their city, and such will be the final destruction of Great Babylon and the glorious advent of Christ at the last judgment. Did Jesus, in the empassioned exhortation he gave to his church in the passage we quoted at the head of this article, have reference to any specific dangers, or to those to which the church is always exposed? The context shows that they were specific, to be experienced at a certain time by a particular "generation." He says, "Take ye heed, watch and pray; for ye know not when the time is." He could not be speaking of an event that was constantly occurring, but one that should happen at some future time unknown to them. That event was his own future coming; for in his next expression he says—"For the Son of man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch."

He illustrates himself and his church by a man and his house or family, who left them, and went into a distant country to be absent for a long and unknown period, but left a porter, or gate keeper, to watch for his return, and be ready to greet him at his coming, and open unto him immediately. He then says—"Watch ye therefore," because you will be left in a condition like the porter; "for ye know not when the Master of the house cometh, at even, or at the cock crowing, or in the morning; lest, coming suddenly, he find you sleeping." He emphatically expresses what the particular danger would be, that would make it so important that they should watch. In the illustration it consisted in the fact that the man of the house might return suddenly, when the porter was asleep. The fact illustrated is, that Christ may return to the earth suddenly, and find his professed people asleep. His coming suddenly does not imply that he will come swiftly, or prematurely, but sooner than he was expected. We say of a man who died with consumption, that he died very suddenly. We do not mean that the disease killed him very quickly, or that we did not expect or believe he would die with it; but we mean that he died at an hour when, from the symptoms and appearance, we did not expect it. The same idea is expressed in the word "sleeping." The porter's sleep would prevent his hearing the sound of his master's coming train, and of seeing the light of his approaching chariot. So the church, in the last days, will be in great danger of occupying a position where she will not see the signs and tokens of the approach of the great King.

He says of the period, running to and preceding his second coming,—"But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." Did he mean, by the days before the flood, all time preceding it? No, he meant the days during which they could have known by his revelations, that a flood was approaching, and could have prepared for it. He shows that they were destroyed because they knew not until the flood came. Why did they not know that the flood was coming? Because they were asleep; that is, occupied a position of opposition to the revelations showing its approach, so that they were unconscious of its coming, just as the porter was unconscious of the return of his Master. He expresses the same danger again thus—"And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares. For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. Watch ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man."

To come upon us unawares is to come when we are not looking for that coming. He shows that this would be very dangerous, and might be produced by worldliness, eating and drinking wickedly, thus turning the mind from and blinding it to the signs and evidences indicating the nearness of his coming. He exhorts them to "watch," that they "may be accounted worthy to escape" the "snare," which will consist in having the event come upon them "unawares." This will be just as it was with the wicked when the flood came; they "knew not until the flood came and took them all away." The fatality in their case was in the fact that "they knew not until the flood came"; while the safety of those who were saved consisted in the fact that they learned by God's revelation that the deluge was coming in season to prepare for it.

The great Teacher adds to this statement of the fate of those who knew not until the flood came—"So shall also the coming of the Son of man be." Then, by his authority, we know that when he comes the second time some will be "taken away"—ensnared—because they will "know not" that he is coming, just as the antediluvians were ensnared because they knew not that the deluge was coming. The principle producing guilt in the two cases is exactly the same. It consists in rejecting light—in refusing to receive God's testimony relating to the subject.

In the case of the flood, God revealed the fact of its coming to his prophet Noah, and also preached to those in prison by his Spirit, while Noah was preparing the ark; that is, while he was making special preparation for the coming judgment. Their rejecting the light thus given became the justifying reason for God to bring upon them swift destruction. Therefore it must follow in the parallelism, according to Christ, that, prior to his second coming, revelations must be made to one or more of God's prophets, that such an event will come, and also the period of its coming: and these revelations must be proclaimed to the people while the church will be making special preparations for the coming judgment.

At the same time that the church is engaged proclaiming the judgment message—the gospel of the kingdom—the Spirit of God will preach to all men in moral prisons, that is, impress or cause them to realize that some great event is coming, so as to be "looking after those things that are coming on the earth." But many of them will not anticipate the great change correctly, and will not therefore make a correct preparation for it.

The important question now arises, Has God made any such revelations to any of his prophets of the second coming of Christ, and the generation during which the event shall take place? We answer emphatically that he has made such revelations by many of the prophets and apostles, and by his Son, in the most explicit and definite manner. These revelations are accompanied with explanations and qualifications, showing that they should have a particular, practical and experimental application to a certain period and generation, just as did those of the flood and other special judgments.

It appears that the particular importance of watching, relating to this subject as expressed by the Savior in the text, is to ascertain when the season comes for the practical application of these prophecies, so that the church may publish them to the world, warning it of the approaching advent of Christ and the last judgment as Noah did of the coming deluge.

Have we come to the long anticipated period? Is the generation now upon the stage to which these revelations specifically apply? Is the church of this generation called upon by Christ to preach the gospel of the kingdom, as a specialty in her work, as were Noah and Lot to preach coming judgments? Let no one attempt to answer these vitally important questions who have not obeyed the Savior and been watching the prophetic index, so as to know to what age it now points in the serial prophecies. Let none attempt to say that the generation appointed of God to do the parallel work of Noah has or has not come upon the stage, unless they are able to read the prophetic history of that generation, and say that the present one does or does not agree with it.

This was the way that Christ was identified as the Messiah by those who were watching at his first advent. They read the prophetic history of his appearing, and the attending circumstances in the experiences of those connected with him, politically and religiously, and finding that it agreed exactly with the history of Mary's Son, and all things connected with him and his followers, they accepted him as their Messiah. Upon the same principles must the church watch and look for the second coming of Christ.

Acting upon these principles we can most devoutly say we believe the glorious appearing of Christ is very soon to take place. The redemption of a fallen world is immediately to be accomplished. The divine pencilling upon time's canvas, of woful scenes under the curse, has all passed before the human eye, and the last of the series now appears through a darkness of fearful gloom. God's great clock of time has ticked away hour by hour the six antitypical work-days of creation, its hands unvaryingly sweeping its dial as the generations of humanity have risen and fallen, tolling the end of political periods, when dynasties and empires sunk under the crimsoned wave of revolution and defeat.

The holy seed appeared at Abel's altar and Enoch's foot-path, at the awful place where Isaac was bound, in the land of Ham, the howling wilderness, the country of historic wonders, and where the angelic choir broke the adoring silence of the slumbering tribes with the birthday anthem of the great Messiah. Then was manifested the grand foretold era of change in the divine administration.

From this time christian watchers have untiringly gazed upon the drifting world, as they have viewed the true church fleeing from Jerusalem, as instructed, plunging into seas of blood during a long night of numbered periods, then emerging from the wilderness, searching her Text Book, waiting until the angels shall cease to hold the howling winds, when the last trumpet shall sound the long-expected note of the end. Then shall a convulsed world reel and quiver under the fiat of Jehovah, its thunders roaring and lightnings blazing amid the din of battle and wail of despair, as the Judge of earth shall appear in Royal Court, and summon the quick and dead to appear and receive their final doom.

O watchman, watchman, what of the night? Can you see a head-light through the darkness of the tempest? Are there signs of coming morning? Does your barometer indicate a calm and rest at hand? Are we entering the haven of undisturbed repose, where the storms of the curse can never reach us, and the blightings of death are unknown? Yes, O yes, the last light upon the coast is in full view, and the old ship is plunging and plowing through the terrible billows upon the bar, sweeping majestically past the threatening rocks, with her Heaven-commissioned Pilot safely guiding her into the undisturbed waters of the celestial harbor.

J. C.

THE CRISIS IN FRANCE.

The evidence increases in favor of a revolution in France at no distant day. Jules Favre says the present state of things cannot long continue, and that the contest must come between the Bonapartists and Republicans. The Bonapartists are not in a hurry, as Napoleon IV. is not quite as matured as might be desirable. They have everything to gain by delay. McMahon evidently favors the Bonapartists, but does not care to have it known yet to the public. The present strength of the Republicans in the Assembly is 339 out of a total of 730 members. Among the Republicans are a number of members who vote as often with the Bonapartists as for their own party. It is said the Bonapartists are now "just beginning to work." Of the Prince Imperial it is said:

"The young French mind is fired with the idea that this young Prince may conduct France over the paths which his great ancestor trod. The French have an instinctive belief in destiny. A combination strikes them as effective, and they believe in it without any very good reason why. Just now the Prince is the principal and growing figure in that combination. He is represented as possessing a melancholy, thoughtful countenance, such as would become a Prince encumbered with a destiny. He waits patiently under the direction of his managers, trusting the French people to call him to the throne. His young friend and school companion, Master Alfonso, already writes himself King of Spain. There are probably people in France whose sympathies will be enlisted by this circumstance. Even politicians may see an element of strength in the friendship which is represented to have existed between the two school-boys. The French Prince is not a Bourbon; but he was born on the proudest throne in Europe, and young Alfonso was not in a position at that time to be exclusive. There is one consideration which, perhaps, will become predominant in the minds of the French people. They are taking breath now lest some time in the near future they want a strong Government. Recent events have intensified the hatred of every good Frenchman for Germany. There has been military genius in the family of the Prince, and it may show in him. Destiny demands it, and we all know that a profound faith in destiny sometimes fulfils its own prophecy."

Should Napoleon IV. take the throne of France, there is but little doubt but that he would favor the Pope as fully as King Alfonso. If for no other reason, he would do it to please his mother, and to imitate the policy of his father. So long as there are about two hundred million Catholics in the world, who are under the control of the Pope; the King who has his sympathy, has the support of that vast body of people, which is a strong element of power, which any king may covet, when the governments of Europe are so well balanced as at the present time. The king or emperor, who has the support of the Catholics, stands the best chance for success, as viewed from a human stand-point; but the poorest, when seen from a Bible stand-point. The last supporter of the Papacy is sure to go "into perdition."

M. G.

DYING.

News from the various parts of the world show that the Catholic power is dying. "Death, and mourning, and famine" (Rev. 18: 8), are terms now applicable to this great system that has trampled upon "the saints of the Most High," and gloated over "the blood of the martyrs of Jesus" for more than a thousand years. Yet we believe the Roman "woman" will die a hard death. We expect to see her pass through a terrible death-struggle with those who are to be her destroyers. Large preparations are being made by her friends and foes. We endorse the views given by Bro. Couch in the Crisis of Jan. 13th, relating to the King of Spain. We believe a strong effort will be made to re-establish the temporal power of the Papacy, but the result will be utter destruction. All the signs of the times show that the last great drama of the present dispensation is now at hand. Praise the Lord.

The following from San Diego, Mexico, Jan. 22nd, shows the condition of the Catholic power in that country, where it has been supreme from its early settlement till now:

"The laws relative to religious reform, enacted by the supreme Government, are being rigidly enforced. All forms of religion are equal before the law now. All churches are vested in the Government and must be registered according to law, and are placed under the police supervision. All monastic orders of men and women are disbanded. In consequence, the Sisters of Charity are leaving the country in all directions. The feeling of the people is not against the sisters, but against the influence which it is asserted the Jesuits wield over them.

The cause of public education gains great ground in all parts of the Republic.

Notwithstanding persecutions, the Protestant Reformed religion is spreading rapidly. At the close of the last year there were upward of one hundred Protestant churches in the country. In Guadalajara, on Christmas Day, the Protestant congregation baptized sixty and admitted fifty-six to church membership. The house was so crowded that the doors were barred to prevent the entrance of more people.

Nine of the men concerned in the assassination of missionary Stevens last year are in confinement at Guadalajara, under sentence of death."

It is rather significant that Garibaldi has just entered Rome, and been received with great joy by the Italians, as shown by the following telegram:

"Rome, Jan. 24. Garibaldi landed at Civita Vecchia yesterday evening. He was received with most enthusiastic demonstrations by the people, and conducted through the town by a torchlight procession. He arrived to-day in Rome, and was met at the railway station by the Mayor and members of the Municipality, and cordially welcomed to the city. Several workingmen's societies formed in procession, with bands, and escorted the old hero to his hotel. Immense crowds lined the streets and cheered with the wildest enthusiasm as the General passed. No disorder of any kind marred the demonstrations."

We are watching the progress of events with deep interest. It seems certain that scenes behind the curtain must soon be opened to the view of a gazing and wondering world. The pulse of the people is fast rising to fever heat on this subject. Sublime scenes are at hand. It is glorious to be living now so near the end.

January 23d, Alfonso, the new Catholic king of Spain, issued a proclamation in which he says, "He longs for peace, but will fight for his rights; that he is the representative of the dynasty which their fathers swore to obey; that he is a Catholic, and will see full justice done to the Church."

When a Catholic king promises to "see full justice done to the church," what does he mean? Why, that she shall have her former rights restored, and have armies again at her command; and that her claim to infallibility shall be sustained and respected, or sad consequences must follow. Garibaldi and the Italians are determined to resist all attempts to re-establish an union of Church and State; hence, either Alfonso and the Pope must back down, or the Italians and the great powers of Europe. Which? The prophets have spoken, and their word cannot be broken. Like Pharaoh, and the Egyptians, in the days of Moses, the Papacy is about to commence a series of plagues that will result in its utter destruction, and the everlasting deliverance of the saints, and the establishment of the kingdom of heaven. The Lord is filling the "cup" for the "woman" to drink. She has made others drink from her poison cup, full of "abominations," century after century; now her turn justly comes. What a relief it will be to this world when she reaches her everlasting end. Then the martyrs will come forth from their death sleep to die no more. Dear Lord, we welcome the day. "Come and reign." Come and greet the waiting bride, and take her to thy loving embrace.

M. G.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The meetings in San Francisco to this date (Jan. 25) have been excellent. The church is steadily advancing in divine life, increasing in faith, love, and the other christian graces, and sinners are seeking pardon. The past has been a rainy week, but a goodly number have been present each evening, and last night the house was full in spite of the bad walking. One Methodist Bro., recently from Chicago, who was baptized a week ago, remarked yesterday that what he had learned since he came to the meetings had paid him well for his journey to the Pacific coast. He is growing rapidly. Another very intelligent man, gifted as a public speaker, has just come into the liberty of the gospel, and bids fair to be a very useful man in the vineyard of the Lord. He gave a stirring testimony last evening.

We are to continue the meetings another week in San Francisco. Brn. Howell, Reed and Turner, are with us, and active in the Lord's service. Several have made a full consecration to Jesus, and received the gift of the Holy Spirit. They are now enjoying "great peace," and full assurance. They are astonished at the blessed results proceeding from perfect submission to Christ. They can truly say, The half never was told. They are now at rest, as never before in all their christian experience, and they can truly say, the "yoke is easy," and the "burden is light." We have never seen the church here in a better condition than at the present time. Let the saints continue to pray for us, that we may succeed in persuading many to get ready for the coming of Jesus.

M. G.

WONDERFUL.

Is there anything taught in the Bible more wonderful, or difficult to comprehend and believe, than what is now done by means of the telegraph wires? This morning (Jan. 23d) the news was read at the breakfast table in San Francisco, of events dated in London, Eng., at 6 o'clock the same morning. The news had been sent to San Francisco, printed in the Daily Morning Call, sent more than two miles to the house of Bro. Dibble, where we are stopping, so that we could have it to read by half past six this morning. Thus at the breakfast tables in London, Paris, New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Chicago, San Francisco, and in all quarters of the earth, the same news is read. Is it not truly wonderful?

Suppose this generation knew nothing about telegraping, but found in the Bible an account corresponding with known facts as they now exist on this subject, would skeptics have a stronger foundation for their doubts than in relation to anything now recorded in the sacred Scriptures?

Had some one of our fathers, fifty years since, claimed to have had a vision from the Lord, that news would be sent as it is at the present time, all would have said his was a "vain vision." But cannot the Lord do as strange and great things as man? Can he not send news as quickly by his Holy Spirit—the heavenly telegraph—as man can transmit intelligence upon the earth? Shall we limit the Almighty? If puny man can perform such wonders, as are accomplished, what may not He do who made all things? Let us not doubt his word, nor fear to trust him. His word "cannot be broken." His prophecies show that his Son is about to return to this earth to set up his kingdom. Truly, it is good news.

M. G.

THE TRACT FUND.

The Advent Christian Publication Society, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. Sibley, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$301.01
John M. Hobart	2.75
G. S. Goud	.50

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$80.83

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$3,105.20
Lizzie Na-on	10.00
"C."	2.00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$177.35
"To help clothe the needy" (no name.)	1.00

AN APPEAL.

To the Churches!—Adventists!—Stewards of the Lord!

Brethren and Sisters of New Hampshire: Have we done all we can, or that God requires us to do, in giving to the people of this State the last judgment warning—the gospel of the kingdom? Who can say that we have if a little more time is given us to labor? Again, how can our labors and the means God has entrusted us with as stewards, and will hold us responsible for, be best expended? We think that the success that has crowned judicious labors under Mission Tents, in this and other States, in a measure answers these questions. The command is "Go," and in thus going we carry our meeting-house with us. We think it a conceded point that many who would not under other circumstances attend our meetings are induced to come to tent meetings.

And now, dear brethren, as the N. H. Advent Christian Conference has chosen us to hold protracted meetings, and have entrusted us with the N. H. Mission Tent, will you help us by prayers and means to save some through this instrumentality? We feel a great responsibility in this matter; will you share it with us, and then in the great harvest reap the blessing? We want to see how much can be raised and pledged, between this and the time to hold tent-meetings, to carry the tent into new places. A strict account of all receipts, and how paid out, will be kept. Now, will you make one effort, and sacrifice of this world's goods, for this great and noble cause before the fires of the last day shall consume them? Let God direct. Send in your monies and pledges to the Treasurer, J. G. Smith, Farmington, N. H. Also, brethren, we want you to interest yourselves in finding places where tent-meetings are needed, and see if land to set it upon and lumber to seat it with can be obtained, and let us know as soon as you can, so that we can make our arrangements to the best advantage, and not travel over the ground more than is necessary. We intend to secure as good help as we can to go with the tent. Remember, "God loveth a cheerful giver." And as this is to give the gospel to the poor, you can thus claim the promise in Prov. 19: 17.

C. H. Fletcher,
D. F. Leavitt,
J. G. Smith, } Com.

Correspondence.

From Bro. W. W. Cate.

Dear Crisis:—How like an old friend does your familiar countenance cheer the household, as week after week you come to us laden with words of instruction, encouragement, and admonition. Oh, if every periodical in the land was doing a like amount of good and as little harm, then indeed would the press be a power in the earth for good.

I would like to say to the household of faith, waiting for the Master, that I have been at Hudson, Bates Co., Mo., nearly four years, laboring almost alone, proclaiming the coming of the Lord near, and trying to have a people ready for that event. The good Lord has been with me, and blessed the Word, and raised up many staunch friends of the truth who are trying to live it. Yet we have much opposition. As a sample I will relate one circumstance. A few weeks ago I attended a night meeting; the minister, in trying to establish man's immortality, said, "Paul says—'God is the life of the soul.'" He then tried to show that, if Paul was right, I must be wrong. After he had dismissed the meeting I asked him where that saying of Paul was recorded. He told me to search my Bible, and if I could not find it he would hunt it up for me. I told him it was not in the Bible. He then became much enraged, rushed out of the house while giving vent to a tirade of abuse in Billingsgate style. I simply said "I don't deal in slang. I deal in the Word; and a minister ought to know when he puts words into the apostle's mouth, whether it is truth or not. All the apology he ever made was—"I did not know Cate was in the house."

I have lately held a meeting ten days at Doylaston, St. Clair Co. Ten or more started for the kingdom, and many more are deeply interested. A middle aged man remarked—"I never heard the gospel preached before." Soon after, he arose, weeping, to manifest his desire to live a christian.

Last week I preached near Butler, Bates Co., and found the people intensely anxious to hear more, and importuned me to come again. Wherever I preach, some receive the truth in the love of it. But what can I do in so large a field? Bro. Little is in Johnson Co., Bro. Elliott and others in Miller Co., and then in all the southwest corner of Mo., some eight or ten counties, I know of no other proclaiming the Coming One near. We have a little conference here, but we lack laborers. Dear Bro. Moss was with us a while. He entered the field harnessed for the battle, and we expected much from him; but he has gone to an equally destitute field—Kan. Our loss is their gain. May the Lord bless his labors there.

Dear brethren, we have but a short time to work; let us be diligent. There are thousands in this State who know nothing of the evidence of the Lord's soon coming. It must be some one's duty to proclaim it. Who will help do it?

I want to do my whole duty, and finally meet all the dear ones on the other shore.

Hudson, Bates Co., Mo.

From Bro. M. A. Potter.

Editors of World's Crisis:—I came to this place Jan. 1st, and found the brethren and sisters ready for work. The people turn out to hear, and there is a good interest. Some are confessing Christ, and others are striving to get nearer to him. Praise his dear name! I find in St. Johnsbury quite a number of earnest workers, both male and female. Among the number I would mention Drs. Warner and Smith, who have labored long and faithfully in the cause of truth in this place, and are now seeing the fruits of their labors in the conversion of souls. Dr. Smith has long felt it his duty to enter the ministry; and the churches, with whom he has associated in years past, have felt that he ought to move forward in this direction; but the enemy has ever been ready to discourage, and to make him feel his weakness to that extent, that he has shrank from the duty. Pray for him dear brethren, that he may have strength to come up to duty and meet God's favor. The cause of truth demands faithful men, who have God's cause at heart, to proclaim this last great truth of Jesus' coming, to a dying world; men who will stand at the helm though they suffer the loss of all things; men who will not make merchandise of God's truth; men who love it better than all else.

The sacrifice is meagre enough, though we give all for Jesus. It will not repay the debt of love we owe him. Thanks be to God for his loving kindness in accepting the poor offering, and giving us a bright hope of immortality through his dear Son I say the truth and lie not, when I say love this work of God. I am willing to labor any where God wants me to labor. When I heard the cry of this dear people to come up and stay with them this winter, and preach to them, I felt to refuse would be to displease God; and I left my trade and came, trusting in the living God. When my duty is done here, I expect to return and resume my trade, and preach as the doors open. May God help us to be faithful, and hear the "Well done," is my prayer.

St. Johnsbury, Vt.

From W. H. Webster.

Messrs. Editors:—By your sending the Crisis to my sister-in-law, it comes among my mail matter; so I read it. I love its open, frank and unsectarian spirit. I did not know there was so much scripture for the doctrine of the immortality of the soul, or the final state of the dead. I see nothing in the story of the Rich man and Lazarus that shows any separated parts of either. One is said to be carried to Abraham's bosom, the other was buried; so that when the Rich man desires some one sent to his father's house, he does not mean his father's body. It was not the rich man's soul that fared sumptuously and was clothed in purple and fine linen, but the rich man himself; for I can find no scripture teaching any such thing of the soul. The popular theology teaches that the soul has no body, parts, or form; therefore no appetite to eat, or body to clothe; and on the other hand the body is but a house, casket, or a coat, to be laid aside. Therefore the body is an unaccountable thing, having no power to defend itself from whatever the soul, the real man—may lead it into, or bring upon it. The body is as helpless as the paper I write upon. Will any one hold the paper accountable for what I have written? And yet the poor old house must suffer all the pains, poverty and disgrace of what it had no power to prevent. I cannot think that I am a house, having a tenant of such a character as the popular theology teaches,—something I cannot see or know, and yet which effects my ruin.

I love the real something having body, parts and form; therefore I am looking for the personal, bodily appearing of Jesus; and I am glad that we who are alive, or shall be when he comes, shall not prevent them that are asleep, but that we together with them shall be caught up to meet the Lord.

Lansinburgh, N. Y.

From Sr. M. Hughes.

Dear Friends:—I write to tell you that Jesus' coming is very near, even at the doors. Soon the trump will sound, and our great High Priest will come in the clouds of heaven, with all his holy angels with him; then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory. It will then be said—"Come ye blessed, or depart ye cursed." Let us be in readiness, that when he shall appear, whether it be at evening, at the cock crowing, or in the morning, we shall be able to say—"This is our God, we have waited for him, and he will save us." It will be blessed when he comes to set up his kingdom under the whole heavens, and reign with his saints on the new earth. There will be no more pain nor death; sorrow and sighing will flee away, and Jesus himself will be in our midst. I am waiting patiently for him to come. I have nothing here to keep me. I am a poor sick woman, but I am trusting wholly in Jesus; he is my all.

I was formerly a Congregationalist, but God by his Holy Spirit led me to see the truth and understand it differently, about two years since. I am rooted and grounded on the Rock Christ Jesus, and believe we are almost home. I would say to all, hold on to Jesus. We are certainly living in perilous times.

Sinner, make Christ your choice, so that when he comes you will not have to call for rocks and mountains to hide you. Take warning before it is too late. Prepare to meet your God.

From Bro. C. L. Percival.

Dear Brn.:—The article in the Crisis of Dec. 30th, on Regeneration and Sanctification is deeply interesting to me, and doubtless to thousands of others. But if the position taken is correct, and I see no reason why it is not, then much that is written and said on that subject, at the present time, only tends to confuse and puzzle the mind.

It seems that, when a sinner becomes justified by faith, and obtains pardon and peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, all he has to do is to go forward in earnest, active obedience to all the will of God, until he grows to the stature of a perfect man in Christ Jesus. And is not that second work, of which so much is said, simply a return from a more or less backslidden state to the first love, and first works? Rev. 2:4.

I write for information. I want to know the whole truth, that I may be all that the blessed Master requires, and that I may be able to teach others correctly. Time is too short to be doing work that will need doing over.

Normal, Ill.

From Bro. J. S. Maynard.

Editors Crisis:—I wish to say through the columns of your paper, for the encouragement of those of like faith scattered abroad, who have been anxiously looking at the cause in Rochester, N. Y., that Sr. Anna E. Smith, of New York City, commenced a protracted meeting here Jan. 12th, 1875, and has continued them from that time to this, and will over next Sabbath. The Lord has blest the effort by saving quite a number of sinners, reclaiming backsliders, and strengthening the church. We feel, as a church, to praise the Lord for sending Sr. Smith among us, and blessing her labors at this critical time; and we feel like giving honor where honor is due. In behalf of the church.

Rochester, N. Y.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

T. F. BLAISDELL.

We commenced labors in Comville, Me., Dec. 27th. The weather being so unfavorable, we were unable to hold meetings more than three or four evenings in a week.

This is an old field, the doctrine of Christ's soon coming being first published nearly twenty years ago. A great many embraced the truth, and were earnest workers in the vineyard of the Lord, but when the subject of keeping the seventh day was first agitated, nearly all embraced it, and we found them in a lukewarm state. The prospect seemed somewhat discouraging at first, but we went forth trusting in the Lord for help; and as our meetings continued, the interest increased, until a half a dozen or more backsliders were reclaimed, and a number that never made a profession started for the kingdom. All praise to the Lord!

How earnest we ought to be in the work of warning the unsaved that the judgment is near at hand. Signs bespeak that Christ is soon coming to redeem his waiting people. Even so, come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly.

Rome, Me.

Obituaries.

LEE. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Biddeford, Me., Jan. 11th, 1875, George E. Lee, aged 28 years and 6 months.

For several weeks prior to his death, Bro. Lee's nervous system had been in a prostrate condition. He had been able to sleep but little, frequently arising from his bed to read or write, which he would continue a large part of the night. His physician advised him to seek rest at the home of his parents at Brimfield, Mass., stating that he was entirely unfit for the excitement of his business, which was piano tuning. Instead of this, he left on Thursday, the 8th, for Biddeford, where he was to have been married to Sister Ella M. Lunt, on the 12th. On his arrival, Sister Lunt and her family, with whom he stopped, noticed that he acted strangely. A physician was called, and watch kept of his movements. On Monday morning at five o'clock, the father of Sister Lunt looked in upon him, and he was apparently no worse. At half-past five, Sister Lunt arose, and, hearing a noise proceeding from his room, she and her mother entered, and found Bro. Lee leaning over the edge of his bed, the blood streaming from a terrible wound in his neck. He had stabbed himself with a pocket knife. They immediately seized him, and prevented a second wound which he was about to inflict upon himself. He was entirely unconscious of his condition or surroundings, and remained thus until half-past nine, when he died. Inflammation or congestion of the brain had dethroned his reason, and he who always had a horror at the idea of bloodshed had shed his own. In the opinion of the physician he could have lived but a short time, had he not taken his life, as there was every evidence of softening of the brain.

Bro. Lee was converted about seven years ago, and maintained a christian life to the end. The theme on which he delighted most to dwell was the coming of the Lord. This appears in his own poetry, and in selected poems to which he composed the music. He has left many excellent hymns which the Advent people will delight to sing, and, in singing, remember their author. Bro. Lee was always ready to bear testimony to his love for Christ and his truth whenever opportunity offered. Those best acquainted with his private life speak of him as one whose "conversation was in heaven." His later writings show a growing, ripening experience—a drawing nearer to the fountain of blessing. He sleeps in Jesus, having left behind him the sweet savor of a consecrated life. When the curtains of this night of weeping are drawn aside, and the morning dawns, he will awake to the immortal life.

A union prevented by death is as great a sorrow as a union dissolved; and Sister Lunt will have the sympathy of all as if she had been a wife. May the blessed hope which she cherishes sustain her. Bro. Lee also leaves a father, mother, brother and sister, who loved him with all the love which these relations imply. May the God of all comfort support them.

A large congregation attended the funeral service in the Advent chapel, Springfield, which was conducted by the writer. W. N. PILE.

PARKER. In Brimfield, Mass., Jan. 16th, 1875, Sister Melvina, wife of Bro. Sumner Parker, Esq., in the 59th year of her age.

O cruel death! What hast thou done? Sister Parker was a loving and faithful wife, a tender and affectionate mother, and one who had only to be known to be loved. A few years since, the writer had the happy privilege of baptizing Bro. and Sr. Parker, with others in B., since which time the deceased has been very decided in her course as a christian. She was a woman of rare excellence, and her every day life told plainly the feelings of her heart. Her presence always tended to peace and happiness. She was one you could truly call a christian lady.

May God bless and sustain our dear brother in this sad affliction, with his children and others who are called to mourn by this sad stroke of death. Sister Parker rests in hope. We shall soon see her in immortal beauty at the resurrection of the just.

A very large concourse of people gathered at her funeral, and words of truth and comfort were spoken by the writer, founded on 1 Cor. 15: 51–57, and 1 Thess. 4: 13–18.

"Home is not home, for wife is not there!
Dark is her room,—vacant her chair;
Now will she rest from labor and care,
Till that morning so fair."

T. M. PREBLE.

SHATTUCK. In Waterford, Me., Jan. 4th, 1875, Wm. Shattuck, aged 78 years.

Bro. S. had been a professed friend of Jesus for more than fifty years. He was a member of the Charles Street Baptist church in Boston, and heard Bro. Miller's first lectures in the city, and became a confirmed believer in the speedy advent of Christ. He maintained that profession of faith, with a corresponding christian life and devotion, until his death. He lived in Chelsea, Mass., the last few years, and was one of the most constant attendants and devoted members of our meeting. He died expecting to sleep the dreamless sleep but a little while, and then to have a deathless body to inhabit the kingdom of fadeless glory. May the abundant mercy of God be with the widow and children, that they may be prepared to meet him in that country where sad partings will be unknown. J. COUCH.

PAGE. In Hampton, N. H., of consumption, June 5th, 1873, Bro. Geo. H. Page, aged 30 years.

Bro. Henry's experience was peculiar. He lived the most of his life surrounded with religious influences and friends anxious for his eternal welfare; but apparently without any feelng for himself. At last God's Spirit moved upon him (as he said for the first time in his life), he yielded to its influence, found pardon and peace in Jesus, and died happy in the Lord, in hope of immortality when Jesus comes. He left his loving wife with two fatherless children, but God will care for them. His father, mother, brothers and sisters, with numerous other friends, will greatly miss him, but they sorrow not as those without hope. ENOCH MORRILL.

WAKEFIELD. In Kennebunkport, July 10th, 1874, Lubin, son of Joseph and Olive Wakefield, aged 26 years.

This dear brother did not find the Savior until a few weeks before his death. He found that even at the eleventh hour God would hear sinners when they cry, and have mercy on them. When the trump of God shall sound, Lubin will come forth to live on the new earth, where sickness, sorrow, pain nor death, will neither be felt nor feared. May God impart grace to the bereaved friends, and bring them all at last to enjoy the rest that remains for the people of God. Funeral sermon by Eld. Wm. H. Mitchell. G. P. CLOUGH.

SMART. In Greenfield, Mass, Jan. 29th, 1875, Augusta L., wife of Albert I. Smart, and daughter of Caleb G. and L. G. Cloudman, of South New Market, N. H., aged 29 years.

She was beloved by all her friends and acquaintances. C. G. C.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Paris, Jan. 31. The Assembly yesterday passed the amendment proposed by M. Wallon to the Mentavon Constitutional bill—353 yeas to 352 nays. The amendment declares that the President of the Republic shall be elected by a majority of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies in Congress assembled; that the Presidential term shall be seven years, and the President can be re-elected. The Left is now striving to obtain a favorable vote on the entire Constitutional bill, in order to retain the advantage derived from this indirect recognition of the Republic.

Madrid, Feb. 3. An official dispatch has been received at the War Office announcing that Gen. Mariones has succored Pampeluna. The Minister of War is also in receipt of intelligence that an engagement took place yesterday at Oteiza between the Royalists and Carlists, in which the latter were defeated. All Alfonsist troops are advancing victoriously.

It is reported that the Pope has written a letter to Don Carlos, in which he expresses sympathy for his cause, but advises him to reconsider his determination to continue the war, as the dignity of the Catholic Church in Spain has been vindicated and the rights of the clergy recognized by King Alfonso.

DEFEAT OF THE TURKS IN ARABIA.

The Cologna Gazette says that the news has arrived from Arabia of a serious defeat inflicted on the Turkish troops at Khamer, four days' journey to the North of Sanna, by Arabs of the tribes of Hadjid-weh-Bakil, Nem, and Khaulan. The Arabs, 50,000 in number, attacked four hundred Turks, one hundred and twenty of whom were killed, while the rest precipitately retreated to Sanna, leaving their arms, ammunition, and three cannon in the hands of their adversaries, who are said to have themselves lost six hundred men in the battle.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, Jan. 30. A Utica dispatch states that the watchman of the American Express Company was knocked down and gagged and the keys of the vault taken from him and several bags of valuable matter taken away. The robbers got away without arrests.

Canaan, N. H., Feb. 2. Geo. Waldron, of Danbury, while gunning on Sunday, slipped upon the ice, causing the accidental discharge of his gun. The charge entered the lower part of the abdomen, passing upward and inflicting a terrible and fatal wound. He managed to drag himself to the house, a distance of about seventy rods, but expired soon afterward. His age was about thirty-five, and he leaves a wife and two children.

New York, Jan. 30. N. S. Bennett was killed at the Brooklyn Lunatic Asylum on Thursday afternoon by S. S. Middleton. Both were lunatics, and Middleton was allowed to roam through the corridors, where he found an adze, with which he beat and cut his room-mate to death. Bennett was an old man of sixty years, afflicted only with softening of the brain, and his son is one of the prominent clergymen of Brooklyn. Middleton is now confined in a close cell.

Quebec, Jan. 30. The Beaufort Female Lunatic Asylum on the Montmorency road was burned last night. Three female patients were burned to death. The remainder 431 in in number were removed safely to the asylum occupied by the males. The scenes during the fire were heart-rending and pitiful.

Some of the patients rushed into corners and obstinately refused to be rescued; others fled down the corridors into the darkest cellars and were found shivering with fear; others ran into the cupola and on the roof, and it was only with the greatest difficulty they could be rescued. It is supposed the fire originated in the cell of one of the female patients, a woman of viscious character.

In Brief.

— There is a water famine in Southern New Hampshire. In some localities the farmers are compelled to melt snow for their cattle, while several mills have been compelled to stop work for lack of water.

— Eliphalet Follett of Keene, N. H., fell from his roof while shoveling off the snow yesterday, and was instantly killed.

— The evidence in the Pierpont tragedy points to Sawyer as the guilty one. His statements are contradictory.

— Another English steamer, it is supposed, has been lost, with upward of twenty lives.

— The month of January in New Hampshire was colder than the average temperature in that month for the past nineteen years.

— Mrs. Abbie Emerson of Martin's Ferry, N. H., was killed at Concord Saturday forenoon while endeavoring to get upon a moving train.

— A remarkable marriage occurred in the Ohio penitentiary last Saturday. Two convicts were married at the exiration of their sentence, the woman having voluntarily consented to imprisonment for the sake of being near her lover.

— A German has been discovered in the woods of Jamaica, L. I., living in a hole dug in the ground, about ten feet by five in area and five feet high, reached through a small opening, and in which were a low bunk and an improvised stove of bricks. It appears that he works for the farmers in the summer and lives in the cave in winter in preference to going to the poor-house.

"DO THY PART," says Feltham, "with industry, and leave the event with God. I have seen matters fall out so unexpectedly, that they have taught me in all affairs, neither to despair nor to presume; not to despair, for God can help me; not to presume, for God can cross me. I will never despair, because I have a God; I will never presume, because I am but a man."

Notices.

New Hampshire Conference.

The first Quarterly Conference is due in February, and there has been no call for it. If any church or community wish it to be held with them, please notify the Committee soon, so we can give notice.

LEVI ALLEN, Lake Village,
E. A. STOCKMAN, E. Rochester, } Com.
D. W. DAVIS, Sutton,

Important!

The Tent Meeting Conference Committee have run the tent the last season from July to Nov., and we find a debt on our hands of more than a hundred dollars for services rendered. This is due where it is needed. There are pledges unpaid which should be sent forthwith to the Treasurer. Any others who wish to help bear the burden, will remit their donations to Charles Goodrich, Treasurer. Per order of the Committee, L. BOUTELL.

BRIMFIELD, MASS.—There will be a protracted meeting during my stay at Brimfield, from Feb. 7th to the 14th. The lovers of Jesus and of his kingdom are invited to come and help from all the surrounding towns. H. F. CARPENTER.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a protracted meeting in Hampton, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, and continue over Sunday, the 21st. Come, brethren, and help in this meeting. ENOCH MORRILL.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, a protracted meeting will be held in the Emery school-house, in West Canterbury, N. H., commencing Friday, Feb. 21st, and holding over the Sabbath. D. F. LEAVITT.

CONFERENCE.—There will be a Conference in Palmyra, at the Gale school-house, commencing Friday, at two o'clock P. M., Feb. 12th, and hold over Sunday.

Elder S. K. Partridge and other preaching Brn. are expected to preach the Word. We hope our preaching and lay brethren and sisters will make an effort to attend this meeting, ready to work for the salvation of sinners and the strengthening of the Lord's scattered children. This is a new place for a Conference, and we hope all will unite to help make the meeting a blessing to the people. Call on Bro. Oscar Farnum, who will provide places of entertainment for all.

OSCAR FARNUM.
SAM'L BOWMAN.
JER. CARR.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The A. C. Churches of Northern Kansas, comprising the churches at Brantford, Clifton, and Sherman Centre, are cordially invited to meet in delegation with the A. C. Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kan., on the 27th day of March, A. D. 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Quarterly Conference, in accordance with the usages of the A. C. Church. Brethren of like precious faith are cordially invited to meet with us.

F. O. CUTLER, Pastor of the Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Quarterly Meeting of Edinboro, Pa., Church will begin on Saturday, Feb. 13th, at 2 o'clock P. M., and be continued over Sunday, the 14th. Preceding services on evenings of the 10th, 11th, and 12th. The brethren of adjacent places and vicinity are earnestly solicited and pressingly invited to come up to this "holy convocation." Come to do good and to get good. G. W. STETSON, Pastor.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—A meeting of days will be commenced in Blooming Valley, Crawford Co., Pa., on Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, at 6 30 o'clock, and be protracted over Sunday, the 21st. Let all desiring the good of the church, make those days a season of special effort, accompanied with self-denial, sacrifice, prayer and praise.

By request, G. W. STETSON.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Fourth Quarterly Meeting for the Eastern District of Wisconsin will be held at the White school-house of Webster's Prairie, three miles south of Dalton, Sauk Co., commencing evening, Feb. 26th, and bold over Lord's day. We would like to see delegates from all the churches in the district at the meeting. Preaching brethren are especially requested to attend. Let all come praying that the Lord may bless. E. P. GRAVES.

NOTICE.—Having been pastor of the A. C. Church in this place (Nevada, O.) for nearly five years, and notwithstanding it is the desire of the church that I remain another year, yet I have felt impressed that it might be the will of the Lord that I should labor in some other field, as the way may open. I would therefore say to churches East or West, which may desire to have us locate among them, and labor for the upbuilding of the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners, that I will confer with them relative to this object, and if it should appear to be the will of the Lord, will make the necessary arrangements to do so at the expiration of my engagements here, which will occur on March 31st, 1875.

E. M'CULLOCH.

REMOVAL.—Eld. J. Porter, believing a change to be profitable both to himself and the church in Danville, P. Q., of which he has been the Pastor for the last twenty-three years, has now removed to Montreal to labor in harmony with the church there. His address for the present will be No. 50 Perthius Street, Montreal.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.

WARREN J. HOBBS.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q., Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

Those wishing to preach in Rochester Village, N. H., will please correspond with the Pastor, J. H. F. Varney.

Those wishing to preach in Manchester, N. H., will please correspond with Wm. A. Lovejoy.

Those desiring to labor in East Concord, N. H., will please correspond with Eld. Enoch Morrill, South Deerfield, N. H., or Lyman Knowles East Concord, N. H.

Those wishing to preach at Bonny Eagle, Me., will please correspond with Orrin Smith.

THAT BOOK.

"History of the Second Advent Message, Doctrine and People."

This work is now ready for all. It contains the history of the rise and progress of the proclamation of the Second Advent of Christ, near at hand, from A. D. 1820 to the present time, in America, Europe, Asia, and Africa; with sketches of the great reformations accompanying it; of many of the chief pioneers associated with it; the great opposers, and their futile efforts to defeat the work. Records of its rapid progress, and of many of the remarkable manifestations of God's guiding hand in the work. Discussions, lectures, sermons, dialogues, and chief points of doctrine advocated by the various classes of believers in the Lord's soon coming.

Records and tables of the prophetic times of Daniel and John, as advocated by the chief Protestant writers, all of whom terminate the periods between 1836 and 1880. A sketch of Luther and his times, compared with ours. His portrait, and portraits of twenty Second Advent pioneers, with discourses on Daniel 2nd, 7th and 8th chapters, illustrated with fine wood cuts, with much other valuable matter.

Our subscribers will be supplied at prices agreed on when orders with cash (and 20 cts. for postage) are received. All who wish to buy the work will be supplied, postpaid, at $3.50. As our object is not to make money, but to have this message and its history go as far and as cheap as possible, we put it as low as we can. We have endeavored to make it a book that all who are really associated in this great movement will buy, and that real inquirers will think best to buy. The book contains 711 octavo pages, neatly bound in cloth, gilt side.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For sale at the Crisis office.

Appointments.

APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m.
Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every afternoon and evening this week, and Sunday, Feb. 14th. E. FROHAWK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.
Wm. C. Stewart..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. S. White..........Sunday, Feb. 21st

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
I. J. Leslie..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
I. C. Wellcome....Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, March 14th
O. W. Kimball..........Sunday, March 21st

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
A. W. Bradford..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. F. Nickerson..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
F. H. Burbank..........Sundays, March 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th.

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
J. Couch..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Wm. C. Stewart..........Sunday, Feb. 21st

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Natick, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. COUCH.

South Elliot, Me..........Tuesday evening, Feb 16th
Rye, N. H..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th
Hampton, N. H..........Thursday evening, Feb 18th
Lynn, Mass..........Friday evening, Feb. 19th
A. ROSS.

East Weymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. GOODRICH.

Tremont, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Putnam, Ct..........March 7th
Plymouth, Mass..........March 14th
J. S. WHITE.

Wilbraham, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Putnam, Ct..........Sunday, Feb 21st
H. PRATT.

Fairhaven..........Sundays, Feb. 14th and 28th
Keene, N. H..........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Brimfield, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Manchester, N. H....Thursday and Friday, Feb. 11th and 12th.
East Concord..........Saturday evening, Feb. 13th
Chichester, N. H., Pine Ground (Chapel) Monday evening, Feb. 15th.
Pittsfield, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Clarktown..........Wednesday evening, Feb 17th
Pittsfield..........Thursday evening, Feb. 18th
Manchester..........Friday evening, Jan 19th
Nashua, Monday, if desired..........Feb 22d
Manchester..........Tuesday evening, Feb 23d
Lake Village..........Feb. 24th and 25th
Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th.
East Concord..........Monday, March 1st
Dover, N. H..........Tuesday evening, March 2d
Great Falls (Franklin Hall)..........March 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)..........March 4th
South Elliot, Me..........Friday evening, March 5th
Newcastle, N. H. (if desired)..........Saturday evening, March 6th. (Please inform me)
Rye, N. H..........Tuesday evening, March 9th
Seabrook N. H..........Wednesday evening, March 10th
Newburyport (if Bro. Pike appoints) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Lynn, Mass..........Friday evening, March 12th
HIRAM MUNGER.

Great Falls, N. H..........Monday evening, Feb. 15th
Rye, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th
Hampton, N. H..........Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th and every evening, and over Sunday.
ENOCH MORRILL.

Gloucester, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
W. H. CROCKETT.

Waterbury, Vt. (John Parker neighborhood) every Tuesday evening for the present. A. A. HOYT.

Newark, N. J..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
A. A. PHELPS.

Laconia, N. H., with J. H. Evans...Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. EASTMAN.

Melbourne Ridge, P. Q..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
F. M. DRAKE.

Granby, Mass. (Bro. Shumway's)....evening, Feb. 18th
Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street)..Sunday, Feb. 21st
North Rutland, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Guilford, N. H..........Thursday evening, Feb. 11th
South Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Feb 21st
MRS. J. DAVIS.

Chicopee Falls..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
Winsted, Conn..........Sabbath, Feb 21st
Brimfield..........Sabbath, Feb. 38th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Palmyra Conference......Feb. 12th, and over Sunday
Dexter..........Feb. 17th, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Natick, Mass..........Sunday, March 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Holden, Mass..........Sunday, Feb 14th
WM. N. PILE.

Wolfborough (Pleasant Valley) Friday eve., Feb. 19th
Melvin Village..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Moultonboro (Ladd school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d.
Sandwich (where Bro. Gilman Clark may arrange) Wednesday evening, Feb. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Meredith Neck..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Newhampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Tuesday evening, March 2nd.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)...Wednesday evening, March 3d.
West Alton..........Thursday evening, March 4th
J. G. SMITH.

Salem, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Newcastle, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, March 14th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

East Canaan, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dorchester (Town House)..........Sunday, Feb 21st
Warren Summit..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H..........Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H..........Sunday, March 14th
C. R. PARSONS.

Hoosick, N. Y..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

Palmer, Mass..........3d Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Belmont, N. H..........Sabbath, Feb. 14th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Andover, N. H. (Cilleysville)......Sabbath, Feb. 14th
East Canaan, N. H......Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and over the Sabbath, Feb. 21st.
Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, March 7th. SIMEON ROBY.

East Concord, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Canaan, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Lee, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. L. CHUTE.

West Woodstock Ct. (Methodist meeting-house) Sunday, Feb. 14th. PORTER J. SMITH.

Camp Brook..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Plymouth, Me..........Saturday evening, Feb. 13th and over Sunday, the 14th.
Corinna, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Ellingwood Corner..........Saturday, Feb. 27th and Sunday, Feb. 28th.
Hartford, Conn..........Sunday, March 21st
Meriden, Conn..........Sunday, March 28th
GEO. W. BROWN.

So. Tamworth (Stanley school-house) Sab., Feb. 14th
Albany (at Bro. Hiram Mason's) evening, Feb. 17th and at Bro. Nickerson's evening, Feb. 18th.
STEPHEN DINSMORE.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month
C. W. RATHBUN.

Montpelier, Vt..........evening, Feb. 11th
East Montpelier, Vt..........evening, Feb. 12th
Middlesex, Vt..........Sunday, Feb 14th
Waterbury, Vt..........evening, Feb 16th
West Stowe, Vt..........evening, Feb. 18th
Stowe Hollow..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
If these conflict, write me at East Topsham, Vt.
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Sabatis (Jones' Hall)......Friday evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday, Feb. 14th. J. A. LIBBY.

Orleans, Cape Cod, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
HANNAH S. CLARK.

East Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, March 7th
W. H. MITCHELL.

South Casco, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
L. L. HOWARD.

Hoosick (A. C. Church)..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
FLORA BLANCHARD.

Newmarket, N. H. (Littlefield's Crossing) Sabbath, Feb. 14th.
New Hampton, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sabbath, Feb. 21st.
South Rochester, N. H..........Sabbath, Feb. 28th
S. HAWKINS.

New Hampton, N. H. (at Bro. Pike's) Saturday evening, Feb. 20th, and Sunday, the 21st.
New Hampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Saturday evening, Feb. 27th.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)......Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. H. SHAW.

East Canaan, N. H..........evening, Feb. 12th and over Sunday.
Laconia, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, Feb. 21st. JOHN H. EVANS.

South Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. E. HURD.

Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. OWEN.

Warehousepoint..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
G. L. WHITE.

Densmore Hill, Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Bonny Eagle, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Hollis Centre, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
C. H. SWEET.

South Ashburnham, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
East Pepperill, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. A. PACKARD.

Danville, P. Q. (Advent Chapel) Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th, evenings onward through the week, and Sabbath, Feb. 14th.
Hatley (Old meeting-house)..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Colebrook, N. H. (Court House) Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th, and evenings during the week intervening. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Feb 14th
South Sutton, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Concord, N. H..........Sunday, March 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Springvale, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. VARNEY.

Franklin, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Danbury, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
G. H. WALLACE.

Bridgton Centre, Me....Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and onward eight days. WM. H. MITCHELL.
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Dover, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Farmington Village, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. BODGE.

East Lancaster, N. H., Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and over the following Sabbath.
Hereford, P. Q. (Hall Stream school-house, near Bro. Hodges) Sunday, March 7th, and on as the Lord may direct. T. E. LANG, JR.

Stewartstown (Bare Rock school-house).....Sunday, Feb. 14th.
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb 16th.
Newville, P. Q......Sunday, Feb. 21st, at one o'clock
Stanstead, P. Q., evening, 6½ o'clock, at Bro. I. Morrill's.
Magog, P. Q. (Pond school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 23d.
Patton, P. Q. (Garland school-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
U. G. LADD.

Kingston Plains..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Springvale, Me..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Alfred, Me..........Tuesday evening, March 2d
Welchville, Me. (where Bro. D. H. Staples may appoint) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Oxford..........Sunday, March 14th
Richville..........Thursday evening, March 18th
Lewiston..........Sunday, March 21st
Mayberry Hill, Casco (where Bro. Alonzo Mayberry may appoint) Tuesday evening, March 23d.
If any of these conflict, or if any wish for evening meetings on my way, please write me at Dover, N. H.
H. S. PINKHAM.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
H. L. Hastings..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch..........Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer..........Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
H. Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
A. Ross..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter..........Sunday, March 14th
John Couch..........Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer..........Sunday, March 28th

CLINTON, MASS
H. F. Carpenter..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall..........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker..........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
I. C. Wellcome..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. Whitman..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)...Sunday, March 7th
C. Cunningham..........Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher..........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis..........Sunday, Feb. 21st and also the third Sunday in each month.

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, Feb. 21st

SEABROOK, N. H.
E. Owen..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
John Parsons..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch..........Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh..........Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons..........Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Mooney..........Sunday, April 11th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, April 25th
J. F. Chamberlin..........Sunday, May 2d
J. G. Smith..........Sunday, May 9th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
J. F. Chamberlain..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, March 7th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
John G. Hook..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Geo. W. Sederquest..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
L. Boutell..........Sunday, March 7th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, March 21st
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, March 28th

NEWCASTLE, N. H.
S. Varney..........Sunday, March 7th
C. R. Parsons..........Sunday, March 21st
C. E. Hurd..........Sunday, March 28th

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
J. Hill..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Wm. C. Stewart..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, March 7th

BELMONT, N. H.
J. G. Smith..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. W. White..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. S. Mooney..........Sunday, Feb. 28th
J. W. White..........Sunday, March 14th

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
A. A. Robinson..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Jesse Gay..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
C. Goud..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
O. W. Kimball..........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
Geo. W. Sederquest......Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
A. Ross..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, March 14th
J. W. White..........Sunday, March 28th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
W. H Mitchell..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
C. H. Sweet..........Sunday, Feb. 21st

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
O. D. Woodruff..........Sunday, Feb. 14th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. Woodruff..........Sunday, Feb. 28th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
C. F. Morse..........2d and 3d Sundays in February

YALESVILLE, CT.
Seth Woodruff..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

BRISTOL, CT.
Mrs. E L. Crumb..........Sunday, Feb. 14th

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro O. S. French, Clerk.

Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven P. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allegheny, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Religious services are held in Green Street Tabernacle every Sunday morning and evening, and prayer meetings every Wednesday evening, by brethren who look for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ in glory. Preachers wishing to correspond are requested to address L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison Street.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

J. HEMENWAY'S address is Westfield, Mass.

ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.

M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.

E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N. H.

J. L. CHUTE'S address is New Market, N. H.

ISRAEL'S DAMMAN'S address is Bridgewater, Vt., for the present.

ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C., until further notice.

H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.

ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.

JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.

WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.

J. H. EVANS' address is Laconia, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—J A Cleaveland, A Darling, L L Howard, S Robinson, A J Field, M E Ames, W Tenney, Dr. W Harrom, W H Fay, C C Stanbro, S S Ridlon, G P Persons, B McKenny, M O French, J C Shaw, M W Corliss.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—B F Wilkins 10c, L K Lydston 25c, J Elliott 10c, A M B Graham 50c, E C Wheeler 50c, Geo Thompson 6c, D J Weaver 5c, J M Jenness 25c, Geo Tilley $5 15, J E Bodwell 50c, S Cass 5c, Mrs D A Bean 10c George Wright Jr 30c, J Bailey 25c, A Parmelee 25c, S K Baldwin 6c, G H Bundy 10c, A Darling $1 2 / I Barnes 75c, J D Jones 15c, B Taylor 10c, J K Allen 25c, G Hall 5c C Newell 10c, M Smith 25c, D D Chaffee 20c, J Ladd 10c, H C Freeman 10c, S Titus 13c, O Stannard $3,55, A J Field 5c, C W Chamberlin 10c, J M Judson 10c, J Whitecar 10c, J B Wilbur 10c, L Aldrich 10c, S R Breed 10c, S S Ridlon $2.50, L D Allen $1 00, J H Deyo 10c, F Chase 5c, J Gresty 10c, R R York 25c, F A Sprague 25c, F P Barrows 25c, A Cressey 10c, W H Spencer 10c, S Guthrie $1 00, A Elliott $1 00, J Smith 20c, S A Thomas 5c, Geo W Annis 10c, E P Welch Jr. 10c, J W Herrick 10c, J Craig 6c, J E Ainsworth 20c, E Glidden 6c, W Tenney 66c, N S Davis 5c, R J Smith 50c, R W Russell 25c, M A Loomis 25c, M N Morris 80c, W S Howden 5c, J Beudle 10c, E Loomis 80c, L M Pike 10c, Mrs C E Tuttle 5c, Mrs G Kingsbury 28c, J Porter 25c, L A Tilton 5c, I N Howard 6c, C N Wood 10c, A F Dugger 20c, L E Schuyler 3c, J Y Briggs 5c, A Warren Jr $1 00, G B Persons 30c, H H Stoddard 6c, G L Stanwood 10c, I H Shipman $4.86, C C Southwick 50c, E Hanton 40c, M M Eddy 10c, M E Twiss 25c, M W Corliss 75c, J C Shaw 50c, C W Wheeler 28c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—J Durgin, T W Brooks, J E Bodwell, A M B Graham, H J C Aspen, J B Wilber, D Weaver, J M Jenness, S Carr, G Stephenson, G Thompson, E C Wheeler, Mrs S B King, J Elliott, L K Lydston, D J Weaver, D A Bean, B F Wilkins, Eld. G W Wright (3 pack), S K Baldwin, G H Bundy, A Parmelee, J S Bailey, J Skerry, D D Chaffee, M Smith, I N Barnes, J D Jones, J R Allen, G Hall, C Newell, B Taylor, J Ladd, H C Freeman, S Titus, A Elliott, O Stannard, A J Field, S A Thomas, J Smith, G W Annis, Dr S R Breed (2 pack), E P Welch, I H Shipman, R S Brown, J M Judson, C W Chamberlin, L Aldrich, J Porter, Mrs G Kingsbury, W B Rose, J Whitecar, J B Wilber, L A Tilton, W S Howden, C N Wood, J Bendle, R W Russell, M A & O Loomis, Mrs C E Tuttle, L M Pike, I N Howard, F Chase, W H Spencer, A Cressey, R R York, J Gresty, H H Stoddard, Judge Goodwin, L L Cook, E Loomis, G W Stetson, S Guthrie, A F Sprague, L C Schuyler, W Tenney, Mrs S S Ridlon, M N Morris, J M Deyo, Dr. R J Smith, Eld M A Potter, L Douglass, L D Allen, J Y Briggs, N L Davis, J Craig, J W Herrick, G P Persons, J E Ainsworth, E Glidden, F P Barrows, G L Stannard.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers for the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.

HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.

BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:

OR,

AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST

In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.

SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."

BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

"A STATEMENT OF FACTS

RELATING TO

Elder Joshua V. Himes."

The above is the title of a Pamphlet of 27 pages octavo, prepared by Eld. Miles Grant, and others, and issued by the Adv. Chris. Pub. Society, giving facts as brought out at Rochester, N. Y., in 1869, down to the latter part of 1874, including a portion of the correspondence which passed between Eld. Himes and counsel, and the Committee of the Society; also noticing sundry statements found in "Himes' Journal" for Oct., Nov. and Dec., 1874.

This Pamphlet is published by the Society from a solemn sense of duty to the cause of truth and righteousness, to answer inquiries for facts in the case of Eld. Himes, and to give the desired information needed at the present time.

Price, single copy, 5 cts.; six copies, 25 cts; twelve copies for 50 cts.; one hundred for $3.50 by mail. By Express, or when taken at our Office, $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2 25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion; calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3.00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9 00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts.; per dozen, 35 cts.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2.25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols, 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,

A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET

AS VIEWED FROM A

BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.

BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

MY FAITHFUL LOVER.

I. I. LESLIE.

"Showing mercy to them that love him."

Let me love Thee with all my heart,
And love no other like as thee—
In loving thee I sh ill not part
With aught of good thou givest me.

In loving thee there is no fear
In having all my heart bestowed;
No danger holding thee too dear,
And making thee my faith's abode.

Thou wilt not prove false unto me;
I shall not see thy love grow cold;
So I am safe in loving thee
With all my heart, e'en though I'm old.

Thou wilt not turn on me the look
Of cold disdain; nor mocking say,
"Your name is stricken from my book—
Another has my heart to-day."

Thou wilt be faithful. I may love,
Without regret, thee more and more;
May never need thy love to prove,
But know and tell it o'er and o'er.

Thou wilt not tire of me. The oft
Confession of my love will not
Weary thy ear and heart; but soft
Words I shall have from thee, unbought.

No disappointment shall be mine,
In loving and in trusting thee;
For in return I shall have thine,
Thy own, eternal love for me.

This love between us will abide;
No j alousy our hearts shall sway;
Another cannot us divide—
We are and shall be one for aye.

Jan. 16th, 1875.

NOTES ON THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST.

BY ALVIRUS N. HITCHCOCK.

1. It is a matter capable of the clearest proof that the books of the New Testament were written by the authors to whom they are ascribed. Deists would make it appear that they cannot be traced as far back as the days of the apostles, but in this they are quite unsuccessful. Nothing is clearer than that one book quoted in another was written before it. Applying this rule to the books of the New Testament, we are able to follow them back to the very period when they are said to have been written. Not only have they been extensively quoted by the later fathers of the church, but by the apostolic fathers themselves, and in such a manner as to leave their authorship beyond a doubt. Polycarp was the disciple of the apostle John. As John died about the year one hundred, the testimony of Polycarp is thrown back as far as the year ninety. He wrote a short epistle to the church at Phillippi, and though occupying only four small quarto pages, it contains ten or fifteen clear allusions to, and twenty-five distinct quotations from the books of Matthew, Luke, Acts, Romans, first and second Corinthians, Galations, Philippians, Ephesians, first Timothy, first Peter, and first John. It is worthy of note, as indicating his steadfast faith in the Lord, that he suffered martyrdom with a calmness almost divine. When about to be bound to the stake, he said, "Leave me as I am. He who gives me power to endure the fire, will enable me, without your fastenings, to remain unmoved in the midst of it." In addition to Polycarp, Ignatius, bishop of Antioch, A. D. 70, Clement, bishop of Rome, one of the companions of Paul, and Barnabus, a fellow laborer with Paul, severally quote from the Gospels and Epistles. Dr. Lardner has adduced more than two hundred passages which are either direct quotations or verbal coincidences so close that their Scriptural origin is undisputed. These facts cannot be denied.

2. As all the writers of the New Testament state the resurrection as a fact, it is evident that they really believed it, or were guilty of intentional fraud.

3. They could not have been guilty of intentional fraud, for the preaching of the resurrection everywhere brought upon them danger, and suffering, and poverty, and disgrace. They were ready to sacrifice every earthly comfort rather than abandon their hope in Christ. They not only counted all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Jesus Christ, but they did so without the least reluctance. When mocked by enemies, they rejoiced the more exceedingly that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name. Certainly no such conduct could have been dictated by a secret motive. Hence they must have at least believed what they preached.

4. Thus believing that Jesus was what he claimed to be, as he everywhere denounced falsehood, his disciples would not knowingly utter an untruth. Indeed they would not dare to falsify, for Christ commanded them to be honest, and the salvation which they expected from him they knew to depend on keeping his commands. But they declare that they saw him alive after he had been dead and buried. Therefore they must have believed that they saw him.

5. Their supposed sight could have been no deception, for Christ was not seen by one merely, but by above five hundred at once; not in the night alone, but in the day-time also. They were ready to testify to this as a fact, and they must have known whether it were a fact or not; and further, they must have told the truth, for to utter falsehood would have destroyed their hope in Christ, in defence of which they were even ready to die. Thus the proof is clear.

6. Again, as they did not dare to utter an untruth, their statement concerning the report of the guard that the body was stolen, must be true. This shows, from the mouth of enemies, that the body was gone from the tomb.

7. The report of the guard that the body was stolen cannot be true; for if the disciples stole the body, they could not have believed that it rose from the dead, whereas their conduct proves beyond a doubt that they did believe this.

8. Therefore, as from the testimony of enemies the tomb was vacant, and as the body could not have been stolen, and further, as we have the testimony of a large number who could not possibly have had a motive for lying, but would have condemned themselves in the very act, that they saw Christ alive after his death, the evidence is conclusive that Jesus rose.

9. As corroborative evidence of the resurrection, we have the following: The church was planted in Jerusalem near which Jesus was buried. The religion taught by the disciples was built upon the alleged resurrection of Christ. Now if he had not risén, it would have been very easy for the Jews to produce his dead body, and thus settle the controversy and end the tumult. This they never pretended to do. The religion of Christ, then, has gained the victory. The tomb of the Nazarene becomes radiant with undying memories. The cross of Calvary becomes illumined with the glory of the world's Redeemer. And the path of him who wandered lonely by sea and mountain, ends not at the "hewn sepulchre," but upward to the gates of God we trace its shining course. And now, far along the crowded aisles of eighteen centuries rolls the silvery echo, "I am he that liveth and was dead; and behold I am alive for evermore." Blessed be his name!—Rainbow.

Correspondence.

From Bro. P. G. Bowman.

Brethren Editors:—On the last day of the last month, Bro. A. Simpson and myself left this county for Reynolds, in Georgia, a distance of three hundred and fifty miles, where we arrived in peace and safety the night following. We met a hearty reception from a number of kind friends, who were anxiously waiting to hear the news of the coming King in glory everlasting. We spent two Sabbaths with them, all of which time was occupied to the best advantage. We did not have one hour's sunshine while we were in the place. Such a long continued time of cold, cloudy and rainy weather, is not witnessed in the South more than once in a lifetime. We occupied the Academy, where we had good fires and comfortable sitting.

Bro. Simpson took the lead nearly all the time in preaching. I followed with such remarks as the subject and occasion suggested. Quite a number of prominent persons in the place and vicinity were regular hearers, who never are seen inside of a church. Bro. Simpson's expositions of the prophecies has left a profound impression upon that entire community. Many persons told me they had learned more of the Bible, the history of the church and of the world, in one of his sermons than they had learned in all the preaching that they had ever heard before. There is very little opposition to our views of the Bible in that country, outside of the clergy. A lawyer, a prominent member of the Baptist church in the place, told me that so far as his knowledge extended of persons in and out of the churches, a majority believed with us.

Had the weather been propitious, hundreds upon hundreds from the surrounding country would have been out to hear. As it was, I was astonished at the numbers out, and the attention given. Before we left, we organized a church of sixteen members. They all came from the Baptist church; so we did not baptize any of them. Sister Mc.Dowell, one of the sixteen, gave us an acre lot in the town to build a house of worship. Five mill men in the neighborhood pledged more lumber than will be needed. The shingles were all given, and the nails. Eight or ten carpenters promised from ten to twenty days work each, and then we had about three hundred dollars in money pledged by perfectly responsible parties. So you see if we do not have a house of worship in Reynolds in a few months, it will be for the want of interest and energy on the part of those most interested.

Now, dear brethren, what shall we do for a preacher for Reynolds? We want a man of the right stamp,—a "workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of God; giving to all their portion in due season." One who has no idea of making merchandise of the gospel; who is willing to spend and be spent, and, if necessary, to give up life itself for the truth as it is in Jesus. If such a man will go and suffer with and for Jesus, he shall not only have eternal life when Jesus comes, but the people will divide their last crust with him, and he will see the pleasure of the Lord prosper in his hands. Georgia is now ripe to hear the gospel of this kingdom. O who will answer to this loud Macedonian cry? Jesus, blessed Jesus, do raise some one up at once to say—Here am I, send me!

On our return home we stopped a day in Columbia, the capital of this State, with the intention of holding a series of meetings in that place; but the rains continued, the streets were a quagmire, the Legislature was in session, and all things seemed unpropitious; so we determined to leave, and defer a meeting in Columbia until some other time. Last Sabbath we had meetings in one of our churches, and next Sabbath we hold meetings in another, and then Bro. Simpson and his wife will start for their distant home in Concord, N. H. We all feel sad to part with them, but Bro. S. thinks that in view of the state of the weather, we cannot hope to accomplish much more this winter. We all feel thankful to God, to him and the Mission Board, for his coming among us.

May the Lord's richest blessings be with him and his wife till Jesus comes.

Lydia, S. C.

From Sister M. J. Clark.

Again I resume my pen to write for the Crisis, hoping it may encourage some that have given so nobly for the mission cause, and also to make good my promise to many dear brethren and sisters, that I would from time to time let them hear from us through the columns of the Crisis.

We can truly say the cause of Christ in this part of the vineyard is prospering wonderfully. I am led to exclaim, It is God's work, and it is marvelous in our eyes. Two years ago the doctrines we preach were here unknown, except it might be in some individual cases; but now multitudes are instructed in things pertaining to the kingdom. How mighty is the truth; it will prevail. It is winning to its ranks some of the noblest and truest men and women wherever we go.

We closed our meeting at Peach Creek, and went to Waterville, where we procured the Southern Methodist church, and preached Saturday evening, and over the Lord's day. We had a full house, and a good interest was created. From here we went to Blue Rapids, one of the most flourishing villages in Kansas. We met considerable opposition at this place. It was settled by a colony, and the colony was started by a Presbyterian preacher, and the people want to be strictly Orthodox. But it was something of a novelty to hear a woman preach. We had a good congregation the first evening; they became interested. The congregation increased, and we continued the meeting ten days. I believe much good may result from it. We should have tarried longer, but the expenses were considerable, and we could get no place but the Congregational hall, or a hall where they worshiped, and they wanted to use it. The night before we closed the meeting five rose for prayers, and two requested baptism. We felt we had left an unfinished work. Hope to go back if time continues. One minister living two miles out of the place attended the meeting. He evinced much interest. I believe his eyes were opened to see a new beauty in the Word of God. He frankly confessed to us in private conversation that he could see no other way to harmonize the Scriptures. He will never preach eternal torment, or immortality only through Christ. He is one of the fearless, high-toned, noble minds, and would battle bravely for the truth. We have sent him some books and tracts, and pray God to anoint his eyes with eye salve that he may see.

From the Rapids, on our return to Peach Creek, we stopped at a place known as Butler. We tarried with a family at this place who were formerly from Maine. They were anxious that we should stop and preach one evening, and we consented. The meeting was interesting; the cloud rested, and we stayed nearly two weeks, baptized ten, and organized a church of nineteen members. There are several others that desire baptism, and will unite with the church. We stopped two nights at Peach Creek. The last night we had a meeting and a crowded house. We had about one hundred exhortations before preaching. I thought I would be so glad to have some of my Eastern brethren and sisters present, and see the interest manifested. Some of them came a distance of eight miles. It was a meeting long to be remembered. I was glad to see Bro. Smith's testimony with regard to suffering in Kansas. There is much destitution, very little money, and scarcely enough to feed them. We have been doing what we could wherever we have been to relieve suffering. We shall go from this place to Washington, "and if Thy presence go not with us carry us not up." Pray for us. More anon.

Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

From Bro. J. S. Thorpe.

Dear Editors of the Crisis and all who love Jesus:—I derive great pleasure from the Editorials and contributions of the Crisis. I thank the Lord that ever I became acquainted with it, and for the precious truths I have learned to know and love which it has shown me. These I am now endeavoring to proclaim to others who are bound with the galling chains of erroneous tradition.

Yesterday I visited and preached in a new field, where the truths we love had never been proclaimed. The attendance was small in the forenoon, but in the evening the house was well filled with eager and attentive listeners. We have been greatly traduced and misrepresented by our enemies, especially the teachers of so-called orthodoxy; but when the people had opportunity to hear for themselves, some were ready and willing to speak in favor of the truth. One man said that the preaching was not such as he expected to hear; but he could find no fault with such doctrine. He believed it was the truth.

I visited several families, and conversed with those whom the County sent to inquire into the situation of the people, and I learn that from three-fourths to seven-tenths of the people are in destitute circumstances; and some even now upon the verge of starvation. Now is a good time for those who have an abundance of this world's goods to prove the genuineness of their Christianity by lending a helping hand to their brethren in need. We shall soon be done with earthly wealth, but that which is deposited in the bank of heaven will yield a rich return. "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord." When Christ comes, the stewards of God's bounty will be richer for what they have given, than for what they have hoarded up.

Jay En, Kansas.

From A. E. Elmore.

Dear Friends of the Crisis:—I hail the weekly visits of our paper with much pleasure. The editorial articles of Jan. 6th, on the departed and the new year, were very searching. They led me to reflect on my past life, and they led me also to think how I should live in future in the service of my Lord. I see in many places how imperfect I have been.

"Prone to wander, Lord, I feel it;
Prone to leave the God I love;
Here's my heart, Lord, take and seal it,
Seal it from thy courts above."

I am glad that "God hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities;" for if he had, we should have lost all hope of any future life.

It is now four years since I enlisted in the army of the Lord. A year ago last June I followed Christ in baptism. That was a cross, but I was blest in taking it up. From a child I have been taught the way of life, and it is my aim and desire to "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." Of late, when I have been tempted and tried, these words have been brought to my mind:—

"Be faithful to thy mission in the service of thy Lord,
And then a golden chaplet shall be thy just reward."

How encouraging the thought. I feel that it is worth striving for. I am looking to Jesus—my Redeemer and Savior. He is the chiefest among ten thousand, and the one altogether lovely.

I had a peculiar dream the other night, which I will relate. I thought God's servants were gathered together in a very large hall; they seemed to be waiting for Jesus, when he came in (not a spirit, but a personality), and told them he had been to prepare a beautiful place for those who had been faithful, and that soon he would come again, and receive them unto himself. I seemed to go up where he stood, and O such thoughts as went through my mind! I gazed upon him in wonder and amazement. I thought, can it be that he died for poor unworthy me? for I could see the prints of the nails in his hands. It made an impression on my mind which I shall never forget. If it is such pleasure to see Jesus in our dreams, what will be the reality of seeing the King come in his beauty, in the glory of the Father and the holy angels with him? My heart goes out, as I contemplate the subject, for those that have not made their peace with God—those who do not feel the importance of being ready for the judgment of the last day. I will do all in my power to snatch some as brands from the burning before that great and terrible day of the Lord shall come.

Pray for me, Brn. and Srs., that I may have wisdom from on high to direct my steps aright. I do desire to be ready for the great event just before us. I want to obtain a crown of fadeless beauty, and to have many stars in the crown of my rejoicing in that day. O for the mighty power of God to rest on the people of this place, that would convince of sin of righteousness and a judgment to come. Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near is my exhortation.

South Windsor, Ct.

From Bro. Geo. Thomson.

Dearly beloved Friends:—I feel that language is too poor to express the gratitude I feel to our heavenly Father, and to you, the stewards of his mercies, for your kindness to me. The dear Lord has not permitted me to suffer for want of pecuniary means. O how I would like to see the face, and grasp the hand, of each kind one who has so liberally contributed to my necessities. Though this may not be, yet I confidently hope to greet you all in the kingdom—the soon coming kingdom of Jesus. My daily prayer is—"Thy kingdom come."

With an overflowing heart I acknowledge the following donations: From friends in the Baptist church in Prairie du Sac, $5.25. Big Creek church (by the hand of E. P. Graves), $5.47. Bro. A. Pierce, 25 cts. R. Porter, $3. T. Turner, 50 cts. T. Sader, 50 cts. G. Thayer, 25 cts. T. Burton, 50 cts. Sr. Jones, $1. Mrs. David Thomas (by the hand of F. Burr), $2. "A lover of the Lord" (by the hand of G. T. Adams), $2. P. W. Hough and wife, $1.50. A Sr. in Wisconsin, 50 cts. "From a friend," $2. Portsmouth, N. H., $1.

Prairie du Sac, Wis.

From E. P. Beach.

I sit down to write a letter of my experience, and the dealings of my Father with me, hoping it may help others to trust in the Lord. I think we are not apt to trust when we cannot see beyond the dark cloud.

Last June my husband was taken sick. He thought he should have to yield to the grim monster, but I could not give him up. He got a little better, and then went down again. He continued so for four months, and then my only son was taken sick. For nearly four weeks we watched around his bed with little hope of his recovery. There I learned a lesson of trust. Soon after my daughter was taken sick with typhoid fever. She was sick only six days, when death snatched her away. My heart said—Father, thy will be done. Our son had been sick so long, and my husband too laid up so long, that he had but eight dollars when our daughter died. I told him that the Lord would provide; for he has promised that he will never forsake those that trust him. Many talk of their trust in the Lord that hardly know how sweet it is to trust him in affliction; but I have long since learned what it meant to trust in the Lord in a trying hour.

I have been striving to love and obey him, and I have confidence in him still. Our daughter was buried Christmas day. Bro. Goodale spoke words of comfort and instruction to us. May the blessing of heaven rest upon him!

Bethany, Ct.

From Sr. E. Marston.

Dear Editors:—I want to tell you how much God has done for me and my husband. When we moved here one year ago, we were bitterly opposed to the Advent doctrine. A neighbor (who takes the only copy of the Crisis sent to our place) would persist in bringing his paper to our house, and leaving it there. At first I glanced over it and pronounced it unfit to read; still I read it privately, and soon became interested. Soon after, as the Alton Bay campmeeting was about to commence, I proposed that we should attend. My proposal met with severe opposition from my husband. But through the influence of the christian Bro. before mentioned, he at length yielded, and we went. When we returned he said it was the best week of his life. Glory to God! For the first time we heard the gospel of our Lord presented in all its beauty and simplicity. The scales fell from our eyes, we believed, went forward, and were baptized by Bro. Wm. C. Stewart. To-day I would not give up my hope in Christ for all the world. I believe that he is soon coming. Pray for us that we may be prepared to meet him.

From Bro J. H. Harrison.

Editors of World's Crisis: Dear Brethren in Christ:—I cannot get along without the Crisis. I love to peruse its pages, and many times have I been made to rejoice in reading the truths contained in it. I love the Bible, and the truths it teaches on the mortality of man and the resurrection of the dead at the coming of Christ.

There are no meetings in this section. There is Advent preaching occasionally, about thirteen miles from here; but I have not been there. I believe most all of the doctrines that the Crisis contains. I have to contend with the so-called Orthodox churches on the Advent doctrines, but they do not want to discuss them with me. I attend their meetings, and often take charge of their prayer meeting. I desire the church of Christ to pray for me, that I may receive more help from the Lord to stand up for his truth, and that I may be an instrument in his hands of persuading many to turn unto him and forsake their sins. I am willing to do my duty if I can have it made plain. I believe there is great power in prayer, and that is the reason that I ask your prayers.

Lindleytown, Steuben Co., N. Y.

From Bro. H. McCullock.

Dear Brethren:—This is the sixth week of our meeting in our Hall, 213 West Madison Street. The Lord has done a great work for us. Fourteen have been immersed. Others will go forward soon. The Lord has set his seal of approbation to our work. The deep muttering thunders of coming wrath mingle in every breeze. The day star of morning lights up the distant East, and Jesus is coming soon. We have laid all on the altar, and God is blessing our work. How long we shall continue meetings we do not know. Brethren, pray for us.

Chicago, Jan. 21st.

From Bro. Wm. Sheldon.

I have just formed the acquaintance of a Bro. Dewrose, who came several miles to attend a meeting I was holding. He had previously embraced the truth by reading our publications, and had never before heard a sermon on our faith. For about thirty years he has preached among the Methodists. Now he rejoices in the truth, and intends to advocate it.

From E. N. & D. H. Oliver.

Dear Christian Friends:—Having been often encouraged and blest by reading letters of christian experience, we thought it would be a privilege to give a brief sketch of our experience through the columns of the much loved Crisis.

Having been taught to recognize immortality as belonging to man, from our earliest infancy, we cherished traditionary views, firmly believing the same, until about one year ago. The Lord sent Bro. I. C. Wellcome to preach in our place, and as we heard the (to us new) doctrine, the blessed Spirit touched our hearts, and removed the scales from our eyes; and, blessed be the name of the Lord, the Bible was entirely a new book. Though we had read it for years before, it was all new, and so plain, we felt to wonder we had not learned the truth before. It seems like a precious baptism of the Holy Spirit. The Lord is with us daily, and we feel like praising him for the great mercy he has shown us. We have trials and besetments from the enemy, but we do not have to war alone. Jesus is helping us, and will if we have living, saving faith in his name. Please pray for us. We feel that the time must be near when we "shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory;" and there is the greatest need that we be pure and humble, Christ-like and holy; laboring to bring others to the light we enjoy.

May the dear Lord help and bless us, and all the household of faith, to be diligent always; knowing that when he cometh we shall reap eternal life if we faint not. Blessed be the name of the Lord.

Industry, West's Mills, Jan. 16th.

IN MEMORIAM.

For Father Megguire, Saco, Me.

J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Let the pilgrim rest,—she was weary;
Eighty long years of her life
Point back through an earthly pathway
O'ershaded with toil and strife.

Her shoulders were bent with the journey,
Her face had grown wrinkled with care,
For her heart had been plowed with affliction,
That came but to linger there.

She has watched the slow sinking of children,—
The loves of her earlier years,
Clinging with fondness around them
Till they passed through the gateway of tears.

And yet she was favored with blessing,
Her lap with earth's plenty was crowned;
But shadows will mingle with sunshine,
And trouble with gladness be found.

And long had she watched for His coming—
The hope of the dying and dead—
As a tired child waits for her father,
When she knows she must haste to her bed.

But now, where an age and an instant
Are alike in their hurrying flight,
She waits till the morn of redemption
Throws open the portals of light.

God be with thee now, aged father,
Left in sadness to journey alone,
Thou shalt meet thine again, all together,
Where the thought of a grave is unknown.

West Poland, Me.

ONE BAPTISM.

L. C. MCKINSTRY.

(Continued.)

God has said, by the apostle Paul, that we have "one baptism," referring doubtless to the ordinance; and if but "one," then certainly we have not three, as we should have if one were required for each name separately and exclusively. "But if there are not to be three baptisms—and I do not think there should be three—[asks an inquirer], may there not be three 'immersions,' if three could be allowed in harmony with the sense of the word baptism, and yet there be but 'one baptism'?" That there might be three immersions, or more than three, a dozen, without violation of the sense of the verb baptizo, we have admitted; but have seen that only one with the reversive emersion is necessary to make the sense of the word complete, and have the action suit the sense. If, therefore, we are to conclude that there is to be an immersion with each separate name, then there are to be enough to constitute a baptism. As it is claimed by some that it requires three immersions to constitute a baptism; as baptism is three times mentioned or implied; if there is anything more necessary to constitute it than one act of immersion; if there are to be three immersions to one baptism; then, as there are three names, there must be nine immersions. This makes the case appear absurd, but it is really no more absurd than the plea of three immersions to one baptism, as it is constituted in the Word of God. The plea that a single immersion and emersion are not a baptism seems to have originated in the desire to get three acts and yet only call them all "one baptism." But let it be distinctly known that whoever pronounces the usual formula—"I baptize thee in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost"—really calls each single submerging and emerging a baptism. He says, I baptize in the name of the Father. Does he really claim that he does baptize in or into that one "name"? Then it is by that claim a baptism; and if it is true that he thus baptizes, then the act which he performs by baptizing in the name of the Son, as he claims to do, is a baptism, and the same in the name of the Holy Ghost. One, when shown the dilemma in which he was thus involved, said—"I say the whole, but I only do a third of it." If this is so, then he says by the word that he does the whole, and by the act that he does but a third part, and there is a disagreement between the two, and no harmony, and the word is really a falsehood.

The claim set up is, that if the language was "in the names of," then there would be reason for one immersion as "one baptism," as all might be performed at once; but the trouble in such a case would be all on the other side; for the phrase "in the name of the Father" distinguishes that a full baptism is to be done in his name; and so of each of the other names. And so we insist that to be consistent those who advocate "trine immersion" should declare for nine immersions and three baptisms. If they fear to declare for three baptisms, then let them be careful how they declare for three immersions; because it will certainly involve them in the necessity of admitting three baptisms to be what are meant even in the language they use when baptizing.

We do not see the necessity of such an admission, and God does not require us to; for there is only "one baptism," and that so constituted that while it is in each name separately, it is in all the three names together, and may be done at one time in the two acts of plunging the candidate into the water and lifting him out again. So, while the phrase "in the names" is not used, the three together constitute "names" and gain for us the admission that we are right in administering and believing in but one immersion and one emersion together constituting one baptism.

"If it only said," says Thurman, "baptizing them in the names of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, instead of "in the name," then one baptism might be 'one immersion'; but it cannot now." The fallacy of this lies in the fact that the grammatical construction of the text will not admit of it. If the word "of" was omitted then it might read—In the names of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; but, as it now stands (and we have no authority for changing it), the plural of the word would characterize each person as being plural in names. It would read—In the names of the Father. Has the term Father the plural number? for the two nouns are in apposition, and in such a case nouns must agree in number. It would read also by the supply of the ellipsis—In the names of the Son, and in the names of the Holy Ghost. The absurdity of the idea can be readily seen.

It is a rule of grammar that, "When a nominative agrees with each term separately, it must be in the singular number"; and the verb and its nominative must agree in number and person. "The nouns in apposition must agree," and so an attempt at proof on this point signally fails.

We have noticed that the "trine immersionists" claim that John's baptism was not complete, and although their effort sinks the meaning of baptism, as he practised it, to the level of their idea of immersion, they set themselves to work to hunt up some means of patching it up and completing it. They find its second part in this way: They read that the apostles baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, and so infer that they omitted both the names of the Father and Holy Ghost. It remains to be proved, however, that they only baptized in that one name. The name of Jesus, "the Son," was always with those apostles a representative name, as we shall see; and baptism having special reference to his work, his name became special to it, and hence it became common to speak of it as in his name; but it does not imply the prohibition of the other names; and, beside, they called what they did "baptism," as John's work was called baptism, and therefore claimed it to be a complete work. But "trine-immersionists" find it incomplete, and so associate the incomplete(?) "baptism of John" (which the term used implies was complete), with that incomplete one of the apostles (likewise implied by the word used as complete), and call it complete then, and say that "John baptized" in the name of the Father, and in his name only (How do they know this?), and the apostles "in the name of the Son"; and so it is complete baptism; but they forget that even now they have no immersion "in the name of the Holy Ghost." This is a dilemma which they cannot well be free from, unless they say that the "baptism of the Holy Ghost" by the Father himself on the day of Pentecost is the substitute for that part of the commission of baptism in the name of the Holy Ghost.

Let us examine the proof that the baptism of John and of the apostles were united together to form "one baptism." This is supposed to be found in Acts 19: 1–7. It reads as follows: "And it came to pass that while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul, having passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus; and finding certain disciples, he said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost. And he said unto them, Unto what, then, were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus. When they heard this they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them, and they spake with tongues, and prophesied. And all the men were about twelve."

The point which is attempted to be made is, that v. 5, which declares that when they heard this they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, means that "when they heard" what Paul was saying, they "were baptized" and therefore were re-baptized, or as they would have it, not baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, but "immersed," and so were simply re-immersed by the apostle. The truth was that Paul is only said to have laid his hands on them. Ver. 4, after the words—"Then said Paul"—and ver. 5, are the record of what Paul said, as the clause quoted proves; and it was not therefore that "when they heard" what Paul was saying "they were baptized," but Paul himself testified that John told the people to "believe on . . . Christ"; "and when they [those to whom John spake] heard this [which John said] they were baptized [by John] in the name of the Lord Jesus"—him on whom they had just been told to believe. This is Paul's testimony, and his instruction to those "twelve men" as to the nature and object of John's baptism.

Paul, "finding" them, naturally inquired whether they "had received the Holy Ghost" since they believed. Of this influence and power of God they had never heard, and did not know there was any such thing. Paul's question shows that some one beside the apostles must have baptized them, which intimates that they certainly baptized in the name of the Holy Ghost. He asked who baptized them, and they told him John, which accounted for their ignorance of the Holy Ghost; and Paul accounts for it by explaining, as we noticed, the object of John's work of baptizing. There was therefore no re-baptism, and there would be no supposition that there was, if those who read this account would let Paul finish his description of John's baptism, and the circumstances under which the people, "when they heard" John, were baptized, before they attempted to break off the connection and ascribed to Paul or some other of the apostles an act which Paul himself ascribes to John the Baptist. Let ver. 5 then be properly understood, and there will be no trouble about re-baptism. There certainly should be none, for such a thing could not occur. It would annul entirely all John did, and make all the apostles baptized, beside these "twelve" to be but half or a third baptized; for we have no record of any but these "twelve" ever receiving re-baptism, if they did; and all the others, therefore, who had only been baptized by the apostles, were insufficiently immersed, and at all events John's baptism of any whom the apostles did not re-baptize was nothing, as the re-baptizing of these "twelve" would annul that of all the multitudes of the others he baptized, and even of Jesus himself.

(To be continued.)

COME.

M. J CLARK.

"Come unto me," the Savior said;
How sweetly the words were spoken;
They come to us now, in the lapse of years,
To us who his laws have broken.
They come in accents divinely sweet,
They speak of our sins forgiven;
They tell us of hope beyond the grave,
And rest so sweet in heaven.

They tell us to wait no longer unblest,
But just as we are to come;
So weary we've grown with the burdens of life,
Dear Savior, we gladly come home,
In the arms of thy love to find comfort and peace
And rest for these sin-sick hearts;
We come with our tears, our cares and our fears,
He speaks, and our griefs all depart.

Ware, Mass.

HOME AND HEALTH.

TREATING A FLESH WOUND.—Every person should know how to treat a flesh wound. Every one is liable to be placed in circumstances away from surgical and veterinary aid, where he may save his own life, the life of a friend, or a beast, simply by the exercise of a little common sense. First close the lips of the wound within the hands, and hold them firmly together to check the flow of blood until several stitches can be taken and a bandage applied. Then bathe the wound for a long time in cold water. "Should it be painful," a correspondent says, "take a panful of burning coals and sprinkle upon them common brown sugar, and hold the wounded part in the smoke. In a minute or two the pain will be allayed, and the recovery proceeds rapidly. In my case a rusty nail had made a bad wound in my foot. The pain and nervous irritation were severe. This was all removed by holding it in smoke fifteen minutes, and I was able to resume my reading in comfort. We have often recommended it to others with a like result. Last week one of my men had a finger-nail torn out by a pair of ice-tongs. It became very painful, as was to be expected. Held in sugar-smoke twenty minutes pain ceased and promised speedy recovery."—Ex.

PLAIN DIET BEST.—It is possible to satisfy all the demands of nature at a very small cost. In many parts of the continent the average wages of the laboring classes, taking the year throughout, is not more than fivepence a day, or half-a-crown per week; yet these classes are on the whole healthy and robust, although but meanly clad. . . . It has been proved over and over again that healthy life can be maintained on cheap and plain food, and that the longest livers and surest workers are those habituated to plain diet. The Scotch are a notable instance of this; a hardier, stronger, more enduring race probably is not to be found; and the staple of the Scotch peasant's food is oatmeal, the cheapest as it is one of the most nourishing of grains. "A Highlander," says Findley, "will traverse the mountains all day upon a diet of oatmeal stirred in fresh water from a gushing spring, with his finger, in a leathern cup." An English navy who boasts of eating a pound of beef-steak for dinner, would starve on oatmeal and water, while all the beef he could devour, and the beer he could drink, would not enable him to keep up with the Highlander for a single day:—Herald of Health.

WET BOOTS.—The Agriculturist gives the following advice to farmers, who, next to fishermen, are most liable to get their boots wet through: When the boots are taken off, fill them quite full with dry oats. This grain has a great fondness for damp, and readily absorbs the last vestige of it from the wet leather. As it takes up the moisture it swells and fills the boot with a tight-fitting last, keeping its form good, and drying the leather without hardening it. In the morning shake out the oats and hang them in a bag near the fire to dry, ready for the next wet night: draw on the boots and go happily about the day's work.—Science of Health.

TASTE AT TABLE.—Nothing is more beautiful and inviting than perfect neatness. If we could only impress upon mothers, and housewives in general, the importance of placing food before their household in an attractive way, as well as making it wholesome, we should feel well repaid. It is not costly dishes, or their number, that make a table look inviting. It consists more in the arrangement, with those little indescribable touches which a woman of tact and taste gives without knowing why or wherefore. It is these small things which make home attractive, and stamp the character of men and women.—Herald of Health.

A SENSIBLE DOCTOR.—A friend of mine having been unwell, has had the advice of a doctor, whose instructions are that he must live on farinaceous food, and abstain from flesh meat. Now if it requires this course of diet to put a man right, and cure him of indigestion, why not always have the cure going on, and thus prevent the disease?—Herald of Health.

QUINSY.—I have heard of a very severe case of quinsy being cured by gargling with as hot water as can be borne. The patient could hardly speak, and could not swallow even a little coffee. This was done for two or three hours, and then occasionally during the day. At night swallowing was easy. Next morning the disease was entirely cured. —Mrs. Millard, in Herald of Health.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1006. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 19.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

CROSS WEARING.

H. BONAR.

I am crucified with Christ—
With him nailed upon the tree;
Not the cross, then, do I bear,
But the cross it beareth me.
Solemn cross on which I died,
One with him, the Crucified.

Shall I take that blood-stained cross,
Cross of agony and shame,
Cross of him who fought my fight,
Cross of him who overcame?
Shall I deck myself with thee,
Awful cross of Calvary?

Shall I drag thee through the crowd,
'Mid the laughter that is there;
Whirl thee through the giddy waltz,
Bound upon my neck or hair?
Awful cross of Calvary,
Shall I deck myself with thee?

Shall I make that lowly cross
Minister of woman's pride,
Drawing eyes to me that should
Fix upon the Crucified?
Awful cross of Calvary,
Shall I deck myself with thee?

Shall I call this glittering gem,
Made for show and vanity—
Shall I call this gaud a cross,
Cross of him who died for me?
Shall I deck myself with thee,
Awful cross of Calvary?

—Selected by M. G. COUCH.

THE PERIOD OF THE LORD'S RETURN FORETOLD.

BY REV. DR. CUMMING, OF LONDON.

On all sides it seems to be felt that ours is no ordinary age. It is universally owned that we live in times of infinite importance. Scene succeeds scene, change follows on change, and event thunders on event, with startling and portentous rapidity. Have these things a meaning? Is the age suggestive or significant? Are its facts and phenomena mere dumb and dead incidents, that rise like air bubbles on the waves of time, and are resolved into the great element again without a mission or a meaning? Or, are they full of eloquent significance—pregnant lessons—successive acts in the great drama of time, fixing the epochs of the world? In short, are they signs of the speedy advent of Christ?

There is no doubt that they are. The daily journals are witnesses on every side. Ancient prophecies are every day translated into modern facts. The year 1874 reflects on every page the scenes sketched and foreshadowed upwards of two thousand years ago. God has invariably given signs and warnings in his word of every great and startling epoch of his past providential government; nay more, he has given precise dates, and definite numbers, and exact cycles. Now, what God has done premonitory of great events that have passed from prophecy into history, surely he has not wholly withheld in reference to those yet more stupendous ones that are predicted soon to come to pass.

In the case of Noah, one hundred and twenty years were definitely fixed as the period at the end of which the windows of heaven should pour down, and the fountains of the great deep should be broken up. This prophecy was the exact measure of the time. The duration of the captivity in Egypt was foretold to Abraham four hundred and thirty years before, and published by Moses; and so exactly was the prophetic epoch fulfilled, that, in the language of the sacred historian, "At the end of the four hundred and thirty years, the self-same day, it came to pass that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt." Jeremiah was told that seventy years shall be the duration of the captivity in Babylon; and in Daniel we read that forty years afterwards he ascertained from this passage the date of the exodus of the Jews from Babylon.

The first advent of our blessed Lord was the subject of almost specific chronology. Long before it occurred Daniel said, "After threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself;" and his prophecy of the advent of the Messiah, and the specific period at which he should come, made so deep an impression upon the wide world, that not only the Baptist, Anna and Simeon, believers in the word of God, and prayerful and patient expectants of its fulfilment, but, according to Tacitus and Virgil, the very heathen of that day, to a very wide extent, looked for an illustrious and sovereign personage then to appear on the earth.

We may surely, therefore, expect that the crowning act of the second advent of Christ at the end of this dispensation, so frequently referred to, will not be left without premonitory signs and warning dates, unequivocal and emphatic. If signs and dates preceded the cross, surely signs and dates, scarcely less startling and splendid, may be expected to be given as preceding the glory. Jesus, indeed, says, "Of that day and hour knoweth no man." I believe this refers especially to the generation and the time when that statement was made, and was then the exact and literal fact.

But, however ignorant that generation might be of precise and minute dates, Christ gives in that very chapter signs by which we may know when the things predicted are just at hand. The day and hour—that is, the very instant—none of us are likely to know; the significant and deepening foretokens of its approach Jesus has commanded us to learn, and pronounced their ignorance criminal who do not study, and thus ascertain, the times. The budding of the fig-tree is given by Jesus as one sign.

The ignorance of yesterday is inexcusable to-day, for it is manifest that the great chronological dates of the 6000 years from the creation of man, and the 2300 years concerning the Jewish sanctuary, and the 1260 years of the temporal power of the Papacy, terminate about the present time.

Clinton proves that the seventh millenary of the world begins about the present time. The Jews of ancient and modern times all look to the beginning of the seven thousand years for their Sabbatismos, or millennial rest. Is the end of the age so near?

Six thousand years of sorrow have well nigh
Fulfilled their tardy and disastrous course
Over a sinful world; and what remains
Of this tempestuous state of human things,
Is merely as the working of a sea
Before a calm that rocks itself to rest.

All fingers point to the rapidly approaching crisis. All things indicate that the moment that we occupy is charged with intense and inexhaustible issues. Never was man so responsible! Never in the prospect of what is coming on the earth, was man's position so solemn! But evil shall not gain the day. Truth and love will emerge from every conflict, beautiful, and clothed with victory. The days of infidelity and Popery will soon be numbered. The waters of evil must soon ebb from the earth they have soiled. The approaching genesis will surpass in beauty and in glory the old.

The church of Christ will soon lay aside her soiled garments, her ashen raiment, and put on her bridal dress, her coronation robes; and the nations will look up to her in admiration, earnest as the waves of the ocean rise up to the bright full moon enthroned above them. The sunrise of approaching day will strike the earth, and awaken its long silent hymns, and clothe creation's barest branches with amaranthine blossoms. Poor Nature, that has so long moaned like a stricken creature to its God from its solitary lair, shall cease her groans and travail and expectancy; for God will wipe away her tears, and on her fair and beautiful and holy brow, crowned and kingdomed, other orbs in the sky, her handmaidens, will gaze in ecstacy and thankfulness and praise. "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying; neither shall there be any more pain. And there shall bo no night there. For these sayings are faithful and true."—Signs of Our Times.

ONE IN CHRIST JESUS.

J. R. SMITH.

In almost every age of the Christian Church a diversity of opinions has existed in regard to the things which are not essential to salvation. Diversities of opinions and sentiments have too frequently manifested themselves, and have too often resulted in disunion. Because individuals could not see and think alike, they did not love each other. O, how Zion languishes to-day on account of the many thousands who were once shining lights, but by cherishing the spirit of disunion and disaffection they have backslidden from God. Thousands of them are in the church to-day; they have a name to live, but are dead; and while many know the truth, they are at the same time aliens from Christ and strangers to the covenant of promise; they have lost their hope, and are "without God in the world."

Suppose we do not see every point of doctrine in the same light as our brother? if he is living up to all the light that he has, feeling his acceptance with God, and living free from condemnation and enjoying the sweet witness of the Spirit, we ought at least to "love as brethren"; and if we have the sweet spirit of Christ we shall "be kindly affectioned one to another, with brotherly love." We are "all one in Christ Jesus," "whether we be Jews or Gentiles; whether we be bond or free; and have all been made to drink into one spirit." O, how much we all need this oneness of spirit, that we all "may be made perfect in one." When the disciples urged Jesus to command fire from heaven upon some, that they might be consumed, Jesus "rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of. The Son of man did not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them."

He whom we profess to serve is a God of love; and all mankind are brethren. It was the love of Jesus that led him to lay down his life for a fallen and guilty world; and we are exhorted to "be like-minded, having the same love, being of one accord, and of one mind." By giving heed to the admonition we shall be enabled to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling. We should "do all things without murmurings and disputings, that we may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation; among whom we shine as lights in the world; holding forth the Word of life; that we may rejoice in the day of Christ that we have not run in vain, neither labored in vain."

It was the love of God for poor fallen humanity that sent his only begotten Son into the world that we might have redemption through his death. "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another." One of the highest christian duties which we owe to God and to our brethren is to "be kindly affectioned one to another, with brotherly love."

Variance and strife are the marks of a carnal mind, and if persisted in will surely exclude us from entering the kingdom of God. As children of one family, love should be the ruling principle among us. The world loves its own; and shall not christians love one another? The present state of affairs should stimulate all who love the Lord Jesus Christ to be united. We are nearing the judgment. The day of the Lord hasteth greatly. Signs which are unmistakable proclaim Messiah near. God speaks to us in a voice which we cannot fail to understand. We hear it in the distant mutterings of war. The nations are angry, and are gathering themselves together, preparing for the battle of the great day of God Almighty. All these things proclaim that the day of the Lord is at hand. "Seeing then that we look for such things, what manner of persons ought we to be, in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God."

New Bedford, Mass.

EXPOSITORY SUGGESTIONS.

"THE KINGS OF THE EAST."

S. S. BREWER.

(Concluded.)

The ages of Papal splendors was the world's midnight. Dr. Croly, speaking of the "Dark Ages," says:—"The Latin language, overwhelmed in the dialects of the Gothic invaders, had ceased to be spoken; the Latin Scriptures were thus an unknown tongue, and the people, disturbed and impoverished by perpetual war, had neither time nor knowledge for their translation. The ignorance had reached the clergy, and the Pope, more a warrior and a statesman than a priest, found that he could rise to dominion without the writings of prophet or apostle. The Scriptures died out of the world's memory. Tyranny and bigotry loved darkness better than light, and strove to crush the gospel. A code of the most furious persecution was established against all who dared to bring the Scriptures out of the dust, and put a tongue into the dead. The Gospels were trampled upon and destroyed; their readers were proscribed and exterminated. Rome, in the name of Christ, raged against the revelation that he had commanded with his last breath to be preached to every man under heaven." Our divine Lord predicted that the "gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations."

With the destruction of papal domination "the time of the end"—the age of toleration—commenced. During this prophetic period the Almighty decreed that many should run to and fro, and knowledge should be increased. God saw that this would be an absolute necessity.

Allow me to present a feeble comparison of the price of books in ancient and modern times, and the great and inestimable blessing resulting from the art of printing. If books now brought their ancient prices, but few would be able to obtain them.

"Jerome states that he ruined himself by buying a copy of the works of Origen. A large estate was given for one on cosmography, by Alfred, about A. D. 872." "A homily was exchanged for two hundred sheep and five quarters of wheat, and usually fetched double or treble their weight in gold."—Putnam Dic., p. 208. "It is recorded of Plato that, although his paternal inheritance was small, he bought three books—Philolaus the Pythagorean—for ten thousand denari,—nearly fifteen hundred dollars." "In the year 1274 a small Bible, neatly written, was twenty pounds, which sum, no doubt, was equal to two hundred pounds of English money. It is said that the building of two arches of London Bridge cost only twenty-five pounds; less than the the cost of the Bible many years afterwards. Of what incalculable value is the art of printing."

The American Bible Society has a new house, with fourteen steam presses capable of printing four thousand copies per day, or one million two hundred and forty thousand per year; the majority of which are sold below cost, and very many are given away. Lamartine, in his history, vol. 1, p. 14, has these forcible remarks when speaking of the art of printing, and its agency in the overthrow of papal domination:—"Monarchial Europe was the handiwork of Catholicism; politics were fashioned after the image of the Church; authority was founded on a mystery. So long as Catholicism had been the sole legal doctrine of Europe, these murmuring revolts of mind had not overset empires. They had been punished by the hand of rulers. Dungeons, punishments, inquisitions, fire and faggot, had intimidated reason, and preserved erect the two-fold dogma on which the two governments reposed. But printing, that unceasing outpouring of the human mind, was to the people a second revelation. Employed at first exclusively for the Church, for the propagation of ruling ideas, it had begun to sap them. The dogmata of temporal power, incessantly assailed by these floods of light, could not be long without being shaken, first in the human mind, and afterwards in things, to the very foundations. Guttemburg, without knowing it, was the mechanist of the New World. In creating the communication of ideas, he had assured the independence of reason. Every letter of this alphabet which left his fingers, contained in it more power than the armies of kings, and the thunders of pontiffs. It was mind which he furnished with language. These two powers were the mistresses of man, as they were hereafter of mankind. The intellectual world was born of material invention, and it had grown rapidly. The reformed religion was one of its early offspring."

Printing, that was originally done by hand, furnishing a few hundred copies per day, stands in great disparity by contrast with the improvements of the present. Here is one of the latest:—

"PROGRESS IN PRINTING PRESSES.—The Petit Journal of Paris has a circulation of over two hundred and fifty thousand copies. M. Maroni has recently placed in the office four presses, each of which will print six hundred impressions a minute, or a total of one hundred and forty-four thousand per hour." What the prophet predicted is now fulfilled—"knowledge" is "increased."

Dr. John Cumming has written in his "Last Witness"—"The Bible has been translated into every spoken tongue. And the Word of God is preached in earth's countless dialects. I appeal to the Bible Society, where you have a specimen of the Bible in every language spoken under heaven." Another writer testifies in the Missionary Herald to the same effect, and says:—"One of the most cheering aspects of the missionary work in this day is the translation of the Bible into the vernacular tongue of every people under the whole heaven; and among these late translations that of Dr. Eli Smith into the modern Arabic is one of the most important."

"The waters"—that are declared to be "peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues," and, according to the law of analogy, constituted "the great river Euphrates"—have been completely dried up. And those upper and nether millstones, king, and priestcraft, that crushed the saints to death during the ages of kingly and pontifical splendor, have now lost their power to intimidate by dungeons, racks, inquisitions, and the savage and barbarous auto da fe. Everlasting thanks! popery has forever lost its power to "whelm nations in blood and wrap cities in fire." Potentates no longer do penance, and quail at the feet of the mitred blasphemer. The great Euphratean waters, through the infinite mercy of God, have been turned away, and no longer flow unto Babylon. Rome, where under the reign of imperial monsters the early christians were martyred by being torn by wild beasts, and tortured to death in every conceivable manner that pagans could invent, and where also the fiery bolts of pontifical vengeance have been hurled with the bitterest invectives against those that dared to read and believe the Word of God, and who were denounced and destroyed as heretics, has lost its prestige.

The way is now "prepared for the kings of the east" to prosecute their prophetic mission. On the very territory where the reading of the Scriptures and all other instruction was prohibited, now it is practiced without papal let or hindrance. The "time of the end" has come. Many are running to and fro. "He that hath the key of David, he that openeth and no man shutteth, and shutteth and no man openeth," hath opened the door of toleration. Neither Pope nor Satan can shut it. He hath forever closed the door of papal intolerance, and no man, Pope nor Satan, can open it. The way is completely prepared for the mission of "the kings of the east"; namely, teachers of the gospel. Even in Rome, where the great seven-headed dragon, called the Devil and Satan, had his seat and where the high priest of Diabolus held high carnival for ages, amid the tears and agonies of helpless victims, expiring in the dark confines of inquisitions, while he reveled amid scenes of debauchery, Protestantism is tolerated.

Italian Bibles that were sent to Rome in the year 1848, when the Pope fled to Gaeta for his life, after his return, he ordered them to be gathered and burned. It was done in the Castle of St. Angelo. He has lost that castle. Victor Emanuel has it now in his possession. All the Pope's temporal power is lost. "The kings of the east" are there. Protestant worship is now tolerated in Rome. Two Baptist ministers—Wall and Duni—and C. W. Van Meter, a M. E. minister, are preaching there, teaching Sunday schools and distributing Bibles. "Father Grassi, who for thirty-six years performed successively the duties of priest, confessor, curate, mitred abbot, lent preacher, and lastly incumbent of the great Basilica Santa Maria Maggiore, has cast down robes, honor, emoluments, abandoned prospective promotion, and united with the Baptist church under the pastoral care of Rev. Mr. Wall of England."

Apostates from popery are the most inveterate objects of Romish hatred; and "Father Grassi, for all that," says Mr. Van Meter, "has preached twice in my Vatican Mission. We shall have preaching there every Sunday night."

Praise the Lord henceforth and evermore! Every ray of light gladdens the hearts of those that are looking for and expecting the return of their Lord. The evidences are certainly all that faith can possibly desire. Let all live in momentary expectation. The mission of "the kings of the east" is about consummated. The gospel of the kingdom is now preached in all the world, as a witness. THE END MUST BE VERY NEAR.

GRACE is of a stirring nature, it will show itself in holiness and good works; it will walk with you, and talk with you, in all places and companies, it will buy with you and sell with you, and have a hand in all your actions. It is a sad thing, when believers are off their guard, when they profess to have been on the mount as Moses really was, and yet like him, they no sooner come down than they turn and break the commandments. A christian should let us see his graces, walking abroad in his daily conversation, and if such guests are in the house, they will often look out at the windows, and be publicly seen abroad in all duties and holy actions.—Gurnall.

THE WORKING CHURCH—WHICH IS IT?

In a late number of a leading religious paper, a distinguished minister has an article entitled, "A working church." The article commences with the following statement:—"The various enterprises of christian philanthropy, with which the church is busy now-a-days, entitle it, more than any other age of its history, to be called a working church."

This statement is one that we should not have dared to make in the face of any student of history. This is an assertion that the church of the present day is more entitled to the name of a working church than that even of the primitive and apostolic age; which assertion we consider absolutely at variance with history and facts. If the church of the present time is more entitled to the appellation of a working church than the one of the first period of the gospel dispensation, we should look to find more accomplished by it in the bringing of men to Christ than was done by the primitive church.

Is the church of to-day really putting forth the effort for Christ, and sacrificing for him what the church of earlier times did? Is she as earnest in the work of saving men by proclaiming a pure gospel as the first church was? Are her ministers as zealous, untiring, and consecrated to the work of preaching the gospel as the apostles and their immediate successors were? Are her members as self-sacrificing and self-denying as those who first heard and believed the gospel of Christ? The church of that day suffered the loss of all things for the gospel's sake; its labors were also more abundant than those of the church in any other period of the gospel dispensation. This we dare to assert, and are willing to compare the result of the work done then and now by the professed followers of Christ in the two periods.

We do not perhaps know just what the writer means by "enterprises of christian philanthropy." If he does not include by this the work of saving men, then perhaps we might grant that the church of to-day is a harder worker than the church of any former time. If by "christian philanthropy" is meant a love of species, and by "enterprises" efforts to elevate and make happier mankind in the present life, then it may be admitted that the church of this day is a working church; for it is certainly trying to have men more satisfied with the world, and to enjoy its pleasures in every conceivable form. But we say here, that if a comparison be made between the apostolic church and the one of to-day, in respect to true christian benevolence, the former will appear the nearest to Christ in its unselfishness and ministrations to the wants of the poor and destitute, as well as for its sacrifices for the spread of the gospel and the salvation of the world. No more benevolent church ever existed than the primitive apostolic church. In proportion to its means, it gave a thousand times more for humanity than the present church is giving. In proportion to its strength, it did a thousand times more work for Christ than the church of the present time is doing. Therefore to say that the church of to-day is more entitled to the name of a working church than the church of any other period in history, is to affirm that which no man should assert in the face of both sacred and profane history.

But that the church of to-day is a working church, who will deny? But for whom or what is she working? Is she working for Christ? Is she working for him as the first church worked? Is she working for the salvation of men as the primitive church did? Is she laboring for the spread of the gospel in all its parts and fulness? Being divided, is not each part of her working principally for itself, and to build up and add to it by every means within its power? What is the character of her work? Is it a self-denying one? Does the church of the nineteenth century make any real sacrifice for Christ? Where is it to be seen? Who suffers now by giving and laboring for the Redeemer's cause? Much is given, but it is little in proportion to what is possessed. But for what is it given? A large amount is given to build elegant and stately houses of worship, and to adorn them, so as to attract the world, and thus from it gather to the church.

This, we admit, was not done by the primitive church. The church of this day labors, in its various divisions, to proselyte to its distinctive faiths all within its reach, rather than to really convert them to Christ. This, the apostolic church did not do. The church of the present time labors for the education of her ministers and people, and to popularize herself before the world. This the first church of Christ did not do. The church of this age gives to secular enterprises, and to carry forward and out political schemes and measures. This the church of the first age did not do. The church of to-day labors together with the world and wicked men, in societies, and associations (some of them secret), for the purpose of benefiting themselves and the world at large. This the early church of Christ did not do. The church of this time gives to the world, and in return asks the world to give to her, by coming to her fairs and festivals, buying her trinkets and dainties, which she exposes for sale, for the purpose of carrying forward her plans for doing good. This the church of God in the first century did not do.

If the church of now-a-days is entitled to the name of a working church more than the church of any other age, it is, certainly, not because her great work is preaching the gospel faithfully, and living out its teachings. The world knows she is not doing this. It is not because she is putting forth all her strength for Christ alone, and directing her entire energies to the salvation of men from sin and ruin. She is not doing this. She may boast of doing a great work, but this cannot be it. She may flatter herself that she is accomplishing her mission, but will at length find that the work Christ gave her to do was left undone. She may exult over her exaltation, her education and refinement; she may look back with pity, or a smile of triumph upon the church of other ages, and consider it weak and base beside herself, but Jesus knows that she is "wretched, poor, blind and naked." She may imagine that she is the beloved and favored of God, and is accomplishing more for him in the world than any other people he ever had here, and see, ere long, that by her unfaithfulness and pride, scepticism and infidelity in all their forms have grown up within and around her—that she has permitted these offsprings of Satan to become monsters, when she had, or could have had the power to crush them at their very beginning.

A working church, and no reformation! A working church, and unbelief and crime of every kind and degree increasing on every hand, everywhere! A church working for Christ, and the world loving and caressing her! A church working for God, and affiliating with the world! A church almost universal, and at work, and sin and corruption increasing the world over! Is she entitled to the name of The Working Church? Surely not; nay, verily.

I. I. LESLIE.

THE LOVE OF CHRIST.

H. P. SIKES.

What a wonderful exhibition of love is presented to us in the tale of Calvary! A sinless, holy being voluntarily giving himself up to undergo the most horrible death, and the most dreadful sufferings, out of tender, yearning compassion towards his most bitter enemies!

Our fallen race are too depraved, too selfish to appreciate such disinterested beneficence as this! Tell them about gain, talk to them of science, of mathematics, of philosophy, or history, and most men evince the deepest interest, and the most acute perception of the ideas which you advance; but speak to them of the wonders of redeeming love, and men are listless and indifferent. That which excites the wondering awe of angels is ignored, or treated with contempt by guilty men.

But be it mine to feast upon and to delight myself in contemplating the beauteous character of "the Chiefest among ten thousand," the One "altogether lovely." Ye rich men of the world, ye seekers of pleasure, ye votaries of fashion, I boast (through grace) of having a vastly more noble center of attraction than all your vanities. 'Tis Jesus, the dear Lamb of God. He has now all my affections. I confess that such a spectacle of love divine has subdued my proud, rebellious, unbelieving heart. If I love not thee, O my dear Master, I love nothing!

It is indeed passing strange that mankind are so utterly destitute of affection towards the dear Lamb of God, the most lovely being in the universe. The great mass of men are full of bitter enmity; while as to those whose hearts God has touched, and who actually possess a measure of love toward him, how feeble a spark burns within them! How poorly do they requite that Savior who laid down his life, amid the keenest agonies, for their sakes! And unrenewed men, who can duly estimate and appreciate moral worth in any human being, can look upon him who is the very essence of goodness, and be entirely unmoved; nay, feel a rankling and bitter animosity. Alas, for poor, fallen, human nature! If any want evidence that mankind are totally depraved, here it is. Here they may see the utter irreconcilable enmity of the natural heart against God. Were it not for this deadly enmity, surely every heart must be melted at the sight of the cross. See the spotless Lamb of God, bleeding, groaning, dying for you! Fellow christian, look at him. Gaze, and continue to gaze at the wondrous spectacle until your heart is melted, your will subdued, and thus you are transformed into his holy and most blessed likeness.

Northfield, Mass.

WHAT'S THE REASON?

A. A. HOYT.

Many query, What is the reason of so many converts to the professed church so soon backsliding? and frequently argue that it is on account of the strong opposition of the wicked; but we think the churches may largely blame themselves. The chief difficulty is, that wrong inducements are held out to the world to bring them into the church. We cannot expect to gather grapes from thorns, or figs from thistles. When the church holds out worldly amusements to bring the ungodly into their fold, they must expect that those who are thereby induced to come in, are those who are fascinated by those amusements; and that when that church fails to hold such converts by such inducements, then they will go back to their old pleasures and pursuits.

If we wish men converted to Christ, we must hold up the promises of Christ, and teach the precise commandments of his Word necessary to be observed to make us inheritors of those promises. We must preach the Word.

Professed "bride of the Lamb," away with your idol-calf worship, your fairs, christmas parties, levees, oyster suppers, sociables, sewing circles, and dramatic clubs! Away with your novel reading, man-made essays and written sermons! Come out of politics, Freemasonry, Good Templarism, Odd Fellowship, Granger associations, and every other worldly organization! Down with your pride of fashion, and stifle your thirst for worldly honor! Preach not the wisdom of men's words, nor come in the excellency of speech; but come in the name of the God of hosts, in the "demonstration of the Spirit and of power!" Come uniformed with the christian armor; and armed with the sword of the Spirit—the Word of God! Come with divine boldness, and in the name of the God of Israel hurl the sling-stone at those who defy the armies of heaven, and it shall, by the blessing of God, be effectual as a savor of life unto life, or death unto death. When the curse of evil is removed, the fruits of righteousness will be manifest.

FORGIVENESS.

L. ROBBINS.

These things saith He who hath his eyes like a flame of fire. Take heed to thyself.

"If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him; if he repent, forgive him. And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times turn again unto thee, saying, I repent, thou shalt forgive him. For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive your trespasses; but if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses. Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. For if a man thinketh himself to be something when he is nothing he deceiveth himself. Put ye on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness. longsuffering, forbearing one another and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any, even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye. Sufficient to such a man is this punishment which was inflicted of many, so that contrariwise ye ought rather to forgive him and comfort him; lest perchance such a one should be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow. Wherefore, I beseech you, that you would confirm your love toward him. For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. If any man desire to be first, he shall be last of all, and servant of all. A wise man feareth and departeth from evil, but the fool rageth and is confident. He that is soon angry dealeth foolishly, and the man of wicked devices is hated. Therefore, marvel not that I said unto you, Ye must be born again. Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter the kingdom of heaven. Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware lest ye also being led away with the evil of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness."

Dear reader, remember that God hath spoken these words, and they will judge you in that day. Is it not wisdom then to take heed to those things now, as to a light that shineth in a dark place? Soon you and I will be judged out of those things which are written in the Book, according to our works. Let us then, who are looking for such things, be diligent, that we may be found of Him in peace, without spot and blameless.

ETERNAL LIFE.

S. S. CHAMBERLAIN.

No finite mind can understand, comprehend or fathom the whole length and breadth and depth of meaning contained in these words. But all alike can look as upon a boundless ocean as far as the eye can reach, and when all their powers of vision have been stretched to their utmost limit, they may still say that "eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things that God hath prepared for them that love him."

But if men did have some apprehension, some reasonable and measurable conception of this great gift of God, this infinite treasure, would they not make a greater effort to secure it? It is only by patient continuance in well doing that we may reasonably hope to receive it. If we are contentious and disobedient, then the reward is "indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish upon every soul of man that doeth evil."

Is it not important that we have a "good hope" of eternal life? Surely, of all things, this hope should have a good foundation. In this race we should not run uncertainly; in this war we should not fight as one that beateth the air. But we should heed the exhortation of Jude, who says, "But ye, beloved, building up yourselves on your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Ghost, keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." John says, "These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God."

We cannot regard this great gift as continued existence merely, but we associate with it every good gift that God can bestow and that man can receive. We are assured that he will "freely give us all things." "No good thing will he withhold" from those who gain eternal life. Thanks be to God for this unspeakable gift. The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

THE TRAVELER.—The life of man is often likened to a day's journey. He sets out from the cradle and travels towards the grave. Some have a long journey, and others a very short one. Some walk all the day, and far into the evening, and are glad to sink to rest, as Jacob was, after his weary pilgrimage, while others take but few steps before they find their end. By far the largest part come to the close of their journey before noon. The great concern of all should be, to keep the way that will lead them to a heavenly home.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 17, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

SPECIAL NOTICE
To our Subscribers in the Canadas and the Provinces.

Within a few days a new postal arrangement has been completed between the U. S. Post Office Department and the Post Office officials of the Dominion of Canada, so that newspapers are now delivered to subscribers in the Provinces free of postage to them—the postage paid at the office of publication being sufficient, as in the States. This will save our Province subscribers the heavy postage they have hitherto paid, some fifty cents or more per year. We trust they will bear that in mind, and remit to us $2.25 per year, the subscription price of the Crisis.

AG'T.

PROSPERITY A SIGN OF THE END.

"A brutish man knoweth not, neither doth a fool understand this. When the wicked spring as the grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish, it is that they shall be destroyed forever." Ps. 92: 6, 7.

The last fatal stumbling stone to the wicked will be a false security, which they will rejoice in, produced by what will be esteemed as great prosperity. Those not enlightened by divine truth will reckon that worldly advancement in literature, wealth, the arts and sciences is a guarantee of continuance, and a security against judgments and destruction. They say that this world is in its infancy, for its resources, designed by the Creator for the use and benefit of men, are just being developed. Its vast storehouse is just opened, so that its rich mines, fertile soil, steam power, electrical forces and means for increased mental advancement can now be appropriated as never before; and therefore generations and ages must be given for the full development and enjoyment of these things.

But the text shows that this argument rests upon a false premise, and that the deduction will be a fatal one; for it is the "brutish man" that "knoweth not, neither doth a fool understand this." What do they not understand? That "when the wicked spring as the grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish; it is, that they shall be destroyed forever." It therefore follows that just before the last judgments of God come upon the wicked, they will reckon themselves as advancing in worldly prosperity like the grass in the spring. It will be when the workers of iniquity do flourish, "that they shall be destroyed forever."

The last generation will be distinguished as "boasters," "highminded," "proud," "ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth." They will reckon on their superiority over their predecessors, and their rapid advancement to a very high state of earthly perfection. They will be counting on great political improvement, which will causee them to say "Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more;" or, as Paul expresses it, "When they shall say, peace and safety, sudden destruction cometh upon them, . . . and they shall not escape." That Paul in this passage is quoting from Isaiah is evident, for both predict the vain boast of the people that "war" shall end, and uninterrupted "peace" be established, and that this great mistake will become to them a fatal snare; for it will be produced by those who predict prosperity and a golden age for them as the "soothsayers" did for the "Philistines." The prophet also continues their history, saying—"They please themselves in the children of strangers;" that is, they will be pleased with the teaching of those whom they will "heap to themselves," but who are strangers to Christ, and his gospel, and will therefore preach fables."

"Their land also is full of silver and gold, neither is there any end of their treasures." These treasures will be rapidly accumulating and "heaped up" according to James; that is, they will be controlled by a few, while the toiling masses will be robbed of their "wages," and cry for vengeance upon their robbers.

"Their land is also full of horses, neither is there any end of their chariots;" meaning that these rich extortioners will freely use their illgotten gains in keeping many horses,—beautiful, fast horses, and will show their great dignity and superiority of caste by riding in princely chariots, richly upholstered, and gaily mounted.

"Their land also is full of idols; they worship the work of their own hands, that which their own fingers have made." These wealthy thieves will manifest their boasting by erecting monuments to their own fame, costly statuary, elaborate paintings, ornamented "lands"—gardens, parks, and groves, "calling them by their own names." They will build costly churches, where only the rich walk, with haughty tread, on the soft tapestry, and recline upon the crimson velvet to enjoy the charm of "great swelling words," and the blasphemy of operatic music sung in the name of the humble and lowly Jesus.

Jehovah then utters the most scathing and withering anathemas upon these proud, boastful worshipers in the next sentence, thus: "And the mean man boweth down, and the great man humbleth himself; therefore forgive them not." These men had been so "mean" in obtaining their gold and silver, and had become so "great" in their own estimation, that they disdained to receive the poor laborers, who had earned the wealth they so much gloried in, into their assembles. When such men bow down their heads as the worshipers of Jesus Christ, in such mockery to Jehovah, he will not forgive them, neither does he allow his faithful people to wink at their sins.

This false idea of progression, causing such delusive dreams of earthly prosperity, and which will culminate in a sudden and fearful overthrow, was expressed by the prophet as he continues his prophetic strain. "The lofty looks of men shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day; for the day of the Lord of hosts shall be upon every one that is proud and lofty, and upon every one that is lifted up; and he shall be brought low." Isa. 2.

These passages, with many more of the same class, prove that pride and arrogance, produced by a boastful spirit, glorying in what men have done, and are expecting to do, will be a prominent sign of the end.

The Psalmist, beholding through the glass of inspiration the condition of men prior to the time when the "wicked are cut off," and the righteous are exalted "to inherit the land" says: "I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree: yet he passed away, and lo, he was not; yea, I sought him, but he could not be found."

Great Babylon, the representative head of all antichristian worshipers, goes down under the wave of perdition while she is speaking her most boastful and blasphemous words, declaring that she shall sit as a queen forever; that she is not a widow and shall not see the loss of children. God said of the ancient typical city and her proud king: "How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations! For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north; I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the Most High. Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit." Isa. 14: 12–15.

The antitype, apocalyptic Babylon, must meet every line of the perfectly drawn picture, so that, as in the first, the king and people heard the words of inspiration foretelling their downfall and destruction, which seemed to fail of an accomplishment, and kindled in them a spirit of boastful triumph, causing the king to assemble the rulers and nobility to a joyful feast, where all gloried in the bright prospect of long continued triumphs and victories; so it will be in the second case. In the antitype, the words of Jehovah, foretelling Rome's final overthrow, must be proclaimed, notifying her of approaching destruction. And while the armies are being prepared which shall fulfil these predictions, she will call together her rulers and priests, and most boastfully declare—"I will ascend into heaven." "I will be [invincible] like the Most High." But God says, "Thou shalt be brought down to hell—to the sides of the pit." When the lofty mistress of Rome shall say, "I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow," God says—"Therefore [on account of this defiant boast] shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire; for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her."

This arrogant, boastful spirit will not only be manifested by the Lady of Kingdoms, but Paul testifies that "in the last days . . . men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers." He says men shall be boasters; that is, wicked men of all classes will be boastful; which implies that each class will be confident of success, anticipating a triumphant termination of all controversies.

The perils of the last days will grow out of the fact that the antagonistic classes will each be determined to triumph in an anticipated struggle, and will therefore prepare themselves with all the means within their control to gain a final victory. The more confidence of success, the more energy and sacrifice will be made; therefore, when God is about to punish the wicked nations by destructive war, he will inspire the opposing parties with great confidence of triumph; thus producing a terrible conflict.

Never was the world so perfectly divided into contending warlike parties as at present. The monarchial class are every where making unparalleled preparations to withstand the opposing classes—the Catholics, Republicans, Communists, Internationalists, Spiritualists, and other classes, who are making gigantic efforts to overthrow the present political status of the world. Each party manifests perfect confidence of success. Each expresses faith that their God has vouchsafed to give them a final and everlasting victory. Each seems to be inspired with the idea that their coming triumph will give them the ascendancy in the government of the world for all coming time. This confidence makes each class boastfully predict for themselves and the world the immediate dawning of a golden age. They claim that humanity is, by her own effort, about to rise to a higher plane of social life. But, oh, the fatal error! the blinding illusion! that human efforts can regenerate a degenerated race; that the means of destruction can result in salvation; that war, cannon and shell will lay the foundation for peace. Did the war between Germany and France lay the foundation for future peace between them? We might as well say that fire running through every part of a house would preserve it from burning. The world is plunging into perdition because it has blasphemously denied God by undertaking to redeem itself according to its own plans, and by its own means, instead of depending upon him. O that men could see that Christ is the Redeemer of this fallen world, and that the curse can never be removed, and paradise can never be restored, or the kingdom of God established, until David's royal Heir shall come and perfectly revolutionize the earth and its inhabitants, and write perfection upon all that shall remain! J. C.

STRIFE.

"The servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient."

Strife, in any department of christian life, is injurious and destructive to vital godliness and christian fellowship and peace. All men seem to have an intuitive knowledge that strife is incompatible with a life of faith and holiness; so that those who are contentious, no matter what may produce it, lose their religious influence over others, and thus render themselves powerless to do them good.

Nothing is more destructive to the sweet enjoyment of christian love in a family than strife between the husband and wife, or the parents and children. It generally commences in some little thing—a difference of opinion upon matters of little importance, or something that cannot be determined by human knowledge. When such controversy is allowed to continue in a family, its peace and harmony will surely be destroyed, and the Spirit of Christ driven away, and they left in an unhappy, condemned condition.

When strife is suffered to exist in religious meetings, the result is always death to its spirituality and the division and destruction of the church. Contention is always the fruit of a human or satanic spirit, and never the result of Christ's Spirit. Some persons have combativeness largely developed, and unless they are filled with the spirit of love they are continually criticizing or finding fault with what somebody has done, said, or written. They often think they are serving Christ by correcting the errors or rebuking the sins of their brethren, when it is nothing but strife and contention produced by a desire to show superior wisdom and piety, or to be avenged for some real or imaginary injury. Strife among brethren has destroyed the saving influence of more meetings than all the scoffing and bitter opposition of the outside world. Never discuss a question, or proposition of theology, or business, a moment after you see it is producing alienation or strife. It is better a thousand times to let your arguments appear to go by default, and yourself silenced upon minor questions, than to create strife and disfellowship among brethren.

As strife destroys all the happifying and purifying influences of social life in families, meetings, and all other personal associations, so it is in all written and printed communications. Especially is this true in religious papers. The moral tone of a religious paper is its first and most important element of strength. When it breathes kindness, and a catholic spirit, expressing love and good will to all, with a willingness to think and let think upon all subjects discussable in such a sheet, it commends itself to the intelligence and approval of all good people. But when one writer is allowed to attack another with a denunciatory spirit, holding him up as unintelligent, and perverting the right ways of the Lord, it will seem to candid readers like strife and contention in a family or meeting, and they will feel like retiring from such controversy and reading something in which there is less confusion. It is also injurious in deterring some of our best brethren and sisters from writing, because they feel that they are liable to be attacked and held up to ridicule by some of those who are always ready to tear down every thing that does not exactly agree with their standard.

We believe a man who has no house for his family has a right to build one, but he has no right to obtain his lumber by tearing down his neighbor's house. Let every one freely and fully express his convictions of truth, and give the best proof he has to sustain his position, and leave the hearer or reader to judge between the strength of his argument and his brother's who differs from him, and not put himself in as judge to condemn his brother and magnify his own superior knowledge and wisdom.

This is emphatically an age of strife and war; and if we are not very careful we shall get into the current and float down into the war of perdition.

Brethren, we exhort you to remember the text, and realize that it applies to each of us, as the servants of Christ. "The servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient." We are not only accountable to the Lord to keep this commandment by our own acts, but we are accountable for the power and influence we are able to exert over others, to enable them to keep it also. May the Lord teach and lead us in all our work in his vineyard, so that we may be acquitted by the Judge at last, and enjoy the kingdom of peace where strife will never come. J. C.

DAY AND HOUR.

Imagine two of Christ's brethren talking about his return to this earth. One claims that he knows the day and hour when Jesus will come; the other says he thinks the Savior spoke very plainly on this subject just before he left the world, giving his children to understand that they might know when they were in the last generation, as certainly as spring leaves show when summer is near; but that they would not know the "day and hour." Suppose, that in the midst of their talk on this subject, Jesus should appear before them, and they should ask him to let them have the truth in the case, and he should say: "Watch, therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh." Matt. 25: 13. After hearing this from the Savior, would it be right for one of those Brn. to insist that he knew the day and hour, and to persist in thus affirming directly contrary to the words of Jesus? Would the dear Savior be pleased with such a course? Could he say to him, when he comes, "Well done?"

Jesus spoke very plainly on this point, again and again. Hear him: "Watch, therefore, for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." Matt 14: 42. Look at his illustration that introduced this saying: "Then [at the time of his coming] shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill, the one shall be taken and the other left." Matt. 24: 40, 41. Again he says: "When the Son of man is revealed, . . . there shall be two men in one bed, the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left. . . . Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken and the other left." Luke 17: 30–36. Had they known the Savior was coming at the sixth hour of a certain day or night, would they have gone to labor in the field that day, or retired to sleep that night? If the reader knew Jesus would come at twelve, or three o'clock to-night, would you go to bed? If you knew he was coming to-morrow at eleven o'clock, would you be in the field working at that hour? The fact that his children will be thus found when he comes, affords satisfactory evidence that "of that day and hour knoweth no man." Matt. 24: 36. And because we do not know, we are required to "watch" when we get among the signs that show his coming "is near, even at the doors." Matt. 24: 33.

The Savior gives another plain illustration, showing the importance of watching, because we do not know the day nor hour. He says: "If the good man of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up. Therefore be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh." Matt. 24: 43 44. What was the fault of this good man? He did not watch. Why not? because he did not know "in what watch the thief would come." (A "watch" is a longer period than an hour.) What should he have done? He should have watched without knowing the watch in which the thief would appear. Shall we do as he did? Certainly not. How then? "Watch, therefore, for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." Let us believe what Jesus says, and turn a deaf ear to all teaching that is opposed to his plain words. M. G.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

The present signs of the times are remarkably strong in favor of the speedy coming of Christ. They are producing a deep impression on the minds of candid people, and causing them to believe we are truly near the end of the present dispensation. Many who see the signs have not yet spoken out their convictions in public. This is the case with a number of ministers in the different denominations, but we think the time is near at hand when they will be constrained to sound the alarm. If they do not, the "stones" will "cry out," as in the following from the San Francisco Daily Chronicle, Jan. 30th, 1875:—

"ARMAGEDDON AT HAND.

A careful survey of the existing European situation seems almost sufficient to justify a belief in the prediction of the enthusiasts who declare that the true interpretation of John's Apocalyptic vision shows that "the battle of the great day of God Almighty at Armageddon" is actually at hand. All Europe is at present like one vast camp. The nations are arming from the British Channel to Ural Mountains; from the Mediterranean to the Baltic, as if with a prophetic understanding that a terrible and portentous crisis is at hand. . . . The nations are becoming armies; the general masses of the people are being turned into soldiers. Russia has a greedy eye on India and the Sick Man. Austria has long coveted a portion of the territory of Turkey. France is said to be still cherishing feelings of bitterness and revolving schemes of revenge. There are also those who predict a great Ultramontane combination for the restoration of Rome and the temporal power to the Supreme Pontiff. Rumors of schemes of conquest, of plots, conspiracies and new alliances fill the circumambient air, as motes people a sunbeam."

Should the blow be struck in Europe, the shock will be felt all over the world. The prospect is very dark for the world, but bright for the christian. His long-deferred hope is about to be consummated.

The time has arrived when we may understandingly expect the appearing of the Son of man. This grandest of all events is rapidly approaching. Those who are not ready should not delay their preparation for a moment. When the war storm bursts forth, it will be harder starting then than now. The stream of iniquity is rapidly rising, sweeping with terrible fury in all directions. Strong men are falling, and the faint hearted stand trembling at the abounding perils. This is the time for brave men, who are willing to lose all for Jesus; who think more of saving sinners, than of preserving a reputation; more of building up the cause of Christ, than of advancing their own private interests. The christian's work is now short, but earnest. The foe is strong, artful, and defiant; but he who is clothed with "the whole armor of God" has nothing to fear. Deliverance soon will come. M. G.

A STIRRING BOOK.

We have just been reading a book of an unusual character, entitled "Stones through glass houses, or Modern Christianity a civilized Heathenism." It is from the pen of an English writer, and contains the sharpest rebuke upon modern Christianity we have ever seen. He shows the wide contrast between it and that taught and lived by Jesus and his apostles. The facts are brought out by a conversation between an intelligent heathen and a popular minister. It is a book for the times, and can hardly fail to make a deep impression upon the mind of any one who reads it carefully. The picture is truly a sad one, and shows there is great need of a reform—a radical change, else we may expect the mass of the people will become infidels.

The facts and illustrations presented show that there has been a great departure from the true standard of a pure Christianity into the spirit and manners of the world; that for this reason its vitality is gone, leaving it almost like a lifeless skeleton. It has grieved away the Holy Spirit of God, and adopted instead the spirit of human policy and sectarian bigotry, connected with pride and ambition, and an earnest desire for self-aggrandizement. It stands to-day as one defeated in the presence of its enemies, with very little hope of recovering its lost ground, so far as the great body of Protestantism is concerned. The time has come for holy men to "turn away" from fashionable Christianity, and to come out from the world and be separate, if they would continue in the favor of the Most High. M. G.

RATHER SPICY.

We find the following in a tract, published by the Seventh-Day Adventists, at Battle Creek, Mich., signed, J. N. Andrews, Uriah Smith, and J. H. Wagoner; indorsed by Geo. I. Butler, S. N. Haskell, and H. Lindsay, as General Conference committee:

"We are surprisd to learn that Elder Grant now comes among those who have newly come to the faith, and who are ignorant of his past course, and asks, as a matter of christian courtesy, to be permitted to preach in their houses of worship."

We would say that we never asked for one of their houses in which to preach, nor asked any one else to make such a request.

On the last page of the tract is the following:—

"We cannot consistently give either countenance or place to him as a religious teacher. In the name of Christianity, and for the honor of the the truth of God, we warn the congregations of Seventh-Day Adventists to have no fellowship with him, nor admit him into their houses until he shall give evidence, by repentance and reparation, that he is worthy of the office which he has taken upon himself."

In the "Advent Review and Herald of the Sabbath Extra," April 14th, 1874, is the following:—

"THE TWO CLASSES.

No doubt the S. D. Adventists on the one hand, and Elder Miles Grant and some of his law abolished friends on the other, are both acting a part in reference to the following emphatic declaration of Scripture: 'Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city. For without are dogs, and sorcerers, whoremongers, and murderers, and idolators, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie.'

Here are two distinct classes. One are commandment keepers, the other commandment breakers. And it is a very natural inference that the latter make and love lies concerning the former."

After reading the foregoing, the thought occurred to us that one of the commandments reads as follows: "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.' Ex. 20: 16. We would call the attention of the publishers of the Tract and the Extra to this. It may have been overlooked.

The following from Jesus affords us comfort:—"Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven." Matt. 5: 11–12. M. G.

DARK CLOUDS continue to rise in Europe, showing the approach of a terrible war among the nations. Careful, far-seeing men are watching the signs of the times with deep, foreboding interest. They can see no way to avoid the bloody conflict. A mighty power seems to be impelling forward the war preparations upon a gigantic scale. The very foundation stones of the different governments seem to be shaking as if about to be laid in ruins by the subsequent shocks of the approaching earthquake. While the conflict is dreaded, hasty preparations are continually multiplying in all directions. Hopes of peace are being blasted, and the great men are arranging their business as best they can to meet the shock of coming events. The London Times thus speaks editorially:—

'In the gloom surrounding us one thing is perceptible. All are arming. Germany is arming en masse, and the surrounding nations, including the best part of the world, cannot do otherwise. Momentary dreams of peace have fled away. Germany recognizes the stern necessity. What she won by arms she can hold only by arms and while arms are in her hands." M. G.

CRUSHING THE PAPACY.

The governments of Europe are putting the Papal power beneath their upper and nether millstones, that it may be ground to powder, and become "like the chaff of the summer threshing floors," and come to a perpetual end. It is being placed upon the torturing rack, where it will "have no rest day nor night." It is becoming alarmed at the strange progress of events. The Pope's bulls and prayers seem to be unnoticed on earth or in heaven. Once the church leaned upon the strong arm of political power, as a bride upon her husband, and sat mistress over kings; but now how changed! Her former supporters have become her spoilers. Her once boasted strength is now her weakness. When she calls for help, she is only reminded of her weak and helpless condition. Paralysis has made her helpless. She attempts to alarm those who are taking away her strength, but they laugh her to scorn, and go forward with their important work, thus demonstrating the truthfulness of the prophetic word.

The following is a sample of what is being done:—

"The Prussian authorities have closed the Catholic seminary in Fulda, expelled the head priest from German territory, and sequestrated all the property of the bishop of that diocese."

A short time more, and we may expect to see the end of the "drunken" harlot, and witness the glory of our coming King. M. G.

GROWING WEAKER.

The world is moving against the Papal power with a firm step, headed by Bismarck of Germany. The supporters of Pius IX. are also laying deep plans to place the political reins again in the hands of the Pope, so that he can once more control kings, and suppress his enemies. This case is rapidly working up, and must be decided by an appeal to arms, when the passions of men will be aroused to a state of fearful excitement. It must be a war of extinction of one party or the other. The arm of the Almighty will be stretched forth in the coming conflict to overthrow mystic Babylon, as effectually as when her prototype was destroyed by Cyrus.

The supporters of him who claims to be infallible are deluded into the belief that success will attend their efforts as in other days, but like Samson, shorn of his locks, they will yet find Pius IX. as weak as other men. From now till Jesus comes, we may expect the Catholic question will be one of increasing interest. M. G.

THE FRENCH EMPIRE.—The political aspect of France gives strong indications of a radical change before many months pass. One who is considered well posted in French politics,—Hon. G. S. Orth, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, —says that "in less than ninety days President MacMahon will give way to the young Napoleon, and France will again be ruled by an Emperor." In the language of the San Francisco Call, it may be well said: M. G.

"Something must be done. MacMahon was always a favorite of Napoleon III. He is doubtless grateful to the dynasty for his promotions. The Prince Imperial of France has certainly good claims as an heir apparent if a monarchy be adopted. There is little seen by outsiders of any movement in the direction indicated by Mr. Orth; there was nothing seen by them in the recent Bourbon restoration in Spain; but there are very probably in France, as there were in Spain, conspirators in the barracks and emissaries of the exiled Napoleon family everywhere. There are far less probable events than the restoration in France of Napoleon dynasty. A coup d'etat may take place in Paris any day."

LIGHT SPREADING.—The following was clipped from the Presbyterian:—

"It is stated that the Rev. Hugh Stowell Brown, of Liverpool, has publicly announced his acceptance of what may be called the annihilation theory, which has lately found supporters in Mr Dale, of Birmingham, and Mr. Arthur Mursell, of Stockwell."

There is much interest being awakened in England on the great truths of the Bible that have been long buried under theological rubbish. The evidences of Christ's speedy coming are also receiving much attention in that country. Indeed, in all parts of the world, where devoted christians are found, they are being convinced that our Savior will soon return to this earth.

This is good news to all who love him. Those who are not ready to meet him should make immediate preparation. Earth's closing scenes cannot be far in the future. Signs are very bright in favor of a speedy termination of the present dispensation, and the opening of the glorious millennium in "the kingdom of heaven." Thank the Lord that sin and misery will come to a perpetual end. M. G.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The interest in the meetings continues encouraging. New ones are seeking and finding the Lord. Last evening (Jan. 31st) the house was full of very attentive listeners. We are looking for still richer results. To-day we are to go to Sacramento to work a few days, and then return again to this city. The interest in the coming of Christ is increasig, and with it the importance of being holy is felt more sensibly. Ministers in other churches are waking up to the fact that we are near the great day of the Lord. The prospect of a general revival in the city was never more encouraging than at the present time. Continue to pray for California. M. G.

DID christians fully realize the power and importance of prayer, I am sure they would pray more frequently, and more earnestly, and as the result, more good would be done. A good minister of the gospel was once asked why his labors were so much more successful than the labors of some others. "Ah," said he, "the great secret is, the greater part of my labor is knee work."

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$304.25
Mrs. W. H. Kingsley	20

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$80.83
A. Parmelee	35
Esther Loomis	45

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$3 117.20
Cicero Roberts (pledge paid)	100 00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.
Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$178.35
Mrs. M. H. Davis	10 00
Geo. Tilley	8.00
Emma G. Tilley	2.00
A. J. Field	1 00

FOR ELD. GEO. THOMSON.

Jefferson Mayell	$3 00

FROM BRO. W. C. HUGHES.

TO THE A. A. M. SOCIETY.

I was first led to embrace the New Testament faith as held by that class of christians called Adventists, about eighteen months ago. I immediately began to defend the faith, in Union Co., Georgia, where I had been brought up; but very soon I was denounced as an infidel, and as being beside myself. I was very soon charged and arraigned, tried and expelled from the M. E. Church,—the church of my childhood,—my mother's church, in which I had held a ministerial position for about eighteen years. I have been since that time trying what the world calls an out of the church life. At first I met with nothing but condemnation. but through patient continuance, and at every opportunity sowing the seed, trusting to an All-wise God to control the results. I am glad I can say to-day that staunch defenders of the faith have risen up as the fruit of my toil and labor. Opposition still remains, but notwithstanding that, there is good evidence of a thorough work begun and going on. I feel none tired in the service. We are seeing rather hard times,—have been to some extent turned out of employment, but we are not destroyed.

I wish to express my gratitude for the favor conferred upon me by the Editors of the World's Crisis. I have read it for the past year free of charge. I have also the first No. of 1875.

The prospect now is very favorable toward getting a few subscribers to the Crisis, though we shall have to travel slowly perhaps. We expect to spare no pains to give the light we have to all. The tracts sent us by the Agent find readers. Brethren, every where, pray for us.

Blairsville, Union Co., Ga.

Correspondence.

From Bro. C. W. Baker.

Dear Crisis:—Let me make known through your columns some of my thoughts, as I feel we ought to stir each other up as we see by signs that the coming of the Lord is close at hand. O that all the watchmen would give the trumpet a certain sound. Is there not too much ease in Zion? O for the unrolling and hanging up the charts, as in former times, and with the Word of the Lord in hand point to the periods of prophecy, and show their fulfillment as recorded in the history of this world; especially the times in which we live. It appears to me that as a people we have departed from the faith of Jesus' soon coming. How it used to stir the heart of saint and sinner, when the watchman, with becoming zeal, made known the advent of Jesus and the day of judgment. Saints rejoiced and cut loose from the world and prepared for his coming. Sinners trembled and cried, What shall I do to be saved? How the children of God loved each other. How it made them strive to be like Christ, desiring continually to be filled with the Spirit. They settled up all earthly affairs, and were waiting and watching for the return of the Nobleman. They tried to live so as to hear it said—"Well done."

Has not the preaching of Jesus' soon coming done more to arouse the church, alarm the wicked, and get a people ready, than anything else? if so, had we not better adhere to first principles, and cry continually, The Lord cometh; tell the people what he is coming for; keep it before them, and show by our lives we believe it with all our hearts? What ever caused our hearts to burn within us like the glorious tidings of Christ's coming being near? Then we prayed for the power of God to cleanse us even from secret faults. We desired to be like Christ altogether; to hear the trumpet sound, and to meet him in the air, and so be forever with him.

All things combine to tell us that Jesus' coming is nigh, even at the door. Bride of Christ, awake! put on thy bridal robes; soon will corruption put on incorruption, mortal put on immortality, and death be swallowed up in victory. Loved ones will meet to part no more, earth will be renewed, Eden will bloom again, and songs of everlasting joy will be heard throughout the vast domain; for the whole earth will be filled with the glory of our God. Amen, and amen.

Is there not some one that has a chart not in use that would be glad to have it doing service in this blessed cause? If so, will they send it to me? I will try and use it to the glory of God. There are many, illustrative of the visions of Daniel and John, hanging idly on the wall, or laid away. Who will send me one?

Shushan, N. Y.

From Bro. A. Damon.

Dear Brethren:—As many friends may be anxious to know where I am and what I am doing, I take this opportunity to inform them that I am yet at Bridgewater, Vt. I have just closed my year's labor with the church here, and it has been one of the most pleasant years of my ministry. The experience which I have had during the past year convinces me that I can do more permanent good for the cause of truth by pastoral labor than by any other. The time which I have heretofore spent in traveling from place to place, wasting time and money, I have spent the past year in visiting the church, learning their wants, and acquainting myself with their circumstances, calling from house to house, praying with and exhorting saints and sinners, holding meetings in the surrounding neighborhoods, preaching the word of faith, and exhorting men to flee from the wrath to come. God has blest the Word, and by this means the church has swelled its numbers, and the congregations have been enlarged, and the people are growing in favor with God and his truth: for which we praise the Lord. We have had peace with God and his people, but war with the devil and his works. The strong arm of God has been our support, for on this we have endeavored to lean hard, and it has never failed us.

As for the future, it is unknown to us. God alone has to do with that. It is not in me to direct my steps, but I will commit my way unto the Lord, and he will bring it to pass.

My home will be here until April. I shall endeavor to follow the guiding hand of Providence, which always leadeth aright. Will our many friends in the various States correspond with us still at Bridgewater, Vt.

From Bro. J. J. Smith.

Dear Brethren:—On my way home from N. C., after writing you last, I was much exposed to the cold weather while traveling on the mail wagon, and a cold fell on my lungs, which has increased until I am now scarcely able to sit up an hour at a time. It is probable that I may be laid up for the winter. Pray for me, and ask the brethren to do so too.

I may never be able to report my labors in North and South Carolina, as I wished to have done. I can scarcely sit up to write this; but will say that the people, without solicitation, contributed the expenses of the trip, but not $3 more. May the Lord help and bless you and all the dear waiting ones is the prayer of your brother.

Long Island, Ala.

Married.

HAVILAND—HARRINGTON. In Hoosick, N. Y., Jan. 12th at the residence of and by Eld. R. L. Harrison, Mr. WM. G. HAVILAND, of West Hoosick, N. Y. and MARY JANE HARRINGTON, of Pittstown, N. Y.

DUNHAM—WING. In Pittstown, N. Y., Feb 3d, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Elder R. L. Harrison, Mr. JONATHAN L. DUNHAM, of Hoosick, N. Y., and Miss SARAH L. WING, of Pittstown, N. Y.

Obituaries.

JENNINGS. In Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 16th, 1875, Mrs. Susan Jennings, aged 80 years.

Sr. J. was one of the early pioneers in the Advent ranks, having embraced the truth in 1842, and died in full faith of a glorious resurrection to eternal life. Her life was spent in doing good to others; and though she had no earthly relatives living, except nephews and neices, yet she felt a near relation to Christ and his followers. At her house, at Seneca Falls, she administered to the comfort of dear Eld. T. F. Barry, in his last days, and closed his eyes in death. His dear little Lizzie died in her arms while Sr. Barry had gone to bury her husband at Boston, Mass. She also showed her symyathy to Eld. E. R. Pinney, in his last hours of struggle with that terrible cancer which caused his death. I well remember her kindness to myself and father more than thirty years ago, when laboring in that locality.

She had often expressed her hope of being alive at the coming of Christ, till a few days before her death, when she longed to be at rest if it was the will of God. The church will miss her presence and heartfelt testimonies for truth. She desired no outward display at her funeral service, but a statement of her faith in the precious truths of the near coming of Christ and the resurrection of the dead, which the writer attempted to do in a broken manner to a few friends gathered at the house of her nephew, Mr. Francis, who with his wife had ministered so kindly to her comfort in her last hours.

"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints"; and precious the memory of our Mother Jennings, whose work in life so closely resembled the one of whom Paul said—"She has been well reported for good works: she has brought up children: she has lodged strangers: she has washed the saint's feet; she has relieved the afflicted, and she has diligently followed every good work." She "rests from her labors, and her works do follow her." L. M. STODDARD.

A. C. Times, please copy.

HOWARD. In Fairhaven, Vt., Nov. 7th, 1874, of typhoid fever, Bro. Charles Howard, aged 41 years.

Bro. Howard for many years enjoyed the hope of a future life, and was animated by the same until he fell asleep in Jesus. He died as he lived—a christian. He leaves a wife, father, brothers and sisters, and a large circle of friends to mourn his departure. May this afflictive dispensation be sanctified to the good of the numerous relatives and friends.

A funeral sermon was preached on the occasion to a large concourse of people by Eld. W. L. Himes, from John 11: 25.

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,"
From which none ever wake to weep."

A. W. SIBLEY.

BROWN. In Pawling, N. Y., Dec. 29th, 1874, J. Clark Brown, aged 34 years.

Bro. Brown was converted in 1867, under the labors of Bro. Samuel Curry, and was baptized by Bro. C. H. Sweet. The last sixteen months of his life were filled with much suffering, caused by a broken leg, which was the cause of his death. During the last months of his life he had a hope of eternal life beyond the grave. He was kindly cared for by the family of Isaac Olivett. May the Lord recompense them at the resurrection of the just. G. A. BARKER.

HALL. Fell asleep in Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 17th, 1874, Eliza K., wife of Harvey Hall, aged 76 years.

The subject of this notice came out in the memorable year—1843, and to the time of her death was a firm believer in the near advent of the Lord. M. C. K.

ROUNDY. In Unity, Feb. 4th, 1875, of lung fever, Mrs. Sarah G. Roundy, wife of James Roundy, aged 60 years. JOS. KIMBALL.

MULKIN. In Pawling, N. Y., Jan. 23d, 1875, of cancer in the stomach, Wm. Mulkin, aged 73. He rests in hope. G. A. BARKER.

— A vessel has just left San Francisco for Liverpool with a cargo of 150,000 bushels of wheat—the largest cargo of that grain that has ever crossed the ocean.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Feb. 8. Dispatches from Spain do not confirm the report of the capture of the Estella by the Alfonsists. The Carlists claim that they have regained the ground they lost in Guypuzcoa; that General Loma has been compelled to abandon Zaranz and Guetaria, and is hemmed in at San Sebastian, and that the Alfonsists have lost 1200 killed in the recent engagements.

Feb. 11. Twenty-three Bishops have issued a protest in behalf of the entire Roman Catholic Episcopate of Germany against any such inter-interference in the Papal election as is implied in Bismarck's late circular.

Vienna, Feb. 9. Archduke Johann Salvator of Tuscany, an officer of the Austrian army, has been ordered under arrest, because in a pamphlet on military reorganization he violently attacks Germany, and declares that war between Austria and Germany is impending.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, Feb. 5. A Havana letter of Jan. 3d, has the following: On Jan. 18th Maximo Gomez and Sangveti with 5000 troops attacked Jibara, three leagues from Santa Spiriti, and compelled the Spaniards to retreat, with the loss of twenty killed and forty wounded. Maximo Gomez afterward destroyed the entire town, together with six sugar estates in the immediate neighborhood. Near Santa Espiritu the sugar estates of San Andres and Esperanza were burned. In the vicinity of Caibarien but two sugar estates have been destroyed so far as heard from, both belonging to Spanish parties, who refused to pay ten and five per cent to the insurgents.

All the families in the neighborhood of Espiritu are ordered to remain inside the Spanish lines, and a great deal of suffering is experienced in consequence. The insurgents have taken every thing within ten leagues which could subsist an army. There are rumors that there are 17,000 insurgents west of Trocha, and that Maximo Gomez has issued a proclamation, stating that all planters who do not pay the tax levied by the Cuban Republic will have their estates burned. The tax is three dollars per hogshead and one dollar per box on sugar, based upon the crop of 1874.

St. Louis, Feb. 5. Late advices from Fort Sill, Indian Territory, say that a band of Cheyenne Indians recently attacked a Mexican supply train on the border of New Mexico, killed all the train men, numbering from ten to fifteen, and got away with the train, from which it is supposed they obtained arms, ammunition and supplies for a protracted raid. Other bands have been stealing horses from Texas, and it is believed they have succeeded in recrossing Red river with three or four hundred animals. Still other bands under Howling Wolf and Yellow Horse are raiding round, and at last accounts were moving towards Red River. Gen. Miles has left Cheyenne Agency in pursuit of them.

Topeka, Kansas, Feb. 5. The House yesterday passed a bill appropriating $90,000 for the settlers in the districts devastated by drouth and grasshoppers. The clerk announced that Mrs. Bickerdyke had thirty car loads of provisions en transit to Kansas, and requested the members to report to her at the Gordon House the amount of destitution in their respective districts. The announcement was received with cheers for Mrs. Bickerdyke.

Atchison, Kan., Feb. 5. The cold weather for the past three days has been intense, and it is feared that much suffering will be caused throughout the frontier counties of the State. Twenty men were frozen to death and many others had their limbs frozen during the severe weather in January, and the present cold weather is almost as severe. The mean temperature during the month of January was 14 degrees above—8 degrees colder than the mean for eleven years previous.

San Francisco, Feb. 8. Several shocks were felt here yesterday, causing some alarm, especially among the congregations in churches. No damage.

Montreal, Quebec, Feb. 8. The Grand Trunk Railway reduced its rate of wages ten per cent., and this morning the brakemen and conductors refused to go to work except at the old rates. There are twenty long trains lying in the yard awaiting hands to run them. No freight trains have left for the east or west to-day. The train men at Brockville also struck, and no trains are coming east from there. The railway officials are trying to induce the men to resume work, but so far without success.

FIRES.—Three churches in Ct., loss $180.000; Farmington, N. H., loss $150,000; Lebanon, loss $70 000; Pittsburg, Pa., loss $75,000; Bordentown, N. J., loss $40,000; Lacon, Ill., loss $24,000; Laconia, N. H., loss $25.000; Kinharora, N. J., loss $25,000.

In Brief.

— A sad affair occurred at Lyme, Conn , last Thursday night. A dwelling house was destroyed by fire, and the seven children, not half clothed, took refuge in a clump of cedars near by, where one was frozen to death.

— People crossed the Hudson river on the ice yesterday between New York and Jersey City.

— Shocking barbarities were committed by the revolutionists at the sacking of La Paz, Bolivia.

— Last October the income of the Pope was 8,000,000 francs in gold, counting offerings and presents of all kinds.

— A civil war in China is considered imminent.

— A raiding party of Americans and Mexicans, murdered a number of Apache Indians, near Fort Stanton, New Mexico, and inhumanly butchered two old squaws, sent by the Indian agent, to invite the Indians back to their reservation.

Notices

NOTICE.—The Adventists of Newmarket, N. H., have formed themselves into a church, with the undersigned as its officers. Feeling deeply our utter helplessness without the Divine blessing, we ask the sympathy and prayers of all God's people for his blessing on the effort.

Elder J. L. Chute will supply us the first and third Sabbaths of each month. Brethren wishing to preach on the remaining Sabbaths, please correspond with Elder J. L. Chute, Pastor.

J. L. CHUTE, M. L. WHITEHORNE, } Committee.
M. L. WHITEHORNE, Treasurer.
J. C. MEADER, Clerk.

To the Brn. scattered abroad, greeting:—Who feel as we do, that time is short, and what we do must be done quickly, we once more propose to have a protracted meeting in Great Falls, N. H., commencing Wednesday, the 24th of Feb., and hold over the following Sabbath. And we want help. We can keep all who can come to work for the Lord. Let us make one more effort to turn sinners to God, and save some. There is no time to waste, and if we make a little sacrifice for our fellow men, we shall show them that we believe the doctrine we preach. Let us lay aside our side issues. Come with the armor on, and we will do all we can to make you comfortable. Brethren, in the ministry, come, and you who are young and feel the woe on you, come. Bro. C. S. Shattuck, or Bro. George Eastman will see that you have homes. For the people,

C. S. SHATTUCK.

CONFERENCE.—We have decided to hold our next Quarterly Conference at St. Johnsbury, Vt. This is on the Railroad, so as to be reached should the traveling be bad. We hope our friends from Canada, Northern and Eastern Vt., and Western N. H., as well as from other places, will make great effort to attend this meeting. Ministers and laymen, come. Send delegates or letters. The Conference will commence in evening of March 3d, and continue over Sunday. Business March 4th and 5th. H. F. C.

NOTICE.—To our Preaching Brethren:—The Franklin Hall Society have united with the remainder of the Bethel Society, and hold their meetings at the Bethel. Please correspond with B. F. Thompson, Secretary, Springfield, Mass. CHARLES NEWELL.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a protracted meeting at Meredith Village, N H., Thursday evening, March 4th, at Lake Hall. Come, brethren, and help in this meeting. D. F. LEAVITT.

NOTICE.—Having been pastor of the A. C. Church in this place (Nevada, O.) for nearly five years, and notwithstanding it is the desire of the church that I remain another year, yet I have felt impressed that it might be the will of the Lord that I should labor in some other field, as the way may open. I would therefore say to churches East or West, which may desire to have us locate among them, and labor for the upbuilding of the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners, that I will confer with them relative to this object, and if it should appear to be the will of the Lord, will make the necessary arrangements to do so at the expiration of my engagements here, which will occur on March 31st, 1875.

E. M'CULLOCH.

Important!

The Tent Meeting Conference Committee have run the tent the last season from July to Nov., and we find a debt on our hands of more than a hundred dollars for services rendered. This is due where it is needed. There are pledges unpaid which should be sent forthwith to the Treasurer. Any others who wish to help bear the burden, will remit their donations to Charles Goodrich, Treasurer. Per order of the Committee,

L. BOUTELL.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a protracted meeting in Hampton, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, and continue over Sunday, the 21st. Come, brethren, and help in this meeting. ENOCH MORRILL.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the New Hampshire Conference will be held with the church at Rochester Village, commencing Wednesday, Feb. 24th, at 2 o'clock P. M., and will continue till Friday night, or over the Sabbath, if the interest demands it.

For the Com., E. A. STOCKMAN.

CONFERENCE.—The Third Quarterly Conference of the New York State A. C. Society will commence Friday evening, March 12th, at Springwater, Livingston Co., N. Y. We hope to see a large gathering of brethren and sisters present. Let every church in the conference report by delegate or by letter. Teams from the West at 11.30 A. M. and 6 P. M. From the East, 7 A. M. and 4.39 P. M.

M. R. MILES, President.
A. P. MOORE, Secretary.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Fourth Quarterly Meeting of the S. W. District of Wis. A. C. Conference will be held with the church at Sparta, commencing Friday evening, Feb. 19th, and hold over Lord's day. We hope to see many churches represented at this meeting. Come one and all, not to ride hobbies, but to preach, by precept and example, the glorious "gospel of peace," which cements the church and wins the wanderer back to God. PHILO HITCHCOCK.

[Not received in season for an earlier insertion J. C.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The A. C. Churches of Northern Kansas, comprising the churches at Brantford, Clifton, and Sherman Centre, are cordially invited to meet in delegation with the A. C. Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kan., on the 27th day of March, A. D. 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Quarterly Conference, in accordance with the usages of the A. C. Church. Brethren of like precious faith are cordially invited to meet with us.

F. O. CUTLER, Pastor of the Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—A meeting of days will be commenced in Blooming Valley, Crawford Co., Pa., on Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, at 6.30 o'clock, and be protracted over Sunday, the 21st. Let all desiring the good of the church, make those days a season of special effort, accompanied with self-denial, sacrifice, prayer and praise.

By request, G. W. STETSON.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Fourth Quarterly Meeting for the Eastern District of Wisconsin will be held at the White school-house of Webster's Prairie, three miles south of Dalton, Sauk Co., commencing evening, Feb. 26th, and hold over Lord's day. We would like to see delegates from all the churches in the district at the meeting. Preaching brethren are especially requested to attend. Let all come praying that the Lord may bless. E. P. GRAVES.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The next Quarterly Conference of Northern Pennsylvania and Southern New York will be held at Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Friday evening, March 12th, and continue over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Railway from Corning to Elkland, then stage to Westfield. E. C. COWLES, President.

A. H. BRIGGS, Sec.

YORK CO. CONFERENCE.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its first quarterly session in Depot Hall, Steep Falls, Me., commencing Thursday, March 11th, at 2.30 P. M., and continue over the following Sunday. We desire to see all of our preachers in this County and vicinity at this meeting, also delegates from all our churches. Let those who cannot come report by letter.

C. H. SWEET, Sec.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, a protracted meeting will be held in the Emery school-house, in West Canterbury, N. H., commencing Friday, Feb. 21st, and holding over the Sabbath. D. F. LEAVITT.

WELLSBURGH, ERIE CO., PA.—By special request, a series of Lectures will commence in the above village, at such place as the friends interested may prepare and designate by public notice, on the evening of Tuesday, March 16th, 1875.

By request, G. W. STETSON.

NOTICE.—The brethren in East Killingly, Conn., have established a meeting and desire help. Any of the preaching brethren who can go there and labor by preaching the Word, will please correspond with Warren Taft, East Killingly, Conn.

NOTICE.—The brethren in Porter, Me., and Freedom, N. H., have arranged to sustain preaching one half the time. These places are near each other, and we unite our interests together and maintain but one meeting regularly, and we are very much in need of preaching. Will the Lord put it into the minds of some of his servants to come over and help us? Who will volunteer, and give notice in Crisis ahead for either of these places? We will meet them at Centre Ossipee, N. H., or Cornish, on their arrival, and do what we can to have them sustained, and to have the gospel preached to sinners. Will Bro. E. A. Stockman arrange to come sometimes? Here is a good field for labor, and a good congregation of attentive listeners, and through the blessing of God much good may be done. If any will heed this, please correspond with myself, or W. Sawyer, or J. S. Moulton. Address Porter, Me.

For the Brn., F. PHILBRICK.

REMOVAL.—Eld. J. Porter, believing a change to be profitable both to himself and the church in Danville, P. Q., of which he has been the Pastor for the last twenty-three years, has now removed to Montreal to labor in harmony with the church there. His address for the present will be No. 50 Perthius Street, Montreal.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.

WARREN J. HOBBS.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q., Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

THAT BOOK.
"History of the Second Advent Message, Doctrine and People."

This work is now ready for all. It contains the history of the rise and progress of the proclamation of the Second Advent of Christ, near at hand, from A. D. 1820 to the present time, in America, Europe, Asia, and Africa; with sketches of the great reformations accompanying it; of many of the chief pioneers associated with it; the great opposers, and their futile efforts to defeat the work. Records of its rapid progress, and of many of the remarkable manifestations of God's guiding hand in the work. Discussions, lectures, sermons, dialogues, and chief points of doctrine advocated by the various classes of believers in the Lord's soon coming.

Records and tables of the prophetic times of Daniel and John, as advocated by the chief Protestant writers, all of whom terminate the periods between 1836 and 1880. A sketch of Luther and his times, compared with ours. His portrait, and portraits of twenty Second Advent pioneers, with discourses on Daniel 2nd, 7th and 8th chapters, illustrated with fine wood cuts, with much other valuable matter.

Our subscribers will be supplied at prices agreed on when orders with cash (and 20 cts. for postage) are received. All who wish to buy the work will be supplied, postpaid, at $3.50. As our object is not to make money, but to have this message and its history go as far and as cheap as possible, we put it as low as we can. We have endeavored to make it a book that all who are really associated in this great movement will buy, and that real inquirers will think best to buy. The book contains 711 octavo pages, neatly bound in cloth, gilt side.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For sale at the Crisis office.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every afternoon and evening this week, and Sunday, Feb. 21st. Baptism Sunday. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.
J. S. White ....Sunday, Feb. 21st

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
I. I. Leslie........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
I. C. Wellcome....Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th
Hiram Munger....................Sunday, March 14th
O. W. Kimball....................Sunday, March 21st

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
J. F. Nickerson....................Sunday, Feb. 21st
F. H. Burbank........Sundays, March 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th.

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
Wm. C. Stewart....................Sunday, Feb. 21st

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Natick, Mass.......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. COUCH.

Hampton, N. H.........Thursday evening Feb. 18th
Lynn, Mass................Friday evening, Feb. 19th
A. ROSS.

Tremont, Mass.....................Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. E. BARNES

Tremont, Mass.....................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Putnam, Ct..............................March 7th
Plymouth, Mass.......................March 14th
J. S. WHITE.

Putnam, Ct.........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Vernon, Vt........................Sunday, March 7th
H. PRATT.

Gloucester, Mass....................Sabbath, Feb. 21st
S. HALE.

Newark, N. J.......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
A. A. PHELPS.

Fairhaven..........................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Mattapoisett........................Sunday, March 7th
New Bedford..........Sundays, March 14th and 21st
Keene, N. H.......................Sunday, March 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Pittsfield................Thursday evening, Feb. 18th
Manchester..................Friday evening, Jan. 19th
Nashua, Monday, if desired......................Feb. 22d
Manchester...............Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d
Lake Village.....................Feb. 24th and 25th
Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th.
East Concord......................Monday, March 1st
Dover, N. H...................Tuesday evening, March 2d
Great Falls (Franklin Hall)......................March 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works).........March 4th
South Elliot, Me..............Friday evening, March 5th
Rye, N. H...................Tuesday evening, March 9th
Seabrook, N. H.......Wednesday evening, March 10th
Newburyport (if Bro. Pike appoints) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Lynn, Mass................Friday evening, March 12th
HIRAM MUNGER.

Laconia, N. H , with J. H. Evans...Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. EASTMAN.

Granby, Mass. (Bro. Shumway's)..evening, Feb. 18th
Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street)..Sunday, Feb. 21st
North Rutland, Mass..............Sunday, Feb. 28th
GEO. A. STREETER.

South New Market, N. H. (Littlefield's Crossing) Sunday, Feb. 28th. ENOCH MORRILL.

West Deerfield, N. H..............Sunday, March 7th
GEO. W. RANDALL.

New Milford, Ct......................Sunday, Feb. 28th
MRS. E. L. CRUMB.

Newport, N. H. (Northville school-house) Sunday, Feb. 21st. C. H. FLETCHER.

Bangor, Me..........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Levant, Me..........................Sunday, Feb. 28th
(Monthly Conference, Saturday, the 27th, at 1 P. M.)
Frankfort, Me.....................Sunday, March 14th
(Conference, Saturday, the 13th, at 2 P. M)
F. A. BAKER.

Southbridge........................Sabbath, Feb. 21st
PORTER J. SMITH.

South Rochester, N. H.............Sunday, Feb 21st
MRS. J. DAVIS.

Winsted, Conn......................Sabbath, Feb. 21st
Brimfield...........................Sabbath, Feb. 38th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Dexter....................Feb. 17th, and over Sunday
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Natick, Mass.......................Sunday, March 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Wolfborough (Pleasant Valley) Friday eve., Feb. 19th
Melvin Village.....................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Moultonboro (Ladd school-house) Tuesday evening, Feb. 23d.
Sandwich (where Bro. Gilman Clark may arrange) Wednesday evening, Feb. 24th.
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Meredith Neck.....................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Newhampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Tuesday evening, March 2nd.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)...Wednesday evening, March 3d.
West Alton...........Thursday evening, March 4th
Newmarket, N. H..................Sunday, March 14th
Alton Corner, N. H...............Sunday, March 21st
J. G. SMITH.

Newcastle, N. H......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Farmington, N. H..................Sunday, March 14th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Dorchester (Town House)..........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Warren Summit......................Sunday, Feb. 28th
North Haverhill, N. H.............Sunday, March 7th
Northwood, N. H...................Sunday, March 14th
C. R. PARSONS.

Palmer, Mass ....3d Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

East Canaan, N. H.......Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and over the Sabbath, Feb. 21st.
Boscawen, N. H. (Gulf school-house)...Sab., Feb. 28th
Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, March 7th. SIMEON ROBY.

East Concord, N. H.................Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Canaan, N. H..................Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Corinna, Me.........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Ellingwood Corner..............Saturday, Feb. 27th and Sunday, Feb. 28th.
Hartford, Conn ....Sunday, March 21st
Meriden, Conn......................Sunday, March 28th
GEO. W. BROWN.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month
C. W. RATHBUN.

West Stowe, Vt.......................evening, Feb. 18th
Stowe Hollow........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
If these conflict, write me at East Topsham, Vt.
DANIEL D. PAGE.

East Rochester, N. H.............Sunday, March 7th
W. H. MITCHELL.

New Hampton, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sabbath, Feb. 21st.
South Rochester, N. H............Sabbath, Feb. 28th
S. HAWKINS.

New Hampton, N. H. (at Bro. Pike's) Saturday evening, Feb. 20th, and Sunday, the 21st.
New Hampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Saturday evening, Feb. 27th.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall).....Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. H. SHAW.

Nashua, N. H.......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. W. SARGENT.

New York City (24th Street).......Sunday, Feb. 21st and onward. A. SIMPSON.

Hartford, Me.........................Sunday, Feb. 28th
South Windham, Me...............Sunday, March 7th
J. T. JORDAN.

Morris, Ct............................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Cheshire Street, Ct................Sunday, March 7th
G. L. WHITE.

Otisfield, Me. (Gore school-house) Sunday, Feb. 21st
Oxford, Me., Richville.............Sunday, Feb. 28th
G. L. TRACY.

Danbury, N. H.......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, March 7th
Franklin, N. H......................Sunday, March 14th
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sunday, March 21st. G. H. WALLACE.

Stockbridge, Vt......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Waterbury, Vt........................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Hinesburgh, Vt.....................Sunday, March 7th
A. A. HOYT.

North Haverhill (Brick Church)....Sunday, Feb. 21st
Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDAN.

Lake Village, N. H...............Sunday, March 27th
LEVI ALLEN.

Springvale, Me ....Sunday, Feb. 28th
Alfred, Me...................Tuesday evening, March 2d
Welchville, Me. (where Bro. D. H. Staples may appoint) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Oxford.............................Sunday, March 14th
Richville.................Thursday evening, March 18th
Lewiston...........................Sunday, March 21st
Mayberry Hill, Casco (where Bro. Alonzo Mayberry may appoint) Tuesday evening, March 23d.
If any of these conflict, or if any wish for evening meetings on my way, please write me at Dover, N. H.
H. S. PINKHAM.

East Pepperill, Mass..............Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. A. PACKARD.

Laconia, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, Feb. 21st. JOHN H. EVANS.

Hollis Centre, Me...................Sunday, Feb. 28th
C. H. SWEET.

Hatley (Old meeting-house).........Sunday, Feb. 21st
Colebrook, N. H. (Court House) Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th, and evenings during the week intervening. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

South Sutton, N. H.................Sunday, Feb. 21st
East Concord, N. H...............Sunday, March 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Bridgton Centre, Me ....Saturday evening, Feb. 20th and onward eight days. WM. H. MITCHELL.
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Dover, N. H..........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Farmington Village, N. H.........Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. BODGE.

East Lancaster, N. H., Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and over the following Sabbath.
Hereford, P. Q. (Hall Stream school-house, near Bro. Hodges) Sunday, March 7th, and on as the Lord may direct. T. E. LANG, JR.

Newville, P. Q......Sunday, Feb. 21st, at one o'clock
Stanstead, P. Q., evening, 6½ o'clock, at Bro. I. Morrill's.
Magog, P. Q. (Pond school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 23d.
Patton, P. Q. (Garland school-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
U. G. LADD.

Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y. (Lyon school-house) Sunday, Feb. 21st.
Swale (near Bro. Drakes)..Sunday evening, Feb. 21st
Swale, near Bro. Titus'...............evening, Feb. 22d
Canton, Bradford Co , Pa.................Feb. 24th—26th
Warrensville, Lycoming Co., Pa...Sunday, Feb. 28th
Buffalo, N. Y. (528 Eagle Street) first Sunday in each month. JOHN T. ONGLEY.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
L. Boutell............................Sunday, Feb. 21st
J M. Orrock ....Sunday, Feb. 28th
E. A. Stockman ....Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch ....Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer..............Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
H. Munger.............................Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. Harvey ....Sunday, Feb. 28th
A. Ross...................Sundays, March 14th and 21st
J. Couch ....Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Brewer...................Sundays, April 4th and 11th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. (Bethel Church.)
H. L. Hastings........................Sunday, Feb. 21st

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
A. Ross...............................Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. G. Mathewson ....Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt.........................Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter.....................Sunday, March 14th
John Couch..........................Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer.........................Sunday, March 28th

CLINTON, MASS
H. F. Carpenter......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
A. Ross................................Sunday, Feb. 28th
J. Hemenway........................Sunday, March 7th
D. M. Leavitt........................Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall..........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker..........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
I. C. Wellcome ....Sunday, Feb. 21st
Hiram Munger........................Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
J. Whitman...............Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)...Sunday, March 7th
C. Cunningham......................Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich..........................Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher...........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis..........................Sunday, Feb. 21st and also the third Sunday in each month.

NEWCASTLE, N. H.
Hiram Munger.........Saturday evening, March 6th
S. Varney ....Sunday, March 7th
C. R. Parsons........................Sunday, March 21st
C. E. Hurd ....Sunday, March 28th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
T. W. Piper...........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. S. Shattuck.......................Sunday, Feb. 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
Enoch Morrill........................Sunday, Feb. 21st

SEABROOK, N. H.
E. Owen...............................Sunday, Feb. 21st
John Parsons.........................Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch...........................Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh.....................Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons ....Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Mooney ....Sunday, April 11th
D. M. Leavitt.........................Sunday, April 25th
J. F. Chamberlin......................Sunday, May 2d
J. G. Smith............................Sunday, May 9th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlain....................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Hiram Munger........................Sunday, March 7th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
Geo. W. Sederquest..................Sunday, Feb. 21st
C. Goodrich ....Sunday, Feb. 28th
L. Boutell.............................Sunday, March 7th
T. W. Piper...........................Sunday, March 21st
D. M. Leavitt.........................Sunday, March 28th

ROCHESTER, N. H.
J. Hill..................................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Wm. C. Stewart......................Sunday, Feb. 28th
T. W. Piper ....Sunday, March 7th
L. Boutell.............................Sunday, March 21st

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
D. M. Leavitt.........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. S. Mooney..........................Sunday, Feb. 28th
J. W. White...........................Sunday, March 14th

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
Jesse Gay.............................Sunday, Feb. 21st
D. M. Leavitt.........................Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
O. W. Kimball...........Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th
G. L. Tracy...........................Sunday, March 7th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Benj. Woodside......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
Geo. W. Sederquest..................Sunday, Feb. 28th
Jesse Gay.............................Sunday, March 7th
D. F. Leavitt.........................Sunday, March 14th
A. Ross.......................Sundays, Feb. 21st and 28th

SPRINGVALE, ME.
J. H. F. Varney......................Sunday, Feb. 21st
J. R. Tripp............................Sunday, Feb. 28th
L. W. Gowen.........................Sunday, March 7th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
E. A. Stockman ....Sunday, March 14th
J. W. White..........................Sunday, March 28th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
C. H. Sweet...........................Sunday, Feb. 21st

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
B. Hitchcock.........................Sunday, Feb. 21st
S. Woodruff..........................Sunday, Feb. 28th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
C. F. Morse ....3d Sunday in February

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven A. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Seventh Street, below Poplar.
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

Biddeford, Me., the first Sunday in the month. Hollis Center the second Sunday. Kennebunkport the third Sunday. Bonny Eagle the fourth Sunday, till further notice. JESSE GAY.

THERE will be preaching at Cabot, Vt., in the Advent Chapel, every Sabbath, at the usual hours, until further notice. E. N. MORSE.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Alleghany, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CLINTON, MASS.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings at Burditt Hall. Preachers will please correspond with Isaac Barnes, Clinton.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ J. HEMENWAY'S address is Westfield, Mass.
☞ ELD. S. S. BREWER'S address, after this week, will be 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass., care of W. Ellis.
☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ E. B. WELLS' address is North Hampton, N. H.
☞ J. L. CHUTE'S address is New Market, N. H.
☞ ISRAEL'S DAMMAN'S address is Bridgewater, Vt., for the present.
☞ ELD. JAMES HERMAN WHITMORE'S address will be No. 803 H. Street North West, Washington, D. C , until further notice.
J. F. CHAMBERLIN'S address is East Rochester, N. H.
☞ H. S. MITCHEL'S address is Bowdoinham, Me.
☞ ELD. H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is 366 West Lake St., Chicago, Ill., until further notice.
☞ JAS. E. WELLS' address is Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address is Exeter, N. H.
☞ J. H. EVANS' address is Laconia, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—E McCulloch, P H Wait, R D Spencer, M R Miles, E Bellows, W S Moulton, A R Clark, A P Hyde, V Nelson, H Bassett, L C McKinstry, C Hodgman, S A Chaplin, Geo A Streeter.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—C. G. Thompson 26c, N B Sleeper 10c, F Bates 10c, P H Wait 12c, J M Pasey 75c, E Blanchard 6c, R L Harrison $5 00, E Barrows 5c, J L Field $8.50, J Bellows 50c, P Hitchcock 25c, A P Ellis 5c, A Lewis 10c, W Kile 20c, C F Woodman 10c, Hattie T Hoxie 40c, B F Ware 10c, J V Himes 25c, Mrs J Pierce 10c, R Plummer 10c, J Lyle 6c, W C Hughes 44c, N Warner 50c, C W Buvinger M. D. 35c, G M True 5c, J Ladd $1 00, H G Smiley 6c, W L Himes 25c, I Dresser 20c, S A Phillips 10c, J Barton $1.62, R Polley 25c, J Frost 6c, C C Blanchard 25c, J Claflin 10c, E S Francis 10c, Geo. Taylor 10c, N M Lindley $1.09, Geo. H White 10c, M R Vincent 10c, J P Marquand $1.50, S Vickery 15c, A R Brown 6c, M Haskell 5c, W B Rose 5c, S S Taber 11c, S Wheelock 75c, U Smith 10c, M Hazen 10c, J Penniman 20c, J Benson $1.38, J G Himes 10c, J D Brown 25c, A R Clark 50c, Geo H Wilber 5c, S D Ackerman 5c, E F Tandy 20c, R T Woodbury 10c, C R Parlow 35c, P W Jones 10c, F Burr $50.00, J Starr $1.00, Geo Thompson 35c, T Freeman 25c, J C Hutchinson 25c, I Roberts 5c, A Bosworth 25c, Mrs M F Howard 25c, Mrs L Bedell 10c, F E Brownell 15c, M V Meader 5c, B Perham 15c, L C McKinstry 25c, Mrs D Gates 30c, R Burtenshaw 15c, J Ruiter Jr 75c, R J Dowling $6.00, M Oliphant 25c, S S Leonard 53c, S E Teeple 10c, W H Moseley 50c, E B Lewis 75c, A C Wilcox 10c, L Reord 25c, J Sanders $2.80, E A Goodwin 5c, P A Smith 10c, W F Dame 10c, W H Fay 6c, E H Burrington 35c, N J Streeter 10c, T H Jackson 25c, M Ruble 25c, L R Kenny 20c, S T Purdy 5c, W H Davis 10c, C F Whittier 10c, I Adrain 10c, Mrs W H Kingsley 10c, S Whitney 5c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—P W Wait, F Bates, C Thompson, M M Eddy, N B Sleeper, C C Southwick, J C Shaw, C W Wheeler, Mrs E Horton, M C Lewis, J Bellows, E Barrows, E Blanchard, J M Pasey, A Darling, A Lewis, A P Ellis, P Hitchcock, W Kile, B F Ware, W J Pierce, R Plummer, C T Woodman, Hattie T Hoxie, L M Stoddard (2 pack), J Ladd, J Lyle, Dr C M Buvinger, N Warner, G M True, J Benson, J Penniman, M Hazen, A W Sibley, J G Himes, W L Himes, M Smith, S P Vickery, A R Brown, M Haskell, S A Phillips, G H White, M R Vincent, G Taylor, C R Parlow, P W Jones, S D Ackerman, W E Wilkinson, Mrs L Bedell, F E Brownell, A Bosworth, Mrs M F Howard, M V Meader, B Perham, I Roberts, L C McKinstry, G H Wilber, A Pease, A H Lindley, J Starr, J Benton, J B Richards, Eld S Wheelock, G Thompson, T Freeman, R Burtenshaw, A Stowell, E F Tandy, Mrs D Gates, A R Clark, S S Tabor, W J Mackie, A C Wilcox, M H Moseley, E H Burrington, L Record, S E Teeple, S S Leonard, M Oliphant, W A Fay, W F Dame, E A Goodwin, E B Lewis, P A Smith, Mrs P A Smith, T H Jackson, M Ruble, L R Kenny, I Adrain, Mrs W H Kingsley, S F Purdy, C F Whittier, W H Davis, N J Streeter, J V Himes, R Polley, S Claflin, J Frost, E L Francis, C C Blanchard, S Whitney, R T Woodbury.

By Express—R L Harrison, M W Corliss, J P Marquand, B J Dowling.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—C Mendenhall, C Wyman, S S Chamberlin, J Foster, I I Leslie, C W Baker, G Howard, J Y Briggs, S M Haynes, C C Bragg, A Damon, Mrs Curry, H Munger, W C Hughes, J R Smith, Geo A Streeter, J D Merriam, C Simmons, G A Carroll, E G Chudsey, J J Smith.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers for the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.

HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.

BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.

BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONcordance. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

"THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR." A Contrast to the Immaterial and Speculative System of Anti-Millenarianism, expressed in "The End of All Things," and other kindred works. 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE "GERSHOM" TRACTS. Packets of three—The Morning Star, Daybreak, and Sunrise. Per packet, 10 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINAtion of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts

THE SPUR AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE STUDY of Greek. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

SPIRITUAL PRESENCE not BETTER THAN BODILY. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

ESSAYS CRITICAL AND THEOLOGICAL. Of interest to the Bible student and scholar. $1.50; postage 20 cts.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHment—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

HADES: OR, THE INTERMEDIATE STATE OF Man. Arguing DEATH in death, unconsciousness, silence and inaction. Highly spoken of. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK.'

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history.

AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. A'GT.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation,

SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."

BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

WHAT IS HIS CREED?

He left a load of anthracite
In front of a poor widow's door,
When the deep snow, frozen and white,
Wrapped street and square, mountain and moor.
That was his deed;
He did it well;
"What was his creed?"
I cannot tell.

Blessed "in his basket and his store,"
In sitting down an rising up;
When more he got, he gave the more,
Withholding not the crust and cup.
He took the lead
In each good task.
"What was his creed?"
I did not ask.

His charity was like the snow,
Soft, white, and silent in its fall;
Not like the noisy winds that blow
From shivering trees the leaves: a pall
For flowers and weed,
Drooping below.
"What was his creed?"
The poor may know.

He had great faith in loaves of bread,
For hungry people, young and old;
And hope inspired, kind words he said
To those he sheltered from the cold.
For we must feed
As well as pray.
"What was his creed?"
I cannot say.

In works he did not put his trust,
His faith in words he never writ;
He loved to share his cup and crust
With all mankind who needed it;
In time of need
A friend was he.
"What was his creed?"
He told not me.

He put his trust in heaven, and he Worked well with hand and head;
And what he gave in charity
Sweetened his sleep and daily bread.
Let us take heed,
For life is brief.
"What was his creed?"
"What his belief?"

—Selected by J. N. BERRY.

ONE BAPTISM.

L. C. MCKINSTRY.

(Concluded.)

It is claimed by writers, who assert that they give the history of baptism and thereby claim to prove that christian baptism had three immersions until several centuries after the apostles' days, that this method of baptizing is proved by the commission, and that for several hundred years no other manner was practiced. But their "history" (?) fails because, instead of being any "history," it is only their claim that the Bible proves it, and that for many years the true scriptural method was practiced, assuming that, as some practiced trine immersion, it must have been the scriptural mode. Their logic is something on this wise: "Trine immersion," as they term it, was practiced very early in the church by the immediate successors of the apostles. The apostles practised genuine baptism; therefore immersion by three dips was apostolic baptism.

It should be remembered that statement on mere assumption is not historical proof. When one assumes to prove from history that trine immersion was apostolic baptism, he cannot set up himself a claim that the commission authorizes it; but he must prove from history that the apostles actually practiced it. One John H. Moore has published in the West a pamphlet to prove the historical accuracy of "trine immersion"; and this is the method he has employed. We quote a few passages from the first pages of his book as proof that this method is the method of proving the genuineness of "trine immersion" by history. He rejoices in the aid afforded him by Baptist writers to prove the form of baptism, and then declares that "none will deny that the universal and general manner of immersion used by the ancient christians in these centuries was the apostolic method of baptizlng. Hence upon our part it is sufficient, we think, to ascertain how they performed the sacred ordinance; it is sufficiently evident that they knew how the apostles baptized."

The author assumes the impossibility of a perversion of the rite of baptism by any of the successors of the apostles, and claims that their practices being discovered, it is possible to prove how the apostles did; even more, it is considered a positive proof; and the opinion of everybody is forestalled and patronizingly inferred to be in harmony with this other inference; and he therefore unhesitatingly declares that "no one will deny" this. Still we venture to deny that it is a fact proved beyond doubt that the practices of any of the professed church after the apostles' day is evidence conclusive of the method of apostolic baptism. It may be an inference, but the Scriptures themselves are the only "infallible proof"—the only direct testimony in the case, or in any case; and history is but collateral testimony of what is genuine. Mr. Moore claims to have this sort of testimony, not historical, certainly, and so tells us that—"By the New Testament it can be clearly established that Christ delivered to his disciples one baptism in three immersions of the body." He does not now attempt to prove this, but promises to do so; and on the strength of the assertion that "it can be proved," builds up his historical argument as follows: He says, after assuming that the three in one method was the scriptural method of baptism; that the death of the apostle John, which occurred about A. D. 100, closes the apostolic age, which we admit; and then traces the history of "trine immersion" back to that time in this way. He says:—

"Christ having delivered to the apostles the proper form of immersion, and the apostles to their immediate successors, forbids the possibility of a change in the form of immersion before the death of these eminent characters. Peter, one of the twelve, is said to have remained for many years Bishop of Antioch, and was succeeded by that remarkable christian, Ignatius, who, after nobly serving his Master many years, was martyred in the year 107. And as he was the successor of one of the apostles, was a faithful Bishop, had received the pure gospel directly from the apostles, and taught and practiced the same till the close of his life, establishes with unerring certainty the fact that the proper form of immersion was continued in Antioch till as late as seven years after the close of the apostolic age.

We are next introduced to one of the most remarkable and pious characters of this age, in the person of Polycarp, who was baptized by the apostle John as early as A. D. 80, and was martyred in the year 166. As he was acquainted with some of the apostles, was baptized by the most renowned, in age and piety of all the twelve was by the same venerable person appointed Bishop of Smyrna, and was the faithful angel spoken of in Rev. 2: 7, it seems unreasonable to imagine a change in the form of immersion before his death, which brings the scriptural mode of baptism in all its divine perfection down till A. D. 166. If, therefore, any change in the manner of performing immersion is to be found, it must be sought for after and not before the close of this period."

This sounds well, but it will be noticed that he does not say that trine immersion is proved, but only that the fact is established, with unerring certainty, that the proper form of immersion was continued until as late as seven years after the close of the apostolic age; and that the scriptural mode of baptism in all its divine perfection is brought down to A. D. 166. So much as this may be proved, and yet no proof be given of trine immersion, or one instance of it all this time. For to prove that the "Scriptural mode was practiced" does not prove what that mode was. We must have more than vague conclusions from mere misty surmizings, before we shall admit that trine-immersion must be received as the apostolic method of baptism. We are not ready to admit, even after all this, that the scriptural method was practiced until A. D. 166; for trine immersion was introduced somewhat earlier, as we can prove from reliable history; but there is not a particle of proof that it was practiced earlier than A. D. 130.

The truth is that trine immersion was introduced into practice by Marcion, about A. D. 130. He was a heretic, whose doctrines and practices we should be loth to adopt and practice. The first person who, as we learn from history, ever practiced "trine-immersion baptism" was Marcion, the followers of whom were called Marcionites. That is their proper name to-day. Modern Marcionites of course practice like their old-time brethren. For proof on this point see "Hagenback's History of Doctrine" (the most reliable History of Doctrine extant), page 196. See also Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge, page 773.

In the second century, Irenæus wrote five books against heresies. He says of Marcion and his doctrines—

"Marcion of Pontus, successor of Cerdon, added to his doctrine with greater assurance; blaspheming him who is declared to be God by the law and the prophets; who, as he says, appears to be author of evil, delighting in war, inconstant, and contrary to himself. 'But Jesus,' he says, 'came from the Father, who is superior to the God who made the world. He came into Judea in the time of Pontius Pilate, governor under Tiberius Cæsar. He appeared to them in the form of a man, dissolving the law and the prophets, and all the works of him that made the world.' Moreover he mutilated the Gospel according to Luke, striking out all that relates to our Lord's nativity, and taking away many things from our Lord's discourses, especially where he speaks of the Creator of this world as his Father; thus delivering to his disciples not the Gospel, but a scrap of it. In like manner he curtails the epistles of the apostle Paul, taking away those passages where the apostle plainly speaks of the Creator of the world as the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, and also his quotations from the prophetical writings that foretell the coming of the Lord. He held that the soul only will be saved; as for the body, it being taken from matter, it is with him incapable of salvation. Beside all these blasphemies, he maintained that Cain, and the people of Sodom, and the Egyptians, and all the nations in general, though they had lived in all manner of wickedness, were saved by the Lord when he descended into hell (or the invisible world, the receptacle of departed spirits); for they came to him, and he took them up into his kingdom. But that Abel, and Enoch, and Noah, and the patriarchs, and the prophets, and other righteous men, who walked with God and pleased him, did not obtain salvation. 'For,' says he, 'they knew their God had been wont to tempt or try them; and they suspected that now a temptation was laid in their way. Therefore they would not come to Jesus, nor believe in him; for which reason,' as he says, 'their souls remained in hell.'"—Iren., l. i. c. [al. 29], p. 106.

There is, therefore, proof that this method of three immersions was practiced early in the history of the church, but the proof goes too far for the advocates of it; for it was a heresy, and still is; not having changed its character in the least. It was practiced by those who denied some of the important truths of the Bible, and even rejected some portions of that sacred Book itself, and misinterpreted other portions. Certainly the interpretation of Marcion of the text of the commission was unwarranted and wrong.

It is essential to appeal to the Scriptures, and we have endeavored to do so, and thereby learn what method is correct. We have seen that all attempt to prove the scripturalness of this dogma fails, because it is assumed on false premises, and claimed by unwarrantable arguments, and is to be rejected on that account as unscriptural. Let no honest soul be led astray by its apparent plausibility and assumption of learning.

THE GOSPEL PREACHED IN ALL THE WORLD.

A. W. SIBLEY.

Among the many signs that were to precede the coming of our Savior again to this planet is one recorded in Matt. 24: 14, which reads as follows: "This gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

We learn from this declaration of our divine Lord, 1st, That the gospel of the kingdom is to be preached to all nations. 2nd, That it must be preached for a witness; not that it will convert all nations; and allow me here to remark that, from the fact it is proclaimed to all nations before the end comes, it excludes the necessity of its being preached after the end comes.

From the following, which was clipped from the Christian Union, it seems that this sign to which the Savior refers is nearly accomplished:—

"All the principal heathen countries of the world are now penetrated by the missionaries of Christ, who have put into operation the highest and strongest kind of spiritual influences. At this moment, over China, Japan, Persia, Hindoostan, Turkey, East, South, West and North Africa, Madagascar, Greenland, and the hundreds of Pacific isles, are 31,000 christian laborers, toiling diligently to represent unto sorrowful men the beauty of Christ's love. In these lands, schools, colleges, and theological seminaries, have been established, wherein christian education is given to six hundred thousand youths of both sexes. Outside the bounds of Christendom there are now establishhd 4,000 centers of Christian teaching and living; 2,500 Christian congregations have been established; 273,000 persons are now members of the Christian church; and populations numbering in all 1,350,000 have adopted the Christian name. In India and Burmah alone are 7,480 missionaries, native preachers and catechists; nearly 3,000 stations and out-stations; 70,857 communicants. The Baptists have made the Karems of Burmah a Christian people; the American Board has done the same for the Sandwich Islands; the Moravians for Greenland; the Wesleyans for the Feejee and Friendly Isles; and the English Independents for Madagascar." No direct religious results from missions? What mean those large and flourishing Christian churches, born out of the very abysses of heathenism, in Australia, British America, Siberia, the Sandwich Islands, Northern Turkey, Persia, China, Madagascar, South Africa, Liberia, Sierra Leone, and the Islands of the Pacific?"

THE TONGUE OF FIRE.

Hundreds who read these pages may have, with unutterable longings, been saying, Would that I knew just how the tongue of fire might be obtained! A satisfactory answer to this question would be more to me than a mountain of gold. Let one, who, through the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, can in humility say that she has for the past thirty years known something of the blessedness of this gift, tell you how it may now be received.

In the first place, be careful that you do not disobey God by saying, Who shall ascend to heaven to bring Christ down, or descend into the deep to bring Christ up? Be assured that the word is nigh thee. And how nigh? In thy mouth, and in thy heart. Is not Christ, even at this moment, saying to you, "Lo! I am thy salvation?" What have you to do, but to rely upon his word this moment, saying, "I will trust, and not be afraid?" Be just as willing to sink as to soar. Do not any more sin after the similitude of Naaman. The enemy of your soul will be just as much pleased if he can get you to estimate the blessing too high as too low. All that he desires is to get you aside from the mark of the prize of your high calling, which is inward holiness, and outward conformity to the will of God.

God is beseeching you now, by the voice of his mercies, that you present your body a living sacrifice. This includes the whole being. The Lord your Redeemer demands living, not dead sacrifices. Your body, with all its members, including all the powers and faculties of your physical and intellectual being, has been wholly redeemed, in order that you may stand forth symmetrically the living temple of the living God. It is for this that you have been redeemed; and, until this is attained, the purpose for which Christ, by the mercy of God, gave himself to redeem you is unanswered. Christ demands the entire service of your redeemed, purified being.

And how may you know that he has it? You may know it now, if you will now offer yourself a living sacrifice; that is, present your body on the altar erected by God, whereunto the unholy may come, and be made holy,—the unclean, and be made clean.

To present a sacrifice seems to suggest the necessity of an altar. Under the old dispensation, it was not enough that they brought their sacrifices to the altar. Had their burnt sacrifices been brought, if but one inch within reach of the altar, they could not have been proclaimed "holy, acceptable." And why? Because it was the sanctity of the altar alone that constituted the sacrifice "holy, acceptable." It was the altar that sanctified the gift. And it was for this reason that the offering, after being brought to the altar, was not sanctified until laid on the altar. From the moment it was bound to the altar it became virtually God's property; as truly so as though the archangel, commissioned from the throne of the Eternal, had received it at the hand of the offerer, and borne it away to the highest heavens. Perhaps you may be saying, "I have already presented the offering, having long since presented myself a living sacrifice to God; but I have not the witness of his acceptance, neither do I see the descending fire which betokens the acceptance of the offering."

Pause, beloved, and for a moment consider your position. The difficulty is doubtless because of a defect in your faith. Think! Do you not present your sacrifice through Christ? Does not Jesus say, in praying for you, and all his disciples, for their sake, "I sanctify myself that they may be sanctified through the truth?" And do you not now come to this "altar most holy," and bind yourself there, to be eternally the Lord's? If so, God does not leave it optional with you whether you will believe his Word, for "This is the command of God, that ye believe." Believe what? Why, God's truth. Hear him: "Sanctify them through thy truth: Thy Word is truth." And what, as the Word of the Lord, is the most appropriate truth to you just now? It is this: "I will receive you." Yes, this is the record that God has given: "The blood of Jesus cleanseth from all sin." You present yourself through that all-cleansing blood now; therefore I tell you, on the authority of God's Word, that it cleanseth you now. Faith is to believe it. Faith in the blood of Jesus is purifying in its effects.

And now that you have the offering on the altar that sanctified the gift, wait in faith for the descent of the consuming flame,—the tongue of fire. Yes, wait in faith. It must come. It will come. Perhaps it is now upon you. Whence these consuming, all-controlling desires to act, speak, think, and work for God? To the degree you feel the energizing, all-absorbing fires of the Holy Spirit urging you to ceaseless activities in the service of Christ, to that degree you are already under the influence of the baptism of fire. But you may be saying, "Though I believe all is on the altar, yet I do not feel that I am the subject of the baptism of fire now more than before I believed. Do not let this discourage you. Know that the trial of your faith is precious. Remember that the offering of the father of the faithful was as truly the Lord's before the fire descended as afterward. It was not Abraham's work to bring down the fire. It was God's work to send the consuming flame. It was Abraham's work to bring the sacrifice, and keep it bound to the sacred altar.

Not more truly was his offering "holy, acceptable," before he saw the flame falling upon it, than after it was consumed. He did not need faith in regard to the acceptance of the sacrifice when he saw the flame consuming it. No, that was sight; but it is faith that glorifies God. All that you have to do is to keep your offering on the altar, acting on the principle that you believe what you profess to believe; that you are all the Lord's. Perhaps while engaged in some self-sacrificing duty, at some unlooked for moment, ere you are aware, you feel your soul mounting up as the chariot of Aminadab, and your lips give utterance to truth. This is the baptism of fire, or, in other words, the tongue of fire.—Guide to Holiness.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

H. B. SEVEY.

Since our tent meetings closed last fall, we have held a grove meeting with the church in Belgrade. Many came from abroad to this meeting. Preaching brethren present:—Bro. Rhines, Rhodes, Damman, Wellcome, Trunday and Sampson. The good Spirit was with us, and many were refreshed by its divine influecne. It was said to be one of the best meetings ever held. Union and harmony was the ruling power; not a jar or discord.

We were rather pressed for room, as we were obliged to resort to the school-house, although within a few rods of a meeting-house that was not occupied, and which was dedicated as a union house, and our brethren were owners in it; but we were informed we could not have it. Such is the prejudice against the truth; just as we may expect in the last days. They will turn away from the truth, and be turned to fables, and will not endure sound doctrine. We praise the Lord for opening our eyes to the light that shines in this dark age. We parted with the brethren in the hope of meeting soon in the kingdom of God, where the wicked will cease from troubling, and the weary be at rest.

Our next protracted meeting was held at Bean's Corner. Only a few from the neighborhood came out to hear. In our first meetings the brethren and sisters came to work; and as the meetings increased in numbers there was manifested a greater interest. Sunday was a good day, and the truth never shone brighter that we were near our heavenly home. In the evening we partook of the Lord's supper, and it was a blessed season. Bro. Eldridge, of the Methodist church, assisted in its administration. Brn. Doughty and Warren concluded to stop through the next week and hold meetings. The weather was unfavorable, but good was accomplished, we trust. Some have come out fully on the Lord's side, and rejoice in hope of seeing Jesus come in his glory. We feel to praise the Lord that any will come in even at the eleventh hour. It is the compelling message, truly. I feel that our work is almost done. May we do it faithfully is my earnest prayer.

As many have inquired why I did not go with and assist in holding meetings, this will explain. My son has been feeble for some time with catarrh in the throat; and as cold weather came on was not able to do the necessary work, and myself being worn down with constant labor, I felt it duty to stay at home and hold what meetings I could in my immediate vicinity.

My daughter Ellen was taken down with scarlet fever, and lived only four days. She died the eighteenth day of this month, aged eighteen years. Her life for a few years has been consecrated to God and his cause. She was a firm believer in the soon coming of Jesus, the sleep of the dead, the restitution of the earth for the final abode of the saints, and eternal life through Christ only. She traveled with the Evangel tent last summer, with myself and others, and was efficient help, always ready to help when most needed, by singing, prayer, or exhortation. She was of a sanguine temperament, fearless of what the world would say about her when doing her duty. She gained many friends, not only of like precious faith, but among others. Her work is done. She sleeps in Jesus to awake in the morning in his likeness. She was deranged in her last hours. No one thought she would die, as the physician said there was no danger. As I held her hand, I asked her to sing with me—

"O think of a home over there,
By the side of the river of life;
Where the saints all immortal and fair,
Are clothed in their garments of white."

She sang just as sweetly as ever. Little did I think it was the last time we should ever sing together; but "Over there" there will be no more dying; for the former things will have passed away. May we all be ready for that change is my prayer.

I am still confined at home, but hope to be out soon. Brethren and sisters pray for us.

The funeral was attended by Bro. L. L. Howard, who gave words of comfort from Rev. 14: 18. Many sympathizing letters are received, which give us comfort in our affliction.

CONSTANCY.

C. MENDENHALL.

Those men who are easily driven from their purpose by fear or other motives,—men who are unstable, tossed about, inconstant, are not trust worthy. We can place no confidence in them because we know that they will sacrifice duty for the sake of expediency. In our dealings with men we want them to be firm and reliable. By an unsettled demeanor, a wavering mind, we become inconsistent in all that we do.

In spiritual matters constancy is an essential attainment. Without this quality we cannot hope for immortality and eternal life; for it is promised to them, who, by patient continuance in well doing, seek for honor and glory. We are told we shall reap if we faint not;—we are bidden "to hold fast"—to weary not "in well doing;" and many other expressions in Holy Writ imply that our duties are not to be laid aside and resumed at pleasure, but that we must ever be on the alert,—watching, praying, trusting, and exercising every God-given grace.

Jesus said that "men ought always to pray and not to faint." Paul tells the Thessalonians to "pray without ceasing;" showing that we are ever to be in a worshipful, prayerful mood. God's goodness is ever present with us, our necessities are ceaseless in their demands, dangers ever surround us, hence we cannot lay aside prayer with impunity. Rejoicing is a constant duty, even under adversity or persecution. "Rejoice evermore" is the Pauline injunction. Our Savior said—"Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad; for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." Peter says—"But rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings: that ye may be glad also with exceeding joy."

We are not to be ever shifting and changing in doctrine, but be firm on the side of truth and right. The advice to the Hebrews is to the point:—"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith, without wavering."

We should be constant in our love and beneficence to our fellow man. The children of faith, members of the family of God, should ever have our sympathy and help when in need or trouble. Solomon says—"Thine own friend, and thy father's friend, forsake not." Let us be constant in all that is pure, noble, true and good. "Be ye also patient; establish your hearts; for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." Soon our reward will be given, soon our armor may be laid by, and we shall be the recipients of all the joys and blessings which are promised to those who are faithful unto the end.

In worldly affairs success depends upon constancy and perseverance. In spiritual matters, firm faith, constant love, and active zeal will be pleasing in the sight of Him whom we should strive to serve.

May we all so live that we may be useful to God, and without condemnation, being ever prayerful, watchful, earnest and constant, taking heed lest we fall, and with all humility confidently looking for our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Wilmington, Del.

DAILY WORK.

In the name of God advancing,
Sow thy seed at morning light;
Cheerily the furrows turning,
Labor on with all thy might.
Look not to the far-off future,
Do the work which nearest lies;
Sow thou must before thou reapest,
Rest at last in labor's prize.

Standing still is dangerous ever,
Toil is meant for christians now;
Let there be, when evening cometh,
Honest sweat upon thy brow;
And the Master shall come smiling,
At the setting of the sun,
Saying, as he pays thy wages,
"Good and faithful one, well done!"

—From the German.

THE THIEF ON THE CROSS.

C. S. BRANCH.

"Bad spelling is awkward, as in the case of a lady who was indignant because her favorite niece called her a pismire by writing 'My dear ant.' It is unfortunate, also, to blunder in the use of auxiliary verbs, as the drowning Frenchman, imploring help, shrieked out, 'I will drown; nobody shall help me,' when he meant something very different. Nor is it pleasant to give a false idea of what one is reading by laying the emphasis on the wrong word. Here is a capital illustration of this kind of mistake:

Some years ago there was a student at the Theological Seminary at Andover, who had an excellent opinion of his own talents. On one occasion he asked the professor who taught elocution at the time,—

'What do I especially need to learn in this department?'

'You ought first to learn to read,' said the professor.

'O, I can read now,' replied the student.

The professor handed the young man a Testament, and pointing to the twenty-fifth verse of the twenty-fourth chapter of Luke's Gospel, he asked him to read that. The student read, 'Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken.'

'Ah,' said the professor, 'they were fools for believing the prophets, were they?'

Of course that was not right, and so the young man tried again.

'O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken.'

'The prophets, then, were sometimes liars?' asked the professor.

'No. O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken.'

'According to this reading, the professor suggested, 'the prophets were notorious liars.'

This was not a satisfactory conclusion, and so another trial was made. 'O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken.'

'I see now," said the professor, 'the prophets wrote the truth, but they spoke lies.'

This last criticism discouraged the student, and he acknowledged that he did not know how to read.

The difficulty lies in the fact that the words 'slow of heart to believe,' applies to the whole of the latter part of the sentence, and emphasis on any particular word entirely destroys the meaning."

I clipped the above from the Champlain Journal, a New York paper, and it well illustrates the different meanings that can be given by a single sentence. It shows how the meaning of language can be changed by wrong emphasis, or wrong punctuation.

A case in point I have in mind, which can be found in St. Luke 23: 43. "And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." As the comma stands, it makes Jesus promise to be with the thief that day in Paradise. Now, place the comma after to-day, and see what it will make Jesus promise the thief. "And Jesus said unto him, 'Verily I say unto thee to-day, shalt thou be with me in Paradise." This alters the promise naturally; instead of the thief going to Paradise that day, Jesus only made the promise that day, which we will find to be in strict harmony with the teaching of Jesus from beginning to end. We are all agreed that neither the body of Jesus or the thief went to heaven that day; but some say that when Jesus said "Thou shalt be with me," he meant his Spirit; and the "thou" in the thief's case meant his spirit also. "Yes," says one, "their spirit went to God." That is Scripture. Let us quote. "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it." Eccl. 12: 7.

We read in Gen. 2: 7,—"And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul;" or, as Job has it, "The Spirit of God is in my nostrils." Job 27: 3. We now have found that man came from the dust, and returns back again to dust; and his spirit came from God, and returns to God, from whence it came; this is Scriptural. We read that there were two malefactors crucified with Jesus, and one of them railed on him, saying, "If thou be Christ, save thyself and us." The other said, "Lord, remember me when thou comest (not goest) into thy kingdom." Says Jesus, "Thou shalt be with me." Now let us see if we can find this.

We hear him saying to Mary Magdalene—"Touch me not, for I have not yet ascended to my Father." Where was his Father? He was in heaven; and three days after he made the promise to the thief, he said he had not ascended to heaven. For he said, "I have not yet ascended." Jesus said in Rev. 1: 18, "I am he that was dead, and am alive." Therefore the one who appeared to John from heaven, was the one who was dead. How long was he dead? Three days. Could he have gone to heaven while dead? No; for he said after being raised that he had "not ascended." Therefore the thief could not have been with him the day of his crucifixion.

Plantsville, Ct.

Correspondence.

From Bro. J. Bates.

Dear Bros. and Srs. scattered abroad:—As I often think of and mention you in my prayers, I thought it might cheer some to hear that I am still laboring in the vineyard of my Lord. Since I met you at Alton Bay I have been laboring with renewed zeal wherever a door has been opened. I have just returned from Vermont, where I spent seventeen days of mission work. I went from house to house, carrying books and tracts, and talking with the people of the love of God toward a sinful world; and of his promise to return to raise the dead, judge the world in righteousness, destroy the wicked, restore the earth, and bring in everlasting righteousness. There is a large field for labor in Barnard and Stockbridge.

I met Bro. Hoyt at Stony Brook. He is an earnest brother, is bold in declaring all the counsel of God. I was warmly received by our Advent brethren, and also by some of my old Methodist friends; but as a church they opposed me, and would not let me have their house, although I helped build it. I resorted to the school-house, where there was good attendance and good attention. May the Lord sanctify those meetings to the everlasting salvation of those who heard!

Spent a Sabbath in Springfield with friends. Had three meetings. One young man was converted. I spent two days in Windsor, with the Union Committee of the Y. M. C. A. of Vermont, and visited the State prison. Here were one hundred and four prisoners, at work on women's and children's shoes. All these are dear to somebody; but, alas, for the power of sin! Beautiful young men to look upon, doomed to serve for life! Oh that grace may find a place in their hearts, to cleanse, cheer, and save!

Dear brethren and sisters, let us live near to God, who has redeemed us by the precious blood of his dear Son. How we may rejoice that we have been kept by the power of God, and saved from sin by faith in the redemption that is in Christ our Lord.

Natick, Mass.

From Bro. I. Damman.

Dear Brethren in Christ:—Grace, mercy and peace to all who love our Lord Jesus Christ. We are loving his Word, his Spirit, his work, and his coming at the door, and are waiting the fulfillment of the jots and tittles of his Word.

We have not followed cunningly devised fables; God has been with this people, and will be with the faithful to the end. It is too late to clip corners to gratify self. It is the just and faithful man that will be found worthy of a crown of life. "Fear God," was the cry of the angel)Rev. 14), "and give glory to him;" not to any one else. This will we try to do, by the grace of God.

We have seen souls coming to Jesus in the old State of Vermont. A few old veterans of the cross in Hartland, Vt., on Dinsmore Hill, have been crying to God for help; and help came, and the Word was preached. Five souls have started for the kingdom, and many hearts are rejoicing to see young men and women becoming wise unto salvation. Our old preaching brethren who have labored on Dinsmore Hill rejoice with us. Let all say, Amen. We meet once in two weeks to preach the Word, and trust the Lord is adding to the church such as shall be saved. Pray for us that the work of God may spread.

From Sr. A. Dinsmore.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—After reading the rich pieces in the Crisis, I felt that perhaps I might write something that would be encouraging to some weak one. Truly I rejoice in a full Savior,—one that saves entirely, or, as the apostle has it, "to the uttermost." This has been my blessed experience for a year and a half. I can truly say this past year has been the best of all my life. It has been a year of the severest trials and the very richest blessings. I love God with all my heart. The more we prove friends and ever find them true, the more we shall love them; and I expect to love God more, a great deal more a year from now, if he does not come before that time; and most assuredly I shall love him more if he does come. He has stood by me amidst all my fiery conflicts with the enemy, and has said, "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." And he also says he will not suffer us to be tempted above what we are able to bear, but with the temptation will provide a way for our escape.

O praise the Lord for all his precious promises! Let us therefore "lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and run with patience the race set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith.

East Bowdoinham, Me.

From Bro. E. M. P.

Dear Brethren:—We have just finished a series of protracted meetings under the labors of Bro. and Sr. L. C. and M. McKinstry, of Coaticook, P. Q. The Spirit and blessing of God attended their labors, and much good has been done. Many souls have been brought to see their need of salvation.

Bro. and Sr. M. came here through great inconvenience, having traveled over fifty miles with their own teams, exposed to storms and severe weather, and plowing through immense snow-drifts. Most people would have turned back in despair. But they seemed willing to endure anything for the cause of God, and so pushed forward. A great work was entrusted to them to do, and the Lord gave his aid. A number started and openly confessed Christ as their only hope; others who had fallen into a slumber were awakened anew to a sense of duty, and to see that their position was dangerous. A deep interest was manifested by those outside, who took no part.

By request, Bro. and Sr. M. will hold meetings again, commencing on Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th, and continue over the following Sabbath. Let it be the prayer of all interested that the Lord will prosper the work, and that they may be instrumental in the hands of God of doing great good in leading many more to Christ.

Danville, Quebec.

From G. M. Dewey.

Dear Brethren:—I do not like to intrude upon your valuable time, but perhaps you would like to hear how the cause of truth and Jesus prospers in this part of the world. There are several of "like precious faith" scattered through this county, and four or five in this neighborhood; yet we have never had an Advent sermon preached in this county, and we do so long to have the Word preached in its purity, that we have sent to Bro. J. C. Smith, to see if we could induce him to come to us. He writes that he will try and do so. We pray that he will be enabled to come, and that great good will be done in preparing a people to meet their soon coming King.

Dear brethren, pray for us, that we may be patient and prayerful, and as good soldiers of Christ may have on the whole armor, willing to bear our cross, and do our Master's will. Oh, hasten that glad day, when all the scattered saints shall be united to part no more. There will be no more sorrow, no more tears; for "God shall wipe away all tears," and we shall join in a glad song of praise to God and the Lamb. Come Jesus, come quickly.

Ward, Wilson Co., Kansas.

UNWISE COMPARISONS.

A christian lady, hearing a fellow church member talking of her heavenly hopes, felt discouraged because she could not relate a corresponding experience. On expressing her distress to her pastor, a man of rugged sense and plain speech, he said—"Madam, you can't wear Sr. ——'s clothes, try as you will, because you are entirely another sort of person. Be yourself!"

If we would make up our minds to stop imitating others, it would often add greatly to our power of pen and tongue, and to our peace of mind.

Christians vary as the leaves of the forest, and are only prepared to be useful when they cease "comparing themselves among themselves, and measuring themselves by themselves." Do not try to be like your friend, whose life-work is as unlike yours as the expression of his face and the form of his person. Every christian can find a place to work in the vineyard. Giving himself unreservedly to Christ, Christ will mould him into his own precious image, and give full exercise to every power. Why lose time, precious opportunities of usefulness and peace of mind, in trying to do what is impossible? Rather let us remember the good pastor's advice—"Be yourself."—American Messenger.

PETER the Great, when any one was speaking ill of another in his presence, would shortly interrupt him, and say, "Well, now, but has he not a bright side? Come, tell me what you have noticed excellent in him. It is easy to splash mud, but I would rather help a man to keep his coat clean."

JOHN Foster, as he approached the close of life and felt his strength gradually stealing away, remarked on his increasing weakness, and added, "But I can pray, and that is a glorious thing."

HOME AND HEALTH.

EXCESS OF FOOD.—We easily comprehend the influence of excess in eating and drinking, and in other matters, on the health of the individual, because every one perceives that the capabilities of the organization of its parts, as with a machine and its parts, have their limits; and that by the act of overstepping these, which we call excess or debauch, the equilibrium to be preserved in the co-activity of all the different organs will momentarily or lastingly be disturbed. In the animal body there is only a certain amount of force generated daily, which the heart, the organs of digestion and respiration, the limbs, etc., require for and consume in their special work. By such excesses the normal state is disturbed, and when such disturbances happen frequently, a change takes place in the condition, and consequently in the capability for work of one or other of the organs, and the body grows sick.—Ex.

LAWS OF HEALTH.—"What are the laws of health, and what the penalty of their infringement?"

The laws of health require that man should eat food adapted to the wants of his system, at regular and suitable times, in proper amount, and in a proper manner: that he should exercise and bring into harmonious action the powers and faculties of body and mind; that he should "wash and be clean;" that he should avoid all useless and hurtful habits, and, with an even temper and a clear conscience, "pursue the even tenor of his way." The penalties attached to the infringement of these laws are derangement, disease, suffering, and premature death. Obey and live happily; disobey and suffer.—Herald of Health.

RICH and nourishing food and an immoderate use of flesh do not prolong life. Instances of the greatest age are to be found among men who from their youth have lived principally on vegetables, and who, perhaps, never tasted flesh.

COLDS are often produced by drinking hot tea and exposure afterwards.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM," Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1007 | BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1875. | VOL. XL.—NO. 20.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

ADVENT HYMN.

He shall come again in glory.

O King of kings, thou Lord of all,
Whose righteous rule in heaven is known,
When wilt thou list thy people's call,
And here on earth erect thy throne?

Our hearts believe thy promise, Lord,
We gaze expectant towards the sky;
We read with joy th' unfailing Word,
Trusting the longed-for day is nigh.

The church on earth waits thy return,
Their sad dissensions then shall cease,
And all who name thy name shall learn
To live and serve in love and peace.

The nations still refuse thy sway,
And faithless kings in council meet;
Thy coming haste, thy might display,
And bring them subject to thy feet.

The groaning earth repeats her sighs,
Waiting release from sin's embrace,
And upwards towards the silent skies
She turns an eager suppliant's face.

We plead thy sure prophetic word,
Lifting our hearts in prayer to thee;
Let now the herald cry be heard,
Let us thy Advent glory see.

In glorious majesty descend,
Thy rightful power on earth possess,
The reign of sin and sorrow end,
Begin the reign of righteousness.

O, quickly come. Let earth behold
Her sovereign Lord with glory crowned;
O bring the day so long foretold,
Let us thy Advent praises sound.

—Rev. John G. Ames in Chris. Union.

—Selected by E. O. Churchill.

SIGNS OF THE NEAR APPROACH OF CHRIST'S ADVENT.

The most casual observer of events now transpiring in the world must be constrained to admit that we are living in an age of rapid transition. Events develop themselves now in a single year which, a century ago, would not have appeared in twenty years. Just exactly as a stone rolling down the mountain-side increases in its velocity in proportion as it reaches the termination of its course, so, as each succeeding year glides on towards the consummation of our hopes in the coming of Christ, events develop themselves with increasing interest and progressive speed. And therefore, as we look around us now in the present age, and take up our Bibles, and read of certain signs which are to transpire in the last days; if we can find such signs actually in existence around us, we are warranted in saying that we are in the last days, and are approaching the advent of our long-expected and absent Lord.

As the end draws nigh, we must expect wickedness to become aggravated. Just as in the disease of consumption, in proportion as the victim approaches the grave, the body becomes more and more the seat of the disease, until at last it sinks a prey to the fell destroyer; so we may expect, that as time advances, the various forms of iniquity and developments of evil, will appear in an intensified and aggravated degree. The history of the antediluvian world will repeat itself in these last days. "As it was in the days of Noah, even so shall it be in the days of the Son of man."

St. Paul says there will be in the last days some "having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." These are the modern Pharisees and superstitious formalists, who equally with the sceptical Sadducees flourish like a green bay tree in these latter times. They may be seen on Sunday mornings at fashionable churches, acknowledging in the general confession that they are miserable sinners, and have gone astray like lost sheep; and in the afternoon promenading at the Zoo, arrayed in purple and fine linen, with every outward adornment of wealth and luxury; and on week days attending performances at the theatre or opera, or dancing polkas and waltzes in brilliant ball rooms.

We find Romanism and Ritualism putting forth their seductive attractions to deceive, if possible the very elect; and society for the most part becoming more and more worldly, with superabounding luxury, and extravagance, and lavish display, colossal fortunes, and idolatry of life. These, with other things too numerous to particularize, strangely coincide with St. Paul's prediction:—"In the last days perilous times shall come, for men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, incontinent, etc., lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." (2 Tim. 3: 1-5.) We are in fact treading upon the borders of the final crisis of this generation. We have much reason to believe that the six thousand years from the creation of man, as well as the 1260 years from the complete establishment of the Papal and Mahomedan Antichrists, is very near its termination, and that we are on the eve of the appearance of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, to establish upon this earth the glorious fifth monarchy predicted by the prophets. (Daniel 7: 4-14.)—Signs of Our Times.

"ONE BAPTISM."—Eph. 4: 5.

F. A. BAKER.

The great apostle of the Gentiles, at the opening of this chapter, introduces himself as the "prisoner of the Lord," that he may the more effectually enforce the exhortation that follows, i. e., "Walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called." He then shows wherein this worthy walk consists: "With all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another, endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit," etc. The consideration from which the holy legate urges them to keep the "unity of the Spirit" is most cogent and powerful: "There is one body, and one Spirit, . . . one hope, . . . one Lord, one faith, one baptism."

The baptism here referred to is evidently water baptism, from the fact that the "one Spirit" has been already mentioned in the previous verse; and to make the "one baptism" to mean the Spirit would charge our apostle with a serious blunder of iteration.

The "one body," "one Spirit," "one hope," "one Lord" and "one faith," are all understood literally, and by all laws of language and interpretation, the "one baptism" must be taken likewise literally, and referring to the identical ordinance mentioned in Matt. 28: 19,—"Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

It will be seen that the emphasis is upon the word "ONE." The unity, or oneness of the Spirit must be kept, from the fact of there being but one body, one Spirit, one hope, one Lord, one faith, and one baptism. What a glorious doctrine! How beautifully set forth! And what a triumphant argument for the oneness of all real christians.

In certain places the saints of God are troubled just now by individuals who are speaking "words subverting their souls"; saying to them that they must receive "trine immersion" as the "door into the church," and "the only means of salvation." But baptism is not the door into the church of Christ.

(1) A person may be in the church without baptism, as, I think, the thief on the cross found pardon too late for baptism, but he has the promise of being "in paradise." Thousands like him have been converted too late for baptism, as on sick beds, or stranded vessels, or fired mines, or burning buildings.

(2) A person may be baptized and not get into the church, as Simon Magus, who was baptized at Samaria by Philip, a man whom our Lord himself sent forth. We cannot doubt but that thousands who have been baptized have continued in the "gall of bitterness and bonds of iniquity," and have had "neither part nor lot in the matter."

(3) Christ says—"I am the door of the sheep"; and repeats, "I am the door; by me if any man enter in he shall be saved." John 10: 7, 9. No person can be saved out of Christ, or by any other means, or trusting in any other person or thing, however many baptisms can be received; and, though I believe christian baptism to be a duty of every believer, no person can be lost in Christ. Christ is not simply a door, but "the door." It is Romanism, antichrist, blasphemy and sin to put baptism, or anything else, in the place of Christ.

The doctrine of "trine immersion" is made out thus: (1) All the Jewish nation were baptized "into the name of the Father," "in the cloud and in the sea"; and this was a national baptism. All natural Jews were born to its benefits, and all proselytes were baptized, which made them equal with native Israelites. "Baptized into the Father." (2) It is claimed that John baptized all the members of the Jewish nation "into the name of the Son." (3) That Christ baptized John's disciples "into the promised possession of the Holy Ghost." For proof of this we are told that John foretold that the One who should come after him would baptize "with the Holy Ghost." But, it is said, "The Father (not the Son) baptized with the Holy Ghost, and therefore John must have meant that Christ would baptize with water, into the promised possession of the Divine Spirit.

Here we have the origin and foundation of what is called "trine immersion," which we are taught we must receive as the "door into the church," and the only hope of eternal life.

Now I can see that each and all these positions are false and unfounded,—a terrible perversion and "wresting of the Scriptures."

First, there is no reference in Scripture to the baptism "in the cloud and in the sea," as being national, or having any national significance whatever. It is never called a "baptism" any where except in 1 Cor. 10: 2, by Paul, more than fifteen hundred years after Israel passed through the Red Sea. So the entire nation, not excepting the apostles, when Christ was on earth, were in total ignorance of its being a baptism, and of course never dreamed of its being national in its character or benefits. The apostle refers to that wonderful manifestation of divine mercy to God's ancient people, and names it under the christian ordinance of "baptism" to enforce upon professors the lesson that follows: That ancient Israel, after all the deliverances God wrought for them, were cast off and destroyed for their sins; and just so christians, though they have started well, must not presume upon that, and live carelessly, lest they also should fall of rest in the glorious kingdom in the end.

Second. But if any will contend, let it be remembered that all the cattle and infants were baptized at the same time, but have never found it out yet.

Third. This baptism was not "unto the Father," as Trine Immersionists teach, but "unto Moses," Paul says.

Fourth. John did not baptize all the Jewish nation. (1) We have no account of his baptizing infants, though we are told—"There went out to him Jerusalem and all Judea, and were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins." It seems to be a forced and unreasonable thing to say this this means every inhabitant without exception. (2) John never left the vale of Jordan to baptize, and there were more Jews at that time out of Palestine than in it. Think of the different places represented at the feast of Pentecost, when the Holy Spirit was poured out. Jews were resident in all the countries and cities of the Roman Empire. No Scripture says John baptized those, and no thoughtful man can believe it for a moment. The object of John's baptism was to prepare a people for the Christ, and to manifest him to Israel. (3) John did not baptize all the Jews, if Luke can be believed; for we find (Luke 7: 29, 30) certain "Pharisees and lawyers," who were not baptized by John, though a shameful effort is made to destroy the force of this passage, and make the pronoun "him," in verse 30, refer to Christ instead of John. (4) John did not baptize "into the name of the Son," so as to supersede the necessity of the same persons being afterwards baptized in the name of God's Son. Peter, on the day of Pentecost, ordered the convicted hearers to "repent and be baptized, every one . . . in the name of Jesus Christ." "Certain disciples" at Ephesus, who had been baptized "unto John's baptism," were rebaptized "in the name of the Lord Jesus." But, according to Trine Immersion, this was a great mistake, for, having been baptized fifteen hundred years previous unto the Father (?), and then "unto the Son" by John, all they needed now was baptism "in the name of the Holy Ghost."

According to this revived heresy of Trine Immersion, the apostles, who claimed the "middle wall of partition" to be "broken down," and to "know no man after the flesh," went about preaching and giving Jews one dip, and Gentiles three. How could men of such practices make it appear that "neither circumcision nor uncircumcision availeth anything." Jews were two-thirds baptized, and two-thirds through the the "door into the church," and the same holds till this day; for if the baptism at the Red Sea was national, and affecting all succeeding generations, so that they need not afterwards be baptized into the name of the Father, and if John's baptism was universal upon the same nation, into the name of the Son, then the children and brethren of those who said "His blood be upon us and upon our children" need but one dip, and that too "in the name of the Holy Ghost," and not use that name which Jews have cursed and fought these eighteen hundred years.

John, referring to Christ, said—"He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost"; and Peter in Acts 2: 32, 33 tells us—"This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses. Therefore being by the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he [Jesus] hath shed forth this which ye now see and hear." Christ did what John predicted of him—baptized with the Holy Ghost. But Jesus did not baptize with water. The Pharisees heard so, but the "beloved disciple" says—"Jesus baptized not, but his disciples." John 4: 1-2. This text has met with violent dealing at the hands of the present advocates of "trine baptism," and they complain of injustice unsurpassed in all the history of error. "JESUS HIMSELF BAPTIZED NOT" is the import of the original, the language of every version, and the consent of every Bible expositor under heaven.

I was told the other day by a candidate for "trine immersion," that "Christ entered the Church by three baptisms";—that Jesus Christ was only a mortal man like my informant and myself; but whether Joseph, the husband of Mary, was his father, he did not know certain.

And all this passes with the uninformed for genuine Adventism. But it is another of the thousand and one counterfeits which Satan has forged upon a good cause to lead astray unstable souls. The pretended "historical argument" by which this newly vamped heresy is sustained is as unfounded and spurious as the doctrine itself; which I will try to show at some future time, if need be.

Poor Adventism! how many "tests" thou hast had! How many sorrowful days thou hast seen, while from thine own body men have arisen to "lead away disciples after themselves." May we heed the tender pleadings of the "prisoner of the Lord," and "walk worthy of the vocation with which we have been called," by keeping "the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace." "There is one body and one Spirit . . . one hope . . . one Lord, one faith, ONE BAPTISM. One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all." Amen.

THE ROMAN SENTINEL.—When Pompeii was destroyed, there were very many buried in the ruins of it who were afterwards found in very different situations. There were some found who were in the streets, as if they had been attempting to make their escape. There were some found in deep vaults, as if they had gone thither for security. There were some found in lofty chambers; but where did they find the Roman sentinel? They found him standing at the city gate, with his hand still grasping the war weapon, where he had been placed by his captain. And there—while the heavens threatened him,—there, while the earth shook beneath him,—there, while the lava stream rolled, he had stood at his post, and there, after a thousand years was he found. So let christians stand to their duty, in the post at which their Captain has placed them.

"AS IN THE DAYS OF NOAH, SO AT THE COMING OF THE SON OF MAN."

BY REV. DR. CUMMING, OF LONDON.

History, whether sacred or profane, seems always to repeat itself. One great era in the world appears, when narrowly examined, to be simply the reflection of another; and a deed done in the day that now is, to be the echo of a deed done hundreds or thousands of years ago. Time seems to move in circles, history constantly to repeat itself, and so far to illustrate the maxim of the wise man, "There is nothing new under the sun." When we examine great and startling epochs in the history of the world, we find points of contact, analogies, and coincidences most suggestive. The deluge, the destruction of Jerusalem, the end of this age, all seem to have coincident points, running, like sea and land, into each other. The age of Noah is a prefiguration of the age that now is—the last great epoch of this world's life.

Our Lord predicted in Luke 17: 26-29, that men shall be at the close of this age just as they were at the close of the antediluvian age. But what was the character of the people at the time of the flood? and by finding the sketch of them, as given by the inspired pencil, we shall be able to ascertain what shall be the character of those who live immediately before our Lord's coming. The condition and character of the world in the days of Noah are thus described:—

"And it came to pass, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose. And the Lord said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh. And there were giants in the earth in those days. And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth."

Here is the portrait; not drawn by an inaccurate pen, but by the faithful historian, who was inspired by the spirit of God to sketch it truly, and to set down nothing that was false. We may expect, then, that the last generation will be something like a reflection of this first.

1. We are told that in the days of Noah the heart of man was evil continually. And is the natural heart improved now? There is no evidence that it is. Sin as grievous, crimes as flagrant, emanate from the unsanctified and unregenerate heart now as ever emanated from it in the days of Noah. We may be more civilized than they were in the days of Noah, but not more sanctified; we may have more science, but we may not have more grace. If God's Word speaks intelligibly it speaks pointedly, that out of the heart proceed all evil thoughts, appetites, and desires, until that heart is sanctified by the Holy Spirit of God. It is a great mistake to think that education without religion makes man's heart one whit holier. We need not fear a scientific education; we only contend that it is not sufficient to make man holy, or to make him happy hereafter.

2. It is also written that in the days of Noah the earth was filled with violence—that is, war, conflict, revolt, dispute. And are we very much wiser now? It was affirmed by the adherents of the Peace Society, some years ago, that now war had become an obsolete thing, and all our shot should at once be made into rails, that our cannon should be turned into locomotives, our muskets sold as old iron, and our ships as firewood, and, in fact, that a mere pretence of a guard was all that was wanted on the shores of England, and that Europe had learned enough of war up to 1815 to shrink from it forever. But had they recollected that as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be when the Son of Man cometh, they would have paused before they prophesied so badly. At this present moment all Europe is one vast volcano, waiting for the match to be applied to explode into a thousand fragments. . . .

Notwithstanding all prophecies of peace, the nations are at this moment as ready for war as ever. This seems very strange; it only shows that men are not yet tired of war, and that until the Prince of Peace shall sway his sceptre over a transformed world, the restless sea of nations will never be permanently tranquilized.

3. In the days of Noah, not only was the earth filled with violence, so that we may expect the same violence to be exhibited again, but out of all that vast population there were only eight persons that obeyed God's Word, that worshipped the true God and honored him. Now, is it not a fact that at the present day, "broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there be that go in thereat;" and "narrow is the way that leadeth to life, and few there be that find it?" As in the days of Noah, the overwhelming majority were opposed to the truth, and enamored of a lie—so, previous to Christ's Second Advent in the bursting cloud that reveals the lightning in its splendor, and ushers in the Lord of glory, the great multitude will be without God, and without Christ, and without hope in the world.

4. Another feature of the men in the days of Noah was their intense worldliness. They were eating, drinking, marrying wives, and giving in marriage. Now it was not sinful, but dutiful to eat and drink, if they did so in moderation; it was lawful to marry them, as it is lawful and dutiful to marry now, ever remembering the grand modifying law that gives it all its consistency and its beauty: "Let them that marry be as though they married not; and they that weep as though they wept not; and they that rejoice as though they rejoiced not; and they that use the world as not abusing it, knowing that the fashion of it speedily passeth away." But their sin consisted in the excessive love of the lawful, which corrupted them, as truly as their constant indulgence in the sinful. Never forget the danger we incur in loving to excess what is lawful, as well as in practising that which is forbidden; and there is probably more peril in the excessive love of the lawful than there is in the forbidden practice of the sinful. The world then was their temple; indulgence of the appetites was their delight; the gratification of the flesh was their enjoyment. They were the slaves of appetite, the servants of the world. This world was their all; they made the most of it—"Eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow we die." Now it will be so at the end of this dispensation. Men will eat and drink, and marry, and give in marriage, and they will think nothing of the future.

5. The associations of the antediluvians were essentially depraved. "The sons of God married the daughters of men," an expression which denotes that the pious mingled with the depraved, without discrimination and without distinction. The apostle lays down what is duty always—that they that marry are to marry in the Lord. The antediluvians thought that that was good enough for the transcendentalist, but not for practical and every day life. And many think now, that it may be very beautiful for a higher dispensation, but that we must take other, and more sublunary, even mercenary elements into our estimate now.

6. There was in the antediluvian world total disbelief of the testimony of Noah as to the coming judgments that should burst upon the earth. When Noah predicted that in a hundred and twenty years the flood should come, how did they receive it? Just as men receive those who prophecy the speedy coming of Christ to terminate this dispensation. "Knowing this first," says Peter, confirmatory of the passage we are now commenting upon, "that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation." 2 Peter 3: 3, 4.

Those that lived in the days of Noah despised Noah's prophecy of a coming flood. Their conclusion was, There is not water enough in the basin of the ocean to rise to the great height to which it will be requisite in order to destroy the world. But just when scientific men had decided that Noah's prophecy was the mere crotchet of an old man who had lost his mind, the fountains of the great deep burst, the windows of heaven were opened, and the earth that then was, perished. To argue, therefore, that the laws of nature prevent the fulfilment of God's Word, is to assert that the law is greater than the Lawgiver, and the thing created greater than the Creator himself. Those who perished in that great and awful judgment had an offer of escape. The old and venerable preacher of righteousness stood upon the steps of the ark he had built by the prescriptions of his God, and told them that every one that would believe God's testimony by his lips, and come into that ark, should be saved from the deluge that would soon sweep over the earth and depopulate it. They were, in the language of Scripture, disobedient then, and their souls are in the prison of hell now.

"As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man." When men are told of the awful baptism, not of flood, but of fire, and when they are invited to escape, not by the ark of a temporal deliverance, but by Christ, the great deliverer, many thousands will despise the prophecy, deride the prophet, and turn aside, one to his farm, and another to his merchandise, and care for none of these things. Nevertheless, the judgment shall come with unerring certainty.

Christianity is not to be a progressive development from what it is now, to its millennial glory. The mistaken idea of some christians is that by the aid of missions, by the distribution of the Bible, by the pouring out of the Holy Spirit of God, this present dispensation shall have its piety so deepened that the millennium shall be its coronal, a millennium the product of elements that are now in action; and not a new age and a new dispensation ushered in by consuming and desolating judgments.

Now, if I understand the Bible, it says that the last days of this dispensation shall be worse than the first—"When the Son of man cometh shall he find faith upon the earth?" As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the Son of man. Just before the judgment of water came, so shall it be in our days just before the judgment of fire comes; men living without God, marrying and giving in marriage, eating, drinking, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God. Judging from the Bible, the millennium belongs to a distinct dispensation. I do not believe that it is the complement of the present age, but the commencement of a new one.

"In the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." Such is the picture of the days preceding the coming of the Son of man. 2 Timothy 3: 1-5.

We look, therefore, for matters to get worse as the end approaches. And whilst there are at present more of the people of God than there ever have been, and more in our own land than in any land upon earth, yet the vast majority of Christendom answers too terribly to the portrait given by the apostle.

But if we are—and I believe we are now—rapidly approaching the close of this dispensation, our first inquiry should be, Are we christians?—are our hearts changed?—are we sprinkled with Christ's atoning blood? How far has religion lifted my heart above the world, and taught me while in the world not to be of it? If Christ crucified be your trust, your hope, your peace, the anchor of your soul, sure and steadfast, then, when Christ comes, the glad and welcome summons given to you will be, "Enter into the joy of your Lord."—Signs of Our Times.

THE SLEEP OF DEATH.

"The sleep of death"—what is this sleep? We know that the surface idea connected with sleep is that of resting. The eyes of the sleeper ache no more with the glare of light or rush of tears; his ears are teased no more with the noise of strife or the murmur of suffering; his hand is no more weakened by long protracted effort and painful weariness; his feet are no more blistered with journeying to and fro along a rugged road; there is ease for aching heads, and overtaxed nerves, and heavy hearts, in the sweet repose of sleep. On yonder couch, however hard, the laborer shakes off his toil, the merchant his care, the thinker his difficulties, and the sufferer his pains.

Sleep makes each night a Sabbath for the day. Sleep shuts to the door of the soul, and bids all intruders tarry for awhile. So is it with the body while it sleeps in the tomb. The weary are at rest; the servant is as much at ease as his lord. No more the worker leans on his spade, no more the thinker props his pensive head. The wheel stands still; the shuttle is not in motion; the hands which turned the one and the fingers which threw the other are quiet also. The grave shuts out all disturbance, labor, or effort. The toil-worn believer quietly sleeps, as does the child weary of its play, when it shuts its eyes and slumbers on its mother's breast.

Oh! happy they who die in the Lord; they shall rest from their labors, and their works do follow them. We would not shun toil, for though it be itself a curse, it is when sanctified a blessing; yet toil for toil's sake, we would not choose; and when God's work is done, we are too glad to think that our work is done too. The mighty Husbandman, when we have fulfilled our day, shall bid his servants rest upon the best of beds, for the clods of the valley shall be sweet to them. Their repose shall never be broken until He shall raise them up to give to them their full reward. Guarded by angel-watchers, curtained by eternal mysteries, resting on the lap of mother earth, ye shall sleep on, ye heritors of glory, till the fullness of time shall bring you the fullness of redemption.—Spurgeon.

GROANING FOR REDEMPTION.

J. R. SMITH.

A burdened world is groaning heavily under the curse. "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now; and not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first-fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves, groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption,—the redemption of the body." Praise God! redemption is soon coming, and "there shall be no more curse."

A short time ago I received a letter from a dear suffering sister in Christ whom I had never seen. She wrote me that she had been a great sufferer for twenty years. O, how my heart is made to ache when I witness the sad havoc that sin and death have made, the suffering and afflictions of God's people. My longing heart cries out—O come, dear Savior, remove the curse, and give immortality and eternal life to thy dear waiting people.

"Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." Praise God! deliverance will surely come in a little while. With joy we hail thy coming; thou Prince of peace.

God is speaking to this generation in a voice that cannot be misunderstood. We hear it in the distant mutterings of war, in the strife of godless men, in the abounding of iniquity, in the unprecedented haste and reckless fury of the age, and in the love of many waxing cold. Nations are waking up their mighty men, and statesmen are becoming alarmed. The kingdoms of this world are being shaken, and monarchs are fearful and trembling upon their thrones. What shall be the end of all this? seems to be the question which is uppermost in many minds. All seem to understand that some great event is about to transpire; but they do not comprehend what that event is. As it was in the days of John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ, so it is now; all eyes are in anxious expectation. The Bridegroom has given the Bride the signs of his coming, and has bidden us to "WATCH" for the tokens of his appearing. "Blessed is he that watcheth." Jesus has got a little flock here, who understand this longing expectation; they are looking for the desire of all nations. The weary exile sighs for home, and the waiting pilgrim longs to be at rest. The soldier prays for the hour of final victory, when the "Captain of his salvation" shall appear, adorned with a glorious crown. The sick and suffering long for the presence of the Great Physician, who can heal all their diseases; and those who sleep in the dust of the earth are still resting in hope, and waiting all the days of their appointed time, until their change shall come. Tired and weary, sick and suffering saints of God, look up! "lift up your heads and rejoice! for your redemption draweth nigh." The burden is heavy, I know; the struggle is fierce, and the suffering great. God grant that your sufferings may soon be alleviated, and that your trials may not outlast your strength, and that we may have grace to "endure unto the end" as "good soldiers of Jesus Christ"; and when the bright morning of deliverance shall dawn, may we stand upon the New Earth, having come up out of great tribulation, with our robes washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb. Some of the Lord's dear children suffer here for the necessary comforts of life; in the new earth they shall hunger no more, neither shall they thirst any more; for the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters; and God, with his own soft hand, shall wipe away tears from off all faces.

"Then Daniel in his lot shall stand,
And Christ shall beautify the land."

This planet, dishonored and polluted by the ravages of sin,—where the Son of God was an outcast, will be redeemed, purified, and adorned with everlasting splendor, as the home of the saints and the crucified King of eternal glory.

New Bedford, Mass.

PATIENCE.

C. MENDENHALL.

Patience is a virtue rarely possessed by man in all its purity and power. It is an attribute which is indispensably necessary in the formation of a christian character. "For ye have need of patience, that after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise."

In this age of hurry, bustle and excitement, we are prone to become impatient of any delay, or seeming tardiness; yet we should in many things learn to obey the injunction—"In your patience possess ye your souls." There are times when we desire God to do some mighty work for us,—to bless our efforts in behalf of sinners, or to answer our petitions in other directions, and we feel restive, impatient, and full of suspense, because in our poor, weak judgment the Lord is slack concerning his promise. Here we need this great gift, "Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."

True patience enables us to suffer afflictions, toil, anxieties and provocations without murmuring. It gives us that quality which keeps us calm when waiting for some expected good. It is written—"Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof: and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit." Eccl. 7: 8.

Patience is sometimes synonymous with constancy. "Be ye also patient: stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." Again we read—"Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy." Paul says—"Strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience and longsuffering with joyfulness."

Patience implies endurance under all life's crosses and difficulties. There are individuals who try us by their ingratitude, unkindness, or misrepresentations; yet we must heed the apostolic exhortation to "be patient toward all men." If we endure unto the end, a reward awaits us,—a gift of "eternal life," an "incorruptible inheritance." Surely this should be a potent incentive to patience under these "light afflictions, which work for us a far more exceeding, and eternal weight of glory."

Let us cling to the promises, holding fast, firm and faithful; then it may be said of us, as of Abrham of old—"And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise." These are times which try men's souls, and we need patience and a firm reliance on Christ. "For of him, and through him, and to him are all things: to whom be glory forever." Soon Jesus, for whom we look, will come to bring reward, rest, and relief from earth's dangers. We must exercise patience in looking for him, knowing that the promise to "come again" will be verified in God's own time.

We have much encouragement to believe that prophecy is about to culminate in a consummation of all our hopes, and the return of the absent Nobleman to complete the work of salvation. A little while to struggle, a little while to toil, then shall be ushered in a grand future, full of endless, unalloyed joy, and undisturbed peace.

Reader, is this your hope? If not, become reconciled while the day of grace is yours,—while you may seek successfully, and knock with the blessed assurance that "it shall be opened unto you."

Fellow watchmen, let not your hearts fail you. Evidently we have reached the time when we can consistently "lift up our heads and rejoice, knowing that our redemption draweth nigh." "Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord." "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit, and soul, and body, be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." "Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it." Amen.

Wilmington, Del.

—— Look not mournfully into the past—it cannot return; wisely improve the present—it is thine; go forth to meet the shadowy future without fear, and with a true and manly heart.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 24, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

PREPARE WAR.

"Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles: "Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; let them come up. Beat your plowshares into swords, and your pruninghooks into spears: let the weak say, I am strong" JOEL 3: 9, 10.

God commands his people at a certain time to proclaim among the Gentiles "Prepare war! wake up the mighty men!" that is, wake them up by notifying them that they are enrolled for military service. All the "mighty men"—"the men of war," meaning all the men of suitable age and strength for war. Let the men of "might"—of strength to fight—"draw near;" "come up" to the encampment, the fortress and field of blood."

It will also be proclaimed with divine authority that the Gentile nations will beat their plowshares into swords, and their pruninghooks into spears; thus diminishing the implements and men in the fields of agriculture, and increasing them in the fields of war. The demand for men, and material for war, at that time, will be so great, that those not of suitable age and strength to fight, will be encouraged to say—"I am strong." The prophet then predicts the extent of this wonderful war movement when he says—"Assemble yourselves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourselves together round about: thither cause thy mighty ones to come down, O Lord. Let the heathen be wakened, and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to judge the heathen round about." It will be all the heathen (meaning all classes and nations except the Jews) who will be included in this proclamation, and will be compelled, by God, through circumstances thrown around them, to make this mighty preparation for war.

The Seer then presents a second part of this wonderful drama thus: "Thither cause thy mighty ones to come down, O Lord." The Revelator evidently saw the same scene; —the Gentile armies confronted by the "mighty ones" or armies from "heaven," led by the heavenly Captain, whose title is "Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war." He then describes the conflict thus: "The armies which were in heaven followed him (Christ) upon white horses, clothed in fine linen white and clean. "And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and he shall rule them with a rod of iron; and he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God." Rev. 19: 14, 15.

The prophet then illustrates the movement and its results by a striking symbol, as follows:—"Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe; come, get you down; for the press is full, the fats overflow: for their wickedness is great. Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision." The Revelator also quotes this passage in chap. 14: 15. "Thrust in thy sickle, and reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe." He then expresses the result of the harvest, which corresponds exactly with what he said in chap. 19, and says—"And the winepress was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the winepress, even unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs." These events take place when the Lord will "sit to judge all the heathen."

Jesus takes up the same illustration of the grain and sickle, and explains and applies it thus: "The harvest is the end of this world... As therefore the tares are gathered burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth." The Revelator gives the same terrible facts experienced at the end of this battle, or harvest, thus: "These both were cast alive into a lake of fire, burning with brimstone." Chap. 5: 20.

It appears from these passages that just before the end of the world, or gospel age, God will authorize his servants to proclaim or preach a message of truth to the Gentile nations, in which it will be taught that the last great battle will soon be fought, and that these nations will make certain preparations for war, as specified by the prophets.

The preaching of this message must precede the preparations for war, because it is a proclamation that such a preparation is about to be made. It is a notification to "prepare war" by waking up the mighty men, and commanding "all the men of war to draw near." It will teach that the art of agriculture will be neglected, because the art of war will engross all the men who enjoy the "might" of manhood, calling them from the use of the pruninghook to the spear.

The great questions which now roll their note of awful interest upon the ear of the faithful sentinel of Christ are: Has the period come for this proclamation to be made? and has it been made? and do the nations respond to the call in making the specified preparations? We answer in the affirmative. The time has come for the message to be preached, for we have evidently reached the period of its location, as it is presented in the serial prophecies. Such a message has been preached and published by professed servants of Christ during the last fifty-five years. It is called by Christ "This gospel of the kingdom," and he testifies that when it shall be preached as a witness to all nations ("the Gentiles"), "then shall the end come."

It is a fact that a proclamation professedly eminating from God, or drawn from his Word, has been preached to all nations as a witness that the battle of Armageddon is soon to be fought, and that Christ is about to appear, and the gospel to end with the resurrection of the dead within this period. It is also a startling truth that after this God-given notification had been solemnly sounded to the nations, that circumstances have been continually thrown around the nations which has caused them to feel compelled, contrary to their desires, to prepare for war to a degree and in a way as never before. This preparation, in extent and particulars, exactly corresponds to the specifications in the prophecies.

Let us hear the testimony of statesmen and those engaged in this stupendous preparation for human slaughter.

GERMANY—A NATION IN ARMS.

"The momentary dreams of peace and quiet, arts and progress, have fled away, and Germany recognizes the stern necessity of her case, which is, that what she has won by arms, she can only hold by arms, and as long as the arms are in her hand. It is no longer possible to doubt the sagacity and truth of her rulers, and they say that henceforth every German, sound in wind and limb must be a soldier. From the age of seventeen to forty-two every man not belonging to the Army or the Reserve is to be liable to be called out in the case of an actual or even threatened invasion. The nature and contingencies of this new enrolment are by no means fictions on paper. As to its numerical amount, it is sufficient to say that, added to the Line, the Landwehr, and the existing Landsturm, it raises the disposable force of the German Empire to 2,800,000 men. If the country is to be turned permanently into a camp, if labor is to be diminished, and the military expenditure largely increased, at the expense of the civil service, the chances are that national excitement will soon not be confined to France alone. . . .

In conclusion, it may be interesting to say, that with the 250,000 men likely to form the first ban of the Landsturm, the German army will number in time of war 1,752,000 men and 45,718 officers. If the whole of the Landsturm is summoned, the total of the forces will be raised to something like 2,800,000 men. It is similarly with France, whose army, consisting of 30,000 officers and 1,098,000 men, is increased by 600,000 "territorial reserve" in time of war. Russia's army of 24,190 officers, 1,376,800 men will be supported by a reserve of 2,000,000, after universal conscription has been enforced for ten or twelve years. Add to this that Austria, Italy, Denmark, Holland, and Switzerland are arming likewise as fast as they can, and it will be admitted that Germany bordering upon them all, is situated in a particularly hot corner of Europe."—London Times.

The prophet says—"Let all the men of war draw near;" the writer says—"henceforth, every German, sound in wind and limb, must be a soldier." The prophet says—"Let them come up;" the writer says—"If the country is to be turned permanently into a camp." The prophet says —"Beat your plowshares into swords;" the writer says—"If labor is to be diminished and the military expenditure largely increased, at the expense of the civil service."

"When the new German Landsturm bill becomes law, the present rulers of Germany will have committed her to an increase of armament which, when effected, will raise the disposable force of the Empire to 2,800,000 men. France now commands under all heads about 1,750,000 men, Russia more than 3,330,000, and Austria, Italy, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland are arming as fast as they can. . . . So long as any one nation continues arming at this rate, the others must, or at least will, endeavor to keep pace. No one at present appears willing to begin the work of reduction, nor is it probable that any agreement to act in concert for that object will ever be arrived at. Hence the grinding taxation, the ruinous diversion of men and capital from productive industry to drill for the work of destruction, must still go on till there is a collapse of some kind, or the nations come to learn, and also practice, wisdom."—Boston Journal.

This American editor also makes prominent in this wonderful movement just what the prophet did, that men and means would be drawn largely from productive pursuits into the military camp. He says—"Hence the grinding taxation, the ruinous diversion of men and capital from productive industry, to drill for the work of destruction." England is suffering the same change. One of her writers says:—

"There is some cause for anxiety in England over the decrease in the number of persons devoted to agriculture. In a population of 22,712,266 in 1871, there were but 1,820,903 male and female agricultural laborers, against 2,084,153 in 1861. The decrease in the ten years between 1861 and 1871 was 180,551."

The same decrease of agricultural laborers is witnessed in Germany. The London Telegraph says:—

"Von Moltke asks for Landsturm at the back of Landwehr; and when the Madgeburg papers declare that industry is crushed, the War Office points to France, where, when all the proposed army is completed, there will be enrolled 2,000,000 soldiers. The peace footing of the Russian army is 955,000 men; and Austria, at her wit's end to keep the Budget balanced, adopts per force compulsory service, and can put into the field hard upon 1,000,000 of fighting men."

M. Baxter, a clergyman of the English Church, writes and quotes upon this subject of taking men from agriculture to war thus:

"The immense preparations for war now being made by all the nations of Europe, cannot long continue without bearing fruit in the open outbreak of hostilities. Lord Derby has justly stated in a speech at Liverpool—

'I look on the maintenance of a strong and effective force as more than ever important at the present day, and I do so for this reason: we live in an age when armies have assumed more gigantic proportions than in any period known to us in history; and coincident with that state of things, our industrial prosperity, the demand for laborers in every branch of industry which is the result of that prosperity, and the tendency of men to try to better their condition by emigrating, are tending to increase the cost to the state of every individual soldier. . . . Never since the world began have such masses of men been drilled and disciplined for purposes of war.'

Extremes meet. What we call progress is sometimes only oscillation, and the latest development of modern and popular ideas on the Continent, the converting of every able-bodied man into a soldier, whether he will or no, is merely a recurrence, after many generations, to the general practice—I won't say of barbarous, but of primitive and imperfectly civilized communities, whose fighting strength is simply the entire male population. Modern wars are now carried on not by a special and limited class, but by the community as a whole. I think that is a reaction injurious and almost disastrous to civilization; but there it is, and we must accept the fact."

The London Times speaks very emphatically upon this subject again:—

"Austria, Italy, Denmark, Holland, and Switzerland, are arming as fast as they can. It is a universal strain on the energy and resources of the world. But self-preservation never yet was found sufficient to keep up high tension long. When all nations arm it will be for something. A dozen millions of men cannot be withdrawn from common industry and civil duties, and engage in the most costly and destructive of all employments, except to the continual loss and hindrance of the people. Where the women work like horses, as they do in Germany and France, the presumption is that both men and horses are wasting or misapplying their powers."

The Leeds Mercury (England) adds its testimony to the startling facts with a tone of fearful foreboding:—

"The Landsturm Bill in the German Parliament, which raises the military force of the Empire to 2,800,000 men, suggests not unnaturally a somewhat gloomy view as to the future. We may not be in the immediate presence of a conflict between the Great Powers of Europe; but when nation after nation is drafting into one or other branch of the army every male adult between twenty and forty, in some cases exceeding those limits, we cannot but be sensible that the tension is such that it may break at any moment. Once the forces are let loose we know not where the desolation of their march may cease, nor where the bitter conflict may end."

"The Franco-Prussian war of 1870–71, brought into the field more than a million of armed men. In the next war each nation will enter the field with double that force at its back; and if Russia, and Austria, and Italy, and possibly England and America, should be dragged into the conflict, we should have armies equal in proportions to the adult male populations of empires, slaughtering each other with weapons which science has made perfect for the purposes of warfare. It is not an imaginary picture we are sketching, but one which is foreshadowed as sooner or later inevitable, unless wiser counsels should lead, or necessity should force, the Great Powers of Europe to reconsider the course of infatuation upon which they have entered.

"An armed peace on the footing resolved upon in Russia, Germany and France, means a process of exhaustion only less severe than that of actual war. No nation can bear such a burden as these have placed upon themselves without finding its industrial resources crippled, and its financial condition embarrassed. Whatever may be the desire for peace (and no nation has more cause to mourn over the desolation of war than these), the time must come when the temptation will be all but irresistible to seek relief by attempting to crush those against whom they have armed. It is in this way that an armed peace becomes an ever active incentive to war."

We now inquire of the candid reader, is it a fact that a proclamation has been made to the Gentile nations, within the period of the present generation, in which it has been preached that a general war among the Roman nations was impending as foretold in the text? Is it also a fact that while this message is being proclaimed the nations have made uncommon preparations for war, exactly as specified? We answer, these are facts, and we solemnly believe these circumstances are the fulfillment of the text and all parallel prophecies. But the passages show that this preparation for war will terminate in a great and destructive battle, which is represented as the harvest of the world—the end of the gospel age. Therefore, if we believe that these things are the fulfillment of the Scriptures, we cannot intelligently look for the final end until these vast armaments have been stained with the blood of this generation.

This is truly an age of wonders,—a period full of sublime events. The dark clouds rapidly gather blackness, and the muttering thunders of judgment are nearing the thronged cities and scattered homes of the busy millions. The kings anxiously look out of their palace windows upon the howling tempest, and gather up their feet on their thrones as they reel to and fro in the convulsions of the political earthquake. The "chief captains" gather together, and anxiously desire to use the most scientifically prepared implements of human butchery in the coming terrible struggle. The capitalists open their treasures to supply the sinews of war, lest they lose their uncounted millions already invested in government securities. O fallen, doomed humanity! the period of thy last plagues has come. The night of thy foretold bloody conflict is casting its gloomy shadows around the world. O shelterless ones! hasten to the open door of refuge! Escape! escape from the snare of eternal death!

J. C.

BRO. HAMMOND'S MEETINGS.

It has been our privilege to attend several of Bro. E. P. Hammond's meetings, the last few days, in Sacramento, where he began his labors Saturday evening, Jan. 30th, after a most successful series of meetings in San Jose. At the latter place, over four hundred converts are reported, and the work still goes on with power and deep interest. It surpasses any revival before experienced in that city. All denominations are united in the work, and no sectarian interest appears to be manifested to mar its excellence. One very important and wise requirement of Bro. Hammond, before he begins his labors in any place is, that the various pastors shall co-operate with him in a union effort. At Sacramento, the ministers pledged themselves, before the meetings began, that they would make no efforts to persuade the converts to join their respective churches while the union meetings were in progress. It would not be easy to tell with which denomination the several ministers were associated, from any peculiarities of style or sentiment. They are heartily united in the one great and all-important work of saving men from coming destruction. They pray, sing, talk, and labor together, as one happy family, without feeling any sectarian walls between. This is in harmony with the prayer of Jesus, when he prayed that all his children might be one, as he and his Father are one. We have never seen it more pleasantly carried out than in Bro. Hammond's meetings. He appears to be perfectly free from all sectarian feelings. He unites heartily with all who truly love Jesus, without regard to their various creeds. He invites those who are converted to sign the following covenant:

"We, the undersigned, hope we have found Jesus to be our precious Savior, and promise, with his help, to live as his loving children and faithful servants all our lives."

During the one week's labors, now spent in Sacramento, one hundred and fifty converts are reported. Apparently, the work has but just commenced. Four meetings are held each day. The first is a Bible reading, conference and prayer-meeting from 10 A. M. to noon, in the Sixth street M. E. Church. At 12.15, an out-door meeting is held at the corner of Fourth and K. streets, near the post office, where hundreds gather, and listen attentively in good order, though many of them are very wicked men, who never attend church. Bro. Hammond has an excellent gift for out-door preaching. The third meeting is in the Congregationalist church at 3.30 P. M, more especially for the children. Bro. H. has also a remarkable faculty to interest children and lead them to Christ. The fourth meeting is held at 7 P. M. in the Pavilion, which is said to be the largest hall on the coast. Last evening (Friday, Feb. 5th) over two thousand people were present, as shown by actual count. There are one hundred and thirty-six gas burners on the five chandeliers in the hall. The central one has fifty-six, and each of the other four have twenty. There are two pipe organs, one melodeon, and one grand piano. The best singers from the various churches unite to sing the sweet songs in "The Evangel," which contains the most choice selection of revival hymns we have ever seen. We heartily commend it to all our readers. It was edited by Bro. Hammond. It is about the same size as the "Winnowed Hymns," and the same price—20 cts. When the organs, the melodeon, and the grand piano, with the excellent choir, and the host of singers in the great hall, all unite in those soul stirring songs, the effect is completly charming. We never heard anything that surpassed it, because the singing is not only with the understanding, but with the spirit. It is the very opposite of the cold, formal choir singing, generally heard in popular churches. One who has any love for Jesus could not help feasting on such songs of praise. Bro. Hammond takes special pains to have good singing in the meetings, which is a very important help.

We have never seen a preacher that seemed to take more delight in exalting and praising Jesus, than Bro. H. It may be truly said of him,

"Jesus all the day long"
Is his joy and his song.

He seems to be brimfull of love for Jesus. He is a very sweet-spirited man. He never dwells on hell-torments, to frighten people, as do many revival preachers, but is constantly presenting the love of Christ for poor, fallen man. His effort is to lead men to repentance by showing them the goodness of God, and his willingness to save men who will accept Jesus as their Redeemer. When persons are led to repent by this motive, we think they are more likely to endure to the end, than those who repent through fear of punishmeut. His power of imitation leads him to be quite dramatic in some of his sermons relating to the death and sufferings of Christ, thus making the truth presented very impressive upon the audience. One who hears him will not be likely to forget his leading thoughts, because they are forced home by such striking illustrations and anecdotes, of which he has a large store, and tells with admirable skill. In short, he is full of song, imitation, poetry, language, love for Jesus and the human race. He has traveled extensively in America, Europe and Palestine, and has an excellent memory, and intersperses his discourses with many interesting incidents noticed in his travels. He has a rare combination of native and acquired ability, suited to make a successful revivalist. He has a very rare faculty for organizing the christian forces in an attack upon the powers of darkness. His extensive experience and eminent success in revival work during many years of ministerial labor, make him admirably adapted to labor on the Pacific coast. He is just the man for the California field. The Californians are bold, brave, noble-hearted, and opposed to shams, especially in religion; but when it is presented in a kind, loving spirit, they treat it with respect, and honor the man that has the courage to tell them the truth, fearless of consequences.

They despise cowards and hypocrites, or anything that is unmanly and mean.

Bro. Hammond intends to commence meetings in San Francisco, Feb. 13th. Glorious results are expected. We found the church in Sacramento, that is looking for the speedy coming of Christ, in a very healthy and prosperous condition. New ones are continually becoming interested in the evidences that prove our Savior will soon appear in his glory.

M. G.

CALIFORNIA.

The more we see and know of California, the more we are pleased. If the people in the East knew what was here, crowds would soon be on their way to this delightful "summer land." We think every variety of taste for climate, soil, or productions, might here be gratified as well, or better than in any other part of the world. The farmer, the fruit grower, the trader, the miner, the laborer, the mechanic, will here find a wide field for his most active operations, and an ample reward for his toil. The soil is remarkably productive, yielding the finest wheat in the world, and the largest quantities. It is said to range between thirty and forty baskets to the acre, and in one case one hundred. Apples, pears, peaches, plums, grapes, strawberries, figs, cherries, blackberries, currants, nectarines, raspberries, apricots, oranges, lemons, almonds, English walnuts, olive trees, palm trees, pepper trees, Australian gum trees, live oaks, and beautiful evergreens, all abound in California. We found good pears and apples on the trees in January, also grapes on the vines. The climate and fruits are like Palestine. There is a striking similarity between the two countries, if we compare California as it now is, with Palestine as it was, when first possessed by the children of Israel.

As a place for residence, California is continually becoming more attractive. Those who wish to go into active business operations, or to retire to live at their ease, can be suited on the Pacific coast. Those who wish to have perpetual spring and autumn combined, can here be gratified. The Australian gum tree, and the pepper tree, continue green all the year. The gum tree grows very rapidly, and is a favorite ornamental tree, as is also the pepper tree. The leaves of the gum tree emit a pleasing fragrance, and the presence of the tree is thought to be a guardian of the health. It grows more rapidly than any other tree known. They are set in California to occupy the places corresponding with maple and elm trees in New England. The handsomest door-yards we have ever seen are in California. Beautiful flowers and evergreens are abundant, growing all the year. The evergreens are very handsome, and kept beautifully trimmed, generally in the shape of a boy's top. They vary in size from three to ten feet in diameter, and from four to twenty-five feet high. The pepper tree bears a small, scarlet berry, about the size of a pepper corn, which has a very strong, pungent taste, and is used by the Spaniards to season their food. It is a handsome tree for the yard.

The population of California is increasing rapidly, and there is still abundance of room for more. Its climate, rich soil, and mines, when fully known, cannot fail to attach great numbers of settlers to this beautiful "summer land." The religious element is now becoming very promising and even inviting to the lovers of Jesus. There has been a most marked improvement in the last five years. While there are thousands who seem to be perfectly reckless in relation to all sacred things; there is a goodly number who are giving their hearts to Jesus, and preparing for his coming. Sabbath before last, one of the ablest and most popular ministers in the city of San Francisco preached an earnest sermon, with great effect, showing that Christ will soon make his second advent to this world. Many were in tears.

M. G.

AIR AND RELIGION.

The following selection was kindly sent us by Sister B. Mathewson, and we gladly publish it with our full endorsement. We know the sentiment of the writer to be true, from an experience of public speaking for more than thirty years, in a great variety of places. We speak confidently when we say that a large percentage of the interest and benefit of religious worship is lost when the worshipers are inhaling vitiated air. Our spiritual and physical natures act in such perfect harmony, that neither can be hindered in its action and we enjoy lively emotions and profitable experience. We earnestly exhort our churches to give attention to this subject.

J. C.

AIR AND RELIGION.

Many a farmer and housekeeper wonder why it is that they must needs take a nap every Sunday in sermon time. When the parson gets comfortably into the second or third head of his discourse, and the congregation have settled into the easiest position to listen, gentle sleep begins to steal over their faculties, and the good man is surprised at finding his argument less cogent than it seemed when prepared in the solitude of his study. At home the busy matron never thinks of napping at eleven o'clock in the morning, and the man of business would consider his sanity or common sense sadly called in question should a friend propose a half hour's nap at that time of the day. Nevertheless, they both sleep like kittens, in their pews, and logic, rhetoric, eloquence, are alike wasted in the vain attempt to rouse their sluggish souls. The question of the poet, so often sung in our assemblies—

"My drowsy powers, why sleep ye so?"

is exactly in point, and we propose as an answer, "Because we are breathing carbonic acid gas—deadly poison; because the sexton did not let the foul air of last Sunday's congregation out of the doors and windows, and the fresh pure air of heaven in."

Look around at the audience; that feverish flush on the face is not heat; it is poison. The lady nodding over there, her nose and face like a scarlet rose, is not too warm, for the thermometer does not stand over seventy degrees; she is partially suffocated; what she wants is fresh air. The hard-working mechanic or farmer does not sleep because he watched with a sick child last night, but simply for want of oxygen to keep the flames of intellectual and physical activity brightly burning.

Nobody can rise on wings of faith in poisonous atmosphere. Oxygen and religion cannot be separated in this unrighteous manner. We cannot live in conformity to spiritual laws while in open violation of the physical.

Is your sexton a man of intelligence sufficient to understand the necessity and reason of ample ventilation? Does he know that every human being vitiates, at the least estimate, four cubic feet of air every minute? Linger when the the congregation leaves, and see if he shuts every door and window tight to keep in the heat till evening service. Then see how dimly the lamps burn in the devitalized air; how hard the minister tries to raise himself and his listeners to the height of some great argument, and how stupid they are—nothing but bad air.

Now for the remedy, which costs labor and money both, for ventilation is a question of dollars and cents. Saturday the sexton should be instructed to open all the doors and windows, to let out all the dead and foul air, and let in all that is fresh. It takes no more coal on Sunday morning to heat the church to seventy degrees because of this purification.

Sunday noon let the openings of the church be again thrown wide, warmth and bad air will alike disappear, and though extra coal may be required to raise the temperature, the minister will preach so much better in consequence, and the hearers will listen with such increased relish to the sacred Word, that the loss of the pocket will be infinitely compensated by the gain of the soul.—Educational Monthly.

SAN FRANCISCO.—We had a good day in San Francisco yesterday, Feb. 7th. Several new ones requested prayers, and two were baptized. Others intend to be buried with Christ next Lord's day. The Spirit of the Lord is with us in power. Praise his name for ever. JESUS IS PRECIOUS. M. G.

JUMPING CHRISTIANS.

H. F. CARPENTER.

"There are a number of very plain texts that I cannot possibly harmonize with your doctrine," said a christian to his neighbor who was urging him to embrace a mischief-making side notion. "Jump over them," replied the neighbor; "that is the way I did." Ah, thought I, I have the secret now; I have long wondered how so many brethren could embrace so many strange notions in the face of so many clear Scripture utterances; but I have it now; they jump over them."

It occurs to me just now, by the way, that this jumping habit is a very ancient one. Adam jumped over the words of God in order to believe Satan's first lie. The Antediluvians jumped over the preaching of Noah, and persuaded themselves free from fears of a flood. Israel jumped over the admonitions of the prophets, and disbelieved in the threatened captivity. The Jews jumped over the prophecies concerning Christ's first coming, and thus "knew him not" when he did come. And why do men disbelieve Christ's second coming, and that it is to be soon? They jump over those texts which teach it. Why do men disbelieve the resurrection of the dead, and of "all them that are in the graves"? They jump over the texts that declare it. How do men become and remain believers in the eternal salvation of all men? They jump over all opposing scripture. How do others place the judgment, the reward, the crown, and the glory, at death, with the entire Bible opposed to the thought? They jump over.

This jumping practice is no new one; and besides, it is far from being a safe one. Adam jumped over God's word into death. Israel jumped over the prophet's admonition into captivity. The Jews jumped into eighteen hundred years of woe as a nation. The Antediluvians jumped over Noah's preaching into the flood. The world now is jumping over the warnings of God into a fatal snare, in the which Christ's coming will overtake them. No cattle so soon driven to the slaughter as those of breechy habits; none so fondly cherished as those which will not get over a fence one or two rails high. So none can be surer of punishment than those who "refuse him which speaketh from heaven"; and none so honored and beloved of God as those who "tremble at his word."

Beloved in the Lord, let us beware of this fatal practice of Scripture jumping. It is by this constant straining to jump over texts that the church is being distracted by a flood of strange notions. Keep out of the snare. Mark the men that wrest Scripture, and avoid them. Resolve that you never will embrace a theory, however subtly or philosophically it may be presented, so long as one plain "thus saith the Lord" stands against it. When God speaks once, let that suffice. Some people are like Balaam. God gave him wise counsel, but after he got it he must still parley with the ambassadors of Balak till God left him to think the wrong way was right. A troublesome, unsafe way he found it. So now, after the clearest convictions of truth and of error from the Word of God, some, instead of holding fast that which is good, will keep continually straining to see light in the opposite direction, till off they go, after Balak, till the dumb beast they ride refuses to go, and speaking with a man's voice rebukes their madness.

To avoid Balaam's experience do not jump over what God says as he did. To embrace the Lord's soon coming we jump no Scripture. To believe that man is mortal requires no overleaping of Bible texts. If it did I would drop it at once. When we understand God aright, there is a place for every text. If it would suit our theory better to have certain texts taken out of the Bible, we may rest assured that our theory is wrong. The sooner we discard such a theory the better. Let God's Word stand. We may not be able to fathom the wisdom of God, so as to tell why he says what he has said; but rest assured that if God says so, there is a reason for saying so, even if we do not know it. Again I say, scorn the counsel that would make you jumping christians.

[Good, Bro. C., let us have some fetters to keep these restless spirits in the fold of Christ, if possible.

J. C.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, Geo. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$304.46
P. S. Ward	1.50
Mrs. C. Manchester	1.00
J. H. Stannard	1.00
E. Sharp	1.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$81.[illegible]

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1.00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable the Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS.

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$[illegible]
Betsey W. Smith (pledge paid)	10.00
Rhoda Scott	2.75
Sheldon Munson	2.75
A Friend (on pledge)	5.00
P S. Ward	1.50

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$[illegible]
C. B. Parker	[illegible]
W. White	2.00
C. L. Dale	1.00

CLOTHING.—One barrel from C. B. Parker, Sugar Hill, N. H. One barrel from L. T. Cunningham.

TO THE A. A. M. SOCIETY.

FROM ALABAMA.—THE LIGHT SPREADING.

Dear Brethren:—Amid many discouragements we are now and then strengthened by manifestations of blessings on former labors. In August last I reported that I was informed that four Baptist ministers in this State about seventy or eighty miles south of me had been led into the truth by a tract. In 1871 Elder Wm. Sheldon published "The Life Beyond Death." He sent me one hundred copies for free distribution. One copy on its mission passed from one to another until, at latest accounts, six Baptist ministers had openly avowed their convictions of the truths therein set forth. Several others are honestly trying to settle the truth in their minds by the Bible test. Several churches are deeply affected by the [illegible].

Eld. S. R. Hood, of Gadsden, Ala., writes me Jan. 30th, 1875, informing me that he has been over three years preaching immortality through Christ only; and that there was but little public opposition until last fall. Then the cry of "heresy" came up in their Association, and since then in some of their churches. A Baptist paper is out against them. Bro. Hood is replying. It will not be long, he thinks, till there will be a separation. These brethren need encouragement. They need books and tracts. Who will send some to Eld. S. R. Hood, Gadsden, Etowah Co., Ala.? He says— "I have been 'orthodox' twenty-eight years. Three years and three months I have been trying to preach the gospel unperverted."

There are three other points down in Ala. from which invitations come to me for preaching the gospel of the kingdom. I hope to visit them in the spring, if not sooner, the Lord restoring my health, which has been poor since my return from the Carolina tour in Nov. and Dec. I am now improving from my late attack of pneumonia, though at times I yet suffer great pain in my chest. Pray for me.

In much trial, and amid the many scoffs I have to endure I feel an increase of responsibility. I realize that the time is short, very short, in which to finish the great work now before the Lord's people. The signs of the times in 1875, so far, are very ominous. I am lifting up my head and looking up, really believing that my "redemption draweth nigh." May the Lord direct in all our labors of love till Jesus comes.

J. J. SMITH.

Long Island, Jackson Co., Ala.

Correspondence.

From Bro. G. A. Carroll.

Dear Brethren:—My heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved. The solicitude which the apostle manifested for the welfare of the church should not only commend itself to the hearts of all true believers, but also lead us to pray earnestly for the welfare of all the disciples of these latter days, that their faith fail not in times of severe trial and perplexity, which have overtaken the church of God in these last moments of time. As we look around us, and behold the coldness and indifference manifested, even by the professed disciples of the Lord, we are led to the inquiry of the disciples of old, "Lord, are there few that be saved?"

Brethren, this is no time to be parleying with the adversary, and seeking to enjoy a little more of this world's pleasures, or gain a little more of its wealth; for riches profit not in the day of wrath.

I often read the complaints of the preaching brethren, that they labor hard and earnestly, and seek to bring the people up to a higher plane in the christian life, but that it sometimes seems as though their labor was in vain. The adversary is making use of every artifice in his power to destroy all that is good, or that shall in any way be conducive to the interests of the cause of Christ. How often do we forget the admonition of the Master, to "Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation;" and so through our own blindness fall an easy prey to the destroyer.

Let us put off the works of darkness, and put on the armor of light, that we may be able to stand in the evil day.

Andrew's Mills, Darlington Co., S. C.

From Bro. O. Lewis.

I want to acknowledge the receipt of one barrel and one box of clothing which we received from the lovers of truth, by the order of our beloved brother and sister J. C. and S. E. Smith. O, how many hearts were made glad, and how many thanks were sent to our heavenly Father for that timely-sent relief! We pray that the good Lord will bless the kind donors with plenty of the comforts of this life, and in the world to come with life everlasting. May it be the happy lot of both givers and receivers to meet in the kingdom of heaven.

Dear brethren and sisters, remember the people of Kansas in your prayers. The work is going on. Truth is prevailing, and error is giving way. Many are embracing the blessed truth.

No. Lawrence, Douglas Co., Kan.

From Bro. L. Boutell.

For the last thirty-three years of my life I have been able to respond cheerfully to the Macedonian cry, but on account of overacting in the cold my health is impaired. I am now under the doctor's care. Shall have to recall my appointments for the present. Dearly beloved, pray for me, that I may still live to do some good, and be all ready to hear it said, "Come, ye blessed.'

Chelsea, Mass., Feb. 20th, 1875.

AN EXCELLENT TRACT, ENTITLED "What to Believe." By S. Guthrie.

We would call the especial attention of all that are interested in spreading abroad sound Bible truth in the land, among the different denominations of professed christians, to this tract, as clear, comprehensive, sound in doctrine, calculated to clear away the rubbish of tradition from the mind, at the same time enlightening it with the great truths of the Bible. I would bespeak for it a wide circulation. L. T. CUNNINGHAM.

Obituaries.

Died in East Boston, Feb. 11th, Milford S Woodside, the son of Bro. Benj. Woodside, aged 18 years.

Milford was a good young man. During his sickness, he gave very clear evidence of resignation to the will of God, and of humble submission and love to his Savior. He died calmly, in the faith that he should enjoy the blessings of salvation through Christ in his everlasting kingdom. He has left father, mother, three brothers, and a sister, to experience a great loss. May the Lord, who doeth all things well, impart unto them the support they so much need in this hour of affliction.

Milford had been employed more than a year as clerk in the North American Insurance Co. Mr. Bowker, the President of the Co., was present at the funeral, and on the occasion spoke in the highest terms of his faithfulness and honesty.

The following note of respect was published in the East Boston Advocate Feb. 13th.

J. S. WHITE.

The clerks of the North American Insurance Co. desire to publicly express their regret at the untimely death of their associate, Milford S. Woodside, he having been connected with the office a little more than a year, but during this short period he gained the affection and respect of all who knew him, by his modest yet kindly demeanor, and by his faithful attention to business. He had proved himself a genial companion as well as an efficient and conscientious clerk, and bid fair to attain a high position in life. His death makes a void it will be hard to fill, and his memory will long hold a place in the hearts of his associates.

E. E. PATRIDGE
CHAS. E. MACULLAR.
HENRY A. DAY.
CHAS. D. PALMER.

Boston, Feb. 12, '75.

BARBADOES. In Boston, Jan. 26th, 1875, Sister Sarah Barbadoes, aged about 60 years.

On the evening of her death she attended our prayer meeting in Chelsea, as had been her custom for a long time, and faithfully exhorted us to "speak for Jesus." She left just before the close of the meeting for home, and on stepping from the car, fell, in an unconscious state, and lived but a few minutes. Very likely about her last words were uttered for Christ and his cause. It had been, she said, "one of her best days."

She was one of the Lord's poor, and although she freely acknowledged her poverty, yet she never paraded it before the church or the world, and was one to whom many found it a pleasure to give. She was born in Boston, of colored parents, and had spent nearly her whole life there; and would often burst into tears when speaking of the wickedness of her native city. She lived to bury her husband and five children. Only one—a son—remains. May his mother's God be his, and her eternal home be shared by him. She was brought to Chelsea and buried. We miss her bright intelligent face (which could not fail to impress one), her prayers, her counsels and admonitions. Her seat in our chapel is vacant. Her voice is silent. Her work is done. May we as a church do ours as wisely, as faithfully, as well. M. G. COUCH.

CALKINS. Fell asleep in Jesus, at Monson, Mass., Jan. 14th, 1875, Bro. Romaro E. Calkins, son of Bro. George H. and Sr. L. Calkins, aged 27 years.

This is the first time that the enemy death has visited this dear christian family. Bro. C. was a very promising young man, and much esteemed by all who knew him. He was a christian, a lover of Jesus and his Word, and was always ready to give to others a reason of his hope, with meekness. He was what the apostle calls "a living epistle, known and read by all." His family and the church sustain a great loss, but we feel to say—"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the Spirit, they rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

May the Lord comfort the afflicted friends by the blessed hope of soon meeting him again when the Life-giver shall come and swallow up death in victory. The occasion of his burial was improved by Sr. E. L. Crumb from Acts 13: 36, 37. She was enabled by divine help to present much truth and comfort to those in affliction, and the large company of sympathizing friends.

P. S. BUTLER.

MCCULLOCK. In Savoy, Mass., Jan. 15th, 1875, Estella L., only child of A. J. and Carrie J. McCulloch, grand-daughter of Leonard McCulloch, and great-grand-daughter of the late Eld. Nathaniel McCulloch, of Savoy.

May God bless and sustain the lone parents and other mourning friends, and may this affliction bring them nearer to him, that they may see their loved one, clad in immortal beauty, at the resurrection of the just.

Sleep, thou darling precious loved one,
By death laid low,
While with tearful eyes we render
This tribute due.
When the morn of glory, breaking,
Shall burst the tomb,
Beautiful will be thy waking
In fadeless bloom.

MARY L. TOWER.

[Western papers, please copy.

FIRES.—New Canaan, Ct., loss $18,000; Port Jervis, N. Y., loss $20,000; Philadelphia, loss $20,000; Darien, Ga., loss 100,000; Wingham, Ont., loss $30,000; Lindsa, Ont., loss $30,000; Hartford, Ct., loss $250,000.

Kingston, Jam., Feb. 16. A fire broke out in Port au Prince on the 11th inst. There being no water, the flames spread rapidly, and on the 13th were still beyond control. Five hundred houses have been destroyed.

— Recent advices from Havana report numerous fights with the insurgents, in which the losses were severe on both sides, but nothing decisive was accomplished.

— California produces the finest honey in the Union, and will export this year 400,000 pounds.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Feb. 15. A telegram from Singapore reports that an emeute occurred among the Chinese prisoners in the jail at that place, which was not suppressed before sixty-seven were killed and injured, including sixteen wardens of the jail.

New York, Feb. 15. A London dispatch has a report of a serious disturbance in Bethlehem, Palestine. The Greeks made an attack upon the quarter of the city inhabited by the Armenians and several on both sides were killed.

London, Feb. 16. The British steamer, George Batters, for Gibraltar, is supposed to be lost, with twenty-one persons on board.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Brattleboro, Vt., Feb. 15. The severity of the weather thus far this winter is unprecedented in the history of our oldest inhabitants. Sunday the thermometer stood at twenty-two degrees below zero, and this morning it was at twenty below, while to-night it indicated about the same temperature as it has for a week past. One weather reporter claims that for the last forty days the thermometer has averaged below zero daily. The ground is frozen to a depth of from three to five feet, notwithstanding a mantle of three feet of snow. Public and private houses are out of water, in the village, as well as the farmers all about the country, the latter, in many instances, being obliged to melt snow for their stock.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 17.—The mercury registered 18 degrees below zero here this morning; at Claremont it was 17 below; at Washington 20 below; at Plymouth 12 below, and Bristol 18 below. For fifty days past the average minimum temperature has been 3 1-7 degrees below zero.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14. The restless agitators and workingmen's leaders have carried their points, and have begun movements which may possibly result in a series of strikes in the larger manufacturing places of New England before spring. At Fall River the strikers have resolved to stand out until they get their demands, and their leaders have exerted their influence to such an extent that an extended strike has already begun in Taunton, and some trouble is anticipated in Lowell. At a large meeting at Fall River last night, the weavers resolved that if twenty-seven cents per cut is not forthcoming within a week work must cease in all the mills. In Taunton the strike began, as has already been stated on Friday. The superintendent of the Eagle Mills states that his operatives left the mill unceremoniously, making no statement whatever as to what they wanted. The Treasurer declares that he shall follow the lead set by the Fall River mills, and hold out indefinitely. He states that they have been paying twenty-four cents per cut. Meetings are being held in all the large mill cities, and contributions are being taken up from operatives at work for the support of those out on strike. At present nothing will be done, it is declared, by the mill owners, and they assert their ability to hold out until early spring, if necessary. It is confidently believed that so soon as the funds begin to run low, strikes will end. Meanwhile there is much suffering among the operatives out, and much dissension in their councils.

New York, Feb. 16. The weather is clear and cold, wind light from the northwest. No vessels passed through Hellgate yesterday either way. The ice in the East and North rivers this morning continues heavy, but it is broken up in such a manner as not to materially impede steam navigation. The ice blockade on Long Island Sound is complete. Yesterday afternoon at New Rochelle the ice was from eighteen inches to two feet in thickness, and during the day many persons walked out as far as Execution Light House, a distance of at least four miles. The transit to Huckleberry Island and City Island was readily made, and many skaters were seen far out on the sound.

Wagons were driven upon the ice to the oyster beds, holes were made, and the bivalves were put directly upon carts without the intervention of boats. From City Island to the Long Island shore a clear sheet of solid ice extended, and numbers of persons passed with safety. Ice boats and skaters flitted in all directions.

The steamers City of Hartford and Bridgport, bound to New York, were firmly wedged in early yesterday morning, and after several futile attempts to extricate themselves they quietly accepted the situation of their imprisonment, which will continue until a change in the weather occurs.

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 16. A sad accident occurred on the Lowell and Andover railroad, at Ballardvale, this morning at about nine o'clock, by which Rev. Mr. Lesserman, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at that place, was instantly killed. He had just left his home, and was crossing the railroad track, when he stepped on an adjoining track to allow a train from Lawrence to pass, not noticing the eight o'clock express train from Boston, which was at the time only a rod or two from him. He had no sooner stepped on the track than he was struck a fearful blow by the engine, and carried a distance of fully ten rods before the engine could be stopped, and along almost the entire distance fragments of his legs, arms, and other parts of his person were scattered. Mr. Lesserman, who had been pastor for this society at Ballardvale for some time, is said to have been an excellent pastor, and greatly esteemed. He leaves a widow and one child, who are inconsolable by their sudden and unfortunate bereavement.

St Louis, Feb. 16. A special from Topeka, Kansas, says: Near Helena, Colorado, on the 8th instant., thirty vigilantes went to the house of one Gibbs, and on his refusing to deliver himself up to be hanged, set fire to the house, in which were Gibbs, two women and several children. Gibbs leaped out through the flames with a revolver, and shot three of the party dead, and wounded another, when the rest fled. Gibbs had recently been acquitted on a charge of murder, and the vigilantes proposed to take summary appeal from the decision.

In Brief.

— A thousand-pound hog was killed the other day in Montgomery Co., N. Y.

— More snow is said to have fallen in France this year than for twenty years previously.

— A shocking case of suicide occurred at Nashua, N. H., recently. A man shot himself five times, reloading the pistol after each shot.

— For the first time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant Gloucester harbor is completely embargoed by ice, and the fishermen cannot discharge their cargoes. Fifty vessels are frozen in.

— Three children were burned to death in a house at McConnelsburgh, Pa., recently. The parents left the little ones locked into the house.

Notices.

NOTICE.—The Adventists of Newmarket, N. H., have formed themselves into a church, with the undersigned as its officers. Feeling deeply our utter helplessness without the Divine blessing, we ask the sympathy and prayers of all God's people for his blessing on the effort.

Elder J. L. Chute will supply us the first and third Sabbaths of each month. Brethren wishing to preach on the remaining Sabbaths, please correspond with Elder J. L. Chute, Pastor.

J. L. CHUTE, M. L. WHITEHORNE, } Committee.
M. L. WHITEHORNE, Treasurer.
J. C. MEADER, Clerk.

To the Brn. scattered abroad, greeting:—Who feel as we do, that time is short, and what we do must be done quickly, we once more propose to have a protracted meeting in Great Falls, N. H., commencing Wednesday, the 24th of Feb., and hold over the following Sabbath. And we want help. We can keep all who can come to work for the Lord. Let us make one more effort to turn sinners to God, and save some. There is no time to waste, and if we make a little sacrifice for our fellow men, we shall show them that we believe the doctrine we preach. Let us lay aside our side issues. Come with the armor on, and we will do all we can to make you comfortable. Brethren, in the ministry, come, and you who are young and feel the woe on you, come. Bro. C. S. Shattuck, or Bro. George Eastman will see that you have homes. For the people,

C. S. SHATTUCK.

CONFERENCE.—We have decided to hold our next Quarterly Conference at St. Johnsbury, Vt. This is on the Railroad, so as to be reached should the traveling be bad. We hope our friends from Canada, Northern and Eastern Vt., and Western N. H., as well as from other places, will make great effort to attend this meeting. Ministers and laymen, come. Send delegates or letters. The Conference will commence in evening of March 3d, and continue over Sunday. Business March 4th and 5th. H. F. C.

CONFERENCE.—The annual session of the R. I. and East. Conn. Conference will be held with the A. C. Church, Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., on the 3d, 4th and 5th of March, 1875. We expect churches to be represented by delegates, or letters, or both, and preachers in person. Do not forget to come. A. DURFEE, Chairman.

☞ TO THE BRN. IN MASS.

The Mass. A. C. Conference at its last annual session raised money by pledges and collections to buy a tent and put in the field. A committee was chosen to superintend the buying and running of the tent, and this committee are responsible men, and have done the best they could. They bought the tent and run it until the cold weather set in, and there is a debt on them of over $100. This they are owing to Brn. Boutell and Leslie—the two principal workers with the tent. Some of those that pledged have not paid. We hope brethren will send in the amount of their pledges at once; and we invite others that have the means to contribute to pay these brethren their due, as there is not quite enough pledged to pay the debt.

Bro. Boutell is sick, and the prospect now is he will have to lay by for a while and mend up. He has had sickness in his family also for some months, and he needs what is due him. Now, brethren, will you heed this call, and send me the sum of one hundred and ten dollars at once, so that I can pay these brethren their honest due. Send to C. GOODRICH, Boston, Mass., P. O. Drawer 5140.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the New Hampshire Conference will be held with the church at Rochester Village, commencing Wednesday, Feb. 24th, at 2 o'clock P. M., and will continue till Friday night, or over the Sabbath, if the interest demands it.

For the Com., E. A. STOCKMAN.

CONFERENCE.—The Third Quarterly Conference of the New York State A. C. Society will commence Friday evening, March 12th, at Springwater, Livingston Co., N. Y. We hope to see a large gathering of brethren and sisters present. Let every church in the conference report by delegate or by letter. Teams from the West at 11.30 A. M. and 6 P. M. From the East, 7 A. M. and 4.39 P. M.

M. R. MILES, President.
A. P. MOORE, Secretary.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The A. C. Churches of Northern Kansas, comprising the churches at Brantford, Clifton, and Sherman Centre, are cordially invited to meet in delegation with the A. C. Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co , Kan., on the 27th day of March, A. D. 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Quarterly Conference, in accordance with the usages of the A. C. Church. Brethren of like precious faith are cordially invited to meet with us.

F. O. CUTLER, Pastor of the Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Fourth Quarterly Meeting for the Eastern District of Wisconsin will be held at the White school-house of Webster's Prairie, three miles south of Dalton, Sauk Co., commencing evening, Feb. 26th, and hold over Lord's day. We would like to see delegates from all the churches in the district at the meeting. Preaching brethren are especially requested to attend. Let all come praying that the Lord may bless. E. P. GRAVES.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The next Quarterly Conference of Northern Pennsylvania and Southern New York will be held at Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Friday evening, March 12th, and continue over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Railway from Corning to Elkland, then stage to Westfield. E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Sec.

YORK CO. CONFERENCE.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its first quarterly session in Depot Hall, Steep Falls, Me., commencing Thursday, March 11th, at 2.30 P. M., and continue over the following Sunday. We desire to see all of our preachers in this County and vicinity at this meeting, also delegates from all our churches. Let those who cannot come report by letter.

C. H. SWEET, Sec.

WELLSBURGH, ERIE CO , PA.—By special request, a series of Lectures will commence in the above village, at such place as the friends interested may prepare and designate by public notice, on the evening of Tuesday, March 16th, 1875.
By request, G. W. STETSON.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a protracted meeting at Meredith Village, N. H., Thursday evening, March 4th, at Lake Hall. Come, brethren, and help in this meeting. D. F. LEAVITT.

NOTICE.—The brethren in East Killingly, Conn., have established a meeting and desire help. Any of the preaching brethren who can go there and labor by preaching the Word, will please correspond with Warren Taft, East Killingly, Conn.

NOTICE.—The brethren in Porter, Me., and Freedom, N. H., have arranged to sustain preaching one half the time. These places are near each other, and we unite our interests together and maintain but one meeting regularly, and we are very much in need of preaching. Will the Lord put it into the minds of some of his servants to come over and help us? Who will volunteer, and give notice in Crisis ahead for either of these places? We will meet them at Centre Ossipee, N. H., or Cornish, on their arrival, and do what we can to have them sustained, and to have the gospel preached to sinners. Will Bro. E. A. Stockman arrange to come sometimes? Here is a good field for labor, and a good congregation of attentive listeners, and through the blessing of God much good may be done. If any will heed this, please correspond with myself, or W. Sawyer, or J. S. Moulton. Address Porter, Me.

For the Brn., F. PHILBRICK.

REMOVAL.—Eld. J. Porter, believing a change to be profitable both to himself and the church in Danville, P. Q., of which he has been the Pastor for the last twenty-three years, has now removed to Montreal to labor in harmony with the church there. His address for the present will be No. 50 Perthius Street, Montreal.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.

WARREN J. HOBBS.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q., Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

NOTICE.—Having been pastor of the A. C. Church in this place (Nevada, O.) for nearly five years, and notwithstanding it is the desire of the church that I remain another year, yet I have felt impressed that it might be the will of the Lord that I should labor in some other field, as the way may open. I would therefore say to churches East or West, which may desire to have us locate among them, and labor for the upbuilding of the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners, that I will confer with them relative to this object, and if it should appear to be the will of the Lord, will make the necessary arrangements to do so at the expiration of my engagements here, which will occur on March 31st, 1875.

E. M'CULLOCH.

NOTICE.—C. C. Crossman, M. D., is at her home in Middleboro, Mass., suffering severely in consequence of an injury she received several weeks ago by slipping on ice.

Those wishing to correspond with the church at Raymond, Iowa, will please write to the following committee: Dr. B. Banton, Wm. Waterfield, W. S. Detrick. J. W. BURROUGHS, Pastor.

Those wishing to preach in Danville, P. Q., will please correspond with Wm. Barnard or J. Porter, Pastor.

Those wishing to preach in Oxford, Me., will please correspond with either F. Smith, Oxford, Me., or L. L. Twitchell, Norway, Me.

THE Advent Church in Wakefield having secured the services of Eld. Benj. Finney as their Pastor, all preaching brethren wishing to come there to labor, will please confer with him.

GEO. R. TYZZER, Clerk.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

Those wishing to labor with the Second Advent church of Hebron, N. Y., will please correspond with Warren Howard.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every afternoon and evening this week, and Sunday, Feb. 28th. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.
C. E. Barnes........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Wm. C. Stewart........Sunday, March 7th

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
I. C. Wellcome....Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th
Hiram Munger........Sunday, March 14th
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, March 21st

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
F. H. Burbank........Sundays, March 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th.

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
J. Couch........Sunday, Feb. 28th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Natick, Mass........Sunday, March 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Tremont, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Putnam, Ct........March 7th
Plymouth, Mass........March 14th
J. S. WHITE.

Vernon, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
H. PRATT.

Fairhaven, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Mattapoisett........Sunday, March 7th
New Bedford........Sunday, March 14th
Keene, N. H........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Gloucester, Mass........Sabbath, Feb. 28th
S. HALE.

Factory Village (if Bro. Kidder appoints) Friday evening, Feb. 26th.
East Concord........Monday, March 1st
Dover, N. H........Tuesday evening, March 2d
Great Falls (Franklin Hall)........March 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)........March 4th
South Elliot, Me........Friday evening, March 5th
Rye, N. H........Tuesday evening, March 9th
Seabrook, N. H......Wednesday evening, March 10th
Newburyport (if Bro. Pike appoints) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Lynn, Mass........Friday evening, March 12th
HIRAM MUNGER.

South Barnstead, N. H. (Clark meeting-house) Sunday, March 7th. C. S. SHATTUCK.

Melvin Village........Sunday, Feb. 28th
T. W. PIPER.

North Rutland, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 28th
GEO. A. STREETER.

South New Market, N. H. (Littlefield's Crossing) Sunday, Feb. 28th. ENOCH MORRILL.

West Deerfield, N. H........Sunday, March 7th
GEO. W. RANDALL.

New Milford, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 28th
MRS. E. L. CRUMB.

Levant, Me........Sunday, Feb. 28th
(Monthly Conference, Saturday, the 27th, at 1 P. M.)
Frankfort, Me........Sunday, March 14th
(Conference, Saturday, the 13th, at 2 P. M.)
F. A. BAKER.

Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Meredith Neck........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Newhampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Tuesday evening, March 2nd.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)...Wednesday evening, March 3d.
West Alton........Thursday evening, March 4th
Newmarket, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
Alton Corner, N. H........Sunday, March 21st
J. G. SMITH.

Farmington, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Palmer, Mass........3d Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Boscawen, N. H. (Gulf school-house)...Sab., Feb. 28th
Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, March 7th. SIMEON ROBY.

East Canaan, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Ellingwood Corner........Saturday, Feb. 27th and Sunday, Feb. 28th.
Hartford, Conn........Sunday, March 21st
Meriden, Conn........Sunday, March 28th
GEO. W. BROWN.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month
C. W. RATHBUN.

East Rochester, N. H........Sunday, March 7th
W. H. MITCHELL.

South Rochester, N. H........Sabbath, Feb. 28th
S. HAWKINS.

New Hampton (at Daniel Veasey's) Saturday evening, Feb. 27th.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)........Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. H. SHAW.

Hartford, Me........Sunday, Feb. 28th
South Windham, Me........Sunday, March 7th
J. T. JORDAN.

Morris, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Cheshire Street, Ct........Sunday, March 7th
G. L. WHITE.

Oxford, Me., Richville........Sunday, Feb. 28th
G. L. TRACY.

Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, March 7th
Franklin, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sunday, March 21st. G. H. WALLACE.

Waterbury, Vt........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Hinesburgh, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
A. A. HOYT.

Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDAN.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, March 28th
LEVI ALLEN.

Springvale, Me........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Alfred, Me........Tuesday evening, March 2d
Welchville, Me. (where Bro. D. H. Staples may appoint) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Oxford........Sunday, March 14th
Richville........Thursday evening, March 18th
Lewiston........Sunday, March 21st
Mayberry Hill, Casco (where Bro. Alonzo Mayberry may appoint) Tuesday evening, March 23d.
If any of these conflict, or if any wish for evening meetings on my way, please write me at Dover, N. H.
H. S. PINKHAM.

North Waterford, Me. (as the brethren may arrange) Sunday, March 14th.
Harrison, Me. (Woodsom school-house) Sun., March 28th. JARED WHITMAN.

Winsted (Good Templar's Hall)..Sunday, March 7th
A. E. ELLIOTT.

Wrightville........Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Unity, N. H........evening, Feb. 27th and over Sunday, Feb. 28th.
Dorchester, N. H........evening, March 6th and over Sunday, March 7th. (Baptism.)
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Barnard, Vt........Sunday, Feb. 28th
East Bethel, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
Camp Brook, Vt........Sunday, March 14th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Melbourne Ridge, P. Q........Sunday, March 7th
Dixville, P. Q. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, March 14th
Barnston, P. Q. (Perkins school-house) Sunday, March 21st.
Wayville, P. Q........Sunday, March 28th
Barford, P. Q. (Kinney school-house) Sun., April 4th
F. M. DRAKE.

Meredith Neck, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) evenings, March 2d and 3d.
Campton, N. H. (at Bro. Page's) evenings, March 4th and 5th.
Hebron, N. H. (McClure school-house) eve., March 6th, and over Sunday.
Unity, N. H........evenings, March 9th and 10th and over Sunday. D. EASTMAN.
JOHN H. EVANS.

Warren Summit, N. H........evening, March 20th and over Sunday.
Haverhill Centre, N. H........evening, March 25th and over Sunday. J. H. EVANS.

Holden, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Chicopee Falls, Mass........Sunday, March 7th
Fitchburg, Mass........Sunday, March 14th
W. N. PILE.

Brimfield........Sabbath, Feb. 28th
Westfield........Sabbath, March 7th
Montgomery........Sabbath, March 14th
Chicopee Falls........Sabbath, March 21st
Brimfield........Sabbath, March 28th
Granby (Batchelor Street)........Sabbath, April 4th
Montgomery........Sabbath, April 11th
Springfield........Sabbath, April 18th
Brimfield........Sabbath, April 25th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

West Deerfield........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Northwood Narrows........Sunday, March 7th
Northwood Narrows........Sunday, April 4th
Salem, Mass........Sunday, April 11th
C. R. PARSONS.

New Bedford......Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th
Springfield......Sundays, March 14th, 21st and 28th
Natick........Sunday, April 4th
Plymouth........Sunday, April 11th
E. OWEN.

Hollis Centre, Me........Sunday, Feb. 28th
C. H. SWEET.

Colebrook, N. H. (Court House) Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th, and evenings during the week intervening. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

East Concord, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Farmington Village, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 28th
WM. BODGE.

East Lancaster, N. H., Thursday evening, Feb. 25th and over the following Sabbath.
Hereford, P. Q. (Hall Stream school-house, near Bro. Hodges) Sunday, March 7th, and on as the Lord may direct. T. E. LANG, JR.

Patton, P. Q. (Garland school-house) Sun., Feb. 28th
Stewartstown, N. H. (Bare Rock school-house) Sunday, March 7th. U. G. LADD.

Warrensville, Lycoming Co., Pa........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Buffalo, N. Y. (523 Eagle Street) first Sunday in each month. JOHN T. ONGLEY.

New Haven, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Scitico, Ct......Sundays, March 7th, 14th, and 21st
New Haven, Ct........Sunday, March 28th
H. C. SMITH.

Rochester, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

PROF. H. LOOMIS will preach at Natick, Mass. (M. E. Church) Sabbath P. M., Feb. 28th. Subject—Saints' inheritance will be this earth, renewed.

Amesbury Mills........Sunday, Feb. 28th
South Newmarket, Me........March 5th
Great Falls, Me........Sunday, March 7th
Kennebunk Depot, Me........March 9th
Biddeford, Me........March 10th
Brunswick, Me........evening, March 13th and over the Sabbath.
Richmond, Me........March 20th and 21st
Belgrade Mills, Me........Sunday, March 28th
Mercer, Me........Sunday, April 4th
THOMAS RINES.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
J. M. Orrock........Sunday, Feb. 28th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, March 14th
J. Couch........Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
J. Harvey........Sunday, Feb. 28th
A. Ross........Sundays, March 14th and 21st
J. Couch........Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, April 4th and 11th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
S. G. Mathewson........Sunday, Feb. 28th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter........Sunday, March 14th
John Couch........Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer........Sunday, March 28th

CLINTON, MASS.
A. Ross........Sunday, Feb. 28th
J. Hemenway........Sunday, March 7th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
Hiram Munger........Sunday, Feb. 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
J. Whitman........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)...Sunday, March 7th
C. Cunningham........Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich........Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis........third Sunday in each month

NEWCASTLE, N. H.
Hiram Munger........Saturday evening, March 6th
S. Varney........Sunday, March 7th
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, March 21st
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, March 28th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Feb. 28th

SEABROOK, N. H.
John Parsons........Sunday, Feb. 28th
John Couch........Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh........Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons........Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Mooney........Sunday, April 11th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, April 25th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, May 2d
J. G. Smith........Sunday, May 9th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlain........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Hiram Munger........Sunday, March 7th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Feb. 28th
L. Boutell........Sunday, March 7th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, March 21st
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 28th

ROCHESTER, N. H.
Wm. C. Stewart........Sunday, Feb. 28th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, March 7th
L. Boutell........Sunday, March 21st

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
W. H. Mitchell........Sunday, March 7th
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, March 14th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, March 21st

BELMONT, N. H.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh....third Sunday in each month

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
S. S. Mooney........Sunday, Feb. 28th
J. W. White........Sunday, March 14th

KENNEBUNKPORT, ME.
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Feb. 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, Feb. 28th
G. L. Tracy........Sunday, March 7th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Geo. W. Sederquest........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Jesse Gay........Sunday, March 7th
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, March 14th
A. Ross........Sundays, March 21st and 28th

ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, March 7th
S. G. Low........Sabbath, March 14th
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, March 21st
Jer. Hill........Sabbath, March 28th

SPRINGVALE, ME.
J. R. Tripp........Sunday, Feb. 28th
L. W. Gowen........Sunday, March 7th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, March 14th
J. W. White........Sunday, March 28th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
O. D. Woodruff........Sunday, Feb. 28th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, March 7th
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 14th
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 21st
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 28th

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
S. Woodruff........Sunday, Feb. 28th and March 7th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, March 14th

YALESVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Feb. 28th

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven A. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Seventh Street, below Poplar.
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

Biddeford, Me., the first Sunday in the month. Hollis Center the second Sunday. Kennebunkport the third Sunday. Bonny Eagle the fourth Sunday, till further notice. JESSE GAY.

THERE will be preaching at Cabot, Vt., in the Advent Chapel, every Sabbath, at the usual hours, until further notice. E. N. MORSE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Alleghany, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CLINTON, MASS.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings, at Burditt Hall. Preachers will please correspond with Isaac Barnes, Clinton.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ CALEB RICHARDSON'S address is Salem Depot, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—Lucia Armstrong, J W Burroughs, S B Mabey Jr, N Glidden, Warren Tenney, J F Emerson, L Treat, T Parkins, C Wilder, Martha Eastman, J Norton, J S Maynard, H H Klock, A M Bancroft, C S Holman.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—C. F. Horne $12.00, Chelsea S. School $1.00, F A Rounds 30c, D L Kent 5c, Wm. Gatte 10c, L F Billings 5c, U Smith 20c, J P Smith 25c, J Smart 10c. Geo Hudson 25c, H Smith 5c, H Davis $1 87, L Mills 10c, J Bedient 35c, E Dodson 45c, H Warner $2 00, E Davis 25c, Mrs J Robinson 13c, L A Hart 10c, J D Merriam 80c, S F Leavitt 6c, P J Snyder 35c, H W Webster 35c, N G Jones 10c, J Blaisdell 10c, N Thompson 10c, J Blain 35c, S Clark 5c, J E Bodwell 88c, J C Clark 5c, Thos. Hargrave $1.00, J Benson 6c, D Campbell 5c, Mrs W Davis 27c, W H Peyton 10c, W B Stoddard $1.00, H. D. C. Aspen $1 00, T Wheeler 10c, W J Mackie 75c, W H Ball 5c, W S Hazard 5c, J S Fielding 10c, G W Barnes 50c, W M Palmer 5c, W S Bear 35c, E M Porter $1.75, N McCullock 10c, C J Pierce 30c, B F Ware 50c, C Axe 5c, Dr S R Breed $1.10, N H Lindley 37c, D A Dickenson 25c, S F Richardson 75c, L Ellinwood 10c, J Crosby 25c, N J Sade 5c, J N Hines 25c, E Slade 25c, S Baldwin 70c, C S Branch 55c, J H Stannard 40c, C W Low 29c, D S Young 10c, Jos Barton $4.85, D Shepard $3 86, Mrs R Seymour 50c, B F Blackman $2.00. G W Rathburn 25c, T Harrisor 65c, A French 35c, R F & M J Clark $25 00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—A Conklin, J Hemenway, I Ewing, D L Kent, W Gatte, F A Rounds, U Smith, H Smith, J Smart, J P Smith, G Hudson, A Warren Jr, H Warner, E Dodgson, J Bedient. L Mills, E Davis, L A Hart, Mrs. J H Robinson, S F Leavitt, J O Cortis, Carrie Barnum, P J Snyder, N N Thompson, J Blaisdell, N G Jones, W H Webster, J C Bodwell, J C Clark, S Clark, J Blain, J C Smith, R D Grant, J H Stannard, J Barton, A Cook, G B Coffman, H D C Aspen, W B Stoddard, J Benson, O D Woodruff, Thos. Hargrave, C S Branch, S Baldwin, E M Porter, B F Blackman, C W Low, G B Rollins, S F Richardson, Dr S R Breed, L Ellinwood, B F Ware, C Axe, N McCulloch, D A Dickenson, C J Pierce, J Crosby, W H Feyton, Mrs H Davis, D Campbell, T Wheeler, W H Ball, J S Fielding, W S Bear, W M Palmer, G W Maddox, G W Barnes, D S Young, Mrs R Seymour.
By Express—A P Moore, Eld J Hemenway.
By Freight—R F & M J Clark.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers fer the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.

HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.

SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
BY HENRY CONSTABLE, A. M.

We have this valuable work in its unabridged form of 330 pages, neatly bound in cloth, for sale. Price $1.00; postage, 16 cts.

THAT BOOK.
"History of the Second Advent Message, Doctrine and People."

This work is now ready for all. It contains the history of the rise and progress of the proclamation of the Second Advent of Christ, near at hand, from A. D. 1820 to the present time, in America, Europe, Asia, and Africa; with sketches of the great reformations accompanying it; of many of the chief pioneers associated with it; the great opposers, and their futile efforts to defeat the work. Records of its rapid progress, and of many of the remarkable manifestations of God's guiding hand in the work. Discussions, lectures, sermons, dialogues, and chief points of doctrine advocated by the various classes of believers in the Lord's soon coming.

Records and tables of the prophetic times of Daniel and John, as advocated by the chief Protestant writers, all of whom terminate the periods between 1836 and 1880. A sketch of Luther and his times, compared with ours. His portrait, and portraits of twenty Second Advent pioneers, with discourses on Daniel 2nd, 7th and 8th chapters, illustrated with fine wood cuts, with much other valuable matter.

Our subscribers will be supplied at prices agreed on when orders with cash (and 20 cts. for postage) are received. All who wish to buy the work will be supplied, postpaid, at $3.50. As our object is not to make money, but to have this message and its history go as far and as cheap as possible, we put it as low as we can. We have endeavored to make it a book that all who are really associated in this great movement will buy, and that real inquirers will think best to buy. The book contains 711 octavo pages, neatly bound in cloth, gilt side.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For sale at the Crisis office.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3.00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather. $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK.'
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history.
AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."

Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."

Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."

This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"

is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the

"Slaying of the Witnesses."

10 cts. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork. Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

LINES.

GEO. W. HOWARD.

I saw a watchman standing
With trumpet in his hand,
Upon the walls of Zion,
Awaiting God's command.
His eye with joy was beaming,
His brow with hope was crowned;
I heard him when he shouted—
For glory I am bound.

I said—My loving brother,
Go on your heavenly way,
For soon, if you are faithful,
You'll gain the eternal day.
I'm with you on this journey,
This narrow way pursue,
And then with all the faithful
There'll be a home for you.

Though scoffers round us thicken,
Our blessed hope is sure;
For Christ the Lord will save those
Who to the end endure.
The Bible tells us plainly
The end is drawing near;
We'll take his word for counsel,
And scoffers never fear.

The signal lights are shining
Along the heavenly shore.
The life boat on life's ocean
Will bear her voy'gers o'er,
To the eternal city,
Whose streets are paved with gold,
Where God to all the faithful
His glories will unfold.

O, blest, eternal city,—
The home prepared for me,
The home of all the faithful
From sin and sorrow free.
When shall mine eyes behold thee?
When will my Savior come,
And saints be made immortal,
And dwell with Christ at home?

'Tis there with all the holy
I'll share the heavenly rest;
For there the weary pilgrim
Shall lean on Jesus' breast
We'll cast our crowns before him,
Prostrate before him fall,
And hail him and adore him,
And crown him Lord of all.

Stowe, Me.

THREATENING CLOUDS.

The following passages in some of the speeches at the great meeting against Ultramontanism in Glasgow, show how observant thinkers foresee a great conflict impending.

Colonel Macdonald, the chairman, said: "We cannot forget that it was here we heard but a few months ago those remarkable utterances, which struck so sharply on the ear of Britain, from the present premier. Speaking in this hall of what he called 'the contest commencing in Europe between the spiritual and temporal powers,' he said, 'I think we ought to be prepared; the position of England is one which is indicated, if dangers arise, of holding no middle course upon these matters. It may be open to England again to take her stand for the Reformation which three hundred years ago was the source of her greatness and her glory; and it may be her proud destiny to guard civilization alike from the withering blast of atheism and the simoom of sacerdotal usurpation. If that struggle comes, we must look to Scotland to aid us. It was once, and I hope is still, a land of liberty, of patriotism, of religion.' Another statesman of modern days, as eminent as the present premier—I mean Lord Palmerston—said, not many years ago, that the day would come when we should again hear of religious wars in Europe. It seems as if they were not far distant. The forces are arrayed on each side, and no quarter will be given or taken. The banners display on our side the principles of order, of justice; on the other, of darkness, of error, of anarchy."

Rev. Dr. Begg said: "Great statesmen have lately hinted at the probability of approaching convulsions of intense magnitude in Europe. This has no doubt a reference to the probable struggle for the restoration of the Pope to his temporal supremacy. There is every reason to believe that the late Franco-German war, following on the declaration of Papal infallibility, arose from a desire to crush Protestantism in its mightiest Continental stronghold. The result, however, was in the gracious providence of God the very reverse. France was conquered, Germany was triumphant, and the Pope was ousted from his temporal dominion. The object of the Vatican is now to reverse all this, and so soon as there is a monarchy in France, or perhaps also in Spain, the restoration of the Pope to his personal sovereignty will probably be attempted by force of arms. This will be resisted no doubt by Italy and Germany, and will probably thus end in a European war. The Romanists over Europe have made a league of Sebastian, ready to take part in the bloody fray. Dr. Manning seems to glory and exult in the prospect of all this. He is reported to have said, at a meeting held in Willis's Rooms, London, on Jan. 25th, 1874: 'The excited antagonism of the nations of Europe is founded on a fact' (the temporal power of the Pope) 'full of consolations.' 'Instead of being alarmed, or scared, or discouraged, by the great sharpening of animosity, and the great massing together of antagonists, I look upon it as the most beautiful sign.' 'Now, when the nations of Europe have revolted, and when they have dethroned, as far as men can dethrone, the Vicar of Jesus Christ, and when they have made the usurpation of the Holy City a part of international law, when all this has been done, there is only one solution of the difficulty—a solution, I fear, impending, and that is, the terrible scourge of Continental war—a war which will exceed the horrors of any of the wars of the First Empire.'"

Rev. Dr. Wylie of Edinburgh said: "I have long felt and often said that when there would come the day of the Church of Rome's extremity, would come the day of our peril. It was easy to foresee that, so long as she was permitted to retain her temporal sovereignty, and the Pope was able to rank himself among the other crowned heads, that she would study to keep on something like good terms with the nations; but that, should she be stripped of all, and driven forth crownless and kingdomless, then woe to the nations: she would take a signal revenge. She may now be said to be stripped of all her temporal power, and brought down to what she was twelve hundred years ago, and now she plainly tells us the hour is come. For what? For wrapping her mantle gracefully around her and dying? No! She tells us that the hour is come for a stand-up fight, and that she will fight it out to the last. But you say that is madness. With what will she fight? she has neither army nor fleet. But the folly lies with those who believe in nothing that they do not see. Despite all the reverses that have overtaken her, the Church of Rome is still, as regards the sinews of war—as regards material force, the strongest confederacy on the face of the earth. If she can manage to raise Don Carlos to the throne of Spain, and the Prince Imperial to the throne of France, she will have the fleets and armies of at least two kingdoms at her service. But even failing in this, has she not the vast majority of the populations of these two kingdoms at her back? Has she not the majority even in Italy? Has she not fourteen millions in Bavaria? five millions in Ireland; millions more in Canada and the United States; millions more scattered up and down in Europe? Has she not, at a moderate calculation, some fifty millions which the doctrine of Papal Infallibility gives her the means of uniting into one phalanx; of setting in motion by a single hand, and of precipitating like an avalanche upon Christianity and liberty. Rome may well say to the Protestant, 'Hast thou seen the treasures of the hail which I have reserved against the day of battle and of war?' 'We shall soon see,' says the Voce della Verita, the organ of the Jesuits, 'all Christendom divided into two camps, on the one side the champions of Christ and his Church; on the other the servants of Belial. We shall pass,' continues that paper, 'through severe conflicts, but the history of eighteen centuries assures us of final victory.' I tell you, you have to do with a power capable of forming the boldest scheme—a scheme equal to the crisis that has come upon her, and which has the courage to execute it. You have to do with a power which slowly ripens her plans, bides her time, and then suddenly leaps out of the darkness to wrap cities in civil war, and kingdoms in revolution. It is a sudden and nameless peril of that sort that overhangs at this hour all Christendom, and our own country among others. All is now in peril; and though the fight may be a hard one, we cannot decline it save at the cost of accepting something harder still—of accepting revolution and ruin."

Very significant also are the recent words of the German Emperor to the Pope, where he says: "To my deep sorrow a portion of my Catholic subjects have organized for the past two years a political party, which endeavors to disturb, by intrigues hostile to the state, the religious peace which has existed in Prussia for centuries. Leading Catholic priests have unfortunately not only approved this movement, but joined in it to the extent of open revolt against existing laws. Similar indications manifest themselves in several European and in some transatlantic states. It is not my mission to investigate the causes by which the clergy and the faithful of one of the Christian denominations can be induced actively to assist the enemies of all law; but it certainly is my mission to protect internal peace, and preserve the authority of the laws in the states whose government has been intrusted to me by God. I shall maintain order and law in my states against all attacks as long as God gives me the power, even when, to my sorrow, I have to fulfil this royal duty against servants of a church which, I suppose, acknowledges no less than the Evangelical Church, that the commandment of obedience to secular authority is an emanation of the revealed will of God. Many of the priests in Prussia, subject to your Holiness, disown, to my regret, the Christian doctrine in this respect, and place my government under the necessity of extorting obedience to the law by worldly means."—Prophetic Times.

THE TRUE UNIONISTS.

I. I. LESLIE.

Much is now said and written about union. This has become the watchword of the world. Political men talk of union. Capitalists talk of union. Laboring men talk of union. Parties and societies of every name and kind, are for union. The church is for union—the different sects saying, "Let us have union."

The continual call for union is the greatest evidence that there is division throughout the world. The cry for union is, therefore, no proof that the world or church are united among themselves, or are approaching an union of their many divisions. Indeed it is not expected by them who talk most of union, that there will be a real union—one of faith and heart. The request for an union is only for some united action, with the object of thus accomplishing more effectually some temporal good, and worldly, individual benefit. When we turn and consider the union which the various divisions of the church talk of, we find it is not an union in faith and hope that they want. The church is not willing to drop one of its names, or throw aside any of its creeds, in order to have a true and real union of christian hearts and souls. There is no talk of coming together and giving up appellations, and thus losing their sectarian identity, becoming simply the followers of Christ. There has been no suggestion that all unite in one Lord, in one faith, and in one baptism; believing, preaching, and living out the one simple, plain gospel of Christ. There is no proposition for an union that involves a sacrifice of these: name, opinions, wealth and popularity. All these are to be retained, kept, preserved and held as a part, or at least an apendage, of religion. These cannot be given up; and an union that would require the sacrifice of these, is not called for, purposed nor advocated by any one. Union meetings and all union efforts among the sects, end as much towards strengthening the wall between them, as towards tearing it down. The glory of Christ in the conversion of men is not what is generally sought by union religious meetings. It may be true, however, that a "revival" is the object in view, but the object of the revival is oftener a selfish one than otherwise. Said an official member of a church not long since: "I go for an union with any one or all the churches in town, if we can only have a revival. Our church is all run down, and unless we have some new ones in soon, we shall have to shut up the house."

In the union protracted meetings of the present day, a worldly policy is oftener the motive than the salvation of souls. If the glory of Christ were the only object in these meetings, doubtless there would be real conversions of both professors of religion and worldly men, though there might be still the sectarian wall remaining. God does often bless what is done for his glory by men who are in error, and pursuing, unconscious, by a wrong course. But where selfishness, pride and worldly ambition prompt the action, his blessing is never obtained. Satan may counterfeit, and there may be a work which appears to be of God; but time and the result will show that the Divine Hand was not in it. Many such meetings have ended in a wider division of those who united in them than before existed. In dividing the proceeds of the "revival," there have been often dissatisfaction and jealousy, which before did not appear; and thus the "union" proved a curse instead of a blessing. Where there is not love, there can be no true union; and where there is love, there needs to be no effort made to unite. A great effort made to unite indicates the absence of love. If there were Christ-like love among the christian bodies, one toward the other, there would be really union between them; and however they might differ in their views with respect to portions of the gospel of Christ, they would not need to come to an agreement to worship together, or to labor unitedly for a season only. Such agreements and contracts for union clearly indicate the absence of true christian love, which unites without any circumlocution of words, or committee of arrangements.

To see christians, sanctified, professing holiness, making an effort to unite in the service of Christ, is what should cause astonishment. A sanctified and holy being will love all that God loves; and will be in harmony with all the good, and everything that is good. To talk of uniting God's people to him, or them to each other, is to suppose that they are not already united. There has ever been an union of them. Nothing can separate the followers of Christ from him, or them from one another. So long as they follow him they are united, and there is no necessity for any effort to make them one in heart or action. With them all is for Christ; his glory is their aim. They are not, and cannot be divided in this. They are one in all that pertains to the advancement of his cause here. In heart and hand they are ever united to labor for the salvation of the perishing. They wait for no preliminaries, but as opportunities present, together or separate, they work for Christ. Theirs is an union in him, and they need no human guide, manual nor discipline to point out their duty, and the work they are to do. The divine Constitution is before them, and its requirements they understand and are agreed in fulfilling. They need no motto carried over their heads to inform the world of their union; for being in Christ their union is seen and known by all. They require no badge to designate the society to which they belong. They are known as the followers of Jesus; and though despised, they are just what they are taken to be, and in them none are deceived.

But this society of unionists is small. It is, however, the most respectable and influential one upon the earth. It commands the respect of all heaven, and angels ask to be associated with its members. The objects and aims of this society are high and noble. Its members are all unselfish. No present, temporal benefit do they individually seek. The glory of their Founder, and the good of all men, they alone are aiming to secure. They covet no one's wealth; they ask no praise of the world. They mind not vain things; but to save, they condescend to men in the lowest conditions of life. They ask nothing for the blessings which they impart; nor for their labors for the fallen, wheresoever they are bestowed. They court not the society or favor of those the world call great; but they associate with the greatest and best upon the earth.

This society is the most permanent one in the world. It will outlive all others upon the earth, and exist when they shall have dissolved and disappeared. It is an immortal association. The principles which now unite its members, will unite them forever. There will be no dissolution of this association of unionists. The Founder of it is, himself, immortal, and each member is, ere long, to be made immortal like him. Then will the union be ever more complete than now. Though its work for the lost and perishing may cease, it will continue in perfect harmony, unbroken, undivided—the one great, universal union association forever.

Gems.

— Be always at leisure to do a good action; never make business an excuse for avoiding offices of humanity.

— Those who merely accumulate or preserve wealth are its servants; those who expend it upon themselves become its victims; those only who use it grandly are its masters.

— Pleasure must first have the warrant that it is without sin; then the measure that it is without excess.

— It is not essential that we should always possess conscious strength and courage; enough if we trust that they will be supplied in time of need.

— Prayer and praise are the lungs of a christian; by the one he draws in a happy life from heaven, and by the other he breathes it back to him who gave it.

— A true christian cannot be otherwise than kind to the poor and down-trodden of humanity.

— In regard to natural life, we live in God: in regard to spiritual life, Christ lives in us.

— Nothing but deep humiliation, being often at the cross of Christ, can keep the heart from pride and presumption.

— The time and talents bestowed upon us are to be used for the glory of the Lord who bestowed them.

— When we have found God, there is nothing worth looking for among men.

— We must row with the oars we have; and, as we cannot order the wind, we are obliged to sail with the wind that God gives us.

ALL THINGS NEW.

The world has grown old. The curse is here. Men grow old and die. The promise of the new life and of a new world are becoming old and the heart faints at the long delay. Yet the word seems more precious as the years go by. Man's life is short and the times of God are reaching far beyond human grasp. The vision tarries but the promise has gone forth, "Behold I make all things new." The old Paradise with its life-tree is seen restored in the visions of Patmos. The old heart which is given to sin must be made new; the old man must become a new man in Christ; the old heavens and the old earth will be changed to the new, and the Jerusalem now in weeds of mourning and clothed in garments of widowhood, shall become the bride, the Lamb's wife, and her days of mourning shall end. She shall become the new city wherein shall dwell the elect church in the spotless linen, which is the righteousness of saints.

The new heart, the new man in Christ, do not mean another heart and another man, but the same man is changed into the new. So with the old heavens and the old earth—and so it will be with Jerusalem the city of the great King. God's plan contemplates no waste in creation. The miracles did not involve new creations, but existing things were made to serve the power which acted upon them. So God will take the things which are, and from them shall come forth the blessed results foreshadowed in the divine promise and prophecy. "He that sat upon the throne said, Behold I make all things new." Not new things, but the things which are shall be renewed and made to shine forth in the glory of that day when the old shall cease and the new shall come. Blessed consummation! May divine love quicken the years and bring us to that morn when all things shall be made new!—The Restitution.

LINES

Written on the death of Willie, son of Bro. and Sr. Mix, Yalesville, Ct.

Willie's dead! that cruel tyrant
Has again our home bereft,
And the form of our beloved one
Now lies sleeping in the dust.
He, the joy of all the household,
We no more on earth shall see;
But by grace divine we'll meet him
When earth's shadows all shall flee.

Hasten, then, that glorious morning,
Blessed Savior, come, oh come;
Soon restore to us our lost ones,
And our blessed Eden home.
Then we'll meet our darling Willie
On that bright and peaceful shore,
And we'll clasp him to our bosom,
To be parted never more.

L. A. TYLER.

ASSURANCE.

A. RICHARDSON.

How blessed to feel the assurance in our own hearts that we are the Lord's; that he owns us as his dear children. It is worth more than worlds like this to me. I have not always felt this assurance. Failing to acknowledge the Lord in all our ways, and obeying him in all things, keeps us on the background; but when we turn to the Lord with our whole heart, and feel the need of his power to help us, he will hear our cry. He will lift upon us the light of his countenance.

It seems to me that I never realized the importance of being wholly the Lord's, of living every moment to the honor and glory of God, as I have for a few days past. In drawing nigh to God, he has verified his Word by drawing nigh to me. I feel his love in my heart at this time, prompting me to pen a few lines in honor of his dear name. The cold, half-hearted professor cannot realize these things in their true light. I know this by experience. When in this lukewarm state, there seems to be dark clouds between us and the Lord. We cannot see clearly. Sometimes we arouse a little; sometimes we almost wake up, and then we drop back to sleep again.

I have been a professor for many years. I have wandered in this wilderness state the most of the time, not knowing whether I was accepted of the Lord or not. I hoped I was. I never meant to give it up. I knew if I lost eternal life I lost all. But, thank the Lord, there is a better place for christians to live in. We may know how we stand in the sight of the Lord. If we do not know now, how can we abide the day of the Lord, or stand when he appeareth?

May the Lord help us all to seek to know his will concerning us; have our work done, ready for translation at any moment. It is only those that are ready that will go into the everlasting kingdom.

Correspondence.

From Sr. J. A. Goodrich.

Dear Pilgrims of like precious faith:—The Lord bless and be with you all. While reading Sister Weaver's article I felt sad. God only knows how much the poor suffering ones have to make them sad. I often think while we are passing through trials, that the children of God are to "come out of great tribulation." I do not expect to live without trials. Our blessed Master had them, and we must have them too. The saints in all ages have been tried; but, thank God, we have the blessed assurance that we shall have no trials greater than we can bear. I thank God from the depths of my soul that we have the privilege of glorifying our Master in tribulation and suffering. Nothing can disturb us while the mind is stayed on God. I have felt many times that there was not power on this earth to destroy my happiness in Christ.

I have never been called to pass through trials but what my heavenly Father has stood by me, and bade me look up and rejoice. O, thank God for the christian's privilege to rejoice at all times and in all places. The Psalmist tells us that "light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart"; and I know it is so. "Bless the Lord, O my soul! and all that is within me, bless his holy name." We feel justified by his grace. We read—"Great peace have they that love thy law, and nothing shall offend them." "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh his enemies to be at peace with him; and no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly."

How blessed it is to live at the feet of Jesus and learn of him. Our God is a never-failing friend; he knows all about us, and will do just right by us.

I was thinking this morning of his dealings with me in the past seven years, and I am led to praise him with all my heart; and I hope to praise him through all eternity. How glad I am that Jesus has gone to prepare a place for all his waiting ones. It is sweet to think that in a little while we shall lay down the cross and take up the crown. I am glad that I was ever enabled to bear the cross. If we have no cross, we shall have no crown; so let us be content, and feel that our cross will be no heavier than we can bear. I thank my heavenly Father that I have had strength given me to bear all that he has seen best for me. It would be wrong for me to complain, while a gentle Father leadeth me. He knows what is best for us, better than we do ourselves, and it is wrong for us to complain. I feel to-day that I would say—Father, do with me as thou seest best. I have no will of my own, but to glorify my Master. Blessed be his dear name; I will love him while he gives me breath, and when I am clothed with immortality I expect to praise him still.

New Britain, Ct.

From Bro. J. Y. Briggs.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—As I have not seen anything in the Crisis from this church for a long time, I thought perhaps some would be glad to hear from us, especially those servants of God who have visited us from time to time in the past. We are up among the mountains of Vermont, surrounded by skeptics. There is not a church of like precious faith within twenty miles. Here we stand as monuments of God's sparing mercy. About six years ago Bro. Geo. Stetson, now of Penn., organized a church in this place, consisting of fourteen members. We now number forty-five. Bro. Allen Damon, a man who shuns not to declare the whole counsel of God, has labored with us the past year. The enemies of the cross, like the ungodly Philistines, seem to despise the child of God when he unsheaths the sword of the Spirit. God help the preaching brethren, who visit this and all other places, to preach the Word, whether men hear or forbear. We are too near the judgment to listen to any syren song, or daub with untempered mortar. We want "Thus saith the Lord" written upon our banners, and then we can move without fear.

God help you, dear brethren and sisters, to try the spirits of these last days, and may we meet in the paradise of God, is the prayer of your Bro. in Christ.

Bridgewater, Vt.

From Bro. Geo. A. Streeter.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—I have just returned home from a five weeks tour. I have visited various churches in Vermont; have spoken twenty-three times, and have found the people standing very well. All seem to be looking for our blessed Lord to come, to make all things new.

He is coming. Signs show this clearly. It is very important that we are all ready for his appearing. My heart is in the work. Men are going down to destruction; and oh, if one word could be spoken that would attract their attention! Let us be up and doing; work while the day lasts; soon the angel will say, "There shall be time no longer." Yes, very soon. Look over the past, examine the present, and see if all is right. Remember that "Holiness" must be our motto in this world. Now is the time to prepare. "They that were ready went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut." No salvation after that. Then "they that are holy will be holy still; and they that are filthy will be filthy still."

I am so glad we are almost home. Dear ones, be of good cheer; only a little while longer, and we will rest. Ye sick and sorrowing, tried and tempted, look to Jesus; cast all your care on him; be faithful; endure unto the end, and you shall be saved. God bless you all. Pray for us.

No. Dana, Mass.

From Sr. C. C. Bragg.

Dear Brethren:—I often think when reading articles in the Crisis that I will contribute my mite to its columns. I do not feel that I could well do without it. I fear sometimes I am too slothful, and too ready to excuse myself from writing anything for it. I believe time is short, and all the lovers of Jesus, with the best good of our fellow beings in view, should be engaged in every good word and work.

I have a great desire that all who have the management of our paper may have wisdom from above to direct, that it may be a paper that we need not be ashamed of, or hesitate to put into the hands of any saint or sinner. I pray that no one that contributes to its columns may be accused of any unwise or inconsistent opinions, that shall mar the beauty and consistency of what we believe, or the doctrines we so much love. The Lord has called us to peace. O, that we may be examples of piety, in word and deed, is my prayer.

Ferrisburgh, Vt., Jan., 1875.

MEN OUT OF THEIR PLACES.

There is a place for every man; his own proper place, where he ought to be. God has designed him for it, and it belongs to him, and to no one else, and every man may know and find his place if he will. It must be his sincere desire to be in his place, and he must go to God heartily praying, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? Where wilt thou have me to be? Let him surrender his own will to God's will, and God will lead and guide him; and he shall make no mistake.

And it is a blessed thing to be in one's own place. God will be with him here. He will cheer, and strengthen, and sustain him. He may have trials; but he meets them in the path of duty, and God's grace is sufficient for him. The same compassionate God, who was with Daniel in the den of lions, and with the three Hebrews in the burning fiery furnace, will not leave him, nor forsake him. Being in his own proper place, he may go to God with confidence, and he shall be comforted and supported. He shall be joyful in all his tribulation.

There is a place for every man, and God intended each to find and to fill his place. The trouble is, most men aspire to places they cannot fill. They want to be presidents, commodores, or captains, when they are only fit for the ranks. Some want to be poets or painters, when they are only prosy pumpkins. He is the happiest man who finds the place he is fitted to fill, and fills it well, however humble it may be. The one who knows himself, his faults, and how to overcome them—his virtues, and how to increase them—who knows the uses and abuses of the organs of mind and body, and exercises them in the fear and love of God—is the happiest man.—Illustrated Annual.

THE TWO PLANKS.—A preacher wishing to explain to his congregation what a dangerous delusion those persons are in who seek salvation, partly from their own works and partly from the righteousness of Christ, said to them: Suppose it is needful for you to cross a river, over which two planks are thrown. One is perfectly new, the other is completely rotten. How will you go? If you walk upon the rotten one, you are sure to fall into the river. If you put one foot on the rotten plank and the other on the new plank, it will be the same; you will certainly fall through and perish. So there is only one method left. Put both feet on the new plank.

Brethren, the rotten plank is your own unclean self-righteousness. He who trusts in it must perish without remedy. The new plank is the eternal saving righteousness of Christ, which came from heaven, and is given to every one that believeth in him.

SPEAK KINDLY TO THE ERRING.

Speak kindly to the erring;
Thou yet may'st lead them back,
With holy words and tones of love,
From misery's thorny track.
Forget not thou hast often sinned,
And sinful yet must be,
Deal gently with the erring one,
As God hath dealt with thee.

HOME AND HEALTH.

DIZZINESS—ITS CAUSE AND PREVENTION.—"What is the cause of sudden attacks of dizziness, and how can they be prevented?"

The condition existing in cases of dizziness is an unnatural pressure of the blood upon the brain. The exciting causes are usually some sudden exertion or hurried motion, as rising quickly from a recumbent position, stooping, etc. Unaccustomed motions, as sailing, swinging, walking circularly, riding backward, etc., often occasion it, even in healthy persons. The predisposing causes are either such as produce an undue thickness or viscidity of the blood, as torpidity of the excretory organs, particularly the liver, and excessive alimentation, thinness of the blood and weakness of circulation, as hemhorhage, an insufficient quantity of food, protracted disease, etc. The preventive treatment should be such as to restore the blood to its normal condition and equalize the circulation. Where the blood is thick and impure, the diet should be very plain and simple in quality—composed largely of fruit—and abstemious in quantity. Active out-door exercise and a thorough course of bathing are also indicated. Where the opposite condition exists, the indications are to nourish and strengthen the body, and equalize and invigorate the circulation. To this end the patient should have an abundance of pure air, as much nourishing food as can be digested and assimilated, and a moderate amount of daily exercise.—Herald of Health.

HOW MUCH TO EAT.—One of the questions oftenest asked me is: "How much shall I eat?" It is a question which each one must answer for himself. The best general guide in this matter, is to avoid eating enough to make you feel dull and sleepy, or to produce any unpleasant sensations in the head or stomach. If such feelings are experienced after meals, you may know you have eaten too much, and that you must eat less thereafter. If, as is the case with many persons, you cannot control the amount in any other way, and stop when you have eaten enough, you should measure out the amount you are going to eat, and put it upon your plate before you begin, and never allow yourself to be tempted to take anything more. There is very little danger of not eating enough. There are such cases, but however, they are confined to the class of persons who lead a sedentary, in-door life. If such persons will change their mode of life, and take as much out-door exercise as they are able to, their appetite will return, and they will soon eat a sufficient quantity.—Herald of Health.

HYGIENIC POWER OF THE SUN.—Sleepless people—and there are many in America—should court the sun. The very worst soporific is laudanum, and the very best is sunshine. Therefore it is very plain that poor sleepers should pass as many hours of the day as possible in the sunshine, and as few as possible in the shade. Many women are martyrs, and do not know it. They shut the sunshine out of their houses and their hearts; they wear thick veils; they carry parasols; they do all that is possible to keep off the subtlest and yet the most potent influence which is intended to give them strength and beauty and cheerfulness. Is it not time to change all this, and so get roses and color in our pale cheeks, strength in our weak backs, and courage in our timid souls? The women of America are pale and delicate. They may be blooming and strong, and the sunlight will be a potent influence in this transformation.—Mass. Ploughman.

OVER-STUDY.—"What is the best treatment for nervous irritation and debility induced by over-study?"

First of all, stop studying and let the brain rest. Secondly, call your muscles into action by such forms of out-door exercise as may be most practicable in your case, and are best suited to your strength and general condition. Exercise as much as you are able every day, but guard against over-doing, and increase the amount of exercise as your strength increases. Live upon a plain, unstimulating diet, drink nothing but water, and avoid all nervous excitement so much as possible. Mental rest, physical exercise, pure air, sunshine, bathing sufficient for cleanliness, and pure water, are your remedies.—Herald of Health.

PRECOCIOUS CHILDREN.—Experience has demonstrated that of any number of children of equal intellectual power, those who receive no particular care in childhood, and who do not learn to read and write until the constitution begins to be consolidated, but who enjoy the benefit of a good physical education, very soon surpass in their studies those who commence earlier, and read numerous books when very young. The mind ought never to be cultivated at the expense of the body; and physical education ought not to precede that of the intellect, and then proceed simultaneously with it, without cultivating one faculty to the neglect of others; for health is the base, and instruction the ornament of education.—Spurzheim.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE, Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, for any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM," Boston, Mass.

P. O. Address of Preaching Brethren.

Massachusetts.

J. Couch—Chelsea. L. Boutell—Chelsea.
C. E. Barnes—Crisis Office, Boston.
C. Goodrich—No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston.
I. I. Leslie—Crisis Box 355, Boston.
J. S. White—28 Saratoga Street, East Boston.
S. G. Mathewson—No. 51 Wachusett St., Worcester.
J. Hemenway—Westfield, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Hyde Park.
H. F. Carpenter—Fitchburg.
L. T. Cunningham—Newton Upper Falls.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford.
S. S. Brewer—122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford.
S. S. Mooney—Salem.
H. Pratt—Springfield, 146 Cedar Street.
W. N. Pile—Springfield.
J. R. Boynton—North Carver.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana.
D. Churchill—Lowell. A. Bean—Lowell.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro.
Benj. Finney—Wakefield.
H. H. Tucker—Palmer.
Geo. L. Teeple—Westfield, lock box 170.
Elam Burnham—Hamilton.
S. S. Brazee—Westfield.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—71 Maxfield St., New Bedford
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver.
Porter J. Smith—Southbridge.
Rufus Baker—Warren.
Geo. W. Burnham—Newburyport.
S. Julia Buswell—Gloucester.
Roland D. Grant—Box 615, Stoneham.
Caleb Richardson—Wakefield.
D. M. Leavitt—Haverhill. Box 799.
J. W. Bridge—Lawrence.
Geo. A. Cole—Baldwinsville.
Mrs. E. A. Warren—Dalton.

Maine.

I. C. Wellcome—Yarmouth. R. R. York—Yarmouth.
S. K. Partridge—North Whitefield.
C. H. Sweet—Steep Falls.
H. D. Reed—Bath.
H. S. Mitchell—Bowdoinham.
Jer. Carr—South Albion.
C. S. Shattuck—Berwick.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills.
C. Goud—Topsham.
Jesse Gay—Saco.
Thomas Rines—Mercer.
J. Albert Libby—West Poland.
Geo. W. Weeks—Hallowell.
J. R. Hall—Weeks Mills.
Jer. Hill—Goodwin's Mills.
J. T. Jordan—West Poland.
E. M. Haggett—Livermore.
F. A. Baker—Levant.
Jared Whitman—South Paris.
H. B. Sevey—Mt. Vernon.
M. W. Corliss—Milltown.
Wm. H. Mitchell—Kennebunkport.
J. R. Tripp—Alfred.
Austin W. Taylor—Harrison.

New Hampshire.

A. Ross—East Concord. R. Morrill—E. Concord.
Enoch Morrill—South Deerfield.
A. Simpson—Concord.
O. W. Kimball—Concord, P. O. Box 492.
N. C. Twombly—Strafford Centre.
J. H. F. Varney—Rochester.
D. N. Chadsey—Colebrook.
Wm. C. Stewart—Exeter. Wm. M. Harmon—Exeter.
Daniel Eastman—East Canaan.
C. H. Locke—Laconia.
J. H. Bartlett—Alton.
T. E. Lang, Jr.—Meredith Village.
E. S. Moulton—Whitefield.
A. Gordon—Landaff
E. A. Stockman—East Rochester.
C. R. Parsons—South Barnstead.
Wm. Bocge—Barnstead Centre.
John B. Paine—Suncook.
Mrs. L. E. Saulpaugh—Goffstown.
H. S. Pinkham—Box 1066, Dover.
C. S. Emerson—Pittsfield.
Charles Garfield—Colebrook.
J. L. Chute—Newmarket.
John H. Evans—Laconia.
E. B. Wells—North Hampton.
J. T. Chamberlin—East Rochester.
Levi Allen—Lake Village.
Wm. H. Shaw—Holderness.
Joseph Kimball—Unity.
E. Owen—Portsmouth.
N. B. McMurphy—Gilmanton.
C. H. Fletcher—Newport.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport.
N. Wheeler—Sugar Hill.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426, Concord.
Simeon Roby—Warner.
D. F. Leavitt—Loudon Ridge.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village.
J. G. Smith Farmington.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth.
N. Glidden—Meredith Center.
G. H. Wallace—Hebron.
John B. Deering—Lower Bartlett.

Vermont.

Wm. L. Himes—Castleton.
H. K. Flagg—Rutland.
Allen Damon—Bridgewater.
Israel Damman—Bridgewater.
J. C. Wright—St Johnsbury.
M. A. Potter—St. Johnsbury.
Milo Durfey—Worcester.
J. A. Cleaveland—Morrisville.
I. K. Lombard—Burke.
O. Beckwith—West Fairlee.
A. A. Hoyt—Plainfield.

Rhode Island.

J. W. Thomas—121 Transit Street, Providence.
J. T. Dixon—Rocky Brook.
D. O. Hopkins—North Foster.
B. Roberts—Knightsville.
E. Cotton—Anthony.
M. F. Plettenlace—Providence.
A. Durfee—Richmond Switch.
E. B. Straight—Watchemoket.
Edwin R. Wood—Exeter.

Connecticut.

William J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley.
P. S. Butler—West Woodstock.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford.
W. S. Campbell—New Britain.
D. V. Corey—East Killingly.
F. H. Bruce—Rockville, Box 244.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted.
A. H. Steele—126 Franklin St., New Haven.
H. Davis—Abington.
S. Woodruff—Unionville.
Alba Bellows—Abington.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb—Forestville.
B. S. John—Wolcottville.
Z. Dubois Baird—West Haven.
J. L. Wood—New Milford.
G. L. White—Bristol.
Dr. Samuel Willis Trent—Middlebury.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville.
E. Bellows—South Killingly.
B. Hitchcock—Bristol.

New York.

D. Cogswell—Dansville.
A. W. Sibley—Sandy Hill.
Wm. A. & M. L. Durand—Saratoga.
A. P. Moore—Linden, Genesee Co.
J. B. Cook—Brooklyn.
Wm. Ingraine—East Penfield, Monroe Co.
Chas. F. Greenman—Lockport, N. Y.
J. H. Lutterton—Carlton, Orleans Co.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester.
S. D. Deyo—North Grace, Monroe Co.
Jas E. Welles—Ontario, Wayne Co.
C. F. Sweet—Albion, Orleans Co.
Warren J. Hobbs—Springwater.
C. W. Low—Fredonia.
M. M. Miles—Wolcott, Wayne Co.
A. C. Newell—Darien City.
C. H. Williams—West Martinsburg, Lewis Co.
B. F. Stevens—South Butler.
C. W. Baker—Stanban.
C. Pike—Massena Centre.
Mrs. E. S. Jennings—Rochester, 74 Williams St.
Mrs. L. M. Stoddard—Lockport.
Anna S. Smith—229 South 5th Avenue.

New Jersey. S. P. Babcock—Malaga.

J. H. Waltmore—803 11 St. N. W. West Washington, D. C.

Pennsylvania.

G. W. Stetson—Edenboro.
Geo. A. Brown—1715 Wharton Street.
John T. Quigley—Waynesville, Lycoming Co.
G. W. Smith—Eagle P. O., Warren Co.
Wm. Stuart—1814 Vineyard Street, Philadelphia

North Carolina.

P. G. Bowman—Lydia. A. Simpson—Lydia, Darlington Co., care of P. G. Bowman.

Ohio. F. Burr—Norwalk. E. McCulloch—Nevada.

Indiana.

R. H. Scott—Scottsville, Floyd Co.
Dr. N. Field—Jeffersonville.
N. J. Winchell—Kingsbury, Laporte Co.
Dr. G. H. Case—Wheaton.
Dr. J. W. Warman—Muddy Fork P. O.
G. W. Green—Box 15, Memphis, Clark Co.

Delaware. C. Mendenhall—Wilmington.

Illinois.

S. E. Mabey—Amboy. D. S. Clark—Amboy.
O. D. Gibson—Clayton.
L. F. Cole—Toulon, Stark Co.
H. G. McCulloch—366 West Lake St., Chicago.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland.
E. H. Burrington—Genoa.
C. W. Smith—Bristol.
Geo. W. Hurd—Hoppers Mills.
H. H. Davis—Earlville.
N. N. Spencer—Waterman.
L. C. Collins—Norwood Park, Cook Co.

Michigan.

Dr. D. Mathewson—Buchanan.
J. B. Preston—Kinderhook.
James Ferris—Buchanan.
A. N. Seymour—Buchanan.
George Wright, Jr.—Lexington.

Alabama. J. A. Cargile—Stevenson, Jackson Co.

J. J. Smith—Long Island.

Iowa.

Peter S. W. Deyo—Charles City, Floyd Co.
Ambrose H. Eggleston—Parkersburg.
M. A. Newcomb—Traer, Tama Co.
J. Ridley—Manchester.
Dr. M. Chase—Maquoketa, Jackson Co.
J. W. Burrough—Raymond.
P. W. Hough—Fairbank, Buchanan Co.
H. C. Willoughby—Jefferson, Green Co.

Wisconsin.

Wm. Sheldon—Brodhead, Green Co.
N. McCulloch—Fennimore, Grant Co.
George Thomson—Prairie Du Sac.

Minnesota.

D. R. & M. S. Mansfield—Minneapolis.
Philip Kamer—Winona.
S. W. Thurber—Minneapolis.
Wm. Sweet—Elba, Brown Co.
Thos. K. Allen—Winona.
Peter Mitteau—Elliota, Fillmore Co.
Ruth M. Nowell—Winona, Box 1037.

California. Thomas Howell—Off Taylor, near Geary Street, San Francisco. D. D. Reed—Santa Clara.

Florida. C. W. Connolly—Jacksonville.

Nova Scotia. N. H. Reed—Shag Harbor. F. Albert Verge, Belle Air, Halifax. J. M. Tozier—Bear River. Wm. Kellaway—78 Newgate St., London, Eng.

Canada. U. G. Ladd—Coaticook, P. Q. R. G. Chadsey—Cowansville, P. Q. F. M. Drake—Richmond. L. C. & M. McKinstry—Coaticook, P. Q. C. P. Dow—Magog, P. Q.

Kansas. J. C. Smith—Arvonia, Osage Co. E. N. Bliss—Glen Elder, Mitchell Co. J. S. Thorp, Jay Em, Republic Co. N. J. Sade—Stockler, Mitchell Co. P. W. Rote—Endora, Douglas Co. R. F. Clark, Peach Creek, Washington Co. Mrs. R. F. Clark, do. F. L. Cutler, do. H. R. Haines, Clifton, Washington Co. Daniel Webster, Arvonia, Osage Co. Orson Lewis, Neo. Lawrence, Douglas Co. Virgil Hunt, Wellington, Summer Co. Aaron Preston, Burlington, Coffee Co. James Peck—Mons Centis, Dickinson Co.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1008. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 21.

The World's Crisis, AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER, Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

GEO. T. ADAMS, TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE EVENING BRINGS US HOME.

Upon the hills the wind is dark and cold,
The sweet young grasses wither on the wold,
And we, O Lord, have wandered from thy fold!
But evening brings us home.

Among the mists we stumbled, and the rocks
Where the brown lichen whitens, and the fox
Watches the straggler from the scattered flocks:
But evening brings us home.

The sharp thorns prick us, and our tender feet
Are cut and bleeding, and the lambs repeat
Their pitiful complaints—oh! rest is sweet
When evening brings us home.

We have been wounded by the hunter's darts;
Our eyes are very heavy, and our hearts
Search for Thy coming—when the light departs
At evening, bring us home.

The darkness gathers: through the gloom no star
Rises to guide us. We have wandered far—
Without Thy lamp we know not where we are:
At evening bring us home.

The clouds are round us and the snow-drifts thicken:
Oh! thou, dear Shepherd, leave us not to sicken
In the waste night; our tardy footsteps quicken:
At evening bring us home.

—Shadow of the Rock.

WHAT CONSTITUTES THE VISION OF DAN. EIGHTH CHAP.? AND WHEN DID IT COMMENCE?

L. T. CUNNINGHAM.

That these questions are highly important at the present time will be conceded by all who appreciate prophetic inquiry. In seeking a solution of them we shall endeavor to be guided by the Word and Spirit of God.

First, we shall state the location of this "vision," as recorded; this we find to be at Shushan, the capital of Persia. Daniel had this "vision" near the close of the empire of Babylon, while there a captive. Daniel says—"I saw in a vision, and it came to pass when I saw, that I was at Shushan in the palace, which is in the province of Elam [or Persia]; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river Ulai." Daniel could not have been personally in the palace of Shushan, because, at the time he mentioned ["the third year of the reign of Belshazzar"], the Persian empire was not founded; and there could be no palace at Shushan before the Persian empire had an existence; but he was carried forward in time, as John the Revelator was. See Rev. 17: 3. Here John saw things several centuries future from his day. So Daniel saw events to transpire some eighty years subsequent to the time he saw this vision. Says Dr. Gill: "As Ezekiel, when in Babylon, seemed in the visions of God to be at Jerusalem, so with Daniel; not in reality, but so it seemed to him in the vision, to be at Shushan."

Some historians say that Shushan became the royal seat of the Persian kings from the days of Cyrus. Others, as Pliny, that it was built by Darius Hystaspes. Thus we see that it was many years after Daniel saw this vision that Shushan became the capital seat of the kings of Persia. The kingdom of Media was already a reigning government when Daniel had this vision, and had been for more than a hundred years; therefore it would appear that there was no necessity for Daniel to have been carried forward into the future, to note events to transpire under Persian rule, if the vision covered the Median dynasty the same as the Persian.

The "ram" that Daniel saw is interpreted by Gabriel to represent the kingdoms of both Media and Persia; and as Daniel was carried forward in vision many years after the Median kingdom had been swallowed up by the kingdom of Persia, it follows that what constitutes the vision proper must relate to Persia, and commence from some event that took place at Shushan, the place where Daniel was conveyed in vision. At this place the prophet sees "a ram standing before the river." This attitude at first is that of quietude,—nothing apparently disturbing him,—with "two horns" already "high," but "one higher than the other, and the higher came up last" (verse 3). This verse is merely descriptive of the Medo-Persian empire, at the time when king Ahasuerus made a release (or rest) to the provinces. See Esther 2: 18. This was when the empire was in a state of peace.

The next event Daniel sees is that of the "ram pushing" in three directions. He that shortly before stood so quietly before the river is now aroused to action as by some sudden occurrence; and this "pushing" appears to be an unnatural pushing; it is that no living might stand before him. This is a different pushing from that for conquest and subjugation. The phrase "no living" corresponds to the language ascribed to the "three ribs" in the "mouth" of the Persian "bear." "Arise, devour much flesh." Dan. 7: 5. The similarity of expression between the two verses of Dan. 7: 5, and 8: 4, is very significant. The bear "raised up itself on one side" (or, "it raised up one dominion"—Mar.). The Medes never had dominion over other nations, but the Persians had. Cyrus said—"The Lord God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth." Ezra 1: 2. So the "higher horn" of the "ram came up last"; it was more elevated than the other. After the bear on its Persian side was elevated, the three ribs in its mouth call upon it for sudden and peremptory action,—"ARISE, devour much flesh." Thus the "ram" from its quiet attitude before the river Ulai suddenly commenced the work of "pushing," that no living "might stand before him."

It is idle to tell us that this pushing was the military expeditions of the Medes and Persians for conquest. The language employed in v. 4 does not admit of it; because the Hebrew word ghah'y, rendered in our version "beasts," cannot properly apply to kingdoms, but applies to life or living;—"living soul," or "living creatures," etc., etc. Another reason why it cannot apply to kingdoms is because it contradicts historical facts, as has been proved already in the past discussion of this subject. If this pushing "westward, northward and southward" was against kingdoms, for conquest and subjugation, then the statement of the prophecy, "neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand, but he did according to his will," etc., would seriously conflict with known facts of history; for as we have stated already, the Medes never arose to obtain any great dominion, but were severely defeated, and almost entirely reduced, first by the Assyrians, and then by the Scythians; thus they did not do "according to their will." The Persians also were defeated in several of their expeditions, as history abundantly testifies; for Cyrus' army was terribly defeated by the Scythians, and lost two hundred thousand men; so also was Darius and Xerxes, especially Xerxes, in his great expedition against Greece. As success did not attend their arms in many instances, but often serious disaster, this, we think, could not be doing "according to his will." Having proved that this "pushing" could not be against kingdoms, it can refer only to that sudden and unparalleled movement against the Jews, so vividly described in the book of Esther. This "pushing" was designed to utterly exterminate the Jewish nation; exactly corresponding with the prophetic utterances in Dan. 8: 4, and 7: 5. And "Shushan the palace" was the very place from whence this awful decree was issued,—the very stand-point from which Daniel saw the vision of the eighth chapter. Here the vision commences and runs through the remaining history of the nations of earth.

No one will question but that Daniel saw the ram in vision, as also the goat with the four horns, after the breaking of the first or the "notable horn between his eyes," and then a "little horn" that came out of one of the "four winds of heaven," that "waxed exceeding great." The characteristics of this "little horn" are visibly set forth and described. All these several parts named, constitute the vision proper. This is what Daniel "saw in vision." The remaining part is the divine explanation of the several parts which he saw.

The length of this vision is 2300 symbolical days, or a day representing a year; thus the 2300 years are given in answer to the question of an holy angel that inquired of Palmoni, or "the wonderful numberer," as to how long this vision was to continue; or paraphrased thus: How long shall the ram, the goat, and the little horn, tread under foot the sanctuary and the host? Now as these several symbols are interpreted by Gabriel to represent the Medo-Persian empire, and the Grecian, and kingdom of fierce countenance (i. e., the Roman empire), this period of 2300 years must measure their duration from some point in the Persian empire, for the following reasons:

1. This period could not begin with the Median dynasty, nor in any period of its history; because the Medes were not the oppressors of the people of God, nor did they tread under foot the holy land, or the sanctuary. The kingdom of the Medes was contemporary with the Assyrians; and who does not know that it was the Assyrians that were the first great oppressors of Israel—that invaded their land and carried off the ten tribes into captivity? As the powers that Daniel saw in vision were to "tread under foot the sanctuary and the host" the time specified, and as Media did not do this work, therefore the vision did not commence in any part or period of the Median dynasty.

2. It could not embrace any period of the Babylonian empire, because the vision does not include it; and, moreover, it was near the close of this empire when Daniel saw this vision, and also the Jews were at that time captives in Babylon, and not captives in Media, although Media at the time Daniel saw the vision was an independent kingdom. In a very short time after, in conjunction with the Persians, they overthrew Babylon; and then, in the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, instead of the Persians at this time "treading under foot the sanctuary and the host," they issue a decree that the captive Jews should no longer be oppressed, but should be released from their captivity, and Jerusalem be rebuilt; therefore the vision must date at some event subsequent to this time,—some marked event, specially noted in history, of a character that agrees with the language of the prophecy; i. e., with the idea of "treading under foot."

The only event that has the proper characteristics agreeing with the prophecy was that unparalleled and sudden movement of the kingdom of Persia, in the twelfth year of Ahasuerus (or Artaxerxes Longimanus), to destroy the entire Jewish nation. "And I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward, so that no living [soul] might stand before him. . . . But he did according to his will," etc. Here no "living soul" (as the Hebrew word ghah'y signifies) was to be suffered to live of the Jewish nation,—old, young, and little children, all to be slaughtered in one day.

3. It is a significant fact that the Heb. word ghah'y is in the feminine gender; also in the plural; which proves that the pushing of the ram does not refer to military expeditions; for then the word would have been in the masculine gender. The Jewish church and nation is represented and recognized in the Scriptures as "daughter," and "wife," "mother" and "sister." As, "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion, . . . for behold thy King cometh unto thee," etc. See Isa. 54: 6; also the book of Samuel and Ezekiel, 23d chap. The plural form refers to Judah and Israel, the capitals of which were Jerusalem and Samaria.

These facts, in connection with the fact that this "pushing" was for the destruction of life, and not for conquest, for extermination, not for subjugation, prove conclusively that it can apply to nothing else but to that movement in the Persian empire—a plot devised by Haman, an Amalekite, for the destruction of the Jewish nation. See Esther chap. 3. Thus the 2300 prophetic days must commence in the twelfth year of Artaxerxes Longimanus, apparently in B. C. 426. Artaxerxes Longimanus granted Ezra a commission in favor of the Jews in the seventh year of his reign (the very year he married Esther), also one to Nehemiah in the twentieth year. In this latter case, when Nehemiah was presenting before the king the sad condition Jerusalem and his people were in, and making his request, etc., it is stated that "the queen was also sitting by the king," which could have been no other than queen Esther, and that it was through her favor that Nehemiah obtained his request. Although in his twelfth year the same king signed their death warrant, yet it is evident he was deceived by some strategem of Haman; for when the king became conscious of the awful nature of the plot of Haman, at the banquet of Esther, he exclaimed in utter astonishment—"Who is he, and where is he, that durst presume in his heart to do so?" And then his quick disposal of Haman—hanging him upon the gallows that Haman had prepared for Mordecai, and then elevating Mordecai to fill Haman's official position, and doing all that he could consistent with the laws of the empire to neutralize the former decree—proves that he had been misled, either under the influence of wine, or some other strategem of Haman's; all of which conclusively shows that neither the Persians nor Artaxerxes were enemies to the Jews, but that the whole thing had been brought about by the device of an alien, a wicked Amalekite and his supporters, they constituting the "three ribs" in the mouth of the bear. Dan. 7: 5. Read also the 83d Psalm. God had purposed the extermination of the nation of Amalek. See Ex. 17: 14, and Num. 24: 20.

When the time had come that this remnant of that nation, represented by the "three ribs" in the "mouth" of the "bear," sought again the destruction of Israel and Judah, God turned their wicked device back upon their own heads, and vindicated his word, as he always will. He did not suffer this remnant of the Amalekites to be delivered out of the hand of the king of Persia. Thus Persia "became great," according to the true estimation of greatness.

As the ninth chapter of Daniel is but a supplement to the eighth, therefore the seventy weeks there declared to be cut off from the vision of the eighth chapter, to restrain the transgression, refers to the fact that Persia would be restrained from executing that awful decree instigated by Haman, and that none of the subsequent powers would be permitted to destroy the Jewish nation till the seventy weeks were accomplished, although several attempts were thus made by them. The word rendered transgression is in the plural; thus showing that Persia, Grecia and Rome would be restrained until the four hundred and ninety years were completed. But near A. D. 65, the restraint was removed, and then the Romans desolated that nation, as all history testifies. From the foregoing evidence it is apparent, that what constitutes the vision of Dan. 8, as related to the 2300 prophetic days, can only embrace the events in the history of the nations from the "pushing" of the ram, in the twelfth of Ahasuerus, and thence onward through the remaining events of the Persian empire, and the history of Grecia with its four divisions, and then the history of the "kingdom of fierce countenance," or the Roman empire, in its Pagan and Papal character, until Rome is "broken without hand," and "the sanctuary is justified."

Now the "vision" must commence near B. C. 426, as that date agrees with the 12th year of Ahasuerus, according to several considerations; only one of which we will now state. The "seventy weeks," or 490 years, as given in Dan. 9: 24, is a period that was cut off from the 2300 years (the length of the "vision" in the 8th chap.), upon Jerusalem and the nation of the Jews; through which period the "transgression" would be "restrained" from desolating the Jewish nation and their city Jerusalem. And as A. D. 65, apparently, is the date when the "restraint" was removed, and their desolation commenced by the Romans, this proves that the 490 years ending in A. D. 65 must run back to near 426 B. C., as the commencement of that period, and also as the commencement of the 2300 days, or years.

In concluding this article touching these great facts drawn from the Scriptures and history, while it is evident beyond doubt that we are on the very threshold of the day of God, we cannot fix upon the definite day, or positively the year, for the coming of Christ. But we do say that we expect developments this very year on which we have entered, that will shed more light on prophetic chronology, and show more clearly our whereabouts on the coast, before entering the harbor of eternal rest and glory.

A word now to those brethren that are unduly positive on the "definite time." Do not discard one line of prophecy, or give it a wrong application in order to sustain another; for this will certainly mislead you, although you may be ever so sincere. Both will be in harmony when rightly interpreted. We believe the Eastern movement will come before we see the Lord. Let us be ready. Amen.

TRINITY AND TRINE IMMERSION.

WM. SHELDON.

One error is often founded upon another; but two errors never make one truth. As there should be an adaptation of things to their surroundings, when one error has been invented, another one has often been manufactured to fit the first.

This is specially true of the trinity theory—that great error which disturbed the tranquility of the church at so early a date, and so soon became the predominant faith, and ultimately became the chief corner stone of Catholicism. When this theory triumphed over truth, and took the field, its twin sister "trine" was introduced; for when the theory of three Gods in one person, or three persons in one God was introduced and received, it was easy to introduce the theory of three immersions in one baptism; and thus one error was made to prop up another error.

As some are liable to be misled by the claim that history shows that trine immersion was practiced at a very early period in the history of the church, we here call attention to the fact that every early witness on this point invalidates his testimony by a joint plea for that erroneous theory of the trinity so in conflict with the Bible; and when this is observed, the fact will be apparent to all that one error paved the way for another one; and furthermore, it will be noticed that it is no more strange that trine immersion got into the church so early, than that another great error should have got into the church even earlier, and become the basis of trine immersion. Let us look at the testimony of some of the earliest witnesses claimed to prove trine immersion, and thus learn that they were trinitarians, and therefore changed baptism into a threefold institution to harmonize with the theory of three Gods in one person, or three persons in one God, by making three dips in one baptism. It began with a perversion of the Savior's commission, "Baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." The expression, "In the name of," signifies, In behalf of, or, By authority of; just as in the marriage ceremony, when I pronounce two persons man and wife in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost—that is, by their joint authority.

It is sometimes said that the Greek term eis rendered "in" signifies into; and so it does often; but often does not, for more than a score of times it is said that certain ones "believed in (eis) Christ;" besides "eis" is not the only term used when speaking of baptism; for Peter said, "Be baptized every one of you in (epi) the name of Jesus Christ" (Acts 2: 38), in the same sense that it is said, "Repentance and remission of sins should be preached in (epi) his name" (Luke 24; 47); and certainly Peter and Christ do not clash. Christ's ambassadors both preach and baptize in his name, or by his authority. If Jesus had only said, baptizing them in the names of, instead of saying in the name of, the claim for trine immersion would have been more plausible; but as it is, there is no excuse for it, except to fit this trinity theory; thus perverting an ordinance to harmonize with an error.

1. It is claimed that Justin Martyr, about A. D. 140, advocated trine immersion; so he did the erroneous theory of the trinity: "After the confession being made, the candidate was thrice plunged under water at the naming of the three persons in the blessed trinity." If this testimony is worth any thing in favor of trine immersion, it just as strongly proves that great error of the trinity correct. The theory of three persons in one God harmonizes well with the claim for three dips in one baptism, being thus one third baptized in the name of the Father, one third in the name of the Son, and one third in the name of the Holy Ghost." If it takes three dips to make one baptism, as it is claimed, then the trine immersion administrator proclaims what is not true, three times over to each candidate, in saying, "I baptize thee in the name of the Father, then plunges the candidate into the water just once, thus having only one-third baptized him in that name, if it really takes three dips to make one baptism; then he tells him that he baptizes him in the name of the Son, plunging once more, which is only one-third of a baptism in this name, if it requires three dips to make one baptism; then he tells the candidate that he baptizes him in the name of the Holy Ghost, plunging only once in this name, which is only a third of baptism if it requires three dips to make one baptism.

With this view, in order to have the candidate baptized in each name, instead of being only one-third baptized in each, the adminstrator should three times plunge in the name of the Father, three times in the name of the Son, and three times in the name of the Holy Ghost, or nine times in all. This is a fair conclusion if the assumption that it takes three dips for one baptism is correct, else they are only one third baptized in each name. And this conclusion invalidates the baptism of each trine immersionist, and hangs the same condemnation over his head that he hangs over the head of the single immersionist; and such should be plunged six times more before troubling others, and henceforth cease advocating trine immersion, and commence advocating nine immersions, or triple baptism, and clash with Paul who advocated simply "one baptism" as an ordinance.

2. It is claimed that Tertullian advocated trine immersion about A. D. 202. So he did that great error of the trinity. He said: "We receive the water of baptism not merely once, but three times, at the naming of each of the persons in the holy trinity." So he here couples the trinity error with trine immersion, showing that if this great error had already crept into the church, it is not surprising that baptism had been corrupted to harmonize with it. It is now claimed by trine immersionists that baptize is a frequentative verb, and that therefore the word itself demands more than one dip, and scholars are referred to in support of this claim. All there is to this argument grows out of an early view that the term baptize has a broader meaning than merely to submerge, but involves also the idea of emerging—submerging and emerging being deemed the full signification of baptism—and this claim has been perverted to favor trine dipping. Going down under the water (submerging), and coming up out of the water (emerging), fitly emblemizing burial and resurrection; and thus we have baptism into Christ's death—a "likeness of his death" (not of his dying but of his death as a state), and and also "the likeness of his resurrection; but to go through all this three times would entirely spoil the figure; for Christ was not buried three times; nor was he resurrected three times; besides, neither the Father nor the Holy Ghost ever died at all, then why baptize at all into the name of the Father or Holy Ghost, in the likeness of death and resurrection, instead of baptizing them in their name, or by their authority, into Christ's death? By this joint authority of, or in behalf of Father, Son and Holy Ghost, we are baptized into Christ's death, or "planted in the likeness of his death"—not in the likeness of his dying, but the death that he was resurrected from, a state of being dead. The reference often made to Christ's bowing his head when dying, will not help trine immersionists out of the dilemma, for he did not bow his head three times, so if they substitute the likeness of his death, they should dip but once, as he bowed his head but once; besides, on this hypothesis, he would have to unbow his head to form a "likeness of his resurrection;" furthermore, his resurrection was not from dying, but from death as a state; so the "likeness of his death," expressed by baptism, being the death that the resurrection liberates from, cannot refer to the act of dying, but to death as a state, in the grave.

3. About A. D. 300, while a controversy was going on between Eunomeus and his friends on one hand, and the trine immersionists on the other hand, the great charge brought against Eunomeus who practiced single immersion for baptism, was that "he denied the doctrine of the trinity;" thus showing that trinitarianism and trine immersion were wedded together, while the advocates of true baptism rejected the theory of the trinity. Let all those who insist that it takes three dips to make one baptism, in order to be in harmony with early apostacy, also accept the conclusion that there are three persons in one God.

4. It is claimed that about A. D. 300, Theodoret held to trine immersion. Yes; but in his protest against Eunomeus, who held to one immersion for baptism, he clearly shows why he held to trine immersion, namely, because he was a trinitarian; for he said that Eunomeus taught "that men should not be baptized with three immersions, nor with the invocation of the trinity." That shows why he was wedded to trine immersion; the way had been paved by his receiving the trinity error, while those who did not receive that error respected trine immersion.

5. It is claimed that Jerome, about A. D. 380, advocated trine immersion; but his testimony shows that his faith in the theory of the trinity led him into this error: "We are thrice dipped in the water that the mystery of the trinity may appear to be but one." Again he says: "Though we be thrice put under the water to represent the mystery of the trinity, yet it is reputed but one baptism." Is it any more surprising that the early church should corrupt baptism in this manner, than it is to suppose they would thus early drink down the theory that God was his own Son, and that Christ was his own Father, and that they should insist that baptism was for the purpose of representing this very error of trinitarianism? Is it any more surprising that they should pervert the mode of baptism, than to thus pervert its signification, in making it represent the trinity? To correspond with the theory claiming that there were three persons in one God, it was easy to make three immersions of one baptism. While it is a significant fact that the early advocates of trine immersion coupled that theory with the doctrine of the trinity, it is also worthy of notice that the opposers of the doctrine of the trinity rejected trine immersion. These two theories, trinity and trine immersion, went hand in hand for a long time, and both gained ascendency in the church for a while; but the practice of sprinkling holy water got into the church ten years before trine immersion did. If the antiquity of error is a just plea for its endorsement, why not sprinkle holy water on the congregation now?

6. About A. D. 595, Arius, who opposed the trinitarian theory of three persons in one God, and substituted the equally erroneous theory of three Gods in three persons, completely turned the tables on his trinitarian friends, insisting that as there were three distinct persons in the Godhead, there should be three distinct baptisms, one in the name of each distinct person, recognizing each dip as a whole baptism, instead of one third of a baptism, claiming that three immersions "denoted a distinct substantiality of the three persons in the trinity;" so he turned the argument against their trinitarian theory, and claimed the three immersions as an argument in favor of his own theory, making each immersion a distinct baptism; and for a time the battle waxed hot between his friends, the Arians, and the trinitarians; and for awhile the Arians came near triumphing. Their theory underwent some changes, and has been unfairly represented by their enemies.

7. Says the Britanic Encyclopedia: "This triple immersion was a very ancient practice in the christian church, and used in honor of the Holy Trinity." That tells the whole story; the doctrine of the trinity preceded the theory of trine immersion, and the two were yoked together as harmonious errors.

8. The "Dictionary of Arts and Sciences" says: "Trine immersion was a very ancient practice in the christian church, and used in honor of the Holy Trinity." Here again it is made an appendage to the trinitarian error; and not a trace of trine immersion can be found early enough to precede this great error; and when it crept into the church, it was under the claim of honoring three persons in one God, and hence was practiced by three dips for one baptism.

9. Dr. Cramp thus speaks of trine immersion: "This was first mentioned by Tertullian, about the beginning of the third century, and is continually referred to by other writers for several centuries afterwards. Jerome, for instance, (died A. D. 420,) says: 'We are thrice immersed that there may appear one sacrament of the Trinity.'" And so the evidence accumulates that trine immersion cannot be found early enough to precede the introduction of the trinity error, and the two errors were companions. They both crept into the church about the same time, and neither of them ever had any right there. These two errors of ancient date, are of near kin, and belong to a bad family, who led the bulk of the church, step by step, into Catholicism. This mystery of iniquity began to work secretly even in Paul's day, and presently after began to crop out in the theory of the trinity, paving the way for trine immersion, and at an early date the apostacy overtook the church, and error predominated. Almost any error can be proven by the early history of the church this side of the second century, as well as trine immersion, even to the ultimate salvation of the devil himself; some errors, however, being more generally endorsed than others.

So far we have simply referred to quotations, often adduced to prove trine immersion, and find them clearly demonstrating the fact that trine immersion was interwoven with the erroneons trinity theory at every step for several centuries, and the argument that will sanction the one, will indorse the other. Had it not been for this early error, the theory of trine immersion would never have been invented. Historic facts, as well as Bible facts, clearly prove that single immersion preceded trine immersion, which we will not present in this connection; but for ourselves, we care to know simply what the Bible says about it, for that is always right, while history often records prevailing errors for truth.

If the Bible says that baptism is the "likeness" of Christ's death, and also "the likeness of his resurrection" from that death, no matter if history does say that was to represent "three persons in the trinity," since Christ was never buried in death three times, nor resurrected therefrom three times. If the church could so early mistake the signification of baptism, it is not surprising that trine immersion so soon took the place of gospel baptism, for a time. But we candidly submit that those who insist that it takes three dips to make one baptism, should cease telling their candidates that they baptize them in the name of the Father, &c., unless they dip them three times at the calling of each name, or nine times in all; for according to their own claim, one dip is only one third part of baptism; and it is not right to tell a candidate you "baptize" him in the name of the Father, when you only one third baptize him in that name, and one third in the name of the Son, and one third in the name of the Holy Ghost. Baptism in the name of the Father should be performed by three dips just as certainly as it takes three dips to make one baptism, for Jesus did not say, Immersing them in the name of the Father; but baptizing them.

THE BIBLE.—Blessed Bible! Its value none can tell. The Holy Bible is the christian's chart. It says Jesus is the Lifegiver, and it points to the many signs declaring that he will not be long from his people, and that they are in such danger that the days must be shortened. It tells us that Moses chose to suffer with the people of God, having an eye to the recompense. Paul would endure all things, for he expected a crown when the Lord from heaven should appear; and not Paul only, but all such as love his appearing will receive one. We love, long for, and plead for a continual preparation for the soon coming of Christ, the Lord of light, life, and glory. Let those having no part in him hasten to him; make no delay; time is short; what is done must be quickly done. Amen. MRS. J. FOSTER.

AS ROWERS in a boat turn their backs to the shore, and trust to the man at the helm, so should we proceed in duty through life,—turn our back from our anxious cares for the future, and leave the guidance of them all to God, who guides the helm.

"ALL ONE IN CHRIST."

H. PRATT.

There may be Jew and Gentile in the flesh, but all are one in Christ. "We, being many, are one body." Rom. 12: 15. We are neither Jew nor Gentile, male nor female, bond nor free, in Christ; for all are one. How wicked it always seemed to have two christian churches where one would have accommodated all. But then, Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists must all be represented; so three steeples must appear in almost every country village. Ministers even would find an apology for this, supposing division to be healthful. But this was not enough; there must be subdivisions among them—Old School and New Presbyterians; Episcopal and Free Methodists. But we thought this could never be among Adventists. Baptized into one body, by the one Spirit, we thought they must be one. But alas! poor weak human nature! In an evil hour while men slept the devil sowed tares, and though the wheat appeared, the tares also appeared. Sure it was the work of an enemy. Ministers who had labored with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, who had seen the travail of their souls and were satisfied, were doomed to hear that such and such whom they had begotten by the Word of truth, whom they loved as their own life, could not come to their ministration, as there had been a division, and there were now two meetings in the place, and these attended the other meeting.

I do not wonder that Moses broke the two tables of stone when he saw the people dancing around the golden calf that Aaron had made. I almost wonder that he ever tried to get any more commands to be given to those "rebels." But this even was a trifling matter compared with these ungodly divisions among Adventists, professedly looking for the coming of Christ. These things ought to cease.

THE SCALES FALLING.

In Springfield, Mass., where the cause has been bleeding for years by division, a new era seems to be dawning. The old path of oneness, unity in Christ, apparently is being sought out. God help to find it. And if unity in Christ can be effected in Springfield, among Adventists, then why not in other places? The following from the Springfield Republican of Feb. 13th, 1875, is the true outlook for to-day:—

"It is well known that, of late years, the sect of Adventists has been broken up into sections, there being three of these represented in this city, known as 'old-school Adventists,' 'age to come Adventists,' and 'non-resurrectionists'; and the same division has existed throughout the denomination, to some extent. Recently, however, a movement has taken place in this city toward the union of these different branches for evangelical work, which reached its conclusion, last evening, in the formation of the Springfield Adventist Union, composed of the old-school and age-to-comeists, the others holding themselves aloof, for the present, but with some prospect of eventually coming in."

FAMILY PRAYER.

A. RICHARDSON.

What a privilege to bow around the family altar, and unite our voices together in supplication to the throne of grace! Taking up this cross has an influence over our daily life. It is a source of great strength to the christian. These devotions become a delight to us. But if we neglect them, there is a feeling of dissatisfaction. We know we have not done our whole duty.

I love this religion that we can enjoy at home as well as at places of worship. Sometimes I think, How could I be denied this precious privilege? and yet for years I lived in neglect of the duty of family prayer. To any one who may read this, that has not taken up this cross, I would say, May the Lord trouble you as he did me, give you no peace until you attend to this important duty, and the reading of God's Word.

What a privilege to have God's Word to read! Sometimes I think, Can it be possible that these promises are for me? Can I ever be worthy to go in through the pearly gates into the New Jerusalem, and walk those golden streets? Christ says, "Whosoever will, may come;" and that means me. In and of ourselves we can do nothing; we are perfect weakness; we cannot merit salvation. No, it is not by works. Eternal life is the gift of God. We can, by taking heed to his requirements, by doing his will, be saved in his kingdom. May the Lord help us all to live where it is our privilege to live, do his whole will, abide in him,—that when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

Sugar Hill, N. H.

DEATH-BED REPENTANCE.—I don't ask you to take my poor words about the brevity and uncertainty of life. Ask any commercial man whose kind of business necessitates that he calculate the length of human life—ask him in his business what he thinks of the uncertainty of human existence. "Oh!" says some man, "I shall repent on my sick bed." Will you? The last sickness, as far as I have observed, is generally divided into two parts. The first half of that final sickness is spent in the expectation of getting well, in the discussion of doctors and the different kinds of medicine; the last half in delirium, or in stupidity, or a consternation which prohibits religious thought; so that I take it for granted that the poorest place on earth for a man to repent of sin and prepare for heaven is on his death-bed.—Talmage.

SO LONG as men are asleep in sin, they have no heart, no living voice for God; but when the bright sun appears, and the warmth of Christ's love wakes up the heart, then comes the song of praise to the Redeemer. The very nature of the newly awakened heart, is to burst forth in praise and gratitude.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, March 3, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOS he send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

THE ROMAN JUBILEE.

Roman Catholicism is a triple compound of Paganism, Judaism, and Christianity. Its creed and ritual are borrowed from Babylon, Jerusalem and Calvary. Its great object was to harmonize men in one communion, and so they gave it the name of the Catholic (universal) Church. To accomplish this grand object they attempted to establish a theological platform upon which all the leading classes of worshipers could stand, and each class feel that they had not given up all their cherished and endeared observances. Therefore, the worshipers of Baal must be charmed into the field by giving them cannonized men and women to worship, and chapters of Platonic theology in their creed.

To gain the Jews and all Judaizers, they incorporated sections of Moses' ritual, which had been superseded, and made null and void by the gospel of Christ, so as to make them think that they had not altogether given up Moses for Christ, but had met their dissenting christian brethren on a common level; neither having yielded fully to the other. To accomplish this they blended type and antitype, and gave us Jewish sacred time blended with christian sacred time; confounding tables of stone with tables of the heart.

By this policy we get a presiding High Priest (the Pope) for the christian church, to take the place of Aaron and his successors at the head of the Jewish church. We also get the Roman Jubilee to take the place of the Mosaic year of deliverance. The Roman church at an early date established their Jubilee, in harmony with the Mosaic ritual, to be observed every fiftieth year. These festivals were made seasons of bountiful donations to the church; and as she became extravagant in her worldly adornments and expensive equipage, the Popes needed more money; and to obtain it they reduced the jubilee periods from fifty to twenty-five years.

The last jubilee, according to this arrangement, fell on the year 1850; but it could not be celebrated, says Pius IX, "on acsount of the troublous times." Another quarter of a century has passed, and it becomes due the present year, 1875. The "troublous times" still continue, with increased severity, upon that church; but, notwithstanding this, the Pope has issued his Encyclical, proclaiming 1875 a year of jubilee. The Pope expresses the great object of this celebration thus: "We have never omitted, during the course of our Pontificate, to call upon christian people to appease the majesty of God, and merit the mercy of Heaven, by holy acts, works of penitence, and the pious offices of suppliants."

He acknowledges in this the absence of the "mercy of Heaven," and the presence of God's wrath, and entreats all the faithful to obtain that mercy and have that wrath "appeased" by "holy acts, works of penitence, and the pious offices of suppliants." But the trouble of that church, and the apparent absence of God's mercy to her, consists in the fact that she has lost her power to dictate the civil rulers, and persecute with fire and sword dissenters to her creed. If the possession of such power was a merciful dispensation to her, for her holiness, and a manifestation of God's approval of her exercise of it, then the Holy Father's argument is valid that "holy acts and works of penitence"—mighty efforts to commence with this jubilation, will manifest the restoration of that mercy by restoring the power of dictation and persecution.

The Pope further explains these troubles, when he says—"Sad overthrow of human and divine rights." And this overthrow of the rights of the Papacy, which has been taking place for the last seventy-five years, is made the plea for the celebration of the Jubilee this year; consequently its object is to restore the church to the position she occupied when she dethroned kings and put to death those who dared to dispute her divine right to reign supreme. If the Pope does not mean the "overthrow of rights" to exercise temporal power, what does he mean? He has all the ecclesiastical power he ever had. He can mean nothing but rights to control the civil and religious world, according to his own arbitrary will. We can look upon the coming Jubilee, therefore, in no other light than a concentration of effort by the Jesuitical party to fully restore the Pope to the power his predecessors exercised during the dark ages.

This festival is, therefore, a matter of no small importance. It involves the physical and moral power of about two hundred millions of the human family, who are better united and more thoroughly drilled, so as to produce a more harmonious action, than any other class of the same number in the world. They are the richest class in Christendom, and are so distributed among all the christian nations, that they can become a mighty power by concentrating themselves; and they can also wonderfully weaken all the nations, being so largely represented in every department of those governments, legislatures, armies, fleets and forts.

We do not profess to know, outside of what they have published, the ultimate design of this Jubilee; but from what the Pope has said in his proclamation, and from all their movements and declarations relating to the subject, and the rapid and extensive preparations being made by the opposing parties, we feel justified in thinking that it may become the dividing wedge to bring the antagonistic armies of the last battle into fatal conflict.

This Roman feast may have been prefigured by those connected with the downfall of Babylon and Jerusalem. Those cities, their government and worship, were the prototypes of Apocalyptic Babylon—Rome—and their overthrow and destruction is in many places made typical of the destruction of the harlot power at the "seven-hilled city.

When the time drew near, according to the appointment of God, for the Persian army, marshalled and led by Cyrus, to dry up the waters of the Euphrates and open the two-leaved gates, the king of Babylon proclaimed a national feast to all the representative men of his world-wide dominions; and while they were engaged in blasphemous revelry, worshiping the deified spirits of dead men, the finger of God wrote the imperial death sentence upon the palace wall, and the golden sceptre fell to rise no more.

When the ancient people and city of God had filled the prophetic mold, and the peace and glory of Jerusalem must end by limitation, the Roman army, led by the foretold "prince," invested the doomed city while the rebellious Jews were celebrating a national "feast," and they plunged into famine, defeat and death. They saw the curling flames wrapping its mantle of destruction around their beautiful temple, and heard the groans of an expiring nationality. Those nations had each been alarmed by God's threatening predictions against them, and they were made to tremble by the manifestation of his wrathful providences; but they had in their estimation passed the most dangerous point in their struggle for continued national existence, and were glorying in their prospect of triumphant independence. This was the cause of their jubilant rejoicings at their last feasts, which terminated in their death scene.

We do not profess to prove from the prophecies that Mystic Babylon's coming Jubilee is positively foretold, but we do understand that those nations and cities were made prototypes of the Mother of Harlots, and did shadow forth much of her characteristic history; and we can see clearly that there is a wonderful coincidence between their last national feasts and this Roman Jubilee.

God's prophetic Word has been preached and published for many years through the Roman dominions, setting forth its final destruction, just as it was published at Babylon and Jerusalem. While that message has been sounding her death-note, armies and nations have been marshaling to forever silence her boasting and dictation of kings; but she has recently arisen in the might of her great power, and counted her loyal millions, and reckons herself well able to defend her position as Mistress of the world in the "Eternal City."

Under these significant circumstances, this last part of the wonderful drama represented in the typical pictures, the proclamation for a national Roman feast—a Jubilee—is made. There is now a Cyrus and a Titus—Victor Emmanuel and Count Bismarck—at the head of predicted armies, all marshaled and ready to strike down Rome's crowned Dictator, and bury under the wave of oblivion the Daughter of Babylon, whose garments are stained with the blood of saints.

We look upon these unfolding events as wonderfully dramatic, and the opening of scenes more sublime and awful to this wicked generation, and more glorious and triumphant to the people of God, than anything ever witnessed by mortals. We watch the progress of these world-stirring events with an unceasing interest and a deeper-toned experience than we ever felt before. It seems to us that the end draweth very near. A flood-tide is coming in with a terrible rush and roar; let all see that their anchor holds safely in the Cleft Rock.

J. C.

"IMPENDING CRISIS."

The war clouds in Europe continue to rise and grow larger in their their threatening aspect. Far-seeing men are coming to the conclusion that the chances to escape a terrible conflict of the nations are daily becoming less and less. The evidence increases to show that it will be a great religious war connected with the Papacy, which is resolved on regaining its temporal power. The Protestant kingdoms, and the Republican governments, are determined this point shall not be gained by the Pope.

We clip the following from the San Francisco Daily Chronicle:

"Since the beginning of the new year statesmen and politicians have viewed with undisguised alarm the tremendous military preparations of the leading European Powers. They have seen France devoting all her available resources to the single purpose of creating an immense army, equipped and furnished with all the most efficient implements of modern warfare. Such preparations, they argue, cannot be made for merely defensive purposes, inasmuch as it is certain that in the present position of European affairs, France is perfectly safe from aggression unless she chooses to provoke it. The immense warlike preparations of Germany are made, it is said, in anticipation of a deep-laid plan on the part of the Ultramontanes to foment a great religious war. The programme of this war is declared to be to bring about a difficulty between Russia and Germany as a preliminary to a Franco-Russian alliance. In case of the success of such a scheme, Germany and Italy would be arrayed against France and Russia. What part, if any, Austria would take in the struggle can scarcely be a matter of doubt."

It is stated that "all Europe is soon to be turned into one great battle field." Truly, "the signs of the times" proclaim Messiah near. Let us do all in our power to awaken the people to the importance of being prepared for this impending, momentous event. Let our motto be: "HOLINESS TO THE LORD."

M. G.

CATHOLIC MOVEMENTS.

The Catholics appear to be very actively engaged in laying plans for some important event. Feb. 9th six prominent priests arrived in San Francisco, on the steamer Montana, from Panama. They are called the "Paulist Missionaries." They are to visit Sacramento, Oakland, San Rafael, Marysville, Colusa, Grass Valley, Smartsville, Virginia City, Gold Hill, and other places. One of these missionaries is a son of Gen. Rosecrans; another, Geo. Deshon, is a graduate from West Point, and formerly an officer in the United States army. It is said "the great object of the mission is to furnish men of business and labor an opportunity for serious attention" to certain "great truths, which the bustle of our active civilization is too apt to drive into the dim background." We are left to guess what is meant by these "great truths." It is also stated that another object of the mission is "to gather in those who are only reached by extraordinary means." Large meetings are to be held, and the announcement is made—"Those who wish to gain the fruits of the mission ought to make it their principal aim during the few days which it lasts not to miss any of its exercises." It is further stated—"The mission will afford Protestants an opportunity of hearing and seeing a great deal of the practical workings of the Catholic faith."

No doubt, Protestants are already pretty well posted in "the practical workings of the Catholic faith." They have only to read the history of the centuries from the sixth to the nineteenth. One thing is certain: the spirit of the Catholic power has not changed. When free to act, its "practical workings" will be the same as in past centuries. Its heart says: Crush the Protestants and all their institutions. It is quite evident that a deep-laid plot is being planned to re-establish the temporal power of the Pope. When the blow is struck, it will be a signal for a general slaughter of all opposed. No mercy may be expected on either side. Apparently, the time is near at hand. Let every christian put on the "whole armor of God," and beware of carnal weapons.

M. G.

THE PAPAL JUBILEE.

When mystical Babylon shall have her final fall, like the millstone cast into the sea, it may come upon her as suddenly as did the destruction of old Babylon, in the days of Belshazzar. In the midst of the great feast, on the night that Cyrus took Babylon, the hand writing was seen on the wall, declaring that her end had come. It came as unexpectedly as a flash of lightning in a cloudless sky. Had she known the outside preparations for her overthrow, no feast would have been held that night. So now, did Pope Pius IX. know what is in the near future, he would not call a "Jubilee" for this year, as indicated by the following notice:—

"The Pope has written an encyclical letter to the Episcopacy and to the faithful of the Catholic world announcing that there will be a jubilee in 1875. In this letter His Holiness states that he has not ceased to exhort Christian nations to pray and to practice good works in order to appease the Divine Majesty. It was especially right and proper that prayers should be offered up during a jubilee year. He alludes to the enthusiasm and veneration with which the jubilee had been celebrated throughout the Catholic world when the church enjoyed tranquility. He expresses regret that the circumstances which in 1850 prevented the celebration of the jubilee, instead of improving, had become more unfavorable. He considers it necessary to procure for the faithful at the present time special graces, in order to obtain Divine favor for the world and the church. His Holiness then speaks of the indulgences attached to the jubilee, and points out the conditions required for gaining it. He requests the bishops to prepare the faithful for profiting by the abundant fruits of the holy year, and he concludes with further exhortations to Catholics."

The Pope's jubilee may turn out quite like Belshazzar's feast. It seems to be time to look for some marked events connected with the Papal power. The prophecies indicate that we are in the time when the last jots and tittles to be fulfilled by the Papacy must soon be accomplished. It is truly a portentous hour. The great persecutor of the saints must soon feel the power of the avenging hand, and drink from the same bitter cup that she forced upon the disciples of Jesus. The time has come for them to prepare for the great jubilee of jubilees in the kingdom of God. Praise the Lord, we are near our heavenly home.

M. G.

ACAPULCO MASSACRE.

The feeling of hostility between Catholics and Protestants is increasing rapidly, and has lately come to the surface in Acapulco, Mexico, where several have been massacred in cold blood, while engaged in christian worship. Since the Mexican government has become tolerant towards Protestantism, about one hundred Protestant churches have been raised up in that country. This has stirred up the Catholic priests to such a degree, that on the 20th of January, 1875, a mob assembled about a house where some Protestants had met for religious worship. A portion of the mob went into the meeting, unmasked their terrible swords, and cut right and left, killing five; one died next day, and nine others were seriously wounded. Bro. H. N. Hutchinson was the preacher, but was detained at home that evening by sickness. The mob was in special pursuit of him, and expected to have found him leading the meeting as usual. After the massacre, it was thought best for him to leave Mexico for the present, instead of remaining to be massacred. Accordingly he left, and came to San Francisco, where we met him, and heard him relate the circumstances of the massacre. He is an intelligent minister, and the Superintendent of the Presbyterian missions in Central and Southern Mexico.

During the last four years, a body of native Protestants has been growing up in Acapulco. In compliance with a very earnest request, Bro. Hutchinson went there from Mexico to organize a church, but the Catholics were determined that Protestants should not have a footing in that place. They threatened Bro. Hutchinson as soon as he arrived, and said he would not return. In order to stir up the people against the Protestants, they circulated false reports about them. Bro. Hutchinson says:—

"The reports regarding Protestants circulated among ignorant Catholics were curious. They were led to believe that Protestants actually worshiped women, and that the wife and mother in one of the houses where they held meetings was an object of their adoration. It was also charged and believed by the ignorant that a Christ upon the crucifix was placed on a table in front of the pulpit in Protestant churches with the head down, and that all blasphemed it as they entered."

Sabbath, Feb. 14th, at 3.30 P. M., there was a large and enthusiastic meeting, held in San Francisco, at the Tabernacle—Dr. Cunningham's church—to hear Bro. Hutchinson relate the facts concerning the massacre. During the meeting, one of the hymn books was exhibited that was used at the meeting on the night of the massacre, with its pages besmeared with martyr blood. We never expected to see the blood of martyrs, but the painful object has been seen; and when presented, it sent a thrill of horror through the audience.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Hemphill, pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian church, offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That this outrage, being in harmony with the doctrines promulgated to the world by the present Pope Pius the Ninth, in the Bull Quanta Cura and Syllabus annexed, dated 8th of December, 1864, and confirmed as infallible by the late Vatican Council, to which all the Roman Catholic Bishops of America have given their adhesion—is to be regarded as significant of the nature of the conflict upon which the Papal Court is now entering upon this continent, and of its willingness to import the weapons and usages of the middle ages to destroy the Christian civilization of the nineteenth century: and we pledge ourselves to co-operate with all friends of civil and religious liberty in meeting these assaults with the weapons of light and liberty, and love, and the sword of the Spirit, and prayer for the liberation of our countrymen, and of the nations from the bondage of this terrible fanaticism of Papacy."

Mr. Hemphill is an Irishman, and was brought up a Catholic, but is now known as the strongest and boldest opponent of Catholicism on the Pacific coast. Following his resolution, he made the most eloquent and stirring speech we ever heard, which completely electrified the whole audience, so that he was intensely cheered during his speech, and several times with three cheers in succession. The Daily Chronicle reporter says of the speech:

"The speech with which Mr. Hemphill followed his resolution was delivered with much spirit. The applause that it elicited showed that it coincided with the views of a large portion of the audience. He spoke of the outrages in Mexico as a natural result of the doctrines of Catholicism, and specified the following classes as those anathemized by the Pope: Those who maintain the liberty of conscience and of worship; those who maintain the liberty of speech; the fathers and founders of republics; those who maintain that the church and state should be separate; those who maintain that the church has no power to employ force to coerce conscience; that civil marriage among Protestants is no marriage at all; those who maintain that foreign pontiffs have ever exceeded their power. Mr. Hemphill went on to say that Romanism is unchanged, unchanging and unchangeable. It is keeping quiet in the United States, but only biding its time."

The Catholics have sent threatening messages to Mr. Hemphill, but his courage to speak is only equaled by his masterly eloquence on the subject. He is familiar with the spirit of Papacy, and knows whereof he affirms. His speech at the Tabernacle brought forcibly to mind the noted one of Patrick Henry, made at the opening of the war of the Revolution.

There is but little room for doubt that we are near the time when a terrible struggle will take place between Catholicism and Protestantism; and in opposition to both are the infidel hosts, led on by Spiritualism. Truly, we may soon expect stirring times, with perplexity and distress of nations. Let us all be ready to meet Jesus at his coming.

M. G.

Do you desire an humble mind, a soft heart, an obedient spirit? Ask and receive that your joy may be full. But remember, "The soul of the sluggard desireth and hath nothing."

LIGHT INCREASING.

The light of divine truth upon the subject of man's condition in and beyond death "shineth in darkness," and the darkness truly comprehendeth it not. The more the denominations labor to shut it out of their churches the more it penetrates their ranks, and shows the folly of platonic philosophy, the darkness of the dogma of papal purgatory and human immortality. There is no trouble with the men who have independence enough to rise above the love of honor, wealth and social caste, and esteem the confession of truth essential to the enjoyment of eternal life. They will come to very correct conclusions upon these great questions. We admire the noble independence of some men in professing their faith in what they believe to be divine truth, when they understand that such a confession will result in crucifixion to them, as to their worldly prospects. We have been kindly favored, by Bro. D. Weaver, with a letter written him by Bro. W. W. Dickenson, of Ludington, Mich., which presents a case of the noble christian manliness of a Congregationalist minister in that place, who, Peter-like, professed his faith in what he esteemed to be truth upon this important subject. We publish below a part of the letter.

J. C.

Ludington, January 29th, 1875.

DANIEL WEAVER:—Dear Bro,—In looking over your letter to day I see that you desire the points made by the Rev. H. B. Dean, on the funeral occasion. The occasion was peculiar. The deceased was a mason, and the funeral was attended by about seventy members of the order. The funeral services were held at the Methodist Episcopal Church. The funeral sermon was preached by H. B. Dean, Cong. pastor. The Rev. Mr. Pritchard, Episcopal minister, commenced the service by reading the 15th chapter of 1st Cor. Mr. Rook, the Methodist minister, conducted the singing in the choir.

After these preliminary services, Mr. Dean arose and announced his text:—"Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." He commenced his discourse by saying that, after four years of prayerful and careful study of the Scriptures, he had become fully convinced that man did not possess inherent immortality; and that he had chosen this occasion, in the presence of the dead, to proclaim what he believed to be the truth. God had said, "Thou shalt surely die," but Satan had said, "Thou shalt not surely die." Man sinned, and did die; and after he had sinned God placed an angel with a flaming sword, to keep him from the tree of life, that he might not eat and live forever. Paul proclaimed that if the dead rise not then Christ is not risen; and those who had fallen asleep had perished—became as naught.

The living again from the dead, he said, was the great central truth of the Bible; which truth Christ came to verify in his own person by rising again from the dead. Eternal life was the gift of God. That which we already possess can not be a gift; and this boon is through Christ, by the resurrection from the power of the grave. God manifested his love to the world by the gift of his Son, that whosoever believeth on him might not perish, but might have life—eternal life. On this great truth—the resurrection—rests the whole christian system. Destroy this, and all hope for poor humanity is gone. There is no promise of a future life only through or by the resurrection.

Said he (Dean)—"Better would it be for me to deal out to my fellow men, over the bar, intoxicating drinks, than to stand in my place here and proclaim error." "I feel," said he, "the awful responsibility of a public teacher, and before God, and in the presence of the living and the dead, I have presented what I solemnly believe to be the truth upon this interesting subject. From time to time have I put off this duty, but the truth has forced itself upon me, and as an honest man and a public teacher, I must proclaim it, let the consequences to me, personally, be what they may." You can imagine the effect of such a discourse on an audience composed mostly of the old-school orthodoxy.

Bro. Dean told me that he was aware that but few, if any, of his hearers would endorse it, but in looking over the large congregation he saw a few animated faces. He had struck a chord in some of the hearts of his hearers never before touched. It was indeed a sublime occasion,—a minister of the Congregationalist Church hurling a thunderbolt at the very foundation of orthodoxy, setting their creeds at defiance, and planting himself upon the Bible, and his right as a christian minister to interpret the Scriptures for himself. It was an act of moral heroism, reminding one of the days of Luther. It was a triumph of truth over error,—of the Bible over creeds.

Mr. Dean is a strong man in his own church, and with the Bible, which he has substituted for his creed, he is a host. The war has commenced against him, but he fears not. He is conscious of his strength, and there is no man here that will be able to crush him.

Next Sunday he will take up the subject of the "Rich Man and Lazarus"—one of the strongholds of those who advocate the popular doctrine of natural immortality. Do not know what action his church may take in the matter. Some of them concede to him the right to say what he thinks to be true. A few are in sympathy with him.

Bro. Rook, the Methodist minister, made an attempt to answer Mr. Dean's discourse a week ago last Sunday evening, to a large congregation, and in doing so had to take the Spiritualist's view of the resurrection. He argued—

(1) That the penalty of Adam's transgression was a spiritual death, and the "breath of life" which made man a living soul was a part of the attributes of God,—memory, will, benevolence, etc.,—and therefore immortal.

(2) That St. Paul's argument on the resurrection, in 1st Cor., 15th chapter, had no reference at all to the body. He (Rook, not Paul) scouted as absurd the idea of the resurrection of the body that went into the grave. In fact there was no death, only a change from mortality to the resurrection or rising up of a spiritual body; or in other words, "this mortal does not put on immortality, but immortality puts off mortality, never to receive it again. The incorruptible leaves, or puts off, this corruptible (body), never to return to it again. Christ came to life or rather his spirit returned and reinhabited his old body that had not seen corruption, and revived it again, with the prints of the nails and the marks of the spear that pierced his side; but this was not his glorified body in which he ascended to heaven.

(3) As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

It was a powerful defense of the dogma of inherent immortality, and satisfactory to those who endorse Spiritualism and reject Christ, and also to those who are not students of the Bible. Spiritualists could take no exceptions to his arguments, for they were in complete harmony with their views of future life. No living again, for there is no cessation of life,—simply a dissolution of copartnership (if you will pardon the expression) between the body and the soul. To a large number of disinterested hearers his arguments were far from being conclusive.

W. W. DICKENSON.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$308.96
R. A.	5.00
Cyrus Colburn	2.70
Albert Dutton	.75
Mary A. Weaver	.75

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$81.62

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1.00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.
Previous acknowledgments	$3,242.20
A. D. Hurd (on pledge)	5.00
M. Sundesland	5.00
Mrs. E. J. Ripley (balance of pledge)	5.00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$227.35
Advent Church in Hinesburgh, Vt.	12.00
H. B.	10.00
J. L. P.	2.00
S. B. Pierce	1.50
H. B. Seavey	1.00
A. C. Johnson	2.00

FOR SR. CAROLINE TULLER.

Cyrus Colburn	$5.00

Correspondence.

From Mrs. Curry.

Dear Crisis Friends:—Bro. John T. Ongley came to Nicholson, Jan. 14th, and preached four of his peculiarly impressive and interesting sermons; also illustrating with the chart. The Methodist and Presbyterian churches closed their doors against him, but the school directors gave an unanimous consent to the request for the schoolhouse, and Bro. France, a Christian preacher, assisted in lighting it, and lending a hearty aid and real christian cooperation.

My class in the Presbyterian Sunday-school was taken from me, at the minister's request, because he did not wish me to teach his children false doctrines. I had a Bible class, for adults, in the M. E. S. S., which was also taken from me because I showed my sincerity by openly being baptized by Bro. Ongley. Strange that I should become so suddenly dangerous, for every one knew that I was an Adventist, I having openly avowed my belief, wrote Advent articles for the "Nicholson Examiner," and have so talked it about that last summer a local in the "Examiner" was headed thus:—"We begin to believe, as Mrs. Curry does, that the world is coming to an end."

You see, dear brethren, that my sentiments have been no secret, but suddenly persecution has commenced against us, and even neighbors and friends give us rather a cold shoulder. Three of us were buried with Christ in baptism by Bro. Ongley, and because that a good christian family befriended us, they too are ridiculed, and we are termed "the ring." Well, thank God! it is a gilded ring. We hope to hear Bro. Ongley preach again, for several have said they were sorry they were out of town at the time; for they liked Bible preaching. He threw light on many passages for us. Oh we do hunger for the Word. We grow weary of the world, and yearn for fellowship of saints and communion with those of like precious faith.

Many good people say to us—"Why talk so much of Christ's coming? why make a speciality of it?" Ah, little do they know how our hearts burn within us, as we dwell on the precious theme. We love to think of our absent Lord. We love to gather our own little ones every Sabbath eve, and, placing the vacant chair at the stand, we break the little unleavened loaf, and after talking of our precious hope, and praying together, we commune reverently, as we intend to do every Sabbath eve till He comes. Feeling our isolated condition, we extend our hearty sympathy to others in like circumstances, who like Noah, stand the storm of derision, and like him may we be steadfast, ever abounding in the work of the Lord.

"We'll stand the storm, it won't be long,
We'll anchor by-and-by."

From C. R. White.

Dear Brethren—Editors of World's Crisis: When I send or lend papers I like to know if received and how. I am in a quandary. Last week I received by mail some Advent papers, but could not discover the postmark; only the name of H. H. Hodgdon on the label; or I would have written to the kind donor with my thanks for the gift. One of the papers was the dear Crisis. It was "good for sore eyes," as I had not seen it for so long, and especially as it contained some precious articles, giving the evidences of our blessed hope being soon realized.

Whoever sent the papers may judge how they were appreciated by me, if I briefly relate my circumstances. For several years past I have had a series of losses and ill luck. Last year I lost by insects etc., nearly all my little crop, and am now dependant upon the charity of my neighbors for getting through the winter; hence am unable to procure many Advent papers or books. I am kindly furnished however with the Advent Christian Times, free, and the Watchman's Cry, and occasionally such gifts as above; but not lately, until last week. I am here all alone, battling for the truth as I understand it, opposed by the world, the flesh, and the devil. I have no membership in any church of human organization that I know of, but trust am a member of the church of the first-born.

I was excluded from the Baptist church seven years ago, to which I belonged thirty years; being unwilling to subscribe any longer to the immortal soul and eternal torment doctrine. I embraced the Advent doctrine in '43. There are some Millennarians here, who hold to the Jews return and age of probation, but all are much prejudiced against the doctrine as we hold it. I tell them all they have a right to their belief, and I respect their opinion, but I do not receive it. I claim the same right for my belief, and respect for my opinions, and I think none the less of a man because he differs with me. "With me it is a small thing to be judged of man's judgment. Judge nothing till the Lord comes."

Louisiana, Pike Co, Mo.

From Bro. W. H. Webster.

Editors of Crisis:—I wish to make a correction in my letter which appeared in the Crisis the 10th inst. It should read "doctrine of non-immortality of the soul." I wish also to express my gratitude to our heavenly Father and your christian liberality that the Crisis ever fell into my hands, and that I read it; for I have been much instructed, edified, and greatly strengthened and comforted by its scriptural teachings and sound Bible doctrines.

There is a famine in the land for the Word of the Lord. The people are turned unto fables and traditions, by the slight of cunning men. There is a theory of the head, but the Word of the Lord is not a light to the people. The Scriptures plainly teach that there is a God, and Jesus taught the disciples to pray, "Our Father, who art in heaven." The Bible shows clearly that there is a real, personal God, who has a certain dwelling-place, kingdom and throne. The pure in heart shall see him face to face. "He that cometh unto God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of all them that diligently seek him."

I know of but two persons in this place who believe in the soon coming of Jesus, the real resurrection of the dead, the renovation and purification of the earth, and the destruction of the wicked and of the giving of the real landed inheritance to the saints. Jesus said—"If I go away I will come again and receive you to myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." Although we may be left in an enemy's land, yet Jesus will come and open our graves, and bring us into the land which God promised to our fathers.

O beloved, let us look up, for our Redeemer, our redemption, draweth nigh. We look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness; where there will be no death.

From J. W. Burroughs.

Bear Brn.:—For the encouragement of others I wish to say that I have been enjoying another blessing from the Lord here this winter.

We commenced our meeting about Christmas by giving a course of lectures on the prophecies, and continued four weeks. Bro. P. A. Converse and Sr. M. Janes were with us a short time, and rendered efficient aid.

Inclemency of the weather hindered our progress some in the forepart of our meeting; nevertheless, we had a good hearing as usual, and as a result, about twenty converts, thirteen of whom joined the church at the close of our meeting, and others will unite with us soon. We have no reason to complain of our prospect in Raymond, but rather to rejoice. The church is a unit, and has prospered finely in the last year. Brethren that were weak, and just starting a year ago, are strong in the Lord, and several of them have commenced preaching.

We consented to act as pastor for another year. Pray for us, that both pastor and people may continue to work in harmony and love until Jesus our blessed Savior comes, which we believe will be very soon. That glorious day is just before us. We should live very humble, devoted christians, watchful, prayerful, peacable, loving and kind, filled with the spirit of Jesus, yet zealous, active and energetic, ever ready to speak for Christ and his cause.

From Sr. C. Simmons.

Dear Crisis:—My heart bounds with joy when it comes to me weekly, laden with its precious truths. I have been a believer in the doctrine it advocates since 1843. I am now in my fiftieth year. I have lived entirely isolated from those of our precious faith nearly all those years. Oh, ye who are privileged to meet and hear the precious Word from the living preacher, from time to time, do you prize your privilege? It seems to me when I hear of jars and discords in churches, as though I longed to beg of them, "by the mercy of Christ," to cease. If you knew what it was, for weary years of hope deferred, to be separated from "the body," you would, I think, know better how to be thankful. Our precious Crisis should never be burdened with your wrangles. There are lonely ones crying for bread, all over the land. "Meat in due season" we famish for. Send us all the light on prophecy you can. We hunger and thirst for it. The recent articles by Bro. Couch, have been food indeed. God bless you all, dear Editors and Contributors. Pray for me, that I may be one of the wise virgins, "with lamp burning, and oil in my vessel with my lamp," in that day.

From Sr. M. Bedell.

Dear Crisis:—I thought I would write a few lines in the worthy name of Jesus. God says—"For I will speak excellent things, and the opening of my lips shall be right things." The fear of the Lord will cause us to hate evil, pride, and arrogancy. The evil way and froward mouth the Lord hates. If we love the blessed Master, we shall love our neighbor as ourselves, and pray for him; but we must first become acquainted with Jesus ourselves. This implies the new birth. Men and women may make many long prayers, but without the Spirit of God they will never convert any one. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

O, sinner, let me warn you to flee from the wrath to come before it is too late. Awake, all ye dear ones in Christ, and put on the whole armor of God. Pray for me, that I may meet you all in the kingdom.

Woodsville, N. H., Feb. 17th, 1875.

Bro. Henry of Bunker Hill, Ill., writes:—"My poor suffering wife (N. M. Henry) is no better, but failing fast. Pray for her and me."

Obituaries.

HURD. In Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 10th, 1875, Sr. Elizabeth S., wife of Bro. Isaac Hurd, of Porter, Me., aged 42 years.

Sr. Hurd had been a decided follower of Christ for a number of years, and in her last hours of life, when death was near, the religion that she had tried to live sustained her, and she felt happy in the thought that the time of her departure was at hand. She had been in Lawrence only one week when she was taken sick of a fever, and in one week and two days after she fell asleep in Jesus. She was a member of the Methodist church at Kezar Falls, Me.; but sometimes attended the Advent meetings at Porter, and was a believer in many things held by us as a people. She was taken to Freedom, N. H., for interment, where the funeral services were held on the 14th, at the chapel. Eld. Trafton, of the Methodist church, preached on the occasion from words found in 1 Peter 1: 24, 25. CHAS. H. HURD.

PEARL. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Strafford, N. H., Feb. 10th, 1875, of Erysipelas, Sister Eleanor Pearl, aged 74 years.

Our sister commenced while young to wear the yoke of Christ, and was baptized by Eld. John Peavey, and united with the Christian Brethren. She proved by blest experience the yoke to be easy, and the burden to be light. She was an exemplary christian for some fifty years. Her readiness to do duty showed that she did not consider the work of the Lord irksome or hard. Service thus cheerfully rendered secured to her, through the merit of the atonement, a firm hope that supported her in severe suffering, which was her lot for weeks before her death.

May friends be ready to meet her in the glorious morning of the resurrection. Funeral services were held at the Free Baptist meeting-house, when words of Holy Writ were spoken by the writer, which demonstrated the dead will live again. J. G. SMITH.

WYMAN. In Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1st, 1875, Sarah, wife of Woodbury Wyman, aged 39 years.

Sr. Wyman suffered long, yet she bore it with true christian fortitude, and died with the hope of living again in that land where there will be no sickness or death. She leaves a kind husband, two children, and an aged father and mother to mourn their loss, and although their sorrow is deep, may they look to the One from whom help alone can come, and be ready to meet her when death's Conqueror shall come, and the prisons be unlocked, and the captive go free.

Death has conquered her,
And by his dart she is slain;
But Christ has conquered death,
And she shall live again.

Funeral attended by Rev. Mr. Farnum, assisted by Eld. Harmon and the writer. WM. C. STEWART.

LAZELL. In Nashua, N. H., Feb. 10th, 1875, of consumption, Mrs. Mary C., wife of Nathan Lazell, aged 61 years.

"I am the resurrection and the life," says Jesus; and as soon as Sr. Lazell realized that she was dying, she repeated these words to her attendants and to her husband, and said—"That's the text." She sleeps in peace, and we thank God for the evidence she gave us that her hope of life eternal would be realized at the appearing of Jesus. May her children and husband enjoy the same blessed hope. C. W. SARGENT.

PRESSEY. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Londonderry, N. H., Jan. 1st, 1875, Mrs. Ruth Pressey, aged 87 years.

Another aged pilgrim has lain down to rest at the end of a long and wearisome journey. Her death was sudden and unexpected. She read several chapters in the Bible the day before she died. She will be missed by her children and grand-children, who have wished grandmother a "Happy New Year" for the last time, until they meet her in the Kingdom. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

PARKS. In Great Works, South Berwick, Me., Jan. 9th, of consumption, Jane, wife of William Parks, aged 27 years.

They have laid her away in the grave to await the Life-giver's return to awaken her to life and immortality. She leaves a husband and three children to mourn her loss. Words of comfort were spoken from 2 Tim. 4: 7, by J. W. White.

SHURTLEFF. In Westfield, Mass., Sept. 26th, 1874, of dropsy, Luther Shurtleff, after a long and distressing illness of eight months.

He died in hope. M. S. SHURTLEFF.

CROUCH. In Keene, N. H., Feb. 5th, 1875, Herbert D., son of Alvah B. and Mary M. Crouch, aged 8 months and 26 days.

He will come up with the jewels. T. L. HALL.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Feb. 19. An Enclyclical from the Pope to the Prussian Bishops is published. It denounces the Folk ecclesiastical laws, and excommunicates members of the clergy who accept benefices from the State.

The French assembly by a vote of 353 to 352 on Saturday, passed M. Wallon's amendment to the constitutional bill providing for the election of president of the republic by a majority of the senate and chamber deputies for seven years, and that the president can be re-elected.

Feb. 26. Steamship Hong Kong, from London for Japan, foundered off the Island of Abdel Curia, in the Indian Ocean. Nineteen persons reported saved. Six were drowned and eighteen missing.

The Pall Mall Gazette's correspondent at Berlin reports that the German Government has received a memorial from the Protestant clergy of Spain, complaining that their liberty of worship is threatened. Similar memorials have been forwarded to other Protestant powers in Europe and to the United States.

Paris, Feb. 25. In the Assembly to-day the bill for the organization of public powers was finally passed—437 to 262.

President MacMahon has sent a telegraph dispatch to M. Buffett, President of the Assembly, calling on him to form a new ministry. M. Buffet is now in the Vosges, and if he accepts the task the organization of a new government will be delayed a few days until he is able to return to Paris.

DREADFUL BOILER EXPLOSION.—A terrible explosion occurred on Thursday at the machine and cotton manufacturing works of Messrs. Lord Brothers, at Todmorden. The employes were assembling after the dinner hour, and nearly all had arrived, and were about to commence work, when one of the boilers exploded with great violence, shaking the whole buildings and spreading destruction and death around. The boiler house and an adjoining shed were in a moment reduced to ruins, and fragments were scattered in all directions. Four bodies have been found, and one is missing. Fifty persons were more or less seriously injured; some, it is feared, will not recover. There were three boilers in all, and the one which burst drove the remaining two from their beds across the canal. The damage is roughly estimated at nearly £15,000.—London Times.

TURKEY—THE FAMINE IN ASIA MINOR.—It is stated that, at the meeting of the Asia Minor Famine Relief Committee, held in Constantinople on the 13th, a letter was read from Cesarea, in which the writer stated that about a thousand families were being assisted in that city. "It is certain," he added, "that people are actually dying of hunger. Bread is abundant, but prices are nearly four times their ordinary figure, and multitudes have absolutely nothing with which to purchase were bread ever so cheap." At the previous meeting of Committee extracts were read from the journal kept by its agents respecting the condition of some of the distressed districts, and these are now published by the Levant Herald. In the village of Ahali there were about 1,100 inhabitants two or three years ago. Since the famine there have been four hundred deaths, and one hundred and fifty persons have emigrated. The total population is thus reduced to little more than five hundred. In some cases dead bodies were left unburied for many days, the survivors being too demoralised by privation to perform the last offices for their fellow villagers. Many of these bodies were eaten by starving dogs and cats. This was also the case in another village named Karadjali.—London Times.

New York, Feb. 19. Advices from Port au Prince state that about two-thirds of that city was consumed by the fire of February 11. Loss about $2,000,000.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 26. A very serious flood, caused by a freshet in the Housatonic river, has devastated the country in the vicinity of Zoar bridge, about nine miles above Birmingham. A huge ice gorge has been formed at the Otter rocks, and the roads are impassable. Zoar bridge was carried a mile down the stream.

The water rose to the second-story windows of dwellings in some cases, and a number of barns and buildings were moved from their foundations. A quantity of live stock was destroyed, and there were many narrow escapes from death, but no lives were lost.

Hartford, Ct., Feb. 27. During the freshet last night in the Naugatuck river part of the Home Woolen Co.'s dam at Beacon Falls was carried away and a man named Flaherty, who was assisting to stop the break, fell into the river and was drowned.

New York, Feb. 26. The streams along the Hudson river are greatly swollen and much damage has already occurred.

The new iron bridge, erected at a cost of $10,000, at Stockport, N. Y., was swept away, and it is feared that the bridge over Claverenck creek will also be carried away.

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 25. The Tennessee river is forty feet above low water and is rising eight inches per hour. It is now five feet below the great flood of 1867. Atkins planing mill and factory and many bridges and houses are destroyed, and the weather is still threatening, with a prospect of considerable rise from the upper Halstan, French, Broad, and other tributaries whether it rains more or not.

The gas works are under water. There were several heavy slides and washes on the railroad, and two spans of the bridge over the Hiawasse are gone and more damages are apprehended.

Feb. 24. A Chicago dispatch says the Communists there threaten terrible things. They are charging that the Relief Society does not fairly distribute to the suffering families of workingmen. The city authorities have ordered the 1st Regiment of Militia on duty to-night. Other military organizations have been ordered to be in readiness, and the whole police is ordered to be prepared for any emergency.

In Brief.

— Large glue works in Chicago were burned yesterday. The loss is estimated at from $250,000 to $400,000.

— One person was killed and fifteen injured by an accident on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, near Sheffield, Ill., Saturday night.

— At Springfield last evening three drunken ruffians, armed with shot guns, shot three inoffensive laboring men, inflicting serious wounds.

— The tornado in Missouri on Tuesday destroyed property to the estimated value of $40,000, killing one man and wounding several others.

— The fastest railroad time ever made in America was by a train which carried a party of officials from Rochester to Syracuse, eighty-one miles in sixty-one minutes.

Notices

CONFERENCE.—The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet, and hold its annual session at the Advent Christian Hall, on Seventh Street, below Poplar, Philadelphia, Pa., commencing on Thursday evening, March 25th, at 7½ o'clock, and continue over the following Sabbath.

This is our annual meeting to hear the reports of all our preachers, officers, committees and delegates for the last year;—the progress, spread, and triumph of Bible truth, by the word of mouth, by the aid of religious papers, tracts, and pamphlets, and by every other gospel means;—to learn by reports the amount of monies received and paid out for the purchase and distribution of publications. All the officers for the year ensuing will be chosen at this session. The Conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body cooperating with this Conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the Conference can be addressed to Edwin King, 1716 Francis Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
A. G. JAYNE, President.
EDWIN KING, Secretary.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Third Quarterly Meeting of the Iowa Christian Conference will meet at New Hartford, Butler Co., Iowa, March 19th, and continue over Lord's day. It is hoped that we have passed our severest weather, and that a full attendance may be obtained. At the same time and meeting we wish to see all the campmeeting committee, as there are matters of interest connected with the June meeting, and timely arrangements should be made.

Brethren, all come, and if you cannot, please write us a line of counsel, or suggestions, or comfort, as duty may direct. This is the last quarterly before the annual meeting, and last year of lease of grounds; and it may be the last gathering. Come, let us hear from you. In behalf of the cause of Christ, PETER S. W. DEYO.

MAINE CENTRAL QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Maine Central Quarterly Meeting will be held at Rome (Town House), commencing Thursday evening, March 11th, and continue over the following Sunday. A general invitation is extended to all who love Jesus and the truth, to unite with us in preparing a people for his coming. Homes provided for all. Call on Nathan Martin, Elbridge Tracy, David Watson, and others. Per order, F. E. BLAISDELL.
H. B. SEVEY.

NOTICE.—The Adventists of Newmarket, N.H., have formed themselves into a church, with the undersigned as its officers. Feeling deeply our utter helplessness without the Divine blessing, we ask the sympathy and prayers of all God's people for his blessing on the effort.

Elder J. L. Chute will supply us the first and third Sabbaths of each month. Brethren wishing to preach on the remaining Sabbaths, please correspond with Elder J. L. Chute, Pastor.
J. L. CHUTE, } Committee.
M. L. WHITEHORNE, }
M. L. WHITEHORNE, Treasurer.
J. C. MEADER, Clerk.

CONFERENCE.—We have decided to hold our next Quarterly Conference at St. Johnsbury, Vt. This is on the Railroad, so as to be reached should the traveling be bad. We hope our friends from Canada, Northern and Eastern Vt., and Western N. H., as well as from other places, will make great effort to attend this meeting. Ministers and laymen, come. Send delegates or letters. The Conference will commence in evening of March 3d, and continue over Sunday. Business March 4th and 5th. H. F. C.

CONFERENCE.—The annual session of the R. I. and East. Conn. Conference will be held with the A. C. Church, Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., on the 3d, 4th and 5th of March, 1875. We expect churches to be represented by delegates, or letters, or both, and preachers in person. Do not forget to come. A. DURFEE, Chairman.

VERMONT MISSION.—This Mission will commence a meeting at Chester, Vt., Sunday, March 21st, and continue it as duty may require. We expect the same hearty co-operation of the friends of Jesus in that section that we had a year ago, and with as good, or better results. Come, one and all. We will do the best we can to secure preaching services acceptable to God.
H. F. C., for State Com.

STATE MISSION MEETING.—H. F. Carpenter and A. A. Hoyt will commence a State Mission Meeting at Hardwick, Vt., Sunday, March 7th, and hold as duty demands. Brethren will please come in from adjoining towns. A. A. HOYT.

TO FRIENDS ABROAD:—Beloved in the Lord,—Since I last wrote my short missive to the Crisis, by earnest request I have decided to tarry another year with the church at Bridgewater, Vt., if the Lord will. Pray for us that we may be able to feed the flock of God as the gospel demands. Yours looking for the dawning of the day.
A. DAMON.

NOTICE.—If there is any one having "Rollins' Ancient History," and would be willing to part with it for a moderate price, will they please inform me by postal card, the price, how many volumes, how bound, etc.
H. K. FLAGG, Rutland, Vt., Box 194.

ANTI-RUM! ANTI-TOBACCO!—The Anti-Rum and Anti-Tobacco Tracts which have been published by the late Rev. George Trask, may be obtained by addressing Trask Tract Depository, Fitchburg, Mass.

THE protracted meeting of which notice has been given in the Crisis, to be holden at Meredith Village, March 4th, is postponed for the present.

Those wishing to preach in Danville, P. Q., will please correspond with Wm. Barnard or J. Porter, Pastor.

TO THE BRN. IN MASS.

The Mass. A. C. Conference at its last annual session raised money by pledges and collections to buy a tent and put in the field. A committee was chosen to superintend the buying and running of the tent, and this committee are responsible men, and have done the best they could. They bought the tent and run it until the cold weather set in, and there is a debt on them of over $100. This they are owing to Brn. Boutell and Leslie—the two principal workers with the tent. Some of those that pledged have not paid. We hope brethren will send in the amount of their pledges at once; and we invite others that have the means to contribute to pay these brethren their due, as there is not quite enough pledged to pay the debt.

Bro. Boutell is sick, and the prospect now is he will have to lay by for a while and mend up. He has had sickness in his family also for some months, and he needs what is due him. Now, brethren, will you heed this call, and send me the sum of one hundred and ten dollars at once, so that I can pay these brethren their honest due. Send to C. GOODRICH, Boston, Mass., P. O. Drawer 5140.

CONFERENCE.—The Third Quarterly Conference of the New York State A. C. Society will commence Friday evening, March 12th, at Springwater, Livingston Co., N. Y. We hope to see a large gathering of brethren and sisters present. Let every church in the conference report by delegate or by letter. Teams from the West at 11.30 A. M. and 6 P. M. From the East, 7 A. M. and 4.39 P. M. M. R. MILES, President.
A. P. MOORE, Secretary.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The A. C. Churches of Northern Kansas, comprising the churches at Brantford, Clifton, and Sherman Centre, are cordially invited to meet in delegation with the A. C. Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kan., on the 27th day of March, A. D. 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Quarterly Conference, in accordance with the usages of the A. C. Church. Brethren of like precious faith are cordially invited to meet with us.
F. O. CUTLER, Pastor of the Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The next Quarterly Conference of Northern Pennsylvania and Southern New York will be held at Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Friday evening, March 12th, and continue over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Railway from Corning to Elkland, then stage to Westfield. E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Sec.

YORK CO. CONFERENCE.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its first quarterly session in Depot Hall, Steep Falls, Me., commencing Thursday, March 11th, at 2.30 P. M., and continue over the following Sunday. We desire to see all of our preachers in this County and vicinity at this meeting, also delegates from all our churches. Let those who cannot come report by letter.
C. H. SWEET, Sec.

WELLSBURGH, ERIE CO., PA.—By special request, a series of Lectures will commence in the above village, at such place as the friends interested may prepare and designate by public notice, on the evening of Tuesday, March 16th, 1875.
By request, G. W. STETSON.

NOTICE.—The brethren in Porter, Me., and Freedom, N. H., have arranged to sustain preaching one half the time. These places are near each other, and we unite our interests together and maintain but one meeting regularly, and we are very much in need of preaching. Will the Lord put it into the minds of some of his servants to come over and help us? Who will volunteer, and give notice in Crisis ahead for either of these places? We will meet them at Centre Ossipee, N. H., or Cornish, on their arrival, and do what we can to have them sustained, and to have the gospel preached to sinners. Will Bro. E. A. Stockman arrange to come sometimes? Here is a good field for labor, and a good congregation of attentive listeners, and through the blessing of God much good may be done. If any will heed this, please correspond with myself, or W. Sawyer, or J. S. Moulton. Address Porter, Me.
For the Brn., F. PHILBRICK.

REMOVAL.—Eld. J. Porter, believing a change to be profitable both to himself and the church in Danville, P. Q., of which he has been the Pastor for the last twenty-three years, has now removed to Montreal to labor in harmony with the church there. His address for the present will be No. 50 Perthius Street, Montreal.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.
WARREN J. HOBBS.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q., Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

NOTICE.—Having been pastor of the A. C. Church in this place (Nevada, O.) for nearly five years, and notwithstanding it is the desire of the church that I remain another year, yet I have felt impressed that it might be the will of the Lord that I should labor in some other field, as the way may open. I would therefore say to churches East or West, which may desire to have us locate among them, and labor for the upbuilding of the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners, that I will confer with them relative to this object, and if it should appear to be the will of the Lord, will make the necessary arrangements to do so at the expiration of my engagements here, which will occur on March 31st, 1875.
E. M'CULLOCH.

NOTICE.—The brethren in East Killingly, Conn., have established a meeting and desire help. Any of the preaching brethren who can go there and labor by preaching the Word, will please correspond with Warren Taft, East Killingly, Conn.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

TO VERMONTERS.—At our annual conference at Bethel, the State Committee were urged to carry the gospel of the kingdom into every new field which opened a door, and especially to offer a week of labor for any five dollars pledged by an isolated brother or sister living in a new field. This was to encourage individual effort and sacrifice on the part of the isolated. We want to hear immediately from those places where labors are desired, that we may make due arrangements to meet the demands. If you are too poor to raise five dollars, and yet the door is open for a meeting, write us just the same as though you raised the money. Write to me at Waterbury, Vt., or to A. A. Hoyt, Plainfield, Vt. Write full particulars of circumstances, people, time, and place. Write soon.
H. F. CARPENTER, President of Conference.

Those wishing to correspond with the church at Raymond, Iowa, will please write to the following committee: Dr. B. Banton, Wm. Waterfield, W. S. Detrick. J. W. BURROUGHS, Pastor.

To Preaching Brethren.

MAINE.

Those wishing to preach in Bath, Me., must first correspond with James Ham, or Wm. Blaisdell, committee.

Those wishing to preach at Steep Falls, Me., will please correspond with either of the following committee: C. H. Sweet, J. R. Foss, and W. H. Anderson.

Those wishing to preach in Oxford, Me., will please correspond with either F. Smith, Oxford, Me., or L. L. Twitchell, Norway, Me.

Those wishing to preach in Kennebunkport, Me., will please correspond with A. A. Robinson, C. E. Clough, or H. A. Mitchell.

Those wishing to preach in Hallowell, Me., will please correspond with Simeon Small and Alfred Gowell.

Those wishing to preach at the regular Advent meeting in Gardiner, Me., should correspond with Bro. J. Thomas.

Those wishing to preach at Bonny Eagle, Me., will please correspond with Orrin Smith.

Those wishing to preach in Springvale, Me., please correspond with L. W. Gowen, Springvale.

Those wishing to preach in Lyman, Me., can correspond with Bro. J. R. Tripp, Alfred, Me.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every afternoon and evening this week, and Sunday, March 7th. (Communion.) JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.
Wm. C. Stewart........Sunday, March 7th

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
I. C. Wellcome........Sunday, March 7th
Hiram Munger........Sunday, March 14th
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, March 21st

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
F. H. Burbank........Sundays, March 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th.

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
T. M. Preble........Sunday, March 7th

Hyde Park, Mass. (Pythian Hall) Sunday, March 7th
J. COUCH.

Natick, Mass........Sunday, March 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Putnam, Ct........March 7th
Plymouth, Mass........March 14th
J. S. WHITE.

Vernon, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
Wilbraham, Mass........Sunday, March 14th
Putnam, Ct........Sunday, March 21st
H. PRATT.

Mattapoisett........Sunday, March 7th
New Bedford........Sunday, March 14th
Keene, N. H........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)........March 4th
South Elliot, Me........Friday evening, March 5th
Rye, N. H........Tuesday evening, March 9th
Seabrook, N. H........Wednesday evening, March 10th
Newburyport (if Bro. Pike appoints) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Lynn, Mass........Friday evening, March 12th
HIRAM MUNGER.

South Barnstead, N. H. (Clark meeting-house) Sunday, March 7th. C. S. SHATLUCK.

West Deerfield, N. H........Sunday, March 7th
GEO. W. RANDALL.

Frankfort, Me........Sunday, March 14th
(Conference, Saturday, the 13th, at 2 P. M.)
F. A. BAKER.

West Alton........Thursday evening, March 4th
Newmarket, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
Alton Corner, N. H........Sunday, March 21st
J. G. SMITH.

Farmington, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, March 7th.
Sutton, N. H. (South meeting-house)..Sab., April 4th
SIMEON ROBY.

Hartford, Conn........Sunday, March 21st
Meriden, Conn........Sunday, March 28th
GEO. W. BROWN.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month
C. W. RATHBUN.

East Rochester, N. H........Sunday, March 7th
W. H. MITCHELL.

Providence, R. I. (Hammond Street)........March 10th
Natick, R. I........evenings, March 11th and 12th
Coventry Centre, R. I........evening, March 13th and Sunday, March 14th.
North Scituate, R. I. (as Bro. Angel may arrange) evening March 17th, and over Sunday, March 21st.
Will Bro. Angell meet me at Coventry Centre the 16th? GEO. A. STREETER.

Bangor, Me........Sunday, March 14th
S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Dexter, Me........Friday evening, March 5th and over Sunday, March 7th, and baptize.
Albion, Me. (at Bro. Newell Tuck's) Monday evening, March 8th.
Otisfield (Gore school-house)....Sunday, March 14th
H. S. MITCHELL.

South Rochester, N. H........Sabbath, March 7th
East Concord........Sabbath, March 28th
S. HAWKINS.

New Rye meeting-house........Sunday, March 14th
D. W. DAVIS.

Bath, Me........Sunday, March 21st
I. C. WELLCOME.

Southbridge, Mass........Sunday, March 7th
PORTER J. SMITH.

Bangor, Me........Sunday, March 7th
F. A. BAKER.

South Windham, Me........Sunday, March 7th
J. T. JORDAN.

Cheshire Street, Ct........Sunday, March 7th
G. L. WHITE.

York Co. Conference........March 11th—14th
C. H. SWEET.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, March 7th
Franklin, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
Holderness, N.H. (Brick school-house) Sunday, March 21st. G. H. WALLACE.

Hinesburgh, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
H. B. QUIMBY.

I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDAN.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, March 28th
LEVI ALLEN.

Welchville, Me. (where Bro. D. H. Staples may appoint) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Oxford........Sunday, March 14th
Richville........Thursday evening, March 18th
Lewiston........Sunday, March 21st
Mayberry Hill, Casco (where Bro. Alonzo Mayberry may appoint) Tuesday evening, March 23d.
If any of these conflict, or if any wish for evening meetings on my way, please write me at Dover, N. H.
H. S. PINKHAM.

North Waterford, Me. (as the brethren may arrange) Sunday, March 14th.
Harrison, Me. (Woodsom school-house) Sun., March 28th. JARED WHITMAN.

Winsted (Good Templar's Hall)..Sunday, March 7th
A. E. ELLIOTT.

Dorchester, N. H........evening, March 6th and over Sunday, March 7th. (Baptism.)
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

East Bethel, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
Camp Brook, Vt........Sunday, March 14th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Melbourne Ridge, P. Q........Sunday, March 7th
Dixville, P. Q. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, March 14th
Barnston, P. Q. (Perkins school-house) Sunday, March 21st.
Wayville, P. Q........Sunday, March 28th
Barford, P. Q. (Kinney school-house) Sun., April 4th
F. M. DRAKE.

Campton, N. H. (at Bro. Page's) evenings, March 4th and 5th.
Hebron, N. H. (McClure school-house) eve., March 6th, and over Sunday.
Unity, N. H........evenings, March 9th and 10th and over Sunday. D. EASTMAN.
JOHN H. EVANS.

Warren Summit, N. H........evening, March 20th and over Sunday.
Haverhill Centre, N. H........evening, March 25th and over Sunday. J. H. EVANS.

Chicopee Falls, Mass........Sunday, March 7th
Fitchburg, Mass........Sunday, March 14th
W. N. PILE.

Westfield........Sabbath, March 7th
Montgomery........Sabbath, March 14th
Chicopee Falls........Sabbath, March 21st
Brimfield........Sabbath, March 28th
Granby (Batchelor Street)........Sabbath, April 4th
Montgomery........Sabbath, April 11th
Springfield........Sabbath, April 18th
Brimfield........Sabbath, April 25th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Northwood Narrows........Sunday, March 7th
Northwood Narrows........Sunday, April 4th
Salem, Mass........Sunday, April 11th
C. R. PARSONS.

New Bedford......Sundays, Feb. 28th and March 7th
Springfield........Sundays, March 14th, 21st and 28th
Natick........Sunday, April 4th
Plymouth........Sunday, April 11th
E. OWEN.

Allenstown, N. H. (school-house near depot) Sunday, March 7th.
Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sun., March 21st.
Bow Centre........Sunday, March 28th
A. T. HODGDON.

Barkhampsted........Sunday, March 21st
Campville........Sunday, March 28th
S. WOODRUFF.

South Rochester, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
J. DAVIS.

Otisfield (Gore school-house)........Sunday, March 7th
JARED WHITMAN.

Whitakerville, Vt........Sunday, March 7th
East Pepperell, Mass........Sunday, March 14th
J. A. PACKARD.

East Concord, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Hereford, P. Q. (Hall Stream school-house, near Bro. Hodges) Sunday, March 7th, and on as the Lord may direct. T. E. LANG, JR.

Stewartstown, N. H. (Bare Rock school-house) Sunday, March 7th. U. G. LADD.

Scitico, Ct........Sundays, March 7th, 14th, and 21st
New Haven, Ct........Sunday, March 28th
H. C. SMITH.

Rochester, N. H........Sunday, March 14th
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

South Newmarket, Me........March 5th
Great Falls, Me........Sunday, March 7th
Kennebunk Depot, Me........March 9th
Biddeford, Me........March 10th
Brunswick, Me........evening, March 13th and over the Sabbath.
Richmond, Me........March 20th and 21st
Belgrade Mills, Me........Sunday, March 28th
Mercer, Me........Sunday, April 4th
THOMAS RINES.

Colebrook, N. H. (Court House) Sunday, March 7th, and evenings during the week intervening
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Newmarket, N. H........Sunday, March 7th
Lee Village........Wednesday evening, March 9th
South Newmarket........evening, March 11th
Lee (Union house)........Sunday, March 14th
Lee Village (where the brethren may appoint) Monday evening, March 15th. J. L. CHUTE.

Marshfield, Erie Co., N. Y........March 9th—10th
Morton's Corners........March 11th—14th
Nunda Station, Livingston Co., N. Y. (as Bro. Whipple appoints) March 16th.
West Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y........March 17th
Swale school-house, Steuben Co. (near Bro. Drakes) March 18th
Swale school-house, (near Bro. Titus')....March 19th
Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y. (Lyon school-house) evening, March 20th, and Sunday, March 21st, at 11 A. M., and at the village in the evening.
Buffalo, N. Y. (528 Eagle Street) first Sunday in each month. JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Biddeford, Me., the first Sunday in the month. Hollis Centre the second Sunday. Kennebunkport the third Sunday. Bonny Eagle the fourth Sunday, till further notice. JESSE GAY.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
E. Gordon........Sunday, March 7th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, March 14th
W. N. Pile........Sunday, March 21st
J. Couch........Sunday, April 11th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
A. Ross........Sundays, March 14th and 21st
J. Couch........Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, April 4th and 11th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 7th
H. F. Carpenter........Sunday, March 14th
S. S. Brewer........Sunday, March 28th

CLINTON, MASS
J. Hemenway........Sunday, March 7th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
A. Ross........Sunday, March 7th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 14th
Daniel Churchill........Sunday, March 21st
John Parsons........Sunday, March 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)....Sunday, March 7th
Mrs. M. McKinstry........Sunday, March 14th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis........third Sunday in each month

NEWCASTLE, N. H.
Hiram Munger........Saturday evening, March 6th
S. Varney........Sunday, March 7th
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, March 21st
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, March 28th

SEABROOK, N. H.
John Couch........Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh........Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons........Sunday, March 28th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, April 4th
S. S. Mooney........Sunday, April 11th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, April 25th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, May 2d
J. G. Smith........Sunday, May 9th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
Thomas Rines........Sunday, March 7th
I. C. Wellcome........Sunday, March 14th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, March 21st
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, March 28th
J. T. Chamberlin........Sunday, April 4th

DOVER, N. H.
E. B. Wells........Sunday, March 7th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, March 14th
C. W. Sargent........Sunday, March 21st
J. W. White........Sunday, March 28th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
Hiram Munger........Sunday, March 7th

HAMPTON, N. H.
Enoch Morrill........Sundays, March 7th and 28th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
L. Boutell........Sunday, March 7th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, March 21st
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 28th

ROCHESTER, N. H.
T. W. Piper........Sunday, March 7th
L. Boutell........Sunday, March 21st

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
W. H. Mitchell........Sunday, March 7th
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, March 14th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, March 21st

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. W. White........Sunday, March 14th

LEWISTON, ME.
G. L. Tracy........Sunday, March 7th
C. Goud........Sunday, March 14th
I. C. Wellcome........Sunday, March 28th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Jesse Gay........Sunday, March 7th
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, March 14th
A. Ross........Sundays, March 21st and 28th

ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, March 7th
S. G. Low........Sabbath, March 14th
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, March 21st
Jer. Hill........Sabbath, March 28th

STEEP FALLS, ME. (Depot Hall.)
C. H. Sweet........Sunday, March 7th

SPRINGVALE, ME.
L. W. Gowen........Sunday, March 7th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, March 14th
J. W. White........Sunday, March 28th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, March 7th
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 14th
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 21st
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 28th

BRISTOL, CT.
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, March 7th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, March 14th
G. L. White........Sunday, March 21st

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
O. D. Woodruff........Sunday, March 7th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, March 14th

YALESVILLE, CT.
S. Woodruff........Sunday, March 14th

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Seventh Street, below Poplar.
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allegheny, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven A. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CLINTON, MASS.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings, at Burditt Hall. Preachers will please correspond with Isaac Barnes, Clinton.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro O. S. French, Clerk.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

RYE, N. H.—Bro. E. B. Wells having been chosen pastor of the church in Rye, will supply the desk every Sabbath, except the first of each month (that being supplied by Bro. J. W. White.) All communications relative to preaching should be directed to him at North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

BIDDEFORD, ME.—Meetings are held at the Advent Chapel, Hill Street, every Sabbath morning, afternoon and evening; also Wednesday and Saturday evenings, at the usual hours; preachers will please correspond with T. W. Applebee, Box 1340.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

THERE will be preaching at Cabot, Vt., in the Advent Chapel, every Sabbath, at the usual hours, until further notice. E. N. MORSE.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ CALEB RICHARDSON'S address is Salem Depot, N. H.

☞ ROLAND D. GRANT'S address is Athol Depot, Mass., Box 292.

☞ F. A. BAKER'S address is 15 Centre Street, Bangor, Me.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—L Albert Libby, B Kneeper, S M Parsons, Dr S R Breed, E B Card, Dr Witt Harrown, D M Leavitt, H B Sevey, A H Post, Wm Morrill, John C Snell, A J Young, C Crowell, J R Smith, C W Sargent, R F Clark, A S Sales, J T Ongley, A A Hoyt, W H Rogers.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—I N Perkins 65c, B F Wilkins 13c, Mrs G Harvey 10c, A M Smith 10c, W J Mann 6c, Geo W Wright 50c, E K Smith 10c, A Randall 35c, A S Burnham 50c, N Howard $1.00, L Gokey 50c, W L Sargent 10c, E B Wells $1 50, W P Hall 10c, H Gardner $1.00, E Cross 50c, Thos. Barnes 60c, F Dutton 10c, Geo Thomson 50c, Carrie Barnum $1 50, G E Okerlind 5c, Jas J Patrick 50c, A C Geer 10c, H A Arnold $1 50, Geo W Thomas $1 35, C L Gilbert 5c, J Burgess 10c, J C Montgomery 25c, Mrs F Tibballs 25c, H Tomlinson 5c, W N Pile 75c, J Whyman $2 40, J S Dolme 10c, M F Holman 10c, Geo Mitchell 50c, C Crowell $3 50, A M Matts 10c, D S Young 25c, J A Young 10c, E A Peart 50c, A Beardsley 25c, R L Johnston $1 00, M Anderson 3c, J M Cross 25c, A C Crawford 10c, W H Simmons 20c, C Helme 10c, H Hemenway 25c, L Gokey 25c, R D Wolcott 10c, M A Weaver 25c, W H Rogers $3.50.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—Elder A M Smith, Mrs G Harvey, B F Wilkins, I N Perkins, J F Clothey, W N Pile, S M Rathbone, L Gokey, T Harrison, A French, F Reynolds, N H Lindley, Eld H Davis, M L Sargent, A S Burnham, A Randall, G W Wright, E K Smith, W I Mann, W P Hall, H Gardner (2 pack), E Cross, Mrs E M Moore, S H Pratt, H A Arnold, J Benson, C L Gilbert, M F Holman, J S Dolme, H Tomlinson, Mrs F Tibballs, J Burgess, J C Montgomery, A Beardsley, Geo Thomson, Jas J Patrick, T Barnes, F Dutton, A C Geer, A M Matts, G E Okerlind, J A Young, D S Young, G W Ficks, C W Tillotson, C Crowell, G Mott, J L Avery, J Whyman, J W Thomas, Rev E C Peart, J H Wilson, R L Johnston, W H Simmons, A C Crawford, S M Cross, M Anderson.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—H Pratt, A W Sibley, S Maybey, J W Burroughs, Z Whitney, J E Clark, G H Howard, D Weaver, C F Carman, M Bedell, A Dinsmore, I Ahlborn, C Colegrove, M Caswell, A R Clark, M Eastman, W H Webster, H W Williams, G E Merrill, S R Rogers, D Stiles, J B Elliott, E Marston, E Habbel, F A Baker, W Hobbs, H A Gilbert, J Thompson, B L Clark, S L Hubbard, L A Wheeler, A F Packard, W J Covey, D S Brewer, W Kellaway, A Parmelee.

UNION IN CHRIST.
AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate: 1. Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls; 2. It will advocate the formation and endowment of a Union Evangelist Society, for the employment of able men, full of the Holy Spirit, and wise to win souls, as evangelists in congregations and places desiring and needing special help—always preferring the weakest and most needy.

It is the desire of the Publisher to secure, as soon as possible, representative men in all the truly Christian denominations as contributing editors, and to make the paper a means, by the blessing of God, of doing great good. Able writers in the various denominations will contribute to its columns. The paper will contain a monthly summary of Religious Intelligence, Sketches of Sermons by distinguished Preachers; also a Youth's Page and Home Department.

TERMS: Post-paid, single copy, $1 a year; 75 cents to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions.

Agents wanted everywere. Terms and Sample Copies sent free. Address H. A. KING, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers for the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.
HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen. $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express.
AG'T.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

"THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR." A Contrast to the Immaterial and Speculative System of Anti-Millenarianism, expressed in "The End of All Things," and other kindred works. 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE "GERSHOM" TRACTS. Packets of three—The Morning Star, Daybreak, and Sunrise. Per packet, 10 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE SPUR AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE STUDY of Greek. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

SPIRITUAL PRESENCE not BETTER THAN BODILY. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

ESSAYS CRITICAL AND THEOLOGICAL. Of interest to the Bible student and scholar. $1.50; postage 20 cts.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

HADES: OR, THE INTERMEDIATE STATE OF Man. Arguing DEATH in death, unconsciousness, silence and inaction. Highly spoken of. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history.
AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."
Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."
Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."
This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"
is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the
"Slaying of the Witnesses."
10 cts. AG'T.

WINTER—1875.

I. I. LESLIE.

Oh! the cold and dreary winter!
How it presseth on the poor
While the snow grows higher, higher,
Deeper, deeper at the door!

Oh, the storm! how wild and fearful!
How it rageth all the night!
How it snoweth! how it bloweth!
Hiding e'en the morning's light!

Down the mountain's side it leapeth;
Through the valley, o'er the plain,
By the cottage low it sweepeth,
Loud proclaiming Winter's reign.

Hushed is streamlet, hushed is river;
Hidden is the water bright;
And the frost goes farther, farther,
Deeper, deeper every night.

Oh! the hard and cruel winter!
How it lingers! how it stays!
Growing older, growing colder,
Through the night, and lengthening days.

Fainter, fainter grow the voices,
In the dwelling of the poor;
And the wind comes chilly, chilly,
In around the broken door.

By the embers, closer, closer,
Dear ones gather—hands and hearts
Growing weaker, growing colder—
Watching while the night departs.

Cold and famine! cold and famine!
Now upon the winds they fly;
Pressing in by many a door,
Closing many a tearful eye.

Bread and fuel! bread and fuel!
Ye who have of these in store,
Hasten to the lowly dwelling
Of the freezing, starving poor.

Feb. 11th, 1875.

A THRUST AT ATHEISM,
AND
EVIDENCES OF GOD'S EXISTENCE.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

The grand central truth of divine revelation, and the one around which cluster all the great moral principles which are calculated to elevate and make noble mankind, is the fact of the existence of an all-wise, eternal, supreme Being, as the great first cause of all things, both visible and invisible. To banish this thought from the minds of human beings, and blot this fact from the Bible—the book of books—the world would would be as dark, morally, as this planet would be, literally, to blot out the sun.

There is no truth more grandly illustrated and clearly developed in the material world —the book of nature—than the fact of an Almighty Power lying back of the wonderful phenomena of nature's great exhibitions. To deny this truth, and to obscure this light, is to oppose the clearest evidence touching any one subject of which humanity has any knowledge.

There seems to be a demand made upon all who can read the handi-work of Deity, and are settled in their minds respecting the evidences of his existence, and who do not "believe that God is everything and everything is God," as some affirm, to present logical arguments and convincing discourses upon the great theme of God's existence, and of his sovereignty over the universe. This is apparent since infidelity of the boldest type is stalking in every possible place where it can get a foothold, and defying the humble and faithful ones to produce their cause and show forth their strong reasons.

At this period, when the dark waves of Atheism and demonology are lashing the shores of the christian world, and threatening the interests of Christ's cause, there is a loud call for every defender of truth to enter the arena and unsheath the sword for a conflict, in the name of the God of Israel. The battle may wax hot, and the engagement be one of a fierce character, and the smoke and din of war be witnessed to an unparalelled extent, yet victory is sure to perch upon the banners of the cross-bearing army, and the palm of victory be borne away by Immanuel's friends, the enemy demoralized and put to flight, and the sunshine of peace beam forth on an adoring world.

In calling the attention of the reader to some thoughts embraced in this subject, we shall introduce an argument drawn from the following:—

(1) Cause and Effect.

(2) An Argument from Design.

First. Cause and effect. We think it must be obvious to every candid mind that it is a correct way, to reason from cause to effect. This system of reasoning holds good when applied to moral as well as to material things. There are no moral, physical, or political changes that occur in our world, but what there can be found a cause to produce those changes.

Again, wherever we can find an effect in the universe we may conclude that there was a cause to produce that effect, and that the cause existed prior to the effect. From an effect we can learn something of the nature, power and efficiency of the cause that produced it. Every effect must have an adequate cause; that is, a cause capable of making the effect what it is.

We think the following points are embraced in this subject. 1. A cause is something. It has a real existence. It is not a name for a certain relation. It is an entity, —a real substance. This must be obvious; for a nonentity cannot act. If that which does not exist can be a cause, then nothing can produce something; which is an impossibility.

2. A cause must not only be something real, but it must have power or efficiency. There must be something in its nature to account for the effect which it produces. Then every effect must have an adequate cause.

Again, whatever exists must have a cause of its existence in itself or outside of itself, or it must have been brought into existence by a pre-existing cause. Does the universe have the cause of its existence in itself? We respond in the negative. The world did not make itself; if so, where did the first particles of matter come from, out of which the universe was formed? Does not the wonderful arrangement of the universe show most conclusively that it is an effect produced by a previously existing cause? The universe has an existence. It therefore owes its existence to a cause antecedent or outside of itself, adequate to account for its being what it is.

Since, then, nonentity cannot be the cause of real existence; therefore something must have existed from all eternity as the great first cause of all things both visible and invisible.

Again, if there is intelligence exhibited in the effect, the cause or agent that produced it must be intelligent. To illustrate this point: suppose a man builds a house; having completed it in all of its departments, he can say the house is; that is, it exists; it is made. Now the cause of the existence of the house does not lie within itself, but outside of itself; and existed prior to the house being built. The house exhibits the fact that an intelligent agent produced it. The intelligence is not in the house, but in the man who made it. The power and intelligence of a cause are understood by the work it produces. The house is an effect. The power and intelligence of the cause that constructed the house are exhibited in the structure itself, and are distinct from and superior to the building.

The universe exhibits the highest order of intelligence and power. So then, the cause that produced it must be omniscient and omnipotent, all knowing and all powerful; which attributes belong to the great God of the Hebrew prophets and patriarchs.

This leads us to notice the second division of our subject, viz.,

An Argument drawn from Design.

Let us state it in a syllogistic form. Design supposes a designer. The world everywhere exhibits marks of design. Therefore the world owes its existence to an intelligent agent or designer.

By design is intended, 1. The selection of an end to be attained. 2. The choice of suitable means for its attainment. 3. The actual application of those means for the accomplishment of the proposed end. Such being the nature of design, it is a self-evident truth that it is indicative of intelligence, will and power. It is simply saying that intelligence in the effect implies intelgence in the cause. It is a clearly indicated fact that the object designed is distinct and separate from the designer. It is moreover true that the intelligence indicated by design is not in the thing designed. The mind indicated in a book is not the book itself, but is that which is possessed by the author of the book. The intelligence revealed by a calculating machine, or any similar work of art is not in the material employed, but in the inventor and artist. The mind indicated by the structure of the bodies of plants is not in the plant, but in the being or agent who made them. And in like manner the mind indicated in the world itself is in the great Agent who produced it. There is an obvious difference between the works of God, in this respect, and the works of man.

In every product of human art, dead materials are employed, fashioned, and united to accomplish a given purpose; but some of the organized works of nature are animated by a living principle, such as vegetable and animal. In other words, they grow; they are not constructed. In this respect there is a great difference between a house and a human body. But nevertheless, the mind that produced them is external to the things produced, and existed prior to their production. As the plan or idea of a piece of mechanism must have existed in the mind of the inventor and constructor before the machine was made, so the plan of the human body must have existed in the mind of the Maker before it was formed. So also in relation to the universe. The plan must have existed in the mind of the Architect before it was made.

Such is the nature of the argument drawn from design, that of necessity it implies an intelligent agent; and, therefore, wherever or whenever we see evidences of design, we are convinced that is to be referred to the operation of mind. On this ground we are not authorized, but compelled to apply the argument from design far beyond the limits of human experience, and to say, It is just as evident that the universe had an intelligent Creator, as that a book had an author. If a man can believe that a book was written by a blind, unconscious force, or by chance, then he may be led to believe that his own material being is but the development of the mushroom, or the oyster, and monkey, as Pantheists and Spiritists do.

The evidences of design are as numerous as the leaves of the forest, or as the objects are with which the visual organ, the eye, comes in contact. No work of art can compare with the nicety and completeness of the separate organs of organized bodies. In the eye, for an example, there is the most perfect optical instrument ever constructed, plainly setting forth the fact of the adaptation of means to an end. So also the ear of the human body. In its cavity lies the auditory nerve and all necessary arrangements for conveying sound; indicating in a very positive manner the fact of design. Throughout the whole animal kingdom there are indisputable evidences of design, from the glow worm in the sand, to the most noble animal there is to be found on this planet.

The vegetable kingdom is as full of indications of design as the animal. Plants have their organism and their physiology. Shall we say that chance affected this grand arrangement which is witnessed in the vegetable kingdom? or shall we say these vegetable substances were thrown together by a blind unintelligent force, and made to exhibit the nicety of structure with which they are characterized? Do not the little twigs, the beautiful flowers, the blades of grass, speak in a voice unmistakable to the inquiring mind, that an intelligent agent formed them? Throughout the vast universe order reigns. In the midst of endless variety, there is unity. The same laws of gravitation, of light and heat, everywhere prevail. Order is the sure indication of mind and intelligence.

This argument of design is constantly urged by the writers of the Old and New Testaments. In the Psalms we read,—"He that planted the ear shall he not hear? he that formed the eye shall he not see? he that teacheth man knowledge shall he not know?" "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse." Rom. 1:20. Here the argument is clearly developed that God is made known and understood by the things which are made; "even his eternal power and Godhead." These are only a few of the many Scriptures that might be brought forward to show that this argument of design is made prominent by the inspired writers of the Bible. Wherever there is an exhibition of design there is associated with it the fact of the intelligence of the designer.

Again, whenever there is intelligence manifested in the cause that produces an effect and also in the agent that produces design, there is implied the fact of the personality of the designer; because there cannot be intelligence disconnected from personality. Since, then, the universe everywhere presents evidences of intelligence and design, we are driven to the conclusion that the Agent that produced them must possess personality and intelligence. And this accords with the testimony of the apostle where he says: "Who being the brightness of his glory and the express image of his person." Heb. 1:3.

The grandeur of the argument of design is only seen when the principles involved therein are practically applied to material things. It must, we think, be obvious to every intelligent mind, when the facts are taken into consideration connected with the subjects of design, and cause, and effect, and applied to the surrounding objects of nature, that an All-wise, Self-existent, Omnipotent Being formed this wonderful arrangement, which we behold in the universe, as we gaze into the firmament of the heavens. Indeed the power and force of the argument drives us to this conclusion. Shall we stand out against facts? Shall we set aside all principles of logic and reason, and turn a deaf ear to incontrovertible demonstrations? Is it possible that men will throw away their common sense and blindly assert there is no God, when the very air they breathe and the earth on which they tread, and the vast concave and expanse over their heads speak in thunder tones the sublime fact of his existence and power, as well as his sovereignty over the universe.

O what mind! what wisdom! what power! what grandeur does this universe display! And yet there are those who contend that God is everything and everything is God. But it can no more be demonstrated than that the human body itself is the agent that produced it.

The work which an agent performs is not the agent itself. The house which a man builds is not the man who built it. The watch is not the watch maker; neither is the universe the being who made it. The maker is always distinct from, and superior to the thing made. So God is distinct from and superior to all his works.

The Pantheistic theory respecting God, when viewed in the light of the above facts, falls to the ground powerless. It is a great wonder to us how an idea of this kind could find a place in the mind of any intelligent person; but such are the views of millions to-day. O that men would see the great truth of God's existence which stands out so conspicuously on every page of nature's great book!

"There is a God—all nature speaks
Through earth and air and sea and skies;
See, from the clouds his glory breaks
When earliest beams of morning rise."

Perhaps we have discussed the questions involved in the heading of this article to an extent that this fact has been established in the mind of the reader that

"'Twas God who hurl'd the rolling spheres,
And stretch'd the boundless skies;
Who form'd the plan of endless years,
And bade the ages rise."

Here we leave the reader to consider the force and strength of the arguments presented, and hope that God will continue to let the light shine upon the minds of his servants, that they may be enabled to breast the infidelity of these times, and be ready to say in the language of the poet—

"Ere mountains reared their forms sublime,
Or the fair earth in order stood,
Before the birth of ancient time,
From everlasting, thou art God."

DISCUSSION AT SPRINGVALE.

As some of our brethren and friends wish us to give the facts about our discussion, I will write them as near as I can. I met my opponent, Mr. Phillips, in the Baptist church. He is a Spiritualist. The question to be discussed was read by the chairman:—

Resolved, That man, after passing through what is called death, is a conscious being."

Mr. Phillips affirmed. His first argument was the "witch of Endor." He tried to make the people believe that she raised Samuel; but could not prove it. I showed them that Saul never saw Samuel, and proved it. He next took the "transfiguration." I read what Jesus said about it when he came down from the mount. He then brought up the "souls under the altar." I showed that John saw them in the future; not when the revelation was given. He touched the "thief on the cross." But the people were made to see that he did not die the same day that Christ did.

These were what he dwelt on principally during the three evenings. The first evening I quoted from the Greek and Hebrew, the words soul, spirit, and hell; upon which Mr. Phillips brought a Greek scholar on the stand, to give the meaning of the word hades. He located it in the bottom of the earth; but I failed to find any one who could tell us where the bottom of a ball was when it was rolling. He then tried to mend it by saying that, when the word was spoken the earth was flat; but I failed to find any history to tell us when God ever flattened out the earth after he made it round. This Greek scholar carried the idea that the souls of both good and bad were in hades, only separated by a partition. So we reasoned that they could not be in heaven, or in eternal torment, if they were in the bottom of the earth.

Mr. Phillips spoke of the translation of Elijah. I told the people that we had no account of Elijah being with God; that is, in his presence. Then he accused me of saying that Elijah was not in heaven nor on this planet; which was not so, and the people could see it. I answered all his questions, but he answered none of mine. He stated that man was a part of God, and God was a part of man. I told the people that he said man was infallible. He denied it; but when I showed them what he did say, he said that God was not infallible. He stated that the resurrection took place at the burning bush; but I found to the contrary, showing to the people that if they believed that they must be Sadducees.

His greatest point was the "witch of Endor." He dwelt on it every evening, and it was really the weakest argument I ever heard on the subject. Mr. Phillips claimed five points; and I claimed two hundred and five.

The discussion closed Saturday evening with good feelings. The chairman wished to take a vote, which we had agreed not to do; but gave way for a vote on Mr. Phillip's side, but would not consent to one on our side. He had about thirty votes out of an audience of seven or eight hundred people. I preached Sunday at the Advent Hall, presenting the three following subjects: Thief on the Cross, Rich Man and Lazarus, and Modern Spiritualism. When I got through I gave liberty, if any wished to go with us, to manifest it. Three rose for prayers. Bro. L. W. Gowen assisted, who is preaching the gospel in that place and elsewhere. I think good has resulted from it, and feel like praising God and praying that he will bless the people and bring more to see the light.

H. S. Pinkham.

PRE-EMINENCE OF CHRIST.

S. B. MABEY, JR.

"That among all things he might have the pre-eminence." Col. 1:18.

The object of preaching Christ is to draw men to him. He being the author and finisher of the christian faith, made the way possible by which mankind can be saved; hence he says, "I am come that ye might have life."

In beholding Christ, we see first that he is pre-eminent in his person. Paul expresses it thus: "God was manifest in the flesh." "The express image of his (Father's) person." His body was the true tabernacle of divinity by which he made full atonement for the lost race of Adam.

Again, he is pre-eminent in his affections. The New Testament abounds in figures, and representations of the tenderness and gentleness of the nature of Christ. There is nothing that seems good, beautiful, or glorious, but that has been appropriated in some form or other of parable, symbol, or figure, to describe his loving-kindness to man in the offering of himself a sacrifice for the sins of the people.

Very often people say, If Christ be Lord over all the earth, as the everlasting Father, where is the evidence of it outside the Bible? If the world is ruled by an administration of love and mercy, what means all these exhibitions in the world, which seem so contrary to that fact? Why is this outward world going deeper and deeper into trouble? There is bloodshed, and tears, death, separations, and disappointments everywhere. There is universal pain. "All creation groaneth and travaileth in pain." All this we see, yet if Christ loved the world, and left the shining realms above to come on earth to suffer for men, and to show them the way of hope and mercy, what means this seeming contradiction?

For a solution of this problem, we are led to the Bible for light, which declares, "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven hid in three measures of meal." "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation." The elements of that kingdom are not meat and drink, but righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

For experimental explanation we go to the interior working of divine grace which is going on silently in the hearts of God's people, developing in them a nobler manhood, a preparation for the better life in the world to come.

Although the ills of mortality are the common lot of all, yet within the hearts of those who accept Christ to rule in them by the power of his Holy Spirit, there is knowledge of the pre-eminent affection of Christ, based upon the knowledge derived from actual experience. The apostle says—"You hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins." "Ye are the temples of the Holy Spirit. If any man defile the temple, him will God destroy." And there is also to the christian not only this internal knowledge of the love of Christ, but by the Scriptures they know that the period of sorrow and sin, coming upon Adam's race, will have an end by the establishment of the everlasting kingdom of God.

It is written—"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit; for the Spirit searcheth all things; yea, the deep things of God." "Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God, that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God."

Again, Christ is pre-eminent in the grandeur of his works.

"All things were made by him, and without him was not anything made that was made." "By whom also he made the world." "For by him were all things created that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible; whether they be thrones or dominions, or principalities, or powers; all things were created by him and for him." The Psalmist, speaking of the wonderful works of creation, says—"The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge. Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun; which is as a Bridegroom coming out of his chamber; and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race. His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it."

The Bible abounds with beautiful descriptions of the wonderful works of the Creator." We behold the pre-eminence of Jesus in his works of providence, both special and universal. By his universal providence he cares for a guilty race. "He sendeth the rain upon the just and upon the unjust." "As in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive; but every man in his own order." He tasted death for every man, and consequently mankind are in probation (as Adam), and if they suffer the final penalty of the laws of God—the second death, it is because of their own sins unrepented of.

He has a special providence for his people. Amid their trials, full provisions have been made for every emergency and difficulty in life. Like one about to take a long journey for a distant land, they calculate upon the various arising contingencies of the entire route, and pack up the necessary articles for the comfort of the travelers. So with Jesus, in his care for his people. He says, "that in me ye might have peace." "In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Having been tempted, "he knoweth how to succor them that are tempted." It has "pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell." Therefore he has grace for the humble and contrite in heart.

To look at the masses of people the world over, it might not seem that any one cared for them; yet to the disciple, Jesus has said, however poor he may be, and forsaken by the world, "The very hairs of your head are all numbered;" and as not a sparrow falls to the ground without the Father's notice, so the christian, being of "more value than many sparrows, is cared for with eternal love. He can send even the ravens to feed the hungry, and send his angels as ministering spirits, to the heirs of salvation, to protect and provide for them.

Jesus says—"My sheep hear my voice, and I give unto them eternal life." "They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth forever." We read—"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures, he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul. He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me. Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

Jesus is also pre-eminent in all things by his work of redemption.

His plan is that which gives all the glory to God, and love and mercy to man; and what he does is of grace. All the doctors in the land could not tell the reason of the healing power of the brazen serpent by the law of science. It was a gift of divine power. So salvation by Christ is a free-will offering. "For by grace are ye saved, through faith; and that, not of yourselves, it is the gift of God." "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ."

Christ is pre-eminent in his power to pardon and save the sinner. In vain do men go to the Virgin Mary, saints, or martyrs. Neither will the God of nature suffice; for when the cry is made, "What shall I do to be saved?" from the penitent ones, Jesus says, "Come unto me, all the ends of the earth, and be ye saved." "Though your sins be as scarlet, yet I will make them white as wool." Says the apostle, "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin." And if we will but let him apply the antidote, and be believing, we can be saved.

It is his prerogative not only to pardon and save those who comply with the requirement of the gospel, but he will grant eternal life to all his people. In this he is pre-eminent; there being "none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Hence we read—"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time." Consequently we see not only is Christ pre-eminent to pardon and save his people and grant them eternal life, but he has power to keep his people continually unto salvation, to be revealed at the second appearing of Christ to judge the world in righteousness.

Since the Savior is pre-eminent in all things, how important to the christian that they render him the best powers of their being, their continual service of love and obedience; knowing that he who is destined to be King of the future kingdom, is pre-eminent in this, that he will soon take his throne and reign forever and ever.

Amboy, Ill., Feb. 9th, 1875.

THE CHURCH AT CHARLTON.

As many readers of the Crisis are interested in the affairs of the church at this place, they will be glad to learn that an effort has been put forth by Brn. Ayres and Hall, of Worcester, to reorganize a church here. These brethren have been instrumental in the hands of the Lord, with others, in leading out a people to turn from idols, to serve the living God, and to wait for his Son from heaven. They seemed to feel divinely impressed with the conviction that one more effort should be made to bring about a better state of things.

As the church had become disorganized and scattered, they planned to visit them at their homes, and propose to them a Covenant, as the basis for the reorganization of the church. After about ten days labor among them, they succeeded in getting the names of between thirty and forty, who voluntarily signed the Covenant, and a meeting was called Feb. 10th, for the work of reorganization; the doings of which is now reported by the Secretary for publication in the Crisis (according to a vote of the church).

The brethren in Christ in this place met this day, according to notice duly given, for the reorganization of the church. Eld. S. Ayres called the meeting to order; and after singing, prayer, and reading the Scriptures, made appropriate remarks relating to church organization, and the respective duties of Elders and Deacons.

Remarks were also made by Brn. Hall and Merriam, on the same subject. The Covenant was then read, and the opportunity presented for others to sign. Four more added their names. The names were then read, numbering in all forty-two. The meeting was then organized by the choice of Eld. S. Ayres for Chairman, and J. D. Merriam Clerk. Adjourned.

The P. M. session was opened with prayer by Bro. Hall. The following business was done.

Voted, That all former organizations of this church be rescinded.

Voted, That the sisters have an equal right to act with the brethren in all the deliberations of this meeting.

Voted, That the officers be chosen by ballot by a plurality vote. The Chairman was empowered to appoint a committee to distribute, collect, and count votes; and appointed Brn. Patterson and Dugar. The following list of officers was then duly chosen:

Elder: Bro. Moses White.
Deacons: Brn. E. F. Partridge, Henry Tucker.
Treas. and Col.: Moses White.
Clerk: Bro. Wm. J. Patterson.
Preaching Com.: Brn. J. O. Corttis, E. W. Bond, David M. Morse.
Sexton: Bro. Lucian Dugar.
Trustees: Brn. W. M. Hall, S. Ayres, H. Tucker, L. Dugar.

A subscription paper was then prepared and circulated to raise funds to meet the expenses of the church, and given into the hands of the Collector.

Voted then, as follows: That this church be called the Second Advent Church of Charlton. That the sexton be empowered to keep order in the meetings. That the minutes of this meeting be published in the Crisis. That the Preaching Com. arrange with the Sexton as to the price of the care of the house. That future members be received by a three-fourth vote of members present. That the last Friday evening before the first Sabbath in each month there be a meeting of the church at which any legitimate business shall be done. That the Ordinances of the church be celebrated the first Sabbath in every month, at which the Covenant shall be read, and new members, if any, be admitted. That the regular prayer meetings be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings. Adjourned sine die.

J. D. Merriam, Clerk.

It may be well to remark, that the meeting was one of great harmony and good feeling. There seems to have been a super intending Providence in every step taken, for which we gave heartfelt thanks to our God. There appears now, nothing in the way of prosperity.

Let the kind feelings, mutual forbearance and love, now manifested, be perpetuated, and the words of the poet will be verified.

"How sweet and heavenly is the sight,
When those who love the Lord,
In one another's peace delight,
And so fulfill his word.

"Behold, how good, and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

God bless the church in Charlton. J. D. M.

ANOTHER YEAR.

MRS. H. W. CLARK.

Again we've arrived at the season
When the bleak winds of winter we hear,
And thus been permitted to witness
The dawn of another new year.

'Tis sad to contemplate the omens,
While viewing the year that has spanned—
Those fearful, appalling disasters,
That have swept over ocean and land.

The earth seems upheaving and groaning,
And wickedness seems to abound;
While some, with an outward profession,
In the gay giddy circles are found.

But those that have watched for the "tokens"
Through earth's long and tedious career,
Can lift up their heads with rejoicing,
Believing redemption is near.

Lord, speed on this dark night of sorrow!
And make this earth over anew;
Ope the pearly gates of the city;
Let the ransomed ones safely go through.

Wrentham, Mass.

CONFERENCE REPORT.

The Hoosick Valley Conference held their first quarterly session with the church at Hebron, N. Y., commencing Jan. 20th, and continuing over the following Sunday. Preachers present: A. W. Sibley, Sandy Hill, N. Y.; H. K. Flagg, Rutland, Vt.; E. D. Kemp, Pownal, Vt.; C. W. Baker, Shushan, N. Y.; W. J. Blanchard, Pownal, Vt.; W. O. Higley, Bennington, Vt.; A. A. Waite, Rutland, Vt.; Mrs. Mary L. Tower, North Adams, Mass.; Bro. Geo. A. Streeter, of the Mass. Conference.

Delegates: Nelson Robertson, So. Worthington; J. H. Stockwell, Hoosick, N. Y.; A. A. Waite, Rutland, Vt.; John Hedges, Jackson, N. Y.; Wm. O. Munson, E. C. Cox, Hebron, N. Y.; A. Gleason, Factory Point, Vt.

The reports from preachers and delegates were cheering, taken as a whole.

In Hoosick there has been a growing interest since the conference in October. Twenty-one have been baptized since that time, and the people throughout that region are very much interested to hear the truth proclaimed. The work is still going on.

In Rutland, although there is no excitement, new ones are being added to the church. They have very interesting prayer meetings.

Bro. Richard Mosher reported by letter. He has been having affliction in his family, so that he has not been able to preach much of late. Bro. A. A. Waite, formerly a resident of St. Louis, and the first one that Bro. Flagg baptized while he had charge of the St. Louis mission, was received as a member of the conference.

At Fort Ann, a church consisting of twenty members has been organized under the labors of Bro. Wm. J. Blanchard.

At Factory Point, Vt., a few have started in the service of the Lord, under the labors of Bro. A. A. Waite, and there is a prospect of still greater results. Bro. E. D. Kemp was set apart to the work of the gospel ministry by prayer and the imposition of hands. Prayer by Eld. R. L. Harrison; charge by Eld. A. W. Sibley; right hand of fellowship by Eld. H. K. Flagg.

During the conference there was preaching by Brn. A. W. Sibley, H. K. Flagg, C. W. Baker, E. D. Kemp, Geo. A. Streeter, A. A. Waite, R. L. Harrison, and Sr. Mary L. Tower. Meetings were continued until the middle of the following week, with the expectation that they might continue still longer. Four new ones started, and some that had grown cold and indifferent were quickened.

Let us pray and labor that God's blessing may rest upon this conference.

W. O. Higley, Sec.

FARNHAM DISTRICT MEETING.

The Quarterly Conference in connection with the Advent Christian Conference for the Province of Quebec, convened pursuant to notice, in the Farnham District, Dec. 25th, and continued over the following Sunday.

There was a manifest increase in interest over last year, in the beginning of the meeting, by the number of preaching brethren and others who came from a distance to attend. The united effort of all, with the especial aid of the Divine Spirit, caused the interest to steadily increase.

The preaching was excellent, being deeply imbued with spiritual power. The sentiments presented were—The coming of the Lord, the resurrection and holiness of heart, together with stirring utterances regarding the nature and necessity of a present preparation. The testimonies of all partook of the same lively earnestness. General harmony prevailed, and we trust much good has been done; some fruit being presently manifest, while seed may be sown that eventually will yield an abundant harvest.

The business sessions were well attended, and the reports from the various sections of the district were very encouraging.

The campmeeting interest was discussed at some length, when it was unanimously resolved that we give to the proposition our fullest sympathy and hearty cooperation. Preaching brethren present: C. P. Dow, Norman Stevens, David Merrill, L. Marsh, Wm. Sweet, L. C. and M. McKinstry, and E. G. Chadsey. Preaching during the conference by Brn. Dow, Stevens, Merrill, McKinstry, and Sr. M. McKinstry.

E. G. Chadsey, District Sec.

HOME AND HEALTH.

GOOD MAXIMS.

Never be idle. If your hands cannot be usefully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind. Always speak the truth. Keep good company or none. Make few promises. Live up to your engagements. Keep your own secrets, if you have any. When you speak to a person, look him in the face. Good company and good conversation are the very sinews of virtue. Good character is above all things else. Never listen to loose or idle conversation. You had better be poisoned in your blood than your principles. Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts. If any one speaks evil of you, let your life be so virtuous that none will believe him. Drink no intoxicating liquors. Ever live, misfortune excepted, within your income. When you retire to bed, think over what you have done during the day. Never speak lightly of religion. Make no haste to be rich, if you would prosper. Small and steady gains give competency with tranquility of mind. Never play at any game of chance. Avoid temptation through fear that you may not withstand it. Earn your money before you spend it. Owe no man anything. Never borrow if you can possibly avoid it. Be just before you are generous. Keep yourself innocent, if you would be happy. Never think that which you do for religion is time or money misspent. Read some portion of the Bible every day. Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness.—Counsels for Life.

The Mother's Influence.—Children require affection. If they do not get it from their parents they will get it elsewhere. And would a parent trust a child's affection to strangers? Thus we see the importance of parental affection. Secure the love of your child, and you secure his attention: then you can mold him, but not otherwise. If the rude society of the street, of promiscuous children attract him—if here he finds his greatest pleasure, he will there find the means of his education; and this early education, the principles then implanted, will never be effaced. He will be good or bad, according to these early impressions; and he will be influenced by them; he must, from necessity; that inquisitive mind of his must gather, and grow on what it gathers. It is important, then, to see that he gathers from the right source. There is no source like that of the parental fount; no one will so take his interest to heart as the parent; and with this advantage the mother may mold her child as she wishes. There are exceptions; but the truth holds good in general.—Ex.

Want of Sleep.—The statistics of lunatic asylums show that want of sleep is the most frequent and immediate cause of insanity. As you look over the history of the inmates, and note the peculiar trials which have shattered their poor heads or hearts, you see that nothing has happened to them save what is common in the varied experiences of this life. Many a one has passed under the same rod, or a heavier one, and come out unharmed, even steadier and stronger for the chastisement. But these sad subjects, from bad habits or bad inheritance, seem to possess some peculiarity of nervous irritability; so when sleep, like a loving mother, would soothe and save them, she can not. No doubt many might have been saved by judicious care at the right time. Needful work is an excellent solace for earthly sorrow. Hence we note that those burdened by labor and care bear grief best; not that their sensibilities are less acute, not from lack of enduring love, but because weary muscles lead to sleep, nature's balmy bath, which soothes aching hearts as well as bodily pain. As the head which aches with thinking can only be cured by sleep, so the heart which thrills with agony needs to be soothed in the same way.—Herald of Health.

On Walking.—The multiplication of horse cars in our cities, though a great convenience, prove a temptation to persons to ride when a walk would be more useful to them, and a saving of expense. The steam-cars are well warmed in the winter; but seldom the street cars. The last are cold and damp; and then, the passenger is generally exposed to drafts of air. The numbers that take cold in these cars are hundreds and thousands. But who is laid up with a cold taken by a walk? The circulation of the the blood, the exercise in the open air, prevents the unpleasant result.

A healthy American lady is a curiosity, she is so afraid of exercise, and of a walk in the open air. If she lives a quarter of a mile from church, she must ride. And so if she makes a call on a neighbor, or ascends a hill to catch a view of the surrounding country, a carriage must serve her purposes. Not so the English lady. She is not afraid of a walk, and a long one of six, or even ten miles. She is well and strong, for she uses the means to be both.—Good Health.

Before Breakfast.—It is a fact that some ladies, who in the street and in the parlor are attractive in appearance, come down to breakfast in what is called dishabille. Our opinion is that the whole family ought to look well in the morning. It is as important that the calico and breakfast dress be rightly adjusted as well as the afternoon silk and the basque. It takes but little longer and it pays well. The children of the household ought to understand that whatever can be done by brush, and mirror, and ribbon, should be done at the start of the day. The first hour of the morning decides whether our children shall be gentlemen and ladies, or boors and slovens. But the younger members of the family will not observe domestic order if the father and mother look like a "perfect fright." Parents are the mir ror by which their children dress.—Christian at Work.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
Private Letters.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

Terms: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1009. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 22.

The World's Crisis, AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER, Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS, TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

VERSES OF THE HEART.

W. KELLAWAY.

The Father took the rod
And smote his Son:
For me was Jesus striped,—
A worm undone.

The Savior took the blow,
In pain he cried;
Then bowing low his head,
For me he died.

There, there, upon the tree,
Pale, ghastly, wan,
I look, and weep, and thus
Behold the Man.

O Jesus hear, O hear,—
I wish that I
Had not committed that
Which made thee die.

But, as 'tis done, I do
My sins deplore;
And, pardoned through thy death,
Would sin no more.

Lord, full of life and love,
Raised from the grave,
I ask thee,—Keep poor me!
Lord Jesus, save!

And when from heaven to earth
Thou shalt draw near,
Hope and trust for me
Thou wilt appear.

10 Warwick Lane, Paternoster Row, London, Eng.

THE PURIFYING HOPE.

G. R. MERRILL.

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure."—JOHN 3: 2, 3.

1. The hope referred to is the coming of Jesus. It is in harmony with the hope presented all through the Scriptures. There is but "one hope" in the plan of God. Hope is made up of desire and expectation. The most popular hope entertained among the professed followers of Jesus is the hope of going to heaven at death. This is not in harmony with God's Word.

To find out whether a hope is genuine, we must examine its foundation. If founded on the Bible, it is genuine; if founded on anything outside of the Word, it is spurious. A hope that leads people to expect to go to heaven at death is a false one. It is not in harmony with the promise of our Savior, which is—"If I go away I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also." A hope that does not include the return of Jesus, as the time when he will receive his people to himself, is unscriptural.

A scriptural and genuine hope is preferable to a false one, though it be unpopular. This hope—the coming of Jesus and its attendant results—is in harmony with the hope presented all through the Bible. Paul, in looking for the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ, calls it a "blessed hope"; and he says—"Our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself." David, in expressing his hope says: "I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness." Job says: "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth; and though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God; whom I shall see for myself, and my eyes shall behold, and not another." It was at the last day that Job expected to see God. It was when "the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise."

When this hope is consummated, we shall be like Christ, having glorified bodies, and mortality will be swallowed up of life. "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality; . . . then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." No wonder, with such glorious results attending when this hope is consummated, that Paul called it a "blessed hope."

Jesus is coming again; not as at first, in weakness, but in power; not to have placed upon his head a crown of thorns, but to be crowned King of kings and Lord of lords. He is coming to save, and to give a crown of righteousness to all who love him. He is coming in power. He is coming with all his holy angels. He is coming to save the pure in heart—the holy ones. He is coming the second time without sin, as a sin offering, unto salvation." Then we shall appear with him in glory. Paradise will be restored, and we shall have a right to the tree of life, and enter in through the gates into the city—"the New Jerusalem."

2. This hope—the coming of Jesus—is the purifying hope; for "every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself." We must have it in the heart before that heart can be purified. Persons may profess to have this hope, may assent to its being the Bible hope, and not have it in the heart; therefore can not and do not purify themselves. It appears to me perfectly natural for a person with such a hope, "looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God," to "cleanse themselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." One who is whole—holy—will not be afraid to meet a holy God;—will not dislike to hear of the coming of the Lord of life and glory—the One who—

"To procure us perfect freedom,
Suffered, groaned and died.
On the cross the healing fountain
Issued from his wounded side."

The apostle to the Corinthians thanked God in their behalf for the grace that was given them, so that they came "behind in no gift, waiting for the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless [pure and holy], in that day." "And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you; to the end that he may establish your hearts in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints." "And the God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Thus we see how inseparable these two doctrines are. They are twin brothers; they go together. It is the coming of the Lord and a preparation to meet him. "Without holiness no man shall see the Lord." The pure in heart shall see God. Holiness is pre-requisite to salvation. We must first become holy, pure, saved from sin, before we can have salvation in the kingdom of God. One writer says: "If we would be pure, let us feed upon this manna—this hope of a coming Christ to put death under our feet—as we bow around the sacramental board and show the Lord's death until he come; thus manifesting our faith in his death and hope of his coming. Let this 'blessed hope' burn and glow in our souls." Another: "I know of no doctrine more sanctifying and quickening than the doctrine of the second advent of Christ. I know none more calculated to draw us from the world, and make us whole-hearted and joyful christians."

The thought of seeing Jesus and being made like him, with sorrow all gone, should inspire us to a more full and complete consecration of all, yes, all we have and are to him and his service. O, to have our loins girded, lamps trimmed and burning, our hearts crying out—"Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly!" In this blessed state we are prepared for labor or for rest. All is well. We are resting, being in harmony with the holy will of God. Let us watch for the coming of our Lord. Happy event! We long to share it with all the saints. "Every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself even as he is pure."

Worcester, Mass.

JESUS IS SOON COMING.

F. M. BROWN.

Dear Readers of the Crisis:—It is now one year since I was brought to see and accept the truth of the soon coming of Jesus. Since then, this has become a glorious theme to me; and as I peruse the Word of God, my faith is strengthened day by day. When I see the corruption existing in the world and in the church, I am forcibly reminded of the words of Paul to Timothy: "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves; covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God. Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away."

These predictions are clearly applicable to these last days; and are a few of the many Scripture evidences which might be given to show that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. There are many professed christians who say that it is no sin to frequent theaters, ball rooms, circuses, tea parties, festivals, and all such worldly amusements. But the Word of God teaches us that we are not of this world; being chosen out of the world. We are, therefore, to shun every appearance of evil. It also requires us to be wholly consecrated to God, by the giving up of father, mother, brothers and sisters, and all earthly possessions; for if we love these objects more than we love Christ, we are not worthy of him. When I see the malice and hatred manifested toward us by many who profess to love and follow Christ, it grieves and saddens my heart. We, who advocate the soon coming of Christ, are regarded by them as a poor deluded class of people. Jesus says: "But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My Lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to smite his fellow-servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken; the Lord shall come in a day when he looketh not for him; and in an hour that he is not aware of; and shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth."

My sincere prayer to God is that they may see their danger and turn from their wickedness. But, notwithstanding all that these evil servants may say and do, the Scriptures cannot be broken. The Word of God remains sure and steadfast. Jesus will soon come in the clouds of heaven. "Immediately after the tribulation of those days (the persecution of the saints), shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken; and then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven; and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn; and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other. Now learn a parable of the fig tree; when his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh. So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, this generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh."

These words were given to cheer and comfort the weary waiting saints of God; and I rejoice that the day of our redemption is so near at hand. O, what a blessed hope will be realized at the appearing of Jesus! I long for his coming, to see him as he is, and be like him.

With all my heart I can exclaim, Come, Lord Jesus; come quickly.

Saco, Maine.

THE EIGHTH HEAD.

J. W. BURROUGHS.

In the seventeenth chapter of Revelation, the inspired writer saw a "scarlet-colored beast, having seven heads and ten horns." In the angel's interpretation he spake of an eighth head. I purpose to show what I understand this eighth head to be.

"The seven heads are seven mountains," or religious governments, which support the Catholic Church; viz., (1) France, (2) Saxony, (3) Franconia, (4) Swabia, (5) Spain, (6) Austria, (7) France again, or "the beast that was, and is not, and yet is, and ascendeth out of the bottomless pit, and goeth into perdition." We understand this seventh head to be France (not Napoleon); and it continued to be the seventh head, or protector of the Papacy, until A. D. 1870, when it was "wounded to death" by Germany. It lost not only its king, but its throne. The French government was overthrown. And yet we read, in Rev. 13: 3, that its "deadly wound was healed," or restored again to a monarchy. Then we shall see the eighth head, which is "of the seven, and goeth into perdition."

The angel further states that "the ten horns" are "ten kings [minor kingdoms], which have received no kingdom as yet [i. e., at "the judgment" in A. D. 1792], but receive power as kings one hour with the beast. These have one mind [the Pope's mind], and shall give their power and strength unto the beast"—which is France—until the end of this world. We understand that the "seven heads" synchronize with the seven remaining horns of Dan. 7, and "the ten horns" of Revelation synchronize with the "ten toes" of Dan. 2, which are the ten Papal or Church States.

We believe that France is to be restored again to a monarchy, and then an alliance will be made between France and the Pope, or Papal States, which will not only develop the eighth head, but will mark the commencement of the last prophetic hour of this world's history. "For God hath put it in their hearts [the ten kings] to fulfill his will, and to agree and give their kingdom unto the beast [which is France restored to a monarchy] until the words of God be fulfilled." Hence, this is the last prophetic hour, or the last link in the chain of prophecy.

When the above alliance is made, the first work would naturally be to restore the Pope's temporal power, by reminding Victor Emanuel of the treaty which was made between them in A. D. 1850. It was, in substance, this: That the Pope's temporal power should not be disturbed in the Church States, including the city of Rome. This was violated in 1870, by the Italian troops forcibly taking possession of the city. France will then undoubtedly notify Italy to withdraw her trooops from Rome, and in Italy's refusing to comply will give France sufficient grounds to declare war against Italy in behalf of the Church. Then will commence the great battle of "Armageddon," which is also "the battle of the great day of God Almighty." Rev. 16. France, Spain, and the Papacy, on the one side, and Italy, Germany and their allies on the other, which will involve nearly the whole world.

Then we may look for that great "time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation, even to that same time; and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book." Dan. 12: 1. In the midst of this great battle, Jesus, our blessed Savior, will "come in the clouds of heaven," and "he will save us" "from the hour of temptation which shall come on all the world."

Then it will be said of a truth, "The hour of his judgment is come." "And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven"; and then shall that last great cry be made, "Behold the Bridegroom cometh!" "and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory; and he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet ["the last trump"], and they shall gather together his elect." Yes, says David, "he shall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth, that he may judge his people. Gather my saints together unto me, those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice." For "we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent [go before] them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first [i. e., before the living ones are caught up]; then we [after being changed to immortal beings] which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air."

Isaiah the prophet says—"Hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast; for, behold, the Lord cometh out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity." This "indignation" Webster says, is "the terrible effect of God's wrath." Malachi says that "the day cometh [as the effect of God's wrath] that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts." Peter also says—"The day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also, and the works that are therein shall be burned up."

This is the "indignation" of God, or "the terrible effect of his anger." This will take place while God's dear children are with "the Lord in the air." Jude says—"Behold the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints." Zechariah says—"The Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with thee." And Daniel says that "the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever." Again—"The kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom." Dan. 7: 18, 27.

My dear brethren, let us watch and pray, for the war clouds are already gathering, and the storm of God's wrath will very soon burst upon an ungodly world, lying in wickedness. The last sad "hour" is fast approaching; also the glorious morn of the eternal day. "Remember, therefore, how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast and repent. If, therefore, thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee." Rev. 3: 3. If we watch, and are patient in well doing, Jesus will not come on us as a thief, but we shall know when the prophetic hour commences, in the which our blessed Lord and Master will make his second advent into this world to raise the dead and reward every one according to their works. Amen.

Raymond, Iowa.

THE CHIEF CORNER STONE.

L. A. WHEELER.

"For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 COR. 3: 11.

No sensible man would build a house on the ice or sand, even if it could be done at less cost; he would much rather dig until he had got below where frost or water could have much effect, and there lay a solid foundation, and on that build his house.

This principle holds its proper and important place in all departments of active life. Reason and experience has taught men this. But when we come to matters connected with our future welfare, less caution and labor are bestowed. That which is of the most importance is often built upon mere resemblance of a foundation. It does seem that intelligent beings ought to be more wise than to risk the eternal future in this way; and perhaps they would were it not for that invisible power which has ever tried to undermine the christian's hope, and is now aiming its deadly blows at the "Chief Corner Stone" of this foundation. Satan well knows that if he could get that out, the whole spiritual structure would be worthless, and his object gained.

Humble as was Christ's birth, never was the founder of any religion ushered into our world so sublimely as he. Angels rejoiced and sang praises, saying, "Glory to God in the highest; and on earth peace, and good will to men." Never was a baptism honored like unto his. The opening heavens revealing the Spirit in the form of a dove, lighting upon him, and a voice from heaven saying—"This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Shall we doubt the testimony of Jehovah, and seek another foundation?

But we will follow him farther. Who but him ever fed five thousand hungry men, besides women and children, on five loaves and two fishes; or four thousand, on seven loaves and a few little fishes? Who but he gave sight to the blind, or life to the dead? Who but he spake and the fig tree withered, the winds hushed, demons departed, and the sick were restored? Earth and heaven rejoiced at his birth, and earth and heaven sorrowed at his death. For three hours darkness covered the land, and the vail of the temple was rent in twain. But death could not hold him long, for in a few days he is walking the streets of Jerusalem. Not a materialized spirit, but a resurrected Jesus,—a sample of all that build their hopes on this "Chief Corner Stone."

While he was talking with his disciples, he was parted from them, and went up into heaven. And as they stood gazing after him, the heavenly messengers appeared to assure his disciples that this same Jesus would in like manner come again, as they had seen him go into heaven. Such evidence, and a great deal more has the christian in the foundation of his hope. Can any other hope produce such a reliable "Corner Stone" in its foundation? In the language of Isaiah we would say—"Produce your cause, . . . bring forth your strong reasons; . . . let them bring them forth, and show us what shall happen; let them show the former things, what they be, that we may consider them and know the latter end of them; or, declare us things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are Gods." Isa. 41: 21, 23.

Plainfield, Feb. 21st, 1875.

CHRIST'S HOUSE.

M. EASTMAN.

"But Christ as a son over his own house; whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end." Heb. 3: 6

God hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, and whom he gave to be the head over all things to the church. It pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell; therefore he hath the preeminence. If we belong to this house, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth, we have that anointing that will teach us of all things, and is truth; and if this abide in us, we have the witness in ourselves that we abide in him; and this is the confidence that we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us; for we have the petitions that we desired of him.

We are not to cast away our confidence which hath great recompense of reward. Let us hold fast a little longer, do the will of God, and we shall receive the promise, even eternal life. The Lord must be our confidence, who is strong, and will keep our feet from being taken, and in him we shall have a place of refuge. It is by being disobedient that we lose this confidence and hope, which is as an anchor of the soul. How many have lost peace by letting things creep into the heart that are not of God, and thereby they are again brought into bondage. It is only by perfect submission to his will that we can keep this rejoicing of the blessed hope, and have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming. If we are living in open violation of his law, we cannot draw near to him in full assurance of faith, because our heart is evil; if our hearts condemn, God is greater than our hearts, and knoweth all things. Let not the things of this world, which are to perish with the using, destroy us. The world must have no room in our hearts. Jesus requires all our affections. If our desires are reaching after the pleasures, pride and fashions of this wicked and adulterous generation, there is no love of God there.

How many there are who profess to love the appearing of Jesus, but deny him in works. Our faith and works must agree. Some think they must be a little like the world, so they will not attract too much observation, and cause people to talk and ridicule them. Are we seeking to please the world, or, are we striving to obey the Lord? If the professed church were separate from the world, we should not see the leanness that we now see. There is too much conformity to this world. May the Lord bring out his people where they can have power with him, and be ready for his coming and kingdom.

East Canaan, N. H.

EVERLASTING JOY.

A. K. CLARK.

How vast the distinction between earthly and heavenly joys. One is temporal, the other eternal. Earthly joys can never satisfy; but the joys of the world to come will forever be the portion of the saints.

"The pleasures of earth we can see fade away;
They bloom for a season, but soon they decay."

Not so with the pleasures in store for the child of God. His pleasures here are interwoven with pain and sorrow, yet every sad occurrence shall be forgotten, and all tears wiped away in the day when Christ shall make up his jewels. Sorrow and sighing then are exchanged for gladness that is eternal;—yes, the ransomed of the Lord shall be delivered from a sorrowing world to dwell in a joyful Zion;—from mortality to immortality;—from a world of hate to a world of love. There the songs of joy shall never end, and no evil shall enter. None but those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb shall be there. Oh, what glory! what joy!

Reader, do you not desire to be a partaker of such inviting glory? Are you not willing to let the perishing things of this earth go, that you may obtain a more enduring substance? Can you conceive of anything in the world that is worthy of a comparison with everlasting joy? Worldly joys give no abiding peace; why then seek their charms? There is yet room in the fold, and the good Shepherd will kindly watch over and care for you, and you may rest in peace without fear. Seek then thy God without delay, and make sure of the glory that is soon to dawn upon a chosen people. Let us spend for God the life which we now have, that we may share in the life that is to come. Soon Isaiah's dead men will live again; they will awake and sing, that dwell in dust; for the earth will cast out her dead. Then the eyes of the blind will be opened; the ears of the deaf will be unstopped; the lame man will leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. An highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called the way of holiness; the redeemed shall walk there, and the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs of everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness; and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

God help us to walk in the light, as he is in the light, that we may have fellowship one with another, and be cleansed from all sin, and be waiting for the coming of our Lord, is my prayer.

Fairfield, Maine.

PSALMS 45: 6.

J. P. MARQUAND.

"Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever."

The above text seems to apply to God the Father, but when we turn to Hebrews 1: 8, we find it is applied to the Son of God. It goes to prove that Jesus Christ was invested with divinity and kingly authority, and that his dominion would be forever; solely on the ground that he loved righteousness and hated iniquity.

In looking over the Scriptures we find Jesus Christ spoken of as the embodiment of the Godhead, and possessing all those characteristics and attributes belonging to the Deity; and indeed, the Father and the Son are so blended together in beautiful harmony and love, that it gives us pain to separate them; as much so as to separate a loving husband and wife; we therefore are ready to believe our Savior when he said "I and my Father are one." John 10: 30. "Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father in me. John 14: 11. This union between the Father and the Son is heavenly, and made Paul cry out—"Great is the mystery of godliness. God manifested in the flesh." John said—"The Word (God) was made flesh and dwelt among us; and we beheld his glory, full of grace and truth."

This condescension on the part of God to dwell in humanity and tabernacle with man, exceeds our highest thoughts and aspirations, and calls for the deepest reverence and gratitude. Not only did God inhabit and dwell in his Son, but he has invited others to come and partake of the same blessing, and thus become joint heirs with him to and inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away. We believe that the Son of God, during his incarnation and mediatorial work, was in one sense lesser or inferior to the Father; but when the kingdom of God is established on a firm basis, and he has finished his work, he will be one with the father forever and ever. Retrospectively we adore and love him for his goodness in suffering and dying for humanity; but prospectively we worship him in connection with the Father, as the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God our Savior. See 1 Timothy 1: 17, also Jude 25.

The Son of man has left the shores of mortality; no longer is he the recipient of blood life, but inhabits a glorified body in the resurrected state; angels, authorities, and powers being made subject unto him. To whom then shall we mortals go for succor and help? In the language of the apostles—"To whom can we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life."

If there is doubt existing in the mind of any believer about the true character of Christ, search the Record closely. It is said he was made of the seed of David after the flesh; that he took on him the nature of Abraham in order to be one with his brethren, was tempted, suffered, bled and died. Being raised from the dead, he ascended far above angels, and was exalted to the right hand of God, to be a Prince and a Savior; from whence also he will come to judge the quick and the dead, at his appearing and his kingdom.

Time would fail to tell of the virtues of this God-man, who was set forth as a propitiation for our sins; who was wounded for our transgressions, and bruised for our iniquities, who bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. We have all read the account of his humiliation and sorrows, but who knows the joy, the glory, the majesty, the hour of his triumph and of his victory? "He shall see of the travail of his soul, and be satisfied." To him shall revert the first dominion (Micah 4: 8); "for in him are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" (Colossians 2: 3). God hath given to us eternal life, and this life in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life." "This is the true God." 1 John 5: 20.

The divinity of Christ is hinted at in Philippians 2: 6; and we ask philosophers and sceptics to explain it; and also John 17: 5, and Colossians 1. Where they can explain away these truths, then we will believe that Abel was not the first martyr, and that Christ did not die for a perishing world.

We will close by asking the question—What will become of the wicked who do not repent and believe on Jesus Christ? We are taught by God that their names shall be blotted out of the Book of Life, and they will be visited with everlasting destruction. 1 Thess. 1: 9. "All their memory shall perish. Isaiah 26: 14. "In the day of their death their thoughts shall perish." Psalms 146: 4. "They shall be as though they had not been." Obadiah 16th verse. "Into smoke shall they consume away." Psalms 37: 20. "They shall be cut off and rooted out of the earth." Prov. 2: 22. "They shall be burnt up, and leave them neither root nor branch." Mal. 4: 1.

Oh, sinner, turn to God, and ask for mercy, mercy, mercy.

WANT OF TRUE WISDOM.

A man may know all about the rocks, and his heart remain as hard as granite and adamant; he may know all about the winds, their courses and their currents, and be the sport of passions as turbulent and fierce as they; he may know all about the stars, and his fate may be the meteor's, that blazes for a little while, and is then lost, quenched in eternal night; he may know all about the sea, and be a stranger to the peace of God; his soul may resemble its troubled waters, which, lashed by storms, and ruffled by every breath of wind, cannot rest, but throws up mire and dirt; he may know how to rule the spirits of the elements and not know how to rule his own; he may know how to turn aside the deadly thunderbolt, but not the wrath of God; you may know all, in short, that man's genius has discovered or his skill invented, but if you do not know Jesus Christ, if your eyes have never been opened to a saving knowledge of the truth, what will that avail you when they are fixed in their socket, glazed by the hand of death?

Equally by the death-bed of the greatest philosopher, as of the hardest miser that ever ground the faces of the poor, there is room and reason for the solemn question, What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world—all its learning, its wealth, its pleasures, its honors—and lose his own soul?—Dr. Guthrie.

THE GREAT NEED.

F. A. BAKER.

With all our boasted advancement (and I do believe God has given us much light), Adventists are far behind other christian churches in some very important particulars.

The necessity of organized and well ordered churches, and the regular, and Scriptural observance of the ordinances of the gospel, and the importance of having pastors to preside over, and to lead and instruct the flock of God, and to persuade sinners to come to Jesus, has been ignored and neglected to our confusion and shame as a christian denomination.

Many good lives and a vast amount of faithful and efficient labor has been wasted by this loose and unscriptural way of leaving the believers "like sheep having no shepherd." In some places where other churches sustain worship, and build up christian society, Adventists and their families are living as much without the means of grace, so far as preaching or prayer meetings are concerned, as the heathen, while this want of system prevails. "They preach who will, and what they will." The foul seed is sown on every hand, till the "confusion of tongues" is repeated, and candid, sensible people depart in search of a purer language. The only way to remedy these evils is to "set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain elders in every city." Titus 1: 5. "For there are many unruly and vain talkers. . . . whose mouths must be stopped," etc.

15 Centre St., Bangor, Me.

WHAT IS WAR?

ANSWERS BY EMINENT MEN.

Napoleon said that "war was the business of barbarians."

The Duke of Wellington said that "men who had nice notions of religion had no business to be soldiers."

Sir Harry Smith said that "the profession of a soldier was 'a damnable profession.'"

Sir Charles Napier said that, "to overcome all feelings of religion is generally the means of making a warrior."

Lord Bacon says, "I am of opinion that except you could bray Christianity in a mortar, and mould it into a new paste, there is no possibility of a holy war."

John Locke says, "All the entertainment and talk of history is of nothing almost but fighting and killing, and the honor and renown which are bestowed on conquerers—who for the most part are mere butchers of mankind—mislead growing youth, who by these means come to think slaughter the most laudable business of mankind and the most heroic of virtues."

Lord Clarendon says, "We cannot make a more lively representation and emblem to ourselves of hell, than by the view of a kingdom in war."

Burke says that "war suspends all the rules of moral obligation."

Brougham says, "I abominate war as unchristian. I hold it the greatest of human crimes. I deem it to include all others—violence, blood, rapine, fraud, everything which can deform the character, alter the nature, and debase the name of man."

Jeremy Taylor says, "If men be subjects of Christ's law, they can never go to war with each other. As contrary as cruelty is to mercy, tyranny to charity, so is war and bloodshed to the meekness and gentleness of the Christian religion."

John Wesley says, "Shall christians assist the prince of hell, who was a murderer from the beginning, by telling of the benefit of war? Shall Protestant publications proclaim to the nations that war is a blessing of Providence?"

John Newton says, "The military line seems but a poor business, and I question whether it is becoming our profession, for a believer, especially a minister, to place his son deliberately in the school of slaughter, to be trained up in the art and practice of hurrying sinners in an unprepared state to eternity."

Chalmers says, "The mere existence of the prophecy, 'they shall learn war no more,' is a sentence of condemnation upon war, and stamps a criminality on its very forehead; so soon as Christianity shall gain a full ascendancy in the world, from that moment war disappears."

Ward, the missionary, says, "Either our religion is a fable, or there are unanswerable arguments against war and the profession of arms."

Dr. Payson says, "War is surrounded by a deceitful lustre; but let the monster's hideous form be exposed in its true colors, and it will be an honor to Christianity, a powerful argument in her favor, to be known as his most decided and successful foe."

Ralph Waldo Emerson says: "War is on its last legs, and a universal peace is as the prevalence of civilization over barbarism, of liberal government over feudal forms. The question for us is only how soon?"

Charles Sumner, in his address before the American Peace Society says: "Peace is the grand Christian charity—the fountain and parent of all other charities. Let peace be removed, and all other charities sicken and die. Where peace is not, Christianity cannot be."

Sydney Smith says, "The greatest curse that can be entailed on mankind is a state of war. All the atrocious crimes committed in years of peace, all that is spent in peace by the secret corruptions, or by the thoughtless extravagance of nations, are mere trifles compared with the gigantic evils which stalk over this world in a state of war. God is forgotten in war; every principle of Christianity is trampled on."—Facts to the People.

The World's Crisis

AND

SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, March 10, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOS ho send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

BEWARE!!

We are informed that one Geo. W. Moffatt, a blind man, has obtained subscribers for the Crisis, and received money for the same, but he has failed to hand into this Office the names, with the cash. We would say to all friends that said Moffatt is not authorized to receive money, or to transact any business whatever for this Office. We would caution all not to pay money to any one for us, unless the person receiving the money is known to be reliable.

AGENT.

HUMAN DESTINY.

Destiny is an established and predetermined design. A fixed purpose of God or some sovereign power, which will control circumstances and agencies so as to bring it to pass. We speak of men of destiny; meaning those whose lives and acts in a certain degree seem to be controlled and directed by a power above and superior to themselves. Such persons are often conscious of being guided by such a controlling power. When such a destiny is predicted, and that prediction is understood, the eye of faith will watch for the movement of the unseen hand, and for the agents, acts and result of destiny. Some persons' destiny is for defeat and woe, and some for victory and glory.

Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were men of destiny, who were used specifically by God to accomplish important purposes in the administration of the divine government. Their plans of operation were not made naturally, by their own wisdom or forethought, but God used them as his servants to accomplish his purposes, because they were passive and could be controlled by him.

Some wicked men are also men of destiny, because God has work to be done in the execution of his purposes, which is not in harmony with the spirit of good men to do, and so he raises up or gives power and position to those whose heart and spirit would suffer them to do it.

When a people becomes wicked, proud and rebellious against God, he sometimes, to humble and chastise them, sends war upon them, as he did a number of times upon the Jews. He generally uses, in such cases, as special instruments, men full of the spirit of war, and thrusts them into positions, and the means into their hands by which the work of judgment can be accomplished. Such instruments and work of destiny generally manifest a superhuman controlling power, which throws around these men circumstances and influences which seem to compel them to do that which they would naturally refuse to do.

Among this class of the men of destiny may be reckoned Nebuchadnezzar, Cyrus, Alexander, Augustus, and Tiberias Cæsar, Pilate, Genseric the Vandal, and Napoleon. 1. They were all profoundly impressed that they were directed and assisted by some superintending power far above the human. Nebuchadnezzar, after experiencing the great and mysterious changes which the power of destiny had wrought in his kingly history, and having discovered the ruling Hand, said, "He doeth according to his will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth and none can stay his hand, or say unto him, What doest thou?"

When Alexander had besieged Tyre, and was time after time repulsed and apparently hopelessly defeated, he assembled a counsel of war, and after each captain had given his opinion that it was useless to continue the siege, he used about these words: "I feel the power of an invisible god behind me, pressing me to take Tyre, and I will take it." When Genseric was leaving a harbor with a fleet of gally ships, the pilot inquired "Which way shall I steer?" Genseric replied—"Give the direction to the winds, and let them bear us to the guilty coast, where God may send us as a scourge to the wicked inhabitants."

Napoleon many times expressed his life-long conviction that he was a man of destiny, that fate had fixed his history, and that an unseen hand had protected him from an early death by drowning that he might accomplish his appointed work.

When destiny determines some special experiences and fate of an individual, nation or generation, a controlling power is always manifested, sweeping them irresistibly in certain directions, generally against their wishes and purposes; thus exhibiting a superhuman power fixing the destiny of humanity.

This principle is very explicitly predicted of the last generation; for when they shall design "peace and safety," "sudden destruction" will come upon them. God says of "all the kingdoms of the world"—"If they refuse to take the cup at thine hand to drink, then shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Ye shall certainly drink."

When destiny fixed the fate of Babylon, the king and his subjects made every effort to resist the current which threatened their overthrow; but a power above their throne and armies broke the golden sceptre, and forever swept the dynasty from power and glory. So it was with the ill-fated Jews and their city Jerusalem. When they looked upon the predictions of their final subjugation and destruction, by God's great prophet, as the taunting words of a blasphemer, and made a mighty effort to prove them delusive and false, the unerring rod of destiny fell upon them with crushing and grinding judgments."

Thus we are taught by these positive predictions and typical illustrations, that the wonderful hand of destiny will be manifested in the last days, sweeping humanity downward into desolating wars and universal social convulsions, in defiance of unparalleled efforts to produce opposite results.

Looking through this glass of inspiration we think we can see written, upon the forehead of this generation, in letters of burning light, immutable destiny. Never did a generation set its heart more tenaciously on peace, and with a firmer determination to enjoy it, than the present one. The kings and their counsellors devise plans to secure it. The blind watchmen teach that God has promised it, and the worldly layman prays and looks for it to be immediately enjoyed. But alas! the winds of destiny are howling fearfully, and drifting the ship of state resistlessly upon the fatal rocks of a lee-shore. While the nations design peace, they prepare for war; and still so completely deceive themselves that they call it "An armed peace."

Many political writers dimly see and imperfectly comprehend this subject, as will be seen by a quotation from one which truly represents many others. The arming of the nations is a deplorable misfortune, but it moves on as if guided by destiny towards some great end." London Times. The circumstances fully justify the conclusion. Who can tell us what "great end" will be reached? Who can unfold the mystery of this manifest destiny? The God whose counsels have fixed the destiny, and whose arm moves the world, so as to reach the great end designed. He has kindly revealed this grand purpose in his Word, so that the veil of mystery is rent, and the destiny of this present generation and this world may be clearly understood.

Reader, while your probation continues, you have the power to fix your own destiny for the eternal state. Hasten to secure the heavenly boon of eternal life.

J. C.

RUSSIA ADVANCING.

The movements and constantly unfolding designs of the great Northern Empire are convincing more fully, every month, statesmen, historians, and prophetical writers, that its settled purpose is to very soon break up the Turkish government in Europe, and take possession of Constantinople, and the old Greek territory. It is thought that it will give to Austria and Germany certain territory and privileges by which to reconcile them to the arrangement. Every step shows that the Czar expects the antagonism of England; and since a few months after the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh that opposition has been manifesting itself very clearly.

We believed and preached more than thirty years ago that such a movement would take place, and that in that movement the Lord would come, and the final judgment of this world take place. We believed this simply because we understood that the prophecies taught it. There was then no particular movement among the nations, nor was the subject discussed among statesmen, to indicate particularly such a revolution.

Those prophecies still remain unchanged, demanding for their fulfillment just such events and political changes as they did then; but the political and military aspect of the case has changed exceedingly; and every item of change clearly indicates a rapid progression towards the consummation of the wonderful drama.

We understand the sacred writings to foretell that Russia, Turkey and England will be represented by antagonistic forces in Palestine, when the Lord shall appear to shake terribly the earth. That Turkey and England will be arrayed against Russia, and the "many people with him"—"Gog," the Czar, when the clock of prophetic time shall toll the end. Russia has evidently changed her programme of military operations since the Crimean war. She has designed we think, by a secret and long continued effort, to prepare a military route to the borders of the Sultan's dominions, through countries little known; professing to be laboring for a different object, when they are preparing to send a vast army to Palestine, so as to attack Turkey where she has no strong defences. Russia's new route through Central Asia is her direct route to India; striking east from a point in Turkestan, or the Caspian Sea, to India, and west from the same point, through Persia to Palestine.

Her evident intention is to so threaten England by sending a large army towards India, as to draw her forces there to defend her vast possessions, when Russia will send her armies suddenly West and manifest her real design to strike the Turkish power on the Holy Mountains, where neither Turkey nor England would be prepared to meet her.

In that case the English forces would have to go either through the Persian Gulf and up the river Euphrates, or through the Red Sea, Suez Canal, Mediterranean and Dardanelles, before they could assist the Sultan. On the other hand, if England should send her forces to Constantinople or Palestine, then Russia could send an army and plant her standard on British soil in India, which would be much more disastrous to England. Russia, in this great strategetical movement, certainly appears to have the inside track. M. Baxter, of London, presents his view of this subject thus:

"With Russia at the gates of India, and with German journals bribing Prince Gortschakoff with the offer of Constantinople, it is not to be concealed that the equilibrium of Europe has been strangely shaken since the battle of Sedan. England will never consent to let Russia seize possession of any part of Turkey. England must and will fight to uphold the integrity of Turkey."

He presents the views of all politicians upon this question, whose writings we have seen, that the two objective points in the Russian movement are India and Turkey.

As all will see by looking on the map, Persia lies between Russia and Palestine, and also between Turkestan and Palestine, so that a Russian army going to Palestine on that route would have to march through Persia. England understood this, and has made great efforts to get the principle control of the Persian government, so as to prevent the Russians from making preparation within its dominions to march an army through its territory.

To accomplish this object the Queen invited the Shah to enjoy the royal hospitalities of the English court, and all the flatteries that a rich and refined nation could lavish upon him. To make this matter doubly sure, Baron Reuter, an English capitalist, was introduced to the Shah, to obtain "concession" of the Persian government, granting him "the sole and exclusive right to construct railways and other public works in Persia." The Shah gave the concession, and the English government (for it was the English government in fact that made the proposition, but did it through a private individual, so that Russia might not take offence), supposed that they had secured the great advantage in the strategetical movement, so as to make impassable this Rubicon to Russia.

It was said, by political writers, at the time the contract was made with the Baron, that it would be seen in the end whether the diplomatic influence of England or Russia would prevail upon this question over the Persian government. After the return of the Shah to his capitol, he notified Baron Reuter that his people were not ready to have him commence the building of railways at that time, and asked for a delay. A few months passed when the Baron was notified by the Persian government that the concession was "null and void."

All eyes were then turned to see what Russia would do in opening this military road, and in getting a grant to run her "iron horses" through the Shah's dominions, to carry her armed cossacks swiftly to the holy mountain, where they will pillow their heads with the ancient dead.

The news has just reached England that Russia has accomplished her purpose, and a concession has been signed by the Shah, giving to Russia the right to build a railway from the Perso-Russian frontier to Tabreez, which should be made in conjunction with one from Tiflis to the frontier town of Julfa. The London Times speaks upon the subject thus:

"As the Caucasus will in a year or two be linked with the whole system of Russian railways which are being pushed forward with great rapidity and with due regard to strategetical requirements, it will be seen that the move is one of the first importance, because when completed the line to Tabreez will enable the Russians completely to turn the Turkish flank, to say nothing of their approaching some 950 miles nearer to the Persian Gulf, while the whole of the northwest provinces of Persia will be completely at their mercy. Well, this concession is now a fait accompli, and has been actually signed by order of the Shah, thanks to English inactivity, and to the boundless audacity, of Russian intrigue, aided by Persian timidity. It is hardly too much to say that this concession will have a most important bearing on the Eastern question in years to come, and will increase the power of Russia for mischief fully a hundred fold."

This is evidently the longest and strongest step ever taken by Russia towards the Golden Horn. The northwest provinces of Persia are all that she wishes to control; for her armies will have to pass over only these, going to the Turkish frontier. The Czar, having gained this important advantage, and having evidently secured the co-operation of Germany and Austria, he commences to fearlessly manifest his real designs and hatred of Turkey.

The Boston Herald editorially gives some important facts relating to this question. It says—

"Kiamil Pasha, the Turkish ambassador to St. Petersburg, and the Russian cabinet, it seems are far less friendly than formerly. Pasha has been in bad odor on account of a little trouble he had with the ceremonial department last winter, when he wore his fez in the imperial chapel on the occasion of the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh—an act which he endeavored to repeat at the marriage of the Grand Duke Vladimir last summer. At the reception of the diplomatic corps, on the Russian 1st of January, it was observed that the emperor spoke very cavalierly with Turkey's representative, and on the day of the blessing of the waters, when the diplomatic corps usually assemble in the palace, to view the sight and to take breakfast, the Emperor did not even give him his hand, but said in a severe tone, 'If the Porte does not become more reasonable the consequences for it will be most disastrous.'

Russia, Austria, Germany, and recently France have become united on the Eastern Question and will act collectively in case of war, but neither is really ready for this last event, although Russia is taking a decidedly lofty, rather than conciliatory tone."

Russia is evidently laboring to keep the English eye on India, as its coveted inheritance, so as to divert them from making the necessary preparations to defend Turkey. India would be comparatively worthless to Russia, unless she could have an open passage to it upon the high seas. She wants a southern outlet to her vast dominions through the Dardanelles, Gibralter and Suez, all of which are subject to the dictation of England. Russia's northern outlet is made useless to her two-thirds of the year, by the ice, and subject to England's dictation the other third, as mistress of the northern seas. Upon this part of the question the Boston Herald makes the following statements:—

"It is hinted that Russia has her eye on the British province of India, and that while Gortschakoff and Schouvaloff are sending amicable communications to Lords Derby and Loftus, the Golos, the most influential Russian newspaper, which both guides and reflects national popular views, is printing startling disquisitions upon the eventful overthrow of British rule in the Indian peninsular. Such a course could scarcely be maintained without the tacit consent of the Russian government, and the Czar is evidently well content that his subjects should be familiarized with the state and contingencies of affairs. The different roads by which a hostile army may penetrate the Afghan passes, the practicable gorges of the Hindu Koosh, the weakness of the English military posts, forces, &c., have all been pointed out with significant accuracy. And all this notwithstanding the empress' late visit to London, and in spite of the recent union of the royal families of Russia and Britian."

It is a fact known to all intelligent persons that, the two great and most exciting questions of the present time are the Papal question, involving the Pope's right to exercise temporal power, and the Eastern question, involving Russia's privilege of seizing Constantinople and disposing of the Sultan s possessions as she can agree with her allies. It follows, therefore, that if we have at this period any Scriptural signs of the times, these movements must be among the prominent events foretold.

These great national movements are strikingly important in themselves; but when they are understood as the last movements of war-making nations, and as introductory of the profoundly grand events of the final judgment; when the glorious and terrible will blend, they are profoundly interesting. The great King will appear in his majesty, wrapped in his garments of heavenly light, while the din and smoke of the mighty conflict will produce the death scenes of the Roman kingdoms.

Remain long upon the watch-tower, ye friends of our absent Lord, and carefully mark the drifting clouds and roar of the approaching tempest. The earth is rapidly sweeping on to the period of its curse. The dead are about to lay off their shrouds and put on their bridal robes. Earth's wail of woe will die at the birth of its anthem of eternal wraise.

Then rush, ye nations to do your bloody work; it opens the gates of the City of peace to the weary Bride of Christ. The culminating scenes of the curse ends in the heavenly perfections of a tearless world.

J. C.

HEALDSBURG.

We are now (Feb. 20th) holding a series of revival meetings in the northern and southern M. E. churches, in the city of Healdsburg, Cal. The afternoon meetings are in the southern, and the evening ones in the northern Methodist, the Presbyterian minister united. We commenced Tuesday evening, the 16th. A good interest is already awakened, and several have given their hearts to Jesus. Bro. Lovell is pastor of the southern Methodist, Bro. Mc Leod of the Presbyterian, and Bro. A. K. Crawford of the northern Methodist. The prospect is very encouraging. Bro. Crawford was formerly pastor of the M. E. church in Vallejo, and invited us to hold meetings in that church, with full liberty to preach the whole truth, according to our understanding of the Bible. He is a devoted follower of Jesus, enjoying perfect love, and free from sectarianism. Such men are valuable. The churches that have such pastors have abundant reason to praise the Lord.

Healdsburg is a part of California, affording a very desirable place for residences. The almond trees are now in full bloom. They much resemble the peach trees. We have an agreeable home with Bro. W. Gladden, from Indiana. He is an enterprising farmer, looking for the coming of Jesus.

M. G.

SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco is fast becoming a prominent city in the American nation. It is growing rapidly in population, wealth, and commerce. Its schools are said to be equal to those in any city in the United States. Its buildings are made in superior taste. They are mostly of wood, but their exterior parts present a very inviting and cheerful appearance. The stores are elegant, and filled with as costly goods as are found in the large eastern cities. The hotels are large. The Palace Hotel, now being built, is said to be the largest in the world. It is seven stories high, and has nine hundred rooms, and some four thousand locks and keys. It is to contain all modern improvements, and be finished in the best of style. Its estimated cost, when finished and furnished, is five million of dollars. This is a sample of the enterprising spirit of the Californians. Wealth is pouring in through large streams, and is used lavishly upon nice things. Women dress richly, and houses are elegantly furnished. It is a land of luxury and wickedness combined. The two are seldom separated. One feeds and stimulates the other.

If not checked by some great calamity, and time should continue, San Francisco would soon stand prominent among the cities of the nations in wealth and influence. It has a new and costly mint in the heart of the city; is erecting a new post office building, also the largest and most costly city hall, probably, in the United States.

During the past year, the population of San Francisco has increased twenty per cent. The present population is said to be about 230,000. Over 1,300 buildings were erected last year, at a cost of nearly five million dollars. Over two million dollars were expended in public improvements. The increase of population last year was much beyond what it has been in any other for the last twenty years. The prospect now is increasingly encouraging for future prosperity, and the people are looking forward with very bright hopes, heedless of the approaching advent of our Savior.

M. G.

MASS. STATE CONFERENCE.

The church at Chelsea has voted to invite the Mass. State Conference to hold its next annual session at their Chapel, commencing April 6th, at 7½ o'clock P. M., to hold over the following Sabbath. Notice by the Sec. hereafter.

J. C.

PROTRACTED MEETING.

Bro. E. A. Stockman will commence a series of meetings at Chelsea, Mass., Wednesday evening, March 16th, and continue evenings through the week, over the Sabbath, and longer if the interest demands it. J. C.

SPIRITUALISTS OUTDONE.

It is now well demonstrated that the wonderful things done in the dark circle of Spiritualists are the result of trickery, practiced by the mediums; the common object being to make money. There are some professed jugglers in London who are excelling the Spiritualist jugglers in this country. The feats of the Eddy Brothers, the Davenports, and the reading feats of Mr. Foster, are better done than by any professional Spiritualist medium.

Advanced Spiritualists know full well the deception practiced in the dark circles, and are now turning their attention to the spreading of their infidel sentiments, doing all in their power to destroy confidence in the Bible and salvation through Christ. They are also laying plans to remodel society, government, and all existing institutions, and establish them upon the principles of Spiritualism, when every one may do as he or she pleases, and be answerable to no one but himself. The future of this world would look very dark if Jesus was not soon coming to put an end to the works of Satan. M. G.

ELD. N. STEVENS, OF CANADA, IS DEAD.

Bro. Norman Stevens, of Compton, P. Q., is no more. He died suddenly of heart disease at his home, Feb. 22nd, 1875, aged 61 years.

To many this will be a sad announcement, as Bro. Stevens was widely and well known. He was converted to God in early life, and joined the Free-Will Baptist church, and by that body was ordained to preach the gospel; but when the Advent cry was heard in 1842 he embraced the truth, and since that time he has been identified and laboring with the people who are looking for the near coming of the Lord. He preached until his health failed, several years ago, and still as he had opportunity attended meetings and witnessed to the truth. He felt a deep interest in all that pertained to the cause of truth, and since we have been laboring in Canada has often journeyed with us, facing fierce winds and pelting storms, to do what he could to aid in the work.

For years he has attended the campmeeting at Alton Bay, where he had a large tent—"The Canada Tent"—and always felt the deepest interest in its prosperity. When the Conference of the Province of Quebec was organized, he was elected its Vice President, and labored to promote the interests of a healthy organization. Wherever he went his influence was salutary and saving, and we do not remember to have ever seen him manifest any other temper than that of a kind, gentle, humble christian. He loved to talk of the "perpetuity of life" which the saints will enjoy in the kingdom; and although he left no dying testimony of his assurance of enjoying that life, he left the living testimony of a life of about forty years spent in the service of Christ; and we feel well satisfied that Bro. Stevens sleeps in Jesus. He was about among the people until a very few days before his death. The last time he attended meeting he took the writer to an appointment at Dixville, where he took part in the public services. It does not seem possible that we have buried him out of our sight; but he lies beneath the sod, and we shall see him no more until the resurrection morning. It is asked, "How can we live without Bro. Stevens? but we must, and the cause has one less to defend its interests against foes, and give it character among injudicious, pretended friends.

The watchmen are falling, one after another. O that more laborers may take their places to hold up the standard of truth till Jesus comes.

"When will this tedious night be gone?
When will our Lord appear?"

We attended Bro. Stevens' funeral at Sleeper Hill, and buried him by the side of his father and mother. Words of comfort for the afflicted friends and church were were spoken by M. McKinstry, from 2 Tim. 4: 7, 8.

L. C. MCKINSTRY.

"THIS GENERATION."—The generation that witnessed the darkening of the sun evidently has not yet all passed away.

Daniel F. Secomb, of Concord, N. H., a gentleman who keeps a yearly record of the deaths of aged people, recently published a list of fifty-nine who died in the State of New Hampshire during the year 1874, who were, at the time of their death, 90 years of age and upwards. Forty-six of these died between the age of 90 and 94 years; one at the age of 95; three at 96; three at 97; one at 100; one at 104; one at 105, and one at 106 years. Probably there are quite a number now living who were alive 95 years ago.

C. W. SARGENT.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st	$318.16
"Steward"	75.00
"A Friend"	18.00
"A Friend to the cause"	2.00
C. S.	.50

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$81.63

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$3,257.20
"Steward"	25 00
Mary P. Burbank (pledge paid)	5.00

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments	$255.85
C S	2 00
Mrs. A. W. Potter	.50

MISSION WORK.

Dear Editors and Brn. and Srs. in Christ: The "blessed hope" cheers us amid rough and rugged ways. The battle goes well in the name of the Lord. When we wrote last we were having meetings with Bro. Hubble, at Longonoxie, Leavenworth Co., in the Christian Church. The Lord gave utterance to his truth, notwithstanding the opposition from some of the members of that and other churches. Some came out that never were known to go to meeting before. The Congregationalist preacher complained about the people going down to the Christian Church to sit on hard seats, while his pews were all cushioned and easy to sit on. But this inducement was not enough for them to leave the board seats as long as they heard the truth. The people came for a week, night after night, and paid good attention.

Bro. H. is out clear on the gospel hope. He has resigned his Eldership among them, unless they will receive him with the important truths we love. Others in the church are in harmony with him. A Baptist Bro. has been raised up with him to help defend the cause, and we trust a good work may be done by them in Jesus' name.

While at work there, brethren came down from Jarbelo, for us to return again. So on the 16th we returned, and had a meeting in the evening. People came out as usual, and on Lord's day we had a full house and a blessed season. Five more took a stand for Christ, swelling their number to nearly fifty. At the close of the meeting nearly all in the house came and extended the parting hand. It was sad indeed to part with this happy company in the Lord; but calls from other parts of the State required us to go.

We returned home to Arvonia to get tracts to scatter in the regions beyond. At Centropolis, the infidel we spoke of in one of our letters has fully come out on the side of truth, and desires to obey the Lord in baptism. At home we had meetings over Lord's day, and Tuesday night. Time was occupied the rest of the week in writing, reading, going to depot after tent, box, barrels, etc. We had a good season in unpacking the clothing sent us from Clinton, Chelsea, and Newton. The Lord was in the move in sending these things, and we do praise him with our whole hearts. Many destitute families have been helped. Nearly a hundred persons already have been benefited by them.

Sunday, 31st, we rode to Melvern, ten miles away, and had services in the forenoon with the little church there. We had a blessed season. The church was encouraged to press onward and wait till Jesus comes.

Feb. 1st, we packed up a large load of clothing, and started for Key West. Stopped over night with Bro. Gardiner. The Lord blest in helping the poor. Left clothing for a number of families, then came to Ottumwa, Coffey Co., where we found some of the Lord's poor, and were blest in supplying their wants. We do praise the Lord for what has been sent for those that need. Others are in as great want as those whom we have helped; but the clothing is gone. Many will be in want of food from this time onward, till they can raise a crop; and they also stand in need of seed to sow. We do hope they may be supplied.

From Ottumwa we came down the river Neosho to Burlington, and stopped with Bro. Preston, who has formerly been a Seventh Day keeper. He has read many of Ellen White's "Visions," and seen many of the direct contradictions contained in them; and left them and came to Kansas to get out of the bondage. He is now free in the Lord, rejoicing in hope of eternal life, not through the law, but through the righteousness of faith. He is doing a good work. At night we had a little prayer meeting, and the next day (Feb. 4th) we came to Turkey Creek with Bro. P., to have a series of meetings. A little company had been raised up, and on our arrival we found meeting appointed and the fire still burning. We had a refreshing season for nearly a week. Prejudice was very strong against us, but the Lord blest, and a number came out to serve him.

On the 11th we came to Kalida, Wilson Co. We were strangers to all. Stopped with a "United Brother." Notice was given for preaching, and a large company came out. Appointment was left for next night, and more came to hear. The people were anxious for us to continue meetings over Lord's day. The Lord gave the word, and at night we had a crowded house. Some came seven miles and returned. A vote was taken for us to remain longer. A number testified to the goodness of God, and some came out to serve him. Here, as elsewhere, the community were aroused to search the Scriptures, and many eagerly came for tracts and papers. We left the people on Monday night to continue meetings through the week. Not a word of opposition was raised in the meetings to the great and important truths we love. The Christian and United Brethren spoke of coming together as one in Christ, taking the Bible as their only rule of faith and practice. If we had not had an appointment for Ward, Wilson Co., we should have stopped longer. Some thirty or forty arose saying, by the help of the Lord, they would meet us in the kingdom.

Tuesday we came to this place. Wednesday evening (17th) we commenced meetings here. Were invited by a Bro. of the Christian Church, who has been brought out into the glorious light and liberty of the soon-coming King, by reading the Crisis, Times, and other works loaned him by a dear Sister Barber, who has been living here for a number of years. All praise be to the Lord for noble-hearted workers, not in word only, but in deed and in truth. She has been doing a good work in this section, and has stirred up the ire of the sectarians, especially some of the clergy. We do praise the Lord that the Bible truth is now shining brightly above heathenistic notions.

Last night we had a blessed, Holy Ghost season. Many more out than could be seated. Thank the Lord, truth is triumphing gloriously. Never did I see better interest and such a stir and rush for tracts at the close. People came in from seven miles around. These truths never have been preached in this county before; but very few have ever heard of this people. Bro. Dewey, who has been brought out here, is a pattern of good works, and is letting his light shine.

My tracts are nearly all gone. I would like more very much. Those who have a little of the Lord's money to spare, will they not please send in to the Office, and have some sent to me at Pleasanton, Linn Co., in care of C. Crowell. The means and clothing sent me have been all distributed. Five dollars we gave to Bro. B. Gardiner, of Key West, who has lost his crop the past two years, and is a worthy Bro. in the Lord. Twenty dollars we sent to Bro. Hubble, to aid him in his large family, and for him to get a suit of clothes to labor in the gospel. He needed them very much, having labored the most of the cold winter with nothing but a thin summer suit. Five dollars we gave to a Bro. Eubanks, at Ottumwa, Coffey Co., who has a large family, and has been laboring hard all summer, and has now lost most all. He was truly thankful, and will need much more. Fifteen dollars we donated to Bro. Preston, who was really in need, expecting that he would have to sell his pony, which has carried him so many miles the past season in preaching the Word, for the support of his family. He is a faithful and grateful man, trusting in the Lord for daily bread. Five dollars also to a Bro. Willford, in Franklin Co., who was very destitute, his crops having been cut off for two seasons, and having had much sickness besides. Three dollars to a poor family in Leavenworth Co., who have been on the frontiers, and spent all their means. They came back with a poor yoke of cattle, a little household furniture, but no means, and could go no further. The mother was taken sick, a child was sick and died, and a number of others also were sick. They had no change of clothing in fever, and hardly any thing to cover them. But the Lord raised up helpers; and notwithstanding the great destitution of neighbors, they did a little for this family.

Yesterday we took dinner with a Baptist Bro. He took me one side, and told me he had only one dollar and fifteen cents in the world, and only eight bushels of corn for his family of seven, and knew not where the rest was coming from. He said he had no friends East. His son-in-law has an aged mother, seven children and wife, and has sold his rocking-chair to get bread. They are also destitute of clothing. Will not the Board send two barrels of clothing to G. M. Dewey, Chunute, Neosho Co., Kansas, and he can divide it among the destitute ones here. Much of the aid that is sent in to Topeka, and elsewhere, is given to those who do not stand in need. Those who have enough are the ones that get it. I do hope our Eastern friends will be warned, and send only to responsible parties. There are many actual sufferers, who will starve unless they receive help. We see many we would be glad to help as we go from place to place.

Do remember us at the throne of grace, that we may have health and strength and every needed grace and blessing to help us on to the kingdom of God. The Lord is pouring out his spirit here, and many are investigating the Scriptures. The Lord is at work. Praise be to his name. Please write me at Pleasanton, Linn Co., as we expect to be there in the course of two or three weeks. Jesus is soon coming. O, let us be ready to hail that great day.

From your Bro. and Sr. in the work of saving men and women.

J. C. & S. E. SMITH.

Kalida, Woodson Co., Kan.

P. S.—Brother Snyder writes to me from Centropolis, Franklin county, Feb. 10th, as follows:—"I got the goods a few days before I received your letter, on the strength of the postal card you sent me. I left one barrel at Bro. McGuire's, and the other I took home; and we have distributed almost all of its contents already among the needy. I gave Bro. Willford's family a good share of it; they were very needy. We gave Brn. Overholt, Thompson and Kaub some of the goods, and the rest we distributed among the needy who are not brethren. They were all very thankful for what they got, and would be very glad to know who the donors were, so that they might thank them for their generosity, and tell them that they shall be remembered in their prayers." All the rest that we have scattered has been gratefully received, and we do thank you for your kindness. The Lord reward you all. From your Bro. in Christ, J. C. S.

[The Board will be happy to send the clothing you refer to, if any of our friends will send to us, directed to Geo. T. Adams, 167 Hanover St., Boston, Mass. We are pleased with information you have given us of your disbursement of the funds sent you for the poor, as it will be a satisfaction to the contributors to know how their bounties have been appropriated.

J. C.

UNLAWFUL means may sometimes prosper, but they are never blessed.

Obituaries.

TOTMAN. In Portland, Me., Feb. 5th, 1875, Bro. Wm. H. Totman, aged 40 years.

Bro. Totman sleeps sweetly in Jesus, waiting for a glorious resurrection to an immortal life. He came to his death by a fall from the roof of a building to the sidewalk, a distance of some twenty-five feet, while shovelling off snow. One of his legs was so badly broken that amputation was necessary. Bro. T. was converted in 1866 in the Methodist Church, in Saccarappa, Me., was baptized and became a member of that church, and also a class leader. He was always faithful at his post of duty. In the fall of 1871 he came to Portland, and soon after embraced the blessed hope of the soon coming of Jesus, which was like an anchor to him until death.

Most of the time, after his fall, he was unconscious, but at times he would come to himself, and have something good and comforting to say to those around him. He said to his wife, "How glad I am that I stood in the pulpit and did my duty last Sunday." We heard him give his last testimony in the prayer meeting on Tuesday evening, before he fell on Wednesday. He exhorted the brethren to be faithful, and to live in constant readiness to meet the blessed Savior. We have laid away a good brother, a kind and loving friend. He leaves a dear wife and two little children to mourn his loss. May God bless and keep them until Jesus comes is the prayer of the writer.

A very able sermon was preached to a full house by Eld. E. A. Stockman. F. A. ROUNDS.

BRIGGS. Fell sweetly asleep in Jesus, Feb. 17th, 1875, Bro. Alba N. Briggs, aged 15 years.

As usual, death has acted the part of a cruel monster, in robbing the home of Bro. Judson Briggs of one of the, to him, brightest flowers that ever bloomed in the garden of life. Our dear brother little more than one year ago embraced Christ, and put him on by baptism; and from that time until he died, Christ was enthroned within his heart, prompting him to works of christian virtue and fidelity. He leaves behind, for the comfort of parents and friends, an unstained character. That terrible disease, scarlet fever, was the cause of his death. His prayers and exhortations have often been heard in our prayer meetings, and Christ and his coming was his theme. Many sympathizing friends were present at the funeral, and listened to a discourse by the writer, from Ps. 17: 15.

Our brother sleeps, but soon the Prince of Life will come and demand a release of all Death's captives, and unlock the prison doors and bid them rise to put on immortality. Then the song of deliverance will be sung by tongues that never sung before.

A father, mother, and sister are left to mourn. May the God of all comfort be their support in this hour of affliction. A. DAMON.

POLLARD. In Bridgewater, Vt., Feb. 9th, 1875, James Pollard, aged 58 years.

The subject of this record was sick but a few days. He died of pneumonia. Some years ago he professed faith in Christ, but has not been always active in his service. Before he died some expressions were obtained of his desire for salvation, and he was heard praying, which gives anxious ones some hope that he will rise among the glorified in the morning, when all the members of the royal family will be gathered to receive their reward.

We hope that this severe affliction will be the means of the salvation of that part of the family who have not as yet accepted of the life which Christ imparts to the believer. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from John 11: 25. A. DAMON.

BENNETT. In Albany, N. H., Feb. 20th, 1875, Rhoda, wife of George W. Bennett, aged 49 years.

Sister Bennett sought and found the Savior at the age of fourteen years; and an intimate acquaintance, of more than a quarter of a century, will warrant me in saying that she lived a godly, prayerful life to the end. Some six years since she embraced the doctrine of the coming of the Lord and other kindred truths, and was a strong pillar in the little band of pilgrims in this place. Her voice was always heard in prayer and exhortation in the social meeting.

Bro. Bennett's home was a pilgrim's home; and those who have shared their hospitality, and are now scattered North, South, East and West, will be made sad to know that Sister Rhoda has fallen in death. We laid the precious dust away on the hillside, to await the coming of the Lord of life and glory. The trump of God will reach her in the grave, and she will soon live again, with all the infirmities of this life removed forever.

A funeral sermon was preached by Eld. J. Runnells, of the F. B. Church, from Ps. 116: 15. A. NICKERSON.

EMERY. In Albany, N. H., Aug. 18th, 1874, of cholera morbus, Betsey Emery, aged 65 years.

Sister Emery embraced Christ in early life, and united with the primitive Freewill Baptists. She lived a life of usefulness, and her quiet, unassuming, yet earnest and deep-toned piety rendered her an object of love and esteem to all with whom she associated. She resided for many years in the family of Bro. Geoge W. Bennett, of Albany, where her labor of love will long be gratefully remembered. She embraced the views of the Advent people some years since, and the little church in this place feel that they sustain a loss in her death. She sleeps in Jesus until the bright morning shall dawn.

Words of comfort were spoken at her funeral by Bro. Samuel Bragg. A. NICKERSON.

CHADFIELD. In Sherman, Washington Co., Ks., Feb. 19th, 1875, Sister Hannah, wife of M. O. Chadfield, in the 47th year of her age.

Sister Chadfield was a loving and faithful wife, a tender and affectionate mother. She was a woman of rare excellence, and her every day life told plainly the feeling of her heart. Her presence always tended to peace and happiness. She was truly a christian lady. May God bless and sustain our dear brother and son, her only offspring, and others who are called to mourn by this sad stroke of death. For years she has been trying to follow the Lord fully. While we were holding a series of meetings near their residence only about a month ago, she was often with us. We heard her prayers, and her testimony that her ways pleased God. She faithfully exhorted christians to live nearer to Christ, and sinners to come to Jesus. She with others united in covenant at the close of the meeting. They miss her, but she rests in hope. We shall soon see her in immortal beauty at the resurrection of the just.

A large congregation attended the funerel services at the school-house, which were conducted by R. F. & M. J. CLARK.

STEWART. In Exeter, N. H., Jan. 11th, 1875, Alfred William, son of Eld. Wm. C. and Sarah E. Stewart, aged 3 years and 6 months.

Cruel death has again entered our little family, and snatched another darling child. Yes, our little Alfred is gone, and the loneliness in our hearts is great. We cannot see him at his play, or feel his little arms around our necks. We shall no more hear his sweet voice bidding "papa good bye," as he goes forth to persuade men to be reconciled to God. He has gone, and we are left to mourn. An enemy has done this; yet we know Christ has conquered that enemy, and when he shall come, our little ones will come from the enemy's land. Then,

"Our little ones we know Round us shall be clinging."

Funeral attended by Eld. W. M. Harman, assisted by Eld. H. L. Hastings. S. E. STEWART.

DAVIS. In Lake Village, N. H., Feb. 21st, 1875, of consumption, George Henry, son of Alvin and Mary S. Davis, aged 24 years.

Bro. George was a very agreeable young man. In his last sickness he gave his heart to the Lord, and found peace. We have good evidence of soon seeing him on the new earth. We tried to speak words of comfort from 1 Thess. 4: 13. May God bless and comfort the afflicted family. D. EASTMAN.

LYONS. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Muskegan, Mich., Feb. 9th, 1875, Sister Eliza Lyons, aged 62 years.

She retired to bed feeling usually well. At two o'clock she was taken with vomiting and oppression of the head, and died next day at twelve o'clock. Thus in life we are in the midst of death. We little know one day, what another will bring forth. We ought to live so as to be prepared to meet the unwelcome messenger—death—at any moment.

Sister Lyons was a living christian, and loved the work of her Master. She always had the armor on, hence was fully prepared for death. She leaves a husband and son, with other friends who deeply mourn her loss. But they sorrow not without hope; for when Jesus comes to make up his jewels, she will be among the happy throng who will sing redemption's song, and live on the new earth forever. Sister Lyons was formerly from the east (Stafford, Ct.), where many of her friends will remember her christian kindness. MRS. E. A. LAKE.

THOMPSON. In West Newton, Feb. 22d, 1875, John A. Thompson, son of the late Ira Thompson, of Lowell, Mass.

THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

I take pleasure in commending the new and greatly improved edition of Appleton's American Cyclopedia as pre-eminently valuable and well adapted for all readers in general, and especially to clergyman, scholars, and literary men of this age. It presents evidence of careful preparation, and the numerous subjects treated often give in compact form complete information, and the latest conclusions to which the most eminent men in the nineteenth centnry have come. It is in fact a library within itself, and well calculated to suit the wants, convenience and economy of the people. It is printed from new type, and illustrated with several thousand engravings and maps. Issued bimonthly, beginning July 1873, and completed in 16 vols. Nine vols. are now ready. Sold exclusively by Agents. A. W. SIBLEY.

Notices.

CONFERENCE.—The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet, and hold its annual session at the Advent Christian Hall, on Seventh Street, below Poplar, Philadelphia, Pa., commencing on Thursday evening, March 25th, at 7½ o'clock, and continue over the following Sabbath.

This is our annual meeting to hear the reports of all our preachers, officers, committees and delegates for the last year;—the progress, spread, and triumph of Bible truth, by the word of mouth, by the aid of religious papers, tracts, and pamphlets, and by every other gospel means;—to learn by reports the amount of monies received and paid out for the purchase and distribution of publications. All the officers for the year ensuing will be chosen at this session. The Conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body co-operating with this Conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the Conference can be addressed to Edwin King, 1716 Francis Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
A. G. JAYNE, President.
EDWIN KING, Secretary.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Third Quarterly Meeting of the Iowa Christian Conference will meet at New Hartford, Butler Co., Iowa, March 19th, and continue over Lord's day. It is hoped that we have passed our severest weather, and that a full attendance may be obtained. At the same time and meeting we wish to see all the campmeeting committee, as there are matters of interest connected with the June meeting, and timely arrangements should be made.

Brethren, all come, and if you cannot, please write us a line of counsel, or suggestions, or comfort, as duty may direct. This is the last quarterly before the annual meeting, and last year of lease of grounds; and it may be the last gathering. Come, let us hear from you. In behalf of the cause of Christ, PETER S. W. DEYO.

MAINE CENTRAL QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Maine Central Quarterly Meeting will be held at Rome (Town House), commencing Thursday evening, March 11th, and continue over the following Sunday. A general invitation is extended to all who love Jesus and the truth, to unite with us in preparing a people for his coming. Homes provided for all. Call on Nathan Martin, Elbridge Tracy, David Watson, and others. Per order, F. E. BLAISDELL. H. B. SEVEY.

NOTICE.—We would like (if the Lord will), six or eight brethren and sisters to go with the Tent this season, filled with the Spirit and power of the gospel, to labor for the salvation of sinners, proclaim the signs of Jesus' coming at hand, and to help care for the Tent, etc. We want those who can give their time, talents, and voice. We will trust in the Lord for means to pay expenses other ways connected with it.

If brethren wish to contribute to help, it will be received gladly. Brn. F. and Asa Blaisdell and others talk of running the Evangel Tent, and I will furnish one or more, if help will be pledged, for Maine or vicinity. Let those respond at once who feel that the Lord wants them to go, as it will take sometime to make tents. Speak freely. We ought to have many tents in the field this season if Jesus does not come; and could if brethren and sisters would take hold of the business. Let us do all we can for a perishing world, and have it said "well done" when Jesus comes.

P. S. Direct H. B. SEVEY, Mt. Vernon, Me.

DISTRICT MEETING.—The Hatley District Meeting, the second of the Conference year, will be held at Ways Mills, Barnston, P. Q. (D. V.) to commence on Thursday, the 18th of March, at 7½ P. M., and hold over the Sabbath. Let special effort be made to circulate the appointment, and all, ministers and others interested, attend who can. Brethren, let us assemble in the name and fear of the Lord, trusting in him for his blessing. We are surely and rapidly approaching the great gathering. Much remains to be done. Shall we do it?
CHAS. P. DOW, Pres. of Conf.
L. C. MCKINSTRY, Pres. of Dist.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Conference of New Brunswick will be held at Jacksontown, Carlton Co., commencing Thursday evening, March 18th, and continue over the following Lord's day. All are invited to come and work for the Lord.
By order of Sec., J. B. ESTY.

"LET US MAKE MAN," etc.—I am prepared to fill all orders for this new book. Price, single copy, 20 cts.; postage 2 cts. Seven copies, postpaid, $1.00; one hundred copies by express, $13.00. T. M. PREBLE, Hyde Park, Mass.

P. S. I learn that some to whom I have mailed the above named book, have not received it. I have filled all orders for it, whether received before, or since its publication. T. M. P.

NOTICE.—The Adventists of Newmarket, N. H., have formed themselves into a church, with the undersigned as its officers. Feeling deeply our utter helplessness without the Divine blessing, we ask the sympathy and prayers of all God's people for his blessing on the effort.

Elder J. L. Chute will supply us the first and third Sabbaths of each month. Brethren wishing to preach on the remaining Sabbaths, please correspond with Elder J. L. Chute, Pastor.
J. L. CHUTE, M. L. WHITEHORNE, } Committee.
M. L. WHITEHORNE, Treasurer.
J. C. MEADER, Clerk.

NOTICE.—Having been pastor of the A. C. Church in this place (Nevada, O.) for nearly five years, and notwithstanding it is the desire of the church that I remain another year, yet I have felt impressed that it might be the will of the Lord that I should labor in some other field, as the way may open. I would therefore say to churches East or West, which may desire to have us locate among them, and labor for the upbuilding of the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners, that I will confer with them relative to this object, and if it should appear to be the will of the Lord, will make the necessary arrangements to do so at the expiration of my engagements here, which will occur on March 31st, 1875. E. M'CULLOCH.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

☞ TO THE BRN. IN MASS.

The Mass. A. C. Conference at its last annual session raised money by pledges and collections to buy a tent and put in the field. A committee was chosen to superintend the buying and running of the tent, and this committee are responsible men, and have done the best they could. They bought the tent and run it until the cold weather set in, and there is a debt on them of over $100. This they are owing to Brn. Boutell and Leslie—the two principal workers with the tent. Some of those that pledged have not paid. We hope brethren will send in the amount of their pledges at once; and we invite others that have the means to contribute to pay these brethren their due, as there is not quite enough pledged to pay the debt.

Bro. Boutell is sick, and the prospect now is he will have to lay by for a while and mend up. He has had sickness in his family also for some months, and he needs what is due him. Now, brethren, will you heed this call, and send me the sum of one hundred and ten dollars at once, so that I can pay these brethren their honest due. Send to C. GOODRICH, Boston, Mass., P. O. Drawer 5140.

CONFERENCE.—The Third Quarterly Conference of the New York State A. C. Society will commence Friday evening, March 12th, at Springwater, Livingston Co., N. Y. We hope to see a large gathering of brethren and sisters present. Let every church in the conference report by delegate or by letter. Teams from the West at 11.30 A. M. and 6 P. M. From the East, 7 A. M. and 4.39 P. M.
M. R. MILES, President.
A. P. MOORE, Secretary.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The A. C. Churches of Northern Kansas, comprising the churches at Brantford, Clifton, and Sherman Centre, are cordially invited to meet in delegation with the A. C. Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kan., on the 27th day of March, A. D. 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Quarterly Conference, in accordance with the usages of the A. C. Church. Brethren of like precious faith are cordially invited to meet with us.
F. O. CUTLER, Pastor of the Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

VERMONT MISSION.—This Mission will commence a meeting at Chester, Vt., Sunday, March 21st, and continue it as duty may require. We expect the same hearty co-operation of the friends of Jesus in that section that we had a year ago, and with as good, or better results. Come, one and all. We will do the best we can to secure preaching services acceptable to God.
H. F. C., for State Com.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The next Quarterly Conference of Northern Pennsylvania and Southern New York will be held at Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Friday evening, March 12th, and continue over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Railway from Corning to Elkland, then stage to Westfield. E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Sec.

YORK CO. CONFERENCE.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its first quarterly session in Depot Hall, Steep Falls, Me., commencing Thursday, March 11th, at 2.30 P. M., and continue over the following Sunday. We desire to see all of our preachers in this County and vicinity at this meeting, also delegates from all our churches. Let those who cannot come report by letter.
C. H. SWEET, Sec.

WELLSBURGH, ERIE CO., PA.—By special request, a series of Lectures will commence in the above village, at such place as the friends interested may prepare and designate by public notice, on the evening of Tuesday, March 16th, 1875.
By request, G. W. STETSON.

NOTICE.—The brethren in Porter, Me., and Freedom, N. H., have arranged to sustain preaching one half the time. These places are near each other, and we unite our interests together and maintain but one meeting regularly, and we are very much in need of preaching. Will the Lord put it into the minds of some of his servants to come over and help us? Who will volunteer, and give notice in Crisis ahead for either of these places? We will meet them at Centre Ossipee, N. H., or Cornish, on their arrival, and do what we can to have them sustained, and to have the gospel preached to sinners. Will Bro E. A. Stockman arrange to come sometimes? Here is a good field for labor, and a good congregation of attentive listeners, and through the blessing of God much good may be done. If any will heed this, please correspond with myself, or W. Sawyer, or J. S. Moulton. Address Porter, Me.
For the Brn., F. PHILBRICK.

REMOVAL.—Eld. J. Porter, believing a change to be profitable both to himself and the church in Danville, P. Q., of which he has been the Pastor for the last twenty-three years, has now removed to Montreal to labor in harmony with the church there. His address for the present will be No. 50 Perthius Street, Montreal.

NOTICE.—I take this way of informing the friends who have written me to labor among them, that my engagement with the A. C. Church in Springwater, N. Y., will close April 1st, 1875. I have spent four years as Pastor here; and I trust, if the Lord will, after the above date I shall be able to comply with your requests.
WARREN J. HOBBS.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q., Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

BRO. ROLAND D. GRANT having accepted the call extended to him by the Second Advent Church of Athol, Mass., his labors as Pastor beginning Jan. 1st, 1875, to continue at least one year, all matters of exchange and supply are submitted to him. O. F. BROOKS, Clerk.

NOTICE.—To those who wish to write me, my address for the present will be Somerville, Mass. Residence on Church St., near Union Square.
WM. C. STEWART.

NOTICE.—The brethren in East Killingly, Conn., have established a meeting and desire help. Any of the preaching brethren who can go there and labor by preaching the Word, will please correspond with Warren Taft, East Killingly, Conn.

ANTI-RUM! ANTI-TOBACCO!—The Anti-Rum and Anti-Tobacco Tracts which have been published by the late Rev. George Trask, may be obtained by addressing Trask Tract Depository, Fitchburg, Mass.

To Preaching Brethren.
NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Those wishing to preach at Franklin, N. H., must correspond with Bro. B. C. Stevens, or Bro. Moses Burbank.

Those wishing to preach at East Canaan, N. H., please correspond with E. G. Mudgett.

Preaching brethren going to Great Falls, N. H., will please call on Bro. Joseph K. Nash, No. 48 Maine Street.

Those wishing to preach at Portsmouth, N. H., will please correspond with either of the following brethren: T. J. Spinney, John Shannon, John Downing.—S. W. HOYT, Sec.

Those wishing to preach in Newcastle, N. H., will please correspond with either of the following committee: Rufus Yeaton, William W. Martin, Chas. W. White.

All communications relative to preaching in Rye, N. H., should be directed to E. B. Wells, Pastor, North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

Those wishing to preach in East Rochester, N. H., please correspond with one of the Elders of the church, James Quimby, or John C. Shorey.

Those wishing to write to the church at East Canaan, N. H., will please correspond with E. Whittier until further notice.

Those wishing to preach in Exeter, N. H., will please correspond with either N. Churchill or G. T. Stacy.

Those wishing to preach in West Deerfield, N. H., are requested to correspond with Elder Rufus P. Bean, West Deerfield, or Elder Enoch Morrill, South Deerfield, N. H.

Those wishing to preach at Lake Village, N. H., North Church, please correspond with Levi Allen or D. G. Drake.

Those wishing to preach in Rochester Village, N. H., will please correspond with the Pastor, J. H. F. Varney.

Those wishing to preach in Manchester, N. H., will please correspond with Wm. A. Lovejoy.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every evening, and every afternoon except Monday and Saturday. Also Sunday, March 14th. JOHN G. HOOK.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Hiram Munger ... Sunday, March 14th
O. W. Kimball ... Sunday, March 21st

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
F. H. Burbank ... Sundays, March 14th, 21st, and 28th

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
C. S. Shattuck ... Sunday, March 14th

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Tremont, Mass ... Sunday, March 21st — C. E. BARNES.

Wakefield, Mass ... Sunday, March 14th — C. GOODRICH.

Clinton, Mass ... Sabbath, March 28th — ROLAND D. GRANT.

Salem, Mass ... Sunday, March 14th — E. GORDON.

Plymouth, Mass ... March 14th
Wakefield, Mass ... Sunday, March 21st
Tremont, Mass ... Sunday, March 28th
Putnam, Ct ... Sunday, April 4th — J. S. WHITE.

Gloucester, Mass ... Sabbath, March 14th — S. HALE.

Natick, Mass ... Sunday, March 14th — WM. C. STEWART.

Wilbraham, Mass ... Sunday, March 14th
Putnam, Ct ... Sunday, March 21st — H. PRATT.

New Bedford ... Sunday, March 14th
Keene, N. H ... Sundays, March 21st and 28th — M. BATCHELOR.

Newburyport (if Bro. Pike appoints) Thursday evening, March 11th.
Lynn, Mass ... Friday evening, March 12th
New Haven, Ct ... Sabbath, March 21st
Athol, Mass ... Sabbath, April 28th — H. MUNGER.

Frankfort, Me ... Sunday, March 14th (Conference, Saturday, the 13th, at 2 P. M.) — F. A. BAKER.

Newmarket, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th
Alton Corner, N. H ... Sunday, March 21st — J. G. SMITH.

Farmington, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th — J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month — H. H. TUCKER.

Rochester, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th — J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Boscawen, N. H. (Gulf school-house) Sab., March 14th
Warner, N. H. (Waterloo school-house) ... March 28th
Sutton, N. H. (South meeting-house) ... Sab., April 4th — SIMEON ROBY.

Hartford, Conn ... Sunday, March 14th
Hartford, Conn ... Sunday, March 21st
Meriden, Conn ... Sunday, March 28th — GEO. W. BROWN.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month — C. W. RATHBUN.

Natick, R. I ... evenings, March 11th and 12th
Coventry Centre, R. I ... evening, March 13th and Sunday, March 14th.
North Scituate, R. I. (as Bro. Angel may arrange) evening March 17th, and over Sunday, March 21st.
Will Bro. Angell meet me at Coventry Centre the 16th? — GEO. A. STREETER.

Bangor, Me ... Sunday, March 14th — S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Otisfield (Gore school-house) ... Sunday, March 14th — H. S. MITCHELL.

East Concord ... Sabbath, March 28th — S. HAWKINS.

New Rye meeting-house ... Sunday, March 14th — D. W. DAVIS.

Bath, Me ... Sunday, March 21st — I. C. WELLCOME.

York Co. Conference ... March 11th—14th — C. H. SWEET.

Franklin, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sunday, March 21st. — G. H. WALLACE.

I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDAN.

Lake Village, N. H ... Sunday, March 28th — LEVI ALLEN.

Unity, N. H ... evenings, March 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, and Sunday, March 14th. — D. EASTMAN. JOHN H. EVANS.
I will meet Brn. Evans and Eastman at Unity. — J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Oxford ... Sunday, March 14th
Richville ... Thursday evening, March 18th
Lewiston ... Sunday, March 21st
Mayberry Hill, Casco (where Bro. Alonzo Mayberry may appoint) Tuesday evening, March 23d.
If any of these conflict, or if any wish for evening meetings on my way, please write me at Dover, N. H. — H. S. PINKHAM.

North Waterford, Me. (as the brethren may arrange) Sunday, March 14th.
Harrison, Me. (Woodsom school-house) Sun., March 28th. — JARED WHITMAN.

Camp Brook, Vt ... Sunday, March 14th — L. H. BRIGHAM.

Dixville, P. Q. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, March 14th
Barnston, P. Q. (Perkins school-house) Sunday, March 21st.
Wayville, P. Q ... Sunday, March 28th
Barford, P. Q. (Kinney school-house) Sun., April 4th — F. M. DRAKE.

Warren Summit, N. H ... evening, March 20th and over Sunday.
Haverhill Centre, N. H ... evening, March 25th and over Sunday. — J. H. EVANS.

Fitchburg, Mass ... Sunday, March 14th — W. N. PILE.

Montgomery ... Sabbath, March 14th
Chicopee Falls ... Sabbath, March 21st
Brimfield ... Sabbath, March 28th
Granby (Batchelor Street) ... Sabbath, April 4th
Montgomery ... Sabbath, April 11th
Springfield ... Sabbath, April 18th
Brimfield ... Sabbath, April 25th — GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Northwood Narrows ... Sunday, April 4th
Salem, Mass ... Sunday, April 11th — C. R. PARSONS.

Springfield ... Sundays, March 14th, 21st and 28th
Natick ... Sunday, April 4th
Plymouth ... Sunday, April 11th — E. OWEN.

Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sun., March 21st.
Bow Centre ... Sunday, March 28th — A. T. HODGDON.

Barkhampsted ... Sunday, March 21st
Campville ... Sunday, March 28th — S. WOODRUFF.

South Rochester, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th — J. DAVIS.

East Pepperell, Mass ... Sunday, March 14th — J. A. PACKARD.

Kennebunk Depot, Me ... Sunday, March 14th — L. W. GOWEN.

Sutton, N. H., Mill Village (where the brethren may appoint) Monday evening, March 15th.
Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, April 11th. — D. EASTMAN.

Pittsfield, N. H ... Sundays, March 21st and 28th — WM. M. HARMON.

Oxford, Me. (Craig's Mills) ... Sunday, March 21st
Otisfield, Me. (Gore school-house) ... Sunday, April 4th — JARED WHITMAN.

Lewiston, Me ... evening, March 20th and Sunday, March 21st.
Alfred (or vicinity) as Bro. Blaisdell may arrange) evening, March 23d, and onward over Sunday, March 28th. — H. B. SEVEY. F. E. BLAISDEL.

Belgrade Mills ... Sunday, April 4th — H. B. SEVEY.

Alton Corner, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th
Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) Sunday, March 21st.
Farmington Village, N. H ... Sunday, March 28th — WM. BODGE.

Hartford, Me ... Friday evening, March 19th and over Sunday.
Brighton Hill, Hebron, Me ... Sunday, March 21st — J. T. JORDAN.

East Concord, N. H ... Sunday, March 14th — A. S. WILLIAMS.

Scitico, Ct ... Sundays, March 14th and 21st
New Haven, Ct ... Sunday, March 28th — H. C. SMITH.

Brunswick, Me ... evening, March 13th and over the Sabbath.
Richmond, Me ... March 20th and 21st
Belgrade Mills, Me ... Sunday, March 28th
Mercer, Me ... Sunday, April 4th — THOMAS RINES.

Lee (Union house) ... Sunday, March 14th
Lee Hill (where the brethren may appoint) Monday evening, March 15th.
Nottingham (where the brethren may appoint) evening, March 16th.
Northwood Narrows ... evening, March 17th
West Deerfield ... evening, March 18th
Newmarket ... evening, March 19th and over Sunday, March 21st.
South Rochester ... Monday evening, March 22d
East Rochester ... evening, March 23d
Springvale, Me ... evening, March 24th
Alfred, Me ... evening, March 25th
Hollis Centre, Me ... evening, March 26th
West Scarboro, (at R. E. Bryant's) ... eve., March 27th
West Scarboro (Broad Turn school-house) Sunday, March 28th. — J. L. CHUTE.

Morton's Corners ... March 11th—14th
Nunda Station, Livingston Co., N. Y. (as Bro. Whipple appoints) March 16th.
West Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y ... March 17th
Swale school-house, Steuben Co. (near Bro. Drakes) March 18th
Swale school-house, (near Bro. Titus') ... March 19th
Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y. (Lyon school-house) evening, March 20th, and Sunday, March 21st, at 11 A. M., and at the village in the evening.
Brocton, Chautauqua Co., N. Y. (as Bro. Hall appoints) March 23d.
Ross Mills (as Bro Salisbury appoints) ... March 24th
Buffalo, N. Y. (528 Eagle Street) Sunday, March 28th
Homer, Potter Co., Pa. (near Bro. Quimby's) Sunday, April 4th. — JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Barford (Kinney school-house) Sundays, March 14th, 21st and 28th, to finish up the year's engagements.
Stanstead (Searls school-house) ... Sunday, March 21st — L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Knowlesville, N. Y ... 1st and 3d Sundays in the month — MRS. L. M. STODDARD.

Biddeford, Me., the first Sunday in the month. Hollis Center the second Sunday. Kennebunkport the third Sunday. Bonny Eagle the fourth Sunday, till further notice. JESSE GAY.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
W. J. Halse ... Sunday, March 14th
W. N. Pile ... Sunday, March 21st
E. A. Stockman ... Sunday, April 4th
S. S. Brewer ... Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
A. Ross ... Sundays, March 14th and 21st
J. Couch ... Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Brewer ... Sundays, April 4th and 11th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
H. F. Carpenter ... Sunday, March 14th
I. B. Potter ... Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer ... Sunday, March 28th
D. M. Leavitt ... Sunday, April 4th
Wm. H. Mitchell ... Sunday, April 11th
B. S. Emery ... Sunday, April 18th
D. F. Leavitt ... Sunday, April 25th

CLINTON, MASS.
D. M. Leavitt ... Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall ... first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker ... second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
D. M. Leavitt ... Sunday, March 14th
Daniel Churchill ... Sunday, March 21st
John Parsons ... Sunday, March 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
Mrs. M. McKinstry ... Sunday, March 14th
C. Cunningham ... Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, March 28th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher ... first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis ... third Sunday in each month

NEWCASTLE, N. H.
C. R. Parsons ... Sunday, March 21st
C. E. Hurd ... Sunday, March 28th

SEABROOK, N. H.
John Couch ... Sunday, March 14th
L. E. Saulpaugh ... Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons ... Sunday, March 28th
Enoch Morrill ... Sunday, April 4th
S. S. Mooney ... Sunday, April 11th
D. M. Leavitt ... Sunday, April 25th
J. F. Chamberlin ... Sunday, May 2d
J. G. Smith ... Sunday, May 9th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
I. C. Wellcome ... Sunday, March 14th
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, March 21st
C. S. Shattuck ... Sunday, March 28th
J. F. Chamberlin ... Sunday, April 4th

DOVER, N. H.
Enoch Morrill ... Sunday, March 14th
C. W. Sargent ... Sunday, March 21st
J. W. White ... Sunday, March 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlin ... Sunday, March 21st
Enoch Morrill ... Sunday, March 28th
O. W. Kimball ... Sunday, April 4th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.) ... Sunday, April 11th
J. G. Smith ... Sunday, April 18th
O. W. Kimball ... Sunday, May 2d
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, May 16th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
T. W. Piper ... Sunday, March 21st
D. M. Leavitt ... Sunday, March 28th

EXETER, N. H.
Geo. W. Sederquest ... Sunday, March 21st

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
C. R. Parsons ... Sunday, March 14th
Enoch Morrill ... Sunday, March 21st
C. C. Emerson ... Sunday, March 28th

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. W. White ... Sunday, March 14th

LEWISTON, ME.
C. Goud ... Sunday, March 14th
H. B. Sevey ... Sunday, March 21st
I. C. Wellcome ... Sunday, March 28th
I. C. Wellcome ... Sunday, April 4th
C. Goud ... Sunday, April 11th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
D. F. Leavitt ... Sunday, March 14th
A. Ross ... Sundays, March 21st and 28th

ALFRED, ME.
S. G. Low ... Sabbath, March 14th
J. R. Tripp ... Sabbath, March 21st
Jer. Hill ... Sabbath, March 28th

SPRINGVALE, ME.
J. W. Horne ... Sunday, March 14th
L. W. Gowen ... Sunday, March 21st
J. R. Tripp ... Sunday, March 28th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
E. A. Stockman ... Sunday, March 14th
J. W. White ... Sunday, March 28th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
C. F. Morse ... Sunday, March 14th
C. F. Morse ... Sunday, March 21st
C. F. Morse ... Sunday, March 28th

BRISTOL, CT.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb ... Sunday, March 14th
G. L. White ... Sunday, March 21st

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
B. Hitchcock ... Sunday, March 14th
O. D. Woodruff ... Sunday, March 21st

YALESVILLE, CT.
S. Woodruff ... Sunday, March 14th

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. G. E. MERRILL, Com.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Seventh Street, below Poplar.)
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allehghany, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven A. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

THERE will be preaching at Cabot, Vt., in the Advent Chapel, every Sabbath, at the usual hours, until further notice. E. N. MORSE.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CLINTON, MASS.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings at Burditt Hall. Preachers will please correspond with Isaac Barnes, Clinton.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

RYE, N. H.—Bro. E. B. Wells having been chosen pastor of the church in Rye, will supply the desk every Sabbath, except the first of each month (that being supplied by Bro. J. W. White.) All communications relative to preaching should be directed to him at North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

BIDDEFORD, ME.—Meetings are held at the Advent Chapel, Hill Street, every Sabbath morning, afternoon and evening; also Wednesday and Saturday evenings, at the usual hours; preachers will please correspond with T. W. Applebee, Box 1340.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ CALEB RICHARDSON'S address is Salem Depot, N. H.

☞ ROLAND D. GRANT'S address is Athol Depot, Mass., Box 292.

☞ F. A. BAKER'S address is 15 Centre Street, Bangor, Me.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—Wm Watson, N Wheeler, Wm F Watson, C S Sherman, J M Stetler, Benj. Luther, Wm Fay, H Pratt, W B Bartlett, H G McCulloch, H C Couch, J B Burgess.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—L Record 60c, S H Spillman 25c, S L Wells 25c, J E Bodwell 75c, C Colburn 5c, F W Henry 6c, Miss C G Baker 50c, J B Richards 75c, A Parmelee 25c, Mrs J Nason 10c, Miss M J Dickson 30c. J H Langley 28c, J Garland 20c, A Pease $2 00, Geo Billings $2.75, M P Holden 70c, Wm Bartholomew 12c, W H Webster 35c, J G Vickers 25c, A Whitney 20c, Z Snow $1 25, J C Smith $17 00, E V B Edgerly 10c, H Pratt 75c, I N Barnes $1.13, M Stevens $1 00, Mrs James A Dow 37c, J Whyman $1 00, S H Pratt $1.00, Mrs Stephens 50c, Miss M P Bush 5c, B J Dowling $1 25, H C Couch 60c, C Tyrrell 40c, H E Russell $1.00, W Milton Bigelow $1.10, C A Slocum 85c, J F Clothey $1 67.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—H H Hemenway, Mrs S L Wells, S R Gilbert, B D Wolcott, L Gokey, L Record, M A Weaver, Mrs S F Carroll, C Helme, Dr S M Spear, J E Bodwell, Mrs J Nason, A Parmelee, F W Henry, C Colburn, Miss C G Baker, Mrs E G Kingsbury, M J Dickens, J H Longley, S A Phillips, M P Holden, Geo Billings, W Bartholomew, W H Webster, J G Vickers, H Pratt, I N Barnes, J Whyman, Mrs J A Dow, L M Gowen, C Tyrrell, W M Bigelow, B J Darling, Z Snow, H E Russell, J S Couch, H W Barlow, Miss M P Bush, J Garland, A Pease, A Whitney, B Pernam, J M Dorgnesan, E V B Edgerly, Mrs Stephens, C A Slocum.
By Express—J C Smith.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—C Eckhart, T L Waugh, C W Clifford, J P Hodgdon, H H Tucker, W Berkley, C Mendenhall, M Shatswell, N Graves, J T Ongley, B Spaulding, E Bronough, J E Clark, S P Howland, A. Richardson, A. T. Hodgdon, A. Dinsmore, A B Swanesburg, W O Higley, L M Stoddard, C Case, O A Ladd, J Feather, P W Rote, J E Clark.

UNION IN CHRIST.
AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate: 1. Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls; 2. It will advocate the formation and endowment of a Union Evangelist Society, for the employment of able men, full of the Holy Spirit, and wise to win souls, as evangelists in congregations and places desiring and needing special help—always preferring the weakest and most needy.

It is the desire of the Publisher to secure, as soon as possible, representative men in all the truly Christian denominations as contributing editors, and to make the paper a means, by the blessing of God, of doing great good. Able writers in the various denominations will contribute to its columns. The paper will contain a monthly summary of Religious Intelligence, Sketches of Sermons by distinguished Preachers; also a Youth's Page and Home Department.

TERMS: Post-paid, single copy, $1 a year; 75 cents to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions.

Agents wanted everywhere. Terms and Sample Copies sent free. Address H. A. KING, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers fer the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
"SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. A'GT.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2 25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1 50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1 25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9 00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.00.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11 00 per one hundred.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.
HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."
Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."
Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."
This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"
is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the
"Slaying of the Witnesses."
10 cts. AG'T.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
BY HENRY CONSTABLE, A. M.

We have this valuable work in its unabridged form of 330 pages, neatly bound in cloth, for sale. Price $1.00; postage, 16 cts.

CHRIST.

D. FRENCH.

Once for sinful man
 The Savior bled and died.
The nails, they pierced his feet and hands,
 The soldier's spear, his side.

But Jesus lives again,
 And lives forevermore;
Angels and men saw him ascend
 Up where he was before.

Now on his Father's throne
 He sits, our great High Priest;
And signs declare his coming near,
 His people to release.

And when he comes, he'll claim
 A kingdom for his own.
He that o'ercomes with him shall reign—
 Shall sit down on his throne.

Probation then will stop;
 O, sinner, read thy fate;
At mercy's door you then may knock,
 But it will be too late.

Mercy is offered now,
 The Savior calls to-day.
Repent, believe, before him bow;
 O come without delay.

O, sinner, do improve
 The moments that remain,
That you may know a Savior's love,
 And in his kingdom reign.

Written by a brother almost eighty years of age. We hope his earnest entreaty may be heeded. J. C.

NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

From our own Correspondent.

WM. KELLAWAY.

Dear brethren of the Crisis, fellowship:—It is no small pleasure for me to be able to avail myself of a few minutes to call to you of the other side of the Ocean the good news of these little Islands, now so full of the mercies of the Lord, and in these last days so signally favored with the truth about life and home.

But though I find so much delight in sending to you, it is not easy to avoid sameness in my letters; for what I communicate is so much alike that variation is almost impossible where repetition is often.

The truths which form our peculiar badge—eternal life by a resurrection and change, and the inheritance of a regenerated world—are mightily running over the kingdom of Great Britain. Singing their joyful gospel, appealing to manhood's reason, strong with Divine mentality, kind with Infinite love; is it any wonder that the human intellect and heart fall captives to their power? And that which is no marvel is blessed truth in a great number of cases; for men in many places are now rejoicing in the hoary hope of the true life, and they look on the inheritance with understanding and faith.

I have good news to tell you, that will, I trust, make you glad. The triumphant progress of the Word of the Lord does not stop. Within the last month or six weeks there has been a remarkable, and one may say providential, stir in Birkenhead and Liverpool. These places will be known to nearly all of you.

It happened that the Sunday School Union invited two ministers of Birkenhead to deliver lectures under its auspices. One of these was a Congregationalist, the other a Presbyterian. This Congregationalist (not a Unitarian) had just previously been convinced that man is not an abiding creature, but that as a shadow he departeth and is not. He delivered a lecture in espousal of his new belief to the Sunday School Union, which was printed and scattered in the neighborhood. Mr. Lymington said if he lectured before the Union he should attack his brother minister. The committee of the Union signified its wish that he would not so act, and the consequence was that Mr. Lymington took offense, withdrew two schools from the connection of the Union, and delivered his lecture in his own school-rooms, a Mr. Linton, Church-of-England clergyman, occupying the chair, and introducing the lecturer. In serving as chairman, Mr. Linton took occasion to say that the truth of immortality as derived only from the risen Savior was an error of the day, and opposed to the teaching of the apostolical Fathers. In support of this statement, he quoted from an ancient fragment, entitled, "The Epistle of Diognetus," the following sentence: "The immortal soul dwells in a mortal body." Mr. Lymington then delivered himself of a careful attempt to avoid the much-disliked doctrines of immortality in the Christ only and the non-eternity of the wicked. In doing this, he made many absurd and no very striking remarks.

There is a Captain in Liverpool by the name of Ward, who is a gentleman of some substance, and of devoted love to the Lord the Christ. This gentleman is a firm believer of life in Jesus, and a philanthropist of the right kind; who, finding the work of the Lord at his hands, does it with his might. He wrote to your correspondent to have Mr. Constable review the lecture by Mr. Lymington. This was done in two weekly numbers of the Bible Echo, and Liverpool and Birkenhead were placarded to announce the fact. It was also published in all respectable papers of the ports. Besides this, Mr. Ward engaged the Music Hall, and invited Mr. H. S. Warleigh, rector of Ashchurch, Tewkesbury, to come and review the position of the local ministers. He attended; and on the first night, although the weather was exceedingly inclement, a good number of persons were present. Discussion was afterwards allowed, and much interest was taken in the meeting. The consequence was, that on the following evening about 750 or 800 persons attended, and my friend Mr. Ward wrote me he did better than himself. Discussion was allowed again, and with the most satisfactory results. Nine-tenths of the audience manifested their sympathy with the truth. Various letters from individuals have since reached me from the neighborhood, which show how deeply the truth has taken hold there.

This was more than Mr. Linton could stand, and hence he has delivered a lecture in his own school-room, which is partly in this week's Liverpool Protestant Standard. A fiery, defamatory editorial lends its aid to this lecture, and a great effort is being made to retain hold upon the misnamed orthodox portion of the community. It is however reasonably concluded that tradition, which is but fable, has received its death-blow in the minds of many thoughtful, earnest men, and that as a result of this extraordinary effort a company of good men will be attached to the true and Royal cause.

To-day, a gentleman came into the Repository to get a few tracts. He told an interesting story, which I repeat. He said:—About twelve months ago, one or two young men came into my Bible class on the Surrey side of the Thames, and we noticed they made what we then considered some very strange statements. Presently, the subject of the immortality of the soul came up for consideration. My class numbered twenty-five young men. I thought I could easily prove human immortality, but was surprised when I really set myself to the task to find I could do nothing of the kind. A great discussion took place in the class, a few young men left, and among the rest the two young men who had introduced the question. I then met with the Bible Echo. I have taken this paper regularly since then, and I am persuaded that immortality comes from Jesus only. I teach this to my young men. Next Sunday we are to consider Gen. 2: 7, which speaks of the creation of man, and I am come to get something that will help me set the truth again before my class. In nearly everything I see, I have to throw away my old, that is the popular, opinions.

Such testimonies are not rare; which leads me to thank God and take courage.

I have a baptism to attend to almost at once.

Bro. Grant's Soul, Spirit, and What is Man? are three tracts that are very much liked, and that are doing good service. Also Bro. Sheldon's Immaterialism.

A volume of the Bible Echo is completed and bound.

Wonderful, really wonderful things have been done in England by a very feeble instrumentality in the way of literature within two years and a quarter; but now another instrumentality requires to be added. That instrumentality is evangelization; and I have therefore proposed to brethren the formation of a fund to supply the wants of families, while chosen brethren, for their natural and artificial abilities, are out in the field. I think all such brethren should travel in twos; that they should go through towns and villages, and visit from house to house declaring the Word of life. No opportunity should be lost. Wherever there seems to be an extraordinary hearing ear, a series of discourses should be delivered.

If the Advent Missionary Society would lend England an Evangelist much would be done. See how Moody and Sankey march through the country. A great sensation is produced in every town which they visit. It really wants a couple of men to follow in their wake, instruct converts more perfectly in the ways of God, set them in order, and leave them immersed into the name of the Christ, rejoicing in hope of salvation.

I confess my aspirations are large, and may God for his own glory grant me to see the one desire of my heart. To see my fellow men believing aright, hoping aright, and living aright, is my consuming ambition.

If any brother or sister feels to write me a word of sympathy, I shall be glad to receive it. My address is—Elder W. KELLAWAY, 10 Warwick Lane, Paternoster Row, London, England.

GOD BLESS BRO. BAKER.

E. GORDON.

Such was the response of my heart as I read his article on "One Baptism," in the Crisis of Feb. 24th, 1875.

I am so glad to see the truth brought to light on this subject. It comforts my heart to hear the faithful watchmen speak out for God and his blessed truth in these days of schisms.

Surely the cause of truth has suffered reproach from the would-be Rabbis, in the Advent body; but Bro. Baker's article, it seems to me, brings out the light so clearly on the point, that all candid seekers after truth must see the fallacy of such notions as these new teachers are spreading all abroad. I am almost of Bro. Brown's opinion, who once said that, if men should arise who taught that people must climb the tallest pine tree that grows in the State of Maine, in order to enter the kingdom of God, they would find followers.

But there, dear brethren, we are in the days of peril spoken of in the faithful Word, and all these little jots and tittles must be fulfilled. The Scriptures cannot be broken. O, may all the faithful watchmen, who see the snares set by Satan to entrap the feet of the unwary, do as Bro. Baker has done, and as he used to love to sing,

"Mount up the heights of wisdom,
And crush each error low;
Keep back no words of knowledge
That human hearts should know.
Be faithful to thy mission,
In service of thy Lord;
And then a golden chaplet
Shall be thy just reward."

Chelsea, Mass.

FANATICISM.

H. MUNGER.

The unreasonable expositions of Scripture by different teachers have led to nearly all the fanaticism among professed Bible believers. See the fanaticism of the Shakers, the Mormons, and the many modern visions by would-be prophets which lead many astray; also the unscriptural baptism, and other fanatical ideas, preached by those that profess to get it from the Bible, when in fact it is the false exposition of some fanatic. We should test all arguments by the whole Scripture testimony. This would save jumping at conclusions, and then having to back down to get right.

I have seen and heard of all kinds of fanaticism for over fifty years; and some has no more foundation for it than the Catholics have for believing their holy water will keep lightning from striking their houses, or cast out the devil and heresy, as they say. This all came from the expositions of the priest, and they believe it, and all pay for holy water in case of emergency. A fact told by a converted Catholic will illustrate their fanaticism in using holy water. One of his neighbors bought a pig of a Protestant, and he, being in a strange place and pen, was uneasy; and his wife said it was heresy in the pig that made him act so, and holy water would take it out. She got the bottle of holy water, as she supposed, and went to the pen to cure the pig of heresy; but she had got the bottle of vitriol that stood by it. She turned some on the pig, and he soon felt the effect, and grunted and ran around the pen worse than before. She said the heresy in the pig was very deep, and gave him another dose, which was so distressing that he dove through the pen and left; she supposing it was the power of the holy water.

Was this fanaticism? It was; and yet it is no more ridiculous than it is for some fanatics in our day to believe what they do, who pretend to hold the Protestant faith. Some have gone so far as to say they were having a new set of teeth come by the laying on of hands. Others have been turning black. One said he could see into the vitals of a person and prescribe remedies. Another said he saw Jesus move from one position to another, and shut the door of mercy against sinners.

Now all this is as much fanaticism to me as the operation on the pig. The devil would have destroyed our influence through fanatics, by running the train off the track, if it had not been for some old brakemen. There are two extremes to be avoided,—cold formality and wild-fire. Fanaticism has always followed God's people; and I am glad to know that our people are getting their eyes open to these extravagancies, and settling down on a sound Bible foundation.

THE REFINER.

"He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver."—MAL. 3: 3.

To make his silver pure and bright,
As bands of stars in darkest night,
As gems upon his crown of light,
With patient skill that never tires,
He sits beside the glowing fires,—

Watching the silver in his sight,
Until with fullness of delight,
On the smooth surface, clear and bright,
His own reflection he can see
Mirrored forth truly, perfectly.

O thou Divine Refiner, let
The purifying fires be trebly heat,
And when my heart is melting with the pain,
Hold me in patient love, I'll not complain,
But count my greatest loss most precious gain,

And sit till thou dost know thy work complete,
Till my tried soul is made a mirror meet
To shadow forth thy glorious form and face,
To catch and to reflect each lineament of grace,
And hold it true to life in every time and place.

GONE.

H. W. WILLIAMS.

I am lonely to-night. The wintry winds whistle about my dwelling, the windows are covered with frost, and I seem to be shut up to meditating upon the past. Youthful days come back to mind when father, mother and sister used to gather about the fire-side; but they are all gone. Father sleeps in California. His body has long since mingled with the dust of that distant land. But he died in Christ. My sister, the playmate of my youth, is gone. She fell a victim to that fatal disease—consumption. A lovely daughter she left to comfort her sorrowing friends, but she, too, is gone. She fell asleep in Jesus. My good mother gave up the ghost at the advanced age of seventy-one years. Then the last link of family union was severed, and I am left lonely. At times I weep and seem ready to yield up my strength also to the enemy. Yet I do not sorrow as some others do; for I believe that those dear ones had found a hiding-place in the Cleft Rock. Like Abraham, they believed in a city to come; they looked for it, and confessed that they were strangers here.

I would not call them back. Their earthly sufferings are over. They know no more of the ills of this bitter life. Thank God, they wait the summons of the coming King. Who of us that have reached the age of forty-four years, cannot say,—

"Over in the graveyard yonder,
 Where the wild flowers fitly bloom,
There I've lain one and another
 In the cold and silent tomb?"

As christians, our sorrows are mutual. We can pray for, and weep with each other. The hope that comforts my poor heart, lifts your eyes toward heaven also. Jesus, the Life-giver, has promised his people a resurrection from death to an endless life where no sorrow shall ever invade. This comforting assurance abides with us forever, as a balm to heal our wounds.

May the good Lord who pardons all our sins, and calls us by his holy Spirit, keep us all from falling from our steadfastness, and bring us speedily to that heavenly rest for which we sigh.

CONFERENCE.

The Third Quarterly session of the North-eastern Iowa A. C. Conference met at Edgewood, Feb. 19th, at 6½ P. M. Spent an hour profitably in prayer and praise, then listened to a short discourse from Bro. John Ridley on the parable of the "sower." Saturday, at 10½ A. M., met for business. The President being absent, Bro. S. S. Combs was chosen President pro tem. Report of last Quarterly meeting read and approved. Elk Valley Advent Christian Church was admitted into the Conference. It was organized Jan. 31st, 1875, by Bro. Ridley, assisted by Brn. Dutton and Buck; has 23 members.

Bro. Ridley reported his labor since last Quarterly meeting as very encouraging. Bro. S. S. Combs had preached at Bear Creek until prevented by sickness. Had enjoyed much of the love of God. The reports of Manchester, Edgewood, Bear Creek and Elk Valley churches were very encouraging.

Our business session was well attended; harmony and love prevailed. Motioned that we endeavor to secure more ministerial help to labor within the bounds of this Conference. Carried. Brn. J. A. Danner, James Walters, and William H. Connell, were requested to solicit funds to defray the expense of tent meetings the coming year. Seventy dollars were subscribed, to be paid to the Conference Treasurer, Bro. Ithimar Cooley, of Manchester, by the first day of May next.

Motioned and carried that this Conference request the Campmeeting Committee to hold the next campmeeting at this place—Edgewood—in connection with the Annual Conference. It was also voted to hold the next Quarterly meeting with the church at Elk Valley, in May next.

Brn. Buck and Dutton were both prevented from attending this meeting, as the railroad to this place was blocked up with snow, and it has been so stormy of late that it is not safe to venture far with a team. Bro. and Sr. Janes were also absent; so that Bro. Ridley did all the preaching. Though some were disappointed in not hearing other brethren from a distance, yet the interest kept increasing. Sunday evening Bro. Ridley preached from the words—"Finally, brethren, farewell"; after which we partook of the Lord's Supper. We felt sad to part, yet we were enabled to rejoice in anticipation of the coming glory, when all the dear saints will meet to part no more.

At this meeting four resolved to serve the Lord. Thus ended one of the best meetings I have attended for a long time. It was truly a feast of fat things.

Voted, To have the proceedings of this meeting published in the World's Crisis and Advent Christian Times.

WM. H. CONNELL, Sec.

WITTY sayings are as easily lost as the pearls slipping off a broken string; but a word of kindness is seldom spoken in vain.

Correspondence.

From C. F. Carman.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—I thought that I would write a few lines to the Crisis, to let its many readers know that there are a few of "like precious faith" out in South-western Iowa; and how sweet it would be if we could enjoy the society of some of our Eastern brethren, hear their preaching, and unite in their prayer and social meeting every week, and hear those earnest brethren tell their hope of the soon coming of Christ and his approaching kingdom, instead of the scoffs and jeers of those who profess to love Christ, but ridicule his coming. If we are faithful we expect to realize our hope in a short time.

Turn to Rev. 15: 5–8, and you will see that the tabernacle of the testimony was opened, and seven angels were commisioned to go forth with vials full of wrath; but smoke filled the temple, and no man could enter until the seven plagues were fulfilled. But six of these vials have been poured out, and the way of the kings of the East have been preparing for some time, and the unclean spirits have evidently gone forth. Mormonism, Spiritualism, and Free-loveism, with all their God-dishonoring doctrines and practices, together with all the world, seem to be gathering for battle. Right here Jesus testifies—"Behold I come as a thief; and blessed is he that waiteth."

Oh brethren and sisters, how we should gird up the loins of our minds, and center them on the Master; for he alone can carry us through the gathering storm. Soon the seventh angel will pour out his vial into the air, and the voice out of the temple will say—"It is done;" and then the terrible conflict of nations will commence. When God's wrath is poured upon those that dwell on the earth, then those whose names are not written in the Lamb's book of life will be cast into the lake of fire which is the second death. But unto those who fear his name, will he arise, with healing in his wings. God shall wipe away tears from all faces, and take away the rebuke of his people. Then the tabernacle of God will be with men, and God himself will be their God.

Hamburg, Iowa.

From E. Hubbard.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—I have recently become a patron of the Crisis through the kindness of Bro. J. C. Smith. His forcible illustrations of prophecy and Scriptural illustrations, have enabled me to see new light. I had been trying to preach the gospel for a number of years. My first relation was with the Missionary Baptists, and then with the Christians, more commonly called Campbellites. This doctrine I verily thought was the doctrine taught by Christ and the apostles.

But, bless the Lord! I have been led to see the truth more clearly than ever before. The truth will stand the test, in spite of all opposition.

O, that men would repent and obey the gospel, and be saved, and receive eternal life when Christ comes to reign with his saints. I long to see the blessed Savior coming in the clouds, with his convoy of angels. The thought makes my heart leap for joy. Come quickly, Lord Jesus, is my prayer.

Dear brethren and sisters, unfurl the gospel banner to the breeze. Let the watchmen be found at their post, for the day of redemption draweth nigh. The trump will soon sound; then the graves will deliver up the dead. Blessed will be those who have part in the first resurrection, for on such the second death will have no power. They shall reign with Christ forever and ever.

From Bro. A. Parmalee.

Editors Crisis:—I do not entertain the idea that one as unlearned as myself can add aught to the worth of the Crisis, for I think it just as good as a religious journal can be. However, as I love Jesus and his appearing, I feel desirous of contributing my mite in any way I can to the advancement of his cause. Theoretically I have been an Adventist for a good many years, but mere theory did not prevent me from sinking deep and still deeper in the mire of the world. Now I not only believe, but love the truth, and am not ashamed to let it be known. "By the grace of God I am what I am."

A year ago last fall saw the commencement of my "return to my father's house." Almost exhausted, seeing but little if any hope of recovering myself from the snare in which my feet had been taken, I at last resolved that I would throw myself upon the mercy of the Lord Jesus Christ, and, blessed be his name, he received me, and saved me from the power of sin.

I am associated with the Baptist church in this village, in which I have many warm friends, some of whom love the Master's appearing; and to both pastor and people I am under everlasting obligations for their solicitude and zeal for my welfare. I ask the prayers of all who love our Lord Jesus Christ. Yours in the "One hope."

Medina, N. Y.

From Sr. A. Dinsmore.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—Thinking that all the true lovers of Jesus, who read the Crisis, would be glad to hear of the prosperity of his church in any part of the world, I thought I would write a few lines about East Bowdoinham.

A year and a half ago there were no meetings here, and now we have two established meetings a week, Sunday afternoon and Wednesday evening. Three backsliders have returned to Father's house, and some that were lukewarm have been awakened, and we all strengthened. The blessed Lord has led in all. He has seemed to think it best to have us "work out our own salvation," instead of having a preacher to pull us along. We have had, in the time, fourteen sermons, just as God has seemed to direct. This work is in his hands, and when he sees fit he will send some one to us. Our little prayer meeting was carried right through haying time, something which has not been done before for some time. It is all the work of God in answer to prayer.

There are some sinners who have been feeling very deeply. God help them to yield to their conviction, is my prayer. I expect to see them coming, if we continue faithful. Praise God for a full and free salvation!

East Bowdoinham, Me.

From Sr. E. Marston.

Dear Editors:—For the information of my christian friends in Kingston, N. H., I wish to say that I am still pressing onward. Owing to neglect of duty in social meetings, I have, for a few weeks past, been living under a cloud, through which I feared the sun might never shine again. I had been conversing with a friend concerning my troubles, and being discouraged, remarked that I had half a mind to give up trying to live a christian life. He replied—"You do not pray enough. Don't give it up." Instantly conscience whispered—"He has told the truth; you have neglected secret prayer." I felt humbled that I should be thus reproved by one who did not even profess to be a follower of Christ. Since then I have renewed my covenant with God, and he is blessing me daily. I find that at secret prayer the blessing always comes down.

I desire the prayers of all true christians for the conversion of my friend. I firmly believe that God will answer the earnest christian prayer of faith. Pray for me, dear friends of Jesus, that I may so live that I may be accounted worthy to escape those things that are shortly coming on the earth.

Ashland, N. H.

HE WILL LEAD US.

I. AHLBORN.

He will lead us through this night,
Forth into the noonday light
That dwelleth alone with him,
Where there are no clouds of sin
The calm heavens to obscure,
But where all is free and pure.

He will lead us o'er the road,
He will help us bear the load;
We shall not walk on alone,
By sins power overthrown;
Nay, a helper there is near,
Who will calm each anxious fear.

He will lead us in the way,
Oh! take his mighty arm for stay;
'Tis so good his love to trust,
To look above fleeting dust,
Knowing that he loves thee still,
Will his promises fulfill.

MY EXPERIENCE.

JOHN B. ELLIOTT.

I have seen in the Crisis, from time to time, calls for short experiences; so I thought I would send a few items of my own.

I was born in the year 1840, in the province of Nova Scotia, and when but a boy of eleven years, I was impressed with the thought that I was a sinner. Being very young, my impressions soon wore off. I went on until the winter of 1857, when I was led again to see that I was a sinner, and gave my heart to the Lord, was baptized, and joined the Baptist church. Most of my friends were Baptists. I walked with the church four or five years, when I began to see things in members I did not like, and I, not having much experience in the things of God, began to lose my interest. I lost confidence in God's Word and his people, and backslid in heart.

In the spring of '67 I went to Portland, Me. After a while, I got work with Mr. James Brooks, whom I soon learned was an Adventist. I did not think much of that system of religion. Of all others, it was the last for me. But one day I went into Advent Hall, on Congress St., and heard a man by the name of H. Pratt. After listening to him all day, I made up my mind that he had the truth. I was under condemnation. At last I made up my mind to become a follower of Jesus. In the fall of '69 I went with some friends to Alton Bay Campmeeting, and there, glory to God! I found peace in believing, and joy in the Holy Ghost. I accepted the doctrine of the soon coming of Christ, and had the spirit of it in my heart. In the summer of '71 I went to Clinton, Mass., and there I found some of God's dear children. I was there over two years, and had some of the most blessed seasons I ever enjoyed. Saw quite a number baptized, some of whom are still holding on.

God bless you, dear ones in Christ, is my prayer. In the spring of '74 I moved back to my old home, with the good news that Jesus was soon coming to put an end to sin, and restore all things spoken of by the prophet since the world began. I am among those who oppose me in all my views, but I know it is God's truth, and I mean to hold on till Jesus comes.

Now, dear brethren and sisters, I ask your prayers, that I may overcome, and have a home in God's everlasting kingdom. I am looking, watching, and praying "thy kingdom come."

Lakeville, N. S.

LITTLE BY LITTLE.—The enemy trying to get a real christian to commit some great sin is like consuming a green log with a candle. Here the blaze is perfectly harmless, as would be the temptation to sell our hope of heaven. But to light a mere shaving with the candle, and add to that a few small shivers, then a few a little larger—then add the sticks of wood and still larger ones, and when these get to burning well apply the green logs. Be sure and keep the small logs on, and in this way you may successfully destroy your green logs or anything else. In the same way Satan can draw away the children of God, but he is wise enough to know that there is no use of tempting them to steal or murder, or even lie, the first thing; but, like Esau, they may be tempted over a morsel of meat.

"SEVERAL learned men tried to persuade a great scholar to believe in Christianity, but it seems all their labor was in vain. A plain, honest man, however, managed the argument in a different manner; by referring not so much to logical reasoning as to the work of the divine Spirit; so that at last the scholar exclaimed, 'When I heard no more than human reason, I opposed it with human reason; but when I heard the Spirit, I was obliged to surrender.' Thus it is that, trusting to their own wisdom, the wisest are lost; while those who are taught of the Spirit, know the way of God in truth."

A DEVOUTLY pious man, who lived some six miles from the house of worship, once complained to the pastor of the distance he had to go to attend public worship. "Never mind," said the good minister, "remember that every Sabbath you have the privilege of preaching a sermon six miles long—you preach the gospel to all the residents and people you pass."—Ex.

TIME is a precious talent. Every moment should be given to Jesus. At home, at business, in social intercourse—every moment for Jesus. Remember, brethren, "time is short."

SWEET PEACE IN JESUS.

ADAM FRIESE.

TUNE.—"The Gate Ajar."

In Jesus there's sweet peace and joy
 That passeth understanding;
'Tis pure and rich—without alloy;
 From God through Christ descending.
CHORUS.—O, depth of love, so rich and free!
 That peace abounds for you and me.

That peace is offered free to all
 Who give themselves to Jesus:
To rich and poor, to great and small;
 Ho! every one who pleases.

'Tis only ask, submit, believe,
 Yield entire consecration,
And you the blessing shall receive,
 The cleansing operation.

The heart must be made pure and clean;
 Purged, for the Spirit's dwelling,
From dross and sin, and all that's mean—
 With truth and mercy welling.

THE CLEFT OF THE ROCK.

A Highland mother, at the close of spring, was suddenly overtaken in a wild glen among the mountains, by what was long recalled by her fellow-villagers as "the great May storm." After attempting in vain, for some time, with her infant in her arms, to buffet the whirling eddies of snow, she laid the child down among heather and ferns, in the deep cleft of a rock, with the brave resolve, if possible, to make her own way home through the driving sleet, and obtain succor for her little one. She was found by the anxious neighbors next morning, stretched cold and stiff, on a snowy shroud. But the cries of the babe directed them to the rock crevice, where it lay, all unconscious of its danger; and from which it was rescued.

Many long years afterwards, that child returned from distant lands—a disabled soldier, covered with honorable wounds. The first Sabbath of his home-coming, on repairing to a city church, he listened to an aged clergyman, unfolding, in Celtic accents, the story of redeeming love. Strange to say, that clergyman came from the same Highland glen where he himself had spent his youth. Stranger still, he was illustrating the divine tale with the anecdote of the widow and her child.

A few days afterwards that pastor was summoned to visit the death-bed of the old soldier. "I am the son of the widow," were the words which greeted the former, as he stood by the couch of the dying man; "lay my bones beside hers in the churchyard among the hills. The prayers she used to offer for me have been answered. I have found deliverance in old age where I found it in my childhood—in the cleft of the Rock: but it is—The Rock of Ages.!"

A CHRISTIAN lady writes, asking, "Do church tea-parties glorify God?" She says a lady belonging to a certain church gave a ticket to a Catholic, her dress-maker, for one of these festivals. She attended, and her friend afterward asked her candid opinion of the affair. The Catholic said she was delighted with it, but to tell the truth, she never would have thought that it was a Methodist gathering, or indeed, a religious gathering of any kind. How careful the church needs to be about expedients employed, lest there be a deadly influence.—Christian Standard.

HOME AND HEALTH.

DARK ROOMS.

Shut the windows tight. Batten them with "weather strips" to exclude the air. Curtain them and shut the blinds to keep out light—sunshine fades the carpets and is painful to weak eyes. We will sit in the back room on the shady side of the house. The children and the servants will sleep in the middle or dark rooms, where it will be more quiet. They will not know the difference, while sleeping, between a light, airy room, and one without light or ventilation. And if they don't object, why not keep them there?

What short-sighted mortals! They think to cheat nature! The writer was once summoned as a witness to take the testimony of a sailor who had been stabbed by a drunken comrade, and had been conveyed to one of the New York hospitals, where his life was slowly but surely coming to an end. One of the physicians present, the late Dr. Griscom, who had been connected with the hospital some twenty years, invited us to inspect the different wards of the hospital, to see how sweet and clean the rooms were kept. It had recently been whitewashed, and we found it free from fault in respect to cleanliness. It was well-provided with all the necessary furniture, clothing, etc., for the comfort of the large number of patients then and always under treatment for broken bones, burns, and bruises, caused by the ten thousand accidents constantly occuring in and around our great city.

We inquired of Dr. Griscom what proportion of these crippled patients recovered?—we beg the reader to note the significance of his answer. He said: "Nearly all on the sunny side of the hospital recover, while many on the shady side linger along till gangrene sets in, when death comes to their relief." We expressed surprise that a patient should be placed in a room where the chances were against his recovery, and inquired, "Why not have sunny rooms for all?" He answered: "The hospital is not large enough for this, and when the good rooms are all full, those who come in later must accept such accommodations as we can furnish, whether they live or die. We do the be best we can with the rooms at our disposal. As soon as south-side rooms become vacant, we remove north-side patients into them, and so keep them always full."

What a picture is this! We fall on the ice and break a leg; or from a ladder and break an arm; or we are smashed or burned in a railway train; or run over by a Broadway omnibus, and carried on a stretcher to New York Hospital. The rooms on the sunny side—in which patients are expected to recover—are all full, while the rooms on the north, or shady side—in which patients are expected to linger till gangrene sets in, when the are expected to die—awaits us. We enter alive and come out a corpse! There was no vivifying sunlight there with healing on its wings, and we perish.

Reader, do you see? Can you reason? or are you a blind bat and don't care for life or for death?

We advise readers of The Science of Health to live, at least a part of the time, in the sunshine. Never mind the fading carpets—what are they when compared with life and health? Sleep in well-aired and ventilated rooms, and thus throw off and throw out all impurities emanating from human bodies. If all should live on healthful food; breathe pure air; live much in the life-giving sunshine; abstain from stimulants, narcotics, and condiments; be suitably clothed; sleep plentifully in well ventilated rooms in which the sun shines during the day; take proper bodily exercise to keep up a vigorous circulation; keep the skin clean by frequent ablutions, and the conscience clear and void of offence toward God and man by doing right, and in other matters obey the laws of nature and of God, we would be proof against coughs, colds, consumption, small-pox, cholera, yellow fever, or other diseases. Indeed, one who so lives may be exposed to any disease and not take it.

But if our blood be poisoned by breathing impure air; eating filthy or disease generating food; drinking all manner of poisonous concoctions; living in dark rooms, inhaling the fumes of stinking tobacco; living lives of lust and passion, we shall become as grass before the blade of every epidemic which, under the usual favorable conditions,

"Cuts down all, both great and small."

MORAL.—Do not stay in dark rooms; do not sleep in unventilated rooms; live all you can in the sunshine, and in pure air.—The Science of Health.

CLOTHING OUR CHILDREN.

Some people seem to think that the smaller the child is the less clothing it needs. Many people dress their infants in calico and muslin (with an occasional flannel petticoat) in the coldest weather. When the children grow older they are dressed a little warmer in the winter time, and if they have the good fortune to be boys, they soon step out of scanty petticoats and into warm, thick clothes. But if the poor child happens to be a girl, then, instead of any sensible covering for the lower limbs, they are protected from winter's chilly winds by thin stockings and light shoes. For every day, little country girls generally wear woolen yarn stockings and heavy shoes; but on an occasional holiday, off comes the yarn stockings and calf-skin shoes, to be replaced by cotton stockings and cloth gaiters. This is done because the last-named are supposed to look more genteel. Perhaps they are, sometimes. Home-knit yarn stockings are generally clumsy, ill-shaped things, and calf-skin shoes, for girls, are mostly ill fitting and ugly. Men's and boys' boots are made with care, after a good pattern, and from the best leather; they are also made rights and lefts. But women's and girls' shoes are generally made from poor pieces and scraps left after making boots, cut carelessly and made either flimsily or clumsily. When shoemakers learn to make neat, well-fitting calf-skin shoes (as good as boots of the same material) then will girls and women be saved for lives of usefulness, where now they are cut down untimely by the fell-destroyer. Of course, such shoes would cost a little more, but human lives are of more value than money, and the world will find that out after awhile. With a little care, yarn stocking can be made to fit a great deal better than they usually do, and will wear longer.

The common garter should never be worn. It is nothing but a tight ligature around the blood-vessels of the leg, and can only be productive of injury to the health of the wearer. Stocking suspenders can be made by having a narrow band to pass around the waist with straps to go over the shoulders, and a long strip of elastic buttoned to each side and carried down and fastened to each stocking. This same band will do to fasten the other clothing to, in order that the entire weight of the clothes may rest upon the shoulders and not on the hips.

The old-fashioned, quilted skirt, I am happy to say, is fast passing into the oblivion it deserves. The skirts should be as warm as possible without being heavy. I wish women could realize that a much more elegant and graceful form is secured by having the clothes loose enough to be comfortable and suspended from the shoulders. Two warm, light-gored skirts (not too long), suspended as I have just mentioned, look infinitely better than a quantity of cumbersome, long petticoats, bound tightly around the waist and impeding every motion. No wonder women and girls are weak and helpless when they dress in such a barbarous fashion. I mistake when I say barbarous. Bostonian women cannot be accused of any such hurtful practice.

Flannel drawers should be made long and buttoned around the ankle. If fashionable mammas think that this would not "look pretty," let me tell them that the stockings and muslin drawers will entirely conceal them from view; while the tender limbs will be kept warm and comfortable, which is of greater importance than looks. The practice of habitually putting growing girls into tight corsets is as fatal to good looks as it is to health. Little girls so treated have pale, care-worn faces and projecting shoulders. The breast bone is pressed out into the shape of a bird's. The eyes look heavy and listless, and the general appearance is that of an old young woman. Is such a child as attractive as one with light, springing step and rosy cheeks and merry laugh? One who never knew the tyrrany of a corset? These little corseted martyrs are not found in the country; but in towns and cities there are plenty of just such suffering innocents. When we learn to dress our children rightly and feed them properly and train them as befits the dwellers in a Christian land, then will the millenium come.—Science of Health.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate, or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1010. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 23.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } Editors.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

JESUS A WHOLE SAVIOR.

W. KELLAWAY.

Can Jesus save a man from sin?
Can Jesus keep me pure within?
Lord, may I never see the day
In which my tongue shall answer, Nay.

If by the Spirit I am led,
If I am governed by my Head,
Then must I keep the narrow way,
And cannot from obedience stray.

If all my thoughts and wishes too
Are by the mind of Christ made new,
Then I no more am foul within,
And outwardly am saved from sin.

Lord, in thy promises of grace,
And in thy mind of righteousness,
And in thy blood there is I ween,
Sufficient power to keep me clean.

10 Warwick Lane, Paternoster Row, London, Eng.

THE PRESENT STATE OF THE WORLD INDICATIVE OF THE LORD'S SPEEDY RETURN.

By Rev. Edward Hoar, Vicar of Tunbridge Wells, and Canon of Canterbury Cathedral.

"Behold, I come quickly," was the last promise, "Even so come, Lord Jesus," the last prayer in Scripture. The glorious prospect of this quick return was the constant joy of the apostles and early disciples of our Lord. Nor can anything be more marked than the contrast between our thoughts and theirs in reference to this important subject.

They were for ever anticipating the time, and falling into error through their eager haste for the coming kingdom; we are too prone to stave off the thought of it, as a thing distant and uncertain. They could not rest without an eager inquiry as to the times and seasons of his approach; we, on the other hand, are tempted to sit still in listless apathy, with the eye blinded to the facts of history, with the ear deaf to the voice of prophecy, and so regardless of the knowledge really given us by God.

They lived at the outset of the church's pilgrimage with a distance of at least 1800 years between them and their joyous hope; and yet they most eagerly inquired, "When shall these things be?" We live on the very verge of its conclusion, with the great climax full in view; yet we go on as if the world were to last for ever, steeped in apathy the most profound with reference alike to the event itself and to its times.

Some persons look for the universal conversion of the world before the present dispensation can be brought to a close. In other cases, the mind instinctively shelters itself behind the sameness and uniformity in the order of society. People think that the sun will rise to-morrow, for the simple reason that, day after day, it has risen hitherto with exact and unvarying punctuality. On the same principle, the continuance of the world's order deadens the expectation of a change. Society remains unaltered in its leading features; pleasure, trade, and politics retain their hold on the public mind; the father's interests engross the son; and the natural inference is, that things will continue to move on as heretofore, and that there is little either to be hoped or dreaded in the prophetic promise of the Lord's return.

Believers, therefore, should study well those portions of prophecy which describe the state of the world preparatory to that blessed event. All witnesses for Christ should be acquainted with the forerunners of his coming. Those who watch for him should know the signs of his appearing. It is, therefore, an important question,

In what condition will our Lord find society at his coming? What will be the spirit of the age? and what its habits and occupations when Christ returns to reign?

1. There will be no stop to men's pleasures before the Advent. The pleasure hunters will be found pursuing their giddy course just as at present; they will not find their souls solemnized in anticipation of the great event; the nearness of the Advent will not suffice to bring on repentance. The great machinery of God's providence will move on without their perceiving it; the signal will be already given, the angelic hosts already on the wing, and the resurrection already commenced, before there are any such startling appearences as shall suffice to arouse the mere pleasure-hunter from his dreams.

Our Lord teaches this in Matt. 24: 37-39—"As the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be," etc. Noah's preaching was the only notice of the coming flood. The world pursued its own course until the very day that the rain began to fall. On the evening before, they were feasting joyously, perhaps scoffingly at the toilsome labors of the man of God, and many doubtless laughing at the ark; when unexpectedly, without further notice, in the midst of their festivity, the storm gathered, the door was closed, and the unbelieving world overwhelmed in judgment. "So," saith the Lord, "shall be the coming of the Son of man."

2. Nor will there be any stop to business. The same passage from St. Matthew describes a state of active employment in the world,—"Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken and the other left." (24: 40, 41.) The men in the field and the women at the mill represent society as engaged in their daily callings. Nor is this description confined to the unconverted only; it includes both characters. Of the two men in the field one shall be taken, i. e., caught up to be with Christ, as a believer; one shall be left, i. e., in the world, as an unbeliever; of the two women one shall be taken as a saint of God; one shall be left behind upon the earth. The word here rendered "taken" is the same as was employed by our Lord when he said, "I will come again and receive you unto myself;" and therefore all that are "taken" are chosen saints of God.

Believers, therefore, and unbelievers, will go out on that very morning to their business. The streets, as usual, will be full, the shops open, trade flourishing; the accountant will be found at his desk, the merchant in his counting-house, the tradesman in his shop, the judge on the bench, the lawyer at the bar, the statesman in his cabinet, and the children in the school. Nor will there be any check on their society. There will be the dinner party, and the empty frivolities of those who live in pleasure. Men will have their balls, operas, and theatres to the very last; they will dance on to the very morning of the resurrection. There will be no change in the habits of society, no alteration in the ordinary aspect of the world; we shall be living together in social life just as at present, with business cares and social duties; when suddenly—in a moment—in the twinkling of an eye—the whole shall be interrupted by one shrill blast of the trump of God.

3. There will be unprecedented wars and tribulation. We are taught by our Lord (Matt. 24: 21, 22) that the time of the end shall be one of peculiar distress,—"For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be. And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved; but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened. Immediately after the tribulation of those days they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven." The tribulation of those days is here described as the last event on earth before the Advent. So again in Luke 17: 33,—"Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it." This passage, like the former, refers to the time of the end, for in v. 30 we read of "the day when the Son of man is revealed; and the words quoted show that the state of things will be of such a character as to involve the risk of martyrdom in the faithful confession of the truth.

But the words of Daniel are more explicit still. "And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people; and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time; and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake," etc. (Daniel 12: 1-4.) There can be no doubt as to the time here referred to; it is determined by four indisputable marks; the final deliverance of God's chosen people, the resurrection, the glory of the saints, and the title given to it, "the time of the end."—Signs of Our Times.

THE KINGDOM OF THE MEDES.

J. B. CLARK.

The Assyrians, who had for many ages held the empire of Asia, began to decline. The Medes first threw off their yoke, and for a time maintained their liberty. The nation of the Medes was divided into tribes, and the people dwelt in villages. Cyaxares I., king of Media, reigned forty years. He was a brave prince. The Assyrians came out to meet him. A battle ensued, wherein the Assyrians were defeated, and driven back to Nineveh.

Cyaxares contracted an alliance with the king of Babylon, and joined with him, uniting their forces. They utterly destroyed the mighty city—Nineveh. The two armies enriched themselves with the spoils of that city, and Cyaxares, prosecuting his victories, made himself master of all the cities of the kingdom of Assyria except Babylon and Chaldea, which belonged to the king of Babylon. Cyaxares died, leaving his dominion to his son, Astyages, who reigned thirty-five years, with no particular record of his life. He had two children, whose names are famous; namely, Cyaxares II., and Mandana, by a former marriage. In his father's life-time he married Mandana to Cambyses, the son of Achemenes, king of Persia. From this marriage sprang Cyrus, who was born but one year after the birth of his uncle Cyaxares.

Cyaxares II., in Scripture, is Darius the Mede. Cyrus, having taken Babylon, in conjunction with his uncle Cyaxares (Darius), left it under his government. After the death of his uncle and his father Cambyses, he united the kingdoms of the Medes and Persians into one, after which union they were only one empire.

Therefore, the empire of the Medes and Persians commenced with the reign of Cyrus, subsequent to the death of his uncle Cyaxares, the Mede, and of his father Cambyses, king of Persia.

The years of Cyrus' reign are computed differently. Some make it thirty years, beginning from his first setting out from Persia, at the head of the army, to succor his uncle Cyaxares; others make the duration of it to be but seven years, because they date it only from the time when, by the death of Cambyses and Cyaxares, he became sole monarch of the whole empire. This latter period we believe is the nearest correct, which commenced about B. C. 536. This is the date as given by the historian.

In the first of these seven years precisely expired the seventieth year of the Babylonish captivity, when Cyrus published the famous edict whereby the Jews were permitted to return to Jerusalem. Cyrus was the son of Cambyses, king of Persia (as has been stated), and of Mandana, daughter of Astyages, king of the Medes.

The Persians consisted at this time of twelve tribes, who inhabited only a small portion of that vast country which has, since the beginning of Cyrus' reign, borne the name of Medo-Persia.

"THE FIRST ADVENT OF CHRIST."

C. MENDENHALL.

The subject of Christ, whether we consider his humble birth, his eventful life, his ignominious death, or his future appearance upon earth in regal splendor, is one replete with interest, and one which, in all its phases, shows forth "his great love wherewith he loved us."

Man, with all his boasted condition, and oratorial powers, is lost in the sublime depths of this great theme; even the inspired writers confessed that "the love of Christ passeth knowledge." The poet Milton has beautifully said that in Jesus we find "Love without end, and without measure grace." This love prompted him to "leave the glory," become a servant, and to lay down his life for sinful man. We read—"Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father." John 10: 17, 18.

That Christ's first advent was important is evident from its having been a subject of prophecy; the first one being given about four thousand years before its fulfillment. "And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed: it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel." Gen. 3: 15.

Peter, when discoursing to the Jews, boldly accuses them of having slain the Messiah, and asserts that these events and the time of their occurrence had been foretold. He says—"Yea, and all the prophets from Samuel, and those that follow after, as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days." Acts 3: 24. Samuel was mostly spoken of among the Jews as first in the line of prophets after Moses. Not only Moses, but the prophets in general down to Malachi had predicted the Messiah's times. True, some of them are shrouded in mystical or figurative language, while others are couched in terms which make them, in their interpretation, clear, distinct, and beyond controversy.

The Jews labored under misconception in that they looked for temporal powers, exaltations and blessings to accompany the appearance of the Messiah, losing sight of the words of Isaiah to the contrary.

Moses, when about to leave his people, comforts them with a prophecy in regard to our Lord: "The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him shall ye hearken." Deut. 18: 15. In the name of God he repeats the prediction at the eighteenth verse: "I will raise them up a prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth: and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him."

By some it is argued that these words relate to Joshua and his successors, which may perhaps be true of their primary import; but on the other hand the main end is we think, the foretelling of Christ's advent. He only fills the picture. The immediate followers of Moses were not as great, nor were they like him in a strict sense.

In the last chapter of Deut. recording the death of Moses, were these words: "And there arose not a prophet since, in Israel, like unto Moses, whom the Lord knew face to face;" which excludes Joshua, and Jeremiah and others. Peter applies the words of Moses to Jesus, when he says, "For Moses truly said unto the fathers, A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you, of your brethren, like unto me; him shall ye hear in all things, whatsoever he shall say unto you." That Moses was a type of Christ is generally conceded; there being many similitudes between them, which would be entirely foreign to our subject to enumerate.

In God's plan a great purpose is in view for every action. Adam fell, we sin, hence are alienated from God. From Adam to the present time the human family are helpless, being unable to save themselves. A plan, a helper, a Savior was needed, therefore Jesus Christ came into the world. "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Luke 19: 10.

Men, by sin, have become estranged, are now amenable to the penalties of a broken law, are numbered with the children of wrath, —"among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others." We have all strayed from the paths of rectitude, yet a way is open to reconciliation, in that Christ stands as intercessor between God and man. Having gained that position through his sufferings, death and resurrection, he became a sacrifice for us, "whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation, through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God." Rom. 3: 25.

His very name is one of interest. Matthew says—"And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for he shall save his people from their sins." Again we are told that "there is no other name given under heaven among men whereby ye may be saved."

The plan of redemption was prefigured in the various rites and sacrifices of the Jewish dispensation; the Jews look forward to Christ's atonement, we look back to the completion of that event on Calvary; therefore Paul, in the epistle to the Hebrews, writes—"For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins. Wherefore when he cometh into the world he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldst not, but a body hast thou prepared me." 10: 5. Thus it is evident that the great purpose of Christ's first advent was the redemption of our race." There will be no necessity for a second sacrifice. The Jewish sacrifices, owing to their imperfectness, were repeated at stated periods. "But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins forever, sat down at the right hand of God."

What a glorious thought! the great work needs no repitition, but is forever valid for all men, of every age and clime. The atonement offered by Christ was beneficial for the patriarchal, the Levitical, the prophetical, the apostolical, and for every period down to the present moment—the eve of his second advent, when he shall come "without sin (a sin offering) unto salvation."

Contemplating the complete work of Christ, the words of the Psalmist are to the point when he says—"Mercy and truth met together, righteousness and peace kissed each other." God's law was magnified, his glory exalted, all claims satisfied in that "Christ died that we might live."

The sacrifice of Jesus was followed by a wonderful manifestation of God's power in his behalf. He was raised from the dead, and finally literally ascended on high, leaving for our comfort the assurance that in "like manner" he would again re-visit the earth. "Him hath God exalted with his right hand, to be a prince and a Savior, for to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins." Acts 5; 31.

Reader, this Jesus will interfere in your behalf; will you accept him as your High Priest? It is written "It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again; who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us." He is now a prince, and soon, aye, very soon, shall he come into possession of the throne of his father David, to reign over the whole earth as king.

His first advent was marked by poverty, affliction and death; his second advent will be grand, joyous, and exceedingly glorious. His first coming was to redeem men from sin, and the curse; his second coming will redeem them from death and the grave; then will the great work be consummated.

Reader, in your case is the first coming of Jesus in vain? Do you by obedience and faith accept the offers, and receive the benifits of the finished work? If so, the second coming will be an event to gladden your heart, while it strikes terror to the unpardoned and unprepared. In Christ we are safe; for "Who shall lay anything to the charge of God's elect? It is God that justifieth."

Brethren, let us be strong, valiant, and fearless, knowing that his work is not vain to them that believe, and may "the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is well pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen."

Wilwington, Del.

JESUS IS COMING AGAIN.

A. DINSMORE.

"Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And If I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also."—"And while they looked steadfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel, which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus which was taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, in like manner, as ye have seen him go into heaven."

What a blessed thought! Jesus is coming again. There is nothing that so cheers the follower of Christ as to know that we shall soon meet the one who has redeemed us;—that we shall shortly change faith for sight, and see Jesus face to face. This is enough to encourage us to bear trials and temptations, and all the assaults of the enemy. When our eye is fixed on the leading Star—Jesus, the things of this world look very small.

How blessed it is to realize every day what he meant, when he said, "If I go away, I will send the Comforter, even the Spirit of truth. This Spirit we have, witnesing with our spirits, that we are the children of God,—heirs of God, and joint heirs with Jesus Christ."

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God; and it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." "Every man that hath this hope in him, purifieth himself, even as he is pure." "Behold, he cometh with clouds! and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him; and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him." "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord; which is, and which was, and which is to come; the Almighty." "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens will pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also, and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." Wherefore, beloved, seeing ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and blameless."

East Bowdoinham, Me.

THAT BLESSED HOPE.

Oh! crush it not, that hope so blest,
Which cheers the fainting heart,
And points it to the coming rest,
Where sorrow has no part.

Tear from my heart each worldly prop,
Unbind each earthly string,
But to this blest and glorious hope,
Oh! let my spirit cling.

It cheered amid the days of old,
Each holy patriarch's breast;
It was an anchor to their souls,
Upon it let me rest.

When wandering in dens and caves,
In sheep and goat skins dressed,
A peeled and scattered people learned
To know this hope was blest.

Help me, amid this world of strife,
To long for Christ to reign,
That when he brings that crown of life,
I may that crown obtain.

—Selected by H. S. Staples.

THE UNDESIRABLENESS OF DEATH.

Too precious in the eyes of Jehovah
Are his saints, to give them up to death.
—Ps. 116: 15.—Broothyd's Trans.

1. Death is the capital punishment for sin. It is also sin's wages. Rom. 6: 23. Hence it is the divinely inflicted penalty for what God hates. Death entered by man's rebellion. Rom 5: 12-17. Death is what Satan loves. It is the huge shadow cast over all life. Judged by its origin how can death be lovely? Judged by its ghastly mysteriousness how can it be desirable? Judged by its relations to sin and Satan, how can it be a blessing? Were death desirable, would not the good who are named in the Scriptures have longed for it? Most certainly they would. Again and again we should have been told how they longed to die; how valueless is our mortal life. But they did not long for death. They never clothed death with blessedness. They never fell in love with the destroyer. They never spoke nor wrote rapturously in detail of what they would do, or be, or enjoy when they were dead. On the contrary they yearned to live. To the Hebrew mind death was a mighty dishonor. It was associated with all that is dreadful, dark, hateful, and sorrowful. The living dog's estate was deemed happier than that of the dead lion. Eccl. 9: 4. In other words to be the meanest of beasts and be alive, was more desirable than to be the noblest of beasts and be dead. So all Bible history of human feeling represents the ancient view of death. All men coveted life. To live, was regarded as the highest, chiefest good.

2. Thus testified patriarchs, prophets, and every class of men. Unquestionably the sentence of death fell on the ears of the first human pair like a knell. Gen. 3: 17-20. With what strange emotions of grief and horror they must have gazed on the face of the dead Abel. Gen. 4: 8. Jacob spoke mournfully of his going down into the grave. Gen. 37: 35. Moses would fain tarry longer among the living. Deut. 3: 25. Job used the most sorrowful language respecting death, and appeared to see only gloom and darkness in the grave. Job 10: 21, 22. David exulted when rescued from disease and the tomb. Ps. 116. Hezekiah wept and pleaded for dear life. Isa. 38: 2, 3. Both these servants of God could endure chastisement, but abhorred to die. Jeremiah without doubt denominates the grave the land of the enemy. Jer. 31: 16; Matt. 2: 18. The mothers in Israel refused to be comforted when their little ones were slain; their labors seemed to be utterly lost to maternal love. "Thou shalt die and not live," was one of the most terrible messages ever brought to a king's ears by a prophet's lips. Isa. 38: 1. All souls dreaded "the terrors of death." Indeed Bildad uttered the general sentiment of the people when he termed death "the king of terrors." Job 18: 14. It was regarded as a great privilege when Enoch and Elijah were not suffered "to see death." Heb. 11: 5.

To be put to death was the most sweeping, exterminating anathema of the Hebrew law. It extinguished all hope. Death was a gloomy tyrant, an insatiate devouring monster. The only hope was that ultimately God would "swallow up death in victory." Isa. 25: 8; 1 Cor. 15: 54. And God assured them that he would do this. With a shout of triumph, Hosea announced the end of death's reign as one day sure to come. Hos. 13: 14. Death and the grave shall be plagued and destroyed. So much for the old view. All men had one voice concerning the common foe.

3. There is not a single eulogy of death to be found in the Holy Scriptures. No one spoke of it with desire. In a single case, one of a human experience of tenfold misery, the victim, in whom all love of life was destroyed by his sufferings, coveted to die. Job 14: 11. It constitutes the one exception. But no one spoke rapturously of dying: all spoke deploringly; all evaded the summons as long as they could, and he who lived the longest was deemed most blest. Long life, even in mortality, was esteemed a gracious favor from God's hand. Early decease was mourned, old age was venerated. Death was hated by good and bad alike. And there is no hint that to love death is a special grace; on the contrary the Holy Spirit allowed and sanctioned the universal detestation, as if God himself hated the hateful thing. This life-long fear of death we are told subjected all men to a perpetual vassalage from which the Lord of life came to deliver the unhappy race. Heb. 2: 14, 15.

4. To live to see Christ come was Simeon's yearning desire. Luke 3: 28-30. Christ on the cross nullified the bitter power of death. Heb. 2: 14, 15. Nevertheless, death continues to reign, and Christianity never teaches us to love it. "Save us from dying, rescue our dead from the tomb," was the cry of Israel in the Savior's ears. Mary and Martha chided the Lord for permitting their brother to die. John 11: 21. Lazarus sprang joyously from the open sepulchre at the Savior's call. The widow of Nain (Luke 7: 11-15), and the ruler Jairus (Mark 5: 41, 43), thankfully and with gladness kissed their risen Lord. John was evidently envied by the eleven apostles when it was supposed that he should not taste death, but wait the Master's return. John 22: 23. Peter heard his decease announced in sad silence. He never referred to it in terms of longing desire. With Jeremiah, the apostle calls death the enemy of the church. 1 Cor. 15: 26. And the plain English of his teaching is, "I do not desire to die; I wish to live and see Jesus come back from heaven; I groan in myself for full redemption at the resurrection day." Rom. 8: 23. And instead of death being a blessing, we are told that it was of God's mercy that Epaphroditus was saved from dying. Phil. 2: 27.

5. Jesus himself, the perfect, sinless one, did not covet to die. He did not dote on the cross, he "endured the cross." Heb. 12: 2. Made under the law, in common with all men before him he feared death. The Father's love banished that fear; the Father's power while it kept him not from dying, yet saved him from perpetual death. Dying in gloom and darkness most profound and terrible, his song of comfort was, I shall rise and live again.

Shrinking from contact with the destroying enemy, he was assured by the hope in which his flesh reposed, and consoled by the divine promise, "thou wilt not leave my soul (or me) in hades." Ps. 16: 10; Acts 2: 31. He conquered death; not by pushing it away from him, but by rising from under its power. And the glory of our Lord's present life on the eternal throne is, that "death hath no more dominion over him." Rom. 6: 9. His grandest assumption of individual power is, when he triumphantly exclaims, I am he that liveth and was dead; I am alive forevermore; I have the keys of hades and of death. Rev. 1: 18. It is the great shout of a mighty conqueror.

6. Thus Jesus, the Holy Spirit, patriarchs, prophets apostles, utter one voice, tell one thing. It is a vehement hatred of death. It is the one world-wide curse that invaded man's Eden, and that shall one day be swept forever away. Luther ever coupled death along with the devil. Baxter wrote, death was penal, and it was not characteristic of christians to desire to die. He boldly expressed his undisguised abhorrence and fear of death. He yearned to survive to behold the last advent and never die. Irving styles death an unloved enemy, "the capital curse of God." Anderson calls it, "man's mortal curse." Chalmers describes it as being "a condition of unnatural violence." All living beings flee death's loathsome embrace. Every one feels, every one knows that "all that a man hath will he give for his life." Job 2: 4. Life, life, life is the universal longing cry. And so the divine words of promise "there shall be no more death" (Rom. 21: 4), constitute one of the grandest, gladdest announcements found in the sacred volume.

It is a sublime pean of victory sounded in advance. It predicts the epoch of all life. In the eternal kingdom, writes Dr. Cumming, "all life shall live and all death shall die." Yes, death, in company with the vilest enemies of God and the church, is chased out of the world and flung into the lake of fire. Death dies in Gehenna. Revelations 20: 14. This is the last of death. Amen.

7. Finally: there is one thing that is desirable. One event in which centres all hopes of the church, and around which clusters all the good of the mighty future. And that is the second coming in majesty and glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. To love that event, to long to live and to live and see it, is a characteristic of the holy. In the words of Pollock it has been the "day long wished for by the good," ever since Patmos echoed to the yearning prayer of John, "Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly." Rev. 22: 20. No christian who understands Christ's doctrine will dread that day. Luther's, "let him come with his last judgment," and Doddridge's, "let that day come with all its horrors," find an echo in a million of hearts. Barnabas, Ignatius, Polycarp, Tertullian, Cyprian, Cyril, Jerome, Augustine, Tyndale, Bradford, Latimer, Ridley, Piscator, Knox, Melancthon, Bullinger, Brightman, Craddock, Milton, Alleine, Rutherford, Vincent, Bunyan, Henry, the Mathers, the Wesleys, Watts, and a thousand other eminent saints, desired to live till the coming of that day, and Richard Baxter spoke of them all, when he wrote, "the thought of the coming of the Lord is joyful to me."

We can never be reconciled to death. We can be to the Lord. Death is hateful; but our Lord and his appearing are to be loved. It is not merely an expectation of his appearing that secures the crown. The crown is for those who love his appearing. 2 Tim. 4: 8. It is a crown of immortal life. Love his coming. Be ready for it. So doing, you will live with the Lord throughout the endless ages to come.—D. T. T. in Christian.

THE LIFE OF FAITH.

SEL. BY MRS. J. C. BURCH.

In entering upon the higher life, the soul must learn to love holiness for its own intrinsic excellence, and not merely as a means of exciting in us blissful ecstacies. The first feature of the wilderness state is cessation of all the pleasurable emotions of the soul. The heart sometimes experiences a state it is not easy to describe. There is no emotion of any kind; no active desire, no joy, no conscious peace, no misery, no guilt. There is a suspension of the soul's sensibility. A desert is not more destitute of flowers than is the spirit of emotions. It is a state of inward emptiness.

It is not necessarily an unhappy condition. The soul is like the clear blue vault of heaven, on a winter day, when no cloud is seen, and no winds are abroad. This absence of emotion may be a 'peaceful vacancy,' though we are often alarmed, just as a traveler on a lonely mountain summit sometimes is terrified at the very silence which there reigns. It seems more dreadful to him than the loudest thunder. This inward stillness is often attended with a restless and painful longing, and with an apprehension that God has abandoned us; the soul, in its blindness, having taken the gifts of God for himself.

If we set ourselves to enjoy the highest results of christian experience, and to be wholly the Lord's, the question must soon be settled, whether we love God as a means of our happiness, or for his own sake. If we can be satisfied with nothing but the intoxication of emotion, we give him an altogether secondary place in our affections; we make him only a means of our enjoyment, instead of sacrificing ourselves to him. Such a soul has not fully lost itself in God.

We should aim to realize what was called by Archbishop Fenelon—A state of pure love—a disinterested love, a love of order, of absolute beauty and perfection, superior to every agreeable sensation, and which can act in the absence of all sensible pleasures and consolations of grace. The soul, at such a time, may have no feeling, no happy emotion, on which its faith may lean. Yet it still holds to God, and loves him for his own sake, above all his gifts. It is conscious in its profoundest depths, of a refined satisfaction with God, and complacency in him.

The love that exists in such a state of naked faith is the purest form of christian love. It has less of self in it; finite recedes, and the Infinite fills the affections. It is as pure as the breeze that fans an angel's brow. It may not be an emotion. It is deeper than an emotion. We are told that there are depths of the ocean where the plummet sinks below all the currents and disturbances of the surface, and where eternal stillness reigns. So of a soul in this state of naked faith and pure love.

A state of naked faith, or what some writers on inward experience denominate the wilderness state, is a most beneficial mental condition, if the spirit does not falter, and if the will holds the soul emptied of all desires and emotions in the presence of God. We should not be seized with a panic, nor struggle to work ourselves into an emotional frame. If the enemy insultingly asks —Where is now thy God? stand like Christ before the bar of Pilate, in triumphant silence; or, if you speak, let praise flow from your lips like melody from the strings. Alas! how many stumble and fall when the divine Shepherd leads them into the desert, to wean them from themselves and the world, and purge from the soul all its sensuous and earthly images. This is the crisis in the experience of the hidden life. It is a spiritual Rubicon. If we cross it, victory and empire await us in the future.

We shall have our trials of faith, and our temptations; the Lord sends the trial to crucify the flesh, as in the case of Paul's thorn; Satan sends the temptation to ruin us as in the case of Judas's betrayal, Peter's denial, and Ananias and Sapphira's falsehood. We should not be anxious about the removal of the trial, but the temptation should be repelled at once. The trial makes our way to heaven more sure, while the temptation makes it more dangerous. One is the produce of a Father's love, the other of a devil's hate.

Let me urge you, dear reader, to sound the depths of your heart, and see if the true marks of piety are there. It is a matter involving too much interest to be passed over without careful attention.

O, go, and learn this lesson of the cross,
And tread the way which saints and prohets trod;
Who, counting life, and self, and all things loss,
Have found in inward death the life of God."

Providence, R. I.

A praying sailor being observed to start for his day's work, and then return again to his room, and then start again, was asked the reason, and replied, "After I got out, I found Jesus was not with me. I could not go without Jesus; so I went back to my closet to find him. Now he is with me, and I can go."

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, March 17, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"Editors of World's Crisis, Boston, Mass."

"World's Crisis, Boston, Mass.," or

Geo. T. Adams, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"Editor Young Pilgrim, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

Agent.

BEWARE!!

We are informed that one Geo. W. Moffatt, a blind man, has obtained subscribers for the Crisis, and received money for the same, but he has failed to hand into this Office the names, with the cash. We would say to all friends that said Moffatt is not authorized to receive money, or to transact any business whatever for this Office. We would caution all not to pay money to any one for us, unless the person receiving the money is known to be reliable.

Agent.

COUNTERFEIT RELIGION.

Counterfeit implies an imitation, an appearance of being genuine when it is false.

Religion is some system of worship which binds the worshipers, by a professedly sacred covenant, to believe in and obey some God. All religion has some theory of its God and his requirements, which becomes the theology of that religion. Counterfeit religion consists therefore in a false theology, presenting a false god, or the true God in a false light, as to his attributes, existence and government.

All christian theology which is the standard of its faith, recognizes one God; the God revealed in the holy Scriptures. If, therefore, there is any counterfeit christian religion, it must consist in a false theology, producing a false faith, which embraces a God and his government unlike those revealed in the Scriptures.

As the Word of God, or standard of faith, is the same to all classes of christians, the difference between true and false Christianity must consist in the difference of interpretation of that Word, which must result in a difference of faith and experience. To say, If our religion is good it makes no difference about our theology, is like saying, If our illumination is good it makes no difference whether we are in the light or in darkness.

Paul says—"He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." The first step a sinner can take towards pure religion is to believe that God is just such a being as he has revealed himself to be in his Word. Not what some men may say he is from his interpretation of his Word, but what the Word says he is. We warn all that it is this satanic tampering with and wresting the Word of God which has opened the flood gates and caused our world to be filled with destructive counterfeit religion.

The most fatal snare ever coiled for human feet is the prostitution of inspired words by their allegorical and mystical interpretation. They are thus made to express, not what they legitimately import, but what designing, crafty men force them to signify. Satan commenced this murderous work in the Garden of God; telling the royal pair that God's words—"thou shalt surely die"—meant "ye shall become as gods." Satan understood that if he could stimulate man's ambition to obtain some future blessedness by gratifying his present personal desires by worldly indulgence, contrary to God's prohibitions, he could accomplish his destruction. These have been the controlling principles in introducing, and sustaining all false religion, from the Adamic rebellion to the present hour.

The Holy Spirit is an essential element in "pure religion," as an enlightener and comforter; but it is given to those who believe and obey the Word of God. It is given to sinners as a reprover, but only to believers as a comforter. Gospel religion is moulded entirely by the Word and Spirit of God; but false religion by error and worldly influences.

The Scriptures clearly teach that the last days of the gospel age will be characterized by abounding false religion, which is made a prominent sign of the times. It is very clearly presented in the typical prophecies, at the ending of both the Patriarchal and Jewish dispensations. Satan resisted the truth of God in Egypt, by manifesting false proof of error; thus withstanding God.

The Jews, at the end of their age, resisted Christ and his message, by using the Scriptures to prove that their position was authorized of God; and they perverted that testimony by mystical interpretation. See Matt. 15: 3–7.

False theology will prevail in the last days, constituting a counterfeit religion; for the gospel must be leavened as was its prototypes. Paul says of men in the last days—"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away. For of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts. Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth. Now as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth; men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith. But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, as theirs also was." 2 Tim. 3: 5–9.

They have a ritualistic religion, but deny the power of godliness. The power to become Christ-like is communicated to men through the Word and Spirit of God. To deny the power is to reject the truth that it is essential to godliness to receive the unperverted Word and true Spirit of God.

The work of Satan upon this point will be to make men believe that it is not essential, but a hindrance to sinners in getting salvation to indoctrinate them into Christ. He will lead them to be satisfied with the position occupied by the Jews, who had "a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge;" which proved fatal to them, and will to all professed christians who occupy the same. They were ignorant, "not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth to repentance;" but in their blindness they attempted to drive men to seek the Lord by exciting their fears; thus making them slaves.

These last-day people will be ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth. They will, in their estimation, be rapidly advancing in religious knowledge, but it will be in error and not in truth. He then shows that the gospel age will end as did the patriarchal in Egypt; for as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so will these, at the close of the gospel "resist the truth." Those Egyptians had a false religion, and labored to establish its divine origin, and thus destroy the effects of the true faith. When these last-day corrupters shall manifest their lack of judgment "concerning the faith," "they shall proceed no farther; for their folly shall be manifest to all men" by the overwhelming judgments of God, as were the Egyptians.

He then explains how the truth will be perverted, and says—"The time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." Such a state of things must exist when the end shall come. Religious teachers will be collected, or "heaped" in distinct classes, who shall read and teach the Scriptures as we read a book of "fables;" the language describing one thing, but having a moral signification which was designed by its author to be used in its application. The masses of those "having a form of godliness" "will turn their ears from the truth, which will be taught by a few as having but one meaning, and that as it reads, and be pleased with this allegorical teaching. All great classes of teachers will be agreed on this one point, to teach fables. They will be divided into many parties, because each will assume the right to give to the holy fables just such a moral meaning as they please.

Jude put the glass to his eye, and saw the same time, the time seen by Enoch, and exhorts the faithful to "earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints." The language implies that there would be a modern faith, unlike the ancient faith, and that the current of public sympathy would favor the modern and reject the ancient; so that they need to contend for the divinely authorized faith. He then refers to Egypt, where a type of this experience is found, just as Paul did, and also to Sodom and other judgments, as illustrating the judgment at the end of the gospel.

The same time and circumstances are evidently symbolized in the Revelation, by the Laodicean or last church. It is represented as being lukewarm, in a repulsive condition, ready to be rejected of God, and as being boastful, saying, "I am rich" in religious attainments and graces, but esteemed of God as poor, "blind," lacking spiritual knowledge, "naked," destitute of Christ's righteousness. Jeremiah presents the last-day religion as superficial, when he says—"They have healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly; saying, Peace, peace, when there is no peace." Paul applies this type definitely, when he says—"When they shall say, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them."

The prophet then exclaims in sadness—"Is there no balm in Gilead? is there no physician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?" The balm is the healing blood of Jesus, connected with the power of the Holy Spirit received through faith in the Word of God. But these had been pronounced "healed," and at peace with God, while spurning sacred truth, and thus grieving away the Spirit, leaving them with nothing but the form of godliness, and destitute of the saving power. He shows that the teachers who were instrumental in this work were in the fault; for while they professed to be "wise," by receiving "the law of the Lord," they were mistaken, and would be made "ashamed," because they had REJECTED the WORD of the Lord. Then he asks—"What wisdom is in them?" Jer. 8: 7–9. He also rebukes their folly sharply, and shows how it would be manifested, by contrasting them with the "stork" and "swallow," which understand the approach of winter, and escape from its deadly blasts; but says that these professed wise men "know not the judgment of the Lord." The reason why the cry of "peace, peace," is made, when sudden destruction cometh, is because they do not know that the judgment is approaching.

Daniel, viewing this subject says: "Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried; but the wicked shall do wickedly: and none of the wicked shall understand; but the wise shall understand." Hosea, in speaking of the same time, says—"My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge." Jesus adds his testimony to this all-important subject by presenting two servants of the church, representing two classes in contrast; one giving the household "meat in due season," the other occupying an opposite position, and saying, "My lord delayeth his coming."

These are a few of the many descriptions given in the Bible of the fruits and manifestations of true and counterfeit religion in the last days. Much might be said as to the application of these passages to the present generation, and to the different classes and circumstances to which they apply; but we think the reader will be perfectly able to do that himself. The subject is one of infinite importance to each of us, and should be examined with the most earnest prayer, that we may not be deceived, and accept the counterfeit, and so reap eternal death.

The pure Word of God must be our standard of faith, and the Holy Spirit must be the ruling element of our hearts, so that our obedience to God shall be what the Word and Spirit shall teach us at the present time. Such a religion will make us do unto all men as we would that they should do unto us. It will cause us to warn the world of coming judgment, to entreat sinners to accept of Christ, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, administer to the sick, and visit the widow and fatherless in their afflictions. Heaven grant us pure and undefiled religion.

J. C.

SAN FRANCISCO.

At the present date (March 3d) we are laboring with Bro. Hammond, in common with most of the ministers in San Francisco, in the great revival work in this city. Bro. Hammond commenced meetings here, Sabbath, Feb. 21st. Already between five and six hundred have professed to be converted. Many of these are the Sabbath school children. Bro. H. has a remarkable gift in leading them to Christ; and it is said that in other places about ninety-five per cent. of these converted children continue to follow the Savior. We have heard many of them testify in the great congregation, giving very bright evidence that they were truly converted. The Lord is doing great things in San Francisco at the present time.

We are received cordially, and our Brn. and Srs. are entering heartily into the work, receiving much benefit. Sectarian walls are nearly all demolished, and Christians are finding as never before, that they are one in Christ. The sight is a glorious one, and the Lord is manifesting his approbation in a most marked degree. We know of two of the leading ministers in this city, who preach that Jesus is coming soon, and no doubt others are beginning to entertain the same blessed hope. One of them said to us a few days since, "I am in sympathy with you on the subject of Christ's near advent." The Lord is opening the eyes of ministers and people to see the signs of the times, and to look for the return of the King of kings.

Last evening (March 2nd) the meeting was held in Union Hall, the largest in the city, which was crowded, and many had to stand up. The meeting began at seven o'clock, and did not close till nearly eleven. There is a great interest, which is rapidly increasing. Bro. Hammond is a very skillful manager in revival meetings. His natural gifts and extensive experience in such meetings on both continents, give him a marked advantage over most evangelists. He seems to be wholly given up to the work of leading people to trust in Christ as their Savior. We think we have never met a minister who seemed to take more pleasure in exalting Jesus than Bro. Hammond. He has a remarkable gift in presenting the lovely character of our Savior, and his wonderful love for poor, sinful man. He is very kind and unsectarian in his spirit.

The ministers of the different denominations have already received great benefit from the meetings. Some seem like young converts on account of the great change in their feelings. It looks more aud more like preparation to meet Jesus at his coming. Two or three meetings are held each day. Ministers are coming in from the surrounding cities and towns to unite in the work, and receive the rich blessings which the dear Lord is showering so gloriously upon the people. Praise his name for ever.

M. G.

WAR OF THE NATIONS.

The preparations for war in Europe are upon a gigantic scale, unequaled in modern times. Already, it is said the French army numbers one million, seven hundred and fifty thousand men, the German two million, eight hundred thousand; the Russian over three million three hundred thousand; and the smaller powers are waking up all their men of war, in order to be ready for the great battle of the nations, called by a writer in London Times, "The sword dance of the nations." It will be seen that these three great powers named have over seven million, eight hundred and fifty thousand men ready for the death struggle for power. The thought of it is horrifying. This is a strange comment on the cry of "peace and safety" that has been sounding forth from many popular pulpits, declaring that the world is about to be converted to Christ. The facts are, the people are turning from the Savior and the Holy Bible to infidelity in great numbers. People once religious are now skeptics looking with contempt upon religious matters. Their feelings are being aroused to a dangerous pitch against all that the christian holds sacred. There is no evidence of any abatement. Infidelity and wickedness are running an exciting race with christianity, and the multitude are anxious for the success of the former. The final test must soon come. A radical change is at hand, as all admit. A new order of things is about to be inaugurated. We have no fears as to the final results. Those who trust wholly in Christ have nothing to fear; his enemies, everything. This is the hour to prepare for the coming events; this the time to make full preparation for the coming of the Son of man.

M. G.

HEALDSBURG.

The meetings in the city of Healdsburg, California, were a very happy success. We were there about two weeks. Several gave their hearts to the Lord; others received the gift of the Spirit, and many members of the different churches were much quickened. Bro. Mc Leod, the Presbyterian minister, Bro. Crawford the northern, and Bro. Lovell the southern Methodist ministers, and their respective congregations, united with us heartily in the revival work. We formed very pleasant acquaintances with many christian people in that city. We found much interest to hear on the prophecies, and the evidences which show that the kingdom of God is near. Skeptics confessed that their skepticism was removed, and saints were led to lift up their heads rejoicingly in hope of soon seeing the dear Savior.

The interest continued to increase up to the time we left. We had two meetings a day. The church was crowded night after night, many not being able to find seats, while they listened most attentively to the great truths of the Bible, that relate to the coming of Christ, and preparation for the event. The revival tide was rising rapidly when we came away. We remember with much pleasure this our first visit to Healdsburg. The presence and power of the Lord was signally manifested. We have found no less than five prominent ministers, who believe Jesus is coming soon. Others are becoming interested in the sublime truths.

M. G.

A NEW RELIGIOUS PAPER.

An illustrated monthly, called "Union in Christ," published in New York, and edited by Eld. H. A. King, formerly proprietor and publisher of the Bible Banner, is before us. It is designed to become the leading organ of a new christian association to be called the "Union Evangelist Society." It will labor, according to its prospectus, to call together a body of working christians, who shall make christian union a speciality in their work, and encourage the holding of "revival meetings," teach holiness of heart, and make united efforts to rescue and save perishing sinners. These are gospel objects, and worthy of great and good men; and none can be truly in Christ who are not seeking to accomplish them.

Union in Christ is a very essential element in christian character. It is produced by unity of spirit, faith, hope, and rule of action. Every one who is united to Christ becomes a branch of the Vine, and all the branches being joined to the same Vine, receiving the same nutriment, supported by the same stock, must and do bear the same kind of fruit, which naturally and inevitably result in union in Christ.

The evidence we have that we are branches of the heavenly Vine is that we are constantly receiving the Spirit and Word of God through faith in Christ, which alone can produce gospel fruit—holiness unto the Lord. A union produced by a policy which quenches the Spirit, and silences the Word of inspiration is never in Christ, but against Christ.

If this new gospel banner is true to these holy principles, and is unfolded in the heavenly breezes of Mount Zion, leading on the hosts of God in true christian union, purity of heart, doing work for God, warning, entreating, and leading sinners to Christ, that they may be saved in the day of his coming, then we bid it God-speed, and hail it at our Office, altars and firesides.

Its advertisement may be seen on our fourth page.

J. C.

A CRISIS COMING.

The Boston Investigator is known as an infidel paper, conducted by those who profess to believe "there is no God." But when looking at the signs of the times, it speaks very much like those who see in these signs the fulfillment of Bible prophecies, given over eighteen hundred years since, that were to be accomplished just before the coming of Jesus. It says:

"To every thoughtful mind the passing time is of supreme interest. Human life seems stirred to its profoundest depths, and all things portend change. Forces are abroad everywhere, latent or cognizable, which have a potent bearing upon individual and social destinies. Beliefs, usages, laws, institutions—nay, even the character and organism of whole peoples are undergoing transformation, thus preparing the way for a new order of affairs on earth. Believe as we may in the desirableness of all this, we shall probably have to accept the situation and make the most of it, for nothing seems more certain than that the forms of thought and life which have answered our purpose will not do for the coming man or woman.

The aspirations of the mind for knowledge, purity, freedom, are a prophecy of better things to come. And it seems to be now a prevailing hope among the oppressed of all nations, that here, in America—here, under the light and inspiration of comparatively free institutions, the new social order shall first appear. Here, on our favored soil, uncursed by any ancient despotisms, shall the foundations of the new political edifice be laid, which shall be for the honor and defense of our children's children for many generations. Here shall be wrought out in practical forms of life the grand problem, heretofore dimly outlined in our political constitution, of equal rights for all classes."

That important changes must take place, there seems to be scarcely any room for doubt. But few are looking into the Bible, where they will find these things plainly revealed, and learn the nature of coming events. We think every true man should rejoice in the fact that our Savior will soon appear to introduce a new order of things, that will be truly glorious. Until he comes, we cannot expect any improvement that will be lasting. Till then, wickedness will grow "worse and worse." The last call of mercy will soon be heard by those who have rejected the kind offer of salvation. The Lord has called, but they have refused. They have slighted all his offers of mercy. What more could he have done, than he has done? Yet they mock at his kindness, and treat him with contempt. O, what long suffering. But soon they will be compelled to say: "The great day of his wrath is come, who shall be able to stand?" The answer is plain, and easily given:—"The pure in heart." Let us remember there is no promise for any other class. Let it be the one chief business to prepare for the coming King and kingdom. Our eternal home is nearing. Soon this mortal will put on immortality. Blessed thought!

M. G.

IMPORTANT TRUTH.

We invite all to read and re-read, very carefully, the article on the fourth page, by J. A. Seiss, D. D. It contains important truth, which is we think strikingly applicable at the present time, and should be personally applied by every believer in Christ. We earnestly pray that all who profess to be looking for Christ's return will measure themselves by the gospel standard, especially given to determine the required condition and position of the church of Christ at his coming. Do not be careless about this matter. The hour is evidently rapidly approaching when our destiny will be eternally fixed. This is the time to remember Lot's wife, morning, noon and night. God help us not to look back; for we feel assured that angel-hands have led us forth from the city of destruction, by the light and power of the great antitypical judgment message. Let no flattery, frown or satanic influence change your course or impede your progress towards the city of refuge and eternal rest.

J. C.

Bro. Hammond's meetings in Sacramento have been a happy success. During his three weeks of labor there, some six hundred converts are reported. To-morrow (Sabbath Feb. 21st) he is to commence a series of meetings in San Francisco. Glorious results are expected. He has a remarkable faculty to reach the hearts of the people. We have heard no other preacher who magnifies Jesus more than Bro. Hammond. He is continually exalting him, and presents him in a very kind and loving manner to the people, so that only the hardest hearts remain unmoved by his appeals. He does not say a word about eternal torment. He leads sinners to Christ by showing the goodness of God.

M. G.

TENT MEETINGS IN IOWA.

Dear Brethren and Friends in Iowa who are interested in having the Gospel of the Kingdom preached to this generation, I desire your thoughtful attention for a few moments to the following:—The A. C. Conference of North Eastern Iowa have a good tent, fifty feet in diameter, which they desire to have used in this State in preparing the people to meet the Lord. Said tent has been lying still for the past two summers, the most of the time for the following reasons. (1). The Conference did not have the funds to hire a suitable person to go with the tent and keep it in the field. (2). There were not urgent calls enough with promised help to justify them in engaging any one to go with it while they did not have the means to pay him. (3). There was no one who seemed inclined to take the responsibility to go with it "on his own hook" and bear his own expenses.

Now, brethren, this tent ought to be kept in the mission field constantly the coming summer. More good can be accomplished doubtless with it, with less expense than in any other way.

There are means enough in the State held by the Lord's stewards (will they be faithful with it?) to keep three such tents in the work. I no not feel that it would be right to let it remain packed up, in the future as it has been in the past, and so I have engaged the tent of the Conference for the coming summer, and have also made arrangements to close my labors with the church here in Manchester when the season for tent meetings commences. Other preaching brethren have promised to assist me in the work. I shall be at liberty to go any where in the State of Iowa where the tent is wanted, and a meeting can be supported.

Do you want a tent meeting in your vicinity? If so, write to me at once. Do not put it off. Bestir yourself. Look around you, and if there is a desire for such a meeting, then drop me a line. I cannot promise to have a meeting in every place where it is wanted; but I want to make arrangements so that I shall not have to transport the tent over the same ground more than is necessary. Will all that have spoken to me heretofore about meetings please write that I may know what to do?

J. Ridley.

Manchester, Delaware Co., Iowa.

Bro. C. H. Williams writes from West Martinsburg, N. Y.:—"Dear Brethren, for the last four months I have been confined at home with my afflicted companion, and it has proved to be a time of deep trial to us, but very profitable in a spiritual point of view. I am happy to say that my wife has so far recovered as to allow of my absence now, and I most cheerfully resume my duties in the ministry. May God bless the household of faith, and keep us faultless until Jesus comes."

THE TRACT FUND.

The Advent Christian Publication Society, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 13th, 1874, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. Sibley, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Acknowledgments to Jan. 1st............$413.66
P. S. Ward.............. 1.50
"M".............. 2 25

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments..............$81.68

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

Previous acknowledgments..............$1 00

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1874, and onward.
Previous acknowledgments............$3,287.20
Mrs. C. A. Phillips (pledge paid).......... 25.00
P. S. Ward.............. 1.50

Pledges paid from Bro. Bowman's Mission.

L. W. Beasley $10.00; P. G. Bowman $25.00; Mrs. P. G. Bowman $10.00; A. T. Harris $10.00; Stephen Woodham $10.00; Wesley Moor $5.00; C. Pate $10.00; L. E. Shearley $10.00; Mrs. I. E Shearley $5.00; L. W. Alexander $3.00; L. H Pate $5 00; A. E. Woodham $5 00; L. H. Reaves $2 00; Mrs. Pheriby Harris $2 00; Mrs. E. E. Harris $10 00; W. W. Folsom $1 00; W. P. Mixon $10.00; A. N. Stuckey $5.00; James E. Rogers $1.00; DeWitt Fields $1.00; J. E. Andrews $2 00; J. S. Du Bose $10.00; A. S. Mins $5.00; C. E. Plummer $1.00; D. W. Witherspoon $5.00; P. A. Severance $1 00; A. A. Fields $2 00; Mrs. S. F Mims $2 00; Miss M. E. Odom $1.00; W. C. Mims $5.00; Miss M. M. Stuckey $1.00; Mrs. M. A. Bell $2 00; Mrs. L. E. Witherspoon $5 00; Mrs. H. F. Mims $5.00. Total.............$187 00.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.
Cash and Clothing received for the Poor in Kansas, etc.

Previous acknowledgments........... $258.35
"From one who hopes to be a Christian"... 10 00
Geo. E. Waugh.............. 2.00
W. S. Hazard.............. 1.00

EVANGELICAL REPORT AND APPEAL FROM INDIANA.

Dear Brethren and Sisters in Indiana: As you no doubt desire to hear occasionally from your Evangelist, I feel impressed to write for your information, and to submit an earnest appeal for material aid, while engaged in the work of an Evangelist.

Since last September, over thirty have united with the church under my labors. But as our State Conference threw our Evangelists upon contributions which might be given for their support in response to their solicitations in their respective fields of labor, I have been compelled to spend the most of my time with our churches, as the contributions at points where we have no churches would starve a single man, to say nothing about a wife and eight children.

I am convinced that it is detrimental to the cause of truth to ask for contributions in new places. People say we preach new doctrines simply that we may make money by it. And it is frequently the case that our enemies use this weapon against us with such vigor, that by the time an Evangelist makes his second visit to a new point he finds a very unfavorable impression to meet.

Frequently, after giving three or four discourses in a new field I have been compelled to leave large and attentive audiences, under promise to "come again," in order to look after the wants of my family. In the mean time, our enemies would misrepresent and vilify, until they would create such a prejudice against us, that by the time of my return, I would find scarcely a "corporal's guard" for an audience. Hence, it is my opinion that the giving of two or three discourses in a new place is, to a great extent, labor thrown away.

To be successful in planting churches, an Evangelist must stay at a point until the the people are so thoroughly informed in regard to our faith as to render it impossible for the opposer to misrepresent it without making himself contemptible in the minds of his hearers. Whenever this can be done, misrepresentation will make friends for us instead of enemies, while churches will spring up much more rapidly than they do now. Now is it not the earnest desire of every lover of truth to see new churches springing up around us? Certainly. But it cannot be accomplished without an effort, and in such effort all may lend a helping hand.

We are too apt to think that if we cannot preach, we can do nothing for the spread of truth; but this by no means follows. In addition to a godly life, we can give liberally of our means to support the families of those who can preach. We have able and God-fearing men, whose hearts are in the work of winning souls to Christ, and they should be kept constantly in the field. And it is as much our duty to furnish means for the sustenance of their familes, as it is theirs to go forth as heralds of the cross; and if this duty is not performed, a terrible reckoning awaits us in the day of judgment. It is idle to flatter ourselves that we can shirk this duty, and meet the Lord in peace. "Let your light shine," is the Master's positive injunction; and if we cannot preach, we can hold up the hands of those who can. And if we neglect this duty, we do it at our peril.

Do you believe the Lord is coming soon? Then why not show your faith by your works? Why hoard up money for the fiery judgments of the last days? Would it not be far better to spend it in the cause of Christ?

The Macedonian cry comes in from every quarter. Never have greater demands been made upon my time than at the present moment. Thousands are ready to hear; and it is the solemn duty of the church to see that the gospel is proclaimed free of charge to the world. Shall it be done? If we expect to prosper as a church waiting for the coming of the Lord, there must be a waking up in regard to this matter. May God arouse his people everywhere to a sense of their duty.

Now, brethren, shall I continue in the field as an Evangelist? If so, I want to hear from you at once. Send on your contributions and pledges that I may know what to do. Remember that "if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith;" and that I can not devote my time to preaching without means to provide for "my house." The following form will answer for a pledge: We, the undersigned, hereby agree to pay to G. W. Green, the 1st of July, 1875, the amounts placed opposite our respective names to maintain Evangelical labor in Indiana.

Now, brethren, will you act? Your Bro. in Christ.

G. W. Green.

Memphis, Clarke Co., Indiana.

Correspondence.

From Bro. J. T. Ongley.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—As we are drawing near the great crisis when our work will be done for weal or woe, I would ask the question, Have we done what we could to arouse our fellows to prepare for the judgment of the great day? I am aware that it is a serious question. O Lord, help us to stop and think before we answer. It will be said of some, as the Savior said of the woman, "She hath done what she could." Others have buried their talent and laid it away in a napkin. The nations are preparing for the strife, and many are "standing all the day idle," I fear. I do not wish to judge others, nor do I wish to be an idler in the vineyard, neither do I wish to have the Pennsylvania Mission Tent lay idle the coming season. I made an offer of it to the Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. Conference, as a Conference Tent, for $100, and then they send it into such localities, and with it such persons as they thought best; but on account of lack of funds, etc., they did not accept my offer; therefore it is in my hand.

Now, shall it lay idle? or will some good faithful brother, that is able to proclaim the gospel of the kingdom as a witness, and thereby be the means of getting a few to be prepared for the coming King, who will dare to stand up for Jesus in this matter, and be willing to bear and forbear for the cause of Christ, and perhaps suffer privations for him, assist in this matter? Who will do it? Who wants a Tent Meeting in their town, city, or neighborhood? Who is willing to help? Lord, help, is my prayer, and help me to do my part.

Brethren and sisters, now is the time to think on the matter, and perhaps lay a little more on the altar, and yourselves with it, and say where you want a meeting this summer. Write to me, so that I can arrange accordingly. Pray the Lord to direct. Address me at Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Times and Restitution please copy.

From J. Thompson.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—There is nothing cheers my heart more than to know that I shall soon see Jesus coming in the clouds of heaven, with his mighty hosts of angels, to gather his elect from the four corners of the earth. In that great day of the Lord, brethren and sisters, we shall rejoice that we have been faithful over a few things; and his promise is that then he will make us rulers over many things. How much we have to cheer us on in the cause of Christ. How obedient we ought to be in his service. I love to be in the service of my Master, and I want to be obedient in all things. I know I can never repay him for what he has done for me; and my circumstances are such that I cannot do all I would like to. Trials and afflictions come in many ways, and will, until this polluted world is renewed. May the time soon come when sorrows, trial and death will be known no more.

We are much in need of a reformation. We have had this gospel preached in the past with great power, and the result has been good. Churches have been established all around us. We have our prayer meetings every Wednesday evening, and they are heavenly seasons. We give Jesus all the praise. Brethren, pray for us.

Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kan.

From Sr. J. P. Hodgdon.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:—Those who have truly come out from the world, and believe in their hearts the end of all things is at hand, cheer up! the dark night of sin and crime is almost ended. Soon the Judge of all the earth will appear; then every wrong will be righted. This gives us courage to endure the scoffs of those who say they have no sin, but the works of darkness they do, and will not come to the light. Let us, who have come to the light, so live and walk that our works may be made manifest to all that they are in accordance with the Word. Let us walk and talk and dress just as our profession demands. If we have been made free in Christ, why should we be entangled again in the yoke of bondage by putting on gold, or following the last day fashions, which are so costly, and so unbecoming the true child of God? Let us dress with modesty; for if we dress like the world, and join hands with the world, who will think we are not of the world? Have we got to go to meeting, and get up and tell the congregation what we believe, in order to have it known? This is not just as it should be. We ought so to walk, and talk, and dress, that all who see us may know we are what we profess to be.

O that we may so live that, when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, we shall be found ready to go in to the Marriage Supper of the Lamb.

Manchester, N. H.

From Bro. M. A. Potter.

Dearly beloved Friends:—I take this opportunity to let you know how we are getting along in St. Johnsbury. We have just been enjoying a precious season in Christ. The Vermont State Conference was held with the church in this place, commencing March 3d, and continuing over the Lord's day. God blest the meeting, and souls were converted. The dear brethren and sisters came in from the surrounding country; ministers and laymen came, filled with the Holy Spirit, and the result was a free time in the meetings, and a free time in preaching the Word of life. There were no hobbies presented, but every thing moved in Heaven's order. Praise be to God.

St. Johnsbury, Vt.

From Bro. C. Eckhart.

Dear Brethren:—Bro. William Branch, of Mich., is now holding a series of meetings at Cedar Creek, six miles west of Auburn. The Hall is crowded nearly every night to hear the truths we love so much. The Spirit of the Lord is with the people, and some have started for the kingdom, and we expect to see many more make a start to serve the Lord before the close of the meetings.

Auburn, De Kalb Co., Ind., Box 260.

IMPERFECT IN ORIGINAL

Obituaries.

PERSONS. In East Hartford, Ct. (Hockanum Dist.), Feb. 22d, 1875, Bro. G. P. Persons, aged 67 years.

Bro. Persons early became associated with those waiting for the coming King, fully convinced that the whole church of God would enter the promised future life together at that glorious era. He maintained a uniformly consistent course, enjoying the confidence of all who knew him, and of late was more than usually quickened and engaged in the work of God. He fell asleep trusting in Christ. The wife, though sorrowing with the other relatives for the loss sustained, is greatly consoled by the assurance that the day of victory over death is at hand.

Services were attended by the Rev. Mr. Dodge, of the Methodist church, who showed that the time of the christian's reward was at the resurrection and coming of Christ, and presented evidences of the nearness of that event. S. HALL.

MAREAN. In Gardiner, Me., Feb. 3d, 1875, Mrs. Abigail Marean, formerly of Standish, Me., aged 85 years.

For thirty years Sister Marean faithfully served her divine Master. She first heard the so-called "Advent doctrine" preached about seven years ago, but she had been a firm believer in it for years, having learned it from her Bible without any human assistance.

Sister, thou art gone! yes, gone from toil and care,
From all the living know or feel or bear;
Gone to death's lonely quiet resting place,
No more here to meet love's fond embrace.
How tranquil now thy once so anxious breast!
How calm thy sleep! how undisturbed thy rest!
And thou wilt rest till Jesus bids thee rise,
And meet him descending from the skies.

C. H. SWEET.

FRENCH. In Albany, Me., March 3d, 1875, Mary, wife of Washington French, aged 52 years.

Sr. French has held our views for several years, although somewhat isolated. Only occasionally could she hear her faith preached; yet she found her "hope" comforting, and it did not fail her in her last sickness. She said just before she died that she should sleep but a little while, and then come forth in the first resurrection, to reign on the earth. God grant to sanctify the bereavement to the salvation of the surviving members of the family. Words of comfort to the mourning friends and neighbors were spoken by the writer, from 1 Thess. 4: 18. JARED WHITMAN.

SHORTRIDGE. Fell asleep in Jesus in Brookfield, Jan. 27th, 1875, Lillia L., daughter of J. L. and S. E. Shortridge, aged 4 months.

Death again has entered our happy home, and snatched a loved one from our arms as once it did before; but Jesus knows what is for our good, and doeth all things well. Little Lillia and Lucy will awake when Jesus comes to make up his jewels. I hope we shall be ready to meet them in the glorious resurrection morning. S. E. S.

PIPER. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Manchester, N. H., Feb. 17th, 1875, little Gracie, youngest child of John and Ann Piper, aged 2 years.

Bro. and Sr. Piper tenderly loved their darling Gracie, but death has triumphed over her, and they have laid her away with that blessed hope of the soon coming of Christ and the resurrection of the dead.

"Parents, your darling little Gracie,
Precious one, is now at rest;
Methinks I see an angel writing
Gracie's name among the blest."

C. S. SHATTUCK.

RICE. In Union Village, N. H., March 5th, 1875, Mrs. Mary A. Rice, aged 81 years.

The subject of this notice has come down to the grave in a good old age, but without ever making an open profession of religion; yet she was esteemed a good and faithful wife and mother, and a kind neighbor; and her memory will be held sacred in the hearts of many. CHAS. H. HURD.

STALIKER. In West Shefford, P. Q., Dec. 3d, 1874, Sr. Laura Staliker, aged 37 years.

Sister Staliker bore her disease, which was consumption, with christian fortitude and submission, and maintained till the last a strong hope in Christ and the resurrection, trusting when Christ did appear, she too would appear with him in glory. She was converted and baptized under my labors in the year 1855, and when I last visited her I found her still strong in the Lord. She leaves a husband, four sons and a daughter, together with a father, two brothers and two sisters, to mourn her loss, yet not without hope. May God sustain them in their sorrow, and sanctify this affliction to their good. Sermon by the writer. JOHN CHAPMAN.

CLARK. In Brome, P. Q., Feb. 15th, 1875, Jacob Clark, aged 88 years.

Another has passed away. Death has claimed one more victim, and he has finished his earthly career, soon, we hope, to be raised to immortality. He leaves one son, four daughters, and two sisters, to lament the loss of a father and brother. The writer addressed a large assembly of relatives and friends on the 18th inst. JOHN CHAPMAN.

SALLS. In Brome, P. Q., Feb. 14th, 1875, an infant son of Abram and Abigail Salls, aged 8 months.

May they receive comfort and consolation, knowing that all is well. Services by the writer. JOHN CHAPMAN.

KIMBALL. In Unity, N. H., Feb. 27th, of consumption, Sr. Susan Kimball, aged 79 years.

Words of comfort and a good hope were spoken by the writer, from Rev. 22: 23—"And there shall be no more curse." J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

ALLEN. At Long Point, Ill., March 3d, 1875, of typhoid pneumonia, Willie A., son of William Allen, aged two years.

We laid him away in care of Him who doeth all things well, until Jesus shall call him forth to die no more. Services by the writer. VIRGIL F. HUNT.

MILLER. In Alton, Wayne Co., N. Y., March 1st, 1875, Grant Miller, son of Harmon Miller.

Grant was a lovely boy of ten years, beloved by all his schoolmates. Bro. and Sr. Miller deeply mourn their loss. Funeral by the writer. M. R. MILES.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, March 4. The steamer Gothenburg has been wrecked on one of the Fourneaux Islands in Bass' Straits, between Van Dieman's Land and Australia. She had on board eighty-five passengers and a crew of thirty-five. Of these only four persons are known to be saved. Three boats, filled with passengers and crew are yet to be heard from. The steamer had a large cargo, which included 3,000 ounces of gold.

Advices from Asia Minor state that the famine in that country is causing terrible distress. In one district alone twenty thousand persons have died since the commencement of the famine. The population of this district before the famine was 52,000.

March 8. A special dispatch from Berlin to the Standard asserts that Archbishop Ledechowski, who was expelled from the See of Posen by the Prussian Government, is to be created a Cardinal at the approaching Papal Consistory.

March 12. The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News reports that the German Government is irritated at the conduct of Spain in the Gustay affair, and at the clerical leanings of King Alfonso's ministers. He adds that this feeling will find expression when the new Spanish Embassador presents his credentials to the Emperor.

Paris, March 8. Advices from Figueras, on the Spanish frontier, report that an engagement has taken place between the Carlists and Alfonsists near that fortress, which lasted six hours. The Alfonsists lost three hundred killed and wounded. The Carlists are bombarding the town of Oria.

March 10. The Courrier de France reports that M. Dufaure has drawn up a programme of policy for the new Ministry. The leading features are as follows:

The Assembly, on meeting after the Easter holidays, to vote the budget; the Senatorial elections to be held next September; the dissolution of the Assembly to follow in October; the Government to demand the maintenance of the present electoral system and to raise the state of siege in all the departments exept the Seine, the Rhone and the Buches du Rhone.

The new Swedish army scheme makes military service obligatory on all male members of the community between the ages of 18 and 40.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Hazelton, Pa., Feb. 26. About two o'clock this afternoon the miners who are on a strike, numbering about three hundred, drew the fire from under the boilers, stopped all the pumps, set fire to the engine house and shot one of the engineers at Buck Mountain, eleven miles from here. The man is not seriously wounded. It is almost impossible to get men to keep the pumps going. The police are assisting to do so at Eckley and the Upper Lehigh.

Later. There are apprehensions of rough times around here. The men are gathering in large numbers. At the Highlands, three miles from here, a serious disturbance took place and two men were badly beaten. Report says one cannot live. The police have been sent to Buck Mountain to start the pumps.

Topeka, Kansas, Feb. 27. In the House yesterday, a resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Ways and means to report a bill immediately appropriating $200,000 out of the money in the State Treasury for the relief of the suffering people of the State. The resolution was the result of information received that the destitution in various parts of the State is extreme, and that several persons have died of starvation.

Cincinnati, March 1. The Commercial's Bridgeport, Alabama special, says that the greatest flood that has ever visited that region, with one exception, is now sweeping down the Tennessee Valley. All the low ground about Chattanooga is submerged. The East Tennessee road is cut in twenty places. The Atlanta road lost many bridges. The Memphis and Charleston road is under water for miles, and lost heavily in bridges. The Nashville road is also a great sufferer. The great bridge across the Tennessee at Bridgeport is in danger, but as it is heavily weighed down with loaded cars it is thought it may be saved. The river is still rising slowly. The destruction in fences, stock and houses for three hundred miles up and down is very great.

Halifax, March 8. A dispatch from St. Johns, N. F., says the bodies of over forty persons, who died at St. Johns during the winter, have been temporarily interred in the snow, which lies in such immense quantities in the cemeteries as to prevent the opening of the graves.

SOUTH AMERICA.—The most important news from South America by this mail is the melancholy state of affairs in Monte Video. On Sunday, the 10th ult., an election riot occurred at the church and several respectable citizens were shot down; a dozen were killed and treble that number wounded. Since the riot, business in Monte Video has been suspended, and most of the shops have been closed, every one momentarily expecting a revolution. On Tuesday the Custom House was closed and two Ministers that day resigned. Nine persons were killed in the church, and forty wounded. Some of the wounded were afterwards butchered in cold blood. The affray occurred between the Neto and Principista sections of the Colorado party.

In Brief.

— A boiler in a steam saw mill at Rushville, Ind., exploded, killing two persons and wounding three.

— At a funeral at Charing, Kent county England, as the body was being carried into the church, one of the bearers, an old man, dropped dead.

— The total debt of the city of New York as represented in stock and bonds on the 30th of January, was $115,482,274.

— The sales of the Methodist Book Concerns at New York and Cincinnati during the year ending November 30th, 1874, aggregated the sum of $1.552,048,50.

Married.

LOVEJOY—WIGGIN. In Meredith, N. H., March 2nd, 1875, by Elder J. G. Smith, Mr. SMITH W. LOVEJOY, and Mrs. SUSAN S. WIGGIN, both of Meredith.

FERNALD—BLACK. In Melvin Village, Tuftonborough, N. H., by Eld E. G. York, Mr. EDWARD H. FERNALD, and ALZADIA M. BLACK, both of Melvin Village.

RANDALL—CARD. In Lexington, Mich., Feb. 26th, 1875, by the Rev. J. McGill, ALBERT FRANCIS RANDALL, M. D., of Bolton, P. Q., and Miss JENNIE CARD, of Lexington.

Notices.

CONFERENCE.—The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet, and hold its annual session at the Advent Christian Hall, on Seventh Street, below Poplar, Philadelphia, Pa., commencing on Thursday evening, March 25th, at 7½ o'clock, and continue over the following Sabbath.

This is our annual meeting to hear the reports of all our preachers, officers, committees and delegates for the last year;—the progress, spread, and triumph of Bible truth, by the word of mouth, by the aid of religious papers, tracts, and pamphlets, and by every other gospel means;—to learn by reports the amount of monies received and paid out for the purchase and distribution of publications. All the officers for the year ensuing will be chosen at this session. The Conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body cooperating with this Conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the Conference can be addressed to Edwin King, 1716 Francis Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. G. JAYNE, President.
EDWIN KING, Secretary.

NOTICE.—We would like (if the Lord will), six or eight brethren and sisters to go with the Tent this season, filled with the Spirit and power of the gospel, to labor for the salvation of sinners, proclaim the signs of Jesus' coming at hand, and to help care for the Tent, etc. We want those who can give their time, talents, and voice. We will trust in the Lord for means to pay expenses other ways connected with it.

If brethren wish to contribute to help, it will be received gladly. Brn. F. and Asa Blaisdell and others talk of running the Evangel Tent, and I will furnish one or more, if help will be pledged, for Maine or vicinity. Let those respond at once who feel that the Lord wants them to go, as it will take sometime to make tents. Speak freely. We ought to have many tents in the field this season if Jesus does not come; and could if brethren and sisters would take hold of the business. Let us do all we can for a perishing world, and have it said "well done" when Jesus comes.

P. S. Direct H. B. SEVEY, Mt. Vernon, Me.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Third Quarterly Meeting of the Iowa Christian Conference will meet at New Hartford, Butler Co., Iowa, March 19th, and continue over Lord's day. It is hoped that we have passed our severest weather, and that a full attendance may be obtained. At the same time and meeting we wish to see all the campmeeting committee, as there are matters of interest connected with the June meeting, and timely arrangements should be made.

Brethren, all come, and if you cannot, please write us a line of counsel, or suggestions, or comfort, as duty may direct. This is the last quarterly before the annual meeting, and last year of lease of grounds; and it may be the last gathering. Come, let us hear from you. In behalf of the cause of Christ, PETER S. W. DEYO.

TO VERMONTERS.—At our annual conference at Bethel, the State Committee were urged to carry the gospel of the kingdom into every new field which opened a door, and especially to offer a week of labor for any five dollars pledged by an isolated brother or sister living in a new field. This was to encourage individual effort and sacrifice on the part of the isolated. We want to hear immediately from those places where labors are desired, that we may make due arrangements to meet the demands. If you are too poor to raise five dollars, and yet the door is open for a meeting, write us just the same as though you raised the money. Write to me at Waterbury, Vt., or to A. A. Hoyt, Plainfield, Vt. Write full particulars of circumstances, people, time, and place. Write soon.

H. F. CARPENTER, President of Conference.

NOTICE.—The Adventists of Newmarket, N. H. have formed themselves into a church, with the undersigned as its officers. Feeling deeply our utter helplessness without the Divine blessing, we ask the sympathy and prayers of all God's people for his blessing on the effort.

Elder J. L. Chute will supply us the first and third Sabbaths of each month. Brethren wishing to preach on the remaining Sabbaths, please correspond with Elder J. L. Chute, Pastor.

J. L. CHUTE,
M. L. WHITEHORNE, } Committee.
M. L. WHITEHORNE, Treasurer.
J. C. MEADER, Clerk.

BRO. ROLAND D. GRANT having accepted the call extended to him by the Second Advent Church of Athol, Mass., his labors as Pastor beginning Jan. 1st, 1875, to continue at least one year, all matters of exchange and supply are submitted to him. O. F. BROOKS, Clerk.

THOSE wishing to correspond with me, are hereby informed that my address hereafter will be at Fitchburg, Mass. H. F. CARPENTER.

TO THE BRN. IN MASS.

The Mass. A. C. Conference at its last annual session raised money by pledges and collections to buy a tent and put in the field. A committee was chosen to superintend the buying and running of the tent, and this committee are responsible men, and have done the best they could. They bought the tent and run it until the cold weather set in, and there is a debt on them of over $100. This they are owing to Brn. Boutell and Leslie—the two principal workers with the tent. Some of those that pledged have not paid. We hope brethren will send in the amount of their pledges at once; and we invite others that have the means to contribute to pay these brethren their due, as there is not quite enough pledged to pay the debt.

Bro. Boutell is sick, and the prospect now is he will have to lay by for a while and mend up. He has had sickness in his family also for some months, and he needs what is due him. Now, brethren, will you heed this call, and send me the sum of one hundred and ten dollars at once, so that I can pay these brethren their honest due. Send to C. GOODRICH, Boston, Mass., P. O. Drawer 5140.

Conference Notice.

The annual session of the Mass. A. C. Conference will be held in Chelsea, Mass., in the Advent Christian Chapel on Heard Street, commencing Tuesday, April 6th, and continuing over the following Sabbath. The business session will be held on Wednesday morning, and it is desired that all the business of the Conference may be begun and finished on that day. Therefore, ministers and delegates will endeavor to be in attendance in season to take part in said business matters. Churches whose membership is less than twenty-five are entitled to one delegate; over twenty-five and less than fifty, two delegates; over fifty, three delegates. Let there be a general rally. Come in the spirit of the Master, abide in it during the meeting, and return to your homes richly laden therewith. C. E. BARNES, Secretary.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

The second quarterly session of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Rutland, Vt., commencing April 14th, and continue over the following Sunday. We hope to see a good gathering of the faithful ones at this meeting. Let delegates be sent from all the churches and localities where there are no regular meetings. We hope ministers belonging to this Conference will make a special effort to be present. Come, brethren, to this feast, to labor for God and the salvation of the perishing. A. W. SIBLEY, Pres
W. O. HIGLEY, Sec.

The Maine Mission Tent.

It is now time that those interested should begin to arrange for the summer campaign with the tent. Two good gospel preachers, who can, with the Lord's help, entertain any congregation, go anywhere, manage any crowd, and endure any hardships, are needed, with others occasionally to assist, with good singers and exhorters; also one good man for tent master. Who will volunteer to go into this work? Let them write to me at once. Will each of the committee write to me at once, and say what they have to say,—what they think or wish? Will all who wish meetings with the tent, or who wish the tent to go into any new fields, write to me their thoughts about it? The tent ought to be in the field all through the warm season. Let us try to do all we can for the spread of truth and the salvation of souls.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

VERMONT MISSION.—This Mission will commence a meeting at Chester, Vt., Sunday, March 21st, and continue it as duty may require. We expect the same hearty co-operation of the friends of Jesus in that section that we had a year ago, and with as good, or better results. Come, one and all. We will do the best we can to secure preaching services acceptable to God.

H. F. C., for State Com.

DEDICATION.—The Advent Christian Society of Somerville, Mass., have hired Hawkins' Hall, in Union Square, and will dedicate it to the service of God Sunday, March 21st, at 10½ o'clock. Service conducted by Elder Wm. C. Stewart. All are invited to meet with us. The Lord is reviving his work in Somerville.

For the Church, WM. C. STEWART.

DISTRICT MEETING.—The Hatley District Meeting, the second of the Conference year, will be held at Ways Mills, Barnston, P. Q. (D. V.) to commence on Thursday, the 18th of March, at 7½ P. M., and hold over the Sabbath. Let special effort be made to circulate the appointment, and all, ministers and others interested, attend who can. Brethren, let us assemble in the name and fear of the Lord, trusting in him for his blessing. We are surely and rapidly approaching the great gathering. Much remains to be done. Shall we do it? CHAS. P. DOW, Pres. of Conf.
L. C. MCKINSTRY, Pres. of Dist.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The next Quarterly Meeting of the A. C. Conference of New Brunswick will be held at Jacksontown, Carlton Co., commencing Thursday evening, March 18th, and continue over the following Lord's day. All are invited to come and work for the Lord.

By order of Sec., J. B. ESTY.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The A. C. Churches of Northern Kansas, comprising the churches at Brantford, Clifton, and Sherman Centre, are cordially invited to meet in delegation with the A. C. Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kan., on the 27th day of March, A. D. 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Quarterly Conference, in accordance with the usages of the A. C. Church. Brethren of like precious faith are cordially invited to meet with us.

F. O. CUTLER, Pastor of the Church at Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

H. B. SEVEY will lecture on the Prophecies from the Chart, at the Town Hall, Alfred, Me., Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings, March 23d, 24th, and 25th. Also at Springvale, Me., Friday and Saturday evenings, and over Sunday, March 26th, 27th and 28th. J. R. TRIPP.

NOTICE.—The brethren in Porter, Me., and Freedom, N. H., have arranged to sustain preaching one half the time. These places are near each other, and we unite our interests together and maintain but one meeting regularly, and we are very much in need of preaching. Will the Lord put it into the minds of some of his servants to come over and help us? Who will volunteer, and give notice in Crisis ahead for either of these places? We will meet them at Centre Ossipee, N. H., or Cornish, on their arrival, and do what we can to have them sustained, and to have the gospel preached to sinners. Will Bro. E. A. Stockman arrange to come sometimes? Here is a good field for labor, and a good congregation of attentive listeners, and through the blessing of God much good may be done. If any will heed this, please correspond with myself, or W. Sawyer, or J. S. Moulton. Address Porter, Me.

For the Brn., F. PHILBRICK.

NOTICE.—Being appointed "a special Conference Missionary and Evangelist, for the promotion of the interests of the cause of Christ," in connection with the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, and to advance "its spiritual and organic interests," being somewhat improved in health, and able to labor to some extent, this is to request all persons interested in the several districts of the conference who may desire my labor in their neighborhoods, to correspond with me about it immediately, that I may make suitable arrangements, and go where duty may seem to call. My post office address is Magog, P. Q.. Box 37. Please attend to this at once, and let us unite our prayers and efforts for the advancement of a common cause. CHAS. P. DOW.

"LET US MAKE MAN," etc.—I am prepared to fill all orders for this new book. Price, single copy, 20 cts.; postage 2 cts. Seven copies, postpaid, $1.00; one hundred copies by express, $13.00. T. M. PREBLE, Hyde Park, Mass.

P. S. I learn that some to whom I have mailed the above named book, have not received it. I have filled all orders for it, whether received before, or since its publication. T. M. P.

NOTICE.—I would say to the preaching brethren, when they send their appointments to Richmond, please name the place, Reed meeting-house, Richmond Corner, or at the Village. F. BATES.

To Preaching Brethren.

VERMONT.

Those who wish to preach at Rutland, Vt., will please correspond with D. E. Grandy or Nathan Howard.

Those wishing to preach in Waterbury, Vt., are requested to correspond with Bro. A. Dillingham, or Bro. Geo. C. Arms, before publishing their notice.

Those wishing to preach in Woodford, Vt., will please correspond with Bro. Geo. F. Townsend, Bennington, Vt.

Those wishing to preach at West Stowe, will please correspond with Eld. H. W. Williams, Stowe, Vt.

Those wishing to preach at Bridgewater, Vt., please correspond with A. L. Dinsmore.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) TO INSURE INSERTION FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 1735 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
REVIVAL MEETINGS every evening, and Thursday afternoon, and Sunday, March 21st. (Baptism.)
JOHN G. HOOK.
L. T. CUNNINGHAM.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 538 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Prayer meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, March 21st
B. Woodside........Sunday, March 28th
Geo. W. Sederquest........Sunday, April 4th

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Prayer meetings Tuesdays and Fridays, 7½ o'clock.
F. H. Burbank........Sundays, March 21st and 28th

CHELSEA, MASS. (Advent Chapel, Heard Street.)
J. Couch........Sunday, March 21st

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Tremont, Mass........Sunday, March 21st
C. E. BARNES.

Brimfield, Mass........Sunday, April 18th
C. GOODRICH.

Clinton, Mass........Sabbath, March 28th
ROLAND D. GRANT.

Wakefield, Mass........Sunday, March 21st
Tremont, Mass........Sunday, March 28th
Putnam, Ct........Sunday, April 4th
J. S. WHITE.

Putnam, Ct........Sunday, March 21st
H. PRATT.

Clinton, Mass........Sunday, April 4th
Holden, Mass........Sunday, April 11th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Athol, Mass........Sabbath, April 28th
Worcester, Mass........Friday evening, April 2d
Lyman, Mass........Sabbath, April 4th
Newburyport, Mass. (if Bro. Adams appoints) April 6th, to continue four evenings.
Kennebunkport, Me........April 13th and 14th
Great Falls, N. H.......Thursday evening, April 15th
Dover, N. H........Friday evening, April 16th
Rye, N. H........Tuesday evening, April 20th
Seabrook, N. H........Wednesday, April 21st
Salem, Mass........Thursday evening, April 22d
Lynn, Mass........Friday evening, April 23d
New Bedford, Mass., Sabbaths, April 25th and May 2d
The five days between as Bro. Irish appoints.
H. MUNGER.

Keene, N. H........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
Fairhaven, Mass........Sunday, April 4th
Mattapoisett, Mass........Sunday, April 11th
Fairhaven, Mass........Sunday, April 18th.
M. BATCHELOR.

Natick, Mass., Sunday, April 11th, and the second Sunday in each month for the present.
WM. C. STEWART.

Alton Corner, N. H........Sunday, March 21st
J. G. SMITH.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Warner, N. H. (Waterloo school-house)...March 28th
Sutton, N. H. (South meeting-house)..Sab., April 4th
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church)..Sabbath, May 9th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)........Sabbath, May 16th
Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sab., May 30th
SIMEON ROBY.

Hartford, Conn........Sunday, March 21st
Meriden, Conn........Sunday, March 28th
GEO. W. BROWN.

North Easton, Mass., the third Sabbath of each month
C. W. RATHBUN.

North Scituate, R. I. (as Bro. Angel may arrange) evening March 17th, and over Sunday, March 21st.
Will Bro. Angell meet me at Coventry Centre the 16th?
East Killingly, Ct...Wednesday evening, March 24th and over Sunday, the 28th.
North Rutland, Mass........Sunday, April 25th
GEO. A. STREETER.

East Concord........Sabbath, March 28th
S. HAWKINS.

Bath, Me........Sunday, March 21st
I. C. WELLCOME.

Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sunday, March 21st. G. H. WALLACE.

Sabattes, Me. (Jones' Hall) Saturday evening, 7½ o'clock, and over Sunday, March 21st.
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Bonny Eagle, Me........Sunday, March 21st
South Windham, Me........Sunday, March 28th
C. H. SWEET.

East Pepperell, Mass........Sabbath, March 21st
T. L. HALL.

Charlton, Mass........Sunday, March 28th
W. M. HALL.

Salem, Mass........Sunday, March 21st
I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDON.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, March 28th
LEVI ALLEN.

Lewiston........Sunday, March 21st
Mayberry Hill, Casco (where Bro. Alonzo Mayberry may appoint) Tuesday evening, March 23d.
If any of these conflict, or if any wish for evening meetings on my way, please write me at Dover, N. H.
H. S. PINKHAM.

Harrison, Me. (Woodsom school-house) Sun., March 28th. JARED WHITMAN.

Barnston, P. Q. (Perkins school-house) Sunday, March 21st.
Wayville, P. Q........Sunday, March 28th
Barford, P. Q. (Kinney school-house) Sun., April 4th
Stanstead, P. Q. (Tichurst school-house) Sunday, April 11th. F. M. DRAKE.

Warren Summit, N. H........evening, March 20th and over Sunday.
Haverhill Centre, N. H........evening, March 25th and over Sunday. J. H. EVANS.

Chicopee Falls........Sabbath, March 21st
Brimfield........Sabbath, March 28th
Granby (Batchelor Street)........Sabbath, April 4th
Montgomery........Sabbath, April 11th
Springfield........Sabbath, April 18th
Brimfield........Sabbath, April 25th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Northwood Narrows........Sunday, April 4th
Salem, Mass........Sunday, April 11th
C. R. PARSONS.

Springfield........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
Natick........Sunday, April 4th
Plymouth........Sunday, April 11th
E. OWEN.

Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sun., March 21st.
Bow Centre........Sunday, March 28th
A. T. HODGDON.

Barkhampsted........Sunday, March 21st
Campville........Sunday, March 28th
S. WOODRUFF.

Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, April 11th. D. EASTMAN.

Pittsfield, N. H........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
WM. M. HARMON.

Oxford, Me. (Craig's Mills)........Sunday, March 21st
Otisfield, Me. (Gore school-house)..Sunday, April 4th
JARED WHITMAN.

Lewiston, Me........evening, March 20th and Sunday, March 21st.
Alfred (or vicinity) as Bro. Blaisdell may arrange) evening, March 23d, and onward over Sunday, March 28th. H. B. SEVEY.
F. E. BLAISDEL.

Belgrade Mills........Sunday, April 4th
H. B. SEVEY.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) Sunday, March 21st.
Farmington Village, N. H........Sunday, March 28th
WM. BODGE.

Hartford, Me........Friday evening, March 19th and over Sunday. J. T. JORDAN.

Scitico, Ct........Sunday, March 21st
New Haven, Ct........Sunday, March 28th
H. C. SMITH.

Hollis Centre, Me........Sunday, March 21st
Alton Corner, N. H........Sunday, April 4th
C. S. SHATTUCK.

Stockbridge, Vt........Sunday, March 21st
Barnard, Vt........Sunday, March 28th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Cheshire Street........Sunday, March 28th
Warehousepoint........Sunday, April 4th
G. L. WHITE.

Nashua, N. H........Sunday, March 28th
C. W. SARGENT.

Holden, Mass........Sunday, March 28th
W. N. PILE.

Charlton, Mass........Sunday, March 21st
PORTER J. SMITH.

Winsted, (Good Templar's Hall)..Sunday, March 21st
R. K. STARK.

Natick, Mass........Sunday, March 21st
Z. BOODEY.

South Sutton, N. H........Sunday, March 21st
Monthly Conference at my house Saturday, at one o'clock P. M.
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., April 4th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Richmond, Me........March 20th and 21st
Belgrade Mills, Me........Sunday, March 28th
Mercer, Me........Sunday, April 4th
THOMAS RINES.

Newmarket........evening, March 19th and over Sunday, March 21st.
South Rochester........Monday evening, March 22d
East Rochester........evening, March 23d
Springvale, Me........evening, March 24th
Alfred, Me........evening, March 25th
Hollis Centre, Me........evening, March 26th
West Scarboro, (at R. E. Bryant's)..eve., March 27th
West Scarboro (Broad Turn school-house) Sunday, March 28th. J. L. CHUTE.

Swale school-house, (near Bro. Titus')...March 19th
Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y. (Lyon school-house) evening, March 20th, and Sunday, March 21st, at 11 A. M., and at the village in the evening.
Brocton, Chautauqua Co., N. Y. (as Bro. Hall appoints) March 23d.
Ross Mills (as Bro. Salisbury appoints)...March 24th
Buffalo, N. Y. (528 Eagle Street) Sunday, March 28th
Homer, Potter Co., Pa. (near Bro. Quimby's) Sunday, April 4th. JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Barford (Kinney school-house) Sundays, March 14th, 21st and 28th, to finish up the year's engagements.
Stanstead (Searls school-house)..Sunday, March 21st
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Knowlesville, N. Y..1st and 3d Sundays in the month
MRS. L. M. STODDARD.

Warehouse Point, Ct........Sunday, March 21st
MRS. E. L. CRUMB.

South Rochester, N. H........Sunday, March 21st
C. E. HURD.

Biddeford, Me., the first Sunday in the month. Hollis Center the second Sunday. Kennebunkport the third Sunday. Bonny Eagle the fourth Sunday, till further notice. JESSE GAY.

LAWRENCE, MASS.
W. N. Pile........Sunday, March 21st
W. J. Halse........Sunday, March 28th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, April 4th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, April 18th and 25th

LOWELL, MASS.
A. Ross........Sunday, March 21st
J. Couch........Sunday, March 28th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, April 4th and 11th

HAVERHILL, MASS. (Advent Hall.)
I. B. Potter........Sunday, March 21st
S. S. Brewer........Sunday, March 28th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, April 4th
Wm. H. Mitchell........Sunday, April 11th
B. S. Emery........Sunday, April 18th
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, April 25th

SOUTHBRIDGE, MASS.
A. Bellows........Sunday, March 21st
H. Davis........Sunday, March 28th
P. J. Smith........Sundays, April 4th and 18th

CLINTON, MASS
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 21st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker........second Sunday in each month

CONCORD, N. H. (Centre St. Church.)
Daniel Churchill........Sunday, March 21st
John Parsons........Sunday, March 28th

CONCORD, N. H. (Bethel, Green Street.)
C. Cunningham........Sunday, March 21st
C. Goodrich........Sunday, March 28th
F. H. Burbank........Sundays, April 4th and 11th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis........third Sunday in each month

SEABROOK, N. H.
L. E. Saulpaugh........Sunday, March 21st
Charles R. Parsons........Sunday, March 28th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, April 4th
S. S. Mooney........Sunday, April 11th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, April 18th
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, April 25th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, May 2d
J. G. Smith........Sunday, May 9th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
E. B. Wells........Sunday, March 21st
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, March 28th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, April 4th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, April 11th
H. Munger........Sunday, April 18th

RYE, N. H.
J. W. White........Sunday, April 4th
E. B. Wells........Sunday, April 11th
Julia Buswell........Sunday, April 18th
J. G. Smith........Sunday, April 25th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. Goodrich........Sunday, March 21st
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, March 28th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, April 4th

DOVER, N. H.
C. W. Sargent........Sunday, March 21st
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, March 28th

HAMPTON, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, March 21st
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, March 28th
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, April 4th
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliot, Me.)...Sunday, April 11th
J. G. Smith........Sunday, April 18th
E. B. Wells........Sunday, April 25th
O. W. Kimball........Sunday, May 2d
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, May 9th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, May 16th

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
T. W. Piper........Sunday, March 21st
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, March 28th

EXETER, N. H.
Geo. W. Sederquest........Sunday, March 21st

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, March 21st
C. C. Emerson........Sunday, March 28th
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, April 4th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, April 18th

NEWCASTLE, N. H.
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, March 21st
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, March 28th

LEWISTON, ME.
H. B. Sevey........Sunday, March 21st
I. C. Wellcome........Sunday, March 28th
I. C. Wellcome........Sunday, April 4th
C. Goud........Sunday, April 11th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
A. Ross........Sundays, March 21st and 28th
Jesse Gay........Sunday, April 4th
H. Munger........Sunday, April 11th
Wm. H. Mitchell........Sunday, April 18th
Geo. W. Brown........Sunday, April 25th

ALFRED, ME.
J. R. Tripp........Sabbath, March 21st
Jer. Hill........Sabbath, March 28th

SPRINGVALE, ME.
L. W. Gowen........Sunday, March 21st
J. R. Tripp........Sunday, March 28th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
J. W. White........Sunday, March 28th

NEW HAVEN, CT.
H. Munger........Sunday, March 21st
H. C. Smith........Sunday, March 28th
Wm. N. Pile........Sunday, April 4th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, April 11th
Mrs. E. A. Warren........Sunday, April 18th
M. Batchelor........Sunday, May 2nd

PLAINVILLE, CT.
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 21st
C. F. Morse........Sunday, March 28th

BRISTOL, CT.
G. L. White........Sunday, March 21st

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
O D. Woodruff........Sunday, March 21st
Mrs. E. L Crumb........Sunday, April 4th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, April 11th

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Seventh Street, below Poplar.
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 P. M. M. R. PHETTEPLACE, Pastor.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allegheny, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

NEW YORK CITY (College Hall, Dispensary Building, corner of 23d Street and 2d Avenue.) Meetings on Sunday, at 3 p. m., and Wednesday evening at 7½ o'clock. Preaching brethren coming this way, please write to F. Johnson, 52 East 23d St., New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven A. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. Rice, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

CLINTON, MASS.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings, at Burditt Hall. Preachers will please correspond with Isaac Barnes, Clinton.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

GREENPOINT, L. I., preaching at 7.30 Sunday evenings, in Ecselsior Hall, corner of Franklin and India Streets. Conference and prayer meeting Thursday evenings. A. S. MUNGER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Advent Christian Church will hold their services at the Supreme Court Room (City Hall), at the intersection of Louisiana and Indiana Avenue, every Lord's day. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 p. m.; prayer and conference meeting every Thursday evening, at house No. 412, 5th street, near City Hall. ELD. JAS. H. WHITMORE, Pastor.

RYE, N. H.—Bro. E. B. Wells having been chosen pastor of the church in Rye, will supply the desk every Sabbath, except the first of each month (that being supplied by Bro. J. W. White.) All communications relative to preaching should be directed to him at North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

BIDDEFORD, ME.—Meetings are held at the Advent Chapel, Hill Street, every Sabbath morning, afternoon and evening; also Wednesday and Saturday evenings, at the usual hours; preachers will please correspond with T. W. Applebee, Box 1340.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

THERE will be preaching at Cabot, Vt., in the Advent Chapel, every Sabbath, at the usual hours, until further notice. E. N. MORSE.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. WM. C. STEWART'S address, for the present, will be Somerville, Mass., Church Street, near Union Square.

☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is 50 Perthius Street, Montreal.

☞ CALEB RICHARDSON'S address is Salem Depot, N. H.

☞ ROLAND D. GRANT'S address is Athol Depot, Mass., Box 292.

☞ F. A. BAKER'S address is Frankfort, Me.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—G W Barnes, J T Jordan, A W Bradford, H V Davis, M L Curtis, John P Shaw, D H Watkins, F A Baker, E N Bliss, S A Kidder, J C Smith, N D Wight, R F Clark, W C Ladd, Fanny Reynolds, C H Williams.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—A C Newcomb 3c. A M B Graham $6 30. D Dole $3.50, H K Simons 20c, Geo F Morse 10c, D Ellinwood 35c, J T Merrill $4 50, J Burgess 25c, S Guthrie $4.00, J E Pasco $1.50, J P Shaw $3.50, B F Smith 25c, S P Hayward $1 00, Mrs A Ordway 5c, C H Steere 25c, M A Potter 71c, A Noble $1.60, C E Bush 10c, E Mott 2d 40c, F A Baker 20c, W Vose 12c, F A Rounds 35c, L R Mershon $4.11, Ira Forbes $1.12, C Wise 10c, B Knepper 25c, S A Kidder 50c, J C Smith $1.00, Mrs M Becker $1.50, Mrs M P Bush 5c, H L Woodward 5c, C Boyd 25c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—W S Hazard, S P Howland, D Dole, A M B Graham (2 pack), K H Simons, G F Morse, A C Newcomb, G Sowerwine, A B Swanesburg, S Guthrie, J E Pasco, D Ellinwood, Geo Mitchell, E Edwards, A Noble, C H Steere, E Mott 2d, J E Gifford, T W Brooks, J P Shaw, F A Baker, Mrs A Ordway, S P Hayward, B F Smith, L R Mershon, B Knepper, H M Gilman, Ira Forbes, Miss M E Folsom, F A Rounds, E Cotton, H H Dugger, J P Davis, W Vose, M Becker, J C Smith, C Boyd, W L Stearns, H L Woodard, Mrs M P Bush.
By Express—Elder G A Carroll.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3.00 a year. This applies to new subscribers for the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the WORLD'S CRISIS, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. A'GT.

THE SEVEN CHURCHES.

"A pamphlet of 60 pages (by W. N. Pile), giving an exposition of Rev. 2: 3. The epistles to the 'seven churches of Asia' (the author thinks) are shown to have been prophetic of the seven periods of the gospel age, in addition to their local application. An epitome of church history, from the apostolic age to the present time, is given, leading to the conclusion that we are now in the closing part of the Laodicean period, near the end of the dispensation and the establishment of the kingdom of God upon the earth. Price, single copy, postpaid, 15 cts.; two copies, 25 cts."

An interesting Tract. We hope it may do much good. "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches." For sale at this Office. AG'T.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
BY HENRY CONSTABLE, A. M.

We have this valuable work in its unabridged form of 330 pages, neatly bound in cloth, for sale. Price $1.00; postage, 16 cts.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

"THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR." A Contrast to the Immaterial and Speculative System of Anti-Millenarianism, expressed in "The End of All Things," and other kindred works. 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

THE "GERSHOM" TRACTS. Packets of three—The Morning Star, Daybreak, and Sunrise. Per packet, 10 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE SPUR AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE STUDY of Greek. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

SPIRITUAL PRESENCE not BETTER THAN BODILY. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

ESSAYS CRITICAL AND THEOLOGICAL. Of interest to the Bible student and scholar. $1.50; postage 20 cts.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

HADES: OR, THE INTERMEDIATE STATE OF MAN. Arguing DEATH in death, unconsciousness, silence and inaction. Highly spoken of. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.
HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

NOW READY,

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the reduced price of $15.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

RE-PRINTED
ELD. S. S. BREWER'S EXPOSITORY WORKS.

Several of Bro. Brewer's works, which have been out of print some time, so that we have not been able to fill orders, are now published, and we can supply as follows:—

"THE LAST DAY TOKENS."
Three volumes in one. The Signs in the Sun Moon, and Stars, with other strange phenomena illustrated with splendid cuts. 216 pp.; 50 cts.

"TREATISE ON REV. XIIITH."
Illustrated with cuts. 25 cts.

"The History of an Immortal Soul."
This is a work of the history of the origin of the dogma, with copious extracts from ancient heathen and Christian writers, to which is added a Scriptural exposition. Price 10 cts.

"THE SEVEN SEALS"
is also regarded as an important work. 15 cts. And the
"Slaying of the Witnesses."
10 cts. AG'T.

I LOVE TO TELL THE STORY.

GEO W. HOWARD.

I love to tell the story,
How Jesus died for me,
To purchase my salvation
Upon Mount Calvary.
When I was weak and sinful,
And straying far from him,
He saw my lost condition,
And rescued me from sin.

I love to tell the story
How Christ will come again,
And fill this earth with glory,
And take his power and reign.
The earth will bloom like Eden,
The curse shall be no more,
And every living creature (Rev. 5: 13)
The Savior shall adore.

I love to tell the story,
That sinners all may know
How Jesus loved the sinner
While he was here below.
O sinner! hear the story;
'Twas for you Jesus died,
To bring you home to glory,
Where sin cannot abide.

Come, sinner, come to Jesus;
Heed now the Savior's voice,
Then all the holy angels
Will over you rejoice.
Come, sinner, for the fountain
Is open now for thee,
And Jesus now is ready
From sin to set you free.

Stowe, Me.

"REMEMBER LOT'S WIFE."

BY J. A. SEISS, D. D.

There is a marked analogy between the several great judgments of God. They all bear the same general characteristics, in the mysterious stealth and suddenness of their manifestation and in their main incidents, whether as respects the righteous or the wicked. Knowing one well, we may form a tolerable idea of all the rest. This is distinctly taught by the Savior in the discourse recorded in Luke 17, in connection with the reference to Lot's wife. He refers to the flood, and to the overthrow of Sodom, as illustrative of the judgment then impending over Jerusalem, which last he also contemplates as the earnest and beginning of the great final judgment of the world. These several events accordingly serve as the several folds or lenses of the telescope through which to see how it will be in connection with the still future revelation of Christ in judicial majesty to make an end of wickedness, and set up in full his eternal empire. As those ancient visitations were to the godless and unwary, so shall it be to the same class when the Son of Man cometh. As the escape of Noah from the deluge, of Lot from Sodom to Zoar, of christians from Jerusalem to Pella, so shall it be again with God's true and watchful people in the great day. And the calamity which befell Lot's wife, likewise foreshows the fate of all half-christians, and people like her, when the great day of God's burning judgment comes.

She was a woman for whom much had been done. She was favorably connected. She had been won from idol worship. She had shared the companionship and blessings of faithful Abraham. She had been warned of coming destruction to Sodom, and helped by angels to get out of the doomed city before the hail and fires fell. She had got far on her way to the hills of safety. But, in one instant, she was overtaken, and became at once her own grave and tombstone—a pillar of salt—a memorial forever of the terrible wrath of God upon lukewarm obedience and trifling with Divine warnings and commands.

It is said of her that she looked back; and in this lay the sin which caused her ruin. The angel had said, "Escape for thy life;" but she did not take in the full urgency of the case. "Stay not in all the plain," was the pointed command; but she halted before she got beyond the boundaries of danger. "Look not back," was the imperious direction of heaven; but she did look back, and lost everything.

The elements of aggravation in her conduct were: 1. That she obeyed reluctantly and only by halves, in the face of a clear knowledge of God's will. She did not doubt, but believing, she did not act fully up to the requirements of faith. And the half piety of men will be the greater evidence against them in the day of judgment. It tells of knowledge and convictions held only to be dishonored, and hence brings the deeper condemnation.

2. She disobeyed when she had the fullest reason for the most implicit obedience. Many and marvellous had been God's mercies to her, in winning her from the damning idolatries of her fathers, in giving her share in the favor bestowed upon Abraham and Lot, in rescuing her from the captivity of the kings, in the miraculous saving of her house in Sodom from a scene of infamous brutality and shame, and in her deliverance by the hand of angels from the city of destruction.

Such experiences ought to have commanded the fullest obedience now. But, with all, she put aside a part of the clear will of that God who had been so gracious, disregarded the word of the blessed angels who had come to her, trampled on her almost completed salvation, and plunged herself into a worse fate than befell the Sodomites.

3. She fell in the last moments of trial, after having stood firm for half a lifetime. Thirty years and more she had maintained her obedience; and now, by angel help brought to the very margin of final deliverance, she voided the virtue of many years, and perished at the very gates of salvation.

What, then, would the Savior have us remember with reference to this case?

1. That there is a city of destruction behind us, from which we are graciously called to make our escape. It is the Sodom of this evil world. People talk of converting and evangelizing this world; but the Bible doctrine is, not that it shall be converted, but destroyed. Great Babylon will never be reformed, but utterly overwhelmed, like a great millstone cast into the sea. Her sentence is written in heaven, and in all the book of God; and all who would avoid her plagues or be saved from the fires of her burning, must come out of her, that they be not partakers of her sins. All true godliness takes as its first article and act, the thorough abjuration of everything relating to this world, its prince, its vanities, its lusts, and its ways. And they that cannot give it up must perish with it.

2. That no hesitation, parleying, or halfway work will answer here. There may be much in Sodom to engage our hearts and interest, and to plead for just one more fond look, just one more parting kiss thrown back to what is being left behind for ever. But God hath said, "Look not back, lest thou be consumed;" and even so slight and natural an indulgence, though in sight of the city of deliverance, may prove one's everlasting perdition.

3. That no promptings of natural reason or affection are to be trusted as against God's clear and specific word. When Lot went to his sons-in-law with the tidings of what was about to happen, he seemed unto them as one that dreamed. The thought was that he was crazy, demented, deprived of mental balance. But those philosophic and sober thinking men went down with Sodom, and all their vaunted wisdom with them; and the self-indulgent mother of their wives fell a victim to still sterner wrath, because she allowed her own suggestions to make only a little modification in what God had commanded. Verily, he hath magnified his word above all his name, and those who are not willing to take it as he has given it, must take the plagues which are therein written. The slightest clause unobserved, the merest syllable disregarded, the thinnest gloss put upon it from reasonings from without, is liable to work the direst results.

4. That the utmost diligence must be called into requisition, and persevered unto the end, if we ever would be saved. Sodom is not the place for those to linger in who are looking for the better country. It is a city of filthiness and abominations, thronged with unclean spirits and the children of hell. God's condemnation is on it. It is appointed to destruction. Its sentence is complete and eternal obliteration. Nor is there anything in it worth a good man's affection. Therefore the word is, get you out of it, and flee to the mountains. Helps from Heaven have been sent to take us by the hand to help us out. And we must awake to the work, and push it forward, and keep at it with unrelaxing determination, never once so much as looking back; otherwise, doom is upon us.

To every one, therefore, who reads these lines, we repeat the Savior's admonition: "Remember Lot's wife."—The Prophetic Times.

"DEACON LEE."

Dear Editors:—The following is from the Christian Messenger. Is it not worth a place in our beloved paper? It goes to show how careful christians ought to be how they illtreat their minister or pastor, for they are just as much "the Lord's anointed" as David, Saul, or any of the prophets and apostles. See 2 Cor. 1: 21. And God will just as surely visit men for such treatment, either by judgment or by heavy and severe rebukes (as in the case of Deacon Lee) as they are sure to meet the "Judge of quick and dead," even though they should sometimes "err." See 1 Sam. 16: 9. A. B. SWANESBURG.

Shelburne, Nova Scotia.

"Deacon Lee, who was a kindly, silent, faithful, gracious man, was one day waited upon by a restless, ambitious, worldly church member, who was laboring to create uneasiness in the church, and especially to drive away the minister.

The deacon came in to meet his visitor, who, after the usual greetings, began to lament the low state of religion, and inquire as to the reason why there had been no revival for the last two or three years past.

'Now what do you think is the cause of things being dull here?'

The deacon was not ready to give his opinion; and after a little thought frankly answered, 'I don't know.'

'Do you think the church are alive to the work before them?'

'No, I don't.'

'Do you think the minister fully realizes the solemnity of his work?'

'No, I don't.'

A twinkle was seen in the eye of the troubler in Zion, and taking courage, he asked—'Do you think Mr. B. a very extraordinary man?'

'No, I don't.'

'Do you think his sermons in their eyes were holden anything wonderfully great?'

'No, I don't.'

Making bold, after all this encouragement in monosyllables, he asked—'Then don't you think we had better dismiss this man and hire another?'

The old deacon started as if shot with an arrow, and in a tone louder than his wont shouted—'No, I don't!'

'Why,' cried the amazed visitor, 'you agree with me in all I have said, don't you?'

'No, I don't.'

'You talk so little, sir,' replied the questioner, not a little abashed, 'that no one can find out what you do mean.'

'I talked enough once,' replied the old man rising to his feet, 'for six praying christians. Thirty years ago I got my heart humbled, and my tongue bridled; and ever since that I've walked softly before God. I then made vows solemn as eternity; and don't you tempt me to break them.'

The troubler was startled at the earnestness of the hitherto silent, immovable man, and asked—'What happened to you thirty years ago?'

'Well, sir, I'll tell you. I was drawn into a scheme just like this of yours, to uproot one of God's servants from the field in which he had planted him. In my blindness, I fancied it a little thing to remove one of the "stars" which Jesus holds in his right hand, if thereby my ear could be tickled by more flowing words, and the pews filled with those who turned away from the simplicity of the gospel. I and the men that led me—for I admit that I was a dupe and a tool—flattered ourselves that we were doing God's service when we drove that holy man from the pulpit and his work, and said we considered his work done in B——, where I then lived. We groaned because there was no revival, while we were gossiping about and criticizing and crushing him, instead of upholding his hands by our efforts and our prayers, the very instrument at whose hand we harshly demanded the blessings.

'Well, sir, he could not drag on the chariot of salvation with a half a dozen of us taunting him for his weakness, while we hung as a dead weight to the wheels; he had not the spirit, as we thought, and could not convert men; so we hunted him like a deer, till, worn and bleeding, he fled into a covert to die.

'Scarcely had he gone when God came in among us by his Spirit, to show that he had blest the labors of his dear rejected servant. Our own hearts were broken, and our wayward children converted; and I resolved at a convenient season to visit my former pastor and confess my sin, and thank him for his faithfulness to my wayward sons, which like long-buried seed had now sprung up. But God denied me that relief, that he might teach me a lesson that every child of his ought to learn,—that he who toucheth one of his little ones toucheth the apple of his eye.

'I heard my pastor was ill, and taking my oldest son with me, set out on a twenty-five miles ride to see him. It was evening when I arrived, and his wife, with the spirit which any woman ought to exhibit toward one who had so wronged her husband, denied me admittance to his chamber. She said (and her words were like arrows to my soul)—"He may be dying, and the sight of your face might add to his anguish." Had it come to this, I said to myself, that the man whose labors had, through Christ, brought me into his fold, who had consoled my spirit in a terrible bereavement, and who had, till designing men had alienated us, been to me a brother,—that this man could not die in peace with my face before him? "God pity me! I cried; what have I done?" I confessed my sins to that meek woman, and implored her for Christ's sake to let me kneel before his dying servant, and receive his forgiveness.

'What did I care then whether the pews by the door were rented or not? I would gladly have taken his whole family to my home forever, as my flesh and blood; but no such happiness was in store for me.

'As I entered the room of the blessed warrior, whose armor was falling from his limbs, he opened his languid eyes, and said, "Bro. Lee! Bro. Lee!" I bent over him, and sobbed out, "My pastor! my pastor!" Then raising his white hand, he said in a deep, impressive voice—"Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm."

'I spoke tenderly to him, and told him I had come to confess my sin, and bring some of his fruit to him (calling my son, to tell him how he had found Christ). But he was unconscious of all around; the sight of my face had brought the last pang of earth to his troubled spirit. I kissed his brow, and told him how dear he had been to me. I craved his pardon for my unfaithfulness, and promised him to care for his widow and his fatherless little ones; but his only reply, murmured as if in a troubled dream, was—"Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm."

'I stayed by him all night, and at daybreak I closed his eyes.

'I offered his widow a house to live in the remainder of her days; but like a heroine she said—"I freely forgive you; but my children, who entered deeply into their father's anguish, shall never see me so regardless of his memory as to take anything from those who caused it. He has left us all with his covenant God, and he will care for us."

'Well, sir, those dying words sounded in my ears from that coffin, and from that grave. When I slept, Christ stood before my dream, saying, "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm." These words followed me till I fully realized the esteem in which Christ holds those men who have given up all for his sake; and I vowed to love them evermore for his sake, even if they are not perfect.

'And since that day, sir, I have talked less than before, and have supported my pastor, even if he is not a very extraordinary man. My tongue shall cleave to the roof of my mouth, and my right hand forget her cunning, before I dare to put asunder what God has joined together. When a minister's work is done in a place, I believe God will show it to him. I will not join you, sir, in the scheme that brought you here; and, moreover, if I hear another word of this from your lips, I shall ask the brethren to deal with you as with one who causes divisions.

'I would give all I own to recall what I did thirty years ago.

'Stop where you are, and pray God, if perchance the thought of your heart may be forgiven you.'

This decided reply put an end to the new comer's efforts to get a minister who could make more of a stir. There is often great power in the little word "no"; but sometimes it requires not a little courage to speak it so resolutely as did the silent deacon."

FARNHAM DISTRICT MEETING.

The first District Meeting of the present Conference year was held at the Wood school-house, East Farnham, P. Q., commencing on the evening of Dec. 24th, 1874. It was appointed to be held near Elder L. Marsh's residence, in Broome; but, in consequence of the severe illness of Sr. Marsh at the time, it was thought advisable to hold it as above stated; which was, under the circumstances, a good arrangement, and resulted well.

Of ministers there was a fair attendance from the first,—Elders N. Stevens, D. H. Merrill, L. Marsh, E. G. Chadsey, C. P. Dow, and L. C. and M. McKinstry,—who mutually labored to make the meeting interesting and profitable. The congregations were not as large and encouraging as they should have been, considering the character of the meeting, its importance, objects, etc., and the effort on the part of ministers to attend from a distance, taken in connection with the number of brethren and sisters resident within a few miles of the place; yet a few did their whole duty in this respect.

The meeting rose in interest from the first, and was held, three services each day, over the ensuing Sabbath; and resulted, we have reason to believe, in good to some, who were reclaimed from a wholly backslidden state, and again started in earnest on the christian way. One much valued friend of the cause, who had not so entirely given up all hope, spoke in our social meetings, after an unbroken silence of sixteen years.

Our Saturday P. M. business meeting was formally held, and suggestions made; yet no local business was done, and we were made to feel the lack of the lay element, so important, as the officers of churches in the District were not present to act their part as required by the plain terms of our Conference Constitution. Until each locality where our brethren reside has its properly organized and officered church, acting in harmony with each other, and the example and precept of apostolic times, no real, gratifying progress will be made, and confusion and disorder will still reign, and the cause of Bible truth will suffer as in the past. Our organization, as far as effected, is an attempt to remedy the evils of the past, and will successfully do it if thoroughly carried out; but if our articles of association are not lived up to, then our work is a failure. In this view, the ministers of the Conference are well united, but too many of the laity are under the influence of other teachers and teachings, and but few really seem to see where the difficulty is. In union there is strength. Let us see to it that we really occupy a scriptural position in all respects.

On the Sabbath the Lord's supper was administered to a goodly number, and the meeting closed with a well attended evening service. CHAS. P. DOW, Pres. of Conf.
E. G. CHADSEY, Sec. of Dist.

IN MEMORIAM.—(Acrostic.)

C. P. DOW.

Norman, our brother, has fallen asleep,
O'er him in sadness his brethren now weep;
Rest in the grave he has found from earth's care,
Motionless, passionless, cold, he lies there.
All, all is over, of life's hopes and fears;
No more we'll see him till Jesus appears.

Steadfast in faith, with the armor all on,
Trusting in Jesus, to death's prison gone;
"Enemy," indeed, is the tyrant death,
Venom of sin that takes away our breath;
Ended ere long will be death's cruel reign,
Norman shall then awake to live again;—
Saved, made immortal, to suffer no pain.

Is not such a "hope" a "comfort" indeed?
Such a friend as Jesus, a friend in need?

Destroyer of Death, Deliverer, King,
Ever let our voices his praises sing;
And when at last comes the great Jubilee,
Death shall be conquered—the saints all be free.

RESTITUTION.

B. SPAULDING.

In the beginning God made all things good. Man was a good being, though made of the dust. He was holy, pure, healthy, in the image of God, and but little lower than the angels. The earth was made good. It produces good things in abundance; but no evil weeds to choke the good herbs, which bear seed for the food of men. There were no devouring insects, no frosts nor blights; no sickness, sorrow, pain or death. What a pity that man ever sinned, and brought a curse upon the earth. Death would have been the end of man, had not God provided another way of salvation, through Jesus Christ and the resurrection.

The plan was this: that another should come into the world, and take upon himself human nature, and be made under the law; that he should honor the law by obeying it perfectly, then he should become a substitute for man, and suffer the penalty which was due to man; thus satisfying Divine justice. Now God can be just, and yet save the sinner who yields to the conditions of salvation.

Salvation will come at the resurrection, and immortality be given, even eternal life. Then the earth will be restored to its primitive state of goodness, by being purified by fire. The tree will then yield its fruit, and the field its increase. Instead of briars, and thorns, and evil weeds, good things will grow, naturally, just as they did in the first creation. This will take away the necessity of laboring so hard to produce food, as the products will be natural. Then we can say, This land which was desolate, has become like the garden of Eden.

Chelmsford, Mass.

WHY DO MEN GET DRUNK?

AND IS THERE A SURE REMEDY?

H. A. GILBERT.

Did God create man with an appetite which would lead him to eat or drink what would injure him? Nay, verily. The cause must be found in some other direction. Where, then, did he get that deadly desire for stimulants, which so effectually worketh death? Let us see.

When God created Adam he pronounced him "very good." Now this would not be true if any part of his organization did not produce proper results. If the organs producing desire sent forth passions or appetites which were not right, or were in any way injurious or contrary to the law of God, then Adam was not made very good. Let us look at Scripture and facts, and see what they prove in this direction. The Bible plainly proves that "lust" is the sin of the world. 1 John 2: 16—"For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world." Also 2 Pet. 1: 4, last clause—"Having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." God condemns the world because of this sin.

Would a just man make a machine that would not produce proper results, and then blame the machine and dash it in pieces because it acts just as he made it to act? He would not. Would God do more than man? Will not the God of all the earth do right? Look again at all the creatures that God has made, and see if any physical organism can be found, except in man, which, when left to its nature, untrammeled by man, will produce passions or appetite sinjurious to itself, or which is not in harmony with the law which governs the preservation of life or perpetuation of the species. For example, see the squirrel and like animals, who lay in cozy nests of sweet nuts and corn, yet need no restraint; also the deer, bear, raccoon, and other animals, when chance brings them into a field of grain; why do they not eat to their injury, and lay down and die? I answer, Because the Creator made them with organs producing just desire enough to answer nature's demand, and no more. Did God make man less perfect in his physical organization than he made the brute, who from birth seemed to know what, when, and how much nature demands, and, if left free to choose, will make no mistake?

Looking at the subject from this standpoint, it seems unquestionably true that man was made with a perfect organization, producing perfect results; and Adam, by eating of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, broke physical law, and the whole machinery thereby was thrown out of gear. The stomach and other desire-producing organs were so deranged that, instead of the necessary and lawful desires hitherto enjoyed, now sent forth hurtful lusts, and sin and death have flowed as the poisonous effects of that fruit until to-day. This condition of broken physical law Adam transmitted to his children, and they to theirs, and so on, till our parents transmitted it to us, and we to our dear innocent ones, with the accumulated amount caused by the physical transgression of every parent, from Adam to you and me. How much you and I will be responsible for of the evil in our children will be brought to light in the day of accounts. If the evil does not show itself in us, by getting drunk, it does in some other way. Do not despise the drunkard, but pity him, remembering that your desires for other unwholesome substances come from the same poisoned root, and is sin in the sight of God.

I do not know how much difference God makes between the lust for stimulating food and that for stimulating drink. This I do believe, while the drinking of alcohol is slaying its thousands, the eating and drinking of other hurtful substances is slaying its tens of thousands. But is there no remedy? God says, "Be ye perfect." Does God require perfect action of an imperfect being, without providing a remedy for the imperfection? Paul, when speaking of man by nature as the first Adam left him, says in the seventh of Romans, "When I would do good, evil is present with me"; and, "What I would, that do I not." Yet he says, "It is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me"; and gives as a reason that in his flesh (not in his mind) dwelleth no good thing; for he says with his mind he serves the law of God, but with his flesh the law of sin. We see the reason of all this in the 23d verse—"But I see another law in my members warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members."

Paul has now shown the condition in which the first Adam left the race; he now introduces Christ, the second Adam, as the healer of the breach, and shows by what means he applies the remedy. Let us see if he has not made this plain. Paul could not be speaking, in the seventh chapter, of himself as a christian; for he shows that the condition here described brings continual condemnation; and in the eighth chapter he says there is no condemnation to the christian. Neither can he be speaking of himself as under the law, for he then seemed to feel perfectly satisfied that he was doing all right; neither can he be speaking of those hardened in crime, for they have the consent of the will to gratify their lusts. But this condition shows that the mind or will approves the right and law of God. But the passions and appetites are too strong for the mind, so that man, in the state in which he is born, cannot do that which he approves and delights in. The mind, then, is loyal, though the members have rebelled. Adam sold the whole race under sin, by transmitting broken physical laws to all his posterity; thus causing them to be born with physical organs so out of order, as to produce, not only pain and sickness, but unlawful and therefore unrighteous passions and appetites, before they can reason and reflect; in this way making them sinners by nature. Those unlawful passions and appetites are unright, therefore unrighteous; and John says, "all unrighteousness is sin." Not a sin that we are held responsible for, or that for which we must be forgiven; but that from which we must be cleansed by the second Adam, before we can be fit associates for the pure and the holy.

Look at the mind of the race by nature. In every heathen tribe and nation we find the mind blindly seeking after some God to fear, love, and worship. Look at every child in christian or heathen lands. Teach them the true character of God and his law, and they love both. Let every man and woman take their own case,—review your own childhood and youth. Did you hate God's true character, or his law? or did your mind approve of it? I believe every one will say, before transgression brought them into captivity to the law of sin which was in their members, their mind consented to the law of God that it was holy, just and good.

Many a man and woman, to-day, who have never received the help provided by the Savior, are resolving and re-resolving to keep the law of God; thus declaring that it is good. With all their power they are continually saying, I will never again indulge in the gratification of those unlawful desires. But they find the law in their members too strong for the mind, and they fall again and again, until the mind becomes weary, and they yield more or less to the gratification of passions and appetites, and at last the whole man, body and mind, will be brought into captivity to the law of sin which is in their members.

Now is there no sure deliverance from this state of sin and death? I answer, none, without foreign aid. Though some, by reason of strength and surrounding circumstances, may overcome so far as to deny themselves the gratification of many of those passions and appetite, yet the poison lies deep within, and a continual warfare between mind and members must still rage, which can only be ended by the help provided by the Lord Jesus Christ, or the members bringing into perfect subjection the mind, or death. Paul says, in the eighth chapter, the carnal, or fleshly mind, or desires, arising from fleshly organs, "are not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be"; and we see in the foregoing the reason why. Now let the same writer apply the remedy. He says in the 22nd verse of the 7th chapter—"I delight in the law of God after the inward man [or mind]; but I find a law in my members warring against the law of my mind"; and he then cries out, as the natural man would, on seeing his condition—"O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" and then exultingly exclaims, "I thank God through Jesus Christ my Lord." He has now found a deliverer. Yes, help has been laid on One that is mighty to save. "There is, therefore, now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit." He gives the reason why there is no condemnation: "because the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Where did he find that law of sin and death? In his members. See 23d verse. Is he not now made free from unlawful passions and appetites, or that which was sin in his members? Is not the fleshly mind, or desires arising from the flesh, which are unlawful and bring condemnation, taken away? The 2nd and 3d verses of the 8th chapter tell us. God sent his Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, for the purpose of doing away and condemning sin in the flesh; so that the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

Paul has now found a way through which man can be righteous, or have right passions and appetites. Gal. 5: 16—"Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh." Rom. 8: 9—"If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." And in Gal. 5: 24, he says—"They that are Christ's have crucified the flesh, with the passions [margin] and lusts." I might quote multitudes of passages to the same effect; but is not the above sufficient to prove that God has provided a sovereign balm for this deadly wound, in the gift of the Spirit to help our infirmities? There is help, then, for those who feel their need of help. To every one who comes to Christ, he not only forgives their sin, but cleanses them from all iniquity. He invites all. To the struggling ones who are engaged in this warfare he says—"Come unto me, . . . and I will give you rest." Yes, rest from the conflict between mind and members; he will reconcile the members to God, and make you a new man by putting his Spirit in you. Do you say, How shall I obtain this great help? This moment stretch out your hand and say, "My Father, take command of this garrison, I cannot conquer the rebels; I yield to thee."

FROM H. WILLIAMS, Arkansas City, Kan.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—I want to make a request of you. I am living where there are no Adventists but myself, and there are many people here that are desirous to see and read our books and papers, but they are poor, and have not the wherewith to get them. I have several tracts and books which I have loaned, till they are nearly worn out, and I am too poor to send and get more. Will you not, brethren, send me some tracts and papers to distribute among these people? If they are a little soiled, don't mind that. Many of you have old tracts, books, and back numbers of the A. C. Times and Crisis, and other papers lying about your houses, which would do much good if they were in the field. Now, brethren, if you will send me those tracts, papers, etc., I will distribute them where they are most needed. I am not able to pay the postage or expressage. Remember, brethren and sisters, this is working for the Lord. Let your prayers go with what you send me. Your brother looking for his King. Address H. M. WILLIAMS, Arkansas City, Cowley Co., Kansas.

MY EXPERIENCE.

B. L. CLARK.

"Behold, the Lord's arm is not shortened that it cannot save, neither his ear heavy that it cannot hear."—ISA. 59: 1.

I sit down to write a few lines concerning the dealings of my heavenly Father with me, hoping it may help others to trust in the Lord. The Lord has dealt very wonderfully with me, whereof I have great reason to praise his holy name.

The land of my nativity was Vermont, Rutland county. My parents were Baptists. I was trained to the orthodox belief, for we knew no other in those days. When I was fourteen years of age I was converted, baptized, and united with the Baptist church. I lived up to all the light I had, and the Lord blessed me, and made me to rejoice in his love; and I had the evidence many times that Jesus loved me. My Savior was ever near to hear my prayer, and to answer me when I cried unto him. He was near to bind up my broken heart, and to pour in the oil of consolation while pressed down with trials and afflictions of this life. Jesus was my best friend. He knew all my sorrows and griefs. He has promised never to forsake his children that put their trust in him. That promise has truly been verified to me.

Some over twenty years ago, it was my lot, like many others, to emigrate West. I stopped at Makkata, Jackson Co., Iowa. There I united with the Baptist church. I met with a Baptist sister who was excluded from the church, in the State of New York, for believing that she had no immortality out of Christ. She was the first that ever put me to thinking on that subject. This sister asked me if I could prove by the Scriptures that I had an immortal soul. I said "yes." I thought I could surely prove it. I had no doubt about it. But when I searched the Bible, to prove the doctrine I had believed thirty-five years and thought it was truth, and could not, I was in trouble. I wanted truth, and I had no where to go to find it, but to God, and my Bible. I had faith to believe he would make his Word plain to me. The Advent doctrine had never been preached west of the Mississippi River.

I took my Bible and read and prayed, and prayed and read. I was convinced that I had embraced error, and was willing to give up all my former teachings, and come like a child to my heavenly Father, and ask him in faith that he would show me his truth. I wanted God's truth. I therefore prostrated myself before him and said, "O Lord, teach me thy truth! I want nothing but truth." I felt in my heart that God was there, ready to hear and answer my prayer. In his mercy, he manifested his great and glorious truths to me. I saw the plan of salvation, which was laid in the garden of Eden. I saw that man was mortal, and that he had no immortality only as it must be obtained through Christ; and this was put on at the resurrection. The immortal-soul doctrine was all gone. I saw that, instead of going to heaven at death, this earth was to be the final abode of the saints.

When I saw all this (and much more that I cannot bring into this brief sketch), my soul was filled with glory. I could not express my joy. Glory be to God, I can now prove what I believe by the Bible.

When I embraced these doctrines, I had to tell, everywhere, what the Lord had done for me, and it was noised about that I was crazy. The Baptist minister called to see me, and I told him what I believed, and he said, "You are an infidel." That grieved me; for I knew that infidels did not rejoice in God; and I was on Pisgah's top. I could view the promised land. I felt strong in the truth, and none of these things could move me.

I sent for the Crisis. It was the first volume that was printed. Bro. Merriam was editor. It was sent out for 50 cts. a year. They then expected the Lord would come in '54. I took the Crisis for many years; and seven years it was all the preaching I had. I was persecuted on every hand, called infidel, Millerite, and heretic; but it made no difference to me what I was called. I could pray and exhort, and did not feel as if I was alone, for Jesus was with me. When I stood up to plead for God's truth, I did not lack words. Scripture would come into my mind faster than I could speak it. I was alone, save this one sister who set me to searching to prove that I had an immortal soul.

I was excluded from the church, but they could not stop my mouth. My minister told me if I would not say anything about what I believed, I might remain in the church. I told him I would not be bound; I would speak of what I considered God's truth, any where, and every where, and whenever I pleased. So I was excluded; but I went rejoicing. Twenty years I have believed in these truths, and can see how it has spread. It has run like fire in the forest. It has spread all over these vast prairies. The news has gone to the Pacific, that the Master is about to return.

Brethren and sisters, are you looking for and loving his appearing?

As for myself, I feel that my warfare is nearly ended; and I can say with all my heart, Come, dear Jesus, come, and take thy weary children home. I am weary of wandering round and round in this world. Let us try to be good children, and to keep our garments unspotted from the world; then we shall hear the Master say—"Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Floyd, Iowa, Feb. 21st, 1875.

HOME AND HEALTH.

TOO MUCH STUDY.

Although the friends of public shools and popular education may survey with general satisfaction the hygienic improvement of the present day, there is, at least, one painful exception to the general progress, whose correction necessitates the most careful attention and indefatigable exertion of teachers. Young children devote much more time to study, in school and out, than formerly. So eager is the desire for promotion in our public schools, particularly of the graded class, on the part of teachers and pupils, that a considerable portion of each day and evening is spent, voluntarily or compulsorily, in close application to books and slates.

This intense application, fostered by parents as well as teachers, results frequently in the exchange of a greater for a lesser good. Could the eyes of pupils who have spent a few years in the public schools of any city be critically examined, the startling fact would be disclosed that a large per cent. of the whole are impaired in structure or function, in consequence of some form of abuse resulting from the pupil's connection with school. Such was the case in the public schools of Prussia, and there is no reason to doubt that similar evils are as prevalent in our own country.

That the eyes of children may be used without injury in study, as far as practicable, teachers should insist on the observance of certain hygienic principles. Light is essential to vision; but if excessive or deficient in intensity, or if it falls improperly on the page, the use of the eyes in study may result in injury, necessitating the severance of the pupil's connection with school, prolonged absence from study, and loss of time.—Science of Health.

GOOD ADVICE.

In distributing the prizes to the students of the Liverpool College, recently, Lord Derby took occasion to throw out the following suggestions: "First, that it is not mental labor which hurts anybody unless the excess be very great, but rather fretting and fidgeting over the prospect of labor to be gone through; so that the man who can accustom himself to take things coolly, which is quite as much a matter of discipline as of nature, and who by keeping well beforehand with what he has to do avoids hurry and nervous excitement, has a great advantage over one who follows a different practice. Next, I would warn you that those students who think that they have not time for bodily exercise, will sooner or later have to find time for illness. Thirdly, where an opportunity of choice is given, morning work is generally better than night work; and lastly, a matter which I should not stoop to allude to, but that I know the dangers of an over-driven existence in a crowded town,—if a man cannot get through his day's labor, of whatever kind it may be, without artificial support, it should be a serious consideration for him whether that kind of labor is fit for him at all.—Wayside.

"CONVICTS, as kept in our State prisons in the north and in the south of our country, are generally remarkably free from the outbreaks of disease. Not a few, if I am rightly informed, are cured of dyspepsia and other chronic ailments, by the discipline and regimen to which they are subjected; and this notwithstanding the moral and mental drawbacks that necessarily attend their situation. They are made to go to rest early, rise early, work at regular hours, and eat plain, but sufficient food. We hear of epidemics, such as cholera and dysentery, prevailing in the locality of a prison, but the convict is almost certain to escape Now all this speaks volumes in favor of temperance, simplicity, regularity and regular employment."

What careful culture should characterize home life in this regard! Parents should, by all possible means, endeavor to cultivate these regular habits in their children.—Science of Health.

CHEAP BEDDING.

It is often a serious problem with parents whose familes are more extensive than their means, how to be able to provide warm bedding for so many little bodies during the bleak cold of winter. Many times anywhere from three to a half dozen are crowded together in one bed in order to keep the frost from little toes and fingers. But this is decidedly unhealthful. The active skins of little children throw out a great amount of impurities; and, consequently, they really require as much sleeping room as older persons.

But now about the cheap bedding. A very warm blanket can be made by stitching together two thin blankets, or even sheets, between which two or three thicknesses of firm paper have been placed. Such a blanket is fully as warm as a very thick and heavy one, and has the additional advantage of lightness. It should be placed upon the outside of the bed. Paper is an excellent nonconductor of heat, and so retains the animal heat which is produced in the body.—Health Reformer.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.
TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to
"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1011. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1875. VOL. XL.—NO. 24.

The World's Crisis, AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER, Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

GEO. T. ADAMS, TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

BEULAH.

NETTIE M. SWETT.

Friend, though life be sad for thee,
Time's swift hours will quickly flee,
And oh, the joy,
When we "meet at Jesus' feet,"—
Joy without alloy.

Eighteen hundred years have rolled along
Like the sad notes of a minor song,
Since He left us,
And of joy, rest, and home
Bereft us.

He's coming again! O glorious day!
When sin and sorrow shall vanish away;
Bliss never ending,
No more care or death
Our hearts rending.

While the glorious song of triumph rings,
In praise and glory to the King of kings,
O, the greetings
Of the long parted loved ones on the other [shore,—
Blessed meetings.

Lynn, Mass.

THE RESTITUTION.

A. T. HODGDON.

The great fact is continually before us, that we are mortal. Death is doing its work under the fiat of the Almighty, who declared—"Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Satan induced the pair that God made, to violate his command, thereby incurring the penalty, which is death. Their posterity have been falling under the curse for nearly six thousand years. This is the legitimate fruit of sin. We must all fall soon if Christ does not come soon. If Christ does not come to revivify these bodies, we shall forever remain in the grave.

Paul declares that "if the dead rise not, then is not Christ risen; and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." He also adds,—"If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." We hear him saying, by way of comfort,—"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.

For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection from the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so, in Christ, shall all be made alive. But science says—It is an utter impossibility for God to raise a body that has turned to corruption, and been diffused through the animal and vegetable kingdom. They forget that the same power that first took man from the dust has power to take him from the dust again. Some think that it matters not whether these same bodies are raised, if the identity is preserved. But to me it is no resurrection unless the same particles of dust enter into the composition of the new body.

The word resurrection signifies to re-erect, raise up that which is fallen down. Nothing short of just that will fill the picture. Then will Christ have accomplished his mission, when the saying is brought to pass that death is swallowed up in victory.

Then, as the prophet says—"A nation shall be born in a day. Then the earth shall cast out her dead, and no more cover her slain. They shall come from the East, and from the West, and from the North, and from the South. The sea also shall give up the dead that are in it; and death and hell, or the grave, shall deliver up the dead that are in them; and death and hell shall be cast into the lake of fire, which is the second death."

God's Israel shall come to Mount Zion, the city of God. Isaiah says to them that are of fearful heart "Be strong; fear not; behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God, with a recompense; he will come and save you. Then the eyes of the blind will be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped, and the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads. They shall obtain joy and gladness; and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." Praise the Lord! Again Isaiah says—"Thy dead men shall live; together with my dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust; for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out her dead."

Christ will swallow up death in victory. The Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall be taken away from the earth. Hosea says—"I will ransom them from the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death. O death, I will be thy plagues, O grave, I will be thy destruction. Repentance shall be hid from mine eyes." Again, the Master said to Martha, "Thy brother shall rise again. Martha said unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." He then asks the question—"Believest thou this?"

Readers, if Christ does not come, none will ever get a reward. For the Word teaches that when Christ comes, he will bring his reward with him, to give to them for whom it was prepared.

The dominion that Adam lost is to be restored by Christ. "The meek shall inherit the earth, and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace." Daniel, in referring to the ten kingdoms, says—"And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces, and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever." Again he says—"I saw in the night visions, and behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom; that all people, nations and languages should serve him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away; and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed."

These, and many more passages might be brought to show that in the restitution, when the Nobleman shall return, he will not only restore man, but the earth, and bring it back to its primeval state of beauty and glory. Then will God tabernacle with his people. No wonder that David thought he should be satisfied when he awoke with God's likeness. No wonder that the Revelator exclaimed so exultingly "Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly."

How many, who profess faith in Christ, are enjoying the earnest of the inheritance; being in possession of a good hope through grace, of eternal life, when the Life-giver comes. I can but exclaim, with Daniel, How long to the end of these wonders? We must be approximating the end of the thousand three hundred and thirty-five days;—the time of restitution of all things spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began. To me the evidences are thickening fast that bespeak his coming very near.

O that christians would double their diligence in the Master's service, that we may all be found of him in peace.

Then the exhortation of the apostle—"Preach the Word," which I am endeavoring to do in weakness, as the Lord opens the way, and gives me strength, mental and physical. Though I go forth weeping, I hope to return rejoicing, bringing a few sheaves with me, that shall be stars in the crown of my rejoicing. Praise the name of the Lord! Eternal life is cheap at any cost or sacrifice; and God is going to have a tried people, but in the name of our God we will triumph.

Manchester, N. H.

SUBMISSIVE ACTIVITY.

B. MATHEWSON.

It is a mistaken notion, imbibed by some, that perfect submission to all the providences of God is a kind of passive tameness; placidly submitting to every encroachment upon the right, without explanation or defense. The Scriptures teach us that perfect submission to Providence is consonant with the most active exertion, whether it be for the protection of God's children, his Word, or our own trials and bereavements.

The case of the woman who entertained Elijah (2 Kings, 4th chap.), stands out in high relief upon this point. When her only child, a darling boy, lay dead in her house, behold her sweet submission! Not a doubting or complaining inquiry is expressed, but an acknowledgment that this afflictive providence is right—all for the best; or, to use her own phraseology—"It is well." With this sweet submission, ye daughter of Abraham, do you give up your boy, and only think of consigning your darling to the tomb? Nay; by no means. My energies ALL will be employed to the uttermost to keep my child from that prison; relying upon God to decide what shall be for the best. But she is a woman in high life, possessing fortune and influence, or in Bible language "a GREAT woman;" and might she not like some in modern times, have been schooled to stoicism, considering tears incompatible with magnanimity of character? Facts prove the opposite. That she is perfectly self-possessed is apparent in her care of her child, and in the quiet assurance to her husband, relative to going and consulting God's prophet upon their bereavement. No hesitancy is manifested, but faith in the great Eternal, warmed by a mother's love, assures him "It shall be well."

But with all this holy assurance and trust, witness her anxious activity. After properly composing the corpse of her son, she simply petitions her husband for one beast of burden, and one servant to accompany her. "Then she saddled an ass, and said to her servant, Drive, and go forward; slack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee." Thus she came to the dwelling place of Elijah; the highest promontory on the coast of Palestine.

God, in his providence, had directed that just at this time, this holy seer should be looking away in the distance, from this natural observatory, that he might descry his afflicted friend and hostess—the Shunamite—while yet "afar off." No apathy in the heart of God's prophet, but his soul is all astir relative to the welfare of one whose hospitality he had so often shared in his wearisome journeyings. Immediately his prophetic heart beats with forebodings of ill, and he hastens his servant to run and inquire whether it were "well" with herself and family? With determined submission to the providences of God, she responds, "It is well;" and a few more paces brought her to the man of God, where her pent-up grief found expression in imploringly clasping his feet; referring meanwhile to her contentment and submission ere she embraced a child. Gehazi, who had little or no heart in the matter, manifested his stoicism in an effort to thrust this broken-hearted mother away from his master. But Elijah's great heart, all full of sympathetic affection, bade him "Let her alone. Let her give vent to her overwhelming grief.

For some reason, God had not revealed this calamity of his friend to the prophet, showing it is God's prerogative to impart or withhold where he pleases. All this time her chastened soul declares this affliction right—for the best, expressed in the words "It is well." But with all her submission and trust, witness her activity and decision. Elijah had sent Gehazi with his staff, but that was nothing to her. It was her urgent and earnest importunity that impelled Elijah to accompany her home.

The sequel is well known. She clasps her living child, and once more his childish laugh rings in the door of their court. The name of this woman is unknown, but her faith and noble deeds will stand as a sweet memorial and blessed example while time lasts.

It is said by historians that she was sister to Abishag, king David's nurse, who was also a Shunamite. 1 Kings 1: 3. The historic pen farther states, that years after this miracle, famine drove her to a foreign land, and when she returned, her possessions were claimed by others, and she found herself penniless. Elijah's miracles had produced an impression that a few years could not efface; and when the king was informed that this was the mother of the boy raised in Shunam, he sent officers to restore her fortune.

But do we realize the lesson taught by this example? viz., perfect contentment with the position in which Providence has placed us? How few would not avail themselves of a higher one, if proffered? Though blessed with all necessary qualifications to appear at the court of Israel's king, she prefers her own rural home, which affords better opportunity for meditation and converse with Deity and his works. Next, her benevolent eye is open to watch an opportunity of doing some little errand for God, and the sequel proves that "God was not unmindful to forget her labor of love." Her daily walk was such as to influence her husband in the right direction. He seems to have been well disposed, but less devoted to God; having so much business on his hands, he left all domestic care, and possibly too much of the religious interests of the family, to her disposal; showing that "his heart safely trusted in her"; but in matters of importance, as building, etc., she wisely counsels her husband.

Her submission when bereaved of her only child, coupled with her active and prayerful zeal to perform every known duty, meantime acknowledging this affliction right, manifests real faith in God.

But, says one, there are higher steps in the divine life than bare submission to all the providences of God. Yes, but the student does not take Algebra ere he understands the simple rules of Arithmetic; and when one has really learned SUBMISSION, it seems to me the whole science of heaven is fairly opened before him.

The inquiry may arise, Shall we never seek a change? If in our best judgment we can better glorify God, of course we should seek a change, seeking God's help in the matter. Are our circumstances adverse, and a change beyond our power? then to sweetly acquiesce, honors God far more than the delivery of an eloquent sermon.

I know a woman who has not seen light in thirty years; her sense of hearing is also much impaired, yet she seems so cheerfully submissive to God's providence as to shed sunlight in her own dwelling, and she honors God by a most punctual attendance at his house of worship, where every Sabbath her personal appearance teaches a lesson, eloquent of heaven. There is no accident with God. Whatever he permits is to be recognized as his providence; and whenever one of his little ones is in the furnace, as a most prudent and careful Assayer he watches that no gold is lost; no, not even a hair falls to the ground without his notice.

Worcester, Mass., March 1st, 1875.

THE TIME QUICKLY.

M. L. COBURN.

We find in the Bible that God has given us the measurement of time by symbols; such as seven trumpets, seven thunders, seven seals, seven vials, three woes, etc. Now all of these begin at a given time, and end at the winding up of all things. I feel some as Daniel did about the fourth beast and what followed in connection with it. I think these symbols cover the same ground if they do not speak the same things.

The most interesting question to my mind is, Are we past all but the seventh of these symbols? If we have, we may expect the last to commence to be fulfilled at any time. When this is done, the mystery of God is finished, and the resurrection of the dead takes place.

After the angel had been enumerating other things that should take place, he said there should be a great earthquake. He says—After the earthquake is past, the second woe is past; and the third woe cometh quickly. The next that followed was the sounding of the seventh trumpet, which, I think, is the same as the third woe. If we can find proof that the great earthquake is past, then we have proved the second woe is past also; and if this is so, we may look for the seventh trumpet, or third woe, quickly.

John shows that when the sixth seal was opened, there was a great earthquake; and following the earthquake, was the darkening of the sun and moon, and the stars falling from heaven. The question is, Have these things taken place? I think most all will say, Yes. Jesus said himself that these signs should take place immediately after the tribulation of those days. The days here spoken of, all will admit are the twelve hundred and sixty spoken of in Revelation; and are included in the twelve hundred and ninety, spoken of by Daniel. We know these are in the past, and we have a record that these other signs are also passed. The last one took place in 1833; so we have been about forty years in the time "quickly." We should be mindful of the fact. I think according to the signs, we must be very near the sounding of the seventh trumpet. May we all be among the sealed of God.

Wakefield, Mass.

"WE ALL DO FADE AS A LEAF." ISA. 64: 6.

S. S. BREWER.

Inspired by sacred wisdom, the prophet hath selected a leaf, as a fit similitude of the transitory nature of man. And what, I ask, can be more deeply fraught with considerations of a pensive character than the pendant beauties of nature, as they hang trembling in their variegated tints and colors, after the autumnal frosts, like an angel of death, hath imperceptibly breathed upon them? Such is mortal man since the decree—"Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Isa. 40: 6, 7: "The voice said, Cry. And he said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field; the grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass." Solemnly and truthfully hath the prophet depicted it.

THE VANITY OF BEAUTY.

However fascinating beauty may appear, it is as the flower of the field, and what countless numbers of victims are allured by its seductive charms to utter ruin and death. A few hours of sickness, and human beauty is forever tarnished. Often in an instant the most robust are smitten, and the form once so beautiful, wrapped in the winding sheet, becomes putrescent and exhales odors from which we turn away with sorrow and distress. Truthfully hath the above language described the "goodliness of man." The apostle declares that

ALL THE GLORY OF MAN IS AS THE FLOWER OF GRASS.

1 Pet. 1: 24—"For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away."

From the fall of man to the present, the most insatiable passion of an unregenerate heart has been a love of fame. Human glory has been sought at the sacrifice of the dearest ties on earth; yea, even life jeopardized, and frequently immolated upon the unhallowed altar of human ambition.

The magnificence of ancient Babylon presents a humiliating picture of the emptiness of all human glory, and the instability of the most stupendous works of man. "Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honor of my majesty?" was the ambitious monarch's exclamation. Alas for "the golden city"! As predicted, it hath ceased to be; and "Babylon, the glory of kingdoms, the beauty of the Chaldeans' excellency," is now in utter ruin, and full of doleful creatures, and "without an inhabitant." Jer. 51: 37. It is so utterly hideous and desolate that "the Arabian will not pitch his tent there." Isa. 13: 20. "The Lord of hosts hath purposed to stain the power of all glory, and to bring into contempt all the honorable of the earth."

The Emperor Napoleon, who, through unparalleled scenes of carnage, attained to imperial honors, terminated his career on a little sea-girt isle, an imprisoned exile, gory with blood and execrated by millions. O the vanity of human glory!

The glittering power of eloquence fades when the heartfelt emotions of the orator cease. No longer admiring multitudes listen with glowing interest to catch the impassioned strain as it flows from the lips of Demosthenes, Otis, Choate, Webster, and Clay. They have faded as the leaf. Dust they were, and unto dust they have all returned.

There are solemn reflections associated with the following interrogatory of the prophet Zechariah (1: 3)—"Your fathers, where are they?" They had been brought to "the house appointed for all living"; and still the innumerable millions, in one solid, irrepressible mass of mortality, approach at every step and flit of the instant, near and still nearer to the grave. All fade as a leaf. Imperial dignity, with coronal and sceptre; the peerless orator, wreathed with all the applaudits of fame; the hoary sire and matron, manhood in its strength,—all, all, languish, fade, and pass away.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set;—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

The fading nature of mortality is brought vividly and painfully to mind as we survey the reminiscences of a few short years. O, how brief the space since we met in our stated assemblies,—those who stood forth, at the sacrifice of the fondest ties, in behalf of the truths that have distinguished us as a people. The greater part are fallen asleep; those that remain are beginning to bear the fading tints of mortality's autumn. Concerning the footprint of time upon Ephraim of old, it is written—"Yea, gray hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not." Alas! the gray hairs, furrowed face, and the sober gravity of manhood are visible appeals of the truth of our text.

Since writing the above I take up a letter from an aged and beloved brother in the ministry, the which he closes with this sentence: "Sweet is christian fellowship. Sweet are the times gone by. I can write no more to-day. Glory to God! the better day for you and me is coming. Pray for feeble me." It seems but a few years since we were in the full strength of manhood; now the lengthened shadows, proclaiming the close of day, gather fast around us. The leaves are fading; the mellow tints of autumn are too visible among us to fail of being perceived. All along, our pathway is strewn with mournful mementoes—broken vases, loosening of silver cords, breaking of golden bowls, of pitchers at the fountain, and of wheels at the cistern. O, it is the land of the sick, the dying, and the dead. But let us now turn to the bright side of the prophetic announcement. "The people are as grass; the grass withereth, the flower fadeth; but

THE WORD OF OUR GOD SHALL STAND FOR EVER."

